HURLEY RAIDED BY FEDERAL MEN WHICH MAKE HAUL

SEVENTY ARRESTS MADE BY A HALF HUNDRED OFFICERS FROM CHICAGO

Anshland, Dec. 29—Bonds to a total value of $75,000 were deposited with United States Commissioner Cate here late this afternoon, following the arraignment of 57 men taken in the liquor raid at Hurley, Wis., yesterday, upon charges of having intoxicated liquor in their possession, selling intoxicating liquor, or both. All furnished bail and were released.

Thirty-seven saloon keepers and bartenders filed individual bonds of $1,500 each, while 20 patrons each placed $1,000 in bonds to insure their appearance at a hearing, the date for which was not set.

Revenue men tonight would not estimate the amount of taxes and penalties to which the accused would be liable, explaining that the value of the liquor seized would have to be ascertained first.

Hurley, Wis.,—Seventy arrests had been made in all after the federal prohibition officers completed their work here Tuesday. Thirty-seven places were raided and two large sleighs of liquor seized before the agents left the place, according to a statement by Mr. Callahan, chief in charge of the fifty prohibition agents who were sent to conduct the raids. The men will be arraigned in federal court charged with violation of United States prohibition law.

Forty-eight federal agents from Chicago unexpectedly walked into Hurley which was wide open and seized large quantities of liquor and placed fifty seven saloon keepers under arrest. Among those arrested were several well known local men.

Under command of Joseph Callahan chief of staff under Major Dalrymple who last spring made a raid on Irregulars the officers came in a sleigh at 7:30 this morning and went to "bring" some of the wetness out of Hurley.

The saloons first raided were near the bridge across the Montreal river where thirty seven, it is alleged, reports were run off at full blast. Up until noon the whole section of lower Silver street had been cleaned out and in the afternoon more raids were to be made.

Working in groups the men went to different establishments and made arrests and searches as they went along. Although there was no shooting in the first three hours of the raiding the officers flashed their guns several times and brought order out of chaos. There was no outward resistance on the part of any of those arrested.

From the viewpoint of an outsider the success of the federal officers was almost complete. Federal agents also agreed that there was a regular cleanup of the wettest town in the northwest.

Street cars were drafted into service to carry the liquor from the saloons to the sleighs and special cars which were on the siding at Ironwood. Several well known Ironwood men were among those arrested. A sleigh followed each group of federal men and as the raid was completed and the owners placed under arrest the booze was taken from the saloons and carried away to the street car.

Twenty eight men were arrested on the first approach of the officers. The raids and arrests were more of a picturesque sight than a sensational affair. A string of newspaper reporters followed the federal men wherever they went and when there was the sign of a revolver or case of liquor being carried away the moving picture men were on the job to get views of the cleanup.

No Mail Delivery Here On New Years

Postmaster Frank J. Miller announced today that there would be no street delivery of mail on Saturday, January 1. The windows in the postoffice, however, will be open for one hour in the morning, between 9 and 10 o'clock.

This is the usual custom on New Year's Day and residents are advised to be patient if they receive no mail on the first of the year.

Joseph LeClair, old time Gladstone newspaper man, and one of the first to engage in the business here, when the Delta County Reporter was first started, was a caller on old friends Tuesday. Joe is now located in Minneapolis where he has been engaged in a printing business. He is looking healthy and hearty and was a very welcome visitor. Mrs. LeClair spent a few days with relatives in Wells.

Watch Night Service At Methodist Church Will Be Held Friday

The old-time custom of watching out the old year and bringing in the new will be observed again this year at the Methodist church on Friday night from 9:30 to 12:00 o'clock. The Presbyterians and Methodist congregations join together in this service in a real spirit of Christian Fellowship. They earnestly urge all others who desire to do so to come and join with them.

The first hour of the evening, from 9:00 to 10:00 will be occupied with good singing and a lively sermon by Rev. Bates. The second hour, 10:00 to 11:00 will be given over to a social program of games and visiting, etc. with a refreshment served by the Ladies Aid Society. The closing hour of the old year will be fittingly observed with a song service, and a talk by Rev. Nagle, and closing at the midnight hour with a prayer of consecration.

LIBRARY RECEIVES FINANCIAL AID

LOCAL INSTITUTION IS APPRO- PRIATED $500 BY CITY COUNCIL

At a special meeting Monday night, the Gladstone City council voted to appropriate $500 for the support of the City Public Library until this worthy institution will be provided permanent quarters in the new junior high school building which will be constructed during the summer.

The library and its insatiable public subscriptions made this action of the council necessary. Sup. R. J. Williams, J. N. Bushong, Mrs. J. N. Bushong, Dr. D. N. Koe and Attorney G. R. Empson explained in detail the condition of things as they stand.

Sketches had been drawn of commodious library quarters in the new junior high school and were submitted to the council by the board of education for the consideration of the assembly. The board of education has taken an active interest in the support of the present public library and because of the need which the institution has already accomplished, they earnestly desire the library to "live on."

Contributions to the library which the council has taken no contribution from various people of Gladstone has supported the library up to this time but the institution is unable to meet the ever increasing demands of the public without financial aid from the city. With the above amount received from the city in addition to contributions given by different organizations and people the library will continue until June 1 when the matter will again be taken up.

North End Of Bay Frozen Over

The north end of Little Bay de Noc is frozen over with a solid sheet of ice. The entire upper end of the bay has been frozen over for several days. The ice near the coal dock having been made into a skating rink some time ago. The farmers of Bay de Noc township are now able to cross the bay from Maywood but as yet no teams or heavy loads have crossed. Due to the exceptionally mild fall this year, we enjoyed the bay was unusually late in freezing.

FIRST TEST WELL SUNK YESTERDAY AT PUMP HOUSE

WATER TO BE TESTED AND A SAMPLE SENT TO STATE BOARD FOR ANALYSIS

Under the supervision of Supt. Alfred Haddatt of the local water plant, a force of men started work Wednesday in sinking a test well near the pumping station at the upper end of Delta avenue, for the purpose of determining the feasibility of locating better water supply for the city, than that now being procured from the water tank.

The sinking of this well is in the nature of an experiment. It also is being done in a manner which is said to be a little out of the ordinary, as it is being "jetted" in. That is, water power is being used to drive the hole through which a two-inch pipe is being sunk.

It was expected to go down about 40 to 45 feet, which gave the well about the same depth as that which has been furnishing such a fine supply of water for the Marble Arms Co. for the past six or seven years. The land where the well is being sunk is about 27 feet lower than that on which the Marble Arms well was sunk and it was figured that the same gravel level ought to be struck by sinking the well from 40 to 45 feet.

When a proper supply of water is struck, samples will be taken and tested locally and also samples sent to the state sanitary board for analysis. If the water tests properly, it is the expectation that an engineer will be sent here to make a survey of the situation with regard to driving a main line of water wells. This is in accordance with plans made by the water board of the city.

It is stated that the idea in sinking the test well near the pumping station and at a point about 500 feet from the bay shore, is to see just how pure the water is in nature as the water passes through the gravel from the bay.

Local Man's Daughter Succumbs to Diphtheria

Friends of the Klingsberg family in this city will learn with deep regret of the death of Violet, the seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Klingsberg, which occurred in Chicago the latter part of last week. Mr. Klingsberg who is chairman of the water board in this city was called to Chicago last week stating that three of his children were critically ill with diphtheria. Later a message was received announcing the death of the one child but did not state the condition of the other children. The family are well known here having resided here for a number of years and are a sympathy of the community goes out to them in their bereavement.

Dividend Checks Are Sent Out By The First National Bank Today

The First National Bank today sent out checks to stockholders for the semi-annual dividend of three percent. These checks will reach the shareholders just in time for a happy new year present. The bank has made a nice showing during the past year. Its resources have increased appreciably and the growth of the institution has been so rapid in the last few years that a new home has been made necessary.

Beginning within the next few months, remodeling of the Lane building at Sixth street and Delta avenue will be under way and when completed the bank will have one of the most modern little banking homes in this section of the county.

WORK ON CHURCH ADVANCES RAPIDLY

NEW DRIVE FOR ADDITIONAL FUNDS WILL BEGIN NEXT MONDAY

Work is progressing nicely on the new All Saints' church which is rapidly approaching a condition where the roof can be put on. It is planned to keep on working until the weather absolutely prevents further operations, but with the good fortune to have experienced it is believed possible that the big structure may be under roof before a great while.

A supplementary drive for the purpose of raising another $20,000 for the completion of the church, will start next Monday and it is expected to be fully as successful as the original campaign in which the major portion of the money necessary for the starting of the church, was raised. Rev. O. J. Bennett is more than pleased with the splendid work the church is assuming and is optimistic that the remainder of the work can be prosecuted under circumstances as favorable as those which accompanied the inception of the big undertaking.

Svedish Baptists Plan Watch Night Service Friday

An interesting watch night service will be held at the Swedish Baptist church Friday evening beginning at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served and an interesting program carried out. The Sunday meetings will be as usual. Morning Service and Sunday School at 10 o'clock. In the evening the regular service will be held at 7:30 followed by communion.

It is expected that a big crowd will turn out to enjoy the pleasures of the watch night service.

MISS ROSENBLUM IS WEDDED TO MR. WINKELMAN

ONE OF MOST IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES EVER PERFORMED HERE

What is regarded as one of the most charming and impressive social events of the season, was the wedding, at 4:30 this afternoon, of Miss Josephine Rosenblum, charming and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenblum, to a Leon George Winkelman, a prominent and successful young business man of Manistique. The ceremony took place at the cozy home of the bride's parents, 625 Michigan avenue, in the presence of the members of the immediate families of the contracting parties and a few of the more intimate friends of both families.

Home is Beautiful

The Rosenblum home had been most beautifully decorated for the occasion, every room bearing a distinctive touch throughout which the dominating note of pink and green was a notable feature. The dining room formed a veritable tower of loveliness and enchantment. Sweet peas and ferns in the most gorgeous profusion were arranged with such artistic effect that the room gave the impression of having been lifted from some fairy dell and transplanted for this important occasion in the lives of the young people.

The impressive ceremony was performed beneath a bower of the most exquisite beauty, which could be conceived in the mind of a master decorator. It was a mass of the most beautiful Opheelia roses and anemones, draped in graceful festoons and formed a fitting setting for the beginning of one of the most important steps in the lives of man and woman.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Hirschberg of Milwaukee.

Charming Bridal Gown

The bride never appeared more charming and lovely than in her exquisite wedding gown of white puffy willow satin, with a circle of pearls and trimmed with real lace. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Thekla Forsyth, wore a gown of light green organza and carried Killarney roses, while little June Rosenblum, sister of the bride, in the capacity of flower girl, wore a beautiful creation of white embroidery trimmed with pink, and carried sweet peas.

The duties of best man were performed by Mr. Abe Grinberg, of Chicago.

As the bride and groom appeared beneath the beautiful marriage bower, the wonderful strains of Lohengrin's wedding march floated forth from the music room, which also was a bower of greenery. Miss Margaret Henke and Mr. Gunnar Johanson never having put more real artistry into their work than in the rendition of this masterpiece.

Elaborate Wedding Dinner

Immediately following the ceremony an elaborate five o'clock dinner was served in the gorgeously beautiful dining room. Twenty-four guests were served at this beautiful party and the dinner was in keeping with the beauty and elaborateness of the other wedding appointments.

Miss Rose-Marie is one of Gladstone's most popular and accomplished young women. She is possessed of a most pleasing personality which has made her a friend to her during her girlhood and young womanhood in this city. She is a graduate of the local High School, the State University at Ann Arbor and the school of Civics and Philanthropy in Chicago.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Winkelman, of Manistique. He is associated with his father in a general merchandising business here and is regarded as a rising young business man whose success is already assured.

Leave for South

The young people left during the evening on an extended wedding trip which will take them through the southern states, where they will enjoy the climate and scenery for an extended period and afterwards make their home in Manistique.

Countless priceless wedding gifts arrived at the Rosenblum home this morning and Mr. and Mrs. Winkelman start out their married life under the most auspicious circumstances and with the sincerest good wishes of hundreds of friends among whom they are deservedly popular.

Mail Carrier Crosses Bay

Farmers of Bay de Noc Township have been making trips across the bay for the past few days, the ice between Gladstone and Maywood being reported as three to five inches thick. Friday the Stonington mail carrier made his first trip hauling two heavy mail sacks. These were brought here and taken to Escanaba by street car.

Instead of hunting, it was a positive inspiration. The Chamber of Commerce of the busy little Oregon city was not usually exceptionally interested in stray hunters that wanted a boarding place for the summer. Its business was finding country homes for orchardists in the valley and river valleys. But it happened that the recipient of the wire was one of the oldest residents, a frontiersman himself, and it was one of the members of the Old West that friendships were not soon forgotten. Dan Failing had been a legend in the old trapping and shooting days when "the man" was young. So it came about that when Dan's train stopped at Cheshyne, he found a telegram waiting him:

"Any relation to Dan Failing of the Umpqua divide?"

Dan had never heard of the Umpqua divide, but he couldn't doubt but that the sender of the wire referred to his grandfather. He wired in the affirmative. The head of the Chamber of Commerce received the wire, read it, thrust it into the pocket of a distant face of a really important piece of business proceeded to forget all about it. Thus it came about that, except for one thing, Dan could not see all probably stayed of the train at its destination wholly unheeded and unmet. The one thing that changed his destiny was that at a meeting of a certain widely known fraternal order the next night, the Chamber of Commerce crossed trails with the Frontier in the person of another old man who had his home in the farthest reaches of the Umpqua divide. The latter asked the former to come up for a few days' shooting. The deer being fatter and more numerous than any previous season since the days of the grizzlies.

"Too busy, I'm afraid," the Chamber of Commerce had replied. "But Lennox—that remains. Do you remember old Dan Failing?"

Lennox probed back into the years for a single instant, straddled out all the kinks of his memory in less time than the wind straggle out the folds of a flag, and turned a most interested face. "Remembered," he exclaimed. "I should say I do." The middle-aged man half-closed his piercing, gray eyes.

"Listen, I'm afraid," he said. "I saw Dan Failing make a bet once. I was just a kid, but I woke up in my sleep to harvest at it. It was a full long slumpe of a bet, and I remember the long slope. It was just a spike-bank, and Dan Failing said he could take the left-hand spike off with one shot from his old blunderbuss. The other side of the bet—the whole thing in less than two seconds. With the next shot, he'd get the deer. He won the bet, and now if I ever forget Dan Failing, I want to die."

"You're just the man I'm looking for, then. You're not going out till the day after tomorrow?"

"No."

"On the limited, hitting love tomorrow morning, there's a grandson of Dan Failing. His name is Lennox, and he wants to go up to your place to hunt. Stay all summer and pay board."

Lennox's eyes said that he couldn't believe it was true. After a while his tongue spoke, too. "Good Lord," he said. "I used to follow Dan around—the old Stag, before he had followed Snowbird. Of course he can come. But he can't pay board."

It was rather characteristic of the mountain men—that the grandson of Dan Failing couldn't possibly pay board. But Steele knew the ways of titles and of men and he only smiled.

"He won't come, then," he explained. "Anyway, have that our with him at the end of his gun. He wants fishing, and you've got that in the North fork. Moreover, you're a thousand miles back—"

"Only one hundred, if you must know. But Steele—do you suppose he's the man his grandfather was before him—that all the Fallings have been since the first days of the Oregon trail? If he is—well, my bet's off to him before he steps off the train."

The mountaineer's bronzed face was earnest and intent in the bright lights of the club. Steele thought he had known his breed. Now he began to have doubts of his own knowledge.

"He won't be, don't count on it," he said humbly. "The Fallings have done much for this region, and I'm glad enough to do a little to pay it back, but don't count much on this eastern boy. He's lived in cities; besides, he's a sick man. He said so in his wire. You ought to know it before you take him."

The bronzed face changed; possibly a shadow of disappointment came in to his eyes. "A longer, eh? Lennox replied. "Yes—it's true that he'd never been like the other Fallings, he'd never have been that. Why, Steele, you couldn't have given that old man a cold if you'd tied him in the Rogee river overnight. Of course you couldn't count on the wire bringing information. But I'll take him, for the memory of his grandfather."

"You're not afraid?"

"Afraid!—No! I can't infect those two strapping children of mine. Snowbird weighs one hundred and twenty pounds and is hard as steel. News is a sick day in her life. And you know Bill, of course."

Yes, Steele knew Bill. Bill weighed two hundred pounds, and he would choose the biggest of the steers he drove down to the lower level in the winter and, twisting its horns, would make it lay over on its side. Besides, both of the men assumed that Dan must be only in the first stages of his malady.

And even as the men talked, the train that bore Dan, falling to the home of his ancestors was entering for the first time the dark forests of pine and fir that make the eternal background of the Northwest. He was wholly unable to understand the strange feeling of familiarity that he had with them, a sensation that in his dreams he had known them always, and that he must never go out of the range of them again.

"You're Dan Failing's Grandson, Aren't You?"

very straight, and often there are long silences between his sentences. Yet he conveys his ideas with entire clearness.

Dan realized at once that if he could be in Lennox's eyes, one-fifth of the man his grandfather had been, he would never have to lose again the look of disappointment with which his just had greeted him at the station. But instead of reaching that high place, he had only—death. He knew that his destiny was in those quiet hills. And it was true that he had to have secret regrets that he had come. But it wasn't that he disappointed in his land that was speaking up before him. It rather, a promise. His sole reason for regret lay in the fact that now the whole mountain world would know of the day that had come upon his people. Perhaps it would have been better to have left them to their traditions.

AN IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL IS HELD FOR R. E. M'LEAN

PROMINENT LUMBERMAN LAID TO REST IN LAKEVIEW CEMETERY YESTERDAY

With his casket hurried beneath a wilderness of bloom, emblematic of the love and esteem in which he was held by hundreds of friends in the peninsula, most impressive funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon for the late R. E. MacLean, one of the deans of the lumber business in this section of the country, who passed away at Mercy Hospital in Chicago, after such a gallant and typically determined struggle against the disease which had been sapping his wonderful vitality for several months.

The passing of R. E. MacLean takes from the lumber industry of the peninsula one of its biggest, most virile and most spectacular spirits. Of the old school, learning the business from the details of the vast affairs of the I. Stephenson company at his finger tips "Dick" MacLean still had time for participation in many human activities of the funeral. Telegrams of condolence were received by Mrs. MacLean from Senator Charles E. Townsend, Washington, D. C.; Congressman Frank D. Scott, Washington, D. C.; Congressman Joseph Forney, Washington, D. C.; Auditor General O. B. Fuller, Lansing, Mich. and many others.

Services at home were conducted at the family home at Wells at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. I. Ernest Boas, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Yacabua, who had received much valuable counsel and much sound financial assistance and advice from Mr. MacLean as a member of the vestry and as a man deeply interested in the success of the church.

The flag on the court house was flown at half mast in memory of the honored dead, who for years has been chairman of the county board of supervisors.

Burial in Escanaba
Following the service at the home, the body was taken to Lakeview cemetery where the Masonic ritual was observed at the grave. Flags on many business houses with which Mr. MacLean had been identified in financial way, were half-masted and the hour of his funeral was the occasion for the expression of genuine regret that such a man had come from the community.

Services were very largely attended, both at the home and the grave. The honorary pall bearers were W. R. Smith, Hubert Shepeck, Charles McQuade, James C. Baker, John A. Miller and Louis French. The active pall bearers were Louis Harmon, E. C. Voght, Charles M. Tatcher, Albert Ellsworth, John A. Lambert and George C. Craver.

Many prominent business men of this section of the state and from Northern Wisconsin, were in attendance at the funeral. Telegrams of condolence were received by Mrs. MacLean from Senator Charles E. Townsend, Washington, D. C.; Congressman Frank D. Scott, Washington, D. C.; Congressman Joseph Forney, Washington, D. C.; Auditor General O. B. Fuller, Lansing, Mich. and many others.

The members of the team hold their practices in the old Reporter building and a very good game can be looked forward to by lovers of basketball. The local team has played two games with the high school team and won both contests, but their ability as champions will be tested with the coming game.

WE have made a firm decision to suffer a tremendous loss.

Every garment in our factory and store must go. No thought is given to actual and intrinsic worth. Nothing is reserved.

This is the READJUSTMENT PERIOD, with its sinister influences and effects. All business must face it—squarely. And it behooves every business man to take a like stand in order that business may get back to normal, sensible basis and as quick ly as possible.

The rock bottom prices mean tremendous losses to us, for they are actually below today's manufacturing cost. And mark you, they are less—considerably less, according to present indications, than prices will be in the spring for merchandise of like character. But—this sale makes history—for The Fair Savings Bank. Selling high quality clothes at such radical reductions as listed here is almost unbelievable.

But facts are facts.

Look into them.

Investigate.

Get the best selection by coming early.

These are the same low prices we named three months ago—and although there has been a lot of sales all around us—these prices still remain the lowest in Escanaba by a good many dollars—of that fact you can quickly convince yourself shopping around a little.

WE HAVE, AND WE NEED
The year 1921 is before us

What we of this town and county accomplish in the next twelve months will depend mainly upon us—upon the manner in which we grasp the opportunities which are open to us.

There is no occasion for becoming alarmed over the present decline in commercial activity. The country is undergoing a period of readjustment which is necessary and for the best, but the old ship is not going to hit the rocks, or even cruise in dangerous waters.

Europe charges us with being a nation of commercialists, and perhaps it is true—and to our credit. Commercialists are rather keen on amassing the coin of the realm, and our countrymen are no exception.

One fertile soil is full of wealth and all that is required is to reach down and dig for it.

Throughout the coming year we should utilize our commercial instincts to the fullest extent. Our factories and our mills and all of our varied Yankee-enterprises are capable of vast production of articles that are in demand the world over.

But there are a few things that we need, and without which our success will be but a narrow expectation from American people. We need greater business and commercial honesty, enhanced confidence in one another, a full day's work for a day's pay, a more direct market from producer to consumer.

MOTHER'S PENSIONS
The mothers' pension movement continues to gain ground. A recent report of the children's bureau of the United States department of labor tells us that forty of the forty-eight states have adopted some form of that pension.

HARD WATER ADDS TO LIVING COSTS

STATE CHEMISTS OF MICHIGAN MAKE DISCOVERY AFTER MANY TESTS

Lansing—Add hard water as an other cause for the high cost of living and plumbing in Michigan, a factor necessitating the needless expenditure of $1,287,977.50 for soap annually and a like amount for extra plumbing.

For investigations carried on by the bureau laboratories and of sanitary engineering of the Michigan department of health, under the direction of Dr. H. M. Olin, state health commissioner, it was discovered that wherever municipalities furnish water of average hardness every individual wastes each year from 10 to 12 pounds of soap for washing powder in softening the water to a point where it is produced.

Latest figures show that 1,921,285 inhabitants of cities and towns are using water of average hardness in that it water contains slightly more than 200 parts of hardness to each million parts of water. One pound of soap, it is said, is expended in softening 22 gallons of such water.

This amount, taken with the money spent for repairs on plumbing where plumbing fixtures necessary to supply homes with clean water, declares Dr. Olin, is sufficient to build, maintain, and operate softening plants in every city and town using hard water and still effect huge savings in a few years' time.

New Purifying System Proves Success

The new chlorine water treating system which was installed at the Gladstone water pumping station recently has proven a wonderful success, not only for the city but the supply having been obtained at the testing laboratory since for several days before the chlorine treating system was installed, tests made of the water showed it to be of color but could be used without boiling although the taste was very disagreeable.

In addition to the purity, the disagreeable taste and odor is gradually being eliminated. This it is believed was caused by the necessity of using a great quantity of waste material with the water because of the fact that but 20 per cent of the hypo-chloride used under the old treating system was effective.

Edward J. Parish, electrician for the Northwestern Coöperative company returned today from a visit with his children in the copper country. He brought back with him many interesting stories made by the mines in that locality.

Should Be Quarantined
Many physicians believe that anyone who has a bad cold should be completely isolated to prevent other members of the family and associates from contracting the disease, as colds are about as contagious as measles. One thing sure—the sooner one rides himself of a cold the less the danger, and you will look a good while before you find a better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to aid you in curing a cold.

Give Rural Child A Fair Chance Is Plea Of State Health Body

Lansing, Dec. 26—Give the rural child the same chance as the child of the ghetto.

This is one of the pleas of Dr. H. M. Olin, Michigan commissioner of health, in an endeavor to have a bill passed providing full-time, qualified health officers for every county in the state, thus replacing the 1,500 township health officers now in existence.

The country child at present is not receiving the same protection against disease as is the child of the city. This factor, together with the rural child's higher susceptibility to disease of all kinds—since he does not have the constant contact with diseases that makes his system build up immunity—accounts for the high sickness now found in rural communities.

Through a survey of the state's infant death rate conducted last summer it was learned that many Michigan counties have a higher number of infant deaths per thousand births than do the larger cities of the state. Cities have cut down their former high death rates by supervision of the public health, instruction in prenatal care, ordinances requiring pasteurization of milk, and by furnishing safe drinking water.

Local Legion Stage Membership Drive

Agust Mattson Post of the American Legion will stage a membership drive which will be launched Monday morning. Big plans will be made to enroll every ex-serviceman in the city. Gladstone may well be proud of the organization at it is today for it already boasts of the largest active membership in Delta county. The local legion has already won much comment on their active work and every soldier and sailor ought to join that they may have an active part in the work of the big national organization.

AN INCOME TAX FOR MICHIGAN

ANOTHER CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT MAY BE SUBMITTED TO STATE VOTERS

Handing the present system of intangible property taxation a force, the Michigan State Senate, in its closing session at Grand Rapids demanded the submission to submit to the voters at the coming April election a constitutional amendment providing for a state income tax.

The resolution that carried the tax provision was in keeping with a sentiment expressed by many citizens throughout the session that the present system of taxation is proving a burden, particularly to the farmer. It is stated that taxable property in the state had decreased to an alarming extent by exemptions and the amendment would be made to include that no further exemptions be allowed.

It was pointed out that many citizens are getting by without paying taxes by investing in bonds and securities. It is proposed the proportion shall be made so far reaching it will take in every source of income. Another tax reform asked is an amendment to the school laws so that the entire plan of school taxation will experience a complete change.

Along with the tax reforms, the state is to have a complete reorganization of government administration by the elimination of a great many commissions, bureaus and departments created through successive legislatures.

"The Sagebrusher"
Stamped with the enthusiastic approval of Emerson Hough, "The Sagebrusher," the vivid picture of the first of the famous novelists' works to be transferred to the screen, is now unquestionably the greatest achievement of that master producer, Benjamin H. Hampton.

"The Sagebrusher," a W. W. Hodkinson special release, coming to the Lyric Theatre Friday, depicts the soul stirring event in the life of Mary Warren, a beautiful, refined girl, who having lost her sight, is forced by circumstances to wed Jim Gage, a shiftless Montana rancher. The blind girl knows from his speech that he is untruthful, but visualizes him a big, handsome fellow.

A Fascinating Outdoor Fiction Serial

Now Running in This Paper

A Modern Classic

The Great Open Spaces

One of those tales which appeal to the quality in men and women who find stories of human contest with the wild forces of nature so enthralling. Possessing a high degree of literary merit, it is being hailed as the modern classic of its type.

Throbbing With Love of Nature

Deals With Life in the RAW

Zane Grey says:

"The Voice of the Pack is clean, fine, raw, bold, primitive; and has a wonderfully haunting quality in the repeated wolf-note."

The New York Times says:

"The Voice of the Pack contains an intimate and detailed knowledge of the Oregon woods that makes the novel fascinating. The story in the main is a woodman idyl, rich in poetic fancy and throbbing with a reverent love for a nature which is unspeakably wonderful both in its majesty and in its all pervading hospitality."

The Chicago Daily News says:

"Taken all around, 'The Voice of the Pack' is the best of the stories about wild life that has come out in many, many moons."

EDISON MARSHALL

At rare intervals a hitherto unknown author flashes into the literary firmament like a comet. Some disappear as quickly while others become fixed luminaries. About once every decade a writer makes an instantaneous success with his first book. Edison Marshall, a young Oregon newspaperman, is a case in point. His story, "The Voice of the Pack," was sold out almost as soon as it was off the press and a second printing ran into many thousands of copies—literally a "best seller." It is a fascinating narrative of romance, adventure and nature lore in the mountains and forests of the Northwest and has a substantial quality which bespeaks permanent characteristics in its creator, with other delightful tales likely to follow. Readers of this publication soon will have it as a serial. Make it your business to get the opening installment.

The Delta County Reporter

was particularly fortunate in securing this great serial for its readers.

It teems with those emotions which surge through every red blooded man and woman and will hold your deepest interest to the end. DON'T MISS OPENING CHAPTERS.

The Voice of the Pack

With a long line of frontiersmen ancestry, he is himself a resident of the Northwest wherein the scene is laid. He knows the mountains, forests, streams and trails of which he writes. He has combined a charming romance with an unusual amount of nature lore, especially that relating to the forests and wild animals. He introduces bad men of an actual type, yet strangely new to fiction. In picturing encounters with savage beasts he rivals the "Tarzan" stories.

FIRES DRAWN IN DISABLED VESSEL

SHEDDLE RESTING ON HARBOR BOTTOM—FLEET MAN AGER COMING

Marquette—Her fires drawn, and her pumps stopped, the disabled carrier Sheddle was resting last night on the harbor bottom where she will remain until pumped out next spring. The wrecker Manistique is tied up at the same dock. A. E. R. Schneider, fleet manager for the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., will arrive this morning for a conference with company officials. Mr. Schneider, Capt. O. Rydholm, fleet captain, and Thomas Durkin, fleet engineer, will probably leave for Cleveland tonight or tomorrow night. They planned to leave yesterday, until advised of Mr. Schneider's visit. Captain Stephen A. Lyons, of the Sheddle, together with the vessel's steward, will remain here a few days taking inventories and attending to other details. A man and his wife have been engaged as shipkeepers, and will live on the vessel this winter. No repair work will be done until spring. With the passage of Sunday, the work of the Schneider, which left here Saturday morning, the 800 locks were closed for the winter, after remaining open the longest year since 1904. December 26 was also the closing date that year.

Chance To Purchase The Calumet & Hecla For A Mere Nothing

Boston—Many people have bewailed the unlucky stars under which they were born too late to buy into Calumet & Hecla at its original cost of $12 per share at which price it sold when the $12 assessment, which constituted its original capital, had been paid in. Now all ye unfortunate ones take notice and behold! The opportunity is here to buy the great Calumet & Hecla mine, not as an undeveloped proposition, but as a great mine with only 100,000 shares and $20,000,000 of recoverable value in a rock pile above-ground, and you may say it all and not for $12 a share, but for less than nothing. Let us state the facts and then never again hear a complaint from any man who thinks he has been unfortunate or not in favor with the Deities who rule over mines investments and speculations. Calumet & Hecla, selling this week at $200 a share, has in its treasury cash and cash assets, securities at the lowest market prices and far below original cost, bills receivable and copper in its refineries taken at cost, that total more than $200 a share. "This is entirely the Calumet & Hecla mine which has many years of life and miles of 'jewelry shops' still sparkling under ground and is free of all debts, mortgages and other liens—the unencumbered property of the stockholders—now a free gift in the share market to him who has money to buy the Calumet & Hecla treasury. Charlie Chaplin Is To Be Here Saturday

Charlie Chaplin is seen as a "third man" the much imposed upon slave of a hypocritical farmer in "Sunny Side," the third million dollar comedy to be released by First National Exhibitors Circuit, which will be shown at the Lyric Theatre, Saturday and Sunday. The part is distinctly different from Chaplin's characterizations in "A Dog's Life," in which he played the role of a young city man, and "Shoulder Arms" in which he was a soldier. The two first $1,000,000 comedies produced by Mr. Chaplin's new company. The entire background is that of a quiet countryside where Charlie shows his unfamiliarity with rural life in a ceaseless succession of happenings. Religion Gets Into the Mix On a certain Sunday Charlie is musing over his hard lot it becomes his duty to go and hunt the cows while his employer goes to church. Thinking of his sweetheart, the daughter of a neighboring farmer, Charlie absent-mindedly lets the cows get away from him and they stray toward the church. Charlie arrives just in time to find one of them sauntering in to find out what the sermon is about. He chases it, and when none of the farmers seem able to suggest any means of getting it out of the church mounts it and rides out. But his ride of triumph is short-lived for the cow throws him not only into a ditch, but into a state of unconsciousness. The fairest of wood nymphs come to play with him. Lifting the fallen chore boy from his howly place they glide off with him through the mazes of the dance. Of course, the originality of Chaplin rises splendidly to this occasion, and the nymph learn things about their own art that they never knew before. Fixing his curly hair like the horns of a faun, Charlie becomes the merriest of the merry in the dances. From Heaven to Jealousy But all beautiful dreams must end. At last these exquisitely formed, slightly draped creatures fade out and Charlie comes back to the world of harsh words and cold, hard ground. As a matter of fact, he soon finds things worse than ever, for a city chap, excellently groomed and with a very fascinating eye, has arrived, and has started to make love to Charlie's sweetheart. When everything else seems futile, Charlie attempts to dress himself up equal to "that darned city feller," and the result may be imagined. Yet as length as the audience always likes to see him do the clever little comedian comes to his own and wins the bouclic damsel. Where Wilson Can Say "Me, Too" Says M. Vanzolles: "I believed the rock people were following me, but I have made a mistake." The words sound familiar.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PART OF CUSTER WILL BE HELD

PLAN TO RETAIN ENOUGH TO CARE FOR SIX THOUSAND FIGHTING MEN

... Battle Creek—Camp Custer has been divided into 11 areas by the war department and a section large enough to house at least 6,000 soldiers is to be withheld from the scheduled sale of buildings by the government. This was learned here when William M. Potter, of Lansing, who with Edmund C. Shields went to Washington to interview Secretary of War Baker, made a report to a special committee of the chamber of commerce. Tuesday Secretary John I. Gibson, was in Lansing in conference with Governor-elect Alex Groesbeck and Governor Albert E. Sleeper relative to the stenoion of Camp Custer by the state. According to the report of Potter, the sale of land would not start until the building sale has been completed. With the delay in accepting the bids for buildings which are to be opened tomorrow, the Michigan legislature will be given an opportunity to determine whether it desires to assume responsibility for the camp by purchase. It is the present plan to send another committee to Chicago, where they will confer with Major General Leonard Wood on which portion of the reservation will be the best for utilization as a camp.

Mayor Doyle Resigns

Mayor Doyle, of Menominee, has resigned. "It is true that I shall tender my resignation as mayor," Mr. Doyle said in a statement. "I will, however, observe due regard to all rights and properties involved in abandoning the office. I have always contended (and I believe fully exemplified) the claim that public office is a public trust. The robes of municipal authority should not be hastily or thoughtlessly put on—neither may they be taken off until immediately before the next spring election when without extra expense the new mayor may be elected. The voters are entitled to an explanation for my resignation. I have been accused many times by my personal friends say that I take the office of mayor too seriously. I plead guilty to the charge. I certainly do regard this highest city official preferment as a serious matter and in my judgement he who values it less is not fitted for the place. Only one who has had experience in public office fully realizes how valuable or useless the place."

Disposal of Deer

J. A. Payant, alderman and chairman of the Iron Mountain city park committee, says that the city disposed of seven deer and had them shipped to a state game reserve near Lansing. The deer were not sold but were given to the state game reserve. Mr. Payant says that the park committee was prompted to dispose of them because of the high cost of feeding them through the winter. The matter was taken up with Mr. Baird, of the state game department, and he sent C. A. Peterson to Iron Mountain to have the deer shipped.

Bad Whiskey Caused Death

The remains of Gust Anderson, thirty, whose death occurred under unusual circumstances in a shack at Caspian, are being held awaiting an autopsy at the morgue found in his possession at the time. Anderson, who has no home insofar as is known, wandered into the shack of Frank Olson, who lives alone at the Caspian location, and asked if he might be allowed to sit by the fire until morning. According to Olson he appeared to be sober but had a quart of "moonshine" in his pocket. About 5 o'clock in the morning Olson went to
