City Plans Radio System For Fire, Power Divisions

Plans are being completed for the installation of a two-way radio communications system for two city departments.

Equipment for the radio system, which will be used by the fire and light and power departments, will be purchased from the General Electric Co. of Lansing, for $6,037.

GE's bid was the lowest received. The other bidder whose offer was considered by the city commission was Motorola, Inc., of Lake Needagamon, Wis., which had a proposal amounting to $7,934.10.

No Radio Hookup Now

At present the fire department does not have any radio equipment, save for the radio in the fire chief John W. Myers' car with the city police department.

Installation of the new system for the two departments will mean the fire and light-power departments will be on a radio band different from the police department.

Actually, a new law restricts having both police and fire department radio systems on the same radio band, city officials explained.

In all, six mobile units are being purchased, with the smaller ones being installed on city fire trucks (used only locally) and the larger ones on the ambulances (which are driven out of the city) and on a power vehicle, which also can be in the rural areas served by the city utility department.

A large 330-watt transmitter is included in the purchase, and is being paid for with light and power department funds. The mobile units will be paid for by the fire department.

"This is a case of two city departments cooperating and some long-range planning," explained City Manager Thomas Moore.

The fire department will operate the radio system, since the stations are quiet in comparison to the noisy electric

Business' Demand For 1963 Northern Graduates Climbs

Demand for 1963 graduates of Northern Michigan University increased by 11.5 per cent over the previous year while starting salaries continued to rise.

NMU Placement Director Keith M. Forsberg reported today that 9,359 requests were made for the graduates of 1963, as compared to 8,392 in 1962.

Best Fields Noted

The highest reported salaries for the 399 graduates of the class of '63 were in the field of mathematics, speech correction and physical education.

One mathematics major accepted a position for $6,900 while the graduates who majored in speech correction and physical education started at salaries of $6,000 and $5,700 respectively.

The average starting salary for career graduates (accounting, liberal arts, business, biological sciences and marketing) was $5,096 while the average salary for teachers was reported at $4,888.

At the time the report was issued, only one person out of 310 education graduates was undecided about his future. Most of the prospective teachers, 85.5 per cent, had accepted regular employment; 10.3 per cent planned graduate study; 3.2 decided not to seek employment; and less than one per cent entered military service.

Other Career Fields

Of the students in other career fields, 51.7 per cent had accepted employment with one of 24 firms in seven states while 24.7 per cent entered graduate school, and 15.7 per cent faced imminent military service. The status of 7.9 per cent of the students was unknown.

Elementary teachers continued to be in high demand as Northern's placement office recorded 3,695 requests for 102 graduating seniors.

Other educational areas of high demand included: English, 763 requests, 21 students; chemistry and physics, 221 and 2; music, 530 and 10; business education, 212 and 14; and home economics, 282 and 7.

More than 80 per cent of the education graduates accepted positions in Michigan with 117 schools. Of the 261 graduates, 115 accepted teaching positions in the Upper Peninsula, 85 in the Lower Peninsula, while 50 accepted employment in nine states. One person is teaching in Africa.

Thirty-four teachers accepted positions in Wisconsin, six in Illinois, two each in Colorado, Connecticut and Minnesota, and one each in Indiana, Massachusetts, New York and Texas.

Top Requests Told

In the career field, Northern's placement office had 150 requests for social, welfare and religious workers, 102 for administrative trainees, and 61 for accountants.

Among the business and industries employing NMU graduates were A. C. Neilson Marketing Research Corp., Chicago; Astronautics of Los Angeles; Bell Laboratories, Hopedale, N. J.; Cleveland-Cliff Iron Co., Ishpeming; Goodyear Tire Co., Marquette; International Business Machines Corp., Green Bay, and Ball Brothers Co., Mundelein, Ill.

Forsberg's report also indicated that 437 NMU alumni registered with his office for new positions.

Train Here Delayed; Car On Tracks

A diesel engine was held up an hour and a half this morning while a wrecker pulled out a car which had been driven a quarter of a mile up the tracks.

City police arrested the 17-year-old motorist for reckless driving and took him to St. Luke's Hospital for treatment of frostbite. Apparently the driver had been in the car overnight, police said.

Arrested was Glen H. Bauman, Route 1, Skandia. He was found in a car which had come to a halt in the snow on a Lake Superior and Ishpeming Railroad Co. track, 300 yards north of the Pine St. Crossing.

Patrolmen Roy Hella and Michael Gregorich said that Bauman apparently drove the car into the Cliff Dow Chemical Co. parking lot to get to the railroad tracks.

Seen At Midnight

A Cliffs Dow night watchman said he saw the car tracks along the railroad track at midnight.

A passing motorist saw the car, with lights on, and notified the police department at 6 this morning. At about the same time the car was sighted by the operators of a diesel engine which was approaching on the track.

Police said Bauman had no explanation for his predicament.

One Hurt, One Ticketed In Three City Accidents

One person was injured, a motorist was issued a ticket and four vehicles were damaged in three traffic accidents which occurred in the city yesterday.

There also was another mishap in Marquette yesterday, in which minor damage occurred and no one was ticketed. Reports of the three major accidents follow:

1. At 3 yesterday afternoon an automobile being driven north on County Road 553 by Michael Gray, 21 K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, struck a car operated by Richard E. Blood, 23, also of Sawyer, a mile south of Pioneer Rd.

Shirley Blood, 26, riding with her husband, suffered a sore neck and sought her own treatment.

City police said Blood had stopped behind a parked vehicle to permit southbound traffic to proceed. When he attempted to drive around the stalled vehicle his car was struck by the Gray automobile, which went into a snowbank in swinging around and hitting the car.

Defective Brakes

The right rear fender of Blood's car, a 1961 four-door sedan, and the left rear fender of Gray's 1951 two-door were damaged. A wrecker was required to tow Gray's car from the snowbank.

City police issued Gray a ticket for having defective brakes on his car.

2. An automobile being driven north on the Presque Isle Park drive by William B. Mitchell, 26, of 424 S Third St., struck a wooden utility pole on the east side of the roadway, at 4 yesterday afternoon.

City police said Mitchell reported his car got caught in a rut in the deep snow, causing the vehicle to be "pulled" over to the side.

Extensive Damage Results

Extensive damage resulted to the right front of Mitchell's automobile, a 1955 two-door sedan, which had to be removed from the scene by a wrecker. The mishap occurred near Urbha's Store.

3. Still under investigation today was a hit-and-run accident which took place at 8:45 last night in the 400 block of W. Hampton St.

City police said Robert Beer, 255 Prospect St., Ishpeming, had his car parked in front of

Wanted: Industry

Ray Pfeifer of the Michigan Conservation Department has made a compilation of surplus timber on seven large private ownerships in the Upper Peninsula, representing about one third of the U.P. forest land, which shows an annual volume of 219,000 cords of surplus annually.

Other ownerships undoubtedly have surpluses which could be added if they were known, George N. Semmens, secretary of the Forestry Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Problems, told U.P.C.A.P., which works for economic development of the U.P.

An industrial economy is created by converting resources into saleable products. Here the Upper Peninsula has a big wood resource that is not now being marketed. If it could be marketed, the U.P.'s income would be increased substantially and the increases would tend to come where they are needed most, because there is a relationship in wood industry between surplus and plants. The surplus is greatest where there are fewest plants, their absence creating the lack of market that causes the surplus.

The more than 200,000 cords of wood surplus annually in the Upper Peninsula on only a third of its forest lands would supply several large industries with their wood needs if volume alone counted, but industries need specific species. Some 58,000 cords of this surplus, for instance, is cedar, which is not now used as a pulping wood, and the pulp market takes more U.P. wood than any other usage.

There are over 100,000 cords of aspen, balsam of gilead and white birch, which are all pulping woods, but a big part of this is surplus primarily because of its location, 13,800 cords being in Chippewa County and 20,800 cords in Mackinac County. They are so distant from Wisconsin, which buys more than 60 per cent of U.P. pulpwood, that their wood doesn't move. The transportation rate isn't necessarily a bar to marketing, but often the wood moves over several railroad lines, and the transfer charges, added to the freight bill, price the wood out of market.

U.P. pulp and wood chemical mills buy from 22,000 to 100,000 cords of wood annually. These volumes indicate the large potential of income that exists in the surplus woods if they could be marketed.

The situation emphasizes the need for economic planning. The Upper Peninsula needs the income that these trees could produce. Their failure to move to market creates a loss greater than the direct item of their stumpage value, because when they are not marketed at maturity they cause the forest to decline in quality and value. Good forest management is impossible if there cannot be commercial cuttings to upgrade the stand. The lack of them harms recreational values of the forest, as well, because the renewal of the forest with young trees is obstructed, and these young trees supply the feed for deer and other wildlife.

Several agencies are working to solve this marketing problem. The U.S. Forest Service seeks markets for its surplus woods. Michigan Tech has asked state funds for a study of wood marketing in the eastern Upper Peninsula where the greatest problems persist. U.P.C.A.P. and Operation Action-U.P. and the Michigan Department of Economic Expansion are all interested in a solution. And the conservation department's effort to solve the problem resulted in the survey which sized the surplus.

Practically, there will have to be several solutions because the problem varies by area and species. But the problem is the kind that the Peninsula should welcome because it is a problem of use of a resource and not lack of a resource. If the problem stands were stumpled, not much could be done quickly. Use of ingenuity like that which has brought such renewed vigor to U.P. iron mining should be able to expand our wood industry future.

Just how a person can keep from falling into this trap is no simple thing to learn. "Do good to them that hate you," the New Testament teaches. And this is the trick of it, making the conscious effort to avoid, in dealing with those you judge to hate you, hating them in turn.

PITFALL OF HATE

The trouble with fighting the forces of hate is that the attacker tends to become the victim of the very evil he is combating. In criticizing another for hating, one can too easily become guilty of practicing hate himself.

PATRIOTISM

The exuberant patriotism of Americans sometimes amuses staid Canadians. But there is massive national nourishment in this frank, unfettered patriotism. It served the United States at Pearl Harbor. It serves it well today. American patriotism is no shy, covert thing like ours. It is expressed shamelessly on convention rostrum and through the brass of marching bands, in innocent self-inflation and in the cocky braggadocio of the George M. Cohan and the Irving Berlins, in a flag fixation and an incurable compulsion to call every champion of the United States the champion of the world.

It can be an annoyance to other nations. But in times of stress it is revealed for what it is — the trappings of an awesome solidarity, the fanfare of a formidable strength. — Vancouver, B.C., Sun

INTRUDER IN THE BIRCH WOOD

A true patriot can't be safe from contamination — not even inside the John Birch Society. John Roussetol, who became a Birch society organizer after he was defeated for reelection to Congress in 1962, is being harried by Communists. He says: "They are always trying to infiltrate us and a few have gotten in."

Insider's Newsletter quotes Roussetol as being horrified by some of the other types the society has been drawing. Some are "extremely anti-Jewish or extremely anti-Negro." And the society has to work hard to keep out or weed out "all the nuts and undesirable."

What the society wants is sound membership. Roussetol says — people who will form committees to impeach Chief Justice Earl Warren, campaign to end the income tax and slip Birch propaganda into college libraries, dentists' waiting rooms and barbershops. — Milwaukee Journal

A SOLUTION?

Harold Herman, research associate at the Fels Institute of Local and State Government at the University of Pittsburgh, has an instant solution to the economic troubles of central cities.

The center of the city must be written off and permitted to die, says Herman, a participant at a Wayne State University conference on this and allied matters.

This is a startling "solution," particularly when it comes from a resident of Pittsburgh. That city through the combined efforts of hundreds of leading citizens led the United States in municipal rehabilitation. The effort has been continuous since shortly after the end of World War II and the transformation has been astounding.

Herman's university is in the cultural center of Pittsburgh, much as Wayne State is situated in Detroit. If his "solution" is regarded with some skepticism here, what will be the reaction in Pittsburgh and on his own campus? — Detroit News

Automation represents progress and it cannot be eliminated any more than you can eliminate the development of a new product. Buggymakers probably thought the Model T was a curse. But it was actually an economic blessing. — La Crosse (Wis.) Tribune

After a silence of a number of days, the sporting editor of the Chicago News refers to the bowling feat of Villers MacGregor of this city, who recently made an average of 235 1/3 points in three games here, compared with the world's record of 253 1/3 pins held by Peter Peth. The reference was of the nature expected by the Marquette bowlers, being to the effect that the record cannot stand, as it was not made in actual team competition.

The National Whirligig News Behind The News

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — It is curious thing, in this cynical town, that the awarding of the Enrico Fermi prize to Dr. Robert Oppenheimer should create an impression that Oppenheimer thus was cleared of charges that led to the withdrawal of his security clearance 10 years ago.

The fact is that Oppenheimer got the $50,000 tax-free award in recognition of his scientific achievements, not because his conviction had been reversed. In presenting the award to Oppenheimer, President Johnson lauded him as a scientist; he did not imply that the United States government was apologizing for an action whose correctness has never been legally challenged.

Incautious Scientist
I do not attempt to flog a dead horse. I have honest respect and admiration for Oppenheimer as a scientist and a loyal American. But merely because the Atomic Energy Commission gave him a medal for being a great scientist, I am not going to change my opinion that in matters of security Oppenheimer — partly by his own admissions — was a dangerous fool. Indeed, the man would have to change his own story again to challenge that 10-year-old verdict.

One piece of evidence was enough to prove that as a government employee Oppenheimer was not only careless in his associations, but also with the truth. He admitted on the stand that he had lied about a matter of vital security concern. A left-wing French professor named Haakon Chevalier approached his friend Oppenheimer in late 1942 or early 1943 with a suggestion he could arrange to feed to the Russians any scientific information Oppenheimer wanted to pass on. In August 1943, Oppenheimer finally told a security official about this approach, but he admitted he faked the story to protect Chevalier.

Friendship Above Patriotism
Again, Oppenheimer's loyalty was not in question. But as a government servant, he was sworn to obey the rules of security and he did not. In fact, he broke them in a most flagrant fashion, because he put friendship for Chevalier ahead of his country's interests. The country had a most vital interest in knowing everything about Chevalier's role in order to proceed against a serious security leak.

These are the facts, and 10 years' time has not changed them. Nor has any claim been made by anybody, including Oppenheimer, that the evidence at his hearing was erroneous or false. Oppenheimer himself sewed up the case against him when he was asked on the stand if his story of the Chevalier approach had been a "tissue of lies." He replied, simply, "Yes."

Tellers View Unnecessary
After that, the hearing board didn't need Dr. Edward Teller's vague reply when he was asked if he thought Oppenheimer was a security risk. Scientist Teller, feeling for words, finally conceded he would "like to see the vital interests of this country in hands which I understand better and therefore trust more."

Teller had fought Oppenheimer on the issue of the hydrogen bomb, and there were those to whom his testimony therefore was suspect. But toss out Teller's testimony and there remains Oppenheimer's own admission of his silly manipulation of the truth. Oppenheimer broke the rules, and so he was given the sack. His complex, agonized personality had no bearing on the case except for psychologists.

Learning Dolphinese

By DON OAKLEY

Men may not have to go beyond their own planet or their own solar system to make contact with an alien form of life; they may be on the verge of doing that right here on earth — or in water, to be precise.

The "alien" in question is the playful dolphin, a mammal with a brain approaching the human in size and complexity. Many scientists believe it possesses a definite language and that men might possibly learn it. Two Sperry Co. engineers think they may have found a way to do it.

Playboys Of The Ocean
Using arrays of miniaturized computers called "Sceptrons," which can make fine distinctions between lights and sounds, react to them and memorize their electronic patterns, they hope to record dolphin noises and build a vocabulary.

What good would it be? If men could exchange meaningful information with dolphins, there might be any number of jobs the playboys of the ocean could tackle — carry instruments to perform oceanographic research, for example, or bring back samples of undersea life.

Exciting Challenge
But all that aside, the very idea of learning the thoughts of a nonhuman species is an exciting challenge.

Millions of years ago the ancestors of the dolphins decided they didn't like the land and returned to the sea. Man's ancestors stayed on. It is fascinating to think that the two strains have led to intelligence in two completely different environments and that one day they may touch minds across them. — (NEA)

PEN PALS

With only 14 letters to work with, Lyndon B. Johnson used 34 pens in signing the manpower training bill. Assuming he used one pen to make the period after his middle initial, this means he used something like 2,357 pen pals per letter on the average.

That's a pretty good score. But it's below par, if reports are correct that he used 169 pens in four bill signing ceremonies. That's an average of better than 42 pens per signature.

This is done, of course, for political effect. The pens are given as souvenirs to people having keen interest in the bill at hand. The result, however, must be to make a mishmash of the value of the pen as a souvenir. Think how much more genuine a signature could be if signed with one pen and how much more valuable that pen would then be.

The multiple pen signature practice is not going to be discontinued and certainly not by President Johnson, you can be sure. This sets one to wondering about the length of presidential names as a political asset.

As presidential names go, Mr. Johnson's is only average in length with 14 letters. Presidents who would have been hardest put to use up pens on signatures are John Adams and John Tyler, at nine letters apiece. The President with the longest "pen" name, without resorting to spelling out middle names, was Franklin D. Roosevelt with 18 letters. Spelling out Delano would have given him a total of 23, which would have put him in a tie with Rutherford Birchard Hayes for the longest name.

If President Hayes had really worked at this silly gimmick, one can almost picture the flock of naked geese on the White House lawn, plucked bare to provide presidential signature quills. — Milwaukee Sentinel

The Christmas Present

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — This city is thickly blanketed with soft, cottony snow, which magically transforms the dreariest back streets into subjects for a Japanese screen painter. "Well," people tell you, as though taking credit for a personal success, "it was a white Christmas after all."

For a great many people, however, it was a dark Christmas, still overshadowed by the memory of the President's death and the dreadful hour when the news came through from Dallas and the slow beat of the muffled drums and all the old great men walking behind the caisson that bore this young man to Arlington's autumnal hillside.

Curious And Comforting
Perhaps it is foolish to look backwards any longer and to reflect upon this loss that made the whole world weep. Yet Christmas is not just a season of gew-gaw tinsel and unwanted presents and ritual overeating and tree-enchanted children and tree-exhausted adults.

Christmas is also a good time to think about the past and the future — better than the New Year, in truth, for this day celebrates a unique beginning that has brought light and truth to this world of ours for close on two thousand years. And if we now think about our own American past, and consider the American future, with all its dreadful hazards and incomparable opportunities, we find something both curious and comforting.

We find, in fact, that from the simple, classic era of the founders of our republic, down to our own complex and dangerous times, America has always had a special need for a model or exemplar.

Both history and recent experience indicate that France tends to require a ruler. The British need is met by their monarchy, sometimes in ways Americans find hard to understand. But here in the United States, the need is for a man about whom fathers will say to sons, and school principals will urge graduating classes: "Be like him!"

Never More Than Half Successful
These instructions, so hopefully uttered, are never more than half successful in the best of cases. For the simple truth is that the model or exemplar is already at least obsolescent by the time the instructions begin to be given.

Even in the young America of 1820, no one starting out in life could realistically hope to imitate George Washington, who was then our model or exemplar. Even then, before the close of the Virginia dynasty, the odd alchemy Father of Our Country — all written in capitals.

The earthiness that gave salt to Washington's wisdom, the practicality that underpinned his nobility of spirit, had all but vanished from sight. The fathers who told their sons, "Be like him," already had in mind something like Greenough's marble Washington, now moldering in the Smithsonian basement.

Transformation Of Abraham Lincoln
In the same fashion, even as early as 1870, in the raw, bursting-at-the-seams America of the post-Civil War decades, Abraham Lincoln was already half-transformed into our national fate, always to be loved, always to be remembered, but no more capable of imitation than St. Francis of Assisi.

In our own America of the strange, often cruel, sometimes splendid years after the Second World War — in this new America half proud and half-bewildered because of the heavy, glorious, unwanted burden suddenly imposed by history — the need for a new model or exemplar has been growing with each passing year.

This need has been growing because the change in our national situation has also changed everything else. It is no longer enough for an American to be a good citizen of this republic; to be a good citizen of America, he must also be a good citizen of the world. It is no longer enough to remember the great traditions of the American past; it is necessary, nowadays, to bring courage and energy and good sense and above all an open mind to the unending effort to meet the wholly novel challenges of the world present.

A Man Of His Own Time
Just this was done by the President we have lost, who was also the first American President born in this century. His memory requires no further eulogy. Now that he is gone, even his enemies recognize that he was brave and generous and humane and wise beyond his too few years.

What matters now is that with all these other qualities, he was also, in a supreme degree, a man of his own time — of our time, which had long lacked a model or exemplar near enough and real enough and good enough to set a style and point a direction.

This much he has left to us, as an extra present under every Christmas tree, as it were. It is no small thing, either. It is something to give thanks for, in these last days of "the year the President died" (as most people will remember 1963), just as thanks should also be given that, even in the turmoil and triumph of Los Angeles three years ago, this man thought of his country when he saw to his own succession.

President And Dogs

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, a dog lover but still a man of prudence, has done the sensible thing again.

He has asked that Americans not flood the White House with gifts of dogs and other animals.

Already Had 2 Beagles
Specifically, the President accepted the gift of a white collie from a 9-year-old Illinois girl, but asked at the same time that others who want to send animal gifts to give them instead to children or institutions in their own communities.

The first family already had two beagles and two beagles just by themselves are a lot of dogs.

Every first family has been deluged with gifts, some of them probably to the point of embarrassment. No one likes to return a gift, or to refuse one that is well-meant, even if it is not particularly wanted and has to be fed.

The John F. Kennedys, having two small children, were particularly showered with pets, but they always seemed to have room for one more.

Gift From Khrushchev
In addition to three ponies, the Kennedys were honored with dogs galore, the most famous being Pushinka, the offspring of a Soviet space dog. She was a gift from Premier Khrushchev.

Other Kennedy dogs included Charlie, a Welsh terrier; an Irish wolfhound, various cockers, a German shepherd and some pups born to Pushinka and Charlie.

Dogs have always been the most popular presidential pets, beginning with George Washington. An exception to the dog-loving line was President Harry S. Truman, but his friends were always quick to point out that he had nothing against dogs.

A White House dog that figured in politics was Fala, a lively Scottie belonging to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. In some critics of FDR charged that a destroyer was sent to the Aleutian Islands after Fala allegedly had been left behind in one of the President's trips.

Campaign Masterpiece
Roosevelt turned the tables in a radio broadcast, still remembered as a campaign masterpiece, which poked ridicule at politicians who stooped to attack

"my little dog, Fala."

During the first world war the White House grounds were pasture for a flock of sheep. President Woodrow Wilson had a double purpose: To help keep the grass trimmed and to provide wool that could be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross.

President William McKinley had a parrot which, so it has been carried, could whistle "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

And President William Howard Taft owned a Jersey cow named Pauline.

A BIT OF RESTRAINT
The nation's grief over the death of its President should have some restraint. For it to get out of bounds would be maudlin, and no compliment to the President or the Kennedy family. Wholesale renaming of places and things is not called for.

Passing deliberately the renaming of Cape Canaveral, because it is done, and moving on to the renaming of West Virginia, the comment can only be, "Let sanity return." In his lifetime John Kennedy showed no tendency to place persons' names on long known areas or monuments.

None of this is in disrespect to the Kennedy memory. It is merely a proposal that restraint be used, lest things be done which are tasteless and might prove regrettable. — The Arizona (Tucson) Daily Star.

THEY CALL IT 'LOVE'

If Eddie Fisher will do the gentlemanly thing, the Liz Taylor-Richard Burton affair can be all tidied up.

Eddie really ought to cooperate because, back in 1959 when he was in the Taylor lineup, his wife, Debbie Reynolds, agreed to give him a quickie divorce via Reno, Nev. Besides three other gentlemen previously obliged Liz, and Eddie ought to make it a fourth so that she can have a fifth.

The United States really shouldn't have to take the rap for the latest Taylor shenanigans. The newest of her men is Welsh, has a home in Switzerland, the affair blossomed in Italy, the lovers now are in England, and a Mexican divorce by Mrs. Burton put it all up to Eddie.

1963 Was Big Year In World Of Women

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

It was a year like none other in the century.

A widowed First Lady gave the nation an example of supreme dignity and courage in her time of trial. A Russian blonde was orbited into space. A playgirl nearly toppled the British government.

Two Sets Of Quits
Two mothers gave birth to quintuplets. Another mother, Mrs. Madalyn Murray of Baltimore, won a Supreme Court ruling that barred prayer and Bible reading in public schools.

Women — white as well as colored—demonstrated for civil rights and job opportunities for Negroes, in the March on Washington, in sit-ins and on picket lines. At a Birmingham church on a Sunday morning in September a dynamite blast killed four little Negro girls.

As 1963 drew to a close, nobody could deny it had been a highly eventful year, but everyone fervently wished parts of it could be undone.

Year Of Mourning
The tragic circumstances surrounding the assassination of President John F. Kennedy widowed three young women, left seven children fatherless and plunged 180 million Americans into mourning.

Year Of Mourning
A woman judge, Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, gave the oath of office to the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, and the United States had a new First Family in Lady Bird, Lucy Baines and Lynda Bird.

The nation's heart and admiration went out to courageous and composed Jacqueline Kennedy, who lost a husband only three months after the death of her three-day-old son Patrick.

September Great Month
Meanwhile, pitying Americans contributed to funds for Mrs. Lee Oswald, the accused assassin's widow who was left destitute with two baby girls, and Mrs. J. D. Tippitt, mother of three, whose policeman husband was shot to death shortly after the President.

Looking at the year's more cheerful aspects, September was a great month for babies. On Sept. 8 Mrs. Ines Cuervo de Prieto in Maracaibo, Venezuela, gave birth to five boys. She held the limelight less than a week. On Sept. 14 Mrs. Andrew Flasher, who already had five children, became the mother of quintuplets in an Aberdeen, S. D., hospital.

Ladies In Waiting
British royalty, meantime, became ladies in waiting; Queen Elizabeth is expecting her fourth early next year with Princess Margaret, Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent anticipating heirs a respectful time later.

For a while it looked as if the British government might fall over the high-society sex and espionage scandal resulting from courtroom revelations by red-haired Christine Keeler and various girl friends who had frolicked with the peer group, including a cabinet member. But the ship of state finally righted.

Boomlet For Margaret
In this country's politics women weren't overlooked. A boomlet for Sen. Margaret Chase Smith to campaign for the Republican presidential nomination got off the ground in late fall.

And speculation was rampant about New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's chances for the same job in view of his spring marriage to Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Fidler Murphy, mother of four, shortly after her divorce from Dr. James Slater Murphy.

A Russian textile mill worker, Valentina Tereshkova, 26, became the first lady astronaut in June, dashing the hopes of Jerrie Cobb and other American women pilots who had wanted this country to send up the first space woman.

But the woman professor who won a Nobel prize this year was an American, Mrs. Maria Goeppert Mayer of the University of California. She shared the physics prize for research into the structure of the atom and its nucleus.

The United States lost a socialite in 22-year-old Hope Cooke, but gained a maharani. Earlier this year she married Prince Palden Thondup Namgyal of Sikkim, an Indian protectorate, and in December they ascended the throne.

The costly, interminable "Cleopatra" finally was released to movie houses and got lukewarm reviews. More torrid was the romance between its stars, Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, whose marriage is in the offing.

Play Safe With Beauty On Trips

By ALICIA HART

The family hearth is spending more time without a blaze these days as the number of winter vacations increases.

An estimated 17 million annually scoot off to other climes from December to March.

Sun States Lead
Split vacations — summer and winter — also are on the upswing. According to the American Society of Travel Agents, the sun states lead in popularity with Florida and California out front.

While fun-in-the-sun enthusiasts head for palm trees and sandy beaches, some 2½ million skiers head hopefully for snow-covered slopes.

Sea And Snow
Although these vacation spots may seem poles apart, there are some beauty travel tips that fit both snowbunnies and the bikini set.

Sunglasses go whether it's Aspen, Antigua or along the fast-developing Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast. The sun glinting off the sea is just as blinding as snow glare. It is suggested that you carry an extra pair if you wear prescription lenses.

True Companions
Also take along eye-drops in a handy squeeze bottle to wash out foreign particles and soothe the eyes.

A good, moisturizing suntan lotion and lip balm are true companions for the swim-and-snoorkeling vacationers and the winter sports enthusiasts.

With all your activity, fatigue is going to hit at times. After-ski aches and pains, headaches from a long day in the biting cold or hot sun. Aspirin is the answer here. Also, tuck in a vial of bath oil. Taking these items with you helps save money since resort prices are always slightly higher than at home.

Another pre-travel tip: Give your hair a body permanent and you will spend less time with pin curls and rollers after a day of play.

Big Religious Story Of '63:

Protestants, Catholics Begin Conferring, Praying Together

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A changing pattern of religious relationships in the United States emerged in 1963.

In communities across the nation, Protestants and Roman Catholics began conferring together, often praying together, and, in some fields working together.

This was, on the hometown scene, the big religious story of the year.

Open-Door Attitude
It stemmed from events, both in the churches and out of them, the result of the tides of history.

From the Vatican Ecumenical Council, and its dramatic bid for renewal and closer ties among all Christians, a new open-door attitude spread to the local environments, bringing unprecedented contacts and interchange.

Roman Catholic bishops appeared at Protestant-Orthodox gatherings, and vice versa. Parish priests and pastors visited each other's congregations, discussed their varying customs.

It was an interflow, unparalleled in history.

Join Forces In Racial War
The nation's racial upheaval also tightened the interfaith bonds. For the first Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish representatives met nationally in Chicago last January to join forces for racial justice.

The upshot was the formation of interreligious councils on race in cities across the country. More than 40 of them have sprung up, and others were planned.

Another jolting event, the assassination of President Kennedy, also stirred a sense of common identity among citizens of all faiths, in their grief, their self-examination and rededication.

History-Making Events
The year was packed with history-making religious events.

Among them: The death of Pope John XXIII, that compassionate, gentle and open-hearted man who lit a new light of renewal and spiritual kinship where suspicions and antagonism had smoldered before.

The election of Pope Paul VI, who pledged himself to carry on the reforms initiated by his predecessor.

The surprising, preliminary agreements turned up in the six-denomination consultation on church union, involving Methodists, United Presbyterians, Christian Disciples churches, Episcopalians, the Evangelical United Brethren and the United Church of Christ.

High Court Decision

A Bit Of Good Luck

Each season brings us a new teen-age fad. This time around we have a tiny gnome good-luck charm. Wishniks, as the gnomes are called, are rapidly replacing bones, four-leaf clovers and the rabbit's foot on lapels, sweaters and beanies. Their abundant, twice body-length hair comes in a full rainbow range of colors. They also make decorative ornaments on gift packages.

Wakefield's Hodge Chosen As New Negaunee City Manager

NEGAUNEE — Appointment of Rodney D. Hodge, present city manager of Wakefield, as a successor to Leonard J. Harris in a similar capacity at Negaunee was announced today by Mayor Earl Makela.

Hodge was selected by the council from a list of eight applicants for the Negaunee post vacated by Harris to accept appointment as manager at South Haven in Lower Michigan.

One of Few Qualified

Harris, who resigned from special meeting of the council in November, left this week for his new assignment, and his successor is slated to arrive here the latter part of January after giving the Wakefield City Council the customary 30 days notice.

Mayor Makela in announcing the appointment disclosed that Hodge was one of the few applicants for the position who had previous managerial experience, as required by the Negaunee charter. The majority of those who applied were serving as interns or assistant managers.

Native Of Minneapolis

Hodge, who is 50, was born March 28, 1913, in Minneapolis

and received his degree in mining engineering from the University of Minnesota in 1934. Following graduation, he was employed as an assistant mill operator by the Black Hills Mining Corp. at Deadwood, S. Dak., for 10 months and then worked for Anaconda Copper Co. at Butte, Mont., until February of 1937.

From 1937 to 1944, Hodge was mining engineer for the Penn Iron Mining Co. at Vulcan, and from 1944 to 1947 served in a similar capacity at the Newport Mine, Ironwood.

Was Mine Captain

In November of 1947, he was named captain of the Newport Mine and occupied this position until May of 1951, when he resigned to accept the post of superintendent of the Sunday Lake Mine at Wakefield. Following the closing of the Sunday Lake in May of 1961, he was appointed city manager at Wakefield.

While at Wakefield, Hodge was responsible for all duties normally performed by a manager and also served as city engineer.

Negaunee's new manager is married and the father of three children. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and the International City Managers Association.

Colorful Life Of Old U.P. River Driver Recalled

By LEE SMITS

The other evening a telegram from Newberry was read to me over the telephone. Jimmy Cairns was dead. He was 91.

It seems illogical to feel acute grief for a man who had come to the end of a long, colorful life, but grief hit me just the same, because when Jimmy died the curtain fell on a glamorous era.

Cabin At Road's End

He had lived in his latter years with his daughter, Delia, whose husband, Russell Hild, is sheriff of Luce County. To visit the Hilds, and Jimmy, was to summon memories of a Michigan that is forever gone. Jimmy's cabin was at the end of a road that wound through swamp and forest. Jimmy and his wife, who came from Montreal, might not get out or see anybody for weeks on end. Most of the time their daughter, Delia, was away at school.

Rare Hospitality

To reach the cabin I rowed a duck skiff three, four miles and when I got there I found a kind of hospitality that has pretty much vanished with the frontier.

The cabin overlooked a marsh of several hundred acres, and the marsh was all mine in that long ago time. Live decoys were legal and I could jump-shoot, wading the marsh, then set out half a dozen tame mallards in a pond hole and wait for the evening flight.

Outline Of Career

Jimmy's daughter, Delia, is correspondent for the Escanaba Daily Press. Had she chosen a writing career, she would have been a successful authoress.

I asked Delia for an outline of her father's career, and here it is as he told it:

"I was born Aug. 27, 1872, on a farm on Look Lake in Hastings County, Ontario, of Scottish parentage, the third oldest of six children. Father died when I was five. Mother kept us together on the farm. I remember her, sitting up long after we were in bed, carding and spinning wool and making our clothing.

Job In Sawmill

"When I was 10 years old, I went to work in a sawmill on the Ottawa River below Hull, Quebec. I held various jobs and before I was in my teens I was on the boom, running logs. I started at $10 a month and got raised a dollar a year. My pay was a big help to my mother and I was a proud kid.

"Next I did chores in a lumber camp where my sister, Jennie, was cook. They were cutting square timber, broad axe work, and I went on the spring drive, out of Two River Rapids into Sishawa Bay where the raft was put together.

25 Cents An Hour

"I was 15. My brother Bill, a year older, was with me in the crew. On the drive we ate beans, cooked in a kettle sunk in the sand, stewed dried apples and black tea. The drive was finished in August and we got paid off in Quebec. I had $80 to take home to mother.

"Mother gave Bill and me money to go to the Canadian Soo. We got jobs on the coal docks and worked from the summer of 1887 to the fall of 1889. From there Bill and I went to Radey's Camp at Alexander, where Rudyard is now, halfway between St. Ignace and the Soo. There we heard that big wages were being paid at Gladstone—25 cents an hour—$2.50 a day.

Being Scottish Helped

"We worked there, unloading boats and then we hiked 10 miles through deep snow to Dam five at the head of Ford River where Angus MacRae was running a camp for the Metropolitan Lake Co. His walking boss was a man named MacGregor. Being Scottish helped anybody looking for a job with that outfit.

"Brother Bill and I had relatives in Alpena, so our next move was down below. Seems like most young men of that day wanted to drive as many rivers as possible. We got jobs at Hubbard Lake, where logs were hauled in by railroad and dumped to go down the south branch of Thunder Bay River. After the spring drive we got in with a man named Douglas Campbell, an Alpena alderman. He knew our family in Canada. He took us into the woods to work for him, up the west branch, where he was jobbing for Gilchrist. We drove down into Hubbard Lake, then into the main river.

Drove The Yellow Dog

"Later, in 1895, we drove the Yellow Dog in the Upper Peninsula. Brother Bill and I got $2 a day and I had a stake of $250 to take home to mother when I was 23. In 1896 I went to Seney. You hear wild tales about Seney in the old days, but I don't think it was worse than any other logging town.

"In 1897 I tended bar for Angus MacPhail at Grand Marais. Later as the pine moved to the west coast Angus was hanged in Darlington, Washington, for killing a man. In 1898 I went into partnership in the Dewey saloon with Stuttering Jim Gaffney. I bought him out in 1900 and shortly after that he was killed in a brawl on the Port Huron waterfront.

"I stayed in business in Grand Marais until 1912 when the Alger-Smith railroad was abandoned and the town pretty much died. I tended bar for five years for Phil Grendin in Seney where I built a home. Then, about the time of World War I, we moved to our place on the Shoe Pac in Mackinac County."

and received his degree in mining engineering from the University of Minnesota in 1934. Following graduation, he was employed as an assistant mill operator by the Black Hills Mining Corp. at Deadwood, S. Dak., for 10 months and then worked for Anaconda Copper Co. at Butte, Mont., until February of 1937.

From 1937 to 1944, Hodge was mining engineer for the Penn Iron Mining Co. at Vulcan, and from 1944 to 1947 served in a similar capacity at the Newport Mine, Ironwood.

Was Mine Captain

In November of 1947, he was named captain of the Newport Mine and occupied this position until May of 1951, when he resigned to accept the post of superintendent of the Sunday Lake Mine at Wakefield. Following the closing of the Sunday Lake in May of 1961, he was appointed city manager at Wakefield.

While at Wakefield, Hodge was responsible for all duties normally performed by a manager and also served as city engineer.

Negaunee's new manager is married and the father of three children. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and the International City Managers Association.

Salvation Army Appeal Nets $1,591

ISHPEMING — "The generous community support of the Salvation Army Christmas appeal has been once again transformed into the blessings of Christmas for the less fortunate in this community," according to Ed Mahon, chairman of the Salvation Army Christmas appeal.

Lt. Jerold Johnson, Salvation Army leader here, issued a report listing $1,591.21 collected.

The Salvation Army this year provided Christmas dinners for eight persons on Christmas Day, assisted 216 families with food baskets and food orders, supplied 105 families with toys, remembered 214 patients at the Palmer Nursing Home, Sarepta Rest Home in Republic and Morgan Heights Sanatorium of Marquette with gifts and candy.

In Gwinn, the Salvation Army service unit under the direction of Edward Summer-wille distributed 14 food baskets and nine canned goods baskets.

The Ishpeming corps supplied meat, oleo and bread.

Both Mahon and Lt. Johnson extended gratitude to all residents of Ishpeming, Negaunee and surrounding areas for their gifts to the Salvation Army Christmas appeal, saying, "With this community support, the Salvation Army is able not only to bring to the less fortunate the many blessings of Christmas, but to aid at other times of the year as well."

STAMP FORERUNNER

Forerunner of the tuberculosis stamp and the Christmas seal was the set of Sanitary Fair stamps which were sold at the Northern Ohio Sanitary Fair in Cleveland, Ohio, which opened on Feb. 22, 1864.

Allis-Chalmers Gets Prime Contract For Mather Mine Project

NEGAUNEE — Allis-Chalmers of Milwaukee today was awarded a multi-million-dollar prime contract to build and operate a multi-million-dollar plant as part of a program that will more than double employment at the Mather Mine here.

William M. Wallace, vice president and general manager of the Allis-Chalmers Process Equipment and Systems Division, said the plant will be capable of producing 1,200,000 tons of pellets annually from high-grade underground ore mined at the Mather.

The plant, scheduled for operation in the spring of 1965, will be built for Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co., Cleveland, and McLouth Steel Corp., Detroit, under a $15,000,000 program to utilize the Mather Mine's output. Ore production at the mine will be expanded from a current 700,000 tons annually to more than 2,400,000 tons by 1966.

In announcing general details of the program a week ago in Gov. George Romney's office at Lansing, Cleveland-Cliffs and McLouth said approximately 400 additional employees will be hired to staff the new facilities. Mather Mine now has a payroll of 350.

First Of Its Kind

Wallace said the new plant, using Allis-Chalmers patented "Grate-Kiln" system, will be unique in that it will be the first to pelletize high grade underground iron ores in the Lake Superior district.

"This project," Wallace declared, "tends to counteract an alarming trend which in the last few years has seen many underground mines in the Upper Great Lakes region close because of depletion of high grade ore and competition from high grade imported ores."

"It conceivably could result in similar projects to spur employment on the Mesabi, Gogebic and Marquette Ranges."

McLouth Major Recipient

Chief function of the new plant will be to convert "fines" — small particles of ore containing up to 63 per cent iron — into hard, marble-like pellets suitable for direct charge into iron and steelmaking furnaces.

The new plant will pelletize over one-half of the Mather Mine's production. McLouth Steel will be the major recipient of pellets, with Bethlehem Steel Corp. continuing to take the bulk of the non-pelletized ore. Cleveland-Cliffs, McLouth and Bethlehem are partners in Negaunee Mining Co., which owns the Mather Mine, an active producer since 1945.

Kiln 115 Feet Long

When in operation, the pelletizing plant will transform the fines into balls of uniform size and will heat-treat them inside a rotary kiln 115 feet long and 17 feet in diameter.

Wallace said the Allis-Chalmers plant in West Allis, Wis., will manufacture the kiln, a traveling grate 168 feet long, a color where the pellets are brought down to safe handling temperature, vibrating screens and associated electrical equipment such as motors, transformers, controls and switchgear.

Certain smaller motors will be produced at the Allis-Chalmers plant in Norwood, Ohio.

As prime contractor for the turnkey project, Wallace added, Allis-Chalmers will do the plant engineering. He said Arthur G. McKee & Co., Cleveland, will do the detail engineering and erect the pelletizing plant building, under subcontract from Allis-Chalmers.

The Mather pelletizing plant, Wallace noted, will be the sixth "Grate-Kiln" system engineered and erected by Allis-Chalmers for the iron mining industry in the Upper Peninsula since 1960. Each of the previous five is involved in producing pellets from low-grade ores.

posite of the civil rights movement, the opposite of the man the South opposed, and the opposite of the Eastern liberal. With all those factors removed, he loses a good part of his strength."

However, a number of respondents in all sections of the country disagreed. Said Mrs. V. H. Moffat, of Colorado, a Goldwater supporter:

"I do not believe the basic issues have changed, as President Johnson has vowed he will carry on the Kennedy program and keep the Kennedy Cabinet. It is still liberalism vs. conservatism."

Nearly Won In '60

A number of respondents, noting that Nixon nearly won the presidency in 1960, said he has an even better chance next year. An Indiana chairman wrote:

"I do not believe Johnson has the following Kennedy had. If Nixon can run as good a race as before, he should win."

Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage again were cited as reasons why respondents said he is not the strongest GOP candidate.

A number of those replying said the nomination is "up for grabs" and predicted a dark horse would win it. In this category, Scranton's name was frequently mentioned.

St. Jean Picked As All-Star

Northern Michigan University's senior end Leonard St. Jean, who recently turned down the Green Bay Packers to sign a contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, was named today to the defensive unit of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) All-Star team in Kansas City.

St. Jean had earlier been honorably mentioned in the Associated Press All-State selections for Michigan, in which two of his teammates, Bill Rademacher and Jack Mauro, made the first team, and one, Don Bangert, the second squad.

Packers Give Vince New Five-Year Deal To Keep Him Happy

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Directors of the Green Bay Packers have decided the best way to keep coach-hungry National Football League rivals away from Vince Lombardi's door is to be sure he likes his contract.

Packer President Dominic Olejniczak announced Thursday that Lombardi's five-year contract had been torn up and he had signed a new five-year agreement. The old pact still had two years to run. The new deal puts him under contract to the Packers until Jan. 1, 1969.

Saturday's Bowl Action Will Be Sparked By QB's

Just as quarterbacks dominated much of the play during the regular season, they'll be at it again Saturday as the college football bowl business continues on a fulltime basis.

The four games on the schedule, though, are only a prelude to New Year's Day when the bowl season reaches its peak with the Cotton, Rose, Orange and Sugar contests.

Leading the parade Saturday will be North Carolina and Air Force in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. The other contests pit the East and the West in San Francisco, the Blue and the Gray in Montgomery and Coast Guard and Western Kentucky in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

Among the name quarterbacks on the various rosters are Terry Isaacson of Air Force, Don Trull of the West and Larry Rakestraw, playing for the Gray.

Isaacson, a colorful, clutch signal-caller, sparked the Falcons to a 7-3 record, including three games won in the closing minutes. North Carolina, however, is a slight favorite to halt Isaacson and win the nationally televised (CBS) contest.

North Carolina, which won eight of 10 games, will rely heavily on quarterback Junior Edge, end Bob Lacey and halfback Ken Willard. All won various conference offensive titles.

Starting television time of the game is 1:30 p.m. EST. Trull, the Baylor star headed for the American Football League, will try and pass the West to its 19th victory in the 33rd Shrine game. The East has won 16 times while four contests ended in ties.

The East will throw some giant linemen against Trull, including 253-pound All-America tackle Carl Eller of Minnesota. Wisconsin's 245-pound Roger Piliath and Ernie Boghetti, 242, of Pittsburgh.

Offensively, the East has quarterbacks Pete Liske of Penn State and Ron DiGravio of Purdue for the nationally televised (NBC) clash.

Lane Listed In Top Rank By Magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — Ring Magazine, in its latest ratings Thursday, listed Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., as top challenger to lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz of New York.

The magazine ranked Henry Hank of Detroit sixth in the light heavyweight division. Auburn Copeland of Flint was given sixth place among the junior lightweights.

Ishpeming Junior Ski Club Meets Tonight At Hall

ISHPEMING — The Ishpeming Junior Ski Club will hold its first meeting of the year at 7:30 tonight at the United States Ski Hall of Fame.

All interested junior skiers as well as senior members are welcome to attend.

Registration cards from the Central Ski Association will be given out so they may be completed and placed on file.

Lombardi could be lured away. There was no information on terms, but the old contract reportedly paid Lombardi about $65,000 a year.

Lombardi, who serves as Packer coach and general manager, said, "Naturally I'm real happy."

The agreement was the third five-year pact given Lombardi since he took over the Packers in 1959. Since then Green Bay has won three consecutive Western Division titles, two straight league championships and posted a record of 50 victories, 15 defeats and a tie.

The Packers' bid for an unprecedented third straight championship was turned back this year when they finished second to the Chicago Bears by a half-game. The Packers won 11 games, lost twice to the Bears and played a tie with the Detroit Lions.

Backcourt Night For Boston

In backcourt night in the National Basketball Association with Boston's K. C. Jones supplying a large part of the bustle, Don Trull of the West and Larry Rakestraw, playing for the Gray.

Isaacson, a colorful, clutch signal-caller, sparked the Falcons to a 7-3 record, including three games won in the closing minutes. North Carolina, however, is a slight favorite to halt Isaacson and win the nationally televised (CBS) contest.

North Carolina, which won eight of 10 games, will rely heavily on quarterback Junior Edge, end Bob Lacey and halfback Ken Willard. All won various conference offensive titles.

Starting television time of the game is 1:30 p.m. EST. Trull, the Baylor star headed for the American Football League, will try and pass the West to its 19th victory in the 33rd Shrine game. The East has won 16 times while four contests ended in ties.

The East will throw some giant linemen against Trull, including 253-pound All-America tackle Carl Eller of Minnesota. Wisconsin's 245-pound Roger Piliath and Ernie Boghetti, 242, of Pittsburgh.

Offensively, the East has quarterbacks Pete Liske of Penn State and Ron DiGravio of Purdue for the nationally televised (NBC) clash.

The game gets under way at 4:45 p.m. EST. In the 25th Blue-Gray battle, Rakestraw, Georgia's prolific passer, will have his favorite target, end Mickey Babb, on hand. The Blue team, basing its offense on a ground attack, will seek its fifth triumph in the last six years and its 11th overall.

The Gray has won 14. Still another well-known quarterback, this one retired, is involved in the Tangerine battle Saturday night. He is Otto Graham, great pro quarterback who coached the Coast Guard to

Bears Work In Laughter, High Spirits

CHICAGO (AP)—To the casual observer, the Chicago Bears might have been going through a routine practice drill in preparation for Sunday's National Football League title contest with the New York Giants at Wrigley Field.

But if the air Thursday resounded with laughter and frolic it was deceiving.

The Bears had returned to the field after a Christmas Day lay-off and were hard at work, running through offensive and defensive drills, punting, passing and going through calisthenics.

While their mood generally was genial, assistant coach Sid Luckman predicted the players will undergo a mental change, probably starting today, and by Saturday "they'll be all business and Sunday there won't be a thing on their minds but the Giants."

Excellent Shape The entire squad is in excellent physical shape and, barring any injuries in the last two practice sessions, should enter the game in top condition.

Coach George Halas personally inspected the condition of the field.

A huge tarpaulin covered part of the Wrigley Field playing area and at the south end of the field motor driven blowers poured hot air under the billowing canvas in an attempt to keep the ground thawed.

Halas is aware that a crust on the hard ground might give the Giants and their velocity of offense an edge.

Too Much Turkey For Navy?

DALLAS (AP) — "If that wasn't the worst practice we ever had, it was the next to worst."

Navy football Coach Wayne Hardin ran his hands through his thinning carrot-colored hair and considered the point. "I guess it was our worst," he said.

Hardin was so upset over the performance of his second-ranked squad that he suggested the Midshipmen "will not get Sunday off as planned, before the battle with national champion Texas in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day."

Hardin, first Navy coach in history to beat Army five straight times said, "I hope it was just a case of too much turkey."

No Spirit, Either "Our passing was off. Our running was off. Our timing was off. And our defense was off. And we had no spirit."

Hardin planned two-a-day closed workouts today and Saturday. The players assembled here Thursday after a five-day holiday lay-off, spent at their homes.

Texas, still at home at Austin about 200 miles to the south, also begins two-a-day workouts today. There was no indication that the No. 1 ranked Longhorns are going to practice Sunday.

The national champions returned drills Thursday after their holiday lay-off, with second string quarterback Tommy Wade portraying Navy's Roger Staubach.

City Offers Finley Move Proposition

BLACKWELL, Okla. (AP) — In case Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, can't get a new lease on Kansas City's Municipal Stadium, Blackwell Mayor William Kasl has an answer.

Move the club to Blackwell, a city of 10,000 persons in northern Oklahoma, Kasl suggests.

Kasl released Thursday night a letter he has sent to Finley. In the letter, Kasl offers his assistance in securing for the Athletics a 10-year lease — for $1 a year — on Dave Morgan field.

Among the reasons for his offer, Kasl's letter said, "... We are tired of driving to Kansas City to the games..."

Bills Protesting Return Of Burton For Title Match

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — With the Eastern Division title playoff game just a day away, Boston and Buffalo of the American Football League were involved today in a ruckus over the Patriots' activated halfback, Ron Burton.

The Patriots and Bills met Saturday in the first playoff in the league's four-year history.

But Ralph Wilson Jr., Bills' owner, filed an official protest Thursday with league headquarters over the activation of Burton, who had been out of action since pre-season drills. Wilson contends the action violates the AFL's constitution and by-laws.

A league spokesman said Commissioner Joe Foss would rule on the protest today.

In returning Burton to the active roster Wednesday, Boston apparently acted under a memo the league sent to coaches and general managers. The memo said either team could add the game up to two players who had been waived or deferred during the season.

Wilson maintained the memo is an amendment to the constitution and by-laws. An amendment must be voted upon by the owners.

Buffalo Coach Lou Saban feels Burton, who underwent an operation for a slipped disc, gives Boston an advantage.

Darkness At Wrigley Field Would Create Title Game Problems

NEW YORK (AP) — As Yogi Berra would say, it gets late early this time of year at Wrigley Field in Chicago. With no lights to turn on in case of early darkness on a cloudy day, a long overtime game Sunday could result in a nightmare for the National Football League.

Pete Rozelle, the NFL commissioner, did his very best when he set the starting time for noon CST. Although this will bring the game into California in mid-morning on radio and television it was the best that could be done.

Unless there is a blizzard Sunday when the New York Giants and the Chicago Bears meet for the NFL title and heavy black clouds come rolling off Lake Michigan, they should be able to get the game in before dark.

There is enough leeway with the early start to take care of almost any emergency, including overtime.

Of course, there is overtime and there is overtime. In 1958 when the Baltimore Colts beat the New York Giants in the only sudden death game in NFL title history, they had to play only eight minutes and 15 seconds to get a decision on Alan Ameche's TD. It was dark when they finished under the lights but that game started at 2 p.m. EST, an hour later than Sunday's is scheduled to get underway.

Sixth Period Then there was last year's overtime game in the American Football League between the Dallas Texans, now Kansas City, and the Houston Oilers. That went into a sixth period and lasted 77 minutes and 54 seconds or 1:14 of overtime. Well, if that happens in Chicago on a dark dark day, the NFL may be in a jam.

Because Wrigley Field, home of the Chicago Cubs in the summer and the Bears in the winter, never has succumbed to night baseball, it presents a problem at this time of year.

MSU Meets Butler Saturday In Only Non-Tourney Tilt

(By the Associated Press) Michigan State meets Butler Saturday in the only non-tournament basketball game on the weekend collegiate schedule which finds state schools playing from New York to Los Angeles.

Michigan helped open the Los Angeles Classic Thursday, and will be on the coast until Saturday night, playing two more games in that tourney.

Biggest In State The Motor City tourney is the biggest in the state, with Western Michigan, Holy Cross, Penn State and the host school, Detroit, entered. Western, despite a 3-4 season's record, is rated the favorite.

Detroit suffered a setback Wednesday when Dorie Murrey, the team's No. 2 rebounder, suffered a cut on the back of his hand in practice. The wound required 16 stitches to close and it is doubtful that he will see action.

The Titans take on Holy Cross, with WMU pitted against Penn State in the opening night's action.

At Flint, Aquinas meets Bluffton, Ohio, and Flint J.C. plays Hillsdale in the Flint Invitational.

Rounds Steubenville, Ohio meets Fredonia (N. Y.) State in the first game, while Olivet faces Spring Arbor in the tournament at Spring Arbor.

Benton Harbor will play host to its own tournament at the western Michigan City. Grand Rapids, J.C., Vincennes, Ind. and Joliet, Ill. are the other teams entered in that one.

Consolation and final games are scheduled Saturday in all of these tournaments.

Detroit Tech. and Lawrence Tech are two of the eight teams playing in the sixth annual Tech Invitational Holiday Baseball Tournament at Rochester, N.Y.

Pratt Institute of Brooklyn, defending champion Drexel Tech of Philadelphia, Rochester Tech, Newark, N.J. College of Engineering, Indiana Tech and Stevens Tech of Hoboken, N.J. are the other teams in this tourney, which runs through Sunday.

Last Non-League Tilt MSU's game with Butler is the last non-league contest for the Spartans. They open Big Ten play at Illinois next Saturday.

Michigan has a game with Detroit at Ann Arbor Wednesday before opening its conference play at home against Northwestern next Saturday.

Tournament action resumes Monday at Marshall where Calvin, Ferris State, Central Michigan and Albion compete in the Marshall Classic. Consolation and championship games will be played Tuesday.

Longhorns Tough On Defense

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — When Navy's explosive offensive team breaks from the huddle for the first time Jan. 1 in the Cotton Bowl, quarterback Roger Staubach will be looking for what no other team has found this year—a way to beat Texas' defense.

Quick, agile and rugged, the Longhorns held 10 opponents to slightly more than a touchdown and less than 200 yards per game rushing and passing. Texas' defense against rushing — 89.2 yards a game—was the best in the Southwest Conference in 20 years and the second best this year in the nation.

That type of defense was the major factor in Texas' 10-0 regular season record and rating as the best college football team in the nation.
