Man Kills His Wife, 3 Children

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Police said that a Denver man planned to wipe out his family of 11 early today but stopped after killing his wife and three young children. They identified him as Luis J. Monge, 45, driver for a mercantile firm. Investigators said Monge went on a rampage after brooding over personal problems. The dead were Monge's wife, Leonarda 43; and children, Allan, 6, Vincent 4, and Tresa, 11 months. Seven Asleep Police said Monge first beat his wife to death with an iron bar then stabbed the baby Tresa with a stiletto, choked Vincent to death and beat Allan to death in the basement with a bar. Monge then became unmerciful, officers said, and called the police. Seven other children sleeping in another section of the home did not awake until the police arrived. Their ages ranged up to 18.

C&NW Fights Union Pacific To Buy Line

NEW YORK (AP)—A financial storm is brewing that savors of knock-down, drag-out fights among the legendary railroad barons of 75 years ago. It blew up almost overnight this week in the style of epic battles waged by the Hills, Vanderbilts, Harrimans and Jay Gould before the turn of the century. The prize: the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, a midcontinent line with strategic importance to Western railroads because of its access to Chicago. The adversaries: the rich, storied Union Pacific Railroad, a kind of Goliath in present circumstances, and the poor-relation Chicago & North Western Railway, the David of the piece. Guiding the North Western's slingshot is Ben W. Heineman, board chairman since 1956 and widely regarded in the industry as an unusually bold and resourceful executive. Heineman started the railroad world on Monday with a handsome $115-million offer in stock, income bonds and cash for the Rock Island. The surprise was the greater because of its timing—three days before Rock Island directors were to pass on an earlier, tempting and conflicting offer from the Union Pacific, railroad's No. 1 money-maker. Closer observers thought they detected some wavering in Rock Island ranks, but on Thursday Rock Island directors voted for the Union Pacific and spurned Heineman's tender. "We intend to move right ahead with our proposal to Rock Island stockholders," said Heineman Friday. In this, he would be asking shareholders to repudiate the judgment of their elected directors.

Phoenix Man Kills Wife, Wounds 8

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A 55-year-old man, having failed at reconciliation with his former wife, killed her and wounded eight other persons before taking his own life early today. Police said Willie B. Williams shot himself in the chest with the .12 gauge sawed-off shotgun he used during his wild shooting spree. Killed moments before was Minnie Jones, 52.

Kennedy Bids Farewell To Emerald Isle

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — President Kennedy—grinning like a kid who has had the time of his life—said farewell today to Ireland. "Come back, Cousin Jack," delighted Irishmen shouted just before Kennedy took off from Shannon airport for England. In the climax to a heartwarming three-day visit to the land of his forefathers, the President said at the airport: "I'm going to come back and see old Shannon's face again. And I am going to take all of you back to America with me," the President said. Irishmen cheering in delight almost drowned out the words of his farewell: "I want to express my thanks as we all are about to say goodbye. I want to express my appreciation to your great president, Mr. Eamon De Valera, and to all of you. We may be removed by two or three generations from Ireland, but yet when I ask how many people have relatives in America, they all hold up their hands. "Ireland has a special role. It is in a sense the mother of many peoples and many nations. I take great satisfaction and pride in being of Irish descent." Change In Plans In a last minute change of schedule he decided not to fly directly to Gatwick in England for his Sunday meeting with Macmillan. Instead he diverted for an hour to the Royal Air Force base near Chatsworth in England to visit the grave of his sister, Kathleen, who was killed in an air crash in 1948. She was married to

State Cities Plan Glorious 'Fourth'

LANSING (AP) — It will be a glorious Fourth of July weekend, observed in as many ways as there are cities and villages in Michigan. All available manpower will be utilized to cruise the highways, aided by 114 National Guardsmen. The concentration of police checking will be on trunkline highways from 3 to 9 p. m. daily. There were nine fatalities last Fourth of July over a 30-hour period. There were 12 deaths in 1961 over a comparable period. 1954 Death Toll The traffic fatality high was in 1954 when 35 died in only a 78-hour period. Highway traffic engineers agreed with police that the highest traffic volumes will be in the hours of 3 until 9 p. m. Sunday afternoon and evening also will show high rates between 2 and 10 p. m. Heaviest traffic volumes are expected on all main highways in and near Detroit. 1,000 Bells Detroit—in the midst of its annual International Freedom Festival—will celebrate Independence Day by ringing every bell in the community at noon. Some 1,000 volunteers will ring the bells. Gov. George Romney will ring a bell at Utica after he marches in parades there and at Wyandotte. "Old-Fashioned Fourth" At East Jordan the holiday will mark the start of the Jordan Valley Festival with inbound boat races, canoe races and fireworks. Beaver Island will hold a civic association celebration and Mackinac Island promises "an old-fashioned Fourth celebration." There will be an antique show in the Saugatuck-Douglas area, a horse show at Farwell, a canoe race in Ogemaw and Arenac counties on the Rifle River, a seaway festival at Muskegon and centennial celebrations at Hancock and Escanaba.

BULLETIN

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — A passenger train packed with weekend travelers slammed into the rear of a work train near the tiny southeastern Wisconsin community of Truesdell today. First reports indicated an extensive number of injuries. The Milwaukee Road train, northbound from Chicago to Milwaukee, derailed after the collision with the 11-car work train. All available ambulances were rushed to the scene. St. Catherine's Hospital and Kenosha Memorial Hospital reported at least 30 injured had been admitted, but none was in critical condition.

Thousands Of Persons Flock To Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Thousands of visitors began streaming into this once-tiny crossroads town today for the 100th anniversary of the epic Battle of Gettysburg. The three day commemoration is expected to attract a quarter of a million people to the lush green fields, where 100 years ago, 51,000 Americans were killed, wounded or captured in the battle that virtually decided the Civil War. Local hotels and motels have been booked solid for months. Even Gettysburg stores and restaurants are in the spirit of the event, dressing their waitresses and sales girls in full-length caudresses and bonnets to recapture Civil War atmosphere.

Tax Revenues Put Michigan In Good Shape

LANSING (AP)—The state sales and use tax collection figures—generally regarded as the best barometer of Michigan business activity—show the state is in good shape, reports the State Revenue Department. Tentative figures for the fiscal year ending June 30 show sales tax collections for the year will be about $455 million compared to $427 million for the last fiscal year. Previous Estimates State Revenue Commissioner Clarence Lock said the total exceeded two previous estimates. The total was estimated a year ago at $432 million and last January at $438 million, he said. The tax take will mean a reduction in the general fund deficit from $85 million to around $30 million when the state winds up its fiscal year Sunday, Lock said. This will be the lowest state deficit since 1958, when the figure was about $21 million. Surplus For this current fiscal year, it will mean the state will show a general fund surplus in excess of $55 million. Gov. George Romney had estimated in January that there would be a fiscal year surplus of $33 million and lately has been upping the figure to $50 million.

Republicans Adjourn With Unity Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A plea for unity has closed the Young Republican National Convention, marked by bitter discord over election of officers. Veteran observers called the 13th biennial meeting which ended early today one of the rowdiest ever staged. During the more than four days, the Young Republicans held senior party members counsel harmony while they were engaged in heated arguments. Climax The climax came Friday afternoon when after two hours and 45 minutes of uproar, Donald Lukens, 32, of Washington, D.C., was elected chairman of the Young Republican National Federation for the next two years. The Goldwater Republican is minority clerk for the U.S. House of Representatives Rules Committee. Lukens narrowly beat the more moderate Idaho legislator and lawyer, Charles McDevitt, 31, who after the first ballot was two votes shy of getting the needed 313 votes to win. Decisive Vote The decisive vote for chairman was controlled by California Chairman Robert Gaston of La Canada. The first ballot ended with 311 votes for McDevitt, 264 for Lukens and 49 for Gaston. On the second, Gaston threw his states' 40 votes to Lukens. Seven of the nine others who had voted for him followed suit, and the final vote electing Lukens up 318 to 305 with one abstention.

U. S. Plans Diplomatic Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. ambassadorial changes in a number of important posts from Europe to Southern Asia are expected to be announced in the weeks following President Kennedy's return from Europe. The switches in prospect involve a number of resignations. Still, officials pointed out that diplomatic assignments are regularly rotated and some of the envoys appointed during the first year of the Kennedy administration are now up for reassignment after two years in their overseas posts. Changes Administration sources gave these among the changes in the offing: Charles W. Yost, a deputy representative to the United Nations under Adlai E. Stevenson, to become ambassador to Yugoslavia. A career diplomat, Yost would succeed George F. Kennan, who is returning to the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J. Career diplomat Henry A. Byroade, a senior adviser with the U.S. Disarmament Agency, to be ambassador to Burma. He would succeed John S. Evertson, former Ford Foundation official, who is resigning after having been at Rangoon since 1961. Bolivia William Attwood, a former newsman who has been ambassador to Guinea since 1961, to succeed Ben S. Stephansky as U.S. envoy to Bolivia. Stephansky, a former labor specialist, is in line for a high ranking job in the State Department's Inter-American Affairs Bureau in Washington. Deleseppe S. Morrison, U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, is expected to resign this summer. A former New Orleans mayor, he is expected to run for the Louisiana governorship. Italy G. Frederick Reinhardt, career diplomat who has been U.S. ambassador to Italy since 1961, is ill and a replacement is being sought. Thomas C. Mann, ambassador to Mexico since 1961, is reported considering resigning in the near future. He was a Texas lawyer before entering the foreign service in 1942.

Bathyscaphe Dives Again To Hunt Sub

ABOARD USS FORT SNELLING (AP)—The bathyscaphe Trieste today descended to the ocean bottom for the fourth time in search of the submarine Thresher. Three men were aboard the Trieste, instead of the usual two, to follow up an important search clue. The Navy said it crammed the third man into the six-foot gondola "to increase the underwater search efficiency." Added Member Added today was Lt. Cmdr. Eugene J. Cash, 32, of Orchard Park, N.Y., a submarine officer making his first bathyscaphe dive. Also aboard were Lt. George W. Martin, 30, of Bethlehem, Pa., and civilian scientist Kenneth V. Mackenzie, 31, of San Diego. Capt. Frank A. Andrews, the search commander, led Trieste headed for the general location where she had photographed a shoe cover used only on nuclear submarines. Vessels Alerted Surface vessels, meanwhile, have been alerted to keep all navigation at least 25 miles away from the dive area. Five Russian vessels penetrated the search area in the past six days in spite of a notice to all mariners to stay clear of the area.

6 Children, 2 Adults Drown In Auto Mishap

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — "They were begging us to get them out," said a rescuer after desperate efforts saved only two of 10 persons whose car plunged into turbid flood waters. "I kept yelling for them to throw the children out of the car into the river," said Lamar Thaxton. "But I guess it's pretty hard to throw children into a river." The car carried an elderly couple, seven of their grandchildren and another woman into the swirling current of the rain-swollen Oconee River near the University of Georgia Friday. Six of the children, the invalid grandfather and the third adult drowned. Thaxton, of Athens, saw the car lurch into the normally placid riv-

Russians Demand Recall Of Three In Chinese Embassy

MOSCOW (AP)—Red China disclosed today the Soviet Union has demanded the recall of three members of the Chinese embassy in Moscow, a step without precedent in the relations between the two feuding powers. Western diplomats said the Soviet action may prompt the Chinese to boycott the Soviet-Chinese ideological talks due to open in Moscow July 5. "The Chinese could have kept the matter quiet," one Western diplomat commented, "It's beginning to look as if they don't really want to come here next month." The news of the Soviet action was distributed by Peking's New China news agency. The foreign ministry refused to comment. "Unreasonable" The agency's account said the Chinese foreign ministry called the Soviet move "unreasonable and its excuse untenable." Peking demanded to know if "the Soviet government is trying to undermine Chinese-Soviet unity, vitiate the relations between the two states and create obstacles to the talks between the Chinese and Soviet parties." The Chinese indicated they would heed the Soviet demand and would not retaliate by ousting Soviet diplomats in China. The Soviet demand was made in a note to the Chinese embassy in Moscow on Thursday. The Chinese said the Russians demanded the recall of three members of the embassy staff and two other Chinese in the Soviet Union for distributing the Chinese Communist party's letter of June 14 assailing the party leadership of Premier Khrushchev. Attacks Policy The 30,000-word letter attacked the Kremlin's cold war policy of peaceful coexistence. The Kremlin, in an unprecedented move, publicly announced later that it would not publish the letter. The Red Chinese said the Peking letter was in reply to a letter of the Soviet Communist party Central Committee on March 30. A Chinese foreign ministry spokesman was quoted as saying: "This demand of the Soviet government is unreasonable and its excuse untenable. "Unimpeachable" "It is normal and unimpeachable for the Chinese embassy and

Red Chinese Turn Back 6 Landing Tries

TOKYO (AP)—Peking Radio today claimed Chinese Communist coastal militia turned back six landing attempts by Nationalist Chinese agents off South China between June 21 and Friday. It said the Communists killed 62 Nationalists while seven were taken prisoner. The Communists claimed seizures of U.S. made carbines, rifles, pistols, ammunition, poisonous chemicals and wireless equipment but did not specify the quantity. 1 Shot Peking claimed also that five Nationalist agents attempted to land at the same area before June 21. It said four were taken prisoner and one shot to death. Peking said the landing attempts were made along the coast of Kwangtung, Fukien and Chekiang provinces opposite the Nationalist Chinese island of Formosa. "It's Not Untrue" "It is quite untrue," he said, "for you to suggest that you have had relations with Lord Astor." "Of course it is not untrue," she replied. "I am not going to perjure myself in court." Mandy also stuck to her claim of Friday that she knew actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr. She said their acquaintance involved a screen test and two meetings along with Christine. The hearing appeared virtually certain of causing as big an uproar as the original disclosures which caused the downfall of former War Minister John Profumo and nearly toppled Prime Minister Macmillan's government. It was Ward who introduced Christine to Profumo and Soviet Naval Attaché Eugeny Ivanov. It was also Ward who broke the scandal involving the three way sex relationship of Miss Keeler, Profumo and Ivanov, a Soviet intelligence agent. Miss Rice-Davis was followed on the witness stand by a tall, dark-haired girl identified only as Miss X. Ward, a 50-year-old osteopath, is charged with conspiring to procure her to have unlawful sexual intercourse. The girl said she was intro-

British Party Girl Sticks To Story

LONDON (AP)—Playgirl Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davis stood her ground today as a defense attorney slashed away at her story of a love affair with Viscount Astor in the sensation-packed vice hearing of Dr. Stephen Ward. Ward faces eight charges, including running a callgirl stable for upper crust Britons and living off the earnings of Miss Rice-Davis and her red-haired roommate, Christine Keeler. Ward's attorney, James Burge, opened today's hearing by trying to break Miss Rice-Davis' story. "It's Not Untrue" "It is quite untrue," he said, "for you to suggest that you have had relations with Lord Astor." "Of course it is not untrue," she replied. Motion To End Legal Case In Ore Carrier Dispute Filed Here

A motion to end the legal case started after members of the Great Lakes District of the Seafarers International Union picketed a Canadian ore carrier at the Soo Line Railroad Co. dock this week was filed in Marquette County Circuit Court yesterday.

Michael F. DeFaut, Marquette, attorney for the Great Lakes district of the SIU, filed the motion to dissolve a restraining order and dismiss the complaint against the union.

The restraining order was served on five SIU pickets, all from Duluth, Thursday. The restraining order and an order to show cause why a temporary injunction against the union should not be issued were signed by Circuit Judge Ernest W. Brown of Iron Mountain.

At the same time that he filed the two motions, DeFaut also entered a notice of hearing before Judge Brown in Dickinson County Court, Iron Mountain, at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Marquette County Circuit Judge Bernard H. Davidson of Negaunee has disqualified himself from the case on grounds that he had been a member of a law firm that represented one of the parties involved in a similar labor dispute here in 1961.

The SIU members began picketing the ore boat, the Red Wing, when it docked at the Soo Line Railroad Co. ore dock in lower harbor Tuesday night. About 15 Soo Line dock workers walked off the dock and the carrier was loaded Wednesday night by Soo Line supervisory personnel.

Pickets claiming that the firm which operates the Red Wing "is depriving American seamen of jobs on the Great Lakes" defied the restraining order and continued to picket until the Red Wing left lower harbor.

Dates Back To 1961
The Red Wing is operated by Upper Lakes Shipping Co. Ltd. of Toronto. A dispute involving Upper Lakes has continued since 1961.

Its ships have been picketed by SIU members previously in Marquette and in almost every other port on the Great Lakes.

The dispute centers around the union's claim that Upper Lakes is an American-owned company and should employ American, rather than Canadian, seamen.

Upper Lakes is controlled by Norris Grain Co., Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, which in turn is controlled by Norris Grain Co. of Chicago.

Chamber Staff Here Prepared For Summer Rush

Prepared to service summer visitors to Marquette is the chamber of commerce staff (from left) Caroline Bianchi, Executive Director Wyndal H. Hudson, Nancy Erickson, Secretary Ben E. Summer hours are from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Mondays through Fridays; from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., on Saturdays, and from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays.—(Mining Journal photo.)

Contests For Children Slated In Marquette In July 4 Celebration

Several contests for children are on tap during the Fourth of July celebration scheduled in Marquette on the holiday.

The celebration, which includes a parade, talent contest and fireworks display, is being sponsored by the Marquette Fourth of July

Booster Club, chairman for which is William Gray.

Plans call for the parade to be held in the morning and the talent contest and fireworks display in the evening. The latter two events will take place at Memorial Field.

James C. Engle, superintendent of the city parks and recreation department, has scheduled seven events for children at both Hurley Field and Memorial Field Thursday.

Contests scheduled are: Bicycle and tricycle parade (decorated units, sawdust box (digging for pennies), sack races, back-to-back races, ball-toss race, wheelbarrow race and one-legged race.

Engle said all events will be in the following divisions: Boys, 6 to 8 years of age, 9 to 11 and 12 to 15; girls, 6 to 8, 9 to 11 and 12 to 15.

The only exception, he said, is the sawdust box contest, which will be for boys and girls five years of age and under.

Booster Club volunteers and members of the parks and recreation department will be in charge of the programs at both fields.

Engle said cash awards will be given in all events.

Rep. Staebler In Marquette Next Week

Congressman-at-large Neil Staebler (D., Ann Arbor) will be in Marquette Tuesday and Wednesday.

He is scheduled to meet with friends and other interested citizens in this area.

Rep. Staebler will be in room 223 in the Post Office Building in Marquette from 9 to 11 a. m. on Wednesday to meet with friends and other interested citizens in this area.

Comments on Work
He said: "During the campaign last fall, I promised to give Democratic representation in Congress to those areas of Michigan which have not had it for so long."

"I also want a chance to see some Area Redevelopment Administration projects first-hand, and have an opportunity to meet and talk with as many people as possible. By doing so, I believe that I will be better prepared to represent the people of Michigan."

Rep. Staebler also will meet with local Democrats at the Hotel Northland Tuesday evening. He extended an invitation to all interested persons to join him for dinner at 6:30 p. m. and for general discussion at 7:30.

Besides Marquette, Staebler's trip in the Upper Peninsula includes stops in St. Ignace, Rudyard, Sault Ste. Marie, Newberry, Munising, Escanaba, Menominee, Iron Mountain, Iron River, Ironwood, Houghton and L'Anse.

In addition to his main office in Ann Arbor, Staebler has also established offices in Marquette, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids.

Edward A. Quinell, Marquette, is in charge of the Marquette office.

The left rear fender of the Alasimi car, a 1953 four-door sedan, and the right front fender of Hatch's vehicle, a 1950 sedan, were damaged. Both cars were driven from the scene under their own power.

At 10:13 yesterday morning a pickup truck being driven out from a parking place in the middle of the 400 block of W. Washington St. by George Corkin, Detroit, Box 874, Ishpeming, collided with an automobile being driven east on Washington by Hugo H. Honkavaara, 409 Silver St., Negaunee.

Right-Of-Way Violation
The right front door and fender of Honkavaara's car, a 1957 two-door, and the front bumper of Corkin's truck, a 1963 model, were damaged. Both vehicles were driven from the scene under their own power.

City police issued Corkin a ticket for a right-of-way violation.

Guard Units Leave For Encampment

Members of Marquette and Ishpeming units of the 107th Engineer Battalion of the Michigan National Guard left Marquette County this morning for their 17th annual encampment since the end of World War II at Camp Grayling.

"The 107th Engineers are going to camp one week ahead of the rest of the 46th Division, in order to construct squad and platoon attack ranges to be used by the infantry units in their training," according to Lt. Col. Austin E. Lindberg, Ishpeming, battalion commander.

"We will arrive in camp late this afternoon and move out to our bivouac areas Sunday morning. We will remain in the field until at least Thursday morning and longer if our construction tasks required it."

Historical Society Radio Programs Curbed For Season

Programs presented by the Marquette County Historical Society will be discontinued, as is customary, for the summer months by WDMJ, The Mining Journal radio station.

The radio programs, dealing with historical events in Marquette, the county and the Upper Peninsula, are presented throughout the balance of the year on Sunday afternoons.

However, because of the increase in tourist traffic at the historical society's museum in Marquette during the summer season the radio shows are discontinued in the peak travel months.

Historical society officials said the programs will be resumed this fall. The museum is kept open on a year-round basis.

Defense Money Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a 410-1 vote, the House has sent to the Senate the defense appropriations bill which one Democratic leader called "a token of our determination."

At $47,082,000,000, some $2 billion less than the administration requested for the next fiscal year, the measure is the nation's second largest peacetime military appropriation. The biggest: this year's $48,136,247,000 program.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, D-Mo., told newsmen he voted against it because "we haven't got the money."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has protested the trimming of the military budget, saying the cuts would cost the military 60,000 men as well as tactical air support.

City, School, Library Tax Notices Mailed; Levy Totals $1,464,021; Rate: $51.92

City, school and library taxes will become due and payable on Monday, with the total levy and tax rate being at a record high.

Notices of the tax bills were placed in the mail this week by City Treasurer Glen B. Wilson.

He asked residents going to his office in the city hall to bring the notices with them when making payments, since the stamped notices serve as receipts.

Start of Fiscal Year
Taxes for Marquette become due each July 1, which is the start of the city's fiscal year.

The total tax levy, including taxes for general city purposes, for the Peter White Public Library, for the public schools and the school debt service amounts to $1,464,021.25.

Increase in Tax Rate
This year's tax rate is $51.92, or roughly $51.92 per each $1,000 of assessed property valuation, an increase of $6.57425 per $1,000.

A breakdown of this year's tax rates and levies follows: General city purposes, $525,930 levy and $18.65 per $1,000 of property valuation tax rate; Peter White Public Library, $56,400 and $2; public schools operating expenses, $655,000

Smith Meets With League, Gov. Romney

City Commissioner James R. Smith has returned from a meeting of the board of trustees of the Michigan Municipal League held in Lansing this week to report on the league's "very profitable" all-day session with Gov. Romney.

Smith is a vice president of the Michigan Municipal League board.

Along with Gov. Romney, Glenn Allen, state comptroller, and Robert Danhof, legislative liaison for the Governor, attended the session with the Municipal League board.

Romney was seeking the feeling of members of the Municipal League board on state and local fiscal relations, annexation, municipal home rule, highway financing and legislative implementation of the new Constitution, Smith said.

Comments by members of the board pointed to the possibility of a reappraisal of the processing procedures of the Michigan Finance Commission, so that requests from municipalities might be handled with more expedience, Smith noted.

He noted that the Municipal League's state convention will be held at Mackinac Island during the first week in September, at which time the League may announce formal policies concerning the issues discussed with Gov. Romney.

sen, Marquette, with a detail of 20 men, departed on Wednesday to get the camp set up for the main body.

For the first time in its 42-year history, the National Concrete Masonry Association held its executive meeting in Michigan, meeting in Marquette, at the Northland Hotel.

The association is an organization of 515 concrete block plants in the United States, Canada and other parts of the world. Aside from the U.S.A. and Canada, there are nine firms in Australia, one each in Japan, the Netherlands, Panama, Ecuador, Venezuela and six plants in New Zealand.

The officers attending the meeting were: Lincoln B. Frazier, president, Marquette; Walter Underwood, executive director, Washington, D.C.; Edmund H. Brooke, Washington, D.C.; William Kengery, Atlanta, Ga.; Rudy Utiger, Denver, Colo.; Peter Muth, Stanton, Calif.; Warren C. Larson, Omaha, Neb.; Lyle E. Spooner, St. Cloud, Minn.; Ralph Walb, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Paul M. Thomas, Phoenix, Ariz., and Fred M. Smith, Kingsport, Tenn.

Next Session In Washington

After all day business sessions at the hotel, the group was entertained Friday evening at Willow Farm in Harvey.

The next meeting of the full board of directors of the organization is to be held in Washington, D.C., late in July.

Industrialist Here

A prominent Michigan industrialist, Jesse Besser of Alpena, spent last night and today in Marquette with members of the National Concrete Masonry Association directors in session here.

Besser is the head of the Besser Manufacturing Co., of Alpena which builds concrete block making machinery used throughout the world.

Besser, along with C. S. Mott and W. H. Treloar of Marquette, received state educational honors early this month.

The Besser company airplane landed at the Marquette County Airport yesterday afternoon and was used to transport some members of the group to their homes via the plant at Alpena.

1st Use Of Noa Home Set Tomorrow

ESCANABA — The Bishop Noa Home for Senior Citizens will be used for the first time since it closed its doors as the Delta Hotel tomorrow evening when a dinner is served to the priests who participate in the field Mass to be presented at 4 p. m. in Ludington Park on the first day of Escanaba's Centennial.

A meeting of the Bishop Baraga Association devoted to the cause of canonization of the first bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Marquette will be held at the Noa home after the dinner.

The date for the opening of the Noa Home is not set yet. The arrival time of the Sisters of Chartres who will staff the home has not been fixed nor has an administrator of the home been named and it must be approved by health and fire safety officials before opening.

New Addition

Work is progressing on the new addition to the building, and conversion of the former hotel has progressed sufficiently to permit the dinner for the clergy after the field Mass.

The Mass will be held at 4:15

Swim Classes Here Begin On Monday

10 to 10:45 a. m., advanced beginning for six to nine-year-olds and beginning for eight to 11-year-olds.

11 to 11:45 a. m., beginning swimming for five to seven-year-olds. All classes are filled except for swimming and diving and intermediate swimming. James C. Engle, parks and recreation superintendent, said.

Sunday after a procession from the Noa Home. The order of march will be: Color guard, small children in Centennial costumes, combined children's choirs, women in Centennial dress, Holy Name High School Band, men in Centennial dress, altar boys, 4th degree Knights of Columbus, Dominican Brothers from the Dominican House of Studies Camp (Hayward Bay), seminarians and priests.

The Most. Rev. Thomas L. Noa, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Marquette, and monsignori of the diocese will review the procession. The Rev. Charles J. Carmody, Marquette, Bishop Baraga Association historian and secretary will be the preacher; the Rev. Dominic Zadra is master of ceremonies to the bishop and Rev. Charles Olivier of Marquette is master of ceremonies for the Mass.

Music for the mass will be by the combined children's choirs of the Escanaba schools and Dominican Brothers will sing the Proper of the Mass and the combined adult choirs of the Delta County Catholic churches will sing a sacred concert at 3:30 before the Mass. In event of rain the Mass will be in Holy Name High School gymnasium.

Republicans Cautioned On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two GOP senators have cautioned fellow Republicans not to "beat each other to bits" in a conservative-liberal row or paint the party "lily white" in disputes over civil rights.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York spoke out in the Senate Friday against what he said would be "a mortal threat to my party and a very serious threat to the country if the Republican party should go lily white."

"Misplaced Zeal" In San Francisco, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told the Young Republican National Federation that "with misplaced zeal and unduly violent clashes of opinion, we can cripple ourselves grievously... and lose the next election."

Scott also put into the Congressional Record a statement in which he said he did not know of a single "responsible Republican leader who is not morally committed to the fundamental principle of equal rights for all Americans, regardless of race."

These statements reflected obviously mounting fears by the party's liberals, represented by Javits, and its moderates, represented by Scott, that adherents of conservative Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., may be steering the Republican elephant on trails they don't want to travel. Javits said it was one thing for a "leading candidate" for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination—meaning Goldwater—to oppose the central provision of President Kennedy's civil rights program, a proposal to enforce racial desegregation on privately owned firms serving the public.

Quite Another

But it was quite another thing, Javits said, for the party of Abraham Lincoln to permit itself to be tagged as in any way segregationist. He said no civil rights program is going to be enacted without Republican support.

Polluting Lake Superior

The St. Paul District of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, which has jurisdiction over Lake Superior waters, has been endeavoring to enforce a statute against pollution of navigable waterways. The district's operations division has circulated a bulletin urging persons observing violations of this statute to inform district headquarters of the violations.

Increased use by commercial navigation and by pleasure and recreational craft of the navigable waters of Lake Superior and other waters within the district has emphasized the increased seriousness of pollution by all types of refuse. From time to time, The Mining Journal has received communications from readers protesting the dumping of refuse in Lake Superior that subsequently became washed up on the beaches.

Peninsula Perambulator

The Rev. George V. Peterson, 55, pastor of Bethel Mission Covenant Church of Wallace and the Cedar River Chapel, suffered a heart attack in his home and was pronounced dead upon arrival at a Menominee hospital. Among his eight sons is Lt. Melvin Peterson of the U. S. Army, who is stationed at Camp Jackson, S. C.

A copy of one of the first maps of Michigan ever printed will be displayed in the Iron County Historical Museum when the building, which was donated to the county by Bethlehem Steel Corp., is ready by the Iron County Historical and Museum Society. The map, dated 1839, is owned by Harold Schneider of Bates Township. It is a reproduction of the original, which was titled "The Tourist's Pocket Map of Michigan," exhibiting its internal improvements. The Upper Peninsula is not listed as such on the map, but is merely designated as "Chippewa," indicating it is the land of the Chippewa Indians. Only settlements shown in the U. P. on the old map are Sault Ste. Marie and nearby Fort Brady in the east and "Menominee village" on the far southern end.

A 10-year-old Iron River girl will appear in Iron County Probate Court this week for turning in at least three false fire alarms. The girl admitted to Fire Chief Gordon Johnson that she telephoned the Iron River Fire Department at least three times to report non-existing fires.

He needed help to bring it in, but Jim Hulce, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hulce of Kingsford, hooked a 12-pound walleye fish while trolling Ottawa Lake in Iron County. The big fish was 32 inches long.

Death came unexpectedly to George Baldwin, 76, retired president of Edison Sault Electric Co., in Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. Baldwin, who spent 53 years with the company, retired six years ago. He has been one of the leaders of the Sault business community for more than half a century.

The Ironwood City Commission adopted a resolution accepting a federal grant of $55,000 for 10 water projects to improve water service in various parts of the city. Application for the government grant was made last November.

A resolution agreeing to waive interest, penalty and collection fee charges on the remaining portion of Hanna Mining Co.'s taxes was adopted by the Stambaugh City Commission provided the firm pays a portion of its taxes now to enable the city to continue operations without borrowing. The City of Iron River is expected to take similar action. Neither city can collect taxes due July 1 until the State Tax Commission rules on equalization appeals filed by Crystal Falls and Iron River Townships.

—Marquette—
Marquette people, that is a small number of them, received their introduction to lacrosse yesterday, and it was a pleasant introduction indeed, as they witnessed the Marquette team take the Portage Lake 12 to camp by a score of three to one. The game is hard to play, as it demands as much, if not more, hard work than football, and to last at all the men must be in the pink of condition, as they have to run miles over a field much larger than a football gridiron, getting the hardest kind of knocks all the while.

The movement being promoted by the businessmen on Washington St. to have that thoroughfare paved between Front and Third Sts., with bituminous brick instead of having it macadamized is entitled to the hearty endorsement of every citizen and the assistance of the common council. That Marquette's traffic streets should be paved has long ceased to be a debatable question.

The boats expected to load today are the Yosemite, Cadillac and Angeline with ore for Cleveland. The Pioneer is due Friday.

But, although the law against this sort of thing is very specific and the penalties provided are strong enough, there seem to be very few convictions under this statute, even though it is violated with some frequency.

The statute reads: "It shall not be lawful to throw, discharge or deposit, or cause, suffer or procure to be thrown, discharged or deposited either from or out of any ship, barge or other floating craft of any kind, or from the shore, wharf, manufacturing establishment or mill of any kind, any refuse matter of any kind or description whatever other than that flowing from streets and sewers and passing therefrom in a liquid state, into any navigable water of the United States, or into any tributary of any navigable water from which the same shall float or be washed into such navigable water, and it shall not be lawful to deposit, or cause, suffer or procure to be deposited material of any kind in any place on the bank of any navigable water, or on the bank of any tributary of any navigable water, either by ordinary or high tides, or by storms or floods, or otherwise, whereby navigation shall or may be impeded or obstructed."

Conviction for violations calls for a fine not exceeding $2,500 nor less than $500 or by imprisonment for not less than 30 days nor more than one year, or both. An interesting feature of the River and Harbor Act of 1899 setting forth the penalties is that one-half of the fine is to be paid to the person or persons giving information leading to the conviction.

Federal courts have held that oil and petroleum products may be considered as "refuse matter" and obstructive to navigation within the meaning of the law quoted. Every act of discharging oil or petroleum is a punishable offense under the act regardless of intent or negligence. The amount of oil discharged is not a test of guilt. The discharge of any amount, however, small, which can be avoided, is prohibited. The chief of engineers has determined that depositing of garbage as well as oil, petroleum products and other refuse into navigable waters is a violation of the statute.

Anyone observing a violation of the law in the navigable waterways was urged to report promptly to the Permits and Statistics Branch, U. S. Army District, Corps of Engineers, 1217 U. S. Post Office and Custom House, St. Paul 1, Minn. The report should include the time, date, location and party or company responsible for any violation. If possible, those observing a violation should obtain an adequate sample of the material being discharged and forward it to the above office with the report for use as evidence of the violation.

Strict enforcement of this statute could do much to curb the pollution of Lake Superior and its navigable tributaries.

CAMP OR PRISON?

Alcatraz has gone the way of Devil's Island as a penal institution. Federal prisoners who were in Alcatraz before it was closed in March will be imprisoned in the new federal maximum security prison in Marion, Ill. Closing of Alcatraz reflects a shift from a policy of imprisonment and punishment to one of correction and treatment. The prisoners will have the opportunity to take vocational training in electricity, carpentry, welding and similar skills. They will be able to work with sculpture, leather or painting in the arts and crafts shop. They'll be able to take courses, participate in sports and enjoy other recreation.

In fact, the descriptions make the Marion prison sound like a Boy Scout camp. But perhaps these advantages shouldn't be advertised too widely. They might encourage income tax cheating by men who have a housing shortage or who can't get along with their wives. — Detroit News.

Mystery Cloaks Vessel Lost In Superior In '92

(This story of the sinking of the Western Reserve, in which Capt. Peter G. Minch, son of the founder of Kinsman Transit Co., and three members of his family lost their lives, was written by George M. Steinbrenner, Kinsman vice president and a descendant of Capt. Minch. It was published in the Bulletin of the Lake Carriers' Association. — Ed.)

BY GEORGE STEINBRENNER

Thursday, Sept. 1, 1892, started out as just another routine day in the Perry-Payne Building, where most of Cleveland's Great Lakes vessel companies were quartered. The sound of greetings and laughter from surrounding offices echoed in the "well" down the center of the building. Office doors opened and closed as vessel operators paid brief calls to pick up the latest bits of weather news or exchange gossip of the trade. Others left the building to visit their ships on the waterfront.

Then, in midmorning, this quiet workaday course of affairs ended abruptly as rumors trickled in that the Great Lakes' largest and most modern vessel had sunk two days before in storm-lashed Lake Superior with a loss of 31 lives.

Finest Vessel On Lakes
The story began four days before, on Sunday, Aug. 28, when Capt. Peter G. Minch, widely known vessel operator, boarded his flagship, the Western Reserve, at Cleveland for a cruise up the lakes. With him were his wife, his 10-year-old son Charles and his daughter Florence, 8. Accompanying the Minches were Mrs. Jacob Engleby and her daughter Bertha, 9, relatives from Vermillion, Ohio.

The children were excited about riding the big ship, which was considered to be the finest vessel on the lakes. She was 300 feet long with a 45-foot beam and was valued at the then whopping figure of $220,000. When the vessel came out two years earlier H. D. Coffinberry, president of the Cleveland Shipbuilding Co., said she was "the strongest, best-equipped, best-manned ship that had ever left the yard."

Into A Howling Gale
The Western Reserve made good time to the Soo, arriving there Aug. 30. The younger passengers had enjoyed the changing forest scenery along the St. Marys River and looked forward to seeing the wide expanse Lake Superior. Their reaction to this experience, however, was never recorded. That night Capt. Albert Meyers, master of the Western Reserve and veteran of 30 years on the lakes, pointed his ship out of Whitefish Bay into a howling gale. Although the storm was severe, the vessel had weathered many worse, and smaller ships were riding out the seas without too much difficulty. There appeared to be no cause for alarm.

Except for the storm, the early evening was uneventful. Then it happened. Just as the ship's bell, faintly audible over the roaring wind, struck at 9 p. m., the Western Reserve shuddered strangely, and crewmen knew something dreadful had occurred. The captain sounded the alarm, and all hands rushed to the lifeboats. Crewmen went to their stations with fear and disbelief. Capt. Minch's concern betrayed the assurance he gave the members of his frightened family. The children shivered as they were herded into a small wooden lifeboat.

Harrowing Time In Yawl
Those aboard the vessel embarked into the gale in two yawls, one metal and one wooden. Ten minutes later the Western Reserve sank in 127 fathoms of water — some 60 miles above Whitefish Point. Within a few minutes the metal yawl capsized. Two of its occupants were hauled into the wooden boat, and the rest perished.

The wooden yawl battled throughout the night to stay afloat in the tossing seas. The gunwales were barely 12 inches above water, and the sea rushed over the boat again and again. The little craft seemed doomed. At about midnight there was a ray of hope for the 17 survivors—a ship was passing just to the east. They yelled frantically and tried to light Mrs. Minch's wet shawl as a torch, but to no avail — the ship, later identified as the Nesota, plowed past them.

Near dawn, off desolate Deer Park, Mich., one of the crew saw the beach less than a mile away. Just as it appeared that their prayers for deliverance would be answered, the yawl run upon a shoal and capsized, throwing the occupants into the water.

Lone Survivor
The four Minches, the Englebys and 10 others went silently to their deaths. Harry W. Stewart of Algonac, Mich., a wheelman, was the survivor. Swimming desperately through wave after wave, he finally reached the deserted beach, where he looked for other survivors, but saw none. Then he fell to the ground exhausted.

Later the same day, Stewart struggled 10 miles down the beach to Life Station No. 12, where he informed the personnel of what had happened. Search parties set out to look for other survivors.

Spoke In Hushed Tones
Meanwhile, anxious groups gathered in the corridors of the Perry-Payne Building. They spoke in hushed tones. It was hard to believe that the career of the large ship so proudly launched only a short time before was ended, that Capt. Minch, who had offices in the building, and three members of his family were dead.

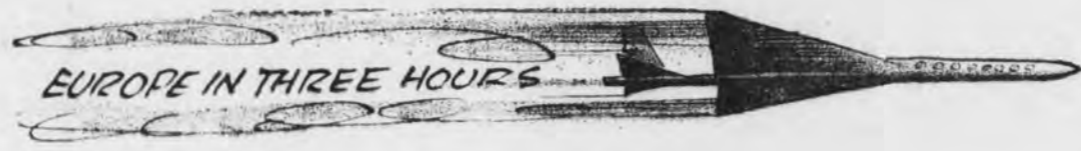

Communications were slow in those days, and it was not until Friday that the rumors were confirmed. Philip Minch, son of Capt. Minch, then set out for the Soo to identify his father's body, which had been washed ashore. The next day Capt. Thomas Wilson, president of the Lake Carriers' Association, called a special meeting of its members to pass a resolution of tribute to Capt. Minch and Capt. Meyers and express sympathy to their loved ones.

Shining Memorial
When the shock of the tragedy wore off, an attempt was made to figure out just what had happened. One report was that the great ship had cracked in two. This version was discounted, however, when Stewart told how he had run the full length of the ship to reach the lifeboat. Capt. Swainson, editor of the Marine Record, said the Western Reserve was the strongest ship ever constructed—and could not possibly have split. John Oldham, marine architect and agent for Lloyds of London which insured the ship, agreed. To this day the Western Reserve's sinking has not been fully explained.

In the years that followed, one light shone brightly to remind everyone of the tragedy. It was the ship's starboard lantern which had washed ashore on Caribou Island. It was the only part of the vessel ever found. The lantern was brought to the home of Philip Minch in Mentor, where for many years it was lighted every night in his yard on Route 20—a shining memorial to a famous Great Lakes ship.

Some Take The High Road

The National Whirligig

BY ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON — A lot of pessimistic twaddle is being talked about the forthcoming American-

Russian discussions in Moscow on a nuclear test ban agreement.

Assorted members of Congress such as Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson, (D., Wash.), who should know better, keep yacking that any agreement is "hopeless." Jackson even suggests the Russians will set off a few blasts during the talks, since July is good test weather.

Such chatter is twaddle because it does not face the fundamental basis of Soviet foreign policy, which is always to adopt that line which is most advantageous to the Soviet Union. It may be silly to hope that anything will come out of the Moscow talks, but it is just as silly to assume their failure before they begin. There is reason for hope in the fact that you never know how the Kremlin is going to jump until the very moment of takeoff.

Let's Look In Mouth
When President Kennedy suggested that negotiations be resumed, the Kremlin accepted with almost indecent haste. One of the reasons for this, of course, was the Soviet Union's preoccupation with selling itself to the world as an apostle of peace. But from past performances, it is also likely that the Russians have packaged a gimmick they think they can persuade us to live with — a gimmick that offers something to both sides.

If this bait? The answer may have to be yes — as usual. The gimmick may turn out to be an elegantly gift-wrapped gold brick. But with Nikita Khrushchev quarreling with Mao Tse-Tung over who's going to be boss of the Communist world, it is worth a look-see. It could be one of Khrushchev's ploys in his battle of wits with Mao.

Chinese Getting Ready
As this pew has observed previously, neither Khrushchev nor Mao are idiotic enough to want a serious split in the Communist bloc. They just want to run each other out of town. And a test ban treaty with the United States, which would put terrific pressure on the rest of the world, would be one means by which Khrushchev might keep Mao in his place as No. 2 man at Nikita's No. 1.

There doesn't seem to be any doubt among the experts that the Chinese Communists will be exploding a nuclear weapon, either this year or next. That blast will greatly enhance Mao's prestige in the Communist camp. But if the United States and Soviet Union meanwhile can come up with a test ban agreement, they could put enormous economic and political pressures on Red China to live up to the terms of that agreement. This the Kremlin probably would be willing to do, just as Sen. Barry Goldwater would be glad to sign a peace treaty with the labor unions to harass John Kennedy.

Time Is Essence
Talk is still cheap, and by now a man has to hope that our negotiators will be careful not to turn their backs on Khrushchev lest he bury a knife in their sacroiliac. If the Soviet gimmick — possibly a plan for long-distance inspections — is one that can be modified to please both parties a start will have been made. If it isn't, all we've wasted is time. And, with Mao breathing down Khrushchev's neck, he may have less of that commodity than we have.

Washington Demonstrations

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Would a massive Negro demonstration in Washington this summer persuade Congress — if it showed signs of balky — to pass President Kennedy's civil rights program?

Not in a hurry and not this year, if history is an example.

Three times in the past 70 years demonstrators have come to Washington to press for their ideas. Coxe's Army, suffragettes and the Bonus Army all tried it. Each time it took Congress years to do what the demonstrators wanted.

May Involve Thousands
Last Saturday Kennedy met with Negro and white Civil rights leaders. He warned them against undue pressure on Congress. So did Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

But the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and others said that if there is a filibuster by Southern Democrats against a civil rights bill Negroes will have a "non-violent demonstration in Washington." If so, many thousands may be involved.

It took Congress about 40 years to come around to the idea proposed in the 1894 depression by Jacob S. Coxe, a successful businessman of Massillon, Ohio.

Road-Building Program Suggested
He wanted Congress to do something about unemployment and suggested a big road-building program to create jobs. He rallied about 2,600 jobless men from around the country and led this "Coxey's Army" into Washington.

When he marched up to the Capitol on May 1, 1894, he was arrested for holding a meeting without a permit and damaging the grass.

It wasn't until the next great depression — in the 1930s — that Congress got around to creating the kind of make-jobs program Coxe had plugged for.

Suffragette Movement
Next came the suffragettes.

As early as the 17th century a few women in this country had called for equal treatment. But it wasn't until the 20th century that the Constitution gave them a national guarantee of the right to vote.

The real agitation by women for equal rights—and eventually the vote—got underway in the middle of the 19th century. As early as 1866 they petitioned Congress for voting rights. States began to listen.

By the time President Wilson moved into the White House in 1913 the suffragettes had gained strength, benefits and sympathy. They wanted a constitutional amendment to consummate a reform which by then had long been under way in the states.

Picketed White House
In 1917 they picketed the White House to urge Wilson to get behind an amendment in Congress. They were arrested and jailed and some went on a hunger strike.

Wilson pushed for them. And on June 4, 1919, Congress approved a constitutional amendment—the 19th—which then went to the states for approval and was adopted Aug. 26, 1920.

The next try—by the Bonus Army—ended in disaster. The army of jobless World War I veterans was run out of Washington in the summer of 1932.

About 18,000 to 20,000 of them came here from all over the country, some with their families. They lived in empty government buildings or built shacks on the outskirts of the city.

Two Shot To Death
These men wanted Congress to vote them a cash bonus. They stayed around for about two months and Congress quit without heading them.

The government got sick of them. Two of them were shot to death in a brawl with police who tried to drive them out of a building on government land. Then the city commissioners asked President Hoover to use troops to drive them out.

Four troops of cavalry, four companies of infantry, a mounted machinegun squad and six tanks went to work. They had the help of 300 policemen, and some secret service and treasury men.

The troops burned the hovels the veterans slept in. The veterans departed. Later, under President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Congress voted the veterans a bonus.

Middle Age Is When . . .

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Middle age is when— You spend more time visiting sick friends in the hospital than sneering in night clubs.

Everything that happens to you reminds you of something that happened before. You spend more time remembering than you do experiencing.

The government seems more of a foe than a partner or patron. There are no statesmen left in the world—only politicians.

You pick up a newspaper, glance at the headlines, then read the obituaries before turning to the sports pages. You feel kind of let down on the days when nobody interesting has died.

'The Old Days'
No present winter is ever quite as cold as the winters of yore. In fact no weather is quite equal to the weather that used to be.

You compare everything now, unfavorably, to what life used to be like in the old days. "The old days"—that is the phrase that comes often to your lips.

One of your deepest satisfactions in living is taking off your shoes.

When you read an old love letter your wife about why isn't she ready. Instead you take a nap until she is ready to go.

It irritates you to see a young couple smooching on the bus, and you silently ask yourself, "God was I ever that silly?"

Best Audience
You grumble more and smile less. You realize that every man is, after all, his own best audience—that's why you talk out loud to yourself more often.

When you read an old love letter your wife about why isn't she ready. Instead you take a nap until she is ready to go.

Awareness Of Tourism Hikes Interest In Peninsula Plan

Awareness that the tourist and resort industry has become increasingly important in the region's economy has hiked interest in what may be one of the nation's most ambitious hospitality programs ever undertaken in any state.

Three From City At CAP Encampment

Three members of the Marquette Squadron are attending the 1963 Wisconsin Civil Air Patrol's annual summer encampment, now under way at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Attending from Marquette are Richard Ganfield, David Olson and Donald W. Stone, all cadets in the Marquette unit, which is commanded by T. A. Veith. The Marquette trio flew to Chanute AFB from Green Bay. The Marquette unit is part of the Wisconsin Wing.

After establishing the area, CAP staff officers conducted a counterpart on the base for advice and help during the encampment. Major Turner O. Veith, an Illinois Wing CAP group commander, attached to center operations at Chanute, helped coordinate the arrival of the CAP encampment, along with Samuel Thvedt of center operations.

The 191 cadets and the rest of the 31-member senior staff arrived by air. The entire cadet section was airlifted from four locations in Wisconsin to Chanute by aircraft of the 440th Troop Carrier Wing and the Air National Guard located at Milwaukee.

The aircraft used were C119 Flying Boxcars and C47s with about 40 personnel carried in each plane. Required Program

The encampment is a required part of the CAP cadet training program. A CAP program nationwide is broken down into two phases. One of search and rescue for downed aircraft throughout the nation which is handled mainly by senior members and the other of a cadet training program for cadets of 13 to 18 years age group. Needed For Certificate

To receive the certificate of proficiency, the highest cadet award for training, a cadet must attend at least one encampment. Because Chanute is a technical training center, it makes an excellent encampment site for the Wisconsin Wing, Veith said. The CAP senior officers teach aerospace education courses during the encampment and the Air Force personnel also instruct courses.

Such subjects as weapons, the SM-80 Minuteman missile, propellant transfer, the Atlas missile, electronic concepts and applications, flight simulators, aircraft in general, aircraft engine, survival training, rocket engines, and the GAM-77 Hound Dog missile are covered by the Air Force instructors.

"It is hoped that the encampment will provide the cadets with a greater insight into CAP and Air Force life and activities by adhering to strict military life on an Air Force base," Veith said.

City Enjoys Nine Days Of Fine Weather

Scattered thundershowers were predicted for late afternoon and evening and tomorrow, the first rain after nine days of perfect weather here.

The last time the Marquette area had rain was on June 19. Since then, the sun has been out 100 per cent of the daylight hours on five days and more than 85 per cent of the time from dawn to dusk on all other days.

Yesterday was the sixth day in a row that the average temperature has been above normal, bringing the average so far this month to exactly normal.

78 Yesterday In City Temperatures since the rainy weather during the first half of June have been high in Marquette, but actually cool in comparison to inland areas.

By 9:30 yesterday morning the official Marquette temperature had reached the high for the day, 78. Then the wind shifted to off the lake and the temperature stayed in the low 70s during the afternoon. However, at the Marquette County Airport the high yesterday was 87.

With low of 57, the average temperature here yesterday was 68, four degrees above normal. Low during the night was 61.

84 This Morning Meteorologist Emil Ellingson pointed out this morning that the relative humidity has been fairly high for the high temperatures. At 10 this morning the mercury was up to 84.

There were thundershowers this morning west of Marquette, both at Duluth and Ashland, making the thundershower prediction for the Marquette area "almost a sure thing," Ellingson noted.

Low tonight is expected to be about 60. Warm temperatures are predicted for tomorrow, and Monday is expected to be fair and slightly cooler.

gan, proprietors and employees of tourist and resort facilities have been, and still are, learning how to become better hosts to the hundreds of thousands who visit this 15-county area every summer.

They're becoming better equipped, too, to pass on information about scenic and historic points of interest and about recreational facilities throughout the Peninsula.

Hospitality Schools Held Called "It Pays To Know," the program is co-sponsored by the Upper Michigan Tourist Association and Michigan State University's Extension Service. On the county level, two-hour hospitality schools and tours to local points of interest are under the direction of Chambers of Commerce and MSU extension directors.

Those who pass tests at conclusion of the hospitality course will be issued certificates and CHUM (Certified Host of Upper Michigan) buttons.

Through this program, sponsors believe visitors will be served better, become more aware of what the Upper Peninsula offers in scenic and recreational attractions, and return dividends in increased tourist patronage.

As a lure to the tourist and resort service people themselves, prizes are offered the "best hosts." These will be determined by teams of shoppers, who will travel through the Peninsula sometime this summer.

Grade Employees Unidentified, they'll visit motels, hotels, resorts, service stations, restaurants and other facilities catering to travelers, seeking service and asking questions, then grading each person who waits on them.

Prizes are being offered on both the county and U.P. levels. "All communities in Upper Michigan need more business, and the tourist industry holds great promise for expansion," an official of the program-sponsoring Tourist Association declared. "Establishments serving tourists and their employees can, we believe, make more money through improved hosting."

"From reports we have received, many businesses which did not participate in the program in 1962, have taken establishments serving tourists and their employees can, we believe, make more money through improved hosting."

Interest in the program has been expressed by groups outside the Upper Peninsula, and several promotional organizations said they plan to institute similar hospitality improvement campaigns if the U.P. program is successful.

Such subjects as weapons, the SM-80 Minuteman missile, propellant transfer, the Atlas missile, electronic concepts and applications, flight simulators, aircraft in general, aircraft engine, survival training, rocket engines, and the GAM-77 Hound Dog missile are covered by the Air Force instructors.

Youth Asks Trial; Four Persons Fined

Four persons were ordered to pay a total of $50.10 in fines and costs and another asked for a trial when they appeared in municipal court this week before Judge Edward J. Ambrowski.

Frank A. Berry, 18, of 307 Sandstone St., asked for a hearing before the court when arraigned on a charge of simple assault, to which he pleaded not guilty.

The hearing was scheduled for today but later was postponed indefinitely because of the inability of a witness to appear this week in court.

City police said the complaint was signed by Darlene Montagna, 334 W. Hampton St., who charged she was injured when Berry and a companion of hers got into a fight at the corner of Hampton and Division Sts., Sunday.

John F. Fluette, 22, of 1313 Logan St., paid a $15 fine and $5.10 costs for consuming beer in a motor vehicle. City police arrested him at the corner of W. Washington and Fourth Sts. early yesterday.

"running" a flashing railroad signal at the Soo Line Railroad Co. crossing at the corner of Baraga Ave. and S. Front St., Arne O. Kilpea, L'Anse, paid a $6.30 fine and $3.70 costs. City police ticketed him June 21.

Excessive Speed Driving at an excessive rate of speed for conditions, Amanda A. Ryan, Gladstone, was fined $6.30 and ordered to pay $3.70 costs. She was ticketed Wednesday by state police after an accident on U. S. 41 in Skandia Township.

For a stop sign violation at the intersection of County Roads 531 and 400 in Clooolay Township, Carolyn M. Severenes, K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, paid a $6.30 fine and $3.70 costs. She was ticketed June 22 by state police.

As seen by his jumping companion, a member of the U. S. Navy parachute exhibition team, "The Chuting Stars," is shown hurling earthward at 120 mph during a 60-second free fall from 12,500 feet.

Chuting Stars At Escanaba's Centennial

ESCANABA—The U. S. Navy's famed Chuting Stars parachute team from the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., will perform at the Escanaba Centennial on its opening day, Sunday.

The Chuting Stars will perform at 2:15 p. m. Their maneuvers will be observed over a wide area as they ball out at 12,500 feet, but most spectators will be in Ludington Park, and those who wish to see the full show will go to Escanaba Airport, where landings will be made in a small target area. Special parking arrangements have been made at the airport.

Specially Designed Equipment The Chuting Stars were organized as a temporary unit to perform at the 50th anniversary of the Pensacola Station and were so popular that the organization was continued. It has traveled over 100,000 miles to give 86 exhibitions before an estimated 10 million spectators since 1960.

At first the team used standard Navy parachutes modified to give control of movement, but soon the team developed specially designed equipment and were using multi-colored parachutes, jump suits, boots, helmets and other items.

Variety Of Maneuvers The success of the team was so great that the Navy Department in 1961 made it a permanent unit and assigned it to the home of Naval aviation at Pensacola. The Chuting Stars have made over 4,200 parachute jumps since they were organized in 1960 and have suffered only four injuries.

The maneuvers performed by the Chuting Stars include a double cross over by two jumpers, baton passing in the air, a star burst by four jumpers who carry flare guns and a double breakaway by four jumpers in which they leap in pairs, separate and maneuver.

That's the situation after five weeks of civil defense hearings before a House Armed Services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

Hebert said the subcommittee will resume executive-session hearings July 10, taking secret testimony from Pentagon officials before it decides what to do about the legislation.

Hebert himself indicates he's for the measure. With millions of lives potentially at stake, he said, if Congress errs, it should be in the direction of caution. Hebert would be floor manager of any civil defense bill sent to the House by the Armed Services Committee.

The bill would authorize $175 million to provide federal incentive payments to public and non-profit institutions which build public fallout shelters.

It also calls for shelter construction in all federal buildings.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's $175-million fallout shelter program—its legacy that of a legislative stepchild—appears headed for a test on the House floor.

But the man who would be in charge of guiding civil defense legislation through the House conceded today it would take an all-out campaign to win approval.

And the administration's civil defense boss, while optimistic about prospects for House passage of the measure, said its chances in the Senate are dim.

U.P. Escapee Stands Mute In Court

Lester R. Ingram, 44, who fled from the corrections conservation camp in the Poreupine Mountains, Ontonagon County, May 18, stood mute when arraigned in Kent County Circuit Court in Grand Rapids yesterday on a charge of armed robbery.

The charge grew out of his assault on a Grand Rapids father and four children.

Ingram, the only walkway from the corrections conservation camps in the Upper Peninsula this year, was serving a sentence of 20 years to life, having been sentenced from Flint as an habitual criminal.

Yesterday Ingram was remanded to Kent County Jail, pending appointment of counsel.

Attempted Assault He is accused of robbing Robert Hartwell, 37, of his car, watch and wallet containing $172. Hartwell and his four children survived Ingram burglarizing a suburban Walker home.

The victim said Ingram threatened him and the children with a bayonet, bound, gagged and blindfolded all, attempted a sexual assault of one child and fled in Hartwell's car.

Ingram was arrested after a high speed chase by Grand Rapids police who said they found the other stolen items in his possession. He was sentenced from Flint a year ago.

Dear Abby....

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm sick of all this talk about helping people to "come back." What about those of us who have always been okay? Who helps us? I was married to an alcoholic for 15 years and finally divorced him. Now another alcoholic is ruining my life. She came to work here three months ago. I was nice to her. She confided that she was an alcoholic and a member of A. A. I told the others in the office because I thought they had a right to know. You should see how they reacted! You'd think she was a saint or something. She started dating an important man in the office. "Divorced" one day in the lounge a girl said to her, "You don't look like you've ever had a drink in your life." It was more than I could stand, so I told her the truth. I said, "You look hard and you've earned it." She ran out crying, and hasn't been to work since. Now no one in the office speaks to me. I was taught to be truthful, Abby. What has happened to the world anyway? I'm for honesty. Am I wrong?

still, an eloquent silence.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 14-year-old boy with $1,455.50 in the bank. I suppose you think that makes me rich. Well, as far as I'm concerned, I am poor. I got $1,000 from my grandfather for my Bar Mitzvah and the rest I got for birthdays, holidays and making the honor roll. It all goes right in the bank and I am not allowed to touch any of it. So what kind of a present is that? I would rather have a bird in the hand than two in the bush.

FOURTEEN AND BROKE DEAR FOURTEEN: You may be 14, but you're far from broke. Don't compare a bird with a buck. A buck in the bank could be worth two in the hand. And its not so apt to fly away.

DEAR ABBY: My wife claims she was MISS AMERICA of 1935. I would like to know if she really was. Can you tell me?

CURIOUS DEAR CURIOUS: If your wife was Henrietta Leaver of Pittsburgh, "The Million Dollar Baby from the Five-and-Ten Cent Store," she was indeed Miss America of 1935. Otherwise, she hasn't a beautiful leg to stand on.

Johnnie Adams' Trucks Got Together Recently

MAYSVILLE Ky. (AP) — Johnnie Adams sent two of his delivery trucks on runs to separate sections of the city recently.

An hour later he got a telephone call from police. The trucks collided head-on, causing considerable damage to both.

The pterodactyl of prehistoric times was a flying reptile.

U-M Quartet Appearing In N-M Concert

The University of Michigan Stanley Quartet will play one of a group of 10 summer concerts in Marquette.

Members of the group, appearing at Northern Michigan University's Kaye Auditorium on July 22, are Gilberto Ross and Gustave Ross, violins; Robert Courte, viola, and Jerome Jelinek, cello.

The quartet will also play three concerts in Ann Arbor, two in Detroit two in Grand Rapids, one in Mount Pleasant and one in Houghton. The latter concert is scheduled for July 21 at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology.

The concerts will include a Haydn quartet, a Beethoven and a contemporary quartet on each program, including a repeat performance of the "Quartet No. 2" by Roberto Gerhard. This work was commissioned by the University of Michigan, dedicated to the Stanley Quartet and first introduced at the University's Festival of Contemporary Music last March. Two of Bartok's greatest works, the quartets No. 4 and 6, round out the contemporary offerings.

Clarice Puckett And Karl Seilo Married In Southfield Church

A candlelight ceremony last Saturday evening in Southfield's Apostolic Lutheran Church united in marriage Clarice Irene Puckett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Puckett of Green Bay, Wis., and Karl H. Seilo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Toivo H. Seilo of Marquette.

White chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church altar for the seven o'clock service, at which the Rev. Elmer Linnata officiated.

Mrs. Donald Zimmerman of Marquette was her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Duncan Puckett, their sister-in-law, Detroit, was bridesmaid.

Brother Best Man Michael Seilo of Marquette served his brother as best man and groomsmen was Dominic Bertucci of Warren. Seating the guests were Salvatore Tassone, Marquette, and Duncan Puckett.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of ivory silk-faced peau de soie designed with shallow scoop neck, short sleeves and floor-length skirt, bell shaped and featuring as back detail a small cluster of fabric cabbage roses at the waistline. Her veil of ivory illusion was held in place by a rose cluster identical to those at the back of her gown and she carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white calla lilies and statheotis.

Aides In Pink Both attendants wore dresses of pale pink silk shantung fashioned with shallow scoop neckline, short sleeves and A-line skirts, with headpieces of matching pink. The matron of honor carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of pink and white roses and pink carnations and the bridesmaid's flowers were pink carnations and pink roses.

Mrs. Puckett wore a bone-colored silk shantung sheath with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses to her daughter's wedding and Mrs. Seilo wore a powder blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Reception At Church A reception for 80 guests was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was served at the Crossroads Restaurant in Detroit.

The bride received a bachelor of music education degree in January 1961 from Northern Michigan University, where she was affiliated with Beta Omega Tau sorority. She is a kindergarten teacher in the South Redford School District, Detroit. The groom, a 1962 graduate of NMU with a bachelor of arts degree, did graduate work in communication arts at Michigan State University. He was a member of Northern's Masquerade Club.

Following a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Seilo went to Green Bay, Wis., where the former is taking a position, beginning Monday, with the North Central Broadcasting Co.

Guests at the wedding from Marquette included the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Tassone, and Robert Hodgins.

Usimaki-Lehigh

MUNISING — Eden Lutheran Church was the scene of the wedding last Saturday afternoon of Lorayne Alicia Usimaki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Usimaki, and Donald Darwin Lehigh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Lehigh. Officiating at the three o'clock ceremony was the Rev. L. F. Danner. Bouquets of white chrysanthemums, pink gladioli and pink roses decorated the church altar for the service.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white saten gown designed with scoop neckline edged with Venetian lace appliques, long sleeves tapered at the wrist and floor-length skirt, highlighted by a back bustle trimmed with satin roses and repeating the appliques on the front. A cap of nylon petals secured her tulle veil and she carried a white Bible with a crescent-shaped bouquet of white chrysanthemums and red roses. For jewelry she wore the string of pearls which was a gift of the groom.

Three Attendants Miss Cheryl Lehigh, the groom's sister, was maid of honor and Miss Carol Usimaki, sister of the bride, and Mrs. George Lucier Jr. were bridesmaids. All wore powder blue nylon dresses, street-length, with lace jackets and headbands in a matching blue. Their flowers were white chrysanthemums and pink tea roses.

Joseph Wright was best man and Dennis Johnston, a cousin of the groom, and George Lucier Jr. seated the guests.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors after the ceremony, and a wedding dance was held in the evening at Beaver Park. The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal party Friday at the Rudy Kelbo residence.

Following their wedding trip to points in Lower Michigan, the couple will reside at 220 1/2 Jefferson St., in Lowell.

The new Mrs. Lehigh is a graduate of Mather High School and has been employed as a clerk at Chevie's News. The groom, also a Mather graduate, attended the Davenport Institute of Business in Grand Rapids and is now employed at Kruger's Supermarket in Lowell.

Engaged

Dogs Problem In Rainy Weather

Daily brushing is doubly important when the dog is housebound by the weather. Frayed, clean, beach towels make comfortable bedding for the draft-free bed.

By KAY SHERWOOD Newspaper Enterprise Association

"Man's best friend" can be the despair of the homemaker during inclement weather. What with winter's cold and sloppy spring and summer rains, it seems to me our two dogs create more housekeeping problems than three children.

In fact, being housebound with the dogs last winter has made me highly conscious of a persistent, nagging problem — the tenacity with which dog hair clings to carpets and upholstery.

After checking with the Pet Food Institute, which has all kinds of experts ready to supply information, our family is coping with the annoyance. Normally, a dog sheds heavily in spring and fall, I was told. An indoor dog may not shed as noticeably, but he will cast his old coat and grow

No One Knows How Custom Started:

Bonfires Will Light Up Republic Area On Eve Of Fourth Of July

REPUBLIC — Youngsters in this area have been busy the past couple of weeks gathering old tires, lumber and practically anything else that isn't nailed down as fuel for the annual Fourth of July eve bonfires.

They're doing what their fathers and grandfathers did before them, for this custom of lighting huge bonfires has been going on in Republic for countless years.

No one knows the origin of the custom, which has been handed down from one generation to another. At meetings where the topic's been discussed, opinion has been expressed that it may be linked to celebration of a late-June Finnish holiday. But others say it was "just started" many years ago.

As far as Republic people have been able to learn, this is the only community in the United States that ushers in Independence Day with bonfires.

Children of all ages up to 17 participate, and residents estimate that between 500 to 600 youngsters will be around the huge bonfires next Wednesday night.

Former CCI Worker Dies In Detroit

ISHPEMING — Herbert Tonkin, 79, former Ishpeming resident, died this morning at Oak Park Hospital in Detroit following a long illness.

Mr. Tonkin, who worked for Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. here for 53 years, left Ishpeming in 1954 after his retirement, living in Arizona until three years ago when he went to Detroit.

Survivors include five daughters, Mrs. Sam (Ethlyn) Kornblum of Detroit, Mrs. Grant (Pauline) Rowledge of Ishpeming, Mrs. Anthony (Phyllis) Sarousky of new Hampshire, Mrs. Raymond (Beatrice) Brown of Donaldson, Ill. and Mrs. Arthur (Carol) Anderson of Bisbee, Ariz., four sons, William of Royal Oak, George of Bloomfield Heights, David of Serra Vista, Arizona, and John of Detroit; 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowledge left today to attend the funeral which will be held Monday or Tuesday.

Bethany Church To Honor Oldest Member Tomorrow

REPUBLIC — The congregation of Bethany Lutheran Church will honor its oldest member at a social in the church parlors Sunday afternoon.

He is Victor Niemi, 95, a resident of Sarepta Rest Home in Republic.

Born Juho Vihtori Niemi (Lepiniemi) in Isojoki, V. I., Finland, July 2, 1869, he lived in Copper Cliff, Canada, before coming to Republic. Mr. Niemi was received into Bethany's membership Dec. 30, 1941, according to the pastor, the Rev. Leslie E. Niemi.

Mr. Niemi will be a guest at the social, which will be sponsored by the Naomi Circle of the Women of Bethany. All members and friends of the congregation are invited.

L'ANSE — For the fourth time, the Clements brothers of L'Anse have been honored by the Crown Life Insurance Co. of Toronto by placing among the top 30 agents of the company in world-wide life insurance production.

The brothers, John V. and Edward D. Clements, operate Baraga County Agency, Inc., organized by the late J. Edward Clements in 1908. They have represented Crown Life Insurance since 1959. Announcement of their production mark was made by John A. O'Brien, Escanaba, general agent for the company.

Champion Centennial Dance Tonight; Horsepulling Event Slated For Sunday Afternoon

CHAMPION — Champion was crowded with visitors today as the community began observance of its centennial.

This morning's activities included crowning of a centennial queen and beard contest judging, then a parade of more than 40 units moved from the Champion Mine area down the main street to the horsepulling grounds where prizes were awarded.

The afternoon program, at the horsepulling grounds, included introduction of guests by Edmund H. Thomas, Ishpeming, and a talk by Circuit Judge Bernard Davidson. Games and contests for children also were scheduled.

A chicken barbecue will be served this afternoon at 4. Tonight at 9 a centennial dance will be held in the newly erected building on the horsepulling grounds. The Rhythm Rockers of Baraga will furnish the music.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons are expected to attend the sixth annual horsepulling contest Sunday, starting shortly after 1 p.m. Saw-cutting competition will begin at noon.

Grace Lutheran To Observe 25th Anniversary Of Pastor

GWINN — The Grace Lutheran Church of Gwinn will commemorate Pastor Edward Leppaluoto's 25th anniversary of his ordination into the ministry Sunday.

Divine worship services will be held at 8 a. m. in Finnish and at 10:15 a. m. in English. Pastor Earl E. Bergh, missionary to Japan, will be guest pastor at the latter services. Besides his message, he and his wife will sing a duet.

Dinner will be served by the church women in the church dining hall following the services.

Pastor Leppaluoto graduated from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., and Suomi Seminary and was ordained in Virginia, Minn., June 15, 1938. He held pastorates in Fort Bragg and Berkeley, Calif., and New Castle, Pa., and has been pastor of Gwinn's Grace Lutheran Church the last five years. He also had charge of Immanuel Lutheran Church of Negaunee in 1938-'39 before moving west.

Members and friends of Grace Lutheran Church are invited to Sunday's events.

E. J. Trihey, Michigamme, Dead At 71

MICHIGAMME — Edward James Trihey, 71, Michigamme, died last night in the medical section of Morgan Heights Sanatorium, where he had been a patient since Sunday.

He was born in Michigamme Oct. 31, 1891, and was a life-long resident of the community. He was proprietor of the Beacon Grocery in Champion for 20 years and a member of St. Agnes Church of Michigamme.

Survivors include his wife, Vera; a brother, Thomas J. Trihey of Everett, Wash., and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body is in the Bjork & Zhukie Funeral Home, where friends may call after 7 tonight. The rosary will be recited tomorrow night at 9.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in St. Agnes Church, with the Rev. John Ryan officiating. Burial will be made in Lakeview Cemetery.

Danger Of Road Collapse In U. P. Believed Past

IRON RIVER (AP)—There now appears to be no danger that a section of highway U.S. 2 at Iron River might collapse into an abandoned mine, the Michigan Highway Department reports.

The department posted a 24-hour watch on a 200-foot section of the highway a month ago after area residents reported underground rumblings and vibrations.

County mine inspectors said shifting of stone and earth in the abandoned Delta Mine, on the edge of the highway and about 190 feet underground, apparently was the cause.

They said any cave-ins would occur within two or three weeks after the first rumblings were heard on May 24. The around-the-clock watch will be called off after Sunday.

New York Schrimpe Needs No Ladder

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Painter Fred Schrimpe, 6 feet 4 inches tall, also has 35-inch arms to help him daub eight-foot high ceilings from the floor with no difficulty.

Schrimpe, currently working on an 18-apartment project, attends to the high spots while two associates take the low rows.

James J. Kane, managing agent for the new apartments, says prospective tenants inspecting the buildings "never fail to make a quick double-take when they see Fred painting ceilings from the floor."

OSCAR LARSON

NEGAUNEE — Services for Oscar Larson, 85, who died in his home, 103 E. Peck St., Thursday, will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon in the Perala Funeral Home. The Rev. William R. Sarvela will officiate and burial will take place in Negaunee Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning at 2 Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Larson was born April 19, 1878, in Philipstaad, Sweden, and was a resident of Negaunee 70 years. He retired several years ago after working as custodian in the Negaunee public school system.

Survivors are two nieces, Agatha Larson of Arlington, Va., and Dorothy C. Larson of Flint; a nephew, Norman E. Larson of Dearborn.

32 From Baraga County At Lake Nesbitt Camp

L'ANSE — Thirty-two Baraga County 4-H members attended camp sessions at Nesbitt Lake this week. The children enjoyed swimming and other recreational activities and participated in regular lessons on various phases of conservation.

Mrs. Elma O'Hara, L'Anse retired elementary school principal and enthusiastic youth booster, was senior counselor for both sessions of the camp. Others who assisted in setting up the Lake Nesbitt camp program were K. J. Mollanen, Ontonagon County extension director; Wallace Kesistalo, Houghton County extension director; and Miss Carolyn Crowell, home demonstration agent.

The camp was sponsored jointly by the Michigan State University 4-H Club Department, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and Federal Cartridge Corp.

The camp director was Robert George, extension specialist in conservation and education at Michigan State University, who is assisted by Mary Woodward.

4-H Camp Session In Conservation Ends At Chatham

L'ANSE — Gerald Girard of L'Anse, Baraga County's delegate to the 27th annual Michigan 4-H Conservation Camp held at Chatham, will return home tonight following a one-week camping session.

The camp was sponsored jointly by the Michigan State University 4-H Club Department, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and Federal Cartridge Corp.

The camp director was Robert George, extension specialist in conservation and education at Michigan State University, who is assisted by Mary Woodward.

2 Churches Set Schedule Of Services

ISHPEMING — Wesley Methodist Church and the United Presbyterian Church of Ishpeming will hold union services during the summer, it was announced today by the pastors of both churches.

Two services will be held each Sunday. During July, the 9:30 a. m. worship service will be held at the Wesley Methodist Church and the 11 a. m. service at the United Presbyterian Church.

Pastor John Duncan of the Presbyterian Church will be in charge of these services.

During August, the 9:30 a. m. service will be held in the United Presbyterian Church and the 11 a. m. service at the Wesley Methodist Church. The Rev. Eric Hammar, pastor of the Methodist Church, will conduct both services.

The two churches have cooperated in union services in the past during the Lenten season and this year the governing boards of both churches voted to unite for services during July and August.

The public is invited to services at each church.

City Council Promises Study Of Five Employee Proposals

NEGAUNEE — All five proposals submitted by Local 1415 of the Michigan Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union at a special meeting of the Negaunee City Council were accepted by the municipal governing body for consideration and a study of costs involved.

Following questioning of Grzenda by several council members regarding the various requests, Mayor Dorste Roos advised the union representative that the council and manager would study the costs of each item and give it serious consideration.

Negaunee Council Adopts Anti-Peddling Ordinance

NEGAUNEE — Unanimous approval was given a motion for adoption of a municipal anti-peddling ordinance following its third reading at a meeting of the Negaunee City Council Thursday night.

Designed to regulate solicitors, peddlers, itinerant merchants or transient vendors of merchandise in the city, the ordinance declares it to be a nuisance for those engaging in such pursuits to go in or upon private residences without having been requested or invited to do so.

Exempted from the ordinance is the sale or soliciting of orders for the sale of milk, dairy products, vegetables, poultry, eggs and other farm and garden produce.

Penalties for violations of the ordinance include a fine of not more than $100, imprisonment for not more than 90 days, or both.

Tourists Find Fishing Fine On U.P. Lake

Milakokis Lake in Mackinac County has been a delight to angling tourists the past few days. Here's how some of them fared: A Detroit woman caught five northern pike weighing a total of 44 pounds. A Columbus, Ohio, couple landed six northern in the six to eight-pound class. A Detroit man caught 12 smallmouth bass, the largest five pounds, in a week of fishing. A Springfield, Ohio, couple took nine northern in the five to eight-pound class. A Lima, Ohio, man caught five northern, two of them weighing 11 pounds. An eight-year-old Springfield, Ohio, boy caught an eight-pound northern and a four-and-a-half-pound smallmouth bass.

One Convicted In East U.P. Goose Case

One conviction has been obtained in a case revolving around the slaughter of about 12 Canada geese that were released by the conservation department in the eastern Upper Peninsula last April.

Lloyd C. Lindvall, Manistique, federal game management agent, told The Mining Journal that Benjie Long, 36, pleaded guilty to a charge of transporting and having in his possession wild geese. Long lives in Paradise in Chippewa County.

Given Fine, Jail Sentence

Lindvall said Long admitted driving a car in which a number of geese were concealed in the trunk. Trout Lake Justice of the Peace Eric Wolkeck fined Long $50 and $730 costs and sentenced him to 20 days in jail.

The department released 62 wing-clipped geese in a remote area in the Upper Peninsula in hopes of establishing a new colony of these game birds there. A check of the area a few days later showed that 12 geese were missing.

Others Implicated

Lindvall said Long implicated others from downstate in the violation. The investigation is continuing.

Meanwhile, the Michigan United Conservation Clubs has called upon all of its affiliated organizations throughout the state to donate to a fund to replace the geese that were killed by violators.

These geese were purchased with sportsmen's dollars from the fish and game fund," the MUCC said. "We feel that MUCC, as representative of the true sportsmen in Michigan, should take the lead in replacing the birds and removing the onus of this disgrace from all outdoorsmen."

U.P. Provides Lion's Share Of Bear Kill

Out of an estimated 1,185 bears killed in Michigan during last year's special early season and during the deer season, 860 were taken in the Upper Peninsula.

L. J. Hawn, conservation department biologist, said an estimated 3,110 hunters killed 235 bears during the 1962 special seasons—200 in the Upper Peninsula and 35 in the northern Lower Peninsula.

During the regular deer season 660 bears were taken in the Upper Peninsula and 290 in the Lower Peninsula.

"The moderate weather during the firearms deer season apparently kept bears from denning early and resulted in a sizable bear kill," Hawn said.

Fine Pike Fishing In 2 Alger County Lakes

Excellent northern pike fishing was reported on two Alger County lakes during the past week.

The conservation department said northern pike weighing from 10 to 15 pounds were taken in Trout Lake. Sixteen-mile Lake was producing catches of pike in the 24 to 30-inch class. Johnson Lake north of Chatham also produced some large northern pike. Pike also were hitting on the Michigan River.

Jumbo Perch Caught

Walleye fishing was holding up well in Three Lakes in Baraga County, the department said. A six-pound walleye was landed in Lake Independence. Fishing for walleyes also continued good on Lake Michigan and the Michigan River, and walleyes were being caught on Teal Lake in Neenah during the night. Alger County's AuTrain and 16-Mile Lakes continued fairly good for walleyes.

Perch measuring 14 and 15 inches in length were still being taken from the south end of the AuTrain Basin. Good perch catches also were being made in Marray's Bay at Grand Island. Perch fishing was rated good in Goose Lake and the Michigan River.

Good Spots For Bass

Bluegills were being caught on Little Shag Lake and Deer Lake in Alger County produced some good-sized black crappies on worms and plugs.

Bass fishing was called very good on the AuTrain Basin, where large bass were still hitting on spoons in the south end and float catches were being made in the north end on "supersonic" lures.

Barriers Taking More Lampreys Than During '62

The number of sea lampreys caught in barriers on Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin streams flowing into Lake Superior stands at 8,237 so far this year, according to the Marquette office of the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

During the same period last year the total was 7,277.

So far this year, 7,286 lampreys have been taken in barriers on three Upper Peninsula streams tributary to Lake Superior, compared with 7,999 during the corresponding period in 1962.

Hares No Threat To Supply Of Deer Food, U.P. Study Shows

Snowshoe hares do not compete significantly with deer for food, a study conducted at the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station in Alger County.

"Hare consumption of deer food plants simply was not significant, under the existing population of deer and hares in the area," said Theodore A. Bookhout, biologist, in a report on his studies.

Studies were made within 22 fenced enclosures. Deer were excluded from a part of each enclosure and deer and hares from the remainder, making it possible to determine browse preferences and measure the amount of browsing by each of the two species.

"Fortunately, among the abundant plants few were preferred by both hares and deer," Bookhout said. "No species of plant available in quantity was heavily browsed by both animals. At the high of their population cycle hares removed only about one-fifth as much browse per acre as deer. Even this was only a small part of the total amount of browse available. Hare browsing played a minor role in influencing the makeup of the forest plant community and on quantity and quality of food available to deer. Deer themselves exerted by far the greater influence."

Bookhout's studies also turned up these facts:

• The average annual home range of a hare was 20 acres. Summer ranges were larger than winter ranges, and males ranged farther than females. The average distance a hare moved in one day was 462 feet, farther in summer and less in winter, more for males and less for females.

• Cover types used by hares, in order of preference were: Swamp conifers, alder swamp, open-fir-birch, mixed swamp hardwoods and conifers, northern hardwoods and grassy openings.

• Breeding was well under way by early April, with significant numbers of pregnancies by the last half of the month. The first litters appeared in mid-May. The average litter contained two or three young and an average female produced two or three litters per year. On the average, each female produced six or seven young per season.

• Parasites were rarely a serious factor governing hare abundance. A tick specific to rabbits was the most common ectoparasite. Stomach worms and lung-worms were occasionally present in sufficient numbers to be considered serious parasites.

Ontario Net Fishing Up During '63

Fishing in Lake Superior by Ontario commercial fishermen showed greater landings in all main species during the first quarter of 1963, as compared with the same period last year.

Landings totaled 146,000 pounds, valued at $24,000, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests said. Herring was up from 83,000 pounds to 98,000 pounds; whitefish, from 4,000 pounds to 12,000 pounds; lake trout, from 1,300 pounds to 3,500 pounds, and saugers up slightly to 18,000 pounds.

Fawns Left Orphaned By Doe Shooting

Two men who confessed possession of a slain doe whose killing left two fawns motherless and starving were fined $100 and court costs of $7.30 each by Justice A. J. Mortier of Gladstone.

John Sorby, 24, Norway, and Francis King, 34, Gladstone, paid the fines.

They were arrested while loading the doe into a small car at night by Conservation Officer Hugh Fisher of Escanaba.

The next morning two boys from a nearby farm looked for the fawns at Fisher's request. One was found by the boys where the doe had been shot and the other was found a short distance away. The deer, about 10 days old, were captured by the boys and held for Fisher. They were taken to the Cusino Wildlife Experiment Station, where they will be raised and released.

Trio In Canada Fined For Trapping Wild Canaries

Three men were fined $150 each in magistrate's court in Richmond Hill, Ontario, for live-trapping 13 Eastern goldfinches (wild canaries) that were seized by conservation officers.

The goldfinch can be easily caught by using a tame one in a cage set in a secluded area. It will attract its wild kin by calling to them. As the wild birds gather, a net is dropped over them. Male birds taken in this manner are sold to unsuspecting persons who believe they are purchasing singing canaries.

Northern Michigan OUTDOORS Edited By Kenneth S. Lowe

Sea Lampreys Decline, Lake Trout Increase, Fishery Unit Reports

By The Associated Press Lake trout may be on the verge of a comeback, the Great Lakes Fishery Commission reports.

The predatory sea lamprey, which virtually wiped out the industry before World War II, have been substantially reduced in recent years, the joint U. S.-Canadian agency reported at its annual three-day meeting at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Lakes In U.P. Get Warm Water Fish

Efforts are well under way by the conservation department to plant nearly 386,000 largemouth bass, northern pike, walleyes and muskellunge fingerlings in 28 Michigan lakes, six of them in the Upper Peninsula, where fishing success has lagged during recent years.

Drastic Reduction And trout have been increasing at an encouraging rate, researchers said.

A total of 8,847 lampreys was trapped at barriers in U. S. and Canadian spawning streams in the past year. Some 7,800 were caught the previous year. Both figures represent a drastic reduction from the 60,759 trapped in 1961 — when chemical treatment of spawning streams had not been completed.

Improved Trout Survival

When the U. S. and Canada signed the treaty agreement establishing the commission eight years ago, said Chairman A. L. Pritchard of Ottawa, "there was considerable doubt that this parasite could be reduced — let alone maintained at a level which would permit recovery of the fishery."

The plantings, most of them experimental, are designed to build up populations of these predatory game fish to a point where they can eventually help control stunted panfish numbers and yield more keeper-size catches.

From Downstate Hatchery

Campbell Lake in Delta County already has received a release of 1,500 young largemouth bass. Bass Lake in Gogebic County got 3,500 fingerling muskellunge and Iron Lake in Iron County is due to receive 3,000. Walleye fingerling releases in the Upper Peninsula, scheduled to start early in July, include Lake Antoine in Dickinson County, 5,000; Carney Lake, Dickinson County, 3,000, and Mitchell Lake, Iron County, 1,500.

All of the releases are being made from the department's Wolf Lake fish hatchery. Except in the case of largemouth bass, planting stock has been reared from eggs which were collected by department workers during the spring spawning season.

Robert W. Scafield, chairman of the Lake Trout Rehabilitation Committee, said the U. S. and Canadian fishing samples indicated improved trout survival — especially for older and larger fish. Average size and availability increased generally, he said.

Inventory Of 3 U.P. State Forests Begun

Conservation department foresters this week began the summer-long job of reexamining timber resources of three Upper Peninsula state forests to provide updated guidelines for managing these public lands.

During the next few months, they will check some 32,000 marked trees in Michigan's Sturgeon River and Escanaba River state forests.

The inventory will tell foresters how fast these trees have grown since they were last surveyed in 1956, and the number that are in good or poor condition. Equally important, it will indicate the volume, size, quality and kind of wood ready for harvesting or growing for future production in the three state forests which embrace nearly 500,000 acres.

The survey also will determine timber losses caused by fires, insects, disease and other factors during the last seven years.

Similar surveys have been rotated in most of Michigan's other 20 state forests since the department launched its continuous forest inventory program in 1950. Besides shaping the course of forest management, the program has provided a valuable source of information for planning by timber industries.

These Are Sportsmen?

THEY send threatening letters to burn forests they are supposed to love . . . and they call themselves sportsmen. They violate laws just for the thrill of it . . . and they call themselves sportsmen. They criticize, verbally abuse and send degrading letters to those managing and protecting their resources, yet offer no constructive alternatives. And they call themselves sportsmen.

THE hunting and fishing ranks are riddled with this species of "sportsmen." Though a minority group, its voice is loud, domineering, persistent. Arguments are persuasive, yet filled with omissions. But the intensity of presentation sways the uninformed and silences the timid. Indifference too often runs rampant among real sportsmen. Rather than affiliate themselves with some members of their fraternity, they do not attend hearings or express their views.

THERE are exceptions. They are the ones who study conservation and try to gather facts. They are the ones who may disagree with policies, but who offer alternatives with their criticism. They are the ones who can argue without giving offense; who are willing to accept proof; and whose ulterior motives are not those of greed and destruction. For those people we have respect. From them come ideas which may improve resource management.

FOR those who threaten to burn forests if the deer party permit is not repealed, who take four deer or 30 walleyes and complain there is a shortage, who humiliate conservation personnel before a group, knowing full well they cannot retaliate . . . we have nothing but contempt. All they have to offer is a black smear over the word "sportsman." We have seen the degrading letters sent to department personnel. We have watched while these men have silently withstood a vulgar, stinging tongue-lashing. And we have listened to belittling arguments based on distorted facts. We have been tempted to become indifferent. But this we cannot do. Nor can you, the real sportsman. For it is our right, our privilege, our responsibility to be interested, informed and willing to take a stand. The resources of this state belong to you and me. It we allow a radical minority group to speak for us, we are prostituting one of our greatest inheritances. We can criticize policies and offer suggestions. And we can fight with fervor for what we believe. But aren't we also obligated to protect and support that which we think is right? Here we are falling.—Ben Lewis in the Wausau (Wis.) Daily Record-Herald.

State forest signs are paid for out of general tax monies. They are made of wood by corrections-conservation

39 Fishers Imported To Idaho From Canada

The Idaho Fish and Game Department has imported some 39 wild fishers from British Columbia, where they were live-trapped, and released them in remote areas of the state in an effort to restore a rare and interesting species of wildlife to its native range in Idaho.

The fisher, which is a member of the weasel tribe and resembles a marten, may help control porcupine populations and may even be harvested again as a furbearing animal if it can be successfully re-established.

It happened on St. Martin's Point in Marquette Township, Mackinac County.

All evidence indicated that a trapped deer, doomed to die, was attacked by a bobcat and, in its wild thrashing around, managed to kick the cat and inflict fatal injuries.

Head Became Caught Someone had placed salt in a hollow pine stump. The deer obviously attempted to get at the salt under the stump, among the roots. The animal's head became caught.

The cat must have approached the deer, and probably attacked it while it was floundering desperately trying to get free. Ultimately, the deer's neck was broken. Only explanation for the body of the cat beside the stump is that it was kicked by the deer.

The only similar incident of record also occurred in the Upper Peninsula, about 15 years ago, when a deer and a bobcat were found dead together. In this case, marks on the deer's back indicated the cat had leaped on it, probably from a low tree. The bodies of the animals were still intact when this incident came to light. The deer definitely had crushed the cat's skull with a kick.

These 15-by-20 foot leveled spaces on ridge crests will be used to facilitate the movement of fire-fighters and enable them to reach spot fires with more speed. For example, "smoke jumpers," who parachute into wilderness areas to fight fires, will be picked up by helicopters instead of having to hike out, making the jumpers available sooner for other fires.

Vandals are damaging public fishing site signs and directional and informational signs on state forests in the Upper Peninsula. Law enforcement agencies are investigating the damage. Persons arrested will be prosecuted to the limit of the law, the conservation department said. Public fishing site signs are paid for from fishing license funds at a cost of about $25 each. State forest signs are paid for out of general tax monies. They are made of wood by corrections-conservation tion camp crews. At left above Donald Zettle, Marquette, regional forester for the department, inspects a public fishing site sign that was blasted at close range with a charge of buckshot.
