Durward Greg Seppanen, 18, of 916 N. Fourth St., was killed in an accident around 8 last night in the Eggebeen Motors, Inc., garage at 730 W. Washington St.

City police said the young man, a part-time employee at Eggebeen Motors, was working with another person, Alfred Reynolds, 1430 Birch St., when the mishap occurred.

An automobile (a 1961 sedan) had been raised on a hydraulic hoist, city police said, and Seppanen lost his footing on some grease. He grabbed the automobile on the rack to keep his balance, officers said, and the vehicle, apparently unbalanced on the hoist, slipped, off, going on top of the young man and pinning him underneath.

DURWARD SEPPANEN

City Patrolmen Joseph Johnson and Jerry LeBeouf, aided by city firemen, used a floor jack to raise the automobile and free the victim, who was taken in the city ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. W. L. Casler, Marquette, deputy county medical examiner.

Police said the young man suffered head and body injuries.

Student At Northern
Born Nov. 12, 1945, in Lansing, he was taken to Marquette at the age of 1 by his parents.

Mr. Seppanen was a graduate of Graverat High School and had been a student at Northern Michigan University.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church and the Wesley Foundation, and was master counselor of the DeMolay Chapter.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Durward J. Seppanen; a brother, Dennis; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Dunn, Lansing, and his

City Issues Contract To Illinois Firm

Purchase of a large quantity of aluminum wire for the light and power department from an Illinois firm has been authorized by the Marquette City Commission.

For New Line
The low bid was submitted by the Paul Nehring Jr. Electric Works of DeKalb, Ill. Delivery will be made within a few days.

The wire will be used for continuing a new power line on Lincoln Ave., to the W. Washington St. corner, and to Fisher St., along the U.S. 41 and M-28 by-pass route, city officials said.

3 Drivers Ticketed In City Crashes

Three motorists were issued tickets and five automobiles were damaged, but no one was injured, in three traffic mishaps which occurred in Marquette yesterday.

Four injuries resulted in one of two traffic accidents investigated by state police from the Marquette post (see other accident story on Page 9). Reports on the city mishaps follow:

1. At 11:45 last night a car being driven east on U.S. 41 west by Peter E. Scholz, 19, Detroit, went out of control just west of East Ave. and crossed into the divider strip, going into a skid and skidding 232 feet.

The vehicle traveled into the westbound traffic lane and rolled over, ending up on its roof in the north section of the westbound lane. The driver and a passenger were shaken up considerably, but apparently not injured, city police said.

Scholz' car, a 1953 two-door, was a total wreck, and had to be hauled from the scene by a wrecker.

Reckless Driving Scene
City police arrested Scholz on a charge of reckless driving.

2. An automobile being driven north on N. Fourth St. by James H. McGowan, 23, Lakewood, smashed into a car owned by Jack E. Wallace, Kalamazoo, which was parked in the 100 block, facing north, on the east (right) side of the street, at 11:45 last night.

McGowan told city police he was forced to the right by an oncoming vehicle.

Car Not Under Control
Extensive damage resulted to the right front fender of McGowan's automobile, a 1959 four-door sedan, and to the left rear of the Wallace car, a 1958 convertible. Both vehicles had to be towed from the scene by wreckers.

City police issued McGowan a summons for failing to have his car under control.

3. At 11:05 yesterday morning an automobile being driven east on W. Magnetic St. and being turned right (south) onto N. Fourth St. by Florence W. Bennett, 59, of 215 N. Sixth St., was involved in a collision with a car operated by Theodore J. Pepin, 26, of 510 U. Main St., Ishpeming, who was traveling north on Fourth and attempting to make a left turn onto Magnetic.

Buck Bag

Getting his second buck in three years of hunting in the Upper Peninsula, Martin Burdick, E. L. Sawyer Air Force Base, dropped a 175-pound, five-point buck Monday at 9 a. m. in the Sands area.

Gerald Longtine, 122 W. Fairbanks St., Harvey, killed an eight-point, 192-pound buck Thursday off County Road 550 about 2:30 p. m. He was hunting with two other men, neither of which has yet bagged a deer this year. This is Longtine's second deer in ten years of hunting, and it took all three men to lug it out of the woods.

Rodney Bolton of L'Anse downed 10-point, 245-pound buck in the Huron Mountain area Nov. 10. Another L'Anse Hunter, Dr. John A. Stroube brought back and eight-point buck from the Huron Mountains, killed on Monday.

On the second day of the season, John Asher of L'Anse bagged an 180-pound buck with eight points in the Town Line Road area north of L'Anse. William Millu brought in a six-point, 140-pound buck opening day. He had been hunting in the Ravine River Valley northeast of L'Anse.

James Koskinen of Baraga filled his permit opening day with a 130-pound doe shot in the Baraga Plains. Onnie Koskinen, also of Baraga, got lucky opening day, and dropped a four-point, 140-pound buck in the Baraga Plains.

Two Pekie men filled their deer licenses this year when Reino Kinnunen, hunting near Limestone Mountain shot an eight-pointer weighing in at 180-pounds on opening day, and E. C. Keranen, hunting in the Pine Creek area shot a 130-pound spikehorn opening day.

Ralph Godell, 14-year-old Watton boy dropped his first deer Monday — a six pointer weighing 130 pounds — in the Sturgeon River area near Covington.

Douglas Loosemore of L'Anse bagged a 150-pound, four-pointer in the Skanee area on Sunday.

Louis "Wes" LeClaire of L'Anse didn't waste any time opening day. He had his buck — a beautiful eight pointer — by 8:30 a. m. He hunted from the Pine Cone Lodge in the Huron Mountain area.

Two Baraga hunters bagged their bucks Sunday. Carl Lytkainen dropped a 130-pound buck near Courtney Lake and Joseph Dorsky, hunting in the Skanee area brought down a seven-point, 160-pound buck.

Mrs. Judith Russell of Omer, after seven fruitless years of deer hunting, was one of the first successful hunters in Baraga County. She shot a 10-point, 198-pound buck near Echo Bay on Point Abayee at 8 opening day morning.

4 More Hunters Lost In Peninsula; All Located

Four more deer hunters became lost in the Upper Peninsula yesterday, but all were located, as the 1963 season entered its mid-way point.

Otherwise, the figures for the season remained unchanged, with one hunter dead from gunfire, 11 other hunters wounded, two dead from heart attacks and another dead from monoxide poisoning. Twenty-five hunters in all have become lost, but all have been located.

Corresponding figures for the entire 1962 season were three dead from gunfire, 11 woundings, four heart attack fatalities and 37 lost, all being located, with one dead of a heart attack.

Sunshine Prevails
For the first time since the season began, sunshine prevailed throughout the region, and a heavy concentration of local hunters was reported in the woods, with a large number of downstate hunters in the eastern portion of the U. P., where the season opened yesterday.

However, conservation officials report there have not been too many reports of deer success this weekend so far. The deer kill is reported light to normal.

Bridge Figures Up
There have been more deer transported southward across the Mackinac Bridge, however, than in the same period last year. This year's totals are 4,568 deer and 68 bears, compared to 2,685 deer and 102 bears for 1962.

So far 159 permits have been issued to hunters to carry deer through Wisconsin, 56 more than last year.

More Arrests
Arrests are up, numbering 290, compared to 212 last year, while 40 illegally killed deer have been recovered so far in the U. P., 10 more than this time last season.

Thirty-two emergency messages have been delivered by conservation officials in the region, five more than in the same period last season.

State police and sheriff's officers also are delivering emergency messages, and hunters were reminded by law officers to register with one of the three departments before going hunting.

Snow Disappearing
Snow disappeared in many areas today, with the snow depth in the western portion of the U. P. dropping by four inches, to nine on the ground. In some areas there only was

Robert Houston, 32, Detroit, lost his left hand in what police said was a demonstration of how to load and unload a rifle in Norman Township of Manistee County.

Henry Max Tyson, 60, Jackson, was wounded in the right leg when he and another hunter fired at a deer as it ran between them in the Idlewild-Baldwin area of Lake County.

In the western Upper Peninsula, where the deer season opened a week earlier than in the rest of the state, one hunter was killed by gunfire in Gogebic County Monday. He was Clayton E. Cunningham, 49, Pontiac.

Airman Thomas Gets Maintenance Honor At Base

A/2c Robert J. Thomas, a missile maintenance technician, has been selected as the 410th Bombardment Wing's maintenance man of the month at K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base.

Thomas is assigned to the 410th Airborne Missile Maintenance Squadron. His selection, by a board composed of members of the Maintenance Directorate, was based on his duty performance during October.

Col. Howard R. Jarrell, deputy commander for maintenance of the SAC unit, said Thomas has "displayed outstanding aggressiveness in his approach toward problems encountered in the maintenance of (AGM-28B) Hound Dog missile guidance and flight control systems."

"He has researched and listed every signal injected into the flight control system components while under test," Jarrell added, and he manually programmed a computer used in testing to punch out a "command" tape which allows the section to repair torn programming tapes.

Jarrell said each of the programming tapes costs approximately $75, so Thomas' work has resulted in a large savings to the Air Force.

Thomas, a native of Dearborn, has completed a semester's work in pre-engineering and is continuing his education through courses offered by the government and Northern Michigan University.

Thomas, 21, has been in the Air Force two and a half years, and has been here since January 1962.

Extensive Medical Care Program Being Taught At Prison

Medical care in the event of nuclear attack, including everything from applying artificial respiration to delivering a baby, is being taught at the Marquette State Prison for the first time in the history of the prison.

The 13 inmates taking the course are meeting one hour a day for three weeks. They are being prepared to meet almost any emergency condition which might follow a nuclear attack, reports Warden Raymond J. Buchko.

Instructor for the medical self help course is an inmate who has completed the American Red Cross standard and advanced first-aid courses and who is a graduate of the medical self help course at another institution.

Civil Defense Certificate

A certificate from the U. S. Department of Civil Defense will be awarded to those inmates who satisfactorily complete an examination at the termination of the course, Buchko said.

A list of the medical self help course graduates will be retained in the office of Francis Marshall, chief engineer and coordinator of civil defense for the Marquette prison.

The medical self help course is sponsored by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and is being conducted in the prison's academic school.

Materials for the course were obtained by Norman E. (Boots) Kukuk, director of education for the prison.

Medical Supervisor

The course has the stamp of approval of Dr. Russell Finch, new medical supervisor at the prison, and is taught in conjunction with Red Cross first-aid courses.

"The class provides a better understanding of what to expect during emergency conditions and how to treat conditions of radioactive fallout," Dr. Finch said.

The lessons, which are given with the aid of filmstrips, include healthful living conditions in emergencies, artificial respiration, splinting and bandaging for all types of wounds, transportation of the injured, burn shock, nursing care of the sick and injured, infant and child care and handling emergency childbirth.

Industrial Conference Held In Marquette

Among the 70 industrialists from Michigan, Minnesota and Illinois who attended the recent Upper Peninsula Industrial Conference held here were, from left, front row, Herbert Corey, president of the Bank of Stephenson; Keith Bundy, president, State Savings Bank of Manistique; Frank Hoholik, president, Manistique Pulp and Paper Co., and Joseph Fenner, assistant vice president, First National Bank of Chicago; back, Fred Hanne, president, First National Bank, Manistique; John Howard, executive vice president, Houghton National Bank; Walter Frederickson, vice president, First American National Bank, Duluth, and Alvin Benson, vice president, National Bank, Detroit. Discussed at the two-day meeting, jointly sponsored by Northern Michigan University, Michigan Tech, Michigan State University and the University of Michigan, were money, marketing, management development, and manufacturing aids and resources.—(NMMU photo.)

Value Of Tuberculin Skin Testing Program Stressed; County Clinics Started

A continuous tuberculin skin testing program in Marquette County schools is part of the county's program for prevention and control of tuberculosis.

Students at every school in the county receive the tuberculin skin tests in a two-year cycle, Mrs. Jane Westfall, Marquette County tuberculosis control nurse, said.

"Children and teen-agers still get tuberculosis," Mrs. Westfall said. "Today, as compared to 10 years ago, fewer older teenagers, more children between the ages of nine and 14, and about as many children under the age of five, get tuberculosis," she said.

'Can Be Prevented'

"The number of new cases of TB in 1960 in the United States included 607 children and teenagers.

"There is no vaccine for tuberculosis, but TB can be prevented. Part of Marquette County's tuberculosis prevention program is the tuberculin skin testing clinics in the schools."

Last year 7,805 students in 22 schools in the county were given the tuberculin skin test. Although no active cases of TB were found among the school children, there were 11 positive reactors to the tuberculin, or 11 potential cases of TB.

"The positive reaction was evidence that the 11 boys and girls had, at one time or another, come in close contact with an open case of tuberculosis and had picked up the germ," Mrs. Westfall said.

Among the 187 adults tested in the county schools last year, there were 12 positive reactors.

Mrs. Westfall noted that tuberculosis case rates are greater among adults than among children, so that school employees also are checked to assure a tuberculosis-free school environment.

As part of the tuberculin skin testing clinics, positive reactors receive X-rays. Parents and other close contacts of the reactors also are checked.

"The tuberculin skin testing program for the 1963-64 school year has already begun," Mrs. Westfall said.

"Next on the schedule is the Gilbert Elementary School in Gwinn, where 700 boys and girls will be given the tuberculin test Tuesday."

The tuberculin skin testing program in the county schools is conducted by Mrs. Westfall and by Dr. James R. Acocks, superintendent of Morgan Heights Sanatorium.

Northern Team Wins Five Debates In Indiana Meet

Northern Michigan University's affirmative debate team returned from the annual Indiana State College Tournament at Terre Haute, Ind., with a superior rating, having won five of its six debates.

The NMU team, comprised of Rosemarie Arnestad, Marquette, and Dawn Linna, Ishpeming, both juniors, defeated Illinois State Normal University, Ball State College, DePauw University, Lake Forest College, Northern Illinois University, and lost only to Indiana State College.

Butler University was the only one of the 16 affirmative teams participating in the tournament to win all of its debates. Eastern Illinois University and Morehead State College also won five out of six debates.

Negative Team

Northern's negative team comprised of Allen Pearman, Marquette senior, and Richard Wendt, Marquette sophomore, won over Indiana State College, but lost to Wabash College. Butler University, Northern Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University, and Georgetown College.

Bernard Nummer, Detroit sophomore, represented NMU in the persuasive speaking contest and in five rounds of discussion on the national question. "What should be done to minimize friction among racial groups in the United States?" The NMU representative received an average rating of "good" in both events.

At Western This Weekend

Northern's debaters are participating this weekend in a novice tournament being held at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, under the sponsorship of the Michigan Intercollegiate Speech League.

Northern joined the league this fall and therefore, will be participating in the annual three-round tourney for the first time.

Representatives from approximately 16 Michigan colleges will participate in the event. Representing NMU will be Robert Hakinen and Jay Jonsson, both Bessemer Juniors, comprising the affirmative team, and Vince Romano, Detroit freshman, and Richard Wendt, Marquette, sophomore, debating the negative.

The students will be accompanied to Kalamazoo by John Monsma, director of forensics at NMU.

Group Seeks More Money For Colleges

EAST LANSING (AP) — The Citizens Committee on Higher Education told Gov. George Romney Friday he should ask the Legislature for at least $25 million more for state-supported colleges and universities.

But the committee, which Romney appointed, made a point of declining to suggest where the additional revenue would come from.

State support for operating expenses for the 10 four-year universities in Michigan now is $109.83 million. The committee asked that at least $135 million be recommended by Romney for 1964-65.

Bentley

Former Congressman Alvin Bentley of Owosso was chairman of a sub-committee that pushed the recommendation. Bentley also headed the educational committee of the Constitutional Convention.

In the report, Bentley said he wanted it clearly understood that the committee was not trying to dictate how much money should be spent or attempting to tell the Governor how to raise it.

The report noted that college enrollments are on the increase as "a bumper crop of postwar babies reach college age."

"Tidal Wave" There will be a "tidal wave" of applicants at Michigan colleges and universities, the report said.

City Firemen Called Out Four Times

Marquette's fire department was called out four times yesterday.

1. At 2:55 yesterday afternoon firemen were summoned to the Zweifel Bros. apartment house, 123 W. Ridge St., where a blaze broke out in the rear of an electric refrigerator in Apartment A, occupied by Janet Hitchcock.

Firemen said a short circuit in the wiring caused the blaze, which was extinguished by an alert baby sitter with a pail of water. The sitter also had thrown

Debris In Tourist Park Cleaned Up

Swimming at the Tourist Park will be safer next summer because of a cleanup job made possible after lightning struck a light and power department plant two weeks ago.

About 110 gallons of debris were picked off the floor of the swimming area by parks and recreation department crews. Water is down at the Tourist Park while repairs are being made at the No. 3 power plant there.

Find Broken Glass

Parks and Recreation Department Superintendent James C. Engle said his crews filled two 55-gallon drums with broken glass, beer and pop bottles and cans from an area exposed when the Dead River level at the Tourist Park was lowered.

Crews cleaned all of the wading area at Tourist Park, Engle said. It was the first time in several years that the water has been low enough for the cleanup job.

The No. 3 power plant at the Tourist Park is expected to be back in operation by mid-December, in time for the city's peak power load of the year. Lightning struck the plant Nov. 1 and approximately 12 generator coils were damaged. The coils have been removed and are now being replaced.

also should be considered, the report said.

State support also should be increased for junior and community colleges, said the report. No specific amount was mentioned in this recommendation.

a small rug onto the blaze to smother it.

Minor damage resulted, firemen said, with the paint on the baseboard near the refrigerator being scorched.

Eight Firemen Respond

Eight firemen responded to the call, in the Nos. 2 (1,000-gallon) and 4 (750-gallon) pumps and the service truck. They returned to the station at 3:33 p.m.

2. A chimney blaze was extinguished by city firemen at 8:28 last evening at the home of Willard Beauchamp, 333 Genesee St. Firemen used a pail of water to put out the blaze, caused by a dirty chimney. There apparently was no damage.

3. Six firemen responded to the call in the No. 2 pumper and service truck. They returned to the station at 8:50 p.m.

4. At 10:37 yesterday morning firemen were summoned to the residence of John Wasmuth, 1011 N. Front St., where an explosion occurred in a gas clothes drier.

Nothing was used, as there was no fire. Six firemen answered the call in the Nos. 2 and 4 pumps and they returned to the station at 10:47 a.m.

Driver Of School Bus Dismissed

WARREN (AP)—A school bus driver was fired Friday on a New York Central railroad complaint that he raced his bus carrying 60 children across a track as a freight train approached.

The board of the Warren Consolidated Schools dismissed Andrew Pignar, 46, a driver for three years.

The board said witnesses reported that Pignar raced the train to a crossing in this Detroit suburb Nov. 4, stopped, then started up again and drove over the tracks as the train approached.

A.S. Luttermoser, the engineer, told NYC police the bus was so close he could read its license number.

Pignar, married and a father, is a World War II and Korean War veteran. He survived the Bataan death march in the Philippines in World War II.

Jobless Benefits, Unemployed Total In Area Decline

Unemployment compensation benefits paid to persons in the eastern section of Marquette County so far this year amount to over $100,000 less than benefit payments made in the same period last year.

During the first 44 weeks of this year, benefit payments amounted to $358,132.50, Frank B. Paitl, manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission office here, said today.

Last month in the eastern half of Marquette County there were 468 persons actively seeking work through the MESC office. The number of unemployed persons listed on the active job seeker file here dropped from the previous month, when there were 510.

A year ago in October 513 persons were listed on the active job seeker file.

For the first 44 weeks of 1962, $462,871.50 was paid out in unemployment benefits through the MESC office here.

Larger Claimant Load

Paitl said that the larger amount paid out last year was because of a larger claimant load last year.

During the October "five-week" period, unemployment benefits paid out at the MESC office amounted to $18,969, Paitl said.

Benefits paid last month compared to $23,401.50 during the five-week period of October last year and $18,765 during the four-week period this September.

Paitl noted that 122 non-agricultural and 30 agricultural job placements were made through the MESC office last month. In September job placements at the MESC office here totaled 86 and a year ago in October job placements numbered 91.

The agricultural placements were for persons to help harvest the county's potato crop, Paitl said. Last year in October 30 agricultural placements also were made for the potato harvest.

The 122 non-agricultural placements last month included:

Construction, 28; manufacturing, 3; public utilities, 9; wholesale and retail trades, 23; finance, insurance and real estate, 2; services, 23; private households, 24, and government, 10.

Most of the placements made in the construction industry were for men to work on the U.S. 41-M-28 bypass project, Paitl said.

The 468 persons listed on the MESC job seeker file last month included 171 women, 77 veterans and 31 handicapped persons.

154 New Applications

New applications for work received at the MESC office during October numbered 154, also a decline from September, when there were 193 persons who applied for work through the MESC office. Last year in October 191 persons made applications for work.

The new applicants last month included 82 women and 11 veterans.

Layoffs Due

"We don't expect any immediate unemployment increases. With the mild weather continuing, it appears that most work categories will maintain a steady level of employment through the middle of December," Paitl said.

He noted that some layoffs can be expected next month in this area for railroad transportation and ore dock workers, because of the end of the navigation season.

Rose Queen Won't Be Selected By Integrated Group

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Selection of the Tournament of Roses queen won't be made by an integrated committee, officials say.

Reacting to a request by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, tournament president Hiles Bedell said Friday:

"The tournament is a private organization and final selection of the queen is made the responsibility of the regular committee established for that purpose, as it always has been."

City Pioneers' Recollections Provide Interesting Yarns

Reminiscences of pioneers in any community, by providing more or less personal "grass roots" material, always have enriched the basic, cold, historical facts, and this has proven to be the case in the fascinating annals of Marquette.

The number of books and articles on such subjects as shipping, railroads, mining, blast furnaces, lumbering, agriculture, etc., in the area is practically unlimited.

Records On File

However, thanks to numerous individuals interested in following the adage that "history is people," hundreds of these family records and activities have been well preserved over the years in the files of the John M. Longyear library of the Marquette County Historical Society.

Considerable credit for this is due to the late Law Allen Chase, who relied as professor emeritus from the history department of Northern Michigan University in 1944. He was a dedicated historian and corresponding secretary of the society for a number of years.

His students in the early 1920s interviewed many of the early settlers and from many of them obtained interesting personal accounts as well as the usual biographical statements, many dating back to the 1850-60 period.

Almost all those questioned came by boat and were rowed ashore from Ripley's Rock, at the end of the present Soo Line Railroad Co. dock, where the vessels tied up until a small merchandise wharf was built over a century ago.

These and other descriptions as to where the first houses were built, where the several families of Indians lived, how the first locomotive, the Sebastopol, brought by boat, was assembled on the brand new track, much to the delight of the populace, and many other recollections, outlined an excellent picture of the new community being carved out of the forest.

Indian 'Pov Wows'

Several persons remembered the annual government payment to the local area Chippewa Indians in Marquette, and each story varied slightly.

"When we came here there were about 1,500 residents, and one year the Indians had their last pow wow on Front St. Their faces were painted, they were dressed in full native costume and their dancing was weird, one resident recalled.

"South Marquette along the lake, was known as Indian-town. The Indians would come into town twice a year to get their pay from the government and would hold a meeting on Third St., where they had a large platform on which their services and war dances were held. They had very good sermons, sometimes they preached in English and other times in the Indian tongue."

"When the Indians came to Marquette for their government money, they lined up on Superior St. (now Baraga Ave.). There they did their various dances, war and otherwise. They were very quiet people and friendly."

Mule-Drawn Mail Route

Numerous other details of early times here were learned as a result of these interviews.

One enterprising pioneer, Nelson Stone, who came here in 1860 from Oconto established a winter mail route from Marquette, first using eight dogs and toboggans, then a mule drawn sleigh, and finally, a large conveyance, pulled by a team of horses, in which he also carried passengers. The Babcock and Blenhuber by stoves and the boys cut the wood.

Civilization east of Front St. ended at Arch St., and from there north it was virtual wilderness. The passenger pigeon shooting during their huge flights was so good that the racket occasionally disturbed the pupils as well as the churchgoers on Sundays.

Recollections of several pioneers will be the subject of the regular Marquette County Historical Society program over WDMJ, The Mining Journal radio station, tomorrow at 12:30 p.m.

Blenhuber Orchard

Henry Blenhuber, in 1868 planted the first large orchard in the county and, as a result of experiments with various fruits and vegetables, became one of the best known commercial agriculturalists in the area. Several pioneers told of the early schools, business blocks and dwellings, and James Penzell, a lifelong resident, recalled the first school he attended, the brick building on Ridge and Pine Sts., which had been built in 1860. It, like the earlier Washington School, was heated

Constitution Next Issue For Romney

LANSING (AP)—The next big political issue in Michigan is arising even before the last one—Gov. George Romney's tax reform program—turns cold in its grave.

Another special legislative session, slated to begin on Dec. 3, will deal with bills needed to implement the new Constitution which becomes effective the first of next year.

It will give the Democratic party, whose leaders hope they score a propaganda victory when Romney's tax reform program was defeated, another chance to shoot at Romney.

Some 100 bills to implement the new Constitution are in final preparation by an 18-member legislative interim committee which has worked all summer and fall.

Many other legislators, both Republican and Democrat, will also be filing bills, some hoping to salvage through implementation what they didn't get when the Constitutional Convention wrote the document.

Resolution

One of them, Rep. Gail Handy, R-Eau Claire, has already prepared a resolution aimed at repealing the entire document. Handy calls it "a legal Frankenstein."

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that dentistry required years of training and practice. Well, I don't know anything about dentistry, but I am a student of American history and it is a fact that Paul Revere made George Washington's false teeth. And Paul Revere was not a dentist. He was a blacksmith! So, who needs dentists?

HISTORY STUDENT

DEAR STUDENT: And if you will look closely at a picture of George Washington, you'll see that his lower jaw protrudes a full inch beyond his upper. Back in 1790, when blacksmiths doubled for dentists, there was an excuse for it, but not today. So leave dentistry to the dentists, and don't bite the hand that makes it possible.

DEAR ABBY: I've been sitting back watching a thrice-married widow wreck the home of two of our best friends. This couple has grandchildren and were ideally happy. Then two years ago this widow came along. She manages to be everywhere this man is, even following him out of town on his business trips. The wife is a trusting soul who knows from nothing about what's going on. She is forever telling me how hard her husband works and how much time he has to spend out of town on "business."

The pay-off is this: The widow has given him a deadline. Either leave the wife and marry her—or lose her. And he is going around like an idiot trying to hang on to both of them. What should be done?

WATCHING A MESS

DEAR WATCHING: A friend of both should get the man aside and try to bring him to his senses. (Judging from your knowledge of what's going on, you sound like an eligible mediator.) Unless you are SURE of your facts, stay out of it. This lion might have to learn the hard way.

DEAR ABBY: The bride who wanted "WHAT KIND OF FOOL AM I?" sung at her wedding showed what kind of fool she was. And, Abby, you showed your ignorance when you suggested "BECAUSE" or "I LOVE YOU TRULY." "BECAUSE" is poor. And "I LOVE YOU TRULY" is worse.

A wedding ceremony is part of a church service, and love songs are out of place. Any qualified organist or soloist can assist the bride in selecting appropriate wedding music, and there is no excuse for all the trash that is being played at weddings these days.

Quaal Series Presents Soprano, Tenor Dec. 4

Soprano and tenor voices will be combined to present a unique program in the joint recital of Gloria Aliani and William Diard Wednesday, Dec. 4 in the Ishpeming High School Auditorium.

The first appearance of Aliani and Diard occurred in 1955 in Miami. The occasion was a performance of Puccini's "La Boheme." Public and critics responded with enthusiasm, and the idea was born to combine talents into a special blend of vocal programming.

Diard, another native New Yorker, now has a prominent position on the roster of the New York City Opera. It is but the latest success for the tall, blond, and blue-eyed tenor who has been singing since he was 13 years old. At that time he was chosen to join the famous Paulist Choir.

Work with that choir plus piano background, starting when he was eight, gave Diard solid musical training for a professional career.

Diard has made numerous concert appearances throughout the United States and Europe, first as soloist with the famous Robert Shaw Chorale, then as first tenor with the "Chanticleers." The Chorale tour in 1956 took him to 21 countries including Egypt, most of Europe, and ending in Iceland.

Appeared In Italy

During the 1954-55 season she made guest appearances with various opera companies in Italy and participated in several commemorative concerts for composed Francesco Cilea.

After returning from Italy, she was honored by the Italian ambassador to the United States who invited her to sing at the embassy in Washington. This appearance led to an engagement with the New Orleans Opera Society.

Miss Aliani's New York debut came in January, 1958.

Second Of Series

This team will be the second in a series of four concerts arranged by the George Quaal Presentations of Ishpeming.

The Band of America with Paul LaValle, featuring many soloists, vocal and instrumental, will be presented on Friday, Jan. 1. The series will close Tuesday, March 5, with Applaud and Field, one of America's most distinguished piano teams.

Hunters' Ball Income Tops Previous Highs

At the regular meeting of the Morgan Heights Auxiliary, Mrs. Majil Savitski, dance chairman, announced an income of nearly $1200 as a result of the 9th Annual Hunters' Ball. This amount topped all previous highs for the annual project.

An investigation into the types of bed cubicles available will be made by members of the auxiliary as this purchase was the goal in staging the dance.

Intermission Program

The intermission program included the Danconettes, a local dance club advised by Mrs. Shirley Savitski of the Savitski School of Dance; Ivan Raish, harmonica soloist; Jim Anderson, a folk singer and student at Northern Michigan University, and the "June Taylor" dancers, a men's comedy dance team.

Mrs. Savitski expressed her personal thanks to her committees and special thanks from the group were offered to Mrs. Roy Stansbury, president of the auxiliary, for topping individual member ticket sales.

The persons and business establishments contributing to the success of the dance were also recognized by Mrs. Savitski.

"Our dance could not have been the great success it was without the support of these merchants and performers," Mrs. Savitski noted.

Mrs. Fenner Gronlund and Mrs. James Thomas were hostesses at the luncheon which followed the adjournment of the meeting.

Buffet Table Winner Likes Sit Down Meal

Vermel flatware completed the setting.

Pristine white damask and Madeira ecru tablecloths were popular backgrounds for some of the tables. A moss green in linen tablecloth with white china decorated with brown, green and gold was a pretty setting made by Mrs. Frank Dixon, Birmingham, Ala. She used grapes with plum-colored candles in a centerpiece.

An informal contemporary sit-down table by Mrs. E. T. Starbuck, San Francisco, Calif., used place mats of black and brown linen on a contemporary teak table. Wooden service plates and pale green china was used with contemporary silver designed "for an everyday pretty table, rather than for a party," Mrs. Starbuck says. The centerpiece of magnolia leaves with green apples was placed in a 200-year-old saki warmer.

The lone man, Albert Lowe, Pasadena, Calif., set a very effective table with pale green place mats and green bordered white china.

U. P. Extension Agents Hold Workshop Here

Prospects for world peace depend to some extent on the success in helping underdeveloped countries produce their own adequate food supplies. Yet, more than one-third of the world's population of three billion go to bed hungry each night.

These truths are behind an in-service training meeting which was conducted in Marquette this week for Michigan State University's Upper Peninsula home extension agents.

The MSU specialist said that the loss of appetite in acute starvation occurs within 24 hours after the individual has been without food. After 48 hours there are few hunger pains, if the individual receives water.

The food and people meeting series represents a new effort by home economics clubs to bring about better understanding of the causes, meaning and remedies of hunger. Michigan is one of the first states to have developed such a comprehensive educational program.

A key objective is to stimulate public discussion of the ways and means in which government, people, international and national organizations can cooperate to assist developing nations.

Paragraphs Town Talk By Tish

We had such a lot of family fun the other evening at The Miracle Bowl in Ishpeming. My family likes to bowl and I have always maintained I wasn't the athletic type. Finally I got myself talked into going along. After much advice from all of them I was given a ball everyone was sure suited me. I hefted it up, ran up to the line — let go — and that darling little ball rolled right up that alley and knocked down every pin! My family jumped up and down and screamed and made me feel very conspicuous but I was thrilled — with my first strike. This is the kind of togetherness that is such fun. Try it soon at The Miracle Bowl.

"RAISING" CHILDREN BY THE BOOK

We have a choice in America... a choice denied millions who live under godless communism. Here is a man who is exercising that choice! He believes that children growing up in the free world ought to know the Author of Liberty. He wants his son and daughter to cherish and embrace the spiritual insights God has given man.

This father introduced his children to the Bible when they were very young. Today the Book of the Ages is their friend. Tomorrow it will be their guide through the frightening age to which they have been born. The American Bible Society — supported by earnest Christian citizens and the churches they attend — enables millions of families around the globe to share our heritage of Truth with this new generation on whose spiritual fibre rests the hope of the world.

Four 'Santa Express' Train Rides Slated For Dec. 7

Retailers Tell Details Of Program

ISHPEMING — Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Santa Claus is coming to town via the "Santa Express," accompanied by hundreds of passengers from Marquette County, on Dec. 7, the Retail Division of the Ishpeming Chamber of Commerce announced today.

Upper Michigan's most unusual pre-Christmas extravaganza ever staged will take place in Ishpeming, starting from the Chicago & North Western Railroad depot, where four gallery double-decker railroad cars will depart for a one-hour and 10-minute trip.

Children, and adults too, will be able to ride in one of the most up-to-date railroad cars available.

Awaiting 30 miles away in his sleigh with candy gifts will be Santa Claus, who will make the return trip with his passengers.

Arriving in Ishpeming, Santa will display a bit of magic and leave unnoticed and be back at the same location to receive greetings from another trainload of youngsters.

Ishpeming retailers, well known for their ability to provide the unusual at this time of year, will provide this unique and new approach to the spirit of Christmas and are arranging these train rides at 9 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 7.

It is estimated that some 3,000 passengers will ride the four Chicago & North Western double-deckers during the day.

"Retailers feel that the excitement and enthusiasm which will be generated at this time of year, will provide this unique and new approach to the spirit of Christmas and are arranging these train rides at 9 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 7.

General chairman for the "Santa Express" special event is Wayne Hansen, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store.

Hansen said that he and 32 volunteer local retailers would serve as conductors on the train to maintain order on the 30-mile trip to pick up Santa Claus.

Wondering what this excursion will cost? Walter Scanlon, secretary-manager of the Ishpeming Chamber of Commerce, announced that the question will be answered early next week in an edition of The Mining Journal. Scanlon also is the ticket chairman and distributing ticket chairman.

Two Ishpeming businessmen, Martin Jackman, manager of F. W. Woolworth store, and Les Morton, manager of J. J. Newberry store, are on Santa's gift committee, while Gerald Lewis, Ishpeming business representative of The Mining Journal, is publicity and advertising chairman.

The Retail Division spokesman said that persons obtaining tickets will have a choice as to the times they desire to ride the "Santa Express" during the day.

"We retailers feel that this will be quite a thrill for many youngsters who have not ridden on a train," Hansen said. "The breathtaking experience of actually going to get Santa Claus could never be put into words."

Hansen emphasized that the event is a non-profit venture by the retailers.

Last Of Trio Involved In 'Black Market' Fish Sales Pleads Guilty, Pays $324

L'ANSE — A plea of guilty by the last of three men admittedly engaged in a "black market" operation involving the sale of large quantities of illegal Lake Superior lake trout was accepted yesterday afternoon by L'Anse Justice Steven J. Markovich.

Larf R. (Rudy) Holm, Baraga tavern owner, entered a voluntary plea of guilty to three charges brought against him by conservation officers as a result of violations of commercial fishing laws.

He paid fines of $100 plus $3.30 court costs on each of three separate counts, which included 12 transactions of buying a total of 642 pounds of lake trout for wholesale distribution without a license. A second count, included in each of the three warrants — that of soliciting the purchase of said illegal trout — was dropped when Holm agreed to plead guilty to the first count yesterday.

Arraigned before Markovich earlier on the first warrant involving 72 pounds of fish, Holm pleaded innocent and demanded a jury trial. He also entered a plea of innocent to a second warrant, listing five separate transactions involving 214.5 pounds of trout, which was issued by Prosecuting Attorney F. Hubert Mather Wednesday afternoon. Holm was to have been tried on both charges before a justice court jury Nov. 19.

The remaining six transactions involving 555.5 pounds of trout against the defendant were consolidated into a third warrant served yesterday.

The other two men — Earle D. Warner, 67, Chassell, charged with wholesale distribution of lake trout without a license, and Clarence B. (Buck) Chosa, 46, Baraga, who was arrested for illegal possession of lake trout taken from Lake Superior under a commercial fishing license — both paid fines of $100 plus $3.30 court costs when arraigned before Markovich last week.

Charges against the three men were filed following an investigation of the reported illicit trade by conservation officers based at the Baraga district headquarters.

In a written statement to the prosecuting attorney, Chosa said he had sold between 600 and 700 pounds of lake trout to Holm on a regular basis during August, September and October. He added that Warner then "got rid of the fish."

According to Mather, Warner told investigating officers he had purchased the illegal trout from Holm and resold it to the Douglass House and the Oniga-ming Yacht Club in Houghton. According to 12 delivery slips obtained by officers, the trout were sold at prices ranging from 60 to 85 cents a pound. During the course of the investigation, Warner surrendered three canceled checks signed by him and endorsed by Holm which he said he issued in payment for three of the shipments of fish which he picked up at Holm's bar in Baraga.

Following their arrest, both Chosa and Warner freely admitted their participating in the "black market" fish ring and implicated Holm.

No charges have been brought against the Douglass House or the Oniga-ming Club. Mather said all the sales appeared to have been cash transactions and added that prices fluctuated more than the normal market.

Commenting on the "black market" operation, conservation officials at the Baraga headquarters stated today that, "if unchecked, such wholesale trafficking in illegal lake trout as has occurred here could result in a serious setback to the lake trout rehabilitation effort. The United States, Canada and the Great Lakes states already have invested several million dollars in this effort in the past decade."

According to Mather the variance in fines assessed against the three men is attributable to the fact that Warner and Chosa both cooperated fully with officers and furnished signed statements and documentary evidence which enabled the officers to tie up all the loose ends of the investigation and bring charges against Holm. Mather further pointed out that the $500 in fines levied against the three ($300 from Holm, and $100 from each of the other two) resulted in a penalty of 78 cents a pound for the 642 pounds of trout involved in the charges. The current price for legally taken lake trout is 80 cents a pound at docksides.

Poor Opening Day Weather Cut Sharply Into Deer Harvest In Northern Peninsula

The deer season that opened a week ago today in the western two-thirds of the Upper Peninsula got off to a poor start. The opening day, when customarily more deer are shot than in any other day of the season, was marked by poor weather conditions for hunting. It was overcast throughout the morning, followed by a heavy rainfall in the afternoon that sent most hunters back to their camps. In some areas, the entire day was unfavorable for hunting, with fog in the morning and rain in the afternoon. "Far From Ideal" "Conditions were far from ideal," commented William E. Laycock, Marquette, regional game supervisor for the conservation department. "We had rain on the first and third days and then, this week, some real heavy snow in the west end of the Peninsula. "I'm sure the kill has been lighter than it would have been if we had better hunting conditions." Straits Figures Mirroring the weather conditions were figures collected at the Straits of Mackinac from hunting parties returning downstate after coming to the Upper Peninsula. These figures showed that 78 deer were transported across the Straits on the first day of the season, 127 on the second day and 108 on the third day, Laycock said. Laycock is not pessimistic about the ultimate outcome of the 1963 season, however. Given good weather conditions—snow heavy enough for tracking but not too heavy to permit comfortable hunting—the Upper Peninsula might yet have a fine deer season, he said. Some Grumbling Heard Laycock said he has heard some hunters grumbling about the early opening of the season. "By act of the Legislature last year, the season now opens in the western two-thirds of the Upper Peninsula on the Saturday preceding Nov. 15 and on Nov. 15 in the remainder of the state. The Nov. 9 opening date this year in the central and western U. P. is the earliest

Alger County Deer Almost Gets Hunter

Big John Lucas of Dearborn, six foot, seven inches tall, weighing 325 pounds, got his buck Saturday morning while hunting in the 16 Mile Lake area in Alger County, but the deer almost got him. Starting out from camp at daybreak with three of his hunting companions, he stopped a deer standing about 80 yards away. Having a doe permit, Lucas fired at the deer, and down it went. He ran up to the animal, which turned out to be a spikehorn buck, lying under a balsam tree. Lucas took his knife and proceeded to cut the deer's neck, but after he had made several cuts, the deer started to get up, and Lucas grabbed him by the horns. The buck pinned him up against a balsam, while he held on for "deer" life to keep from getting gored. His hunting companions, Don Shaw, Warren Wendt and Arthur Younka, all of Detroit, heard the commotion and came running. By the time they reached Big John, he was covered with blood from head to foot and his hunting pants and jacket were torn to shreds, but he had his trophy on its back on the ground. Lucas held the deer while the others shot it twice more to finish it off. This was the first deer that he had shot after hunting in this area for the past eight years, but it is one he will long remember.

possible under the new legislation.) The game supervisor was pleased with findings of biologists checking deer at the Straits. Of 311 deer checked up to midweek, he said, 175 were adult bucks, and of that number 108 were year-and-a-half old bucks. That represents 62 per cent of the total buck kill. Good Fawn Survival "This indicates good fawn crop survival over last winter and a healthier herd," Laycock said. Pre-season estimates by the conservation department—based on deer census drives, field observations, spring pellet counts, etc.—placed the deer population in the central and western Upper Peninsula slightly higher than in the fall of 1962. Bear Kill Down Despite the mild weather during the first part of the season, the bear kill in the Upper Peninsula seemed surprisingly small. At midweek, only half as many bears had been taken south across the Mackinac Bridge as during the corresponding period last year, Laycock was at a loss to explain this apparent decline in the bear kill. Opening of the deer and bear season in the eastern third of

Hunters In U.P. Asked To Report Deer With Collars

The conservation department has urged deer hunters to contact the department if they kill any collar-marked deer. During recent winters, several hundred deer in the Upper Peninsula have been tagged with different colored necklaces by self-marking devices set out in deer yards by biologists. Department game men would like to know the band number attached to the collar of each deer taken, the place where the animal was shot and the information, they will get a better idea of where deer in browned-out yards spend their summer and fall, how far they travel, precisely where they winter and whether their movements follow a consistent pattern each year.

Upper Peninsula Offers Best Chance To Bag Bear

By BOB VOGES Associated Press Outdoor Writer Bagging a bear and dragging him out of the woods isn't easy. If the weather holds good, however, more than 1,000 hunters will come back with the bonus of a bruin this deer hunting season. 660 Taken Above Straits Trouble is, a cold snap will send the bears into hibernation. The best advice for the hunter who really wants a bear is to try the Upper Peninsula. There were 1,185 bears shot last year. These included 660 shot during the deer season above the Straits and 290 during the regular season in the northern Lower Peninsula. The remainder were shot in the early bear seasons with a few taken by bow and arrow hunters. Most At Close Range For those who hunt with the idea of only going after a buck, gun experts advise the average deer rifle can easily handle a bear. Most bears are shot at close range. Hunters sometimes literally stumble over them, as bears often bed down in the open, in a small gully or under a brush pile. Limit One Per Year A hunter is allowed only one bear a calendar year on his deer license. "Once in a while, a hunter will

Sport Fishing Catches In State Safe From Botulism

Michigan sportsmen can scuttle their fears about the possible danger of botulism from fish they catch in the Great Lakes or inland waters of the state, according to the conservation department. The same holds true for housewives who have had qualms about buying fresh, frozen or commercially canned fish from the Great Lakes areas because of the discovery of Type E botulism in smoked fish processed in this part of the country. The department's words of advice echo statements made recently by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration, the Food and Standards Division of the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Gov. Romney's newly-formed Committee on Botulism Control, which point out that the danger of botulism applies only to smoked fish processed commercially in the Great Lakes region. The agencies and state committee add, of course, that proper refrigeration and cooking are important in handling fresh fish, same as they are with any other kind of meat or perishable food. Fears Spread Fears generated by recent cases of botulism poisoning from smoked fish have spread to all types of fish, paralyzing the entire Great Lakes fishing industry and throwing a scare into some sport fishermen as well. Steps have been taken by the FDA, the state Foods and Standards Division and the Governor's committee to head off any further outbreaks of botulism poisoning. All three have urged housewives, distributors, and retailers to destroy smoked

Ice Fishing For Trout Starts Dec. 1

Fishermen will be allowed to take brown and rainbow trout with hook and line through the ice during December, January and February in 42 designated waters in the Upper Peninsula this winter. One Lake Added One body of water—Ellen Lake in Iron County—is new to the list of trout ice fishing waters above the Straits this year. The lakes in which browns and brook trout fishing is illegal in all waters of the state during the winter in the next three months are: Alger County—East and West Bays at Grand Marais, Deer Lake and Grand Sable Lake. fish processed in the Great Lakes area. At the same time, they have recommended guidelines for processing to make future sales of smoked fish safe from botulism. This fall's outbreak of botulism poisoning and its crippling effect on the Great Lakes commercial fishing industry drew major attention from conservation officials of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin during the Oct. 30-Nov. 1 Annual Tri-State Fisheries Conference at Iron Mountain. Delegates urged that plans be pressed into action by the federal government to research causes of botulism in smoked fish which will lead to preventive measures. They also pledged the full support of their agencies in winning back public confidence in smoked fish. It was understood at the conference that "disaster" loans may be made available to commercial fishermen whose working capital has been wiped out by the impounding and destruction of smoked fish inventories.

Where's the opening? This is a rather typical driftwood jam on the Indian River. The canoeist, coming down on it fast in the river, may wonder where the passageway is, but there's one to be had since the Forest Service developed a big portion of the river as canoe waters.

Indian River Being Developed By Forest Service For Canoeing

By JEAN WORTH Journal Special Correspondence Trout fishermen have known about the Indian River for generations, and in the last century its fast running waters echoed the calls or river drivers, but it has not been "discovered" yet by a large number of canoeists. The U.S. Forest Service, with the aid of two Manistique canoe liveries, is going to change all that. The river runs fast and clean through high-banked beauty from its headwaters in the lake country about Federal Forest Highway 13 down to the broad waters on Indian Lake and then out of the lake and into the Manistique River and on to Lake Michigan. Like Cat Chasing Mice From the old CCC campground near Steuben, the Forest Service has cleared a passage in the river down beyond the Indian River campground to M-94 in the area that beaver trappers and trout fishermen and other adventuresome people call "The Spreads." The river cannot seem to make up its mind in the area of pine knolls and grassy bedlands and follows channels like a cat chasing three mice. There were blue plastic streamers hanging from branches on the channels to be followed when the Forest Service entertained a group of newsmen recently. This will indicate the left venture character of the recreational development in this beautiful forest and great playland. Paul Perry, operator of Paul's Canoe Livery at Manistique, said he had a couple ask for a canoe for a day and a half in the Labor Day weekend to canoe waters where they could find a bit of solitude. He put them in below Germfask on the Manistique River, and they came out ecstatic. They hadn't seen anyone in a day and a half of canoeing and felt very well repaid for driving the extra distance from the AuSable, downstate, where they were told there would be 500 canoes on the stream that day. The trip from Steuben down to the Spreads is only a bit of the Indian River, but it is an area of spectacular attraction. In this distance of 10 miles or so the canoeist will see only one cabin on a leased forest site. Except for that, the Indian River is the way the Indians left it, with the exception of deadhead logs from the drives in pools, beaver trap stakes along the banks, log deflectors left from driving days and CCC structures to improve fishing. Trout fishermen were very unhappy about the Forest Service's cleanup of the Indian to permit canoeing without so many pullouts, but they will find that the stream remains pristine for fishing and that the canoeist's labors have only been lightened, not eliminated. There are several pullouts over driftwood jumbles, and the stream isn't recommended by the liveries or by the Forest Service for an outing of the Elderly Ladies Knitting and Baking Society. The Forest Service is constructing access routes to the river so that many optional trips will be possible, suited to the type of canoeing the visitor wants and the time he has to spend on the stream. The old Steuben campground, constructed by the CCC in 1933, will be rebuilt and will provide one of the main access points to the stream. The Indian River campground will serve as a meal point or overnight camping point for canoeists. It has drinking water, fireplaces, picnic tables and toilets. The Hiawatha National Forest has prepared an attractive brochure, "The Indian River Country," to guide visitors and tell them the delights of the area, which stretches from Manistique and Thompson on Lake Michigan northwesterly in a broad band in the forest toward Munising on Lake Superior. Hiawatha Forest Ranger Ronald Indian River—3-30 IT add White of the Manistique District said, "Many canoeists take to the water to get away from signs of civilization and

Attempts To Save Owl Fail

Mrs. Arthur Maki, Granite St., Marquette, holds snowy owl that she and others attempted to nurse back to health after the bird had been found on the ground in the Ishpeming area. She believes the owl, a fall and winter visitor to the Upper Peninsula from the Far North, devoured a rat or mouse that had been poisoned. Medication failed to spare the bird's life.—(Mining Journal photo.)

North Country Notes

—Ruffed Grouse: 1963— THE ruffed grouse season that ended this week was below average, in the view of this observer. The number of birds flushed per hour of hunting not only was far lower than last year; it was below the average for the past 10 years. During 92 and a half hours of actual hunting (not counting time driving to and from hunting areas or time spent in rest breaks while hunting), I flushed 122 ruffed grouse. That's an average of 1.32 birds per hour. It compares with 2.03 birds per hour last year, which was the highest in the 10 years that I have kept records of this sort. In those 10 years, the average has been 1.58 birds an hour, so the 1963 season has to be recorded as somewhat below average. But— A couple of factors may have contributed to a distortion in the true picture this year. One of these was the weather. This was the hottest October that anyone can recall in the Upper Peninsula. What effect this may have had on ruffed grouse habits, I can't say. Perhaps it rendered them less active, although I doubt it. Nor was it my experience that it sent them into the swamp edges and creek bottoms, for I found pats difficult to put up in those places as I did in the uplands. An effect of the weather on bird dogs was more evident. On more than one occasion, my setter was so enervated from the heat that he showed little or no inclination to hunt. THE second factor, however, undoubtedly played a greater role in the number of partridge I flushed during the season. This factor was Woodcock. When I became disappointed in my luck with grouse, I turned to woodcock because they were present in such great numbers. Consequently, a goodly portion of the 92 and a half hours I spent hunting was in strictly woodcock cover, where a hunter wouldn't expect to put up a grouse. Had I not hunted exclusively for woodcock so often, I'm sure that my grouse flushing average would have been higher by a few decimal points, at least. But one takes his hunting where he finds it best, and it was my experience that woodcock hunting was far better than grouse hunting this year. I should say it was more productive than grouse hunting, for nothing is ever better than grouse hunting. —K.S.J.
