JUDGE HUBER PASSES AWAY

DEATH CLAIMED PIONEER RESIDENT SATURDAY MORNING AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.

Judge Frederick Huber, for 25 years a resident of this city and known to practically every man, woman and child in the community, passed away at 2 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, corner Wisconsin and Eleventh, following an 18 days' illness with cerebral apoplexy. He was 77 years and two months of age.

Judge Huber's death came as a severe shock to the residents, many of whom were not aware of his dangerous illness, not even his intimate friends and neighbors believing that the end was near. For several days prior to his death his condition was favorable times and bad at others, but on Friday, his attending physicians gave up hope and he passed peacefully away at the early hour on Saturday morning, not having been conscious since early in his illness.

About three weeks ago Mr. Huber submitted to a slight operation on his neck, a small growth having been removed. This growth was not at all dangerous, but thinking that it might develop into something more dangerous, cancer for instance, Mr. Huber decided to have the cause removed. The operation was apparently quite successful and Mr. Huber was down town the day after and attended to his business. The next day however he felt feverish and his wife urged him to stay home. From then on his condition grew gradually worse. He lost consciousness soon after taking to his bed and did not regain his mind until death ended his sufferings.

Mr. Huber was born on May 24, 1843, at Hutzell, Baden, Germany. At the age of six years he came to America with his parents and the family settled at Waussau, Wis., where he spent the early years of his young manhood. He was always of an industrious turn of mind and had accumulated several thousand dollars. Always of an opportunity to make his savings increase in value he heard of the boom in Gladstone when the Soo Line first built to here and he decided to cast his fortunes here. He came here 25 years ago and has been a constant resident here ever since. He was a constant booster for the Gladstone High school.

They have the best wishes of many friends here.

FRANK BRATONJA SUCCEEDED TO ILLNESS THURSDAY NIGHT

Frank Bratonja, an Austrian, residing in the Gladstone addition, passed away at 11 o'clock Thursday night following an illness of about nine days with pneumonia and a complication of other diseases. He was about 49 years of age and has been a resident of Gladstone for the past 17 years. He was employed as a laborer at the Coopersage plant. His widow and two small children survive.

PROMINENT YOUNG COUPLE WED

MISS INA MILLER AND EUGENE DAYTON WERE UNITED IN MARRIAGE TODAY.

A very pretty home wedding took place this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Ina Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, Dakota avenue, became the bride of Eugene Dayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Dayton, of Grand Rapids. The bride, attired in pink satin, carrying a bouquet of roses and sweet peas was attended by Miss Hazel Peterson, who wore white gossamer and also carried roses and sweet peas. Aldin Houtzinger, of this city acted as best man. Rev. D. D. Nagle performed the elaborate rite ceremony, the young couple standing under an arch of flowers and foliage. Both bride and groom are well and favorably known to a large circle of friends here. Mr. Dayton has been employed for a number of years in the office of the Northwestern Coopersage Co. The bride is a graduate of the Gladstone High school.

BUSINESS MEN GO TO ESCANABA TO CONFER WITH UTLEY

Attorney G. R. Empson, E. J. Norvus and Sid Goldstein are in Escanaba today in conference with Mr. Utley of the Escanaba Traction, with views of promoting the movement of establishing an electric line to Kipling. It is hoped that the effort of these Gladstone boosters will not be in vain, as the need of a trolley line to Kipling has been long felt.

Northern State Fair Advertising Starts

Plans are going forth for the Tenth Annual Northern State Fair which will be held in Escanaba September 21, 22, 23, 24 under the auspices of the Delta County Agricultural society. Bill posters will be distributed throughout adjoining cities and counties have been completed and within the next few days advertising men are expected to be on their way ready to announce to the upper state the great attractions which will be here for the four days of the fair.

When Clyde Dunham, steep jack, scaled the height of the first pole in front of the city hall and commenced giving it a coat of aluminum graphite, a large crowd of spectators enjoyed many a thrill. The pole has not been lost for six years.

Lost—While picking berries at Chatham, two small keys fastened on a wooden handle. Finder, return to Reporter's office on 1502 Wisconsin avenue and receive reward.

MANISTIQUE BOYS BADLY BEATEN

THE GLADSTONE LOCALS MADE TWELVE HITS IN SEVENTH INNING—VICTORY EASY.

The worst slugging match we have ever seen in baseball, or should we say the best, was that of yesterday afternoon when the Gladstone team gave the Manistique such a severe thrashing that they must have been ashamed to return home. The big thing happened in the seventh inning, when Williamson led off with a single. Then in rapid succession the pill was poked on the nose by almost every player that went to bat. The onslaught was so great that three different pitchers were put in to stop the awful slaughter. But it was useless. Our boys simply couldn't be put out. With no more pitchers to draw from the original heaver had to be put back in the box or we would have been out there yet. At a total of 12 hits was made in this inning against one of them a homer, one a three-bagger and two two-baggers. The inning netted a total of 16 runs and two batters more than two times around.

TEN ACRES FOR PARK

F. H. VAN CLEVE DONATES TRACT WITH CONCRETE WATER FRONTAGE TO CITY.

A very valuable addition was made to the city park when F. H. Van Cleve donated a tract of ten acres, the triangular piece of land lying just south of Van Clevs park and between Tenth and Fifteenth streets. The tract consists of about ten acres and has considerable water front making it still more desirable. With this addition to city property it becomes more and more evident that Gladstone should own all the water frontage, either for park purposes or a future industry.

The Gladstone residents are greatly pleased over the new acquisition, as the place will make a beautiful playground for children. Mr. Van Cleve will receive the thanks of the city council and can certainly be hailed as a public benefactor for the gift will be taken advantage of by many.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lutzsch returned to their home Saturday night after spending the past three weeks visiting with Mrs. Lutzsch's sister, Miss Kathleen McMin and other relatives in Chicago.

HARDING'S SPEECH. Senator Harding's speech contains much of the delicate and important nature of the present situation. It is a speech which has not only attracted attention outside of his own state, but also in the other states.

As the first important public speaker of one of the two major candidates, and of a man whose speech, if his true views must stay with us some time and possible people will be looking forward to a free and frank from him, it will be scanned in an effort to discover something about the new views indicated by his speech.

Considering the speech as so much as in the views of various questions, the speaker has rather to find with a number of men Senator Harding's opinion is assured in the first place that he is a modest man. In fact, he is perfectly too modest.

Your Tire Bills

YOU can save the price of four or seven inner tubes this year.

Put this money in your pocket by fitting out with Lee Puncture-Proof Tires—extra heavy, finely made tires, road-proofed with the three patent day-layer, a distinctive Lee feature, absolutely unpuncturable yet plant and "frictionless."

Your saving in tubes alone will bring down the cost of Lee Puncture-Proofs to about that of ordinary tires.

Put Lee Puncture-Proofs on your car. Know, in advance, exactly what your tire and tube bills will be for the next twelve months.

In addition—you save time, temper and the annoyance of changing tires on the road.

TUBERCULOSIS IN LIVE STOCK; ITS CAUSE, DETECTION AND CONTROL

By Dr. D. A. BENSON of Bark River.

Tuberculosis affecting either the lungs or live stock is better known than the object of so many of our investigations.

The cause which was unknown until a few years ago, when the organism was first discovered, is a germ which was later named bacillus (Koch's Bacillus).

In the United States, tuberculosis is one of the most common diseases of the domestic animals.

The result was a typical tubercular reaction, the animal was healthy until the arrival of a veterinarian.

It was formerly believed that tuberculosis was most frequently spread from the parents by the offspring.

TUBERCULOSIS IN LIVE STOCK: ITS CAUSE, DETECTION AND CONTROL

By Dr. D. A. BENSON of Bark River.

The disease affecting either the lungs or live stock is better known than any other disease of animals. It has been the object of so many investigations.

But the cause which was unknown for many years ago, when the German, Robert Koch, discovered the bacillus which was later named after him (Koch's Bacillus) is a simple organism only visible to the naked eye after being magnified 1,000 times by a microscope. It has been found to be so small that it can carry on its life for several months.

It is also found in outline quite resistant to heat and cold. It will survive in milk for several months, and in dried milk for a year or more. It is also found in the sputum of patients, and in the milk of cows which have been infected with the disease.

All live animals are subject to tuberculosis, but by far the most prevalent is in the cow.

It is a disease which is common to all mammals, but is most prevalent in the cow. It is a disease which is common to all mammals, but is most prevalent in the cow.

The disease is caused by the tubercle bacillus, which is a small rod-shaped organism. It is highly resistant to heat and cold, and can survive in dried milk for a year or more.

The disease is spread by direct contact with infected animals, or by contact with their secretions, particularly milk. It can also be spread by contact with manure or other excreta.

The disease is characterized by the formation of tubercles in the lungs, which eventually lead to the death of the animal.

In some parts of the Union there is some disease among cattle, the disease is considerably common in some states as high as 30 per cent of the cattle population being affected, while in some states only one per cent would be affected.

Among animals in the wild, tuberculosis is practically unknown. It applies also to range cattle, but is seldom found, and under such conditions, it is not so prevalent as in the domesticated animal.

FOX'S HOUSEWARMING

MR. FOX had been so much disturbed by Mr. Dog and his master that he decided to try living somewhere besides on the ground floor of the woods.

One night he took a look around in the moonlight and to his delight he discovered the very place for him to live.

It was a house built in the branches of a big tree that some boys very likely had made the year before. Now, with a very little repairing this will be the finest home in the woods," said Mr. Fox.

So over the hill he ran to Mr. Man and brought away all that was needed to make his house comfortable.

He even found an old piece of stove-pipe to make his stove draw well, and in a few days Mr. Fox told all his friends of his new home and invited them to a housewarming.

Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum and Mr. Squirrel were at all upset by finding out that Mr. Fox's new home was in a big tree, but Mr. Rabbit and Mr. Badger looked very sad and said it was out of the question for them to accept Mr. Fox's kind invitation.

much as they would like to be present.

Mr. Fox had borrowed a ladder from Mr. Man and when Mr. Rabbit and Mr. Badger said they could not come Mr. Fox remembered that he was not much of a climber himself, and that if he did not keep that ladder he might have a hard time getting into his home when he was in a hurry.

So he decided that Mr. Man would need it as much as he would and that it would also make a nice addition to his home.

When he told Mr. Badger and Mr. Rabbit about the ladder they decided to come, and one night when the moon was shining the animals were up to go to Mr. Fox's house to dinner.

Mr. Fox thought it would be the cheapest way to fill his guests with soup, so he took all the bones that he had collected and put them in a pot on the stove to boil.

Up curled the smoke from his chimney and out through the windows went the nice-smelling odor of soup, and Mr. Dog who happened to be running through the woods saw and sniffed as well.

He sagged his tail and looked up at the house in the tree; then he whined and scratched the tree, and as he danced about it with his eyes fixed upon the house all the time, he bumped into the ladder.

"Ah, how fortunate," he said, and he went and into Mr. Fox's house he went, too, and took the cover off the pot.

It did not take him a second to remove the pot from the stove and pour out the soup in the sink and cool those bones, and then such a feast he had.

He ate until he became sleepy; then he lay down on the floor and went to sleep.

The Girl at Central

Not long ago, near Flint, Michigan, in a fire that threatened a huge loss of life and property, a brave telephone operator remained at her post sending out calls for help until her switchboard was put out of commission and her clothing enveloped in flames.

This is only one of hundreds of cases that are on record where operators, on their own initiative, saved entire communities from burning floods of other danger by calling all available help from surrounding districts.

The Michigan State Telephone Company is naturally very proud of its operators—proud of their heroism and unflinching courage, but it is prouder still of this rare sense of duty that has always prompted the operators to stick to their posts in the face of danger, epidemics and storms.

It is this kind of devotion to service that has given telephone operators, not only a conspicuous place in the hall of fame, but a prominent place, too, in the hearts of the community they serve.

For your telephone operator, highly trained, as she must be, proficient to a wonderful degree in her work and unflinching in her traditional devotion to her service, is, after all, just an ordinary girl.

She is the kind of bright, active, intelligent girl that you, if you knew her, would go out of your way to show every courtesy.

In most cases she is a home girl and in every case, we know, she is the best protected girl in any kind of work in the city.

We want to tell you many things about your telephone operator—of the motherly care that is taken of her during working hours, of the care that is taken of her health in her work. We want everyone to know why a telephone girl finds her work so inspirational, personal and serviceful—of her opportunities and her happiness in her work that go so far to make your telephone service better.

Now, we are introducing your telephone girl to you, because we know that in this closer acquaintance you will find much that is helpful in your relations with the most personal service you command—your telephone.

It was formerly believed that tuberculosis was most frequently contracted from the parents by the offspring. This idea has, however, given place to other sources, furnished by investigators who have devoted their lives to the research work.

The theory is that an infection can be given from tuberculosis to a child, but owing to the weakness of the tubercular mother, and spring is born in a weakened state, and soon after birth takes the disease. It is believed that the child, in a case of tubercular infection, is therefore formerly not the cause of tubercular infection in a child, but the body is absolutely incapable of resisting it.

He has provided all living creatures and animal both with natural fighting power, to ward off this disease, but because it invites itself to be tubercular or some other infection.

This subject is tuberculosis, but allow me to take the subject in form for example how often have this statement?

He contracted the disease of tuberculosis, or consumption, which is sometimes called when the lungs. She had a cold when she was young and after that she had tuberculosis. These are statements we hear, and is not due to the fact that coming in contact with the germs, as daily we all inhale some of the germs to give us tuberculosis over and over again, but as long as the body has the normal vigor, the red and white corpuscles in the blood kills off the germs as fast as they invade the system, so consequently we remain well.

The government reports show that in the United States 100,000 people die yearly from tuberculosis of different forms. Laws are passed in order to try and cut down the death rate, which forbids spitting on sidewalks or other public places, private drinking cups on trains, sanitariums built, free clinics held to discover recently discovered cases and many other measures, all trying to cut down the reap of the white plague. But so far as my belief the most important part has been neglected or overlooked, that is a yearly tubercular inspection, and tubercular test should be made a law. This should apply to all dairy cattle.

Regardless of all other steps taken to prevent spread of tuberculosis, so long as the tubercular cow is allowed to spread its dairy product, I feel that the origin of the trouble is intact.

Symptoms

It must be understood that tuberculosis is a disease that doesn't manifest itself by external symptoms, yet persons skilled in cattle may detect abnormal conditions which may lead him to believe the animal tubercular by a generally run down condition accompanied by a cough is indicative of pulmonary tuberculosis. In these cases these symptoms don't show up until the last stages of the disease, so there is not much benefit to be derived from it.

As the disease often involves the lymphatic glands, a person may sometimes detect the slight swelling of these glands in the lymphatic system. The glands of the throat and shoulder often present an abnormal condition, when suffering from tuberculosis in the last stages. Animals usually show a dirty, dusty and unhealthy coat.

When the throat glands are affected the animal usually holds his head in an unnatural position, to relieve the pressure on the throat. When the internal glands of the throat are affected the animal takes spells of blood due to pressure of swollen glands on the spleen. There are some of the symptoms of tuberculosis, but very often an animal in the very last stages of the disease doesn't show any alarming symptoms until up to the very end.

Methods of Diagnosis

Microscopic examinations of sputum, milk and bowel discharges used to be the only means of diagnosing tuberculosis, but since the discovery of tuberculin, we got a more simple and reliable way of diagnosis. The test is simple in its action and if applied with skill, one need not have any fear in being present at the slaughtering of the animal, he has condemned.

The Tuberculin Test

Tuberculin contains only the sterilized products of the tubercle bacillus. It does not contain any living germ, therefore it is harmless to an animal whether healthy or diseased. The test is harmless in every way and is entirely negative in its action if animal is healthy.

FARMERS PLAN ORGANIZATION

DELTA COUNTY TO FALL IN THE LINE WITH 70,000 FARMERS IN MICHIGAN.

County Agent Patton announces that he is perfecting plans for a drive for membership in the State Farm Bureau. A vigorous campaign is being carried on throughout the state and Delta county farmers will have an opportunity to get in line with this progressive movement.

Mr. Patton says: "The farmers of Delta county have organized a County Farm Bureau and join hands with the State Farm Bureau for the purpose of doing their own business, particularly in a buying and selling way."

The State Farm Bureau was organized by the farmers of this county and has at the present time some 70,000 members in the state of Michigan alone.

At this point, Amos and his big gang started. According to a garage proprietor, with whom Amos and a bill of $100 for repairs to the truck. He agreed to carry the "freight" if the station would take over the garage bill, and the deal was closed.

The start was made, and the truck and two men arrived at the cache at seven o'clock Tuesday evening. The original plan, it is said, was to load the liquor that night, lay over Wednesday at some point on the road, and complete the run to Negaunee Wednesday night.

Motor Wouldn't Go. The motor in the big machine refused to go. The three men worked all night, but to no avail, and Wednesday the services of a garage man from Grand Marais were called in.

But the struggle with the machine had attracted attention, and the best part of which was directed toward the nature of the cargo. Capt. Tolbert of the coast guard, heard of the mysterious disappearance.

Although not empowered with an authority to act on prohibition cases, a coast guard officer is, besides a customs official and the captain, one of the three men prepared to arrest them for smuggling.

MARQUETTE MEN ARRESTED AFTER BIG HAUL COMES

Monday—Three Marquette county men—Victor Amos, happening day, and two Italian living at Negaunee, are under arrest in Marquette for alleged complicity in what is probably the largest illicit liquor deal ever attempted in the upper peninsula.

The haul consisted of 285 quarts of bonded Canadian whiskey, which, at the "prevailing quotation," of about $13 each, would represent a value of $3,705, or approximately $3,800.

The arrests were made by Capt. J. C. Tolbert, of the Grand Marais coast guard, whose suspicions were aroused by the attention attracted by Amos's big motor truck, when it refused to start after being loaded with a mysterious cargo dug up from the beach along the Grand Marais harbor front.

The story of the attempt to run the coast guard, and the subsequent capture of the party, is contained in a feature story on this page.

George and Vall, of Negaunee had accompanied the doctor in the Canada at 8:00, presumably for about 15 miles, and were waiting for an opportunity to transport it to Marquette county.
