Paper Firms Win Acquittal In U.S. Court

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — All pulp and paper manufacturers named in a government antitrust suit charging price fixing of pulpwood purchased in Michigan were acquitted Monday.

Defense motions based on grounds that the government failed to establish its case were granted by U.S. District Judge W. Wallace Kent.

The government last Monday. The respondents had conspired since 1951 to depress prices they paid for pulpwood bought in Lower Michigan.

Plead Innocent
All of the respondents pleaded innocent to the indictment returned against them here by a Federal Grand Jury July 11, 1962. They also denied any allegations that they acted to hold down pulpwood prices.

Named as defendants in the suit were Packaging Corp. of America; Scott Paper Co., Philadelphia; S. D. Warren, Boston; Menasha Woodmen Corp., Menasha, Wis.; American Excelsior Corp., Chicago; Hammill Paper Co., Erie, Pa., and Abitibi Corp., Alpena.

Woman Free After 3 Years In Red Prison

PASSAIC, N.J. (AP) — Tears flooded the woman's eyes as she left the airliner. "I'm happy, I'm very happy to be back home," she said. Then she ran to embrace her family.

Helen Kozersky, 52, had returned to the United States after more than three years in a Communist Czechoslovakian prison as a spy.

She arrived at New York's Idlewild Airport from Prague Monday night, afraid, a son said, "that nobody would be there to meet her, that she would be alone."

'You've Grown Up'
She was startled by newsmen and photographers awaiting her, but then spotted her daughter, Helen, 14. "You've grown up!" she cried. The girl is a head taller than her mother.

Meeting her at the airport were her husband John, 53, a factory worker, her sons, Michael, 23, John Jr., 22, and Helen.

Mrs. Kozersky declined to discuss her espionage conviction. Michael said she is to meet with representatives of the State Department about the charges and her imprisonment.

Pardon
Mrs. Kozersky was pardoned by Czech President Antonin Novotny last Tuesday. Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D-N.J., had been active in trying to secure her release after family appeals to him, President Kennedy and the State Department.

She had been arrested May 27, 1960, while visiting her native Czechoslovakia, and sentenced to 25 years imprisonment for spying. The sentence later was reduced to 10 years. Specific charges against her never were made public.

Preliminary Hearing Set For Beckwith

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A preliminary hearing will be held late today in city court on the murder charge against Byron de La Beckwith, 42, of Greenwood accused of assassinating a Negro integration leader.

The routine hearing deals only with whether there is probable cause to hold Beckwith in the case.

Dist. Atty. Bill Waller said he would ask that Beckwith be held without bond until the grand jury, which convenes July 1, hears the charge.

Psychiatric Tests
The New Orleans Times-Picayune, in a dispatch from its correspondent in Jackson, said it learned Beckwith would be sent to the state mental hospital at Whitfield for psychiatric tests if he is indicted by the grand jury next week.

The paper reported sources said arrangements had already been made with the hospital in case of indictment, and the mental tests may require as long as two months.

Death Penalty
Waller said he would seek the death penalty against Beckwith. Beckwith was accused of ambushing Medgar W. Evers in Jackson on June 12 after Evers drove up to his home.

The murder charge is not a federal case. The federal government postponed indefinitely any action on its civil rights violation charge against Beckwith, a Citizens Council member.

Defense Fund
In Greenwood, a legal defense fund was being collected for Beckwith.

Brian Gets Along Well With Bees!

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Brian Dieckhoner is only 5 and perhaps too young to know about bees and hives. But he does know plenty about bees.

Brian dived into a beehive Monday without a protective net and came up with an armful of honeycomb, bees and all. He did it to prove his grandfather's contention that Brian is Greater Cleveland's youngest beekeeper.

Brian has been helping Grandpa Otto Kosman run his 200-hive bee operation in suburban Middleburg heights since he was 4. Kosman was county bee inspector until he resigned a few weeks ago.

Stung At First
Brian admits to having been stung a couple of times when he first started in the bee business. Now he has the immunity that comes with fearlessness, according to Kosman, a beekeeper for 40 years.

"Bees won't attack except in defense of their lives or their hives," explained the grandfather. "People get in trouble when they start swarming."

Nervous
Kosman admitted, however, that bees don't always follow the book. Their nerves get on edge, he said, when they see their food supply fall from frost and drought. This is a highly nervous year in bee circles, he added.

IT'LL COST YOU AN EXTRA BUCK TO GET MARRIED:

LANSING (AP) — After 12:01 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 6, you can drive 70 miles an hour after dark on Michigan's freeways and it will cost you an extra buck to get married.

Raising the night speed limit from 60 to 70 and increasing the marriage license fee from $2 to $3 are two of the many changes in Michigan law which will influence the ordinary citizen when they go into effect.

Some 90 bills passed during the regular 1963 session of the legislature already are in force, having been given "immediate effect" when passed and signed into law by Gov. George Romney.

1963-64 Budget
These include such things as the appropriation of money for the state's 1963-64 budget, a total of just over $539 million, the creation of a State Safety Commission, and permission for cities to issue

Chunk Of Corregidor

3 GI's Cleared In Sex Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department cleared three U.S. airmen today of any involvement in Britain's sex-and-security scandal and sent them back to duty in England.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department investigators questioning three U.S. airmen have found so far only a casual relationship between them and British party girl Christine Keeler, informed sources said today.

"There's been no evidence of any intimacy—it looks as though their paths just crossed," one informant said in discussing the progress of the investigation since the airmen were brought back from England for questioning last Friday.

More importantly, the sources said, there has been no indication thus far of any link between the three Air Force men and the former British War minister John Profumo.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, confirmed Monday return of the airmen for questioning after reports of the action appeared in British newspapers.

Saying, "Security is our basic concern," Sylvester told reporters that so far the investigation indicates no U.S. military personnel have been involved in any security aspect of the Profumo-Keeler case.

Sylvester declined to identify the Air Force men on grounds it would be unfair to them. He would only go as far as describing them as noncommissioned and enlisted personnel and saying they were with the 3rd Air Force with headquarters at South Ruislip near London.

The Defense Department information chief refused to say exactly where the airmen are now. It was felt "questioning could be done better here," Sylvester told newsmen when asked why the

Mrs. Ray Davis, 41, and a young friend, Jane Kolar, 14, drowned when they tried to leave a stalled auto on a country road. Mrs. Davis' husband and their two small children were rescued by a passerby in a truck.

Towns In Undated
Numerous small towns along Turkey Creek, Salt Creek and the Swan River were inundated by floodwaters. Dewitt, Neb., was reported flooded by up to two feet of water. Memphis and Valparaiso, Neb., were surrounded by floodwaters.

Crop damage by the heavy rains and flooding was reported extremely heavy.

'WE WILL RISK OUR CITIES...': JFK Issues Blunt Rebuttal To De Gaulle On Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — President Kennedy, in a blunt rebuttal to President Charles de Gaulle's concept of an independent Europe, said today those who doubt the U.S. pledge to defend Western Europe "give aid and comfort" to enemies of the West.

"The United States," Kennedy promised, "will risk its cities to bring strength instead of weakness, cohesion instead of division. It would belong to all members, not one, with all participating on a basis of full equality. And as Europe moves towards unity, its role and responsibility, here as elsewhere, would and must increase accordingly."

Turning to economic matters, Kennedy said impending negotiations aimed at tariff reduction represent "a test of our unity."

"Trade Will Help All"
"Let no one think that the United States—with only a fraction of its economy dependent on trade and only a small part of that with Western Europe—is seeking trade expansion in order to dump our goods on this continent," he said. "Trade expansion will help us all."

defend yours because we need your freedom to protect ours. "Those who would doubt our pledge or deny this indivisibility—those who would separate Europe from America or split one ally from another—would only give aid and comfort to the men who make themselves our adversaries and welcome any Western disarray," he said.

Challenge
Kennedy coupled his criticism with a challenge to all West Europeans—that they work together to become a new and unified world power able to join the United States in "a full give-and-take between equals."

Kennedy's challenge to de Gaulle's ideas came in the major speech of his European tour, prepared for delivery in Frankfurt's Paulskirche. The historic St. Paul's Church is known as the cradle of German democracy. It was the focal point of the abortive 1848 uprising against tyranny.

De Gaulle has contended that the United States would not risk a nuclear holocaust at home to defend Western Europe. He conceives of a Europe free of close ties with the United States.

'Fly In Face Of History'
Without mentioning the French leader by name, Kennedy said doubts about American steadfastness "fly in the face of history."

He told his listeners: "For 18 years the United States has stood its watch for freedom all around the world. The firmness of American will, and the effectiveness of American strength, have been shown in defense of free men and free government, in Asia, in Africa, in the Americas, and, above all, here in Europe."

The President said the United States has undertaken "and sustained with honor" mutual obligations with more than 40 allies.

"We are proud of this record, which more than answers all doubts," he said.

Appeal For Unity
Kennedy's reply to de Gaulle was matched in emphasis by his appeal for greater European unity and increased cooperation with the United States.

"It is not in our interest to try to dominate the European continent of decision," he said. "If that were our objective, we would prefer to see Europe divided and weak, enabling the United States to deal with each fragment individually."

"Instead we look forward to a Europe united and strong—speaking with a common voice—acting with a common will—a world power capable of meeting world problems as a full and equal partner."

'United Europe'
The United States, he continued, looks forward "to a united Europe in an Atlantic partnership—an entity of interdependent parts, sharing equally both burdens and decisions."

"In the three areas, he made these major points:

• Military: European misgivings about America's nuclear position must be dealt with "not by turning the clock backward to separate national deterrents but by developing a more closely unified Atlantic deterrent, with genuine European participation."

Takes Issue With De Gaulle
Here, again, he took issue with de Gaulle, who wants France to develop an independent nuclear deterrent and spurs Kennedy's drive for a NATO nuclear force.

• Economic: The West must help the underdeveloped countries, expand trade by lowering tariff barriers, and avoid monetary difficulties by working together.

• Political: He called for unity evidenced by deeds, a joint try at "leashing the tensions of the cold war and reducing the dangers of the arms race," and a determined search for enduring peace.

Sick Leave Change, Longevity Pay Get Commission's Okay

Longevity pay and an increase in the sick leave accumulation ceiling were officially approved by the Marquette City Commission at its regular meeting in the city hall last evening.

It was the first "shirt sleeve session" of the season, as the temperature in the second floor chamber building was well in the 90s.

The longevity pay provision will be computed on the basis of the number of years of service by city employees, after their fifth year of work.

City employees receive one working day of sick leave with pay each month they are on the city payroll. There are 212 eligible employees under the program.

Fighter interceptor squadrons at K. J. Sawyer Air Force Base are scheduled to rotate on a temporary duty basis to Phelps-Collins Airport, Alpena, as part of changes announced in the Department of Defense air defense program.

Four area residents received degrees at Wayne State University's commencement exercises recently in Detroit.

The Air Force also announced plans for the dispersal of a portion of its fighter interceptor aircraft to civilian airports and military bases which do not have a combat mission.

Under this plan, Air Defense Command fighter interceptor squadrons from Sawyer and Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Escoda would rotate on temporary duty to the Alpena Airport.

89 Here Highest Temperature Of Year; Cool Weather Ahead

After rainy weather most of the month, Marquette residents seem to be enjoying the five straight days of sunshine to complain about the heat.

However, a small heat wave it is. Normal high temperature for this time of year is 73, and with a high near 90 expected for today, today will be the third day in a row that the mercury has gone above 85.

Yesterday the mercury soared up to 89 at 2:30 p.m., which was the warmest temperature here since Aug. 28, when the mercury hit 90.

Another clear day was predicted for today, making this the fifth straight day with lots of sunshine. The sun was out 100 per cent of the possible time Friday through Sunday and more than 90 per cent of the possible time from dawn to dusk yesterday.

Fortunately for the bystanders and the 60 units which participated in the American Legion parade Saturday afternoon, off-lake winds kept temperatures down Saturday and the high was only 69.

Just the same, it was warm enough in downtown Marquette Saturday, when upwards of 10,000 people watched the parade and traffic jams turned into a nightmare for policemen and drivers.

Overnight, the temperature only got down to 67 degrees in Marquette.

Meteorologist Fred Mueller reported it was cooler elsewhere, with lows of 51 at the Marquette County Airport, 55 at Escanaba and 51 at Sault Ste. Marie.

Scattered thundershowers are expected to develop sometime tomorrow, and slightly cooler temperatures will probably follow in the late afternoon, Mueller said.

Summer School Opens At Northern

It was a busy day on Northern Michigan University campus yesterday as hundreds of students enrolled for 91 graduate and 50 undergraduate courses to be conducted during the six-week summer session at Northern. Enrolling (above) for classes in education and psychology during the registration were graduate students Mrs. Rose Hale, Escanaba, and Earl Beauchaine, Green Bay. Assisting them were (backs to camera) Profs. Almon Vedder (left) and Roland Schwitzgebel. Below is an overall scene during the registration period. Classes began this morning and the summer term will close Aug. 2.—(NMU photos by Arnestad).

Public Works Superintendent
Howard L. Coppens, who had been given authority earlier by the commission to check with the highway department concerning certain matters in the contract, was named the city's agent.

Coppens said he had spoken to R. F. Rosatti, Crystal Falls, chief maintenance engineer for the district for the highway department, who said it was "quite in order" for the city to add the additional percentage of benefits to the quarterly reports and that the state would allow, subject to audit, as are all such charges.

operative extension and continuing education programs.

"The change will enable us to continue effective educational programs for the people of the Upper Peninsula," Mowery said. Administrators of both institutions believe that the move will insure closer relationships between MSU's U. P. center and the work of the public services division of NMU. Michigan State officials added that the extension division will continue to work closely with all other educational agencies and institutions in the area. Final arrangements for the shift are expected to be made soon so that change will be effected Jan. 1, 1964.

"A second thought on first aid"

We're constantly amazed at the number of children who cut, scrape and bruise themselves within sight (and sound) of our pharmacy. We do a big business in antiseptics, bandages, and other first-aid items. Same everywhere, probably. But sometimes we wonder if people don't depend too much on first aid—neglect proper medical attention. If there's the slightest question in your mind following what appears to be minor injuries, see your physician. First aid has definite limitations. You can only be sure of proper medical care by seeing your doctor. A prompt visit can save a half dozen later.

Opportunity Ahead For Northern, City Outlined By Harden

Greater opportunities lie ahead for Northern Michigan University and the City of Marquette in educational, economic and cultural development, Dr. Edgar L. Harden, NMU president, asserts.

Speaking at a joint luncheon meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs yesterday afternoon in the Clifton Hotel, Dr. Harden reviewed the past seven to 10 years in the life of Northern and the community and looked ahead to a future of continued growth and progress.

Seven years ago, Harden said, Northern defined a philosophy closely related to the land-grant college philosophy "to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions of life."

"3-Dimensional Program" Northern, he said at that time, would "follow a three-dimensional program of research, instruction and service."

This, he said, Northern has done "in the belief that instruction should be characterized by faculty who have a genuine mastery of their subject matter, are emotionally mature and skilled in the art of teaching, demonstrate a keen interest in students, feel a sense of responsibility to Northern and its goals, and have the desire to share in the life of our community of the Upper Peninsula."

Emphasizing that Northern "cannot be an island in this Peninsula," Harden said Northern has extended and will continue to extend its services to the 305,000 people who live in the 16,000 square miles comprising "this great area above the Straits."

Recalls Enrollment Prediction "Our objective is to help people to help themselves and to help them live more useful and satisfying lives," he said.

Harden recalled that seven years ago a prediction that Northern would have 2,000 students by 1965 was greeted by laughter and disbelief. The prediction was fulfilled ahead of schedule when Northern enrolled 3,100 students in the fall of 1962. The image of Northern in the Peninsula has changed considerably since 1952 when only five per cent of those going to college came to Northern, he said.

Describing the growth of Northern in the decade of 1952-62, Harden said the university has grown in terms of enrollment: 582 students to 3,100; physical plant: 10 buildings valued at $7,000,000 to 27 buildings valued at $18,000,000; full-time employees: 123 to 407; and operating budget: from less than $1,000,000 to more than $5,000,000 from all sources.

Since 1957, he said, "we have seen the addition of a new power plant, health and physical education building, dormitories and married student housing, a new student center, the fine and practical arts building now under construction, and the acquisition of land for future expansion."

New construction will include a $3,000,000 science building and a dormitory-food service complex in the area near Lincoln and Wright Sts.

Incur Problems, Too In 64 years, he said, Northern has evolved from Normal School to university. Its operations have grown to the extent that 15 per cent of the total population of Marquette are connected with the university.

Northern's growth has been accompanied by problems, he said, including pressure on parking facilities and sanitary and storm lines, greater stress on utilities, and increased traffic. Some social problems have arisen because of the tendency "to make noise and let off steam."

Another problem "in the minds of some people has been the mixing of race, color, and creed in our faculty and student body," Harden said. "We must recognize that integration is not confined to Mississippi and Alabama. Northern needs and will seek faculty and students of high intelligence without reference to race, color or creed."

The community is changing, Harden said, and "although change is inexorable, it is difficult for many to accept. The hard truth is that the greatest changes for all of us are ahead."

Concerning Northern's economic contributions to Marquette, Harden said the university has become "a big business which is growing more rapidly than any other economic asset we have in the area."

He cited an operations budget of nearly $4,000,000 last year, of which more than $3,000,000 was

City Rejects Contribution For UMTA

Because of budget limitations, the City of Marquette has declined to participate "this year" in the Upper Michigan Tourist Association program.

Ken Dorman, secretary-manager of the UMTA, headquartered in the Harlow Block here, had submitted a request for the city to participate in the association's budget in the amount of $700.

The association's amount was fixed on a population basis for the city in comparison with the region.

"Many times our postage runs as much as $50 to $100 in a single day and the amount of literature that is sent out in these mailings costs many times this amount," Dorman said.

Dorman added that the association believes it is doing a good job of "selling" the U.P. through its travel shows, answering inquiries, etc., and that the city's participation would be justified.

In making the motion to reject the request, Commissioner James R. Smith said that inasmuch as the city doesn't have this money set aside in the budget for this purpose, and due to the fact that the city is following a strict economy program, it would have to turn down the request.

"We are following a program of not going beyond our programmed budget," Smith said.

For a stop sign violation at the intersection of County Roads 480 and 553 in Sands Township, Daniel D. Traffic, Rindie, N. H., paid a fine of $5.70 and $4.30 costs.

Terry Deek, Sawyer Base, paid a fine of $5.70 and $4.30 costs for disregarding a stop sign. The summons was issued by state police June 15 at the intersection of County Roads 480 and 553 in Sands Township.

For improper overtaking and passing on County Road 553 in Sands Township, John Staeb, Sawyer Base, paid a fine of $5.70 and $4.30 costs. State police issued the summons June 16.

Two persons were jailed and 12 others were ordered to pay a total of $165 in fines and costs by Justice George J. Fezey in Marquette Township in the past week.

William Thomas Nicholas, 51, of 414 Marquette St., Ishpeming, was ordered to spend two days in the Marquette County Jail for driving while his operator's license was revoked.

In addition to the jail term, Nicholas paid a fine of $50 and $7.30 costs. State police issued him the summons June 16 on County Road 601 in Republic Township.

For driving while his operator's license was denied, Ralph Perron, Ralph, Mich., was ordered to spend five days in the county jail and pay costs of $4.90. The summons was issued by state police June 15 on County Road 480 in Sands Township.

On a charge of minor in possession of beer, Kenneth R. Duquette, 19, of 118 Carey Hall, Marquette, was ordered to pay a fine of $20.70 and $4.30 costs. He was arrested by state police June 8 on County Road 550 in Marquette Township.

Gary B. Brozek, 20, Lakewood, was ordered to pay a fine of $20.70 and $4.30 costs on a charge of minor in possession of beer. He was arrested by state police June 8 on County Road 550 in Marquette Township.

Hearing In Death Car Case Waived

LeRoy A. Bjork, 27, K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, waived preliminary examination yesterday at his arraignment in Negaunee Municipal Court on a charge of negligent homicide and was ordered bound over to a special term of Marquette County Circuit Court, currently in session.

Bjork's arrest by state police followed investigation of an automobile accident that occurred Friday night, May 17, on County Road 553 in which Mrs. Ethel M. Smith of Marquette was killed.

Mrs. Smith was a passenger in a car driven by Nick Predovic of Sawyer Base. The car driven by Bjork was involved in a head-on collision with the Predovic vehicle, about two-tenths of a mile north of County Road NV in Sands Township.

Bjork was represented at his arraignment by Atty. E. Nicholas Bridges of Negaunee. Bjork was released after posting bond of $250 set by Judge William Haupt.

Other new officers include Adolphe Fiske of Benton Harbor, senior vice commander; Elmer England, Menominee, first junior vice commander; George R. Kaye, Detroit, second junior vice commander; Ed Mehan, Muskegon, third junior vice commander, and Elmer Burrows, South Haven, chaplain.

The ferry reports consistent reservations for 50 persons. Ordinarily, only about 20 persons make the trip this time of year.

The Isle Royale Queen, which operates out of Copper Harbor, reports similar heavy traffic.

U.P. American Legion Convention Parade Here One Of 'Best Ever'

Marquette area residents who saw the parade here Saturday afternoon, highlighting the 43rd annual Upper Peninsula American Legion Convention, are still talking about the event, terming it "one of the best parades ever held here." More than 10,000 persons viewed the parade, lining Presque Isle Ave., N. Fourth St., W. Washington St. and N. Front St. to see it. Above, left are the Belles of St. Mary's, Rhinelander, Wis., famous band unit. Below, left is the Escanaba Daily Press float, calling attention to Escanaba's centennial celebration next month, one of the finest floats in the parade. Above is the Chanute Field (III) Air Force Band during the parade. Below is the Newberry Post's clown band.—(Mining Journal photos).

Results Of Prison Cow Sale Given

Two Chassell men and one Marquette area farmer were the highest bidders at the sale of nine surplus registered heifers in the herd of the Marquette State Prison at the prison dairy farm recently. Sealed bids on the cows up for advantage to the city would result from competitive bidding and the requirements of the charter have been complied with or will be complied with before closing. The property being sold measures approximately 150 by 400 feet. The bids averaged $191 with the top bid being $281, Francis said. "It is felt that this auction will enable these farmers to have foundation stock for starting a registered herd," Francis said. Actual site of the historic Battle of Bunker Hill was Breed's Hill, nearby.

Sale Of Industrial Property To Ironwood Firm Approved

Sale of some industrial property owned by the City of Marquette on Wright St. to the Industrial Piping Co. of Ironwood was approved by the city commission at its regular meeting in the city hall last evening. No specific price was listed and competitive bidding was waived, on recommendation of City Clerk Everett H. Kent, as acting city manager, with the company's representative, A. P. McCowen, agreeing to pay the highest of two appraisals on the property. Commissioner James R. Smith had suggested that the sale be conditioned on two appraisals, since two are made in similar sales.

which is zoned for industrial use. "We have had no other offers for such industrial use until now," Kent said. "There is an urgency to consider this offer because of the immediate need of the pipe company for the site to be used at its headquarters and distribution point for this area. I find that the city has no use for this parcel at the present time or in the foreseeable future and the use proposed is consistent with zoning. 150 By 400 Feet In view of this lack of property, it is my determination that no

To Set Up Business Industrial Piping wants to locate a business in Marquette, and the property it is acquiring is located near the intersection of Wright St. and County Road 550. Industrial Piping submitted its original request on May 14 and the city planning board discussed the matter on June 6, noting that light industry should be welcomed in the industrial zone.

Escanaba Sets Centennial Music Events

ESCANABA — As part of the teen-age activities, centennial celebration here, a hootenanny and jazz festival will be offered to Upper Peninsula and surrounding area high school students next Tuesday, from noon to 5 p. m. In conjunction with this event, which will take place in the Karas Memorial Band Shell in Ludington Park, an old-fashioned box social will be held. Entry blanks will not be necessary, but all regional teen-agers who wish to take part are asked to sign in early at the band shell, or they may write to teen-age activities, Centennial Headquarters, Escanaba. All Types Of Music A hootenanny is a gathering of singers, solo or in groups; and a jazz festival is a similar gathering of musicians, usually in small combos. Strictly speaking, the vocalists should be confined to folk songs, and the musicians to jazz, but in this case, the range will be broadened to include all types of popular music. While enjoying great popularity in other parts of the country, this is the first time that regional youngsters will have an opportunity to demonstrate their talents and get acquainted with those who share the same interests.

Four Vehicles Involved In Mishaps Here

Four automobiles were involved and two motorists were issued tickets, but no one was injured, in a pair of traffic collisions which occurred in Marquette yesterday afternoon. At 4:30 an automobile being driven north on Presque Isle Ave. by Gary A. Davis, 521 High St., was struck by a car operated by Donald C. Beckman, 1028 N. Second St., who was traveling west on W. Kaye Ave. City police said the collision occurred when Davis failed to stop for the stop sign. He told officers he couldn't see the light properly due to the reflection of the sun. Disregarding Stop Sign The right front headlight and fender of Beckman's car, a 1959 foreign model, and the right rear fender of Davis' vehicle, a 1930 twodoor, were damaged. Both cars were driven from the scene under their own power. City police ticketed Davis for disregarding a traffic light. An automobile being backed out from a private driveway on the south side of E. Prospect St., in the 400 block, by Jacquelyn A. Anderson, 607 Cedar St., struck a car owned by Gary Mercure and parked in front of his house at 441 E. Prospect, on the north side of the street. Car Not Under Control The left rear fender of Mercure's 1950 twodoor sedan was damaged. Apparently no damage occurred to her vehicle, a 1963 fourdoor sedan. City police ticketed Miss Anderson for failing to have her car under control. More than 1,000 songs and nearly 50 plays were written or co-authored by Otto Harbach, who died this year at the age of 89.

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

IF YOU KNEW WHAT THIS "CAR KILLER" KNOWS...YOU'D BE DRIVING A SOLID, SILENT SUPER TORQUE FORD

This steel-edged pothole is probably the world's toughest test of a car's suspension. We drive into this car killer at 30 mph, locking our brakes as we go so the wheels can't roll through the hole as they normally would. The car slams against the far edge of the hole with such impact that it literally bounds out. If you added up the cumulative effect of all the jars and jolts your car's suspension system experiences in years of normal driving, it wouldn't match the impact of one trip through the hole. Yet—a Ford must run this test three times to prove its strength. How can a Ford take it? Because Ford's front suspension has extra beef in spindles, springs, suspension arms—in fact, it's about 20 pounds heavier than the front suspension of our principal competitor's car. We don't expect you to abuse your car the way we do our test cars. But, however you drive, you'll welcome the extra strength of a total performance Ford. Ford strength is tested in a thousand ways in Ford's laboratories and proving grounds—and in open competition in the world's toughest rallies and stock car events. Look at Ford's astounding record in open competition this year in the grueling Daytona, Riverside, and Atlanta 500s, the World 600 at Charlotte, N.C., and in the demanding Pure Oil Performance Trials. Only a car with total performance—the best combination of strength, balance, precision control and road-clinging suspension—could roll up so many wins. Before you buy any new car, test-drive the solid, silent Super Torque Ford. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Make this important discovery: it's built by Ford, it's built for performance...total performance.

Romney's Citizens Sessions

The turnout for Gov. George Romney's Citizens Session in Marquette, the first ever conducted outside of Lansing, was equal to, if not larger than, the biggest turnout for any of the Governor's sessions with citizens in Lansing. More than 50 people sought five-minute interviews with Gov. Romney when he was in Marquette Saturday.

An impressive feature of the event was the great variety of people who sought the Governor's ear. Among them were farmers, housewives, professional men, businessmen, laborers, merchants, industrialists, employed women and even children.

Peninsula Perambulator

This changing world: The Railway Express office in St. Ignace was closed last week after being in operation in that city for more than 70 years.

At least one Saginaw youngster likes Iron County. Jo Ann Iles, 9, visiting the area with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. (Buck) Iles, who were attending the Michigan United Conservation Clubs convention, went fishing at Cheaugon Lake and caught a lake trout 30 inches long that weighed 10 pounds.

Three Wayne State University students, Michael Brooks, Michael Trend and Francis Sanders, are somewhere in the interior of the Keweenaw Peninsula for a week's outing. They are living in a tent and cooking their own meals, meanwhile gathering material on some of the Copper Country's ghost towns which they hope to use in future writings concerning the region.

Heated debates over policy and the matter of hiking camping fees at county parks for local residents marked the June meeting of the Iron County Board of Supervisors. A delegation representing the Iron County Campers Association appeared before the board to protest the camping fee hike. Gerald Krans of Bates told supervisors that the fee hike was the result of a personal grudge between him and a member of the board, and the resulting discussion Chairman John Anesi was forced to wield a strong gavel. Members of the association charged they had been treated with a lack of courtesy at the board session and said the discussion was cut short before they had opportunity to present petitions, bearing 600 signatures, calling for a reduction of the $1 daily fee to 75 cents.

Seals from the City of Luxembourg, gift of a people who this year are observing the 1,000th anniversary of the city's founding, have been received by the city council in Escanaba, which this year is celebrating its 100th year. The presentation was made by John A. Lemmer, former Escanaba school superintendent whose parents came from Luxembourg to Escanaba when the Upper Peninsula city was a pioneer community. Lemmer, who had taken mementoes from Escanaba on a trip to Europe, received the seals from the burgomaster of Luxembourg. One of the seals—which took the place of a signature at the bottom of a parchment during a time when it was rare for a person to know how to write—is that of Jean the Blind, Count of Luxembourg, son of Henry VII, King of the Romans, in the year 1310. They have been turned over to the Delta County Historical Society for preservation and display.

The R. J. Enstrom Corp., which is completing its new helicopter for Federal Aviation Agency approval, has been approved by the Area Development Administration for a $97,500 loan to help finance a new building for manufacturing the aircraft.

—Marquette— The management of the local lacrosse team was notified yesterday that a big delegation would accompany the Portage Lake players to this city next Sunday, when the first lacrosse game ever played in Marquette will take place at the fair grounds. The Portage Lake people will come down in a special train chartered for the purpose.

—Marquette— Mr. and Mrs. Will Russell of Stephen, Minn., Mrs. James Russell and Miss Edith Russell left yesterday to join the Michigan Press Association at its meeting in the Soo. They will return with the party this evening.

—Ishpeming— What promises to be the greatest celebration in the history of Marquette County will take place here today, when the Lake Superior Iron Co., one of the three pioneer corporations of this city, will celebrate its 50th anniversary. Extensive preparations have been made for the program, and favorable weather is the only thing needed to make it a grand success. A contest of special interest, especially for miners, is the drilling contest.

Approximately 33,000 tons of iron ore have been shipped from the Marquette harbor this week, and it is expected that more than 21,000 tons will be taken to lower lake ports over the weekend.

—Ishpeming— Directors and officers of the closed Peninsula State Bank of Ishpeming met last night to prepare for reopening the institution following the receipt of definite information from the state banking commission that it had approved plans for the Ishpeming bank's reorganization.

Employees of the Oliver Iron Mining Co. on the Marquette Range are organizing an employee representation plan to provide laboring men the voice allotted to them under

Some discussed purely personal problems with the Governor, but most dealt with matters affecting everyone in Michigan—or at least affecting large segments of the general population.

Detractors have charged that the Citizens Sessions are a political stunt, but anyone who witnessed the parade of citizens into the faculty lounge of the Student Center on the Northern Michigan University campus Saturday afternoon was not likely to have been left with that impression.

In practically every instance, Gov. Romney was able to give each party some assistance in regard to his particular problem. He demonstrated a courteous interest in every case that came up during the open sessions. (Some of the interviews were closed to the communications media at the request of the citizens involved.)

The Citizens Sessions work both ways. They also are a decided aid to the Governor, for they give him and his administration a good idea of which problems are the most pressing among the citizenry and indicate where the administration should focus its attention.

In short, these sessions bring the government closer to the people, who cannot help but be impressed by the fact that each and every one of them can discuss practically any problem whatsoever with the Chief Executive of his state.

There is a certain parallel between the Citizens Sessions and Gov. Romney's fiscal reform meetings, one of which was held on the Northern Michigan University campus Saturday noon. The fiscal reform meetings are a series of sessions the Governor and his staff currently are holding in various communities throughout the state to give citizens background briefings on eight alternate plans proposed as a possible basis for fiscal reform in Michigan.

After the tax problems are explained and the proposed fiscal reform plans are outlined, those present are given an opportunity to indicate their impressions. This citizen reaction is expected to help Gov. Romney and his advisors draft plans for the Legislature's tax reform session next fall.

Both the Citizens Sessions and the tax reform meetings are efforts to bring the government closer to the people and both seem to be succeeding remarkably well.

COSTS OF DISHONESTY

Estimating that more than $4,000,000 in cash and merchandise is stolen from employers in the United States each working day, Norman Jaspian, head of a management engineering firm, describes this as "the most shocking wave of internal dishonesty in our nation's history."

Historical perspectives on such a subject are not easy to establish. Whether the toll is greater than a century or two ago in proportion to the volume of trade is anybody's guess.

What is certain is that any shrinkage at all due to dishonesty is unjustified and injurious. Mr. Jaspian finds that thefts of merchandise are much greater than those of cash, that frauds drive 250 firms out of business every year and that kickbacks in purchasing are costly to buyer and seller. Tighter management can prevent many of these losses; so can a broader sense of fair play on the part of employees. — Christian Science Monitor

Frank Comment On U.P. Economy Marked Operation Action Meet

One of the most frank reviews of Upper Peninsula industry and employment ever heard in the U. P. was presented during the Operation Action—U. P. Council meeting at Northern Michigan University over the weekend.

One who attended said the meeting brought probably the most forthright comments on the Upper Peninsula's economy in its long history of the effort to stimulate its development.

Newest Development Agency

The comment ranged from an optimistic keynote address and report by Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president of Northern Michigan University and co-chairman of the Operation Action Council, to concerned statements that some basic U. P. industries are in serious trouble and that some segments of labor in the U. P. don't understand the job competition situation.

Operation Action is the Upper Peninsula's newest economic development agency. It joins the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Problems (UPCAP), which is sponsored by counties and working in close liaison with the Area Redevelopment Administration.

During the course of setting these two goals, the Operation Action Council heard these comments from government and business leaders from throughout the state:

GOV. ROMNEY — "I don't think the potential of the Upper Peninsula has been developed. It has tremendous resources. I feel that we are on the verge of a real breakthrough on the county and community level, where growth has got to come from." The Governor suggested that the U. P. needs the aid of both organizations — UPCAP to identify local problems and Operation Action to bring economic leadership to their solution.

He urged local use of the new industrial development corporation legislation passed by the Legislature to create means to persuade individual businesses to come into U. P. communities.

DR. HARDEN — "We are pretty provincial, but with UPCAP and Operation Action we are cooperating, and if we see an industry can locate to best advantage in the Soo, we all pull for the Soo. We must relate ourselves to the Upper Peninsula and to the Lower Peninsula."

"We have many displaced persons with no marketable skills, and we have developed a training program for them. We need more money for research. Research and development are the key to development of the area. Unless we can use our resources, we are going to fall farther behind."

Some Gains Reported — "Shipping costs remain a difficulty, not the only factor, but one of many. And unless there is greater interest in the industry now here, there is no assurance that it will stay."

Dr. Harden reported gains in the past 10 years in electrical generation, progress over difficulties in iron mining, too little done to improve tourism, greatly increased educational opportunities, communications improvement, thanks to courageous ventures like Frank J. Russell's creation of Channel 6 television "on very shaky ground."

WALKER CISLER, president of the Detroit Edison Co. and co-chairman with Dr. Harden of the Operation Action Council — He said the first preliminary report on the Michigan energy study under way since last year would be made this week. The first phase of the study sums up energy use to 1963 in coal, electricity, gas, water and oil and provides a four-state comparison. Later phases of the study will make projections of Michigan's prospective needs for energy to expand its economy. A basic element of the economy, energy is used to convert materials into saleable products.

Cisler cited the energy potential of the Congo River in Africa, which is three times that of all Michigan's usage, but which is of no use today unless upgraded by conversion into electricity for industrial wealth.

Michigan lacks energy, so it has to be brought in in primary form (coal, gas, oil) or secondary (electricity) form. The energy study under way will endeavor to show Michigan and the Upper Peninsula energy needs for a lively economy and the investment needs for the conversion of this energy into industrial products. Conversion facilities cost seven times the cost of energy itself.

WILLIAM ROONEY of Ebasco Services, New York City, vice president, Michigan Tech, Houghton — "If this is a depressed area and wants industry, one of the first things it needs is technical manpower and brains. One of the first needs would be a technical school, but for 76 years you have had Tech. It is in a position to help Cliffs Dore and other industries."

One Building In 30 Years — "It has an enrollment of 3,400 with virtually 100 per cent job placement, but it has only one new academic building in 30 years. Its faculty salaries are seriously out of line. The average salary is below the minimum salary at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan and we have to get the same people."

"Operation Action can strengthen the Upper Peninsula most quickly by getting the Legislature to strengthen Tech's budget."

ROBERT TABER, Cleveland, assistant to the president, Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. — "Dow Chemical Co. and Cleveland-Cliffs have an industry here and we want to keep it. We also have a resource vital to the Upper Peninsula in the underground iron mines here. After a campaign in Lansing in which the union and the communities affected were very helpful, bills were passed to ease taxes on underground ore. It was a most important and significant event because the underground mines have not been able to retain their competitive position. "But the recent development in Pittsburgh (in the United Steelworkers' Union wage agreement with the steel industry) may eliminate some of the advantages gained at Lansing. The agreement will affect the steel industry one way and the mines up here another. The underground mines are threatened very seriously if the basic package is applied to U. P. The workout of the contract is not completed yet. One of the advantages we hoped for may be lost in a few months because of the wage package. The entire U. P. community should think seriously of what this package may mean. It was the first time the company and union had approached a problem jointly and with the same point of view."

"Maybe our methods aren't good. We are the only firm in Michigan making acetic acid, methyl alcohol and charcoal, so there is no conflict of interest. We need help and badly."

"Fifty per cent of Michigan's charcoal briquettes are shipped in from Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee and other states. One of the problems of our Marquette plant is distribution from the Upper Peninsula. When we can't sell in Michigan it makes the job even harder. Our Marquette plant may soon be out of business if Michigan continues to ship in charcoal from Tennessee."

DR. EDWARD WILLIAMS, vice president, Michigan Tech, Houghton — "If this is a depressed area and wants industry, one of the first things it needs is technical manpower and brains. One of the first needs would be a technical school, but for 76 years you have had Tech. It is in a position to help Cliffs Dore and other industries."

"It has an enrollment of 3,400 with virtually 100 per cent job placement, but it has only one new academic building in 30 years. Its faculty salaries are seriously out of line. "Operation Action can strengthen the Upper Peninsula most quickly by getting the Legislature to strengthen Tech's budget."

ROBERT TABER, Cleveland, assistant to the president, Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. — "Dow Chemical Co. and Cleveland-Cliffs have an industry here and we want to keep it. We also have a resource vital to the Upper Peninsula in the underground iron mines here. After a campaign in Lansing in which the union and the communities affected were very helpful, bills were passed to ease taxes on underground ore. It was a most important and significant event because the underground mines have not been able to retain their com-

Public Enemy

This creature steals more every day than the $1,218,000 taken by the famous Brinks bandits. The sinister-looking fellow is the boll weevil, which, according to Cyanamid Magazine, destroys in excess of a half billion dollars worth of cotton crops each year. President Kennedy told Congress that if the insect could be eliminated the cost of producing cotton would be reduced five cents a pound.

The National Whirligig

The News

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — "Who knows?" said Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, the Illinois Republican, "we may be able to contrive a bill that requires no cloture." And men of moderation everywhere, black and white, should rise to salute his words.

In an atmosphere of bluster and threats, Dirksen has proposed the only possible formula for getting a civil rights program through Congress this year. It is the only possible formula because any attempt to limit Senate debate will be defeated by the Southern Democrats and their like-minded allies. In the next several weeks only the voice of reason has any chance of prevailing on Capitol Hill.

In the final analysis, it does not much matter what President Kennedy wants in the field of civil rights legislation; he will get only what the South, reluctantly, decides to give him. How much that will be depends on whether the Senate will heed Dirksen's appeal to reason. Neither side can win this one, but both can find a compromise they can live with if they play politics in the present sense of the word, which is to say if they practice the art of the possible.

Filibuster Unbeatable — Southern leaders are prepared to filibuster Kennedy's program to death unless it is amended. They can do this because they have the votes to defeat any move to impose cloture. There are 10 senators, and it will take two thirds of those present and voting to break a filibuster. The Democrats have 67 votes, but 22 of them belong to Southerners. Thus the liberals would have to muster 45 democratic votes and 22 of the 33 Republican votes to cut off debate. They have about as much chance of doing this as Barry Goldwater has of being named secretary of state.

Yet a successful filibuster would be a tragedy rather than a victory for Dixie. For in that event, the Negro activists have given notice that they will storm Capitol Hill in a massive protest demonstration. Washington will be invaded by thousands of black troops in multi-demanding their rights and, not so incidentally, paralyzing business.

Mass Demonstrations Work — Some members of Congress, notably those from the South, have attempted to pooh-pooh this threat, but their scoffing is a mistake. The Negroes discovered in Birmingham and to a lesser degree in Jackson that mass demonstrations work. They have forced a hitherto timid Administration to make civil rights legislation the first order of its business. Having succeeded so far with his strategy of non-violent warfare against public order, the Negroes will not hesitate to use it in the decisive innings of the ball game.

Whether from the North or the South, then, the 100 senators have a choice. They can slug it out on the floor and leave the civil rights program a political corpse, or they can sit down and work out a compromise President Kennedy can sell to the Negro.

Leadership Available — Men like Dirksen and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield can lead the forces of compromise if they will, because both are men of moderation and high political skill. They should expect and demand help from men like Sen. J. William Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat, a liberal in matters concerning Nigeria and a segregationist back home, Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell, a towering statesman in national security affairs, and Virginia's Sen. Harry Byrd, whose sharpest weapon is his folksy common sense.

They are about to begin the process of separating the men from the boys in the Senate to the United States. And when the tally is in there had better be enough men to avert bloodshed on Main Street, U.S.A. (Bell-McClure Syndicate)

Truman's 80th Birthday Plans

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Plans to make former President Harry S. Truman's 80th birthday, May 8, 1964, a real winding are already under way. This came out, along with a lot of inside political stories, at the 22nd anniversary reunion of the Senate's World War II Investigating Committee on National Defense. Truman was in Washington for the affair as guest of honor since he was the committee's first chairman. He made the committee famous, and it made him Vice President.

Charles Patrick Clark, associate counsel on the original committee staff, hosted this year's black-tie dinner for 40 old Truman cronies, and was in master of ceremonies. It was Clark who announced that the committee's 23rd anniversary dinner next year will celebrate Truman's 80th.

Credit From Johnson — Vice President Lyndon Johnson, at this year's dinner, gave Truman a large measure of credit for the Democratic victory in 1960.

After the Los Angeles nominating convention, Johnson revealed, Sen. Kennedy told his running mate, "Go see Harry Truman and ask him how to run for Vice President."

"Get as far away from home as you can," Truman advised Johnson. "Go to Boston. That's where I opened my campaign. The Irish will receive you with open arms. Then get Jack to go to Texas. They won't be as afraid of a Catholic if they see one."

Tribute From Wheeler — Johnson riding a horse in Texas wouldn't be news. But Johnson doing a Paul Revere in Boston was news. Every party in Texas carried the picture. And that helped Kennedy and Johnson carry Texas as well as nine other states, where Johnson made 108 speeches on his way back home.

Former Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Truman's first Senate boss as chairman of the Commerce Committee, paid tribute to the ex-President because "he had guts. The more I live in Washington," said Wheeler, "the more I think it's more important to have guts than to have brains."

Responding to all these and a lot more tributes, Truman, pink-cheeked and in his rare, old form, said in reply: "What in hell can a man say or do after all that? But one of these days," he continued, "I'll be in a position where I can't hear what you say. I hope you'll go on saying it anyway."

In A Million Moos — "When a man has a responsibility to 180 million people he can't please them all," Truman reminisced in a mellow mood. "He has to make decisions. A third to a half of the people always have to raise hell about it."

"Now they're being very kind to an old man. I wish they had been more so then." Truman paid some beautiful tributes to former President Herbert Hoover, who had responded to his call for help. "I asked him to do for me what he did for Woodrow Wilson—feed the people of Bulgaria and Romania and Iran and Syria and Azerbaijan. And then I asked him to plan the reorganization of the federal government. And we put three-fourths of his recommendations into effect."

"I got President Hoover to come down to Independence and dedicate the Truman Memorial Library. While he was there he came to the house where Mrs. Truman was entertaining her bridge club. And one old gal there asked him what an ex-President did. Hoover's reply was: "He takes pills and dedicates libraries." *

One Of Life's Little Ordeals

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of Life's little ordeals to the disorderly is trying to sustain their own sense of order.

As a man with a chronic reputation for being disorderly in the arrangement of his belongings, I will go further than saying this is a little ordeal in living. It is a major problem.

I regard myself as a person with an immaculate sense of order. But, as is true of many a man or woman with the same idiosyncrasy, I make order in my own way.

Instead of wasting my time and energy as so-called neat people do by confining the paper wealth that comes my way in the A-B-C confusion of file cabinets, I pile it up layer by layer on my desk.

Debris — If letters, books, or packages arrive on a day when I don't feel like opening mail, I stack them on top of the debris I live by—and wait until a sense of adventure does impel me to do so.

Paper by paper, envelope by envelope, layer by layer, such a garden knows by memory the uncharted byways on his desk that the rest of the unfeeling world regards as an aimless clutter. Blindfolded, he can reach a sensitive hand within the mass and pluck out what he needs at any moment.

He can, that is, if he is left alone. But he is not left alone.

The bane of the so-called disorderly person in this world is the curiosity of the so-called neat person.

Something Missing — I am convinced by long office association with so-called neat people that they live starved lives. After stashing away under the A-B-C technique what the mailman brings them, they have a feeling of something missing in their living.

So they are irresistibly drawn to the laden desks of the so-called disorderly. It serves as a magnet to their insecurity.

They pick up and read letters at random, open packages not addressed to them, overturn the considered layers that have real meaning only to the owner, and make a real chaos out of what is a planned confusion.

"What do they seek? What do they hope to find? They don't really know — and I don't either.

Several times I have put atop the hoarded junk pile upon my desk a simple note saying: H For Happiness — "Whatever you are looking for in this world that will make your life better, it probably isn't here. Why don't you look under 'H' — for happiness — in your own files?"

The irate notes do no good. Whenever I reach with a sure hand for what I want in the mess on my desk, I find some meddlesome passer-by has overturned the pile and made a real mess of it.

Isabellas At State Parley Hear Bishop

An estimated 200 women attending the 34th annual state convention of the Michigan Daughters of Job's Daughters, held Thursday through Saturday at Gaylord, heard a talk at the concluding dinner meeting Saturday night by the Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Marquette, which emphasized the future role of the Catholic layman in church affairs. Speaking at the post-dinner session in the Hidden Valley Ski Club near Gaylord, Bishop Noa told the Isabellas that newly-elected Pope Paul VI, who was close to the late Pope John XXIII, is certain to continue plans the last pontiff had for increasing the part the laity plays in the church.

Studied At Council The role in church matters of the laity — both men and women — came in for serious attention at the opening session of the Ecumenical Council called by Pope John, the bishop said, and will no doubt get further careful study when the council reconvenes. The layman's responsibility in the church, now not clearly defined, will quite probably be delineated by the Ecumenical Council in the months ahead, the local prelate said.

It is also a certainty that efforts launched by Pope John toward attaining unity of all Christians and toward world peace will also be furthered by Pope Paul VI, Bishop Noa told the Isabellas.

Homemaking Tips

For take-it-easy cooks: add a package (1 1/2 ounces) of dehydrated onion soup and a cup of water to that beef pot roast. Saves peeling onions!

Whether your muffin batter includes bran, wheat germ or whole-wheat flour, it will take to a jam filling. Just fill the muffinpan wells about one-third full, then add a teaspoon of jam and cover with the remaining batter. Bake as usual.

A turban mold is just right for baking a yeast-risen "baba" cake. Be sure to grease and flour the mold before adding the dough.

U. P. Crafts Directory Published

The Michigan Upper Peninsula Craftsmen's Directory, the second to be published by the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council, has just been issued. It was announced today by Charles Folio of Escanaba, assistant director of the University of Michigan Extension Service and president of the U. P. Crafts Council.

Twenty thousand copies of the directory have been distributed to Chambers of Commerce, Michigan Highway Department offices and other places where they are likely to be picked up by tourists, Folio announced.

"We are hopeful that in the future the number of people who take space in this directory will grow so that the tourist who comes to the Upper Peninsula will be able to find items made by Upper Peninsula craftsmen to purchase and take home with them," Folio said.

Declaring that craft items are an important facet of the tourist industry, Folio added that the council "also believes that aside from the fact that the crafts can provide worthwhile leisure-time activity for many people, they can also be a means of livelihood for many or can supplement the income of a lot of our citizens."

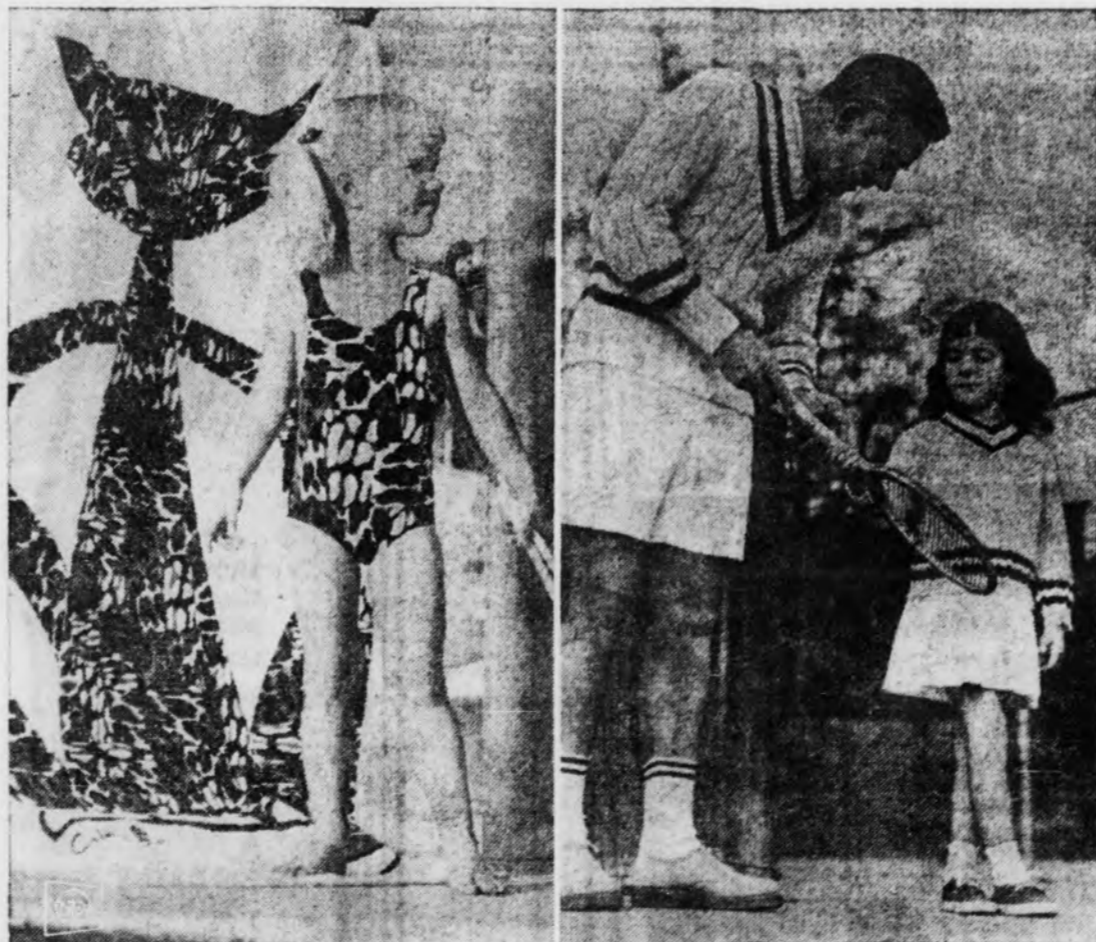

Mrs. Gunther C. Meyland of Marquette is vice-president of the U. P. Crafts Council and active in promoting native crafts and other arts of the area.

L'Anse Couple, Infant Left Homeless By Fire

L'ANSE — A family of three was left homeless last night when fire gutted their three-room home on the bay shore.

Gerald Hiltunen, his wife and their infant son all escaped injury, but the flames swept through their house, destroying most of their belongings and leaving the building in ruins.

A series of explosions rocked the house and tongues of flame and huge clouds of black smoke billowed up from the asphalt-shingle dwelling. The fire is attributed to an explosion in a small rear shed, which resulted when a can of gasoline in which Hiltunen was cleaning paint brushes tipped over and was ignited by the pilot flame of a bottled gas refrigerator located in the shed.

Several other explosions followed and flames swept through the kitchen door into the house. Hiltunen this morning said that the house probably was damaged beyond repair. His loss is partially covered by insurance, but most of the couple's furniture, clothing and personal effects were lost in the flames or so badly damaged by smoke that they cannot be salvaged.

Mrs. Hiltunen rushed outside with the baby, while her husband called the fire department and attempted to remove their belongings through the front door. Hiltunen was in the house at the time of the two explosions.

Car Signed By Flames
His car, parked in the driveway next to the rear shed, was singed by the flames, but he was able to drive it out of the yard before the gasoline tank exploded.

A full crew of L'Anse fire fighters got the flames under control within 15 minutes. They soaked the interior of the house and partially dismantled the shed. The west wall of the house and the kitchen and living room interiors were destroyed.

Why Not Use Cedar Lake? Chief's Plea

ISHPEMING — "With the fine facilities and clean cool water available at Cedar Lake, why should youngsters want to swim and frolic in other ponds throughout the city?" Police Chief Frank Sarvello asked today.

"Cedar Lake is an ideal place for youngsters — a place where they are safe from hidden dangers which may be present at these other swimming holes."

The latest report on swimming in dangerous places was heard this week when youngsters were seen in Lake Bancraft, near the Cliffs Shaft. A homemade raft with a diving board was floating about 50 yards off shore. The city will remove it from the lake.

"We frown upon this sort of thing in the City of Ishpeming," Sarvello said. "Now is the time to nip this in the bud. Let's stop this practice before a child is lost or seriously injured."

"It's a dreadful experience for parents to lose a child and also a sad experience for everyone who is involved in such a case."

Parents are asked to caution their children about the dangers in swimming in these unauthorized places. They also are asked to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wuorema, health hazards often found in such places.

This picture of a group of 19th century miners pictured from left to right are No. 4, 5 and 6, Shaft No. No. 7, is off to the right of this picture. Iron ore has been taken at the Champion Mine in the 1890's. Shaft houses 4 caved in on New Year's Day, 1900. The present shaft, mined at Champion since 1863.

Railroad Began Mining Operations In Champion Area 100 Years Ago

CHAMPION — This community, like other towns in the area, owes its existence to iron ore.

The discovery of iron ore deposits at Negaunee in 1845 was the beginning of a period of intense prospecting activity, and the entire area is pockmarked with test pits (shallow excavations dug in an effort to find outcroppings of iron ore).

Production did not get fully underway until the completion of the locks at Sault Ste. Marie in June, 1855. Prior to that time, iron ore bound had to be portaged around the Soo rapids. Completion of the locks enabled boats to sail from Marquette to Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland or Detroit.

Mining Began In 1863
Demands for iron brought about by the Civil War must have given added impetus to exploration in this region. At any rate, in 1863 the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon Railroad Co. began mining operations in the vicinity of the present village of Champion. There is no record of the railroad company shipping any appreciable amount of ore.

In 1867 the railroad company sold its holdings to the Champion Iron Co., comprised of financial men from Boston, Mass., and S. P. Eli and Peter White of Marquette. The company was capitalized at $500,000, shares selling at $25.

The first opening was made in 1867, but just when the first cars were being loaded in the spring of 1868 the dock burned at Marquette, delaying shipping until that fall. Production for that year was 6,225 tons. By 1880 it had increased to 112,401 tons.

In 1883, its 15th year of production, the Champion mine hoisted its one millionth ton, making it one of the largest mines in the Upper Peninsula at that time.

In the 20-year period after opening of the first mine, several operations were developed on the range north of the town. None of these developed into major operations, however. There were the Mariposa, Northampton, Dalibna, East and West Pascoe and later the Hortense and the North mine.

On the south range, in addition to the Champion mine, there were the East Champion and the Keystone. Most of these mines were operated by small companies and their fortunes depended on many things other than the amount of available ore on the properties.

1,900 Persons Here In '81
The first settlers were mostly miners from the county of Cornwall in England (Cousin Jacks) and French woodsmen from Canada. The English sank the shafts and mined the ore and the French cut wood for the boilers, for making charcoal for the forges and lumber for buildings and drove the many teams of horses used in the woods and about the mines. Later came the Scandinavians (Swedes, Danes and Norwegians) and a few Irish and Germans and lastly the Finns. According to the Michigan State Gazetteer and Business Directory dated 1881, about 1,300 persons lived in Beacon (the area near the present Champion mine known locally as "Uptown") and 600 inhabitants in Champion (the area bordering

Queen Candidates On TV Wednesday

Ernest Hamel and William Pascoe will tell about the annual horsepulling contests set for Sunday, June 30.

U. S. 41 known locally as "Downtown").

As previously stated, of the many mines in the area the only one that became a major development was the Champion. Because of the desirable quality of the ore and the abundance of it, plus good financial backing and able supervision, the mine prospered. James Pascoe, the captain, was a man of great ability. The methods of mining he introduced contributed greatly to success of the operation. Eventually the Champion Mining Co. bought up most of the smaller properties and work was concentrated on the Champion Mine. Over the years of operation seven shafts were sunk to exploit the ore bodies. (No. 7 shaft is the one now in use).

Shortly after the turn of the century, the mine shut down and control of it passed over to the Clairton Steel Co., which in turn sold it to the Oliver Mining Co. Oliver reopened the mine shortly after taking it over and continued to operate it until 1912.

In 1946 the property was leased by the North Range Mining Co. and operations were begun in October, 1947, after dewatering the property, which took about 13 months. With few interruptions, the property has been in operation since that time.

At present negotiations are under way to build an ore improvement plant on the property. If it materializes, the result will be a product desirable to the steel mills which in turn will greatly prolong the life of the Champion Mine.

Milk Industry Problems To Be Aired At Hearings

ESCANABA — The Upper Peninsula's milk industry problems, which were a matter of discussion at Governor Romney's first U.P. citizens session at Northern Michigan University in Marquette Saturday, will get an airing in Escanaba and Ironwood next week in public hearings.

Rep. Einar Erlandsen (D-Delta) announced today that an interim committee of the Michigan Legislature will hold a public hearing on milk pricing legislation at 10 a. m. Monday, July 1, in the State Office Building in Escanaba. In the afternoon the legislators will go to Ironwood where they will hear the public on the issue Tuesday morning.

Serving on the committee are Reps. Andrew Cobb (R-Elsie), chairman; Ray Wurzel (R-Port Huron), Joseph Snyder (D-McComb), Erlandsen, Fred Olson (R-Montcalm), Edmund Good (R-Huron) and James Warner (R-Washtenaw).

The study was ordered after the Legislature failed to pass a bill on fair pricing of dairy products in the last session. Earlier a dairy fair trade bill was vetoed by Governor Swanson.

Upper Peninsula dairy farmers and dairy plant operators have sought a fair trade bill for years to protect them from Wisconsin dairy industry competition if it should employ price cutting below cost of production or other unfair practices. The legislative efforts have been defeated by supermarket chains at Lansing, which oppose marketing controls. Milk is often a market loss leader item.

Erlandsen said that dairy farmers, dairy operators, merchants, consumers and all other elements of the public interested in milk pricing are invited to the public hearing at the State Office Building.

Across-Board Steel Price Hike Unlikely

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Will the basic steel industry seek a price increase to offset the cost of the newly-revised steel labor contract?

This question is being debated in the wake of the historic agreement between the United Steelworkers and the top 11 steel producers.

would raise employment costs some 15 cents an hour per man over the 21-month life of the contract.

Another factor is that steel users who had built up their inventories as a hedge against a possible strike may curtail their orders sharply.

A combination of these two factors—spiraling hidden costs and low production—could touch off another demand by management for a price increase.

But should the industry set price hikes, it is doubtful they would be across-the-board. Steel producers still feel the sting of President Kennedy's wrath at the general increases announced by the industry last year...

House economics committee that the selective increases had no appreciable effect on the general level of prices in the nation.

Dear Abby....

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were divorced 10 years ago. We have both remarried. When we parted, I got custody of our children, a boy and a girl. I consented to let our son live with his father because the boy was older, and his father could give him more than I at the time. The complications: My son is being married. My daughter and I were not invited to the wedding. When I asked my son why, he said it would cause too much of a mix-up in the seating arrangements. My ex-husband's present wife is very jealous, and I think she had a lot to do with all this. Many of my friends will be at the wedding, and will wonder why I'm not there. I wouldn't want them to think I refused to attend my own son's wedding. What should I do? I want to see my son married.

was deeply humiliated. Should I pursue this nurse further?

EMBARASSED
DEAR ABBY: Telephone the nurse and ask her point-blank if she is interested in seeing you. The orderly might have been out of order.

DEAR ABBY: You can tell Mrs. Wet Pillow for me that any woman who cries herself to sleep because her husband hands her a $20 bill and says, "Here, Honey, go buy yourself something for Mother's Day," needs to have her head examined. She should have MY old man. I have to buy a card for myself and beg him to sign it. Ask

HURT
DEAR HURT: Go to the wedding sit on the groom's side and enjoy a mother's privilege of seeing her son married. And hold your head high and smile while you're doing it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old man who recently spent 10 days in the hospital. I took a liking to a certain nurse, who led me to believe she was available. After leaving the hospital I sent her a dozen roses in care of the hospital. On the card I asked if I could see her. To my surprise the roses were returned to my home during the night by an orderly, who claimed he was "going steady" with her. There was a nasty note from him attached to the roses. It was found by my parents and I

Mrs. Wet Pillow if she'd like a slightly used husband who's real good at keeping his nose wet.

WRITING OUT
CONFIDENTIAL TO LUCKY LUCY: Divorce your business instead of your husband and try to make a real home for your family.

For a personal unpublished answer to your letter, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.
