The Unfinished Business

By WALTER LIPPMANN

In the solemn pause while the President lay dead, there reigned over the troubled world an unearthly calm. No one can suppose it will last. But when inevitably it ends, we should make sure to remember it. For it expressed a profound and saving

It is that our daily preoccupations are not supremely important. It is that the issues which divide the nation, which divide the world, are not the ultimate concern of mankind,

Brilliant Promise Cut Short In the presence of a young man's death and of his brilliant promise cut short by the terrible evil in mankind, the better nature of man was for a time in command. When next we work ourselves up into a tantrum about something or other, let us remember how small it is in the perspective of the first and last things of human experience.

Remembering this, let us begin to look at the unfinished business of the state, but to look at it unhurriedly, not anx iously, without a compulsion to start talking and acting for no better reason than the itch to do something about something. There is no present crisis in world affairs, no fire which the President must rush to extinguish.

The gathering in Washington of the dignitaries from all the nations was not only an act of homage to President Kennedy. It was also a demonstration to this nation that there is a foundation of good feeling o nwhich it can proceed. What Lies In Store For Johnson

President de Gaulle came here, I think, to say that the problem of readjusting the Western Alliance to the revival of Europe is a matter between civilized men, not tragic or insoluble. Mr. Khrushchev sent his closest associate, Mr. Mikoyan, to say, I think, that he clings to and cherishes the historic advance made under President Kennedy, which has been to defuse the

It is really unnecessary for President Johnson to reaffirm the American commitments, since he has taken part in making them. There is no need for him to promise with pedantic detail that nothing will change. For in fact the world is changing. There will come before him the unfinished business of readjusting the policy of the United States to the changing balance of power between the old world

The old world consists of the two Europes and the Soviet Union and, unavoidably, China; it has changed radically since World War II, and it is changing rapidly now. The President should, above all things, not let himself be rushed into foreclosing the future. It is vain to suppose that the United States policy in 1964 and after can be or will be a carbon copy of what it has been during the postwar era. Remaining Consequences Of Slavery

The most pressing unfinished business is here at home We have the gigantic work of adjusting our way of life to the scientific revolution of this age, to the stupendous growth of the population and to the conglomeration of great masses of our people in the cities. There are the problems of all the modern nations, and they are not insoluble. But for us the most poignant unfinished business is also especially our own. It is to go on with the task of assuaging the remaining consequences of slavery. The sins of the fathers, which was to contaminate the land with slavery, are visited upon us. Dealing with this original evil is a task which has for indred years strained deeply and tragically the integrity of the Union. We cannot renounce the task, we cannot palter with it, we have to go on. Yet we know that nothing has ever divided us so bitterly. So let us pray that the first southerner who has been President of the United States since the Cicil War will have the honor (c) 1963, The Washington Post Co.

Problem Started Early Oswald apparently never contributed a nickel to this woman friend of the family for the support of his wife and child and second baby but, instead, went to Mexico to arrange a trip for himself to Europe.

His problem started early. In the very short time he and his mother lived in New York he became such a delinquent in school he was given a psychiatric examination. He was found to be "wild." Perhaps the delusions showed up then. Court-Martialed Twice

It's possible Oswald then felt rejected by both Moscow and Cuba. This is also possible, if he is the man who killed Kennedy, hat he decided he would singlehandedly show the Soviet and Cuban Communists how a revolutionist should act by killing the President. He never seemed to understand that the really effective revolutionists-like Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev-did not act singly but as part of an organization.

They looked upon the individual trying some crime on his own not as a revolutionary but as a romantic. For a Communist there is nothing so deserving of contempt as a romantic.

Dear Abby ... By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you hink of a girl who buys her wn engagement ring? Her boy friend told her he couldn't aford to buy her a ring because he is paying off his car, so she went out and bought herself one and paid for it. She says lots of girls do it. Her boy friend said if it makes her happy, he doesn't see anything wrong with it. Am I old-fashoned or isn't this fellow a poor excuse for a man?

BYSTANDER DEAR BYSTANDER: Apparently the girl is calling the signals. She should have bought TWO rings one for his nose.

DEAR ABBY: A friend I grew up with but haven't seen in years called me long distance and said she was coming to this city to visit for a few days. I told her I'd be glad to see her, but I didn't have room enough in my apartment to have her stay with us. She said, "Oh, the floor will be good enough for me." I told her I wouldn't think of it, but she argued and I couldn't talk her out of it. Now my husband is having a fit, and says he can't have a woman sleeping on the floor while he is sleeping on a bed. He says he'll go stay with friends and give HER his bed. Abby, I can't let him do that. I am so mad at myself for letting her win the argument. What should I do when she comes?

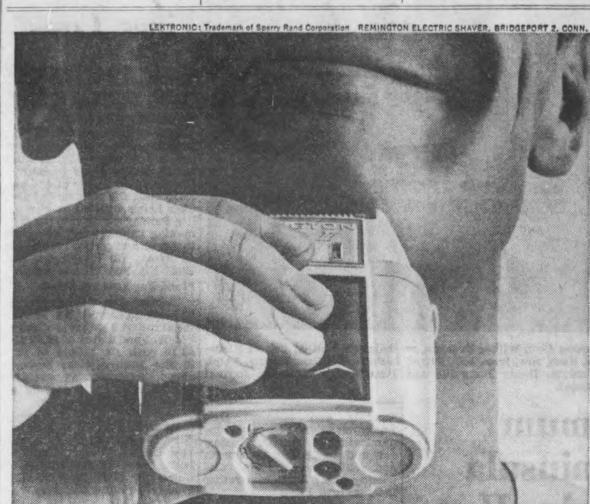

KICKING MYSELF DEAR KICKING: Beg, borrow or rent a mattress or sleeping bag and let her sleep on the floor. She's 90 per cent brass and won't feel a thing!

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I guess I should know when I am sick and when I am "little hyprochondriac."

Reminder On Registration Given Voters

Officials of the Marquette County clerk's office today issued a reminder for township clerks and voters that the registration law recently was changed.

In previous years, one could vote once in four years and retain the voter registration right.

Recently, however, the period was reduced to two years, meaning that those who have not been to the polls within the past two years must re-register with their respective city or township clerk, if they want to remain duly qualified electors.

Cancellations for not voting in the two-year period are made during the December check-over time.

Given 30 Days If a person has not voted within the past two years and has not reinstated his registranotice of suspension. These persons so notified will have 30 days in which to request a continuation of registration. If the card is not returned within this period the voter's pery ladies television writers

IODS Michigan's growing system of safe, new freeways is contributing importantly to the dynamic drive to attract new industry into the state.

Businessmen searching for new plant locations or opportunity for commercial development know that modern transportation facilities are an essential requirement. Now, more than ever before, Michigan's economic growth is dependent upon improved highways.

Any curtailment of the highway improvement program risks a slowdown in economic expansion. Your support of a good roads program will help Michigan grow and provide needed new jobs!

Industry wants dependable, all-weather highways to move materials and products. Concrete pavements are first choice to provide the load-carrying capacity required. Durable and smooth-riding, concrete roads give longer service with minimum maintenance. And this means tax economy to both industry and
