election, Christian Democratic Premier Amintore Fanfani headed a center-left government supported by the Socialists, but the latter stayed out of the Cabinet. The election results strengthened a Socialist faction that wanted the party to return to its traditional alliance with Italy's big Communist party.

It was Italy's 25th post-Fascist government. As the premier took the oath before President Antonio Segni, there was speculation whether the uneasy alliance patched together with such difficulty could stand much strain.

Other parties in the coalition are Giuseppe Saragat's Democratic Socialists and the Republicans. They were the other two members of Fanfani's coalition. Pledged To Support NATO

Formation of the four-party coalition ended a political crisis that began in April when the ruling Christian Democrats suffered a setback and the Communists gained a million votes in the election of a new Parliament.

The new government is pledged to support the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in foreign affairs and to begin new economic planning.

Deaf Dog 1st Patient Of Institute

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Pudge is a black Labrador Retriever who never has barked — because she doesn't know what a bark sounds like.

Pudge, completely deaf, is the first patient to be admitted to the new multi-million-dollar Kresge Hearing Research Institute at the University of Michigan.

She is probably the first dog ever to have available a full staff of consultants — otologists, physiologists, anatomists, physicists and technicians — her own doctor and the facilities of one of the nation's major hearing research centers.

Her condition is unusual for a dog, but relatively common in humans. U - M scientists hope to come a few steps closer to solving similar hearing problems in people through detailed tests with Pudge.

Christine, 3 Others Go On Trial

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, 21, the leading woman in the Profumo scandal, went on trial with three other persons today, accused of trying to frame one of her Jamaican ex-lovers.

It was Miss Keeler's fourth appearance before a judge in London's Old Bailey, the central criminal court, but her first as a defendant. She could get 23 years in prison if convicted.

Two Women Arrested In Murder Plot

LANSING (AP) — Two state police detectives report they posed as hired assassins and promised a woman they would kill her former husband.

The detectives said they received a down payment of $50. Then they arrested Mrs. Barbara Hulse, 26, and Mrs. Helen McKinney, 32, both of Lansing.

Police said Mrs. Hulse wanted her former husband, Ralph Stover, killed so he could not obtain custody of their two children, 8 and 10 years old.

Mrs. McKinney acted as a go-between Mrs. Hulse and an unidentified Lansing man who tipped them to the plot, the detectives said.

Kennedy's Tots Buried In Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two infant children of President Kennedy who preceded him in death now lie beside their father in Arlington National Cemetery.

The bodies of the infants were flown to Washington Wednesday aboard the family plane Caroline and reinterred on either side of the late President's grave Wednesday night — presumably by decision of his widow, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

The children are Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, who was born prematurely Aug. 7 and died within 40 hours, and a baby girl born dead in 1956. The boy had been buried at Brookline, Mass., and the girl at Newport, R.I.

Mrs. Kennedy and the late President's brothers, Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, attended the brief graveside rites.

Muslims Suspend Malcolm X

NEW YORK (AP) — Elijah Muhammad, leader of the Black Muslim movement, has suspended his heir apparent, Minister Malcolm X Shabazz, for statements he made about the assassination of President Kennedy.

Malcolm X told a Black Muslim rally Sunday the assassination was an instance of "the chickens coming home to roost."

Doesn't Speak For Islam "Being an old farm boy myself," Malcolm X said, "chickens coming home to roost, never did make me sad, they've always made me glad."

Muhammad said Malcolm X did not speak for him or the "Nation of Islam."

"We with the world, are very shocked at the assassination of our President," Muhammad said.

JFK's Death Ushered Her Into Spotlight

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Perhaps one day in the year 2063, a school boy will open a history book and read of the Black Friday 100 years before on which President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated.

His study will bring him to Lee Harvey Oswald, a 24-year-old malcontent who was accused of the assassination, but was murdered before being brought to trial.

If he goes deeper into the story, he may come across the name of Mrs. Marguerite Claverie Oswald.

Mrs. Oswald, a grey-haired, 56-year-old practical nurse, is the mother of Lee Harvey Oswald.

She, too, may become the subject of history because an inquiry into the nature of her son must turn to the person who played the greatest role in shaping him. That person is Mrs. Oswald.

"Any guilt I have for making him what he was, I will accept," she says. "But this is not for the assassination. I do not care what the FBI says, or what any special commission or court may say. He did not have a trial. He did not have his day in court. I heard him say on television, the same as millions of others heard him, 'I did not kill anyone. I did not kill anyone. I know he never did it. I know my son.'"

The death of her son is another burden in a life littered with millstones, according to her recounting.

Life began for her in New Orleans July 19, 1907, born to Dora and John Claverie. At the age of 21, she was left motherless.

Little is known of the 22 years following, and she evades discussing her childhood and young womanhood. This, apparently, is something she is

Johnson's Goal: 75 Million Jobs For America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson invited Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia to the White House for lunch today in another maneuver aimed at attempting to prod an $11-billion tax-cut bill through Congress.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has asked labor and industry to back his drive for enactment of legislation proposed by President Kennedy and now stalled in Congress.

"I am the President, but I can do nothing without the people," Johnson told the AFL-CIO Executive Committee Wednesday.

"You represent the people. I need you and I want you by my side."

Less than an hour later he went before the Business Advisory Council with this pledge: "This administration wants to help you. We are not pro-labor, or pro-business or pro-any special sector. We are pro what is best for America."

"I am the only President you have," Johnson told some 60 business leaders, Cabinet members and economic advisers. "If you would have me fail, then you fail, for the country fails."

Johnson's speeches to union and industry leaders climaxed a busy White House day during which he also:

• Ordered tariff boosts of $23.9 million a year on five commodities in retaliation for increased import levies on U.S. poultry shipped to member nations of the European Economic Community.

• Announced he will confer Jan. 22 with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada.

• Slipped out of the White House to spend a half hour at a Capitol luncheon of the Texas congressional delegation.

No. 1 Priority Costless despite the December chill, Johnson went to the White House rose garden to tell some 40 union leaders and government officials: "The No. 1 priority today and tomorrow is more jobs and the goal of this administration is 75 million jobs in America." That would be an increase of 5 million jobs. Johnson set no target date for that goal.

Youngblood received the Exceptional Service Award for "outstanding courage and voluntary risk of personal safety" in protecting Johnson at time of President Kennedy's assassination. Shown with Youngblood are his wife and two-year-old daughter Rebecca Ann. Behind Mrs. Youngblood is James Rowley, head of the Secret Service. (AP Wirephoto.)

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma's intelligence chief, Col. Leuang, was assassinated early today as he arrived at his home on the outskirts of Vientiane.

The unknown assassins reportedly escaped in the dark. Leuang was the chief of the Deuxieme (second) Bureau, the coalition government's intelligence section. Like Prince Souvanna, he was a member of the neutralist faction which in theory governs Laos in coalition with the right wing and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

There was no immediate indication of the motive for the slaying.

The assassination reportedly opened fire on Leuang's automobile with at least three automatic weapons. Leuang apparently was killed instantly.

Brazilian Senator Slays Colleague

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — A senator fired three shots at an opponent in Brazil's Senate chamber Wednesday, and missed his target, but accidentally killed a third lawmaker.

The innocent victim was Sen. Jose Cairala, who died while undergoing surgery.

Cairala, from the western frontier state of Acre, was struck in the stomach by one bullet fired by Sen. Arnon de Melo.

Witnesses said De Melo whipped out a pistol and took aim from the speaker's platform at Sen. Silvestre Pericles, 67, a man known for his violent temper, had said he would shoot De Melo if he rose to speak. Both are from the northeast state of Alagoas, which has a reputation for stormy politics. Pericles, a member of the Senate since 1957, had opposed the election of De Melo, a freshman.

Sen. Joao Agripino told newsmen he grabbed Pericles, who was about to return the fire, and disarmed him.

"His revolver was fully loaded and hadn't been fired," Agripino said.

Both men were placed in military custody. The senate appointed an investigating committee.

Senate sources said the feud was personal with no bearing on national politics. De Melo is a member of the conservative Christian Democratic party. Pericles belongs to President Joao Goulart's leftist Labor party.

Cairala had not been involved in the dispute, sources said.

Cape Irked By Name Change

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The city of Cape Canaveral and the Greater Cocoa Chamber of Commerce don't like the idea of renaming this cape on the Florida east coast, and President Johnson is going to hear about it.

The town council and the chamber adopted similar resolutions Wednesday opposing the change. Copies went to the President. Florida's congressional delegation, Gov. Farris Bryant and Florida Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin.

It's all right to designate the missile center in honor of the late President, the council said, but it doesn't want the Cape renamed.

The town council questioned legality of either the President or governor "renaming a mass of land which has borne a name of historical significance for more than 400 years."

Escanaba Sparking Bids For Site Of UMTA Headquarters

Escanaba has probably touched off a competitive bidding for the headquarters of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association by inviting it to Escanaba and that's just dandy if it has, says Escanaba City Manager George Harvey.

Escanaba was host to a luncheon meeting of the site committee of the association and the group spent the afternoon looking at possible headquarter sites in Escanaba.

Propose New Building

The group also visited American Timber Homes' model timber home on U.S. 41-2 and the recently erected larger timber home building that is Ford River's new township hall.

Escanaba has proposed the erection of a timber home building to house the headquarters if the organization should move there from its present quarters in Marquette.

The office of the predecessor organization, the U.P. Development Bureau, and the association has been in Marquette about 40 years.

Escanaba's proposal to the association that it consider moving its headquarters to Escanaba and concentrate all its office work, warehousing of literature and other needs in one building was made by Harvey and President Gust Asp of the Escanaba Foundation after the Marquette City Commission denied support to the association.

"Escanaba is interested in all the Upper Peninsula, and wants to do what's good for the U.P.," Harvey told the committee. "We've invited you here to try and convince you that a relocation of the association's headquarters would be beneficial to the organization and to the whole U.P."

Raps Marquette Quarters

"The present quarters in Marquette are not conducive to a good job. We are proposing to put up for you here a building where you could greet the traveling public. Daily traffic at Escanaba's north city limits in 1962 according to the State Highway Department was 6,700 vehicles and peak days topped 15,000."

UMTA President Kenneth Slater of Hulbert said that the committee could only recommend action to the membership and that direct tourist service was not a major function of the association.

UMTA Manager Kenneth Dorman said a building project was not new for the U.P.'s tourist agency, that an elaborate building is not necessary and that the present office results in loss of contacts not only with the traveling public, but probably more important with publicity writers and other persons who can help the agency.

'Need Better Facilities'

The office will be handling more and more literature, Dorman said, and efficient facilities are desirable.

Lawrence Rubin, St. Ignace, a committee member and secretary of the Mackinac Bridge Authority, said that "it is gratifying to be wooed. The association has often felt that it was laboring in vain in trying to get support in certain areas. When we learned that Escanaba wanted our headquarters we thought maybe our labors weren't in vain."

"We're like a father who discovers that he has marriageable daughters; maybe we should look around? But we are very pleased with this and more actions like it might give us opportunity to step forward in another area. We should take a good fresh appreciative look, and if Marquette or Iron Mountain wants to be competitive that's good."

"This organization has been feeding the family while the rest were sending their sons to college. It's nice to know that Escanaba thinks well of us and we think well of Escanaba."

Hecox On Committee

The committee met at the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce building on invitation of Manager Walter Lewke after its inspection tour. It will make a recommendation to the directors of the Tourist Association before the next membership meeting in April.

Committeemen are: Robert Sayles, Newberry; Mrs. Helen Weygant, Sault Ste. Marie; Douglas Rappley, Houghton; Clyde W. Hecox, Marquette; Harold Dunklee, Munising; Slater and Dorman.

LEE T. BUREAU

Lee Bureau In Army's Elite Group

Pfc. Lee T. Bureau of Marquette, who recently completed a 30-day leave here, is on his way back to the Bavarian town of Bad Tolz, Germany, where he will serve with the Army's elite 10th Special Forces Group.

Bureau, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Bureau, 223 W. Ohio St., recently graduated from the Special Warfare School, Ft. Bragg, N.C., and was awarded the coveted green beret by the Army.

S-Sgt. Hugh J. McQuiston Jr., in charge of the Army Recruiting Station in Marquette, said this is the hat that was called the "badge of courage" by the late President John F. Kennedy.

"It is worn with deep pride and honor by all members of the special forces teams," McQuiston said.

McQuiston said there are only 1,500 persons in the U.S. military service who belong to this elite corps. "It is recognized as being the best military group in the world," he added.

Before his enlistment, Bureau attended Northern Michigan University for two years. He was active in sports and specialized in judo.

He was able to continue his judo training with the Army's Ft. Bragg Judo Club. He won honors in judo competition held recently at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Members of the Special Forces were requested by the Kennedy family to serve in the funeral cortege for the President. They held the highest honor, the front of the line for their fallen commander-in-chief.

A green beret, the "badge of courage," was left out of sorrow and respect at the grave, resting above the head of the buried President.

Chrysler To Build Plant In Macomb

DETROIT (AP) — Construction of a stamping plant which will employ 3,000 workers at peak performance was announced by Chrysler Corp. It will be built in Sterling Township in Macomb County north of Detroit.

Authoritative sources said the 2,800,000 square foot building will cost an estimated $40 million. Architect is Giffels and Rossetti, Inc., of Detroit.

Bureau is the only member of the Special Forces from the entire region.

"This is an honor for his home community," McQuiston stated. "It takes courage, dedication and ideas to win a place on this team."

Lack Of Leadership Biggest Weakness, Chambers Told Here

Chief weakness of the average chamber of commerce in Michigan is its lack of leadership, both in the field of gaining such leadership and in displaying it. So were told the 92 representatives of Upper Peninsula chambers of commerce at a regional meeting held yesterday at Northern Michigan University and sponsored by the Michigan State Chamber.

The challenge to "do something about this situation" was left with the representatives.

In serious discussions and during a luncheon program, the need for businessmen to become better acquainted with governmental processes and to take a more active interest in community affairs was brought home to them.

Objective Reappraisal
Harry Hall, Detroit, executive vice president of the State Chamber, urged the representatives to make an objective reappraisal of their programs.

He asserted that the chamber must be concerned with what is happening to the economic system, urged them to assert courageous leadership and declared the one essential need is to revitalize the chamber on the local level.

In a response Peter Baudino, of Calumet, president of the Michigan Retail Hardware Association, Inc., warned the audience it is later "than you think," that Americans have lost many freedoms already and are in danger of losing more unless they have the courage to take a stand.

Need To Broaden Base
In a symposium on chamber problems, there was general agreement that chambers of commerce need to broaden the base of their membership. Many categories of community life are missing from the roster of chamber membership.

There was general feeling that most chambers lacked good communication, that the people of any given community did not know or understand what the chamber program was, or what its overall goals were.

Chambers were told they need to expand their areas of influence. Too many are bogged down with superficialities of programming, concentrating on hours instead of larger and more important community considerations, it was stated.

There is need for chambers to re-evaluate their own programs in the light of what a chamber ought to be in any community, to determine where its weak spots are and to take immediate steps to overcome these weaknesses, speakers said.

Need Is Leadership
While chambers need funds, the greater need is for leadership. Representatives of the state organization told the U. P. groups that if they get community leadership, community funds will follow.

More important than all, it was agreed, chambers should take, on a constructive basis, a greater, closer interest in local legislative actions and they should be more concerned with local government and be a part of it.

In another symposium, concurrent with this, some of the costs of doing business because of government requirements were discussed, chief of the topics being workmen's compensation insurance and unemployment benefits.

Again, it was brought out that few businessmen really know the requirements under the law, the need for putting into practice methods that will cut down the incidence of compensable cases, the need for prompt and adequate reporting on job changes that will facilitate unemployment decisions and render them more effective in favor of economy.

Michael F. DeFant, Marquette, former examiner for the labor department and now Marquette County probate judge, was the principal panel speaker, with Lee Matthews, Lansing, of the Michigan Insurance Information Service and William A. Wickham, Detroit, general and legislative counsel for the state chamber, participating.

Tighter Milk Inspection Plans Noted

Tighter inspection of milk is among the changes due soon in interstate milk inspection, according to Mason I. Smith, Marquette, regional supervisor for the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Smith described the changes at the Upper Peninsula Dairy Conference, held this week in Escanaba.

Smith said that inspection is trending toward controls which will approve milk so that it can move in interstate shipment anywhere in the United States.

This process already is far along and has concentrated more on fluid milk for drinking than it has on milk manufactured into dairy products, so far, but this second consideration will be getting increasing stress in the future, he said.

Eye Improved Quality
The trends result from efforts to improve the quality of dairy products.

Richard T. Hartwig, Michigan State University agricultural economist of Marquette, said that the dairy farmer is a businessman today and must keep records.

Hugo Kivi, Ironwood, Michigan Farm Bureau representative in the Upper Peninsula, described the Dairy Herd Improvement Association supervisor's work and Russell Hanson, of the Michigan Artificial Breeders Association told of

C-C Works Automatically, Baudino Tells Conferees At Regional Meeting Here

Chambers of commerce work automatically, whether they operate well or not depends on their members and how much time, effort and investment they are willing to devote and contribute to the chambers.

So asserted Peter M. Baudino, Calumet, president of the Ace Hardware Co. and president of the Michigan Retail Hardware Association, Inc., at the Upper Peninsula Conference for Chambers of Commerce, held at Northern Michigan University yesterday.

Speaking for the businessman, Baudino made a deep impression on the 92 conferees at the regional sessions.

'Lost Six Freedoms'
"We have already lost six of our freedoms," Baudino said.

"One, thousands of young men have lost the liberty to decide how they will spend some important years of their lives because of conscription in peace time.

"Two, thousands of workers have lost the liberty to choose their jobs unless they pay tribute to a private organization, a union.

"Three, thousands of farmers have lost the liberty to decide what and how to plant without considering government bait or coercion.

"Four, every American has lost the liberty to own gold.

"Five, every sizeable business has lost the liberty to decide what some of its employees will do; they must be used to collect, record and forward taxes and reports.

"Six, the average American has lost the liberty to decide what he will do with the money he earns from New Year's Day until April; that much goes for taxes, federal, state and local, visible or hidden.

'List Will Grow'
"The list will grow if we let it. It did in a dozen countries — in our time.

"So our 'big challenge' takes on larger and more important proportions. Do we have the courage to accept? The American heritage of liberty and free enterprise must not be bartered away for a mess of pottage, regardless how seductive it is made to appear.

"The United States and Michigan Chambers of Commerce and many trade associations recognize the dangers and this is why they call for strong active groups to take part in political action.

"Our very existence is controlled by the men who represent us all, in the city halls, the courthouses, in Lansing and in Washington. It is they who set tax and regulatory statutes — men who mortgage our future.

"It is our right — our duty — to elect men and women to the legislative chairs who have faith, dedication and integrity.

Lawmaker Backs Bids For Grants

LANSING (AP)—Rep. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, said today he will ask approval in the current special session for $416,555 in academic grants for research in improving Michigan's economy.

Wayne State University asked Wednesday for the lion's share of this fund, $100,000, for the most comprehensive proposal presented to the economic development committee Bursley heads.

The Wayne proposal, one of 11 put forward by six state colleges and universities, is for establishment of a center for application of science and technology and an institute for applied science.

Prediction
Dr. Randall Whaley, a Wayne vice president, predicted Wayne research would produce new business and jobs within 12 months.

Bursley's money resolution, which would include the proposals of all six schools, would be under terms of a special $750,000 research appropriation made by the Legislature last spring. It would not require the Governor's signature.

The University of Michigan has two proposals calling for a total of $75,000 to make an "econometric model," or statistical picture of Michigan's economy and to improve the training of private developers and local economic promoters.

Mich. Tech Proposal
Michigan State University offered five programs totaling $76,040 on specific topics dealing with new egg products, packaging, computers, a color sensing device and a trade development policy.

Michigan College of Mining and Technology proposed a $30,400 study of wood pulp marketing. Grand Valley State's $56,400 project concerned modern campus study aids. Central Michigan's $78,715 proposal concerned

Two Autos Damaged In Crash Here

Two automobiles were damaged and a motorist was ticketed, but no one was injured, in a traffic mishap which occurred at 8:05 this morning in Marquette.

City police said a car being driven west on Norwood St. by Elmer G. Heidtman, 57, Route 1, Skandia, struck by an automobile operated by Robert J. Justus, 22, Pine Village Motor Court, who was traveling south on Schaffer St.

Right-Of-Way Violation
The front end of Heidtman's car, a 1952 two-door sedan, and the left side of Justus' automobile, a 1963 small, foreign model, were damaged. Both cars were driven from the scene under their own power.

City police issued Heidtman a ticket for failing to yield the right-of-way.

CITY OF MARQUETTE MARQUETTE, MICHIGAN By: EVERETT H. KENT, CITY CLERK

Among the key figures at the Upper Peninsula Conference for Chambers of Commerce, held in Marquette yesterday, were three persons, shown in the University Center of Northern Michigan University, are, from left, Peter M. Baudino, Calumet, president of the Michigan Retail Hardware Association, Inc.; Lincoln B. Frazier, Marquette, vice president of the Michigan Chamber, and Harry R. Hall, Detroit, executive vice president of the Michigan Chamber. ## Face Up To Political, Economic Puzzles, C-C's Hall Says Here

Chambers of commerce must face up to every increasing economic and political puzzle that defies the organization.

So asserted Harry R. Hall, Detroit, executive vice president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, at the Upper Peninsula Conference for Chambers of Commerce, held yesterday in Marquette.

Need Realistic Appraisal

Addressing the group at a luncheon meeting held in the Vista Room of the University Center of Northern Michigan University, Hall said chambers must look squarely at the facts of community existence, look at them realistically and then "go to work on them with all the being expended in the name of the chamber of commerce are related directly to the removal and correction of the causes of problems.

"There is no correlation now between your actual program and your needs. The average chamber has no formal program, no specific goals, no defined objectives, no evidence of a concentrated attack on problems, only a rare mention of any interest in state-wide legislative matters. "All problems, state or local, need a network of businessmen to work together to elect business oriented men to office and help them enact legislation conducive to economic growth and automatic job expansion."

A chamber of commerce, he said, that shows no more than a hope, a prayer and a pitiful plea for inconsequential does not get new industry, new tourist facilities, new investments or a new public improvement.

A program related to local needs must have adequate financing to permit aggressive leadership to function properly.

Needs Adequate Budget

While a chamber budget does not indicate effectiveness, he pointed out, totally inadequate financing does connotate total ineffectiveness. The chamber, Hall said, cannot do a man's job on an adolescent's allowance. There is need, he stressed, for dedicated high echelon community volunteer leaders in sufficient numbers to provide strong business leadership to implement any program a chamber may develop.

"Your problems," he observed, "are hydra-headed. Your leadership must be level-headed."

Need Leadership Group

The frequent complaint of chamber leaders is their most difficult job, to get business and professional men to accept assignments, particularly where controversial issues are involved.

Nobody, he declared, complains of a poverty of talent. Skills exist in all communities. It is a problem of concentrating skills in one leadership group rather than dissipating strength in a series of splinter groups.

'Get Best Man Possible'

Turning his attention to the paid secretarial staff of a chamber, Hall urged the chambers to find the best man available for the job, to give him adequate compensation for the job expected of him, to seek a mutuality of agreement between manager and board on matters of standards, policies and programs.

"This," he said, "is a deadly serious business, this chamber of commerce business."

"The chamber of commerce is not a social club, not for entertainment, not for recreation,

Yule Shoppers Begin Annual 'Attack' On Marquette's Stores

By MARY WHITE
Of The Journal Staff

An early-winter phenomenon, the Christmas shopper, has launched his annual "attack" on Marquette stores.

You can tell a Christmas shopper a mile away.

The male-type shopper is laden down with packages and red in the face in women's shops. The female-type shopper is armed with long lists. The "itty-bitty" type loses his mittens and sometimes he loses his mother and father.

There's excitement in the air as he marches down the street humming a carol. Pretty soon he'll be saying "Merry Christmas," instead of "Watch where you're going," when he bumps into people.

Shoppers Pattern

He begins the winter sort of indifference but when Thanksgiving passes and the snow falls, he comes from all over the area to pounce on Marquette stores.

At the beginning of the campaign, he compares and studies. As time runs out, he grabs things like oranges and baseballs and pens, as if he were stuffing a stocking just as full as he could.

His wife is about the same size as six different salesgirls, his uncle has everything, and his best friend is allergic to wool.

Prepared For Season

He's a strange one all right, but the merchants love him.

And Marquette merchants were prepared for the attack. For months trucks have been coming into town to stock up the stores. And every store has hired and trained extra forces to meet the onslaught.

Things are better than ever this week. "The shoppers have the spirit and the money and we have the merchandise. That makes everybody happy," one merchant commented, summing it all up.

This year the Christmas shopper wants sweaters for men, stretch pants and knee-high warm boots for girls, sleds and dolls.

Dolls For Girls

Much to the surprise of the toy store clerks, who thought they saw the last of the "Barbie doll" last year, almost every shopper knows a little girl who wants a "Barbie doll." One store manager noted that although his wholesale source for the tiny dolls has run out, his store has a big supply.

Marquette merchants agree that the shopper didn't really begin in earnest until the last few days.

So many people stayed at home after the death of President Kennedy that November sales were down at most stores.

Weather Helps

The Christmas shopping season started late this year because Thanksgiving came late, and most people don't think about Christmas until the Thanksgiving dinner dishes are washed.

Also, shoppers don't get on their mark and ready to go until it looks like Christmas outside. Nobody thought much about Christmas when the temperature was in the 50s, but after last weekend's snowstorm, people started to get the Christmas spirit.

From experience, the merchants have some advice. They know that the peak of the campaign will occur the middle of the month.

For the best selection, they say: Shop now.

Brisk Pace Set By State Lawmakers

LANSING (AP)—Under its own schedule calling for adjournment in two weeks, the Legislature set a brisk pace today for setting the lawbooks in line with Michigan's new Constitution.

With normal rules of procedure suspended, the House was ready today for a possible vote on three election bills, and 23 others, plus four dealing with education, were on the calendar.

The Senate also streamlined its rules. There was a possibility it could bring some measures to a vote today as well.

Mood Answers Request

The mood of lawmakers seemed to answer Gov. George Romney's request that "excessive partisanship and personal rancor" be set aside in the interests of quick action.

Romney, meanwhile, said he will expand the special session call to include action on a proposed $35 million complex of state office buildings near the capitol.

At the request of a joint House-Senate committee, Romney agreed to seek action on appropriations for starting a $6.7 million highway building, off-street parking facilities and land acquisition for a supreme court building.

Up For Possible Vote

Up for a possible vote in the House today was a bill providing for changes in laws governing eligibility, nomination, election and terms of the governor and lieutenant governor.

Also slated for action were to abolish the elective offices of

Judge Takes Guilty Plea, Dismisses Two Other Cases

Judge Bernard H. Davidson of Negaunee accepted a plea of guilty from one defendant and dismissed two other cases in Marquette County Circuit Court yesterday.

Judge Davidson also has taken under advisement a motion from an attorney to dismiss a drunk driving case.

Fred W. Priebe, 32, Route 1, Green Garden, entered the plea of guilty yesterday to a charge of drunk and disorderly — third offense. He will appear in circuit court Monday morning, Dec. 16, for sentencing.

Priebe appeared yesterday with Michael J. Khoury of Marquette, who was appointed Monday as his attorney.

Being Held In Jail

Being held in the county jail in default of $200 bond, Priebe was arrested for being drunk and disorderly by Marquette police Oct. 30, June 8 and Sept. 19. He was bound over to circuit court by Marquette Municipal Judge Edward H. Dembowski.

Motions for nolle prosequi (dismissal) were granted by Judge Davidson in cases involving:

Benjamin F. Griswold Jr., 30, a Marquette State Prison inmate, on a charge of breaking prison.

Robert Fosmoe, 27, Route 1, North Lake Location, Ishpeming, on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a minor girl.

4 Persons Pay Fines In Court Here

Four persons were ordered to pay a total of $55.70 in fines and costs by Judge Edward H. Dembowski this week in municipal court for traffic law violations.

Sammy Borowiak, 17, K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, paid a fine of $10 and $5.10 costs for leaving the scene of a property damage accident, a fine of $6.30 and $3.70 costs for failure to have his motor vehicle under control and a fine of $6.30 and $3.70 costs for driving without an operator's license.

Ticketed After Mishap

City police arrested Borowiak following an accident Saturday night on W. Spring St.

For allowing an unlicensed person to operate a motor vehicle, Meredith A. Schulz, 320 E. Kaye Ave., was ordered to pay a fine of $6.30 and $3.70 costs.

Joseph C. Elenberg, 221 Jackson St., paid a fine of $6.30 and $3.70 costs for failure to have his motor vehicle under control, following an accident Saturday on W. Washington St.

Speeding Count

For speeding — driving 35 miles per hour in a 25-MPH zone, Rease W. Premeau, 712 Norwood St., was fined $1.30 and ordered to pay costs of $3.70.

Stanley E. Havlick, 235 Carey Hall, ticketed for a traffic light violation, and James P. VanLandegem Jr., 441 W. Magnetic St., ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way, were declared not guilty, after each entered a not guilty plea.

Meat Called Bargain This Week

DETROIT (AP)—Plenty of red meat is available at economical prices in the nation's groceries this weekend to help Christmas shoppers maintain their stamina.

The flow of hogs to Midwestern markets has been the heaviest in almost two years, suggesting "specials" should be frequent and inviting.

Supplies Strong

Beef supplies are also strong, running 15 per cent above a year ago.

Cross-country checks indicate that the most often featured beef cuts this week include steaks, corn beef, round and chuck roasts and sirloin tip roasts.

Widespread pork features include spareribs, bacon smoked

Judge Takes Guilty Plea, Dismisses Two Other Cases

Judge Bernard H. Davidson of Negaunee accepted a plea of guilty from one defendant and dismissed two other cases in Marquette County Circuit Court yesterday.

Judge Davidson also has taken under advisement a motion from an attorney to dismiss a drunk driving case.

Fred W. Priebe, 32, Route 1, Green Garden, entered the plea of guilty yesterday to a charge of drunk and disorderly — third offense. He will appear in circuit court Monday morning, Dec. 16, for sentencing.

Priebe appeared yesterday with Michael J. Khoury of Marquette, who was appointed Monday as his attorney.

Being Held In Jail

Being held in the county jail in default of $200 bond, Priebe was arrested for being drunk and disorderly by Marquette police Oct. 30, June 8 and Sept. 19. He was bound over to circuit court by Marquette Municipal Judge Edward H. Dembowski.

Motions for nolle prosequi (dismissal) were granted by Judge Davidson in cases involving:

Benjamin F. Griswold Jr., 30, a Marquette State Prison inmate, on a charge of breaking prison.

Robert Fosmoe, 27, Route 1, North Lake Location, Ishpeming, on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a minor girl.

Turned Self In

Griswold walked away from the prison Sept. 11 when he was a trusty in the prison's outside dormitory. He gave himself up the next morning after spending the night in the woods in Chocoylay Township.

He was reported missing at 9:40 p. m., Sept. 11 and at 10:30 the next morning he went to the Victor Mattson residence, about two miles from the dormitory, and asked that state police be called.

He is serving a 7½ to 15 year term for breaking and entering in the nighttime.

State Firms Would Profit From Bill

LANSING (AP)—A bill which would wipe out the state law requiring Michigan firms to incorporate every 30 years and pay a franchise fee is awaiting action in the Legislature.

Although it was introduced as a bill to help implement the new constitution—and was listed in Gov. George Romney's message on that subject—there is no demand in the document that such legislation be passed.

There was uncertainty Wednesday over how much the bill, if passed, would cost the state in the loss of fees paid by companies to reincorporate at the end of the 30-year period.

The fees are paid on a formula based on a company's capital stock.

Michigan Bill

One aide to Romney said he thought the total for some 99 profit companies and 31 non-profit corporations in the first nine months of 1964, however, would come to less than $500,000.

The largest single firm facing payment of a fee in 1964 reportedly is Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Its franchise fee was reported to be about $250,000.

Michigan Bell was last incorporated in 1934 and its 30-year period will expire Jan. 25.

Romney said the bill has been introduced in the special session to avoid a situation under which some companies would have to pay the fee after Jan. 1, 1964 and others would not if the bill was passed later next year.

Holiday Volume Up; Send Mail Early, Courtney Says

Early mailing of all Christmas cards and gift parcels is the biggest single factor in getting all of the mail delivered before the holiday, states Postmaster John S. Courtney.

Courtney said post office facilities have been expanded, "ample help will be available, and everything is being geared up to handle a record Christmas mail this year."

'Battle Against Time'

The entire Christmas mailing period is a big battle against time, he said. Even though Christmas is a few weeks away by the calendar, it's Christmas every day at the post office from now on.

Courtney advises: "Don't take chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use sturdy corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy wrapping paper and strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be well stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the contents.

"If you have articles of unusual size or bulk, better check with the post office before attempting to mail them. The limits of size and weight of packages vary, depending on where you mail your packages from."

"Always send your Christmas cards by first class mail, using the new five cent Christmas Tree stamps, and be sure your return name and address, including your ZIP code number, is on each Christmas card envelope."

"Before you mail your Christmas cards, secure free labels from the post office which read, "All for local delivery" and "All for out of town delivery," so that you can sort your cards into two bundles, with the addresses all facing one way, thus expediting delivery."

He had been reassigned to McGuire Air Force Base, N. J., and was enroute to his new assignment at the time of the accident.

Woman Also Killed

Also killed in the wreck was Mrs. Anna Marguerite Julian, 63, Otsego. State police said Mrs. Julian was riding in a car driven by her husband, Andrew, 73. Kistler was driving the other car.

Funeral arrangements for Airman Kistler are not known here. He is survived by his father in Kalamazoo.

Committee Member Details Conservation Agency Study Report

(The following article was written by Jean Worth, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press and a member of the Governor's special study committee on the conservation department. — Ed.)

By JEAN WORTH
Journal Special Correspondence
 Gov. Romney has announced the findings of his special study committee on the conservation department, and the relatively brief news report on the eight-month study's findings points the difficulty of explaining something as complex as the conservation department simply and quickly.

The public image of the conservation department is probably largely one of an agency which controls hunting and fishing in Michigan, but these are only two items in a big program of activities carried on by the department at a cost of about $18 million a year. It is the guardian of Michigan's natural resources owned by the public, and this very description points to a problem of today.

Conserving Vs. Using
 The conservation department, created in the 1920s by merging some earlier agencies, was originally intended to "conserve" the state's natural resources, and this is still a prime function, but today the accent is upon wise "use" of our resources for human benefits. When a public forest area, for instance, becomes more useful as a campground than for the production of timber, very obviously it should become a campground, but even so it can often serve multiple uses, and be, in some areas, both a campground and a wood producing area.

Political criticism of the conservation department most often lights on its policies for hunting and fishing, and certainly the public hears most about these complaints because of the highly vocal organizations of outdoor sportsmen like the Michigan United Conservation Clubs and the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association. But where the game division gets 11 per cent of the department budget, parks get 16 per cent and parks also "free load" on game and fish divisions because their license fees bear such a disproportionate cost of administration of the department.

Commission Control Urged
 The Governor's study was concerned with the complaints of the hunters and fishermen and it was counseled by the Wildlife Management Institute which has studied the conservation departments of more than 30 states, some of them several times. The Governor's committee urged upon the Governor and the conservation commission and Legislature the closing of all seasons on wildlife with commission control of hunting seasons and regulations to follow. This has been done effectively in other states.

It is inconceivable that any broad program of wildlife control could be enforced without some public sniping, but the Governor's committee thought that Michigan's conservation department can do much more than it has to explain its reasons for policies to the public. In Missouri, for instance, three years of preparation grooved in the beginning of doe shooting with a maximum of public acceptance and minimum of public protest.

Minority Report
 The committee of 21 persons headed by Robert McLoughlin, vice president of McLouth Steel Corp. and a former conservation department official, wasn't unanimous in its beliefs about what's best for the conservation department, but, except for a minority report by Dr. Paul Herbert, former head of the School of Natural Resources at Michigan State University, it agreed on the report and signed it.

The report finds many things that can be improved, but it also finds much excellence in the department, and it cites the high quality of personnel which the department has been able to employ. But the laws which field service officers must enforce are overlapping and even contradictory and need codification. The structure of the department (who's responsible to whom?) creaks, and organizational expert George Baker, a vice president of Wyandotte Chemical Co., headed a subcommittee which recommended that it be restructured to cut out the clutter which has accumulated in 40 years of department growth and to clearly define the lines of authority.

Question Of Loyalty
 The proposed restructuring would locate the planners of the department staff in Lansing and the executives would be in the field, in five regions of the state. The commission would be restricted to policy formation as its only function. Some commissioners have tried to run the department at times.

The committeemen soon learned that the Cabots don't speak to the Lodges in some department divisions; that loyalty to their own division transcends loyalty to the department in some situations and that there's been quite a little "empire building" in the divisions. This is wasteful and causes duplication and robs the director of the authority he should have to enforce the policies of the commission.

No Magic In Report
 The study found that the department isn't bad at all, but that it can be better and that it had better be to cope with the big problems of today and tomorrow, with increasing population expanding the demand for parks, playgrounds, campgrounds, beaches, nature interpretation programs, game, forest trails, fishing waters, etc.

 There's no magic in the report of the Governor's committee. It pointed some well known truths and some more obscure ones and it suggested possible solutions to the major problems. The final judgment on the report will be the amount of suggestion which is adopted by the Legislature, commission and department.

Name Change Recommended
 The committee didn't put a price tag on its suggestions, but it believes that some situations can be phased out without disrupting the department and that it can be set up on a changed basis that will give the state more for the money that it spends on conservation.

Its first recommendation was that the name "Department of Conservation" be changed to "Department of Natural Resources" to stress a concept of use of our natural resources for maximum human benefit.

At present, about 10 per cent of the land area of the world is covered by ice, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

Peace Corps Exams Here On Saturday

U. S. Peace Corps officials have announced that this Saturday will be the last opportunity this year to take the placement test and qualify for spring training. The tests will be given in the Marquette Post Office Building.

The Marquette Post Office is one of 860 locations where the non-competitive aptitude tests will be administered throughout the U. S. beginning at 8:30 a.m.

For most applicants, the placement tests will take about one and a half hours. Those who claim a knowledge of Spanish or French will be asked to take an additional one-hour language achievement test.

To become a volunteer, an applicant must not only take the test but submit a Peace Corps Questionnaire. Those who have not done so will be asked to complete one immediately after the testing. No applicant may take the test for a second time without special authority from the Peace Corps.

There are passing or failing marks on the placement test. The scores are used, along with other criteria, to aid in the selection process. They help the Peace Corps to place prospective volunteers in the most appropriate overseas assignments. The placement test consists of a 30-minute general aptitude test and another of the same length on modern language aptitude.

New Opportunities
 Over 6,000 new opportunities in the Peace Corps are now open in Africa, Asia and Latin America. India is asking for nurses, Thailand for English teachers, Turkey for social workers, Gabon for carpenters, Brazil wants more community development workers. Dozens of countries are asking the Peace Corps for volunteers for hundreds of different jobs — especially in fields of engineering, agriculture, health, construction and education.

Liberal arts college graduates, and others with no special "skills," have been found highly useful overseas in the fields of teaching and community development programs. A college education is not required.

To qualify to take the placement test applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years old. Married couples are eligible if both qualify and have no dependents under 18.

Job absenteeism is at its height during the month of February, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. More workers are out then due to illness and injury than in any other month of the year.

Bridge In U.P. Named After JFK

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department plans to name the bridge carrying U.S. 41 over the Portage Canal between Houghton and Hancock in the Upper Peninsula the John F. Kennedy Memorial Bridge.

The bridge has been without an official name since it was opened in 1960.

The highway department said numerous Upper Peninsula citizens urged the name.

Keep Stores Safe From Fire, Plea

With the Christmas shopping season reaching its peak, the Marquette County Fire Fighters Association today urged managers and owners of retail establishments to keep their stores fire safe during the season.

The association, comprised of fire fighting departments from throughout the country, listed the following safety precautions, as recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which it said should be observed by store managers:

1. Be sure that all emergency exits in the store are clearly marked.
2. See to it that all aisles and exits are kept free from obstructions.
3. Empty packing cases, cartons, and waste materials should be disposed of promptly as goods are unpacked.
4. Make it a rule to clear backrooms and cellars of such materials every day.
5. Allow smoking only in specially designated areas.

6. Give instructions to all clerks and other employees on how to handle fire extinguishers and other fire emergency equipment in the place of business.
7. Only non-flammable or at least slow-burning materials should be used in store decorations. Keep decorations away from electric light bulbs.
8. Employ only qualified electricians to install new wiring or extensions.
9. If Christmas lights are installed, check the fuse box to be sure each circuit has the proper size fuse.
10. Call a meeting of employees so you can explain to them that panic caused by outbreak of fire in a retail establishment, as in a crowded hall, can kill and injure as many people as fire itself.

If fire should break out in one section of the store, clerks should urge customers to remain calm and file outside quickly but in an orderly fashion.

11. Clerks and other employees should also be told that while fire extinguishers may be used to control small fires, a small fire can quickly become a large fire. Call the fire department immediately.

12. A fire reporting plan should be worked out. Have clerks work in teams of three in a fire emergency.

Utah's Great Salt Lake is much saltier than the oceans of the world.

Benefits In TB Yule Seal Drive Cited

Part of the receipts from the Marquette County Tuberculosis Association's Christmas seal campaign will be used to fight respiratory diseases as well as tuberculosis.

According to National Health Survey interviews conducted in 1959-1961, respiratory allergy in the form of asthma-hay fever occurs in 86 out of every 1,000 Americans. These persons had a total of 33 million bed disability days annually.

Survey Result

In each calendar quarter of the year ending June 1962, respiratory illness was the leading contributor to the total volume of acute morbidity which received medical attention or led individuals to restrict their activity, National Health Surveys Show.

Of the 402 million acute conditions reported during that year, respiratory illness accounted for 231 million cases, a ratio of six out of 10.

The common cold was responsible for 112 million of these respiratory cases and was the leading acute illness. Influenza was the second, with 81 million cases.

During the year, an average of more than five days was lost from school by each school age child because of acute illness or injury and respiratory illness was responsible for two-thirds of these days.

Deaths from many diseases of the respiratory system are on the increase. Pneumonia continues as one of the leading causes of death in the United States, killing more than 50,000 persons a year.

Cancer of the respiratory system causes more than 40,000 deaths annually.

taverns were announced by the State Liquor Control Commission. It said no liquor is to be sold between 9 p.m. Christmas Eve and 7 a.m. Dec. 26. For New Year's Eve, the bars can stay open until 3 a.m. Jan. 1.

Each year, some 1,600 showers averaging 20 minutes' duration douse the jungle-clad slopes of 3,494-foot El Yunque Mountain in Puerto Rico.

A British industrialist has offered a $14,000 prize to the first man to propel himself over a mile-long, figure-eight course, keeping at least 10 feet above the ground. The Royal Aeronautical Society is contributing grants and advice.

Dimes Drive Units In U.P. Meet Here

Plans for the Upper Peninsula's March of Dimes campaign in January will be charted at a meeting in the University Center of Northern Michigan University this Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m.

Robert O. Cook, Marquette, state representative for the National Foundation, said the annual fund-raising appeal of the National Foundation — March of Dimes will seek funds for assisting in furthering the fight against birth defects, arthritis and polio and for the Salk Institute for Biological Studies, now under construction in San Diego, Calif.

Along with volunteers from all U. P. counties, representatives of the National Foundation from Detroit and Grand Rapids will be present.

All interested people are invited to attend, Cook said.

U.P. Pilot Victim In AF Crash

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP) — The Air Force has identified the missing pilot of a jet fighter that crashed into the Atlantic Tuesday as Lt. John S. Weideman, 25, of Houghton, Mich.

Col. Victor Sampson, commander of Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, said an air-sea search for Weideman, who was believed to have ejected before the plane crashed, was continuing.

In AF Since 1961

The crash occurred about nine miles south of the base. Weideman has been in the Air Force since 1961. He is married to the former Mary Ann Ferris of Houghton.

Financial Scene: Economy In U.S. Grows; Thrift Hard

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Even thrift and frugality probably can't keep the federal budget from rising to a new high.

It's like fitting a growing child into last year's clothes.

The American economy is growing. The population shoots up. The additional number of citizens, old and young, require more of existing types of services. And the standard of services demanded increases each year. Also, the great momentum of federal programs under way can't be turned back, only held in some check by thrift and frugality.

$100 Billion Budget

President Johnson apparently is making a fight to trim requests for government departments for funds. Even so, the spending side of the budget is expected to range from $98 billion to $103 billion, with the odds favoring somewhere around $100 billion, a record.

Expectations for Treasury receipts, the other side of the budget, are clouded just now by two factors:

- What the Senate will do about the House-passed bill to cut federal income tax rates for individuals and corporations.
- Whether the present business upswing will continue long enough to assure increased corporate and personal incomes the Treasury can tax at whatever rate finally decided.

In one view greater prosperity will increase federal tax collections even at lower rates. Doubters say a tax cut could only increase the federal deficit above the $9 billion, which presently is the goal of the budget makers.

A deficit is as sure if federal agencies heed the President's call for thrift and an end to waste.

Dollar Size Doesn't Matter?

It will mean a larger federal debt. But those who are undismayed at this prospect contend that the dollar size of the debt doesn't matter if the size in the debt is at about the same percentage rate as the growth in the economy as measured by the dollar value of total production of goods and services.

The argument is that with a larger population, a growing economy, added services, everything else must increase too, including the federal budget and the federal debt.

King Cancels Speech At Western Michigan

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Southern integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King canceled his Monday night speech at Western Michigan University here.

A university spokesman said the school was advised from Atlanta that Dr. King was ill. He said an attempt would be made to reschedule the talk.

Reports indicate there now are nearly 14 million American families in which both husband and wife work.

Lloyd LeVasseur

The greatest tribute that can be paid to Lloyd LeVasseur already has been paid many times. It was paid every even-numbered year in the voting booths of Marquette County. It was paid when his fellow citizens returned him to public office time and again by overwhelming majorities. They elected him county surveyor in 1934. Two years later, they elected him county clerk, and, ignoring party labels, they re-elected him to that office every other year since then.

He won 15 consecutive county elections, and on several occasions he polled more votes than any other candidate for either party and for any office — county, state or national. That record is an eloquent tribute and speaks better than any words the high regard in which he was held by the people of his own county.

He earned that high regard not only by virtue of his tremendous personal popularity, but also by virtue of the diligent and dedicated manner in which he carried out his duties as a public servant.

He put all of his surprising energy and skill into whatever he did — whether it was swearing in a witness in a circuit court trial or singing in a barber shop quartet, whether it was preparing ballots for an election or hunting ruffed grouse. It never occurred to him to do part of the job or play half of the game.

This sounds as though he were an intensely serious person — and indeed he was, when that is what the occasion demanded. But, like Mark Twain, he never lost his marvellous sense of humor, and this is what endeared him most to all who knew him. This, and some wonderful quality that never allowed him to say an unkind word about anyone.

He was a man who had the rare gift of being able to be proud and humble at the same time, and he could be just as much at ease at a formal dinner party as at a hunting camp, although there was never any doubt about where he preferred to be.

His dislikes were few — pomposity, insincerity and woodticks are the only ones that come quickly to mind. But the things he liked were many, and included among them was a multitude of friends, more friends, possibly, than anyone else in the county.

His death yesterday is mourned by all of these friends. It has taken from the county one of its finest citizens.

Criticizes Letter

Dear Sir: The editorial page in the Nov. 26 edition of The Mining Journal cited many ironies in the events of the preceding week.

There is one more. The same edition contained a letter written by Dr. R. G. Haight of Negaunee and statements made by Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Goldwater.

Dr. Haight certainly lost little time in airing political views, while both of these big men have announced that during the 30-day mourning period for our late President they will refrain from campaigning.

Ruby And Oswald

Dear Sir: People are pretty well split over whether Jack Ruby should be brought to trial for murder in the Oswald case. Some think Oswald should have been shot, some think the law should have taken its course, others believe that with the death of Oswald we will never know the full truth.

As for Mr. Ruby paying with his own life for executing the murderer of our President, the Bible states in Numbers 35:29, etc., "So these things shall be a statute of judgment unto you throughout your generations — whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death by the mouth of witnesses, but one witness shall not testify against any person to cause him to die."

As the actions of Mr. Oswald were traced before and after the murder, where many witnesses proved his guilt and the evidence is overwhelming, he was as guilty as Judas. Whether he died at the hands of Mr. Ruby or at the hands of the state was immaterial.

The Bible states in Gen. 9:5, etc., "And surely your blood of your lives will I require; at the hand of every beast will I require it, and at the hand of man; at the hand of every man's brother will I require the life of man. Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made He man." One can see from this that Mr. Ruby is not guilty of shedding blood, innocent blood. But, as we are all made in the image of God, we should never do evil to anyone. If Mr. Oswald had this impression of life, President Kennedy would still be alive and trying to do good.

Shedding the blood of an innocent person puts a curse upon the ground, and it will be accursed until the murderer's blood is shed or he is punished. This does not mean accidental killings.

Someone may say, as they usually do, that we should not judge and we should not kill or execute men. God gave man dominion over everything, as it states in the first chapter of the Bible. We must rule or dominate these murderers or they will eventually dominate the lives of the people.

60 Years Ago

—Marquette— The season now drawing to a close at the Marquette Life Saving Station has been, Capt. Cleary reports, the quietest and most uneventful in the dozen years since the life saving service was introduced here, as well as the quietest that Capt. Cleary has put in during his 23 years connection with the government's life saving corps. The Marquette crew has been called on for no important work and has been called on at all but a few times, and then on account of minor accidents in and about the harbor. The crew is credited with no lives saved during the season of '03, but this is entirely because there have been no marine disasters in the vicinity of Marquette.

—Ishpeming— The improvement work in the basement of the city building is rapidly nearing completion, the cement floor of the boiler room alone remaining to be finished. The floors have been laid throughout all the other compartments.

30 Years Ago

—Marquette— Nearly 4,200 of Marquette's 6,600 registered voters went to the polls yesterday, elected Arthur F. Jacques mayor by a sweeping majority over Peter J. Schon and gave Lee McGinley a 125-vote margin over William H. Elliott in a touch and go contest for commissioner.

—Ishpeming— The Marquette County Emergency Welfare Relief Commission today completed the transfer to 1,465 men from welfare work relief ments. After the workmen have finished their task in the boiler room, operations will be suspended until spring, when it is slated that municipal baths will be installed in the apartment which has been arranged especially to accommodate them. All other improvements at the building have also been postponed until next year.

—Negaunee— The force of the Princeton Mine has been reduced almost half, about 40 men having been laid off. The mine is now operated by but one shift. The reason for the curtailment is found in the inability to dispose of the stocks of ore on account of the dullness in the iron trade. The Princeton is a large producer, 118,049 tons being shipped during 1902. The Marie Charlotte has cut down its force of employees. About 160 men have been laid off. Little if any ore will be mined this winter, operations being confined to developing the deposits. A force of experienced miners has been retained for carrying on this work.

rolls of the Marquette County Road Commission to civil works administration projects, the quota of transfers allotted under the federal program.

—Negaunee— "Under the stimulus of gradually mounting shipments, steel works operations have held between 28 and 29 per cent for the third consecutive week, and this week may develop a slight rise, contrary to the seasonal trend which usually begins to draw down the rate from the middle of November to the close of the year," states the magazine Steel.

News Behind The News

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — All former Eagle Scouts and even jokers who flunked Tenderfoot will wish Joe Clark luck in his campaign to reform the United States Senate. Clark will be grateful for these good wishes while privately coveting a set of brass knuckles, which he'll need more.

Joe Clark is a Democratic senator from Pennsylvania with blood of the purest blue, the mien of a 4-H Club Boy of the Year and the combative instincts of a wounded mountain lion. He is one of the few senators in the history of that storied club who has dared to go to the mat with that little band of powerful and mercilessly efficient men who boss the Senate — tough cookies like Virginia's Harry Byrd, Georgia's Richard Russell, Arizona's Carl Hayden, Mississippi's Jim Eastland and John Stennis and Arkansas' John McClellan.

Clark, of course, is right as rain. Congress cannot act if its committees will not act, and the reason it is still in session when it should have adjourned last July is that the committees have not acted. And the reason the committees have not acted is because the Senate's seniority system has placed control of these committees in the hands of men who do not want to act — Byrd of Finance, McClellan of Appropriations and Eastland of Judiciary.

Unfortunately, the remedy is a long-haul matter, and it is hard to imagine the Senate — which can be willful in matters of even the most minor concern — going along with any plan to curb the powers of those men who control it. There will be no improvement in the Senate product until the Senate modernizes itself, and up to now it hasn't even approved a resolution asking for a study of the matter.

Temporary Solution

Clark has come up with a proposal for a shorthaul improvement that should warm the cockles of most taxpayers' hearts. It is a proposal that the leadership on both sides simply play a little politics by disciplining through party action members of the Establishment who willfully hold up legislation. This would include refusal to support the foot-draggers for committee seats or chairmanships.

But again the Pennsylvania senator's thinking is wishful, even if correct. The Republican leadership couldn't care less whether the program of a Democratic administration is given a hearing, and the Democratic leadership has never had the guts to aim a swift kick at its own rebels, lest the kick miss its target and add to the chaos.

Backslapper Now Chief

Unfortunately, too, Clark is on record in a Senate speech as sharply critical of a man who today has considerably more influence than he did on Thursday, Nov. 21, when Clark made the speech. Clark said he had "no desire to return to the days prior to 1961 when the majority leader spent his time . . . in backslapping, chest jabbing and arm twisting."

Clark added, "Those days, I hope, are gone forever." But the next day the "backslapping, chest-jabbing and arm-twisting" majority leader — a man named Lyndon Johnson — became President of the United States.

'The Language Of Flowers'

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (The) — You love the girl? Then send her a rose.

You're sick of the guy? Then send him a bouquet of Michaelmas daisies.

Want her to marry you? Send her sprigs of ivy.

Those and dozens of other sentiments and declarations — which can be expressed by flowers — are the subject of a book published here.

It's called "The Language of Flowers."

War With Tansy Explaining it, the publishers said: "To express gratitude or affection by the gift of flowers is common enough, but nowadays few people make use of the opportunities provided by this pleasant custom to express other and more specific sentiments."

"For instance, how nice and delightful simple, to be able to express one's constancy with a bunch of bluebells, or to declare war with a spring of wild tansy," they said. The book, with illustrations, has 88 pages. The author is a Mrs. L. Harris.

It has two easy indexes. One explains what the various flowers, fruits and plants mean. The other explains numerous sentiments — and what to send to express them.

Here are a few: Admiration — amethyst. Ardor — the cuckoo plant. Beware — Oleander. Coldheartedness — lettuce. Dangerous pleasures — tuberoses.

Disgust — frog ophrys. Falsehood — yellow lily. Fascination — fern. Hopeless love — yellow tulip.

Expressing Horror There are three ways to express horror — by sending mandrakes, dragonswort, snakesfoot.

If you want to say, "I'm worthy of you," you send a white rose.

Should you want to say, "My best days are past," send colchicum or meadow saffron.

Should you want to say that someone's absolutely perfect — the pineapple is the answer.

Views Of Others

ABUNDANCE

What is especially new in the U.S. is abundance — the discovery that we have the capacity now to provide all the goods and services needed by all of our citizens. Americans — but not all of them — have more than they need of many goods and services, even with a good deal of obsolete machinery and methods and unused farm lands. We have even created a formidable surplus of unemployed. It is my conviction, based on this stubborn surplus, that full employment has to be discarded as a national goal; that most of the widening pool of hitherto employable men and women will never again find sustained employment; and that this growing group of human rejects constitutes another totally new situation, one heavy with revolutionary implications. . . .

New theories and new institutions are called for, not mere modifications or touch-ups of the old. Nor do I mean substitutions, such as substitution of socialist theory for classical economics. Socialist theory is as qualitatively threadbare as classical economic theory, and there just is not enough of it to cover today's conditions. Socialist incantations, like capitalist incantations, are largely directed to vanished circumstances. — W. H. Ferry in Cambridge (Cambridge, Mass.)

Who Else Is There?

By JOSEPH ALSOP

AVON, Conn. — Judging by this state, it is far too early to say — as so many are now saying — that the new political situation in the country will block the movement to make Sen. Barry Goldwater the Republican presidential nominee.

Connecticut makes a particularly good test area, precisely because the tragic assassination of President Kennedy has revolutionized the entire outlook here. As will be recalled, this state led the election night list for Kennedy in 1960, giving him a majority above 90,000.

Lone Republican Thought In Danger Once in the White House, moreover, he had gained even more support here. Hence he was universally expected to carry Connecticut next time by up to 200,000 votes, and perhaps by more.

While President Kennedy lived, therefore, no rational Republican had the smallest hope of beating Connecticut's Democratic senator, Thomas Dodd, and the five Democratic representatives who are up for re-election. Indeed, Connecticut's sole Republican member of the House, Abner Sibal, was generally thought to be in grave danger.

Even so, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller seemed almost certain to gather in the Connecticut delegates to the Republican convention — until he remarked, hereupon, however, former Sen. Prescott Bush made the first and the most damaging public attack on the governor, calling on him to refrain from seeking the presidential nomination on moral grounds.

In Constant Touch With Leaders From that day to this, no significant Connecticut Republican has come into the open for Rockefeller, although the governor's political agent-in-chief, George Hinman, has been in constant touch with various leaders here. Meanwhile, the Goldwater supporters were making hay in Connecticut until President Kennedy was assassinated.

The heart of the Goldwater movement is in the rich suburban town of Greenwich, where the leaders are four masters of great fortunes, Gerrish Milliken, Jeremiah Milbank Jr., Lowell Weicker and J. William Middendorf. Middendorf is also national finance chairman of the Goldwaters, and Weicker has been first selectman of Greenwich since the Goldwater faction overthrew the town's former progressive Republican leadership.

From this Greenwich base, which assures the most lavish financing, the Goldwater movement has rapidly extended outward into the rest of the state. The official leader, soon to be announced, is a former aspirant to the governorship and the current Republican state finance chairman, Newman Marsilius.

Support for Goldwater by a substantial majority of township leaders is already being claimed. In each township (the basic political unit in this state) Goldwater organizations are already being formed at the grass-roots level. The object, obviously, is to hog-tie the Connecticut Republican convention long before it convenes and then to take the whole Connecticut delegation for Goldwater as it was taken for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952.

No effective obstacle to this scheme was visible anywhere prior to the loss of President Kennedy. This was the case although the hot-eyed Goldwaterites were in a decided minority among Connecticut Republicans, who generally lean to the progressive side.

The party as a whole was (and still is) split seven ways to Sunday, principally by the feud between the former and present chairmen, Edwin May and Searle Pinney. Besides being divided among themselves, even those Republicans who were most certain Goldwater would be poison in Connecticut were also certain no one could beat a Kennedy-led ticket here. Thus, no effective opposition to Goldwater coalesced anywhere.

Republican Victory Called Possible Now, however, everything has changed, or at least everything ought to change. President Johnson, while not unpopular, has none of the strong, sure support in Connecticut Kennedy had. In the abstract, it appears entirely possible that the loss of Kennedy can swing Connecticut into the Republican column in 1964.

"Against Lyndon Johnson, I think we can win here with anyone but Barry Goldwater," says a Republican leader who wishes to remain nameless, because he thinks he may end by having to give formal support to the conservative Republican hero. "And with the right kind of presidential nominee, we ought then to have a chance to pick up Dodd's Senate seat and several House seats."

In other words, the Connecticut Republicans now have a powerful incentive to seek a presidential candidate more attractive than Goldwater. The incentive is a packet of offices which the Democrats seemed sure to hold while Kennedy lived, but which may now be up for grabs.

Most Republicans agree with the man above-quoted, that these offices will not be up for grabs if Goldwater is the Republican nominee. Against Goldwater, it is generally felt, Johnson ought to get something like the Connecticut majority that Kennedy got last time.

Yet the Rockefeller remargine continues to discourage party support for him; and everyone glumly asks, "Who else is there, except Gov. Scranton, who won't make a move?" That is why it may be premature to say Goldwater is blocked.

In Case Of Nuclear Attack

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The assassination of President Kennedy raises some grisly questions which were not a problem when John Wilkes Booth planned to kill President Lincoln and some of the highest officials around him.

There were no intercontinental ballistic missiles in Lincoln's day. At that time the nation could not be in immediate danger if someone were not found within a matter of minutes to become president and commander-in-chief.

Such a foe might think in terms of assassination, not of the President alone, but those in the immediate line of succession: The Vice President and the two congressional leaders.

It isn't hard to imagine the dismay and confusion after four such assassinations if they all occurred within a few minutes. The telephone lines would be a mess. And how could anyone be sure who was dead and who was alive?

Officials have said American nuclear missiles are so well scattered and protected and could reply so fast that an enemy beginning an attack would be equally devastated.

Such statements, a discouragement to an enemy, are based on the assumption that at the moment of attack there would be someone in supreme authority to order, and very quickly, a counter-blow.

As commander-in-chief, the President would give the order. If the President were killed, the Vice President, by becoming President and commander-in-chief, would give the order.

Under a 1947 law, if there is no president or vice president, then next in line of succession to the presidency are the speaker of the House, the speaker pro tempore of the Senate, and then the Cabinet officers, starting with the secretary of state.

Looks Clear, Simple So the line of succession, spelled out this way, looks clear and simple. If the enemy began an attack by dropping nuclear bombs on Washington, the President and all those next in line might be wiped out.

Since time then would be so precious, the highest military officers would have to give the counter-attack order. This isn't likely to be made public.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After being married for quite a few years my husband and I got a divorce. I have been happily remarried for a year. I see my ex-husband periodically as he comes to visit the child we had. A few weeks ago he told me that he had gotten remarried. I've never met the woman, but he said she didn't have much style, and would I mind giving her some tips on how to dress and fix her hair and make up, etc. I don't feel any animosity toward her, but I cannot imagine a man bringing his second wife to his first wife to be "made over." How would you handle this?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I'd be tempted to thank him for the compliment, but decline the assignment.

DEAR ABBY: I have wanted a pet monkey ever since I can remember. People who have had them say they make good pets. Are they hard to train? Do they require much care? I am an adult.

MAD FOR MONKEYS IN IOWA

DEAR MAD: Monkeys make wonderful pets. (I had a pair, David and Bathsheba.) They are impossible to train (if you mean house-break) and require no more care than a dog or cat. You will need either a heated cage or a warm, dry place inside for the little creature. Iowa winters are nothing to monkey with.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I accepted an engagement ring from a young man I have known only three months. I am sure I have made the right choice. My former boy friend is out of the city and will be gone for some time. He is on an assignment, serving his church. I went with him for two years and, during that time he gave me several gifts and some pictures of himself. Should I take the gifts and pictures to his parents? I don't want them around.

CHANGE OF HEART
DEAR CHANGE: No. Maybe his parents don't want them around, either. Wait until your former boy friend returns, and ask him if he wants them returned.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JIM L.: Hard work is usually an accumulation of things you didn't do.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

'Saint Joan' Marks New Theater's Debut

By ALLAN S. COLES
Of The Journal Staff

The Little Theatre in the new Fine and Practical Arts Building at Northern Michigan University made its debut last night, as the NMU Speech Department presented George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan" in the first of four performances running at 8:15 each evening through Saturday.

The debut was successful on nearly all points, as the Little Theatre itself and the cast of the play came through with a happy lack of major faults and an excellent performance of the play.

One hardly knows where to start in describing the opening of the theatre and the play, for many persons deserve credit for the opening night success.

Cast Excellent

To begin with the cast, Miss Susan Lynn Waite, a secondary education junior who came to Northern from Suffolk (N.Y.) College, gave us a fine Jeanne D'Arc and was supported admirably by a host of others.

Miss Waite's Joan was a dramatic figure, holding attention throughout the play even when other characters had extended speaking roles. Shaw's play is a delicate balance of humor and tragedy, full of a hard-to-capture irony which is even more difficult to communicate to an audience.

The entire cast handled these difficulties very well for the most part, although attempts to heavily underscore dramatic lines and speeches sometimes served to weight them with a feeling approaching melodrama rather than stark reality.

Miss Waite's voice is a very distinct one, and her previous experience on the stage in New York shows in her clipped, precise diction. In fact, it seemed almost too precise for a French Joan. Her portrayal of Joan was exceptionally fine for a non-professional. The personality is difficult to portray, for it changes markedly as the major events of the play unfold.

There is first an exultant, blithely confident Joan, full of a strange religio-military fervor and strength. The successful battle at Orleans and the crowning of the Dauphin at Rheims Cathedral leave Joan bored and spent. This is perhaps the most difficult Joan to project, a Joan who is still anxious to fight, still full of conviction, but with no place to use it. Miss Waite did a fine job with this Joan, and toward the end of the play became a tragic, broken peasant girl with a desperate, slipping grasp on the faith which carried her through the Orleans battle.

Other standouts were Gerald Shimon in the role of the Archbishop of Rheims, Steven Vickers as the Dauphin and later Charles VII, Richard Bethel as Dunois, Hubert McMahon as the Earl of Warwick, Dick Bond as the chauvinistic Chaplain de Stogumber, Peter Cauchon as the Bishop of Beauvais and Peter Umbras as the rational, philosophic Inquisitor.

Shimon gave us a true portrayal of the archbishop, a militant and haughty prince of the medieval Church. Vickers was truly an excellent Dauphin, petulant, ineffective and adolescent to the point of hilarity.

Bethel made a fine Dunois, carrying the personality of a practical warrior with consistent reality and force. McMahon's Earl of Warwick was a stereotype of the landed peer and feudal ruler who takes nothing seriously save the possibility of a strong monarchy, and Cauchon was the sensitive, honest Bishop of Beauvais to perfection.

Strong Portrait
Although the Inquisitor did not appear until the last scene, Peter Umbras invested the character with such a reality that he creates a major impression of a personality which hovers as a moral undercurrent throughout Shaw's play. He represents a man of rational thought, who although believing that Joan did not know enough about church and law to defend herself, felt regardless that her death was both right and necessary.

The Chaplain de Stogumber, played by Dick Bond, cannot be ignored, for the sheer force of his portrayal was cause for much of the humor which came across effectively from the stage.

There were fine performances by others in the cast, in particular a few of the minor churchmen present at the final "trial" of the last scene, one of whom provided much mirth with his constant harping on trivial charges against Joan, including the "theft of the bishop's horse."

Good Technically

From a physical standpoint, the entire operation was successful. Technical Director E. Paul Arnold deserves kudos for excellent use of stage, materials and sets. Simplicity is often the best approach to a relatively static play such as this, and it was done excellently, with simple props, such as arches, serving several purposes on-stage and in various scenes, becoming now doorways, now Gothic arches. The lighting was kept simple, and as such was very effective.

The Little Theatre is a fine one, with much better acoustics than can usually be expected in a hall of its size and cost.

Great credit goes to Kay Vanderhoff and Sarah Berglund, who apparently spent many hours in research and design, for the costumes were truly magnificent in jeweled richness and historical accuracy.

Smooth, Effective
All in all, the production was a smoothly moving one, highly entertaining, and effective from a serious standpoint. Although the house was not quite full last night, it is likely to be so for the next three, and those who appreciate fine dramatic work would be well advised to act now.

One last hurrah to Director James L. Rapport and the NMU Department of Speech, who have turned out a production worthy of a much larger school and budget, and which should help to gain notice of the department in many places.

Homemaking Tips

If you have an electric skillet, you'll find it's excellent to use in preparing grilled cheese sandwiches. Make the sandwiches as usual, then butter their outsides and place them in the hot skillet; brown slowly, turning once.

Add a teaspoon of grated orange rind to a package of vanilla pudding at the same time you add the milk and cook as usual. Chill and serve with curls of semi-sweet chocolate as a garnish. The orange and chocolate flavors are extremely compatible!

Keep a jar of honey spread on hand in your refrigerator for pancakes and French toast. To make the spread, cream a quarter pound of butter or margarine and very gradually beat in a quarter cup of honey.

When you bring that chef's salad to the table, arrange the strips of Swiss cheese and ham that go in it over the greens and garnish, if you like, with sliced hard-cooked egg. That way the offering will look good enough to eat! Do your tossing (with French dressing), right at the table and whet appetites.

Two cups of seasoned mashed potatoes are enough to stuff six to 8 frankfurters. Slice the franks in half lengthwise but not all the way through, then spread open and stuff with the potato. Bake in a hot oven or broil until franks are hot through the potatoes browned.

Graveraet Chapter JCL Receives 46 Members

A formal initiation ceremony this week under the direction of Mrs. Lola Morrison, Latin teacher at Graveraet, 46 Latin students were accepted as members of the Graveraet Chapter of the Junior Classical League, a national organization composed of local classical clubs in junior and senior high schools. These new members will bring the total count of active JCL members to 104.

After the ceremony ending with these words, "In Latin, as in life, success and satisfaction come only through effort, interest and sacrifice," Roberta Uren and Susan Cardoni explained to the new members some of the benefits they had derived from Junior Classical League. Both were recipients of a JCL scholarship last summer to attend a classical workshop at the University of Michigan. Susan had attended a JCL national convention at the University of Indiana when she was a sophomore. Jim Pearce told of his attendance at a national convention at Montana State College in Bozeman a year ago, where he won second place in the nation in a mythology contest.

The chapter's officers—Stephen Douglas and Cheryl Anderson, consuls; David Sommers and Mary Lu Schwarz, praetors; Linda Heathman and Nancy Fletcher, quæstora—then requested the students to adjourn to the auditorium where the second, third and fourth

Mrs. Lambert Hosts DAR Christmas Meet

The Marquette Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its Christmas meeting, Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Warren C. Lambert, 347 E. Ridge St.

At the meeting, papers sent from the DAR Library in Washington and written by various chapter members were read. One paper, written by Mrs. Soper J. Taul of a Missouri Chapter, entitled "A Christian Christmas for Daughters of the American Revolution," stated "Religion is an essential part of American democracy. In a world where communism seeks to extinguish the torch of faith, that ideal means more than ever before."

Another paper read was entitled "Christmas with Dolly Madison" and was written by Julia Harrison, historian, Sarah Franklin Chapter DAR, Washington, D.C. This was a description of a Christmas dinner with the guests in the White House over 100 years ago.

Mrs. Lawrence Hill, regent, reported that a recent national board meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution 2208 new membership applications were passed, of which 28 per cent were junior members, and a total of 224 reinstatements were confirmed.

A social hour followed the meeting with refreshments served. Mrs. F. S. Kepler poured at a table centered with yellow chrysanthemums.

Finely diced raw celery added to condensed cream of celery soup gives refreshing flavor.

ed to introduce themselves by means of various acts. They were guided by Susan Blumberg and Barbara Specker. The students will now look forward to other JCL events—the Roman banquet, the state convention at the University of Michigan, the JCL National Convention in August to be held at the University of Illinois. Some hope to get scholarships to classical workshops. JCL also offers scholarships for college.

Miss Hawes Shows Work At Chalet

Three oil paintings by Catherine M. Hawes, member of the Lake Superior Creative Arts Association, have been hung at the Chalet for the month of December.

They are entitled "Sunset," "Woods Road" and "Brig a Doon, Scotland." The latter was visited by Miss Hawes on a trip to the British Isles last summer.

Miss Hawes has studied under the direction of Miss Alice Carr, Mrs. Gunther Meyland and Mrs. Tynne Ostlund of Ishpeming.

It is astounding how many things there are to learn in this world. Take cats for instance; only last week we learned that a cat's whiskers are the width of their bodies. When they start to crawl through a small place, they can always measure it by a whisker; and if there is room for that, there is room for the cat! No wonder they have nine lives . . . anyway it is something to think about if there is nothing else on your mind at this time.

Right now at LOU'S we really have things to think about, and you will too if you stop and shop. Our Christmas merchandise is HERE . . . we have to tell you all about it . . . and there is so much to tell.

Your first thought should be for a dress for yourself. After all the rounds of parties are just about to start and you want to be prepared. LOU'S selection includes pastel wools that are just right for all day, and can be "dressed up" in the evening with just the right pin or necklace. The new pastel knits are really beautiful to see and that certain young man will be happy to see you in one of them.

For the cocktail and eating-out-after we have a selection of crepes in black or pastels that are just "right." Many of these are beaded for that look of elegance. Just listen to this . . . a powder blue crepe sheath, featuring a semi-scoop neckline and back, fitted at the waist and beltless. The sleeves tie just below the elbow and are slit from the shoulder to the elbow. Something very very new and a dress that will draw compliments from all the men.

We have so much to show you . . . why not stop in today at LOU'S in the center of Marquette—Advt.

Rates, Fees For Services To Townships Increased By Council; Objections Heard

ISHPEMING — Acting on recommendations of City Manager Thomas McNabb, the Ishpeming City Council last night informed Ely, Ishpeming and Tilden Townships that rates and fees for services provided by the city will be increased.

One township resident, perturbed over the sudden decision of the council, said: "You might just as well put up a toll gate at the entrance to the city if the city is to impose such a hardship on the surrounding townships."

Kenneth Walimaa, Ishpeming Township supervisor, made this statement immediately following the meeting: "This so-called meeting of a governmental body opened with an appropriate invocation by the Rev. Eric Hammar, but as soon as he stepped out of the council chambers, his message was forgotten."

Valente Urges Delay

The council approved increases despite strong objections by township representatives.

Councilman Frank Valente voiced opinion that the council should not take hasty action, but should "get our heads together and discuss this further." He said he didn't blame township representatives for their views and indicated that he recognized their plight as well as that of the City of Ishpeming. "We should compromise and try to work this thing out," he said.

Councilman Jim Jenkins declared: "I see no need to meet again to discuss this issue as the problem and solution to part of our financial difficulties is clear. The City of Ishpeming needs added revenue and it's not unfair to ask for increases in water rates and other fees from township residents, as I feel the township has been fortunate in having low rates for many years."

He agreed with other councilmen that the increases should go into effect as soon as possible.

Stronger Internal Control Needed On State College Spending, Farnum Notes

LANSING (AP)—Auditor Gen. Billie Farnum says an audit of seven state universities and colleges reveals a need for stronger internal controls on how they spend money—and for stricter adherence to state laws and regulations.

Farnum's bulky report, submitted to the Legislature as the special session opened, contained a list of fund shortages and one case of misused funds, revealed in the audit.

It also carried a series of recommendations by Farnum for improving what he called "business practices" at tax-supported institutions.

The annual audit dealt with financial affairs at all state institutions of higher learning except the three largest, University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

As constitutionally self-governing bodies, these three are not required to undergo an annual audit by the state, but only file a report on total spending of money appropriated the previous year.

Farnum indicated, however, that he is considering a plan to audit at least one of the big three universities, despite some questions concerning his legal power.

Noting that all state universities will become self-governing under the new Constitution, Farnum said the Legislature, in implementing the document, should enact a law designed to keep closer tabs on their business and maintenance spending.

Northern Michigan University was cited in Farnum's report for having over its 1962-63 legislative appropriation by $3,781.

The most spectacular disclosure was the alleged misuse of some $29,000 in operating and maintenance funds by Michigan Tech to renovate a new home for its president at Houghton.

Farnum said the school violated the rules by failing to obtain a state work order and secure the approval of the State Administrative Board for the work.

Michigan Tech President James R. Van Pelt said, "when work was begun to prepare this house for occupancy, it was believed mere maintenance would be sufficient. As the project developed, the need for additional work was gradually realized."

"There is always a question whether any given job is really remodeling or merely maintenance," Van Pelt added. He noted that work orders are not required for maintenance projects.

In the Michigan Tech case, Farnum said, the audit showed college officials spent about $27,000 to pay college maintenance workers to renovate a home acquired for use as a residence for President James R. Van Pelt.

The home was obtained by Michigan Tech for a president's home after the previously-used residence was torn down.

Farnum said the total cost of purchasing the land, the building and renovating it was $85,000. But only the $29,000 was apparently illegally spent, he said.

In addition to misusing the

Van Pelt Statement

In a statement received by The Mining Journal, Dr. J. R. Van Pelt, president of Michigan Tech, declared:

"The terms of employment of the Michigan Tech president include provision of a suitable house. This house is not only used as a residence but for entertaining of an official nature and for similar uses."

"In the spring of 1962 the residence used by the president was scheduled to be torn down, and was razed that fall to clear the site for construction of a new academic building, Fisher Hall."

"A 50-year-old house, located on a tract of land already owned by the college and earmarked for long-range academic use, was then selected as the most suitable available replacement for the college president's home."

"When work was begun to prepare this house for occupancy, it was believed mere maintenance would be sufficient. As the project developed, the need for additional work was gradually realized."

"There is always a question whether any given job is really remodeling or merely maintenance. Obviously, taking out or installing a partition is remodeling, but rebuilding an old and worn-out bathroom is properly classified as maintenance. Hence, only a part of the project is open to criticism that capital outlay funds should have been voted by the Legislature."

Parking Ban Ordered For Main Street

ISHPEMING — Because of a traffic problem on Main St. between Barnum and Euclid Sts., parking has been banned on the east side of Main.

Police Chief Frank Sarvelo made the announcement this morning following the signing of an ordinance last night by City Manager Thomas McNabb.

"This area long has been a troublesome spot, during the winter months especially," Sarvelo said. "The hill is generally slippery through the winter months, causing unsafe driving conditions. With cars parked on both sides of the street, there is little room for two cars to pass."

The chief said motorists have to increase their speed considerably before attempting to make the hill and often vehicles skid before they reach Euclid.

"We feel that by prohibiting parking on one side, it will lessen the chances for an accident," he added.

Wildcats Face Stevens Point Cagers Friday

Northern Michigan University, smarting from its 89-88 defeat at the hands of the University of Minnesota-Duluth, hopes to rebound into the win column here Friday night against Stevens Point (Wis.) State College.

Stevens Point, one of the three newcomers on the NMU schedule, won its season opener Monday, 80-66, against Winona (Minn.) State, and meets Lawrence (Wis.) College before tangling with the Wildcats at the NMU Fieldhouse. This will mark the first meeting between the two clubs since the 1941-42 cage season.

Lead Lost

Suffering their first home loss in 16 contests, the Wildcats maintained a four- to seven-point lead over UMD throughout the first 17 minutes of the second half only to have the Bulldogs' Gary Richards put the Minnesota club ahead to stay.

The game may have cost the Wildcats the services of their number six player, junior Pat Schloemer of Janesville, Wis. The 5-10 guard, who has shown marked improvement since last year, suffered an ankle injury and may be out of action for several games, pending a medical report.

In Stevens Point, Coach Stan Albeck's squad will face a Wisconsin club which last year compiled a 14-7 record and a second place tie in the Wisconsin State College Conference. Oshkosh, edged by the Wildcats in their season opener, 74-71, took the crown.

All Lettermen

Five Pointers, all lettermen, will form the nucleus of Coach Bob Krueger's club, including a pair of 6-4 cagers, center George Pouba and forward Gerald Lawetzki. Other possible starters include 6-2 sophomore forward Al Temte and guards Pat Dann and Grant White.

Krueger, however, may press into action 6-8 freshman center Mike Hackbarth of Oconomowoc, Wis., to offset Northern's height advantage.

Expected to start for Northern, which has averaged nearly 60 rebounds and 82 points per game, are forwards Bob Armstead and Dave Cade, center Wayne Lundy, and guards Bob Pecotte and Duane Soine. Lundy is averaging 22 points per game, Armstead 17, Cade 16, Pecotte 13 and Soine seven.

New Cage Ruling Makes For More Scoring Minutes

(By the Associated Press)

No, they haven't lowered the basket, widened the hoop or streamlined the ball, but college basketball's new timing rule may have served the same purpose—ushering in an era of the 100-point game.

Where 100-point games used to be fairly rare, they have become rather common in the first few days of the 1963-64 season. All is as it was before, the teams, the players, the arenas and the equipment. Only the rules have been changed.

Added Time

The new rule dictates that the clock will stop automatically when the ball goes out-of-bounds. This apparently is adding actual playing time, and provides more time to score. Even against the usual, early-season opposition, witness Tuesday night's proceedings:

- Sixth-ranked Arizona State, admittedly strong, rolled up 121 points to 79 for a New Mexico Western team not in the same class, but hardly considered a weak opponent.
- Miami of Florida whipped Tampa 101-85, Auburn walloped Howard 102-84 and Oklahoma thumped South Dakota 100-79, with the Sooners setting a school record.
- Baylor missed the 100-mark by two points in beating Arlington State 98-74, but ran up its highest point total in history.
- And Oklahoma State, Hank Iba's slow-down types for whom 50 is a harvest, defeated Southern Illinois 83-54 for their fifth highest score in history.
- For three days of action, 16 major college teams now have hit 100 or more points. West Texas State is tops so far, with 126.

Jim Bunning, Triandos Go To Phillies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Right-hander Jim Bunning, who had fallen into disfavor in Detroit, was traded to the Philadelphia Phillies today in a four-player deal—the first interleague transaction of the year.

The Tigers got outfielder Don Demeter and right-hander Jack Hamilton and sent catcher Gus Triandos to Philadelphia along with Bunning.

Fourth Trade

It was the fourth trade of the winter baseball meetings and the second for the Tigers in recent weeks. They traded outfielder Rocky Colavito and pitcher Bob Anderson to the Kansas City Athletics last month for second baseman Jerry Lumpe and pitchers Dave Wickersham and Ed Rakow.

Detroit Manager Charlie Dressen said he'll put Demeter in center field and move 34-year-old Bill Bruton from center to left. Al Kaline, of course, will be in right.

Triandos, a right-handed hitter, is expected to play behind Clay Dalrymple, who bats left-handed.

Bunning, who won 20 games in 1957, and pitched a no-hitter against Boston in 1958, lost 13 of his 25 decisions last season. It was only his second losing season in the last eight years. His career record is 118-87.

Bunning, 32, admitted last summer he and Dressen didn't see eye to eye. Dressen said before the season ended that Bunning and Colavito might be traded.

The Detroit-Philadelphia deal came off just a day after the Cleveland Indians traded outfielder Willie Kirkland to Baltimore for outfielder Al Smith.

Rozelle Wants Shorter NFL Draft Session

CHICAGO (AP)—Still groggy from the marathon draft which took 21 hours and 43 minutes, the National Football League hopes to enact legislation against such future spectacles.

"I really can't do much about it," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle. "It would take a unanimous vote to cut the draft down from the present 20 rounds. And I doubt if we could get unanimous consent against the 20 rounds but we'll certainly bring it up at our meetings in Florida next month."

Elsewhere throughout the league there was moaning and groaning. Some felt that the teams which operated by telephone took advantage of the situation. Five teams—San Francisco, Los Angeles, Baltimore, Dallas and St. Louis—handled their draft operations from their home bases by either telephone or wire operations.

"Take Their Time"

"They take their sweet time while they sit in easy chairs and we are the ones who have to suffer," said Coach George Wilson of the Detroit Lions.

The first round took more than eight hours and from then on Rozelle set time limits which league representatives ignored. "Nobody can blame a team for trying to assure itself of early choices," said Rozelle.

Hebenton New NHL Iron Man

CHICAGO (AP)—Andy Hebenton, 34-year-old Boston Bruin right winger, became the National Hockey League's new iron-man Wednesday night.

He played in his 581st consecutive game as the league-leading Chicago Black Hawks tied the Bruins 2-2 on Bobby Hull's goal at 19:29 of the final period.

Toronto beat Montreal 3-0 in the other NHL game scheduled Wednesday at Toronto.

"I guess it is the thrill of my career to set the record," said Hebenton, who has played eight years without missing a game. "I hope they let me play 581 more. I feel good. Naturally, I wish we had won. The game got away from us."

Hebenton, a native of Winnipeg, began his streak on Oct. 7, 1955 in Chicago Stadium when he was with the New York Rangers. He was with that club until Boston drafted him last summer.

He said his key to endurance is simple: "First, you have to have a lot of luck. Second, you must avoid major injuries. And third, you have to stay in condition."

Hebenton cracked the NHL mark of 580 straight games set by Johnny Wilson when he played from 1932-1960. Five of his seasons were with Detroit, two with Chicago and one with Toronto.

Lions Fall To Fourth In Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—While compiling a four-game winless streak, the Detroit Lions have fallen from first to fourth in defensive ratings of the National Football League.

The Lions, who brought their record to 4-7-1 by tying Green Bay on Thanksgiving Day, rank ninth in offense in the 14-team league.

NFL statistics show the Lions have allowed their opponents to gain 3,165 yards—an average of 263.8 a game. The top defensive team, Chicago, has given up only 2,709 yards—or 225.8 a game.

Strong Air Defense

Detroit's strong point has been pass defense, in which it ranks second, with 1,303 yards allowed. Chicago has yielded 1,174 yards on pass plays.

On offense, the Lions have gained 3,656 yards—1,298 rushing and 2,358 passing. This averages to 304.7 a game.

Snorton Signing Confirmed

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State end Matt Snorton confirmed today he has signed a contract to play football for the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Snorton's denial Wednesday of signing a contract was "due to a mixup between the Denver personnel and myself," he said. A similar explanation of the denial came from Broncos general manager Jack Faulkner.

The Detroit Lions of the National Football League also had dickered with Snorton. He was their No. 2 draft choice.

All He Had To Do

"There ought to be a yardage column for the blockers," he said modestly. "Our line was really blowing them out of there. All I had to do was stroll through the holes."

The 211-pound junior from Olney, Tex., has scored 16 touchdowns and gained 1,572 yards rushing in his first two varsity seasons. He's expecting even greater things next year—not for himself, necessarily—but for the team.

"I hope we can win the national championship," he says of the predominantly junior team. "We have a lot of pretty good boys coming back."

Nitschke Placed On Injured List

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Linebacker Ray Nitschke, who suffered a forearm fracture in the game against the Detroit Lions Thanksgiving Day, was placed on the injured reserve list Wednesday by the Green Bay Packers. Ed Holler, a linebacker and rookie from South Carolina, went on the active player list in his place.

Dooley New Georgia Grid Coach

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Joseph Vince Dooley, 31-year-old freshman coach from Auburn, has taken over as head football coach at Georgia in a move to get the Bulldogs back on the winning road after three losing seasons.

Dooley succeeds Johnny Griffith, who compiled a 10-16-4 record during three years of unrest in the Georgia athletic department. Griffith resigned Wednesday, effective Jan. 31.

Dooley is the second young coach to be named head of a Southeastern Conference football team in three days. Douglas Dickey, 31, an assistant on Coach Frank Broyles' Arkansas staff, was selected Monday to replace Jim McDonald at Tennessee.

Mauro Signs With Packers; St. Jean Will Go To Boston

Leonard St. Jean of Northern Michigan University and Jack Mauro, tough NMU tackle, have made their decisions regarding the professional football offers they received in the past week.

St. Jean will sign a contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League within the next few days, and Mauro inked a Green Bay Packer contract yesterday.

Decision

Both had been picked by the Packers in the annual draft session Monday, and Vern Llewellyn of the Green Bay team was in Marquette yesterday to talk with both Mauro and St. Jean. Mauro, having received no other offers, had little trouble deciding to sign with the Packers, but St. Jean had to reconsider his early decision to go with Boston when the news of his selection by Green Bay was received here.

Although term details were not disclosed, it is likely that the Packers offered St. Jean more than did the Patriots. St. Jean feels, however, that "I have a much better chance in that league (AFL) and can go farther."

Ice Broken

"The ice has already been broken there, he said, referring to Tom Neumann, former NMU grid star who is finishing his first year with the Patriots.

Mauro views his signing with the Packers as "an honor . . . I'm really proud to sign with the Packers," he said today. "I'm excited . . . anyone would

Back Of Week Gentle As Lamb Off Grid

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—A wild man on the football field, but gentle as a lamb in person is Oklahoma fullback Jim Grisham, The Associated Press' college football back of the week.

A typical Grisham post-game comment came Saturday after he shattered a school rushing record by gaining 218 yards and scored four touchdowns against arch-rival Oklahoma State in a 34-10 victory.

All He Had To Do

"There ought to be a yardage column for the blockers," he said modestly. "Our line was really blowing them out of there. All I had to do was stroll through the holes."

The 211-pound junior from Olney, Tex., has scored 16 touchdowns and gained 1,572 yards rushing in his first two varsity seasons. He's expecting even greater things next year—not for himself, necessarily—but for the team.

"I hope we can win the national championship," he says of the predominantly junior team. "We have a lot of pretty good boys coming back."

Middies Rally, Scare Governor's Wife, Hostess

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Naval Academy midshipmen, brimming over with enthusiasm for the Army-Navy football game, poured out of the Academy Wednesday night and through the streets of downtown Annapolis.

Several hundred of the shouting Middies descended on the governor's mansion and called in vain for Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

"They banged on the door and frightened us out of our wits," said Mrs. Evelyn Andrews, hostess at Government House. She said Gov. Tawes was out of town and she and Mrs. Tawes were asleep when the swarm of midshipmen arrived shortly after 10 p.m.

Impromptu Rally

Midshipmen officers, aided by Annapolis city police, rounded up the sign-carrying celebrants and headed them back to the academy.

Academy officials said it was an impromptu pep rally for the football game in Philadelphia Saturday.

The regular pep rally and bonfire is scheduled Thursday night. "I guess they just couldn't wait," an Academy spokesman said.

Four Close Hoop Games In Michigan

(By the Associated Press)

The four college basketball games played in Michigan Wednesday night all were close—two were decided by just one point—but the two Michigan teams that ventured out of state were whipped.

At Bowling Green, Ohio, Hillsdale suffered a 93-56 loss to Bowling Green. And Detroit lost to Purdue, 66-60, at Lafayette, Ind.

Michigan State slipped past Western Michigan 101-100 on Marcus Sanders' tip-in basket with 20 seconds left, and Kalamazoo barely salvaged a 68-67 victory over Albion in two contests in the state.

Others

In the other games, Adrian defeated the University of Windsor, 73-71, and Central Michigan beat Ferris State, 63-56.

Michigan State now has won both its games this season, and has passed the 100-point mark both times. Western has lost both its games by single points in the last minutes.

Walt Totes Bullets On Back To Win

BALTIMORE (AP)—"Walter has taken it upon himself to carry this club on his back—and he's done it."

That's how Coach Bob Leonard describes the job done by Walt Bellamy of the Baltimore Bullets so far during the National Basketball Association season.

Bellamy, starting his third season in the NBA, turned in a sparkling effort Wednesday night as the revitalized Bullets whipped the Los Angeles Lakers 118-98. The 6-foot-11 pivotman scored 48 points—24 in the final quarter—and grabbed 29 rebounds.

The victory extended Baltimore's winning streak to three, modest by any standards, but a record for the team during its three years of existence.

In other games Wednesday, Len Chappell's basket with 32 seconds left at Detroit gave the New York Knickerbockers a 120-119 victory over the injury-riddled Pistons and the St. Louis Hawks, playing at home, pulled to within one-half game of the league-leading Lakers in the Western Division by defeating the San Francisco Warriors 105-83.

Chappell's clutch basket, which marked the 26th time the lead had changed hands, ended a five-game New York losing streak and dealt Detroit its seventh loss in a row. The Pistons, minus three regulars because of injuries, lost two of their re-

Air Base, Spear Win In League

In Tuesday's Marquette City Basketball League action, two Class A games resulted in victories by Spear & Sons and by the Air Base squad over the Lions and Pizzarena, respectively.

In the first game of the evening, the Lions took an early 5-4 lead only to go 10 minutes without a score. Superior rebounding and a well-executed fast break gave Spears the 80-39 win. High scorers were Gene Pearson for Spears with 27, and Arne Besonen for the Lions with 12 points.

The second game of the evening was a close one, as the Air Base Team collected a 64-63 win from the Pizzarena round-baller. Pizzarena led all the way, holding a 31-25 lead at halftime and leading by nine points but two minutes left in the game. The Air Base team fought back to tie it at game's end, and a technical foul against the Pizzarena squad after the game had ended gave Air Base the win as Treat dropped in the free throw.

Rudolph Peterson led the Air Base scoring with 18 points, and Spencer Hammond shared scoring honors with Dennis DeMerse for Pizzarena, having collected 16 points apiece.

maintaining players on fouls. Chappell and Ray Scott of Detroit shared scoring honors with 30 points.

Chiefs' Offer Too Rich For Lions' Budget

DETROIT (AP)—Kansas City snagged the Detroit Lions' top National Football League draft choice because the bidding was too rich—even for millionaire owner William Clay Ford.

"Lamar Hunt (oil millionaire owner of the American Football League franchise at Kansas City) apparently was prepared to go first cabin all the way," Ford said Wednesday. He made the comment after Kansas City landed quarterback Pete Beathard of Southern California.

"But he's welcome to the boy," Ford added. "It's good riddance for us at those prices."

Admittedly stunned by the deal Beathard made for himself, Ford said he "wouldn't dare match an offer" like Kansas City's. He described it as "exorbitant and unrealistic."

According to Ford, the rival

Postmaster Advises Early Mailing Of Parcels, Cards

NEGAUNEE — Patrons of the Negaunee post office were advised today by Postmaster Agnes Regan to complete mailing of Christmas parcels and cards at the earliest possible date and to utilize zip code numbers to facilitate deliveries.

Gift parcels for distant states should be mailed the latter part of this week or early next week to insure delivery before Christmas, and parcels for local or nearby areas should be mailed not later than Dec. 14, the postmaster advised.

Greeting cards destined for distant states should be in the having—along with many other facets of her life—for a projected book. But in 1929, she became the wife of a man named Pic.

"I was with Mr. Pic two and half years," she says, referring to him in formal language. "I became with child, but he didn't want children. I was three months pregnant when I left him. Mr. Pic voluntarily supported me and then the baby, John E. Pic, until the child was 18."

Air Force Sergeant
(John E. Pic is an Air Force sergeant of 14 years service, now stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., where he is a laboratory technician at the 1,000-bed Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital.)

John Pic was born in January 1932, and about 18 months later his mother married Robert Edward Lee Oswald, a salesman for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

"Mr. Oswald was named after Gen. Robert E. Lee," she explains. "It was the same name we gave our first child, Robert Edward Lee Oswald Jr." He was born in April 1934.

Robert Edward Lee Oswald Jr. works for the Acme Brick Co. in Denton, Tex., where he lives with his family.)

Husband Died

"I became with child in early 1939," Mrs. Oswald says. "I was in my seventh month when Mr. Oswald died of coronary thrombosis."

The infant born Oct. 18, 1939, in New Orleans was named Lee Harvey Oswald.

"I was left penniless, with three boys," she says. (However, there was $3,500 in insurance.)

With the insurance money and some cash from the sale of her home, she was able to hold out, staying home to care for her kids. But then times turned hard for her, and when the war started she went to work. John Pic and Robert Oswald were placed in a Lutheran home for children where she now says they received "a wonderful religious education."

Divorce

Lee, the baby, stayed with her and was cared for by her sister and whoever else she could get to babysit. When Lee reached the age of 3, he, too, went into the home, remaining there until he was 5.

"That was when I married Mr. Edward K. Eckdahl, who made $10,000 a year and had an expense account," she said. "We lived in Fort Worth. Lee was with me. After a few months I planned to file suit for divorce but delayed it because I did not want to take Lee out of school. While I was waiting, Mr. Eckdahl got a divorce from me."

She shook her head in sad wonder. "I'd been married three times and altogether had husbands for only 8 years," she says.

Schizophrenic

"Lee was such a fine, high class boy," she says. "He didn't waste time with comic books and trashy things. On Sundays, I'd take him to church and then we'd have lunch somewhere and go to the zoo, he knew the names of every animal there, and to the planetarium, he just knew everything about stars, and to the museums."

This idyllic picture of mother-son relationship jars with less romantic official documents which said that 13-year-old Lee had schizophrenic tendencies and was potentially dangerous.

Nor does it agree with the recollection of John Carro, who was Lee's probation officer from April 1953 to January 1954. Carro said Mrs. Oswald refused to consider her son anything more than a nuisance, balked at aid from welfare agencies, ignored a court order that Lee receive psychiatric treatment.

No Direct Comment

What does she say to this now?

She doesn't have a direct comment. The answer is contained in her conviction that as a mother she, and only she, could know her son.

"I have to face this alone," she says, "but I will do it. I have always faced life. I have been exploited since childhood. But there has been no turning away. I have faith. I do not question the will of God."

And yet there is something about her demeanor that suggests she has been cast in a role that despite its tragic overtones and its tragic cost has had an importance for her.

The television set in her living room was on as she talked, and she became anxious as a mail by Dec. 10, and those for local delivery by Dec. 15 in order to insure delivery by Christmas Day.

Carriers are delivering a supply of "local" and "out of town" labels to each resident, and these should be used in separating Christmas cards, which should be tied in bundles. More labels, as needed, may be procured from local post offices.

Postage for cards in unsealed envelopes is four cents, while the rate for those in sealed envelopes is five cents per ounce, and these may contain a letter or written message. When sent at the five-cent rate, cards may be forwarded or returned at no additional cost, and they also receive priority in delivery and forwarding. First class mail also is returned to the sender at no additional cost if the mail is undeliverable, provided the return address is shown on the envelope.

Mail Early In Day

Cooperation of business concerns in the period prior to Christmas was requested by the postmaster, who asked that program came to an end. The news came on then and after some reporting of Washington and international events, the scene turned to Fort Worth, and a previous interview with her.

Quick Fame

She called to three Secret Service agents who were on duty at her home: "You all want to see me on television?" She watched herself with quiet absorption, the intensity of her interest paralleling that of a starlet seeing a screening that might lead to a big dollar contract.

Whatever history may record of the life and times of Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, and what part she played in the shaping of the man accused of the crime of the century, it became crystal clear shortly after high noon that Mrs. Oswald would know the short personal history of quick fame.

The newspapermen had gone. And now the three Secret Service men pulled out, without warning.

Too Briefly

And she made the awful discovery that comes to all who get caught in the bright glare of public attention. The light shines all too briefly and gives little warmth and then quickly, coldly, the crowds are gone, the questioners vanish and all that is left is a shade-drawn room, empty and echoing the sobs of dreadful loneliness.

Her wail was capsuled in her cry: "I'm the mother of the accused assassin and people don't care about me."

firms deposit mail at the post office or in collection boxes at intervals throughout each day and not wait until the end of the day to deposit all of their outgoing mail. Mrs. Regan also requested local residents to mail Christmas cards early in the day.

She advised patrons it would be to their advantage to buy stamps now and avoid standing in line during the busy mailing period. A special five-cent Christmas stamp is available at all offices.

Residents were reminded by the postmaster to keep sidewalks and steps free of snow and ice, as icy conditions may cause accidents, and to refrain from parking cars in front of entrances to homes.

"Carriers have to walk the roads where walks are not plowed and they are not required to climb snowbanks if cars block entrances," Mrs. Regan said. "Rural and mounted route patrons must also keep approaches to boxes clear of snow in order to receive deliveries of mail and parcels."

"During the Christmas rush it will be impossible to answer telephone inquiries about parcels, and all packages will be delivered as quickly as possible. Lock box patrons are reminded that clerks cannot give out mail at the post office windows during this busy season and should be sure to carry their keys."

House Numbers

"Mail boxes should be suitable to handle the volume of Christmas mail delivered by carriers, and if they are not, it is suggested that a wooden or cardboard box be placed adjacent to the mail box for Christmas mail."

"To aid in speedy delivery patrons should be sure their house numbers are correct and easily visible. Many homes have no numbers, while others have been painted over so that they cannot be seen. Assistant carriers in the post office employed during the pre-Christmas rush use house numbers as guides to proper delivery, since they are not familiar with the routes."

Other suggestions for mailing Christmas parcels listed by the postmaster were as follows:

- Avoid careless packing of gifts. Use strong cartons, wrapped in heavy paper and tied with sturdy cord.
- Mark packages containing breakable gifts "fragile" and those with articles subject to decay "perishable."
- Put an extra label inside the parcel containing the name and address of the sender, and also the name and address of the person to whom it is being mailed.
- Place the name and address clearly and legibly on one side only on the outside of the package.
- Show the postal zip code when known, and list the local zip code number as part of the return address.

According to the section of the report covering routine activities, the department received 95 complaints and 179 telephone calls.

Cronin Reaches 30-Year Mark As Negaunee Druggist

NEGAUNEE — Harry Cronin, Negaunee druggist, this week-end observes the end of three decades in business here, a span in which he achieved the distinction of becoming one of Negaunee's senior business men.

Cronin's Pharmacy, successor to Perkins Drug Store, was purchased in 1933 by Cronin from the late John M. Perkins, an early-day local resident. Prior to engaging in business in Negaunee, Cronin gained experience as a pharmacist in Kalamazoo, Mich., and Elyria, Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio.

Noting the changes that have occurred in the pharmacy field in the past 30 years, Cronin observed that when he opened his store here penicillin was as yet undiscovered. At that time, there were none of the antibiotics, which currently have widespread usage in combating a variety of infections.

"Rapid strides were made in these fields as a result of World War II, during which laboratories worked day and night to cooperate with our government in furnishing new drugs that would combat diseases and infections encountered by our armed forces," Cronin said. "Penicillin was the first, and from that point it wasn't long before a wide variety of others appeared."

"In the intervening years there has been the development of the 'miracle drugs' in tablet form, so that they can be taken orally as well as hypodermically.

"Thirty years ago, only a few people were in the habit of taking winter tonics, and vitamins were comparatively unknown. Today for better health, in order to supplement lack of sunshine and diet deficiencies, there are special vitamins for children and multi-purpose vitamins for all members of the family." Other changes, the Negaunee druggist pointed out, have occurred in packaging and wrapping of drug store items, in toiletries, photography supplies and numerous other products now handled by the average drug store.

Along with other landmarks that have practically vanished from the American scene is the old soda fountain, a gathering place for high school students, and a source of enjoyment for the tiny tots, who received a once-a-week treat when they accompanied Dad to pick up the Sunday paper.

"In practically all cases, elimination of the soda fountain was a necessity, as drug stores required additional room to display and merchandise other items they featured," Cronin said.

In preparation for the birthday observance, a renovation program has just been completed at Cronin's. It included installation of a new tile ceiling, and redecorating of the entire interior of the store.
