ESCANABA NEWS

Escanaba Man Makes Millions In Grain Fields

Rising by means of investment in stocks and grains and losing it all and then again coming to the top and making a fortune of over $1,000,000 is the experience of Charles F. Glavin, son of D. E. Glavin of the Chicago & North Western Railway company of this city. A caberian reared from Buenos Aires South America today from Mr. Glavin, Jr. brings information that he has disposed of all his grain holdings there in consideration of over one million dollars in American money and that within a short time he will return to the United States to take up his residence. Mr. Glavin left here several years ago and went to Milwaukee where he dealt in grains and "played" the stock market. On the December corn one year he made a clean sweep which netted him thousands of dollars. Continuing in the stock game, he later lost what he had made having invested in May corn. He went "broke," in short and had to look elsewhere for new ideas and plans to remake what he had lost and further profits. He sold all his holdings and was heavily in debt for a considerable length of time.

He held his interest in the Manitowish Grain company which fact resulted in his gaining the new fortune. Without any amount of money to speak of he went to South America and there saw the crude elevator and machinery systems which were in use in the greatest grain fields of the world. He returned to the United States and went to Minneapolis where he secured the right to introduce a new elevator and machine system into the southern lands. From the time he went back to South America with his modern ideas and latest machinery until the present day, he has worked himself up building up one of the biggest grain businesses there.

After five years of work having started with hardly anything he has earned over a million dollars. The money was secured recently by his having sold all his holdings there with the exception of the elevator rights which he still continues to hold. The story of the man's life appears more like a fabulous tale than one of reality although business ability coupled with breaks in luck have netted the former Escanaba man a fortune. After he had failed the first time, he was heavily in debt but paid off all his creditors before the latest move was made.

LeClair-Fillion

A most beautiful wedding was solemnized Tuesday morning at the Sacred Heart church at Shafter, Rev. Father Blin officiating, when Miss Mary LeClair, daughter of Alphonse LeClair, of Escanaba, the bride of Daniel Fillion, of Escanaba. After the ceremony an elegant dinner was served at the home of the bride. The house was prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns. The bride wore a dark blue suit with a picture hat to match and carried pink roses, while the maid of honor, Miss Bernadette Rober, also wore a blue suit, picture hat to match and carried white roses. The best man was Ovid LeClair, brother of the bride. The young couple left on a wedding trip to Milwaukee and Chicago. Upon their return they will make their home in Escanaba. Both parties are known to hosts of people in the city.

Vande Wiele-St. Martin

One of the prettiest weddings of the season in Escanaba was that solemnized at St. Patrick's church at seven o'clock Tuesday morning when Miss Henrietta Vande Wiele, daughter of Dr. Vande Wiele, became the bride of Elmer St. Martin. The ceremony was performed at a Solemn High Mass at which Rev. Dr. Albert, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Father Buchholz, of Marquette, Rev. Father Feldhaus of the St. Patrick's church and Rev. Father Jacques of St. Anne church.

The bride was given away by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Lorraine Vande Wiele. The bride presented a charming picture in a gown of brown tulle with brown hat and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The honored maid wore a gown of dark blue, with hat to match, and carried red roses. The groom was attended by John Lemmer.

During the ceremony a special musical program was presented with Mrs. Wm. Ranspeck at the organ, with an augmented choir for the occasion.

Following the ceremony members of the bridal party went to the Vande Wiele home where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. At ten o'clock Mr. and Mrs. St. Martin left for a short trip to Milwaukee and Chicago.

The bride has spent the greater part of her life in Escanaba and is recognized as one of the city's most accomplished women. The groom who is a ward of the Rev. Dr. Barth, is recognized as one of Escanaba's enterprising young business men. He holds a responsible position with the Kirwin Company and which position he will continue to hold, although this week he became a member of the firm of E. L. Vande Wiele & Company.

W. J. Drake

W. J. Drake, for 47 years employed as an engineer for the North Western road, running out of Escanaba, passed away suddenly late yesterday afternoon at the home of his son, Frank Drake, 616 South Tenth street. The veteran engineer's health began to fail November 1, he was placed on the company's pension roll. In spite of the rest brought by his retirement, his health continued to fail and in recent weeks he had been troubled with an affection of the eyes. Until a week ago he had resided with his daughter, Mrs. Frank Compher, but a fire drove them from their home, and Mr. Drake went to the home of his son.

Mr. Drake was 68 years of age and came to Escanaba in 1872. He at once entered the employ of the North Western road and continuously remained in the employ of that company as an engineer until last fall, when he was retired on pension. For a number of years he served on the Watersmeet passenger run and was known among the railroad men from one end of the Peninsula division to the other. He is survived by one son, Frank Drake and six daughters, Mrs. Compher and Mrs. Margaret Mackin of Stambaugh. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Powers-Roberts

The marriage of Miss Alice Powers to John Roberts took place Monday morning at the St. Patrick church. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few close friends and relatives by the Rev. Father Edward Feldhaus. The bride wore a traveling suit of dark blue with a picture hat

FOOLING WITH HEALTH SERIOUS

I have frequently asked drug-ists, "What do you push in blood medicine?" The answer usually came, "The kind I can make the most money on." My answer has always been: "None." I have succeeded pretty well and I have always recommended the one that I had found by experience to be the best and the one that I would be willing to take myself or give to members of my own family. I have never offered the public a medicine that we do not use at home. This is why I can offer "Number 49 For The Blood" with a clear conscience. We have not only tried it on thousands of others, but on ourselves. We make it in all cases where a blood medicine is needed, no matter in what form it shows itself and we get splendid results in constipation, kidney, stomach and liver troubles. J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., 40 years a druggist. Mr. Richard Dickson, furniture dealer, 157 Forest St., Spartanburg, S. C., was "troubled" a great deal for several years with a breaking out that resembled Erysipelas. Before we got the agency for Number 49 For The Blood, we sold him many kinds of blood purifiers and compounds recommended for skin troubles. He got no permanent relief, however, until we got him started on Number 49. He took several bottles and was soon entirely relieved of the very disagreeable skin trouble, but he has not quit. Number 49. He says he has found it the best liver medicine on the market, and will keep it on hand all the time and recommends it to his friends for a substitute for calomel. Todd Drug Co.

TOLD IN GLADSTONE

A Resident Known to all Our Readers Relates an Experience.

Readers of the Delta County Reporter have been told again and again of the merits of that reliable, time-proved kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills. The experiences told are not those of unknown persons, living far away. The cases are Gladstone cases, told by Gladstone people. John Calder, Freeman, 219 Superior Ave., Gladstone, says: "I have been, also, I suffered with my back and kidneys. My work requires a great deal of stooping and every time I tried to bend, sharp pains caught me in my back. Dizzy spells, blurred eyes and specks floated before my eyes, blurring my sight. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Stewart's Pharmacy, soon went to the seat of the trouble and fixed me up in good shape." Price 60c at all dealers. Spring Time is Rug-Cleaning Time

And the calendar says Spring is here. The cold days we have been having may have decided you, but if you will examine your Rugs you will find that they are very much in need of their regular Spring Cleaning.

Your Rugs never were so dirty before since you began housekeeping; and you know the reason for that—we have had an unusually long, cold Winter, and never before was there so much sooty, dirty, black soft coal burned. This dirt and soot have been tracked into the house and on your rugs; the soot and dirty smoke have got all through your house, more or less, and how dirty everything is! But it is not your fault, and you aren't the only one who is appalled at the house-cleaning problem this spring.

Load Your Spring Cleaning Worries on Us.

Yes, there's more dirt and less help and what help there is, is demanding prohibitive wage.

It surely is a situation which causes the housekeepers a lot of worry. But we are here to tell you that your worries are unnecessary. We are willing to assume them.

Just telephone us—No. 134—and we'll call and get your rugs and anything else that you want cleaned, and when we return them, you can shake your fist in the face of Old Monster House-Cleaning-Time.

Our Charges Are Very Low

Our charge for cleaning and scrubbing rugs and carpets is ridiculously small. You couldn't do the work for so small a price, even if you could do it at all. But it is impossible to do this cleaning and scrubbing by ordinary methods. We have the most up-to-date equipment for doing this work.

Call and see us and we'll show you how we do the work. After you see our way of doing it, you will be more convinced, quickly and thoroughly.

WALFRED ANDERSON LAID TO REST

HOSTS OF FRIENDS PAY LAST RESPECTS TO WELL KNOWN YOUNG MAN.

Impressive funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon for Walfred Anderson, who died in St. Paul, Friday evening, after being ill for about a month. Brief services were conducted at the home on Minnesota avenue at 2 o'clock and at the Swedish Mission church at 2:30 o'clock.
 Rev. Isaac Hovem, a friend of the family, came from Cadillac to have charge of the funeral. He delivered a sermon in Swedish and Rev. Wyman of Minneapolis spoke in English.

In spite of the cold weather, the church was crowded with hosts of friends of the young man.
 The floral offerings were very profuse, attesting the high place he had won in the hearts of so many in the community.

The following young men officiated as pall bearers: Walter Olson, Arthur Nordgren, Earl Alm, Olie Nelson, Helmer Blomquist and Helmer Skomint.

A CARD OF THANKS

REV. J. O. LONQUIST NEW PASTOR AT MISSION CHURCH

Rev. J. O. Lonquist and family of Ashland, Wis., will arrive tonight, to make this city their home for some time. Rev. Lonquist will begin his pastorate here Sunday morning. For the past couple months the Swedish Mission church has been without a regular minister, that is since Rev. Hulten left for Aberdeen, Wash.

Rev. Lonquist comes from Ashland, where he served the Mission church there very efficiently. Local members of the church have been in touch with him for several weeks, but he was not able to take his charge till May 1st.

LUMBER FIRMS WILL STAND PAT

THE TIMBER WORKERS WILL NOT CONCEDE 8 HOUR DEMAND SAYS MINING JOURNAL.

That mill operators and logging companies, in face of the impending strike of timberworkers next month, have virtually agreed to "stand pat" against an eight-hour day, and continue for the operation of their mills to whatever extent is possible after the walkout occurs is the general belief in this district, says the Mining Journal, although no formal statements have been made.

As near as can be learned, the strike will have a varying effect in different localities, according to the strength of the timberworkers' union. The union is said to be fairly well organized in Gladstone, Newberry, Manistique, Munising and Escanaba. In some localities the union claims an organization equal to 90 per cent of the working forces in the woods and the mills. Wherever this is true it is probable that the strike will mean a practical paralysis of operations.

In other localities, the union organization is such that a strike will not cause a complete shutdown of mills or cessation of logging operations. Whatever the result, there appears to be a general attitude on the part of the employers to refuse the demands of the union and cease operations if necessary.

It is not probable that Marquette wood working industries will be forced to cease operations in the event of the threatened strike. The membership of the local branch of the employers, does not represent a majority of mill employes in this locality. In one plant the majority of the workers are union members who have been satisfied with their working conditions. If they answer a strike call it would probably cause a temporary shutdown of the plant. In another local plant only a few of the employees are members of the union. A superintendent of that plant said yesterday that a strike will not affect its operation materially. In another local factory there are no union men employed.

In the logging camps along the S. & L. and M. & S. E. railroads the union organization is said to be from 40 to 50 per cent strong. Cleveland CHS Iron Co. officials figure that approximately half of the men employed in the company's camps in Alger county are union members and will probably walk out in the event of the orders from union headquarters.
 Reports from the Wisconsin and Minnesota areas indicate that operators have agreed to close their plants at once if a strike occurs, unions that enough men remain at their posts to

NEW POWER DAM WILL GIVE SERVICE TO FARMERS

The building of the new power dam by the Escanaba Paper company at Kingley's Falls will make electric power available to farmers located in a territory extending in several directions.

The new power line will follow the county road direct from the paper mill to Cornall and beyond that point to Kingley's Falls. The route selected for the main power line runs north into Escanaba township to what is known as Carroll's Corners, and turns westward at that place to follow the new Cornell county road route.

When the dam is completed and power turned on, farmers residing along the route of the power line will be able to secure power connections to furnish lights for their homes and barns and to operate motors for work that is now largely performed by hand power and gasoline engines.

Later it is probable that branch power lines will be constructed to carry the power to farms not on the main Cornell road, providing city conveniences for farmers in a wide territory in the northern part of the county.

Milwaukee were followed by steps to place him in custody and the two Hojnosckis were placed in jail. Mrs. Chasnowski was granted a divorce from Peter by Judge Collinwood last week. The farm, left to her by a former husband, together with property valued at $1,000 which had been added by Peter, was given to her by the court for the support of a child of which Peter is the father. Jacqueline of Golden River

Copyright W. G. Chapman

I plopped back to the two which spanned the gap in the valley, then stuck my foot on the bank of the ridge of searching for an entrance. The snow precipitous became the snow.

Risk was no visible entrance to the mountain lake on any side, and then I saw that sheer, ice-coated precipice as an impossibility.

As I lay long after midnight when I had the cabin again, exhausted and despondent.

A candle too late on the fifth morning I was too stiff to make much of my way. I climbed to the edge of the glacier once again in the hope of covering an approach. I examine every foot of the ground with anxious care.

And wherever I approached the edge a same wall of rock ran down vertically for some three hundred feet. My head with ice and wind, and a general blinding spray.

Now was within three hundred feet of Jacqueline's home and yet as far as I was as though leagues divided us. I stood down at the chateau and I had my teeth and swore that I would win to her. But all the rest of my day went in fruitless searching. It was to be my last night in the cabin. I could not return, not though I was perishing in the snow. My chaps my eyes were now entirely shut, and my hands, though chapped and roughened from the frostbites, I suffered no permanent injury. So I started out with grim resolution on a sixth morning, when the dawn was a red streak on the horizon and a sharp still lit my way.

As I stood, rather weary, balancing myself upon my snowshoes, I heard a low howl quite near to me. Raising my head I saw no wolf but an Eskimo dog—the very dog I had encountered a New York—Jacqueline's dog!

CHAPTER XI.

Under the Mountains.

The dog was standing on a rock at the base of the hill immediately before me—and calling. I almost thought that it was calling me.

I took a few steps toward it, and it disappeared—apparently into the heart of the mountain.

When I reached the spot where it had been it was impossible to be seen. And the pad-prints ran toward a tiny hole no bigger than the entrance to a fox's lair—and ended there.

At this spot enormous bowlder lay almost concealing the burrow. I put my shoulder against it—in the hope of dislodging it sufficiently to enable me to see into the cavity. To my astonishment, at the first touch it rolled into a new position, disclosing a wide natural tunnel in the mountainside, through which a sleigh might have passed easily!

I saw at once the explanation. The bowlder was a rocking stone. It must have fallen some time from the top of the arch, and happened to be so poised that at a touch it could be swung into one of two positions, alternately disclosing and concealing the tunnel in the cliff wall.

I stepped within, and striking a match, perceived that I was standing inside a vast cave—a vaulted chamber that ran apparently straight into the heart of the mountains.

The interior was completely dark. At intervals I struck catches on the box which I had brought with me, but the road always ran clear and straight ahead, and I could even guide myself by the ruts in the ground.

I advanced cautiously until the light grew quite bright; I saw the tunnel end in front of me, and emerged into an open square in the heart of the hills.

I glanced at my watch. It seemed that I had been traveling for an interminable time, but it was barely eleven o'clock. I felt drowsy, and somehow, before I was aware of any fatigue, I was asleep.

It was three o'clock when I awoke, and at first, as always since my journey began, I could not remember where I was. And, as always, it was the thought of Jacqueline that recalled me to my surroundings.

I sprang to my feet and made hasty preparations to resume my journey.

In the first cave that I explored I found a stock of provisions—flour and canned meats and muttons—stuffed stored away safe from the damp and snow. Near by were picks and shovels and a collection of materials suggestive of the gaming party's outfit.

I must go on at once if I were to reach the chateau that night.

As I proceeded I kept looking to the left to endeavor to locate the narrow passage into which I had strayed, but it must have been the merest opening in the wall, so small that only a miracle of chance had led me into it, for I saw nothing but the straight passage before me.

Presently I began to hear a murmur of water in the distance and then a faint flicker of light.

The thunder of the cataracts filled my ears. A fine spray, like a garment of filmy silk, obscured my clearer vision; but through and beyond it, above two torrents that spilled about like crystal bows, I saw the chateau before me.

CHAPTER XII.

The Roulette Wheel.

The building stood far back beneath the overhanging ledge and seemed to be secured against the flying rock. It was evident that there was no other approach except the tunnel through which I had come, for all around the land that turbulent whirlpool raved where the two cataracts contended for the mastery of the waters.

It was almost dark now and grooves litrely cold. I felt in my pocket

He Never Heard Nor Saw Me. For my pistol and loaded it with the two cartridges that alone remained of the lot I had brought with me. Then I advanced stealthily until I stood beneath the cataract; and here I found the spray no longer drenched me. I came upon a door in the dark wing and, turning the handle noiselessly, found myself inside the chateau. And at once my ears were filled with voices and coarse laughter in men's and women's voices.

As my eyes became accustomed to my surroundings I perceived that I was standing near the foot of an unpainted wooden stairway. There was a dark room with an open door immediately in front of me, and another at the farther end of the passage, from beneath which a glimmer of light issued, and it was from this room that the sounds of laughter and music came.

I turned to the left, and advancing I suddenly found myself face to face with Philippe Lacroix.

He was seated at a table in a room writing, and I came right upon the door before I was aware of it. I saw his thin face with the little upturned mustache and the cold sneer about the mouth; and I think I should have shot him if he had looked up. But he only turned his head nor saw me but wrote steadily, and I crept back from the door.

I turned back and followed the corridor to the right and came to a little hall toward the rear of the building. Beyond me was an open door, and behind it I saw the dull glow of a stove and felt its heat.

I approached cautiously and looked in.

Facing me, above a cracked and ancient mirror, were two rusty broadswords, and in the mirror I saw a large oak table reflected. Seated at the table in a chair of oak, of very ancient fashion, was an old man with long, snow-white hair and a white, bearded face. He was busily transferring a stack of gold pieces from his right to his left side; and then he began scribbling on a sheet of paper. He paid me not the smallest attention as I entered.

FIGHT ON "MOONSHINE" IS STARTED AT RHINELANDER

Rhinelander—"Moonshine" which according to rumor, has been flowing freely over the bars in a number of Rhinelander saloons, since prohibition went into effect, is to be no more here. Mayor S. G. "Moonshine" has been bringing 50 cents a drink here, it is alleged.

Rivers and Harbors Bill Is Approved

Washington, D. C.—The rivers and harbors bill was passed today by the senate with amendments to make the total $24,000,000 as against the $12,000,000 in the house bill and the $20,000,000 recommended by the senate commerce committee. Approved without a record vote, the bill now goes to conference where a fight is expected.

Both the senate and house agreed to the principle of a lump sum appropriation rather than specific grants for the various projects. No new work was authorized.

Early in the day, an attempt to amend the bill to make the total $27,000,000 was defeated 28 to 26. The total of $24,000,000 was accepted 34 to 22 after long discussion.

NEWS OF THE MOVIES

Though Douglas Fairbanks' picture, "His Majesty, the American," which starts a two-day run at the Lyric theatre tonight, is as peaceful a film as the lively Douglas can make, he was materially assisted in making it by a lot of Uncle Sam's fighters.

The director of the picture is Corporal Joseph Henabery, this being his first motion picture work since his return from the Army.

The camera staff is under the supervision of Lieut. Victor Fleming, late of the United States Signal Corps, and who incidentally went to France with President Wilson on board the Steamship "George Washington," on the President's first trip over, in charge of the Government's photographers.

Billy Shay, who assisted in the editing of the film, received military decorations in France and as though this were not enough military aid for Douglas, three hundred returned soldiers were given work in the construction of the French village which is used in the picture and which cost something in the neighborhood of $40,000.00 to build.

The attraction at the Gladstone Theatre tonight and Friday will be the super six-reel feature, "12-10," with Marie Doro as the star. Miss Doro has been absent from the screen for several years starring in notable Broadway, New York, productions, and also appearing in London. She is well remembered as being one of the first stars selected by the Lasky company when this organization began screen productions. Herbert Brenon, who gave us "Neptune's Daughter," "Daughter of the Gods," "Lone Wolf," and other notable film success, directed Miss Doro in this production of "12-10."

It is a mystery story of the most baffling character. It has the grip that holds you like a steel vise. A young girl, at midnight, in a lonely house, praying beside the body of her adopted father with doors creaking and the winds singing a weird symphony, as the covers on the bed move begin the complications that will baffle any one. What happens? Bre- non contrived his picture so that you can't get out until the last foot of the picture.

No one but Marie Doro possessed the ability to characterize this young girl, and with the settings in a Paris and rural England a perfect entertainment and feast for the eyes is furnished.

Louis Besson transplants many thrills of the West to the East in several interest-compelling incidents of his newest Betzwood production, "The Road Called Straight," which comes to the Lyric Theatre, Saturday, in his role of Al O'Byrd, a wealthy rancher, the brilliant artist surpasses even his notable characterization of Johnny Higgins in his celebrated stage success, "Johnny Get Your Gun," and is given free rein to demonstrate his right to screen stardom that was afforded him in any of his previous Betzwood successes.

Boyd is visited by Robert Swiftmore, head of an Eastern packing corporation, who seeks to purchase Boyd's interests. With him is his daughter, Betty (Orni Hawley), with whom Boyd is immediately smitten.

She spurns his offer of marriage, and in order to win his way into Betty's good graces, Boyd gives Swiftmore a three months' option. Swiftmore over- takes the financier, and to save the family fortune Betty weds Boyd to come East and claim her. The marriage of convenience and the scheming of Betty's former suitor lead Boyd into innumerable scrapes, but his indomitable courage triumphs against overwhelming odds in the end. The not until the hardy Westerner is enmeshed in a series of thrilling situations to which only dard-devil Louis Besson could do full justice.

"Flames of the Flesh," a new William Fox photoplay starring Gladys Brockwell, will be shown at the Lyric theatre on Sunday. In this play one receives a vivid impression of a wide variation of human emotions.

Gladys Brockwell, the "girl of a thousand expressions," gives a forceful impersonation of a wife of the world who experiences amazing transformations of character. It is said that in this production the players hold the audience in spellbound silence as they enact a drama teeming with intense situations.

These well known players support Miss Brockwell: William Scott, Ben Dwy, Charles K. French, Louis Fitzroy, Harry Spindler, Nigel De Bruller, Mme. Rosita Marstini and Josephine Crowell. The story is by Forrest Halsey and the production was directed by Edward J. Le Saint.

the amendment would demoralize our public school system. It could not have been drawn in a way to do more harm, even though that had been the deliberate purpose of its framers," he said.

It would require all children to attend the public schools, leaving no discretion to the legislature regarding care of unfortunate or defective children. This would automatically close the state's school for the deaf at Flint and the school at the Michigan farm colony for epileptics, at Wahjamega, if not the industrial schools, the state public schools at Coldwater and the Michigan home and training school at Lapeer.

"It would close all private schools including those for backward, afflicted or exceptional children. It would prevent private instruction of children in need of it. It would compel parents to send some children to public schools, who, at five years old, are not strong enough.

"Were the amendments adopted, school districts having only one or two pupils, who now attend schools in nearby districts, would be compelled to maintain full-time teachers depleting an already insufficient supply of instructors.

Legislation Handicaps.

"Children living near a public school not in their own district would be required to walk long distances to attend the prescribed schools. There would be no option and the legislature could not make even a reasonable regulation. It would prevent development for the consolidated school idea and transportation of pupils.

Passage of the amendment would throw on the already over-burdened public school system thousands of pupils for whom there are no public school buildings and no teachers. In the large cities, especially Detroit, the public schools would be swamped."

ANTI-PAROCHIAL MOVE PERILOUS

UPPER STATE EDUCATOR POINTS OUT FAULTS OF PROPOSED LEGISLATION.

Opposition to the proposed anti-parochial school amendment to be voted on at the November election, is expressed by Thomas E. Johnson, superintendent of public instruction in Michigan.

The proposed amendment to the constitution of Michigan, for which sufficient petitions have been filed by the Wayne County Civic association, would compel all children between five and sixteen years old to attend the public school in the district of his residence until completion of the eighth grade.

How Diphtheria Contracted

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

Addition To Office.
 Dr. A. H. Miller is having a 10x23
 ft. addition built to his office building on Ninth street. The doctor has recently purchased an X-Ray outfit and needed more room for properly taking care of his practice. The present space occupied by his garage will be given over to the X-Ray room and the new addition will be used for garage purposes. The doctor will also install a larger boiler to heat the increased office space.

Improving Mission Parsonage.
 The Swedish Mission congregation are having the parsonage next to the church improved to a considerable extent. A cement foundation is being put under the house and a dormer has been added. When completed the house will have much more room and be more convenient to live in. The church is still without a regular pastor, though several prospects are in sight.

TWO-AUTO GARAGE.
 George Oden is having a two auto garage constructed on his premises, the foundations for which one already completed. The design will be in keeping with the residence recently purchased from Casper Elquist, and when home for his cars as he has for himself and family.

Sugar Up Another Peg.
 Granulated sugar, which for the past several months has been hovering around 20 to 22 cents per pound, took another leap upward and now retails at 24 cents in most of the local stores.
 And the end is not yet, according to those who profess to know something about the much needed staple.
 A price of 30 cents there will be said to be a probability.

REV. BAGNALL TO PREACH FAREWELL SERMON SUNDAY

Rev. Frederick Bagnall, who has served the People's Congregational church for about a year, has resigned his position, and will leave the first of next week to take up a charge with the Congregational church of Rapid River. He will preach his farewell sermon Sunday night. The local congregation has been very small for the past few months, and it was decided to give up the efforts of the little band of people. Services have been discontinued for some time. Rev. Bagnall has made many friends in this community during his stay here. The Congregational church is practically the only Protestant church in Rapid River, and a large number of people attend it. Rev. Bagnall will have charge of that church for three months, after which nothing has been definitely decided.

LATE GEORGE PERRY WAS LIVING UNDER ASSUMED NAME

Facts have been brought to light in the past few days which seem to prove that George Perry was living under an assumed name, and no one ever learned of the secret during the thirty-two years of his residence here. It will be remembered in a previous issue of the Reporter that mention was made of the fact that Mr. Perry never told any one of his past life, not even his most intimate friends. It also stated that he may have had a past, and now the truth, it appears, has been learned by investigators who have attempted to settle his estate. His real name was George Cattel, and he has a brother residing in Escanaba, Mich. Just what was the secret of his keeping the secret of his true name is not known. The brother writes that this would not effect the disposition of the estate. The case is an interesting one.

HIGHEST EVER.
 Minneapolis, April 27.—Flour advanced fifty cents a barrel on the market here today, marking the biggest single raise this year and the highest price ever received. The increase which brought flour of standard grade sold to 98 lb. cotton saps in carload lots to $16.50 a barrel, was due to the high wheat market.
