The man with money knows that one dollar at a time will build a fortune; one stick at a time makes a cord.

You've often heard about that man who "said nothing and sawed wood." He didn't expect to saw a whole board at once.

He didn't expect to make a whole fortune at once. But he began with a little deposit in the bank and piled up a fortune almost before he knew it.

Look at the men today who said nothing and "sawed wood" a few years ago.

John D. Rockefeller was one of them. You can do the same.

White House and the Nation

White House is a Most Desirable Residence

WASHINGTON.—The White House is far and away the most desirable residence in the national capital. (This is in spite of the hostility of vice presidents, which, of course, obliges them to the generous tradition of Fillmore, who said, when he was called to the executive mansion, "This is my first misfortune.") It is the most picturesque, most picturesque of the government's possessions. Its history is the history of many of our American ideals, says Harrison Rhodes in Harper's Magazine.

The White House, as is natural, is the constant theater of the conflict to be observed everywhere in American life between our wish to have an aristocracy and our wish not to. But, on the whole, the disinterested observer must attribute victory to our democratic democracy which makes it really unattainable that the White House should ever be exactly fashionable.

We never forget not only that the presidential residence is our home, but that the president in it is our man. The almost utopian democracy of public receptions at the White House is both engaging and picturesque. In the early days congressmen used to come to them with bowie knives in their high, cowhide boots, and in Jackson's time, guards with stout sticks beat back the guests while the food was being forced from the kitchen. Then an evening party had all the charms of a riot. A diplomat complained not so long ago that even at the exclusive receptions for the corps, the American young ladies surreptitiously cut all the buttons off their clothes for souvenirs.

Another diplomat, new to these democratic shows, arriving late for a New Year's reception, was astonished to find that the negro hackman who had driven him to the White House had slipped in ahead of him and was the first to grasp the presidential hand!

Funny Letters Received by Members of Congress

MEMBERS of congress continue to receive letters in which the writers display unmeasured humor. Here is one that reached Representative Kelsey of Illinois: "All the old woman I know are getting a pension, but I don't get none. I have raised five children, and think I oughter have a pension. Please send one at once."

And here is another, which Representative Snowy of Arkansas found in his mail: "Please send me a pension by return mail. I was not in the army, but my father was. And I can't prove it, but the captain lost the mustard roll."

This is an extract from an affidavit submitted to a Missouri congressman by a country doctor, who, as a result of his active service in the Civil war, has contracted valvular heart disease, and there is a "very bad regurgitation of the mitral valve, giving a loud murmur on oscillation."

A West Virginia congressman has a constituent of venerable age who is not in sympathy with modern progress. Recently the congressman received a letter from the old man and dictated a courteous reply to his stenographer. The lawmaker's surprise may be imagined when he got this answer: "You don't need to print your — letters to me; I can read writing."

One-Legged Men to Convene in National Capital

FIFTY one-legged men will arrive in this city next June, will be welcomed by a one-legged hotel man, and will settle down to a three-day organization convention of the most extraordinary character ever started in the Capital City. The one-legged men will be mostly seamen for artificial limbs.

Their firm's business with European countries. Gustav Gumpert will bid them welcome. Gumpert is prominently counted on to become president of the One-Legged Men's Association of America. He lost his limb ten years ago in the service of his country, when he was gunner's mate aboard one of Uncle Sam's battleships. A blind smile curled the lips of Mr. Gumpert when he told of plans for this odd convention.

"You bet we'll have a bully time, the bunch of us," he said. "Ever notice that one-legged men are the best fellows in the world?"

"We're going to organize an association that every mother's son of us will be proud to be a member of. And you can see we're going to be 'some' exclusive."

Valuable Government Maps Offered at Low Price

THE project of covering the 3,600,000 square miles of the United States with accurate land surveys was adopted by the government as far back as 1852, but the work is even now less than half completed, according to experts of the geological survey. It is said that the standards of accuracy and refinement in this work have been constantly raised by the engineers carrying it on, with the view of meeting adequately every use to which the resulting maps can be put. The law provides for the sale of these maps by the survey at the cost of printing, which is interesting when it is taken into account that this cost is only a small percentage of the cost of surveying the area it represents.

The federal government itself is making a large and increasing use of these topographic maps, but the expenditure of public funds for these surveys is otherwise fully warranted, the officials of the geological survey think, only as the public uses the maps. To promote this use, the survey has recently given more attention to the wider distribution of the maps.

According to those who have been at work on this plan and are most interested in its success the distribution of a government map is largely a problem of publicity. Though the necessity of adopting commercial business methods in handling orders for the maps when once a demand is created is not overlooked. In informing the public of the existence of authoritative maps published by the government a special effort is now made to reach the communities in each area covered by the maps, and to this end every map, as issued, is brought to the attention of the local and state press, as well as to postmasters and schoolteachers.

Other methods of promoting wider distribution involve the co-operation of Boy Scout masters, schoolboys and hotel managers, as well as of a large number of book stores as local agents.

RETURN TO GAYETY

PRETTY COSTUMES ARE SEEN AGAIN IN STREETS OF PARIS.

Change From the Gamber Huea Hither to Prevailing Is Welcomed—Long Ties a Feature of the Styles—The New Muffs.

It is rather amusing to note the fact that at the moment when the powers that be have commanded us not to wear anything but "walking costumes" at the theater the ultra-smart Parisiennes are blossoming out into really elaborate toilettes in the day time.

The other morning in the Bois de Boulogne I was struck by the wonderfully attractive and original costumes worn by the pretty women who crowded the Acacia avenue and other fashionable haunts. Never since the beginning of the war have I seen so many smartly dressed women gathered together, writes a Paris correspondent.

The most costly furs and the very latest thing in tailored suits, and all this is as it should be. It is worth being at this stage of the proceedings, to put anything in the way of the success of our plucky dressmakers and tailors who have made such a brave fight these last two years.

Women must be dressed, and dressmakers and tailors must live, more than this they must be in a position to pay their work people and to contribute generously to the various war funds. If we are not, at the moment, to have any new theater dresses, we must at least look as cheerful as we can in the street. And it is pleasant to realize that the Bois, in the morning when everyone is either walking or riding, is almost as cheerful as before the war.

One of the favorite neckties of the immediate moment is made of very dark brown chiffon velvet and musquash, velvet on one side and fur on the other. These ties are very long and only about ten inches wide. They are wound round and round the neck and the ends are then either crossed in front or passed over the shoulders and allowed to fall loose at the back.

Long ties of this order are worn in conjunction with simple tailored suits or rough serge or gabardine, and they are wonderfully warm.

I have seen moleskin and taupe-gray chiffon velvet combined in the same way, with a long hairer muff to match. The chief point is that the tie must be quite long; at least two yards or two yards and a half. The effect is gained by the soft folds of fur and velvet which are muffled up about the face and head.

Some of the new muffs deserve the name of "finger-warmers." They are quite tiny and round as balls. And the correct way to carry them is to stretch out the hands in front and then to balance the muff between the fingers. This looks rather foolish, and certainly the muff is not much use in such a position, but it is the fashion.

The sketch shows a dress which was intended to be worn under a red velvet coat. This gown was made of crepe de chine in the new shade of "shrapnel" gray. The quaint little bolero was in black chiffon velvet and the waistcoat was made of silk gown taffetas, with fine embroideries in ruby, black, white and silver beads.

Colored Kerchief is Right.

The shops are full of pretty handkerchiefs, many of them novel.

The day when only pure white handkerchiefs were considered "ladylike" is far past, or else we no longer have any desire to be considered ladylike, ourselves. At all events, handkerchiefs all of partly colored are in perfectly good taste and they are presented in the shops in abundance.

The colored crepe de chine handkerchief is very pretty. It is, of course, carried in a fold to match or harmonize with the frock with which it is used. This sort of handkerchief is never very large. It can be washed and ironed, if reasonable care be exercised to keep the color from running, quite as satisfactorily as one of white linen.

Yolk handkerchiefs are another novelty. They come in all the pretty shades of mustard, rose, pink, yellow, green, tan, gray and blue that are still to be found, in spite of the troubled eye situation.

There are several sorts of handkerchiefs that cleverly conceal a powder puff. One is a white linen handkerchief with a double corner—about an eighth of the entire handkerchief. Into this little double section or pocket a small round, flat powder puff can be slipped. There is a circular opening through which some of the puff is exposed, and the face can be powdered readily and inconspicuously. The puff is removed, of course, when the handkerchief is washed.

Some of the new handkerchiefs show three or four very narrow tracks around the edge in the form of a border.

Protection for the Hair.

A cap to wear on the head so that the dust or smoke cannot reach the hair is a great boon. The cap in the sketch can be made in a few moments; it is simply a man's colored handkerchief—any color can be chosen to suit the wearer; one that will not show any soil and is generally becoming is a navy blue ground with white spots.

To make into a cap, take a pair of compasses and describe a circle on the handkerchief itself as a small diagram. Now all along this circle run some tape or ribbon to form a stiff band so that a narrow elastic can be threaded through; when this is threaded, draw so that a round shape is made; fasten the two ends of elastic firmly together and the cap is finished.

Elastic is much better than tape to thread through, because it can be made to fit tightly to the head and so make it quite impossible for any soil to reach the hair, and the caps will wash of course, stain and again; if a little starch is used they keep clean much longer.

It is well to slip the elastic out of the cap before washing as the water does not improve it, and the caps are, of course, much easier to iron as a flat handkerchief shape. Every housewife will find these a real boon, not only do they keep the hair clean, but tidy, so that it can be dressed and remain neat during a busy morning.

Writing on Handkerchief.

Across the corners of the newest "handkerchiefs" a sentence or phrase of embroidered writing may be seen. Maybe it is only a name, the signature of some friend who has been requested to write his name on your handkerchief instead of in your autograph album. Or again it may be your favorite motto, which you think the fashionable world would be better for knowing, so you flaunt it from the corner of your handkerchief instead of working it in cross-stitch and hanging it on the wall. Yes, most of these writing handkerchiefs are embroidered in black or colors on white.

Smart Evening Gown.

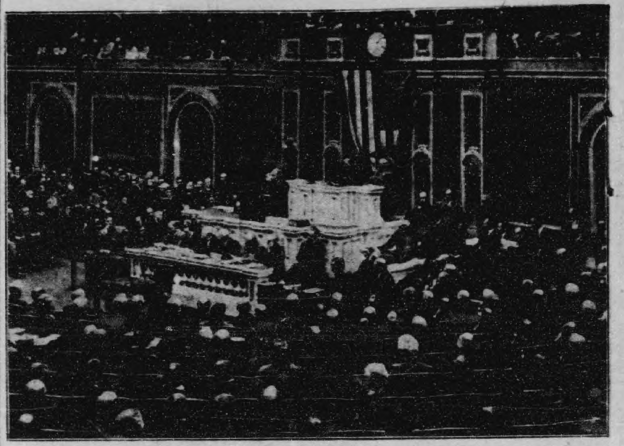

Smart Evening Gown.

This is one of the smartest evening gowns that has been created for wear at the party or ball. The costume is of black gros de londres, trimmed with white Spanish lace, which falls gracefully below the knees. The fullness of the skirt is held in place by large jet buckles. The cluster of purple roses at the girdle gives a pretty touch of color to the gown.

Tulle is Becoming.

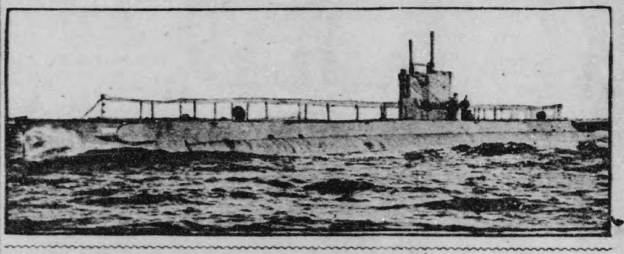

Tulle, especially the delicate, well-known hues, is peculiarly becoming to the complexion.

EXCELLENT RESULTS FROM THE CANADIAN WHEAT CROP

United States Settlers Becoming Rich on Western Canada Lands.

The large number of United States settlers coming to the Western provinces of Canada are easily explained by the case of Mr. C. Lacy, late of Wisconsin and later of Alberta.

Mr. Lacy came to Canada from Wisconsin in the summer of 1914 with $1,500 available cash in his possession. He rented a half-section of partly improved land in Alberta and commenced summer following. He broke 300 acres with oats, 20 with barley, and 200 with wheat. Also he had two cows and 20 head of young live stock.

Try Case Next Week. Prosecuting Attorney T. E. Siron was in the city Saturday and while here announced that the Boyle-Withey case will come up for trial in Judge Huber's court today this week. This case has been hanging fire for some time, partly owing to the large volume of work in the prosecutor's office.

Birch Lead in Feb. Records on file at the office of the city clerk show that the number of births occurring in Gladstone during the month of February far exceeded the number of deaths. During February 19 babies were born and a total of 4 deaths were recorded. During the month of January the number of births recorded was 14 and the number of deaths 5.

Popular Sermons. The Peoples Congregational church was filled to capacity last evening, when Rev. Frank Jones delivered the first of a series of popular Lenten addresses. Rev. Jones took as his subject for his first address, "Ornamental and Useful," dealing with Christianity as applied in the present day. The address was a most brilliant one and the large gathering was enthusiastic for his subject next Sunday evening. Rev. Jones has chosen the subject of "Seven Days Religion."

New Spring Stocks. Gladstone merchants are making their advance showings of spring goods and styles. Some of the window displays are radiant with new arrivals in dress goods, ladies spring suits and other apparel to gladden the hearts of Gladstone women. While the stores have received only a small part of their spring stocks, another month will see them complete. The new spring clothes for the men folks are also beginning to come in. Gladstone people should bear in mind that the Gladstone merchants are entitled to their patronage. The stores here have had good and up to date goods as are offered by the catalogue houses and the prices are right, too. Remember the Gladstone merchant when doing your spring buying.

Can You Beat This? The Reporter in receipt of a copy of a speech recently delivered by Rep. Frank James of Michigan, before the house of representatives at Washington. In his address, Rep. James asks "Why Build Public Buildings in Little Towns Where Postal Receipts are Small?" In his address, Rep. James severely criticized the bills introduced by representatives from the Southern states. Rep. Lanley of Kentucky introduced a bill asking for $75,000 for the erection of a postoffice building at McKee, Ky., which has a population of 140 and a postal route of 16 miles for the last fiscal year totaled 1526.00. Many similar bills were introduced by the "Southern Gentlemen." The postoffice receipts in Gladstone total over $10,000 per year and yet the government cannot afford to pay more than $700 per year rental much less provide a new building even at a cost of $10,000. More pork.

Former Pastor Dead. Charles Brandt today received a telegram announcing the death of Rev. G. A. Ekman, at Austin, Texas. He died yesterday. Rev. Ekman was pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church in this city seven or eight years ago.

New Look Out. George Perry has accepted a position with A. Larson at the Overland garage. In his new position George will be able to secure some valuable information as to automobile values and may possibly act accordingly when making up his personal "popery" assessment roll.

Big Meeting of Elks. This meeting gives promise of being the most interesting held in many months. The past rulers in addition to being guests will fill the official chairs and will carry out the work of initiating a class of ten candidates. Preceding the coronation session a supper will be served at 8:30. Following the supper the members will enjoy a social session until time to open the meeting. Election of officers for the ensuing year will also be held.

Play Writers Organized. The Paramount Play Writers' club was organized Friday evening at a meeting held at the home of D. McClellan at the Excelsior plant location. Officers of the new organization are: Archie McClellan, president; D. McClellan, vice-president; Ralph Dausey, secretary and treasurer. The membership of the club numbers three but new members will be added soon. The club plans to place Cleveland on the map in the motion picture world. Anyone who is interested in securing writing should join the club. Already several members have written some creditable picture play plots which have been submitted to producing companies.

Lyric Theatre. "The Spider and the Fly," a superb five-act Fox drama, featuring Robert Mantel and Genevieve Hamper, will be the attraction at the Lyric tonight. THREE INDICTED AS SPIES IN NEW YORK

FEDERAL GRAND JURY HOLDS MEN WHO BOUGHT TO OBTAIN INFORMATION IN ENGLAND

New York, March 2.—Participation in an elaborate spy plot organization to send men to Great Britain, under guise of being American newspaper correspondents, but whose real purpose was to serve as spies, a German spy forbidden information as to civil and military conditions in England, was charged against Albert A. Sander, Carl W. Wunnenberg and George Vanx Bacon, in indictments handed today by the federal grand jury.

Wrote With Invisible Ink. Arrangements were made in this city, the indictments allege, by which this information could be sent out of Great Britain through the use of a writing fluid which remained invisible until certain chemicals were applied to the paper, rendering the writing, Bacon, it is charged, was hired to go to England as a supposed newspaper correspondent. GOLD STORAGE BILL IS REPORTED

LIMIT OF FIVE MONTHS FIXED IN STATUTE WHICH IS EXPECTED TO HIT H. C. OF L.

Lansing, Mich., March 3.—Rep. Tuohy's bill limiting time of gold storage of food to five months was reported out and if passed is expected to help in cutting down the cost of living. It also requires cold storage foods on sale to be so labeled.

Senator Scott's bill limiting the number of charter commissioners in any city to nine was also reported. It is said that the bill for the increase of railroad fares is to be introduced shortly. Whether after the disastrous experience with the proposed referendum of prohibition, Rep. Read's proposal for a referendum on this question will prevail is doubtful. Should it be up to the house, there is likely to be a merry fight. Liquor bills are expected to be ready to report out Thursday but there seems no prospect of their consideration on this week. The plan of the committee is to have the McArthur bill and the more liberal measure combined on the floor of the house, as they duplicate to the extent of ten sections, and here the fight will come, if there be one on prohibition.

"The Foolish Virgin."

Clara Kimball Young, the screen star supreme, will appear in her second Selznick Pictures offering, an adaptation of "The Foolish Virgin," Thomas Dixon's striking novel at the Lyric theatre on Friday, March 8. This production is expected to prove a worthy successor to Miss Young's first venture at the head of her own producing company, "The Common Law," the story offering even greater opportunities in intense dramatic situations than did Robert W. Chambers' novel.

In "The Foolish Virgin" Miss Young will be seen in the role of the girl whose ideas of life are confused with the romantic stories of the days of chivalry which she is fond of reading. Knowing nothing of realities, she is deceived into marrying a man who turns out to be a criminal. The girl exerts her influence toward the redemption of the man she loves and it is during this process of character building that the tense dramatic scenes in which the story abounds, develop.

As in "The Common Law" Miss Young has been aided in making the production a splendid example of motion picture art by the masterly direction of Albert Capellan, her director-general, and the presence of a suggestive cast of immensely popular motion picture players. Conway Tearle, who made such a decided hit in the role opposite Miss Young in "The Common Law," will be seen to particular advantage in the leading man's part of the new production and Paul Capellaul, who has been seen in a number of Miss Young's greatest pictures, also has a strong role.

Murder Case is Recalled.

The famous Tobias murder case, which occurred several years ago in Chippewa county, is recalled by a letter which was received by Sheriff Landry from a copper country attorney. The inquiry asks if there is still a reward for the murderer, and also asks for news of late developments, if any. It will be remembered that Tobias shot a deputy sheriff and another man in cold blood and then made his escape. For weeks the country in the vicinity of Ironsby, near where the murder occurred, was scoured for the slayer, but no trace of him was found. The murder cost Chippewa county thousands of dollars. Whether Tobias escaped or perished in the forest remains a mystery. The letter from the copper country leads to the belief that someone there may have trace of the man.

SICK WIFE'S STORY SURPRISES GLADSTONE

The following has surprised Gladstone: A business man's wife suffered from dyspepsia and constipation for years. Although she stated she was so bloated her clothes would not fit, ONE SPOONFUL buckhorn bark, KAYERS, etc., mixed in Adler'ska relieved her INSTANTLY. Because she was so bloated she could not eat. She emptied BOTH large and small intestines. It relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It is QUICK-EST action of anything we ever sold.
