RR's Back Kennedy's Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the nation's railroads announced support today of President Kennedy's proposed legislation aimed at averting a nationwide rail strike.

The action came as Congress took up the President's emergency plan under which the Interstate Commerce Commission would be given unprecedented authority to pass on the four-year-long dispute over work rules and hold off a strike for at least two years.

Representatives of the five operating unions still are considering the position they will take on the President's plan.

Carriers have announced they will put controversial new manpower-cutting work rules into effect.

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts said every effort will be made in the House for "as speedy action as possible" on the presidential plan to refer the whole dispute over what the railroads call "featherbedding" to the Interstate Commerce Commission for binding judgment that would apply for at least two years.

Carter, 20, Airman At Sawyer Air Base, Drowns In Superior

A 20-year-old airman from K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base drowned shortly before noon yesterday in Lake Superior, off Shiras Park, in the Picnic Rocks area.

It was the second drowning in Marquette in less than a month. The other victim was an eight-year-old girl who drowned June 29 in the Quarry Pool.

The victim in yesterday's drowning was George Carter, 56th Air Police Squadron, whose home is in Brooklyn, N.Y. The drowning occurred at approximately 11:50 a.m., city police said.

Carter had been on the beach since 9 a.m. with two companions, Richard A. Olson and Vincent William O'Brien, both of whose also are airmen at Sawyer Base.

At 11:45 a.m., Olson and Carter decided to swim out to "third rock." They waded out as far as they could and then began to swim directly to the rock, police said. Apparently Carter became exhausted and floundered in about seven feet of water.

Two Persons Hurt In Crash On Road 492

Two persons were injured and an automobile was wrecked in a smashup at 2:40 yesterday afternoon on County Road 492 in Neegaunee Township.

Another person was injured in a second accident reported by state police from the Marquette post (see story on Page 8).

In the Road 492 mishap, state police said a car operated by Lillian Todd, 57, of 320 E. Michigan St., Marquette, crashed into the wall at the Morgan Heights Sanatorium driveway, as she was attempting to make a left turn into the driveway after traveling east on Road 492.

Mrs. Todd suffered a bruised right cheek, abrasions on her left elbow and bruised ribs.

A passenger, Helen Trapp, 31, of 406 Waldo St., Marquette, received bruises on her head and abrasions on her right elbow.

They were taken to St. Luke's Hospital by a passing motorist.

State police said Mrs. Todd apparently stepped on the accelerator while intending to step on the brake as she was making the turn.

Extensive damage occurred to the left front of the automobile, a 1962 sedan, which had to be towed from the scene by a wrecker.

Three Hurt In Car Crash On Road KK

Three persons suffered minor cuts and bruises in a one-vehicle mishap at 4 p.m. yesterday on County Road KK, a mile and a half northwest of Big Bay in Powell Township.

The vehicle, a 1947-model, was being driven south on the county road by Joyce Hutchison, 16, of Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Hutchison lost control of the car when it struck a bump, officers said. The vehicle went off the road into a ditch on the right side of the road.

Injured were Nancy Tessier, 15, of 123 W. Ridge St., Marquette; Janice Hutchison, 13, Columbus, and Celeste Striehl, 15, Big Bay, all passengers in the vehicle. They sought their own treatment.

Minor damage resulted to the right front side of the car. It was driven from the scene.

The mishap was investigated by the sheriff's department.

Mrs. Long Dies At 75 In Hospital

Mrs. Sadie M. Long, 1008 Spruce St., died at noon yesterday in St. Mary's Hospital, where she had been a patient one day.

Born Aug. 25, 1887, in Hermansville, she had been a resident of Marquette 40 years. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church and of the Rebecca Lodge.

Her husband died April 16, 1950. Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Luella Owens, Marquette; four sons, Roy and Robert, Marquette; Clifford, Gladstone, and Stanley, Madison, Wis.; a sister, Mrs. Fred Lindquist, Au Train; three brothers, Leslie and Eril Sorenson, Saginaw, and Clyde Sorenson, Vassar, and seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 Thursday afternoon in the Swanson Funeral Home. Burial will be made in Park Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Five Plead Guilty In U.S. Court Here

Five persons entered pleas of guilty when they were arraigned before Judge W. Wallace Kent, Kalamazoo, in United States District Court here this week on criminal charges.

John D. Frew, 37, and Rodney K. Hutchison, 29, pleaded guilty to charges of transporting a stolen automobile from Livingston, Mont., to Marquette.

The two were arrested June 9 by Marquette County Sheriff's Officers and were placed on probation and sentenced to 60 days in the county jail when they appeared in Marquette County Circuit Court on check violation charges.

Sentencing Friday Pleas of guilty were also accepted from:

James J. Raminger, Menominee, interstate transportation of an automobile which was stolen in Van Nuys, Calif., from California to Menominee.

Donald Dalton, K. I. Sawyer Air

Force Base, embezzling, stealing and knowingly converting to his own use a survival kit valued at more than $100 from K. I. Sawyer AFB.

Frederick LeRoy MacDonald, a Canadian resident, arrested in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., after previously being deported in 1953 and 1957, for entering the U.S. without first having received permission from the attorney general to apply for admission.

Sentencing in these cases will be Friday at 9 a.m.

Not Proficient Swimmer

Carter was not a proficient swimmer, city police said. He had been under the water only a few minutes but apparently became extremely exhausted, they added.

City officials noted that the life-guard does not go on duty at Shiras Park until 1 each afternoon.

The body was taken to the Anderson Funeral Home, Escanaba.

Marquette Man Turns Coulee Dam Light Switch

Jalmer F. Swanson, 1029 High St., recently was selected from among numerous visitors to throw the switch at the Grand Coulee Dam in central Washington state that turns on a powerful bank of colored floodlights which play across the dam's spillway.

The event marked the beginning of the nightly summertime lighting program at the dam.

The main structure of the dam was completed in 1941. It is 4,713 feet long, stands about 370 feet above the surface of the river below it, and weighs about 22 million tons. Its height from bedrock is 530 feet; therefore, nearly half its mass is below the river's surface.

During spring and summer, the river is fed by melting ice and snow. During the peak flow, usually between May and September, the 11 drum gates at the crest of the 1,650-foot-wide central spillway are gradually opened and thousands of tons of surplus water pour over the dam, creating a waterfall half as wide and twice as high as Niagara Falls.

Carrie Nation, mother of the Prohibition movement, was born in Kentucky, the state that produces 80 per cent of the world's bourbon whiskey.

Pool Resources For Region's Development, Unit Told Here

A noted Michigan sociologist has urged the four institutions of higher education serving the Upper Peninsula to pool their resources into a knowledge reservoir for economic and social development of the region.

In medicine, agriculture and other fields, individual institutions have emerged into strong leadership positions in the state. Prof. Christopher Sower, East Lansing, of Michigan State University's sociology and anthropology department, told members of the U. P. Field Services Committee meeting in Marquette recently.

Race Dispute Flares Up In UAW Local

DEARBORN (AP) — White and Negro leaders of Ford Local 600 of the United Auto Workers Monday accused each other of profiting from the race issue. The dispute in the largest UAW unit flared when Local President Carl Stellato accused two Negro members of his local of "race baiting and divisive tactics."

The president of the predominantly Negro Trade Union Leadership Council, Robert Battle III, countered that Stellato himself "is trying to divide the membership of the local into white and Negro groups."

Condemn, Censure

Horace Sheffield, administrative vice president of the TULC and an employee of the International UAW citizenship department, was the second Negro attacked by Stellato.

In Ford Facts, the local's newspaper, Stellato presented a resolution urging the General Council to "condemn and censure" Battle and Sheffield for "their callous attacks upon the leadership of the labor union movement."

Stellato referred to an open letter in the TULC newspaper, Vanguard, in which Battle hurled charges of "inaction and retreat" on civil rights issues at Walter Reuther, president of the UAW; August Scholle, president of the State AFL-CIO, and George Meany, president of the national AFL-CIO.

Battle said Monday that Stellato over-ruled the council at a recent meeting after it had voted, with three dissenting votes, to table the resolution. "He has scheduled the resolution for the Aug. 21 council meeting," Battle said. Battle and Stellato feuded openly earlier this year during the election which Stellato narrowly won re-election over Harry Becker. Battle is supporting Becker in his appeal of the outcome of the election to the international UAW.

Omaha Firm Anxious To Bring Natural Gas To U.P., Moore Says

"It is the feeling of the Upper Peninsula Natural Gas Committee that Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha is sincerely anxious to bring natural gas to the U.P. and working very hard to prove that the project will be successful." So said Thomas Moore, Marquette city manager and chairman of the U. P. Natural Gas Committee, after returning here from two days of meetings in Omaha late last week.

Northern Natural Gas Co. is considering construction of a $30 million pipeline to serve the U. P. The pipeline would bring in gas along a 400-mile route from Duluth to Marquette and Escanaba.

"We have a chance now to get natural gas and it is very important that all prospective users give a letter of intent when it is requested by Northern Natural Gas Co.," Moore said.

He noted that the company will bring gas to the U. P. on two conditions, one, that the price it can offer for the gas is competitive, and two, that the potential volume of gas which the company can sell is enough to encourage it to build the pipeline.

"The company needs the cooperation of everyone in the Upper Peninsula so that it can bring gas here at a competitive price," he said.

11 Attend From U. P. Moore was one of 11 U. P. representatives who were flown to Omaha at the expense of Northern Natural Gas last week for a briefing on the company and the proposed U. P. project.

Others who attended the meeting were G. M. Harvey, Escanaba city manager; William F. Wilson, Marquette, executive manager of Operation Action — U. P.; James Stranahan, Ironwood, director of Go-Inc. Industrial Development and a fashion show, "The World We Live In," with Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, Miss America, and a court of Miss America state contest winners. The program was produced and directed by the Miss America Pageant.

A complete program for youngsters in attendance was held including an all-day sightseeing trip to Philadelphia.

Hear 30 Bands. Thirty amateur bands, choruses, musical groups, soloists, and special acts were presented during the convention period. Some were composed of Kiwanis members while others were Kiwanis-sponsored youth and adult groups.

Other highlights included an inspirational musical "In Memoriam" program; a musical evening with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians; and a special patriotic feature, "The Pageant of the Flag," presented by cadets from the Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air Station, who portrayed in costume, the history of the American flag and the flags that preceded it from the time of Columbus to the American Revolution.

Among the principal speakers was Ward L. Quaal, a native of Ishpeming, who is executive vice president and general manager of WGN, Inc., Chicago. Nyquist said Quaal's talk was frequently interrupted by applause and was labeled as one of the best at the convention.

During the past year Kiwanis organized clubs in Mexico, the Bahamas, Austria and Switzerland, adding to the international flavor of the organization.

Miss America Appears. An afternoon ladies event featured a fashion show, "The World We Live In," with Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, Miss America, and a court of Miss America state contest winners.

Trial In 2nd Day In Federal Court Here

A jury trial in a civil case continued into its second day in United States District Court here today, with Judge W. Wallace Kent, Kalamazoo, presiding.

The trial, which includes two cases combined, is an action to recover for injuries sustained in an automobile accident. Plaintiffs are Domelican Maria Datto and Mary Finco, with William E. Funk and Nicholas P. Krull as defendants.

Company officials pointed out that Northern Natural is a company that does business with small areas and small communities, but said it does not want to be known as a miracle worker, Moore said.

They told us that they are businessmen interested in making money on the U. P. project," Moore said.

Northern Natural Gas serves a population of 4,300,000. Its principal market area includes Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Its daily system salable capacity is 1,760,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas and it has under control 12.2 trillion cubic feet of gas.

Company President William A. Strauss told the U. P. representatives at the meeting last week that the company has natural gas available for the U. P. project, and has the funds to finance the project, but must make a very thorough study of every region which would be served by the project.

Makes Frank Statement. "We must be fair with the people we intend to serve, in that we must be sure we can provide gas at a reasonable cost, and we also must protect the interests of our 26,000 stockholders," Strauss said.

He said the company refrains from being overly optimistic and telling a region "we're coming in right away," because such an undertaking requires considerable economic and financial studies, overcoming many legal barriers, and a great deal of time spent before the Federal Power Commission proving that the project is worthwhile, in order to get permission to construct a pipeline.

Moore said Strauss indicated that the company "does a reasonable amount of gambling" if it feels that the future of a region is promising, even to the extent that it would be nearly five years before enough gas would be sold daily to pay for the construction of the pipeline.

Strauss estimated that the possible daily consumption in the U. P. would be 42 million cubic feet daily and the company would "feel more secure" if it could count on a daily consumption of 50 million cubic feet of gas.

Working On Legal Issues. The company is now working on legal proceedings necessary for the project and obtaining letters of intent from prospective industrial users.

Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. has not yet completed its study of whether it would be profitable to purchase natural gas, Moore said.

At the meetings in Omaha last week, Dr. Randall T. Klemme, Northern Natural Gas vice president, said that the company would "feel more secure" if it could count on a daily consumption of 50 million cubic feet of gas.

National Railroad Crisis

Congress is reported ready to act swiftly on President Kennedy's recommendations for legislation to avert a national railroad tieup, but Washington observers doubted that legislation could be enacted before the strike deadline at week's end. Best hope of averting a national rail tieup was in a further extension of time by the unions and rail management.

The differences which have come to a head in the rail unions' demands for work rules which are rejected by rail management have been developing for many years. The role of the railroads in American transportation has changed greatly. The railroads have changed some to meet these new conditions, but not enough to avoid getting into a serious financial pickle.

The railroads have slipped from a position of privilege and great power and assured earning capacity into a situation where they are trying determinedly to reduce their expenses for survival and to reorganize into bigger units. The men who work the roads, one of the nation's security pools of skills and famed pioneers in greatest arrangements and organization, have seen their security threatened with the decline of the railroads in the competitive transportation picture, but have insisted upon preservation of certain jobs as vital to train safety and the unions' training programs.

The railroads, on their part, have insisted that they must be able to change their operations and eliminate needless jobs if they are to stay solvent, move the nation's heavy, long-haul freight and pay their big tax bills.

As the two sides moved into stalemate in negotiations and an inevitable strike that would tie up transportation and knot the nation's economy, government stepped in to plead the public interest and seek a solution. The union managements rejected President Kennedy's plea to let U. S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, former secretary of labor, arbitrate the issues; the railroad managements accepted the proposal.

Peninsula Perambulator

Two young Canadian men, Alfred Peterson, 23, and Harvey Carlson, 22, both of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., narrowly escaped drowning early the other morning when they were pulled exhausted from the water off the west center pier of the Soo Locks near the International Railroad Bridge. Sault locks authorities reported their only explanation was that they were attempting to swim from the United States side to the Canadian side on a dare. When they had recovered sufficiently, the two were turned over to the U. S. Border Patrol and returned to Canada.

60 Years Ago

—Marquette—
The City of Marquette has a claim of nearly $1,100 against the county, and a resolution was passed at the council session last night, calling for proper steps for its collection. The claim grew out of the bills contracted by four men who were treated for smallpox when that disease was prevalent last year. The city attorney and one of the committee tried to determine the places where the men legally had their homes, as a preliminary for collecting the money. This, however, proved a difficult task, as the men were lumbermen of migratory instincts.

The first regular meeting of the gun club was held yesterday at the old fairgrounds, and a goodly number were out. The club already has a membership of nearly 40. Shoots will be held regularly on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Tomorrow night the cheapest rates ever offered for a round trip to Marquette will prevail on the L&S&I. Trombley's orchestra has made arrangements with the road whereby the round trip rate will only be 25 cents each way, and each purchaser will be admitted free to a dance at the pavilion at Marquette.

—Marquette—
Replying yesterday to a telegram from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the national industrial recovery administration in Washington, D. C., the president of the Marquette Chamber of Commerce pledged full cooperation here in carrying out the federal government's campaign to speed the return of prosperity and eliminate unemployment by adherence to the principles set forth on the national recovery act.

Michigan, especially the Upper Peninsula, will be permanently benefited in no small measure by the work being done by the hundreds of young men assigned to the state federal conservation and forestry camps, it was declared here yesterday by George R. Hogarth, director of the State Department of Conservation, who has spent the week inspecting the camps with Col. William A. Bergin, the department's chief in the U. P.

—Ishteping—
Latest estimates made by mining men indicate that iron ore shipments from the Lake Superior district this year will be about five

President Kennedy then got an extension of the strike deadline until this weekend as a final postponement. The President named a distinguished panel to study the situation again, but the maneuver is essentially one to buy a little more time to try to settle by negotiation a major economic crisis with huge political overtones. If Congress forces arbitration by legislation, labor will be offended. If the rail unions refuse to accept the roads' demands for permission to revise work rules and gradually unload 65,000 workers they say are needless and cut their costs $600 million a year, the roads will be denied opportunity for fiscal self-salvation.

Further deterioration would bring likelihood of a government takeover because the railroads are indispensable to the national economy and national defense. The American people would then be in a position so familiar in Europe, where the rail systems are mostly government-owned and subsidized. They do not earn their own way, so the nation is taxed for their support. The only economic alternative is to permit the roads to find their own fiscal salvation by changing their operating policies (and hence employment, service schedules and rate making) so that their traffic pays their costs of operation and permits a profit.

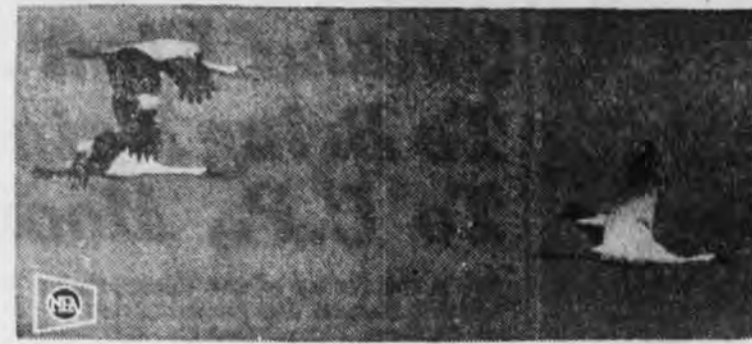

Our national political outlook on labor demands is friendly. Our national history is one of labor demands reasonably within the capacity of the economy. If railroad labor and railroad management cannot co-operatively determine their joint fate, the determination for government will be whether the roads shall pay their own way or be subsidized by the taxpayers. Such decision would involve ramifications that could unsettle the present balance of elements of the national transportation system.

U.P. Writers Picnic

The yen to write is one of the most tantalizing of human itches. Unfortunately, it afflicts some persons with more interest than talent and even in this era of prodigious publication it is often difficult to get a work into print.

In the Upper Peninsula, with its great spaces and small communities, a gathering of writers is as difficult to arrange as a gathering of water diviners, because writers tend to be lone eagles, but Mrs. Irja Harju of L'Anse and some courageous colleagues are attempting it anyway. They report that they're assured of a gathering of 20 writers or more from the Peninsula and they invite all the other scribes north of Mackinac to come, too.

The meeting will be at Pequaing north of L'Anse at 10 a.m. next Sunday. Northern Michigan University will supply the speakers and Mrs. Harju and her committee will supply the Finnish coffee bread, although they're asking the writers to bring their own picnic baskets. Writing is a solo performance, but even writers must like to fraternize, if only to lambast the publishers.

Bird Watchers Reach New Heights In U.S. In Numbers, Spending

BY WARD CANNEL

BOSTON — (NEA) — Say, did you get a dickissel this year? A grackle? A solitary vireo?

It turns out those questions aren't nearly so strange as the answer. Of all things, bird watching is beginning to take on the appearance of a new national pastime, complete with binoculars, score cards and murderously friendly competition.

Feathers In The Wind

From salt marsh to mountain ledge, a staggering number of Americans today can be found early and late waiting patiently to note and report the passage of goshawk, grebe, whimbrel, veery or other member of North America's 600 distinct species of birds.

Precisely how many people are out there is impossible to know as even your best friends may not tell you they have gone in for this sort of thing. But there are a few

Fashion Show Opens In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Jacques Esterel hedged on the hemlines as the Paris fall and winter fashion showings opened Monday.

Esterel, a favorite designer for movie starlets and other young performers in the entertainment field, accented gaiety and fun. But he laid down no edict on the hemline — some hit the kneecap and others dropped to two inches below the knee, leaving the wearer to make up her own mind.

They say a trip on the freeways can be about as tension-filled as one into space.

unmistakable feathers in the wind. Publishers report a booming business in guide books for newcomers. Record albums of bird calls are in constant demand. One bird-call whistle manufacturer rang up 450,000 sales last year. Binocular demand is so big that the competition is now international with Japanese optics taking the major bite of this immense market.

By far the best indication of the trend is the National Audubon Society's tally of an astounding 24 per cent increase in membership this year over last — a jump that does not include the burgeoning membership of another 234 state and local Audubon groups, or local ornithological or naturalist clubs.

Four Journals Published
In Boston, where the nation's first Audubon Society was formed 66 years ago to have the snowy egret from extinction via ladies' hats, membership is up to a record 7,500.

Four separate bird-watching journals are published here. A daily pre-recorded telephone message reports to frequent callers on what wing has been sighted in the area since yesterday. A recent two-day, 80-member camp-out in search of shore and sea birds left a long list of disappointed watchers for whom there was no room.

Pileated woodpecker is a favorite among bird watchers in the Upper Peninsula. A large and not common bird, it is usually found in heavily wooded wilderness areas. (Mining Journal photo).

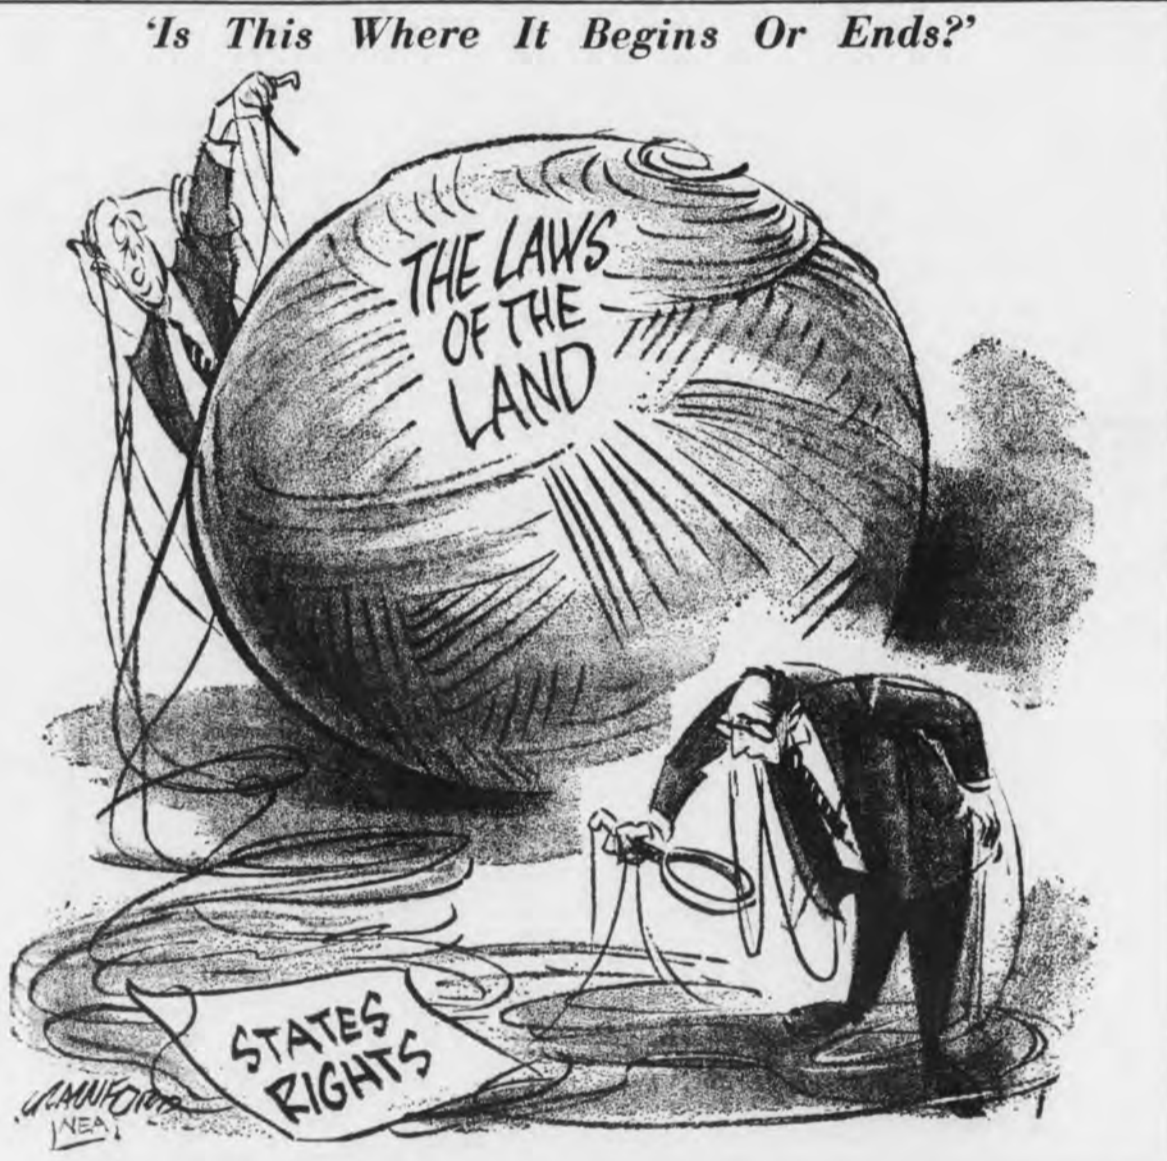

"Quite frequently," reports Mrs. Ruth Emery, editor of the journals for the society, "our members sign up first as grade school students."

"The young folks stay with us through their high school years, drop out for college, and then return — usually bringing their husbands or wives back with them."

Now, to this reporter the pursuit of the day from morning lark (2:30 a. m.) to night owl (midnight) — with only a checked-off field card to show for it — seems a dubious battle. And even at Japanese-made prices, the binoculars at about $35, the telescope at another $100 or so, the tripod, the guide books, the report cards all add up.

The National Whirligig News Behind The News

BY ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is being just plain silly in refusing to let photographers snap an occasional picture of him playing golf. By his refusal, he not only is admitting that he does play golf but is calling greater attention to what he apparently believes is a political weakness. It's hard to understand why a man with so much intelligence and charm as John F. Kennedy should take this stand except that he is self-conscious about it. During the 1960 campaign he frequently needed Dwight D. Eisenhower about like an obsession with golf and implied that if he were elected to the White House he would spend all his time saving the Russians from Khrushchev.

Razz Back To Rost

During a campaign, of course, a politician means only about half of what he says. Kennedy, a natural athlete, clearly had no intention of becoming an inert recluse if he were elected. Indeed, between election and inauguration he played golf frequently at Palm Beach. But he had razed Eisenhower so much about it he decided to avoid if possible having any photographic record of his own hacking.

The trouble is, Kennedy isn't kidding anybody. When he plays golf the reporters generally find out about it and put in print. The fact he makes a mystery out of it does him far more harm than any number of photographs, because the implication is that he's ashamed of it.

This is arrant nonsense. In the first place, the American people recognize that a President must have some recreation or he'll go batty. Secondly, golf has become an extremely American way for a male to get his exercise. Courses all over the country are crowded every weekend with grown men beating little balls to death, and there is a manly connotation to the tough-and-ready atmosphere of the locker room.

rich man's game and therefore suspect among the peasantry. Plumbers and shoe clerks destroy the greensward as efficiently as bank presidents, although rarely on the same course. When the duffer who operates a lathe weekdays reads that the President is having trouble with his putter, he feels a special kinship with the great man, and may award him a sympathetic vote. As for the rich men who still play the game, Kennedy's indulgence may persuade them that he is not so bad after all.

JFK Insecure?

Eisenhower never seemed to give a hoot whether anybody saw him playing golf. As a matter of fact, he usually permitted reporters to follow him for a couple of holes to give them some much-needed copy. Ike seldom bothered to clean up his language when he was in distress either, figuring rightly that the press would understand. And where reporters are barred even from entering the clubs where Kennedy plays, they were almost always permitted to commit their own horrible brand of golf at the same time Ike was charging about the course in his electric cart.

It is sad to contemplate, but it looks as if John F. Kennedy is suffering from a bad case of insecurity. He seems to feel that while the voters approved Ike's golf playing, they now look askance at the spectacle of a Kennedy slicing one into the woods. The President should relax and officially let the folks in on an open secret.

Except for a few sourpusses, the American people are surprisingly tolerant about what a President does in his spare time, so long as he does not lose Rhode Island to some ringer with a Russian accent. (Bell-McClure Syndicate)

Three-Way GOP Split

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— The standard Republican line now is that the Democratic party is so hopelessly split that it is completely ineffective.

This was the theme of the Joint Senate-House Republican leadership manifesto. Using President Kennedy's statement that Democrats in Congress would need Republican help to pass comprehensive civil rights legislation this year, Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen intoned the idea that this was a confession of Democratic administration disunity.

This raises the question of just how united the Republican party may be a year before its national convention.

Pretty Rough Affair
As a curtain raiser, speaking at the San Francisco convention of Young Republicans, GOP Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania urged that elements of the party "not best each other to bits." It seems to have been a futile appeal. Full reports on this convention, brought back to Washington by participants, indicate it was a pretty rough affair. There was wide-open feuding between progressive and conservative factions. And it was only by the narrowest of margins that the organization escaped a takeover by the far right-wingers.

What this fight indicates is that the GOP may be just as badly split as the Democrats. There is abundant evidence that the ultra-conservatives make up a much larger percentage of the Republican party than in the Democratic party.

Negroes Absent At Rally
On civil rights legislation in particular, the Republican party — even if it were so completely victorious in 1964 as to sweep the White House and Congress — would have to depend far more on Democratic support to put through an effective rights program than the other way around.

The Fourth of July Goldwater-for-President rally in Washington was notable in that there were no Negro Republicans inside the arena. The only Negroes around were in a delegation of Black Muslims demonstrating outside the hall—not in support of Goldwater, it might be added.

Actually, the Republican party today seems to be split three ways—not just two. There are GOP conservatives and progressives who correspond to the reactionaries and liberals in the Democratic party. In addition, there is the new Republican National Citizens Committee.

This modern and moderate element of the GOP is centered around ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his principles. But at the present time it has neither a candidate, a platform nor much of a following.

The 50 to 100 well-heeled Republicans who head up and, in fact, are the GOP Citizens Committee today, have as one of their principal objectives definite inroads of Democratic strongholds in the North and West. The Republicans simply have to woo Democratic voters in the metropolitan areas to get a majority.

To Reverse Procedure?
Perhaps the only way the Republicans can get a meaningful program for 1964 is to reverse the traditional American political procedure which is to adopt a platform, then nominate a candidate to stand on it and like it.

When the Republicans convene for their national convention in San Francisco next July they might try picking their candidate first, then let him dictate the platform.

If that candidate should be Sen. Barry Goldwater, the platform would read one way. If the candidate were Gov. Nelson Rockefeller or almost anyone else, it probably would be completely different.

That's how the Republican party stands as of today.

Congressional Procedures

It would be a great pity if Walter Lippmann's excellent column of July 4 "Strength To Govern Well," were to pass without the commendation it so richly deserves. Under our present antiquated congressional procedures, the variety of techniques for obstructing or delaying action upon important Administration bills is limited only by the ingenuity of those whose interest it is to maintain the status quo. Perhaps in earlier times the Congress could limp along in this fashion, but the case is different now. Mr. Lippmann quite rightly points out that governmental paralysis, in our present crisis, may produce grave injury to existing social and political institutions.

While I do not necessarily share his priorities, I wholeheartedly support Mr. Lippmann's proposal for a rule which would force the Senate and its committees to act upon important Administration proposals. In the last Congress, and again in this Congress, I introduced a resolution (S. Res. 42) which would require each standing committee of the Senate to consider any Administration bill referred to it within a reasonable time prior to July 4 and to report its recommendations for or against enactment to the Senate so that the Senate as a whole will have a chance to act upon it before the end of the session in which the bill was offered.

This proposal, along with numerous others, is now pending before the Senate Rules Committee, and two days of hearings have already been held. I hope that these hearings will continue, and that a number of the more important rules change proposals now pending will be favorably reported to the floor of the Senate before much longer. It is later than many think.

Religious Song Group Gives Concert

NEGAUNEE — Sponsored by the Calvary Baptist Church of Negaunee, a concert featuring the Rebels Quartet of Tampa, Fla., will be presented at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Ishpeming High School auditorium.

Organized 14 years ago, the quartet today is considered one of the outstanding religious singing groups in the nation. The group travels in excess of 100,000 miles each year making radio, television and personal appearances. Many of the record albums by the foursome are top-rated in the field of religious music.

Members of the quartet include John Mathews, baritone of Lakeland, Fla.; Horace Ferris, tenor of Tampa, Fla.; London Ferris, bass of Asheville, N. C., and Jerry Berry, lead of St. Louis, Mo.

Jimmy Taylor, a native of Georgia, accompanies the group at the piano and acts as arranger.

Mrs. Jaykka President Of School Board

ISHPEMING — Mrs. Gerine Jaykka was named president of the Ely Township Board of Education at the annual reorganization meeting.

She was one of two new members who were added to the board at the meeting, the other being Mrs. Elsie Mattson.

Other officers chosen were Glen Gordon, treasurer, and Harry Wing, secretary. The two trustees are Mrs. Mattson and Herbert Kelly.

School board meetings will be held on the second Saturday of each month at 7 p.m.

Guilty Plea Entered In Driving Case

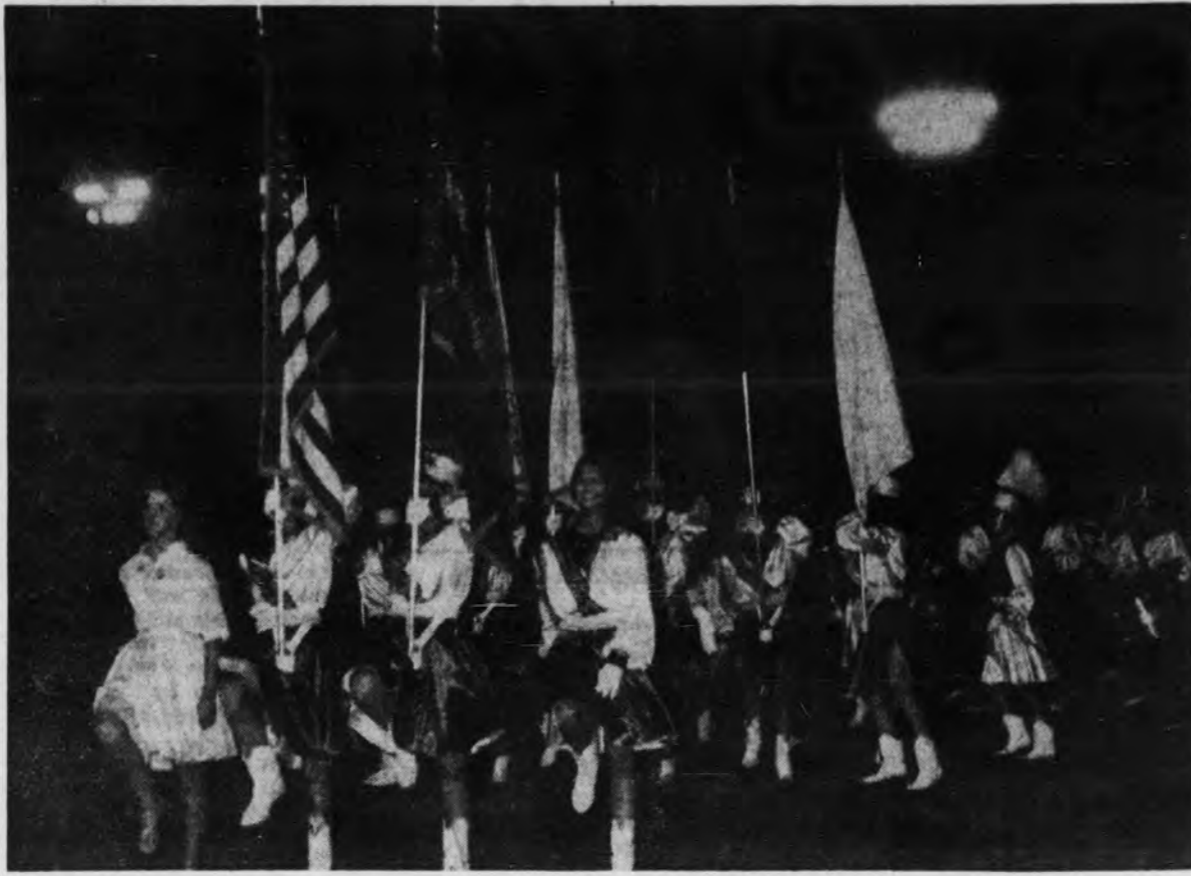

NEGAUNEE — Louis A. Lampi of National Mine, who was arrested by city police on a drunk driving charge, entered a guilty plea when he was arraigned yesterday in Negaunee Municipal Court.

Lampi was ordered to pay a $50 fine and $5.10 court costs by July 27 by Judge William Haupt, with the alternative of serving 30 days in the county jail.

Robert Lee Morcom Jr. of Ishpeming, who was arrested by local officers on a charge of permitting a drunk person to drive his car, was ordered to pay a similar fine and costs by July 27, with the alternative of 30 days in the county jail.

Four other drivers appeared before Judge Haupt for violations of the state motor vehicle code. Motorists arrested by city police included Michael Gorr of K. I. Sawyer Air Base for improper lane usage and passing, William T. Etelamaki of Negaunee for failure to yield the right of way, and Myles Helmes of Eckerman for ignoring a stop sign. Each driver paid a $5 fine and $3.70 costs.

Ishpeming Blue Notes Triumphant

After winning state championship in Detroit Friday, Ishpeming Blue Notes junior drum and bugle corps of Ishpeming American Legion Post 58 joyously gave the cheering audience an encore demonstration. Corps member at far left in white had fainted during the competition, was revived and rejoined the corps for the impressive finish. The competition was a highlight of the 45th annual state convention of Michigan Legion posts.

State Legion Commander Joe Paul of Ishpeming had the pleasure of presenting the state championship certificate to the Ishpeming Blue Notes drum major (right) during the state Legion convention in Detroit.

Dennis Harju of Negaunee, who was ticketed by state police for exceeding the speed limit, paid a fine and costs amounting to $13.70.

Alger Chamber Combats Rumor On Tourist Facilities

MUNISING — The Munising Alger Chamber of Commerce has expressed great concern over remarks made by visiting tourists from downstate who said that publicity in the Detroit area cautions people against traveling to the Upper Peninsula without first having made reservations, according to Richard McLaughlin, chamber president.

The chamber secretary and receptionist have been unable to learn the source of this information. But to make sure the record is straight, the following telegram was sent to the Detroit News, Detroit Free Press and the Morton F. Television Show:

"Please be advised there are ample accommodations in most any area of the Upper Peninsula for visitors from downstate or out-of-state. The extreme east end may be crowded at times, but resorts, motels and hotels in general are eagerly awaiting visitors to the scenic and spectacular Upper Peninsula.

"We are advised that people are being cautioned about crowded conditions in the Upper Peninsula. Please correct this error. Your coverage of our area has always been excellent. Your continued cooperation will be appreciated."

The telegrams were signed by McLaughlin.

The Virgin Islands once were known as the Dutch West Indies.

Rep. Jacobetti Hits Record Of Romney

NEGAUNEE — Addressing a gathering of county Democrats at Thimmes Memorial Building, Rep. Dominic J. Jacobetti, Negaunee Democrat, charged that Gov. George Romney has failed miserably in redeeming his campaign pledges, despite the fact that Gov. Romney enjoyed several advantages which his Democratic predecessors did not, including a Legislature of his own party and removal of the Senate veto block.

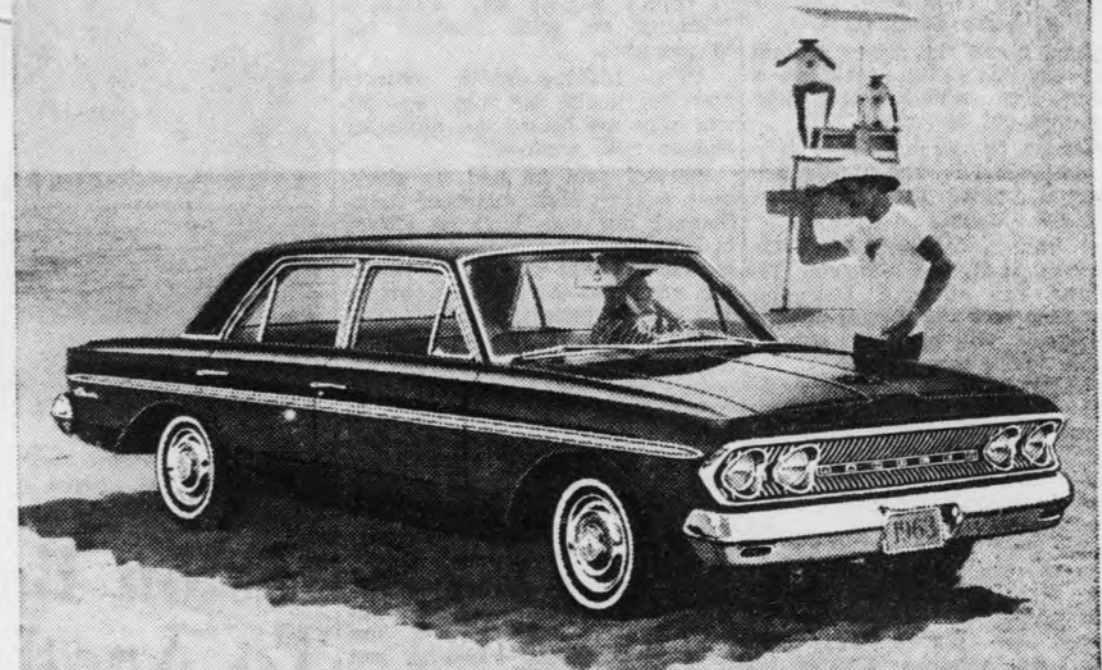

Rep. Jacobetti said these were major Romney failures:

- Enactment of a congressional districting bill that places the entire Upper Peninsula in one congressional district. He also supported and voted for adoption of the new Constitution that reduces the U.P. representation in the State House of Representatives from seven to five members.
- Passage of a big business-written Ford-Canton bill, which takes away from workers unemployment compensation benefits to which they are now entitled. The bill also relieved big business of a reported total in 1961 of $162,000,000 and Romney's own American Motors Corp. of $1,400,000 in negative balances due the unemployment compensation fund which accumulated over a period of years.
- Refusal to adopt an aid-to-dependent children measure that will meet constitutional and federal government standards.
- Defeat of "even the meager $1.15 per hour minimum wage bill."
- Failure to enact legislation to increase old age assistance benefits and grant property tax relief to aged citizens.
- Defeat of the fair price bill that would keep Michigan farmers and dairy operators competitive with out-state competition.

Rep. Jacobetti also scored Gov.

Romney's lack of leadership on the tax reform front and his failure to enlighten people on his tax program. "What has happened to the leadership he was going to give this state?" Jacobetti asked. "Where are the 100,000 new jobs he was going to provide each year? To the best of my knowledge, few if any new jobs have been brought to Michigan by new business or industry."

Dear Abby....

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Your letter "Tired of Hams" is typical. I have been an active ham for many years and a TV technician since 1949. Your complainer should be told that her interference is due to INADEQUATE SHIELDING in HER TV set! The TV manufacturers will provide a filter free if you write and tell them your make and model. I operate a TV set right next to my ham radio set (at the same time, too) and I get no interference.

because of the "interference." I have the same privilege to talk on ham radio as she has to watch TV. My own TV reception stands 10 feet from my ham radio equipment, and MY reception is perfect. She won't admit that the trouble could be in HER TV set.

DEAR ABBY: I am a ham radio operator and have been for years. A neighbor reported me to the FCC because she claimed my hobby was interfering with her TV reception. I took my little portable TV receiver to my neighbor's house and went back home and talked on my ham set. She called me up and told me that she got NO interference on the portable TV set. Then she had a TV repair man check her set, and he found a burned-out tube. When your TV gets interference from a ham radio, 99 per cent of the time it's a faulty TV set — not the ham's equipment. A ham's rule is, "If you don't interfere with your own TV set, your ham equipment is okay." As we say in hamland, "73" — which means, best regards.
