HEAVY VOTE IS EXPECTED MONDAY

TWO TICKETS IN FIELD, ALSO TWO CANDIDATES TO RUN ON SLIPS, REPORT

Voters of Masonville township are expected to turn out strong for the election to be held next Monday, April 6, at which time candidates for township offices will be elected. It is the first time in several years that two tickets have been entered in the race and this is expected to serve as the inducement for the heavy vote. Also there are two candidates who have indicated they would run on slips.

Two candidates, W. J. Miller for supervisor and H. J. Wilford for treasurer, will be unopposed Monday. They were nominated by the Township Party and endorsed at the caucus held by the Independent Party. For other offices, the candidates first for the Township Ticket and second for the Independent Ticket are:

Clerk, C. E. Johnson and Archie Forest. Highway Commissioner, William Rushton and Oliver Neveu. Justice of the Peace, August Bjorkman and Carl O. Carlson.

Board of Review, Nels Westling and Alpha Cole. Constables, four from each party: Fred Smith, Albert Caswell, John Grandchamp, and Charles Rabideau; Peter Larsen, Arthur LaPine, Henry Martin and Ed Hill.

The rivalry among the candidates is friendly although spirited and this will help bring out the voters.

Mrs. Charles Creten of Gladstone was in the village yesterday visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Gravelle.

GUNS ARE HERE, POST ALL READY TO "SHOOT"

The Walter W. Cole Legion post this week received the guns ordered from the Rock Island arsenal. The contingent consisted of 19 1898 Springfield which will be kept for use on formal military occasions, eight for the firing squad and two for the color guard.

SOME MISUNDERSTANDING ABOUT WORKING TIME

Frank Vietzke was brought into Justice L. R. Messenger's court last week Friday on a charge of raising pay orders issued on the Collins Land & Lumber company, by the former's brother, William Vietzke, for whom Frank was working. It was charged that three separate orders had been increased in amounts. There seemed to be some misunderstanding however, as William Vietzke declared he had authorized the changing of the time. The hearing was deferred until tomorrow, April 4, and Frank was released under $500 bond.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL IN BANK LOOTED BY BANDITS

Miss Kathryn Cole, formerly of this city, was in a Chicago bank which was held up and robbed of $10,000 on Tuesday. She was talking with a girl in the bank when the bandits gave their orders to "Hold em up." Her picture, with that of four other girls in the bank, was printed in the Chicago Evening American on Wednesday.

LATEST EGYPTIAN RELICS BROUGHT TO UNITED STATES BY PROFESSOR REISNER

New relics of Egypt's ancient civilization, brought back recently by Prof. George A. Reisner, head of the Boston Harvard archaeological expedition that this week uncovered sarcophagus of Princess Nebti-Seneferu, 5,000 years old, near Great Pyramid of Giza. The two heads at the feet of the statues in photos are the most prized of his collection, that at the left is beautifully carved of alabaster; at the right, of wood.

COLLECTS $155.75 FOR STORM VICTIMS

MASONVILLE AND ENSIGN TOWNSHIP RESIDENTS COME THROUGH GENEROUSLY

C. R. Johnson, local druggist, on Monday mailed a bank draft to WLS radio station at Chicago, to be turned over to the committee looking after the people left destitute and homeless by the tornado which swept southern Illinois, Indiana and northern Missouri a few weeks ago. Mr. Johnson canvassed Rapid River for the local Legion Post and in less than a day time had secured subscriptions amounting to $110.50.

Masonville and Ensign were also canvassed by other workers. Masonville subscribing $21.25 and Ensign $24.00, making a total of $155.75. Those who were approached showed a fine spirit of helpfulness and came through generously. The local post and the Legion Auxiliary each subscribed $5.00, there was another of $2.00 and the other subscriptions were for $1.00 or less.

Rapid River's subscription averaged about 16 cents for each resident, figuring on the basis of 700 population. If the rest of the country contributed at the same rate, there would be $17,000,000 raised for the rebuilding of the towns destroyed by the wind storms.

COMPANY PREPARES FOR RIVER LOG DRIVE

The Collins Land & Lumber company is repairing dams and making other preparations for the annual drive of logs down the Whitefish river. The logs will be floated at the company's camps at Trout Lake and points in between, down the river to Little Bay de Noc through which they will be taken around to the point nearest the local plant. In the old days practically all the timber was brought to market through this method. The Collins company is one of the few still able to use the river drive, and at that only a small percentage of timber is brought here through the water route.

NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION OF COPARTNERSHIP

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the copartnership heretofore subsisting between Carl Stenlund, Albert P. TOUR IN AFRICA NO PLEASURE TRIP

BUT MR. AND MRS. JOLLY HAD MANY EXPERIENCES THAT RELIEVED ROUGH GOING

Within few months the fly tents and the cooking utensils will have been strapped on the car and that new species of traveler—the Auto Tourists—will be on his way to live in the open and see the hidden glories of this country as they are seen only in a gypsy kind of wandering.

If you chance to be one of them and think that there are many like some duties connected with primitive living in the open, hark to the tale of a 2,000 mile trip of Mr. and Mrs. L. Blake Jolly in the Broken Hill country of northern Rhodesia, Africa. Mr. Jolly is chief technical agent of the Rhodesia Broken Hill Development Company, Ltd., North Rhodesia, Africa.

Even the worst roads you may have encountered are veritable primrose paths of down compared to the bush country in the land of the lion and the elephant. The Jollies encountered every type of annoyance in their journey of more than two months.

At the time of this trip, the middle of last summer, the Chevrolet touring car they used was the only one of their country and the only car that ever successfully left Broken Hill and got safely through to Lake Tanganyika.

Food for two weeks had to be carried, besides complete cooking and sleeping equipment, while gasoline and extra food had to be sent on ahead by 40 carriers. In addition to the tremendous weight of equipment, four persons were carried in the car through "tracks cut through the brush, full of pits and holes."

The first day out the only road was a native footpath, at times hardly visible, and every few miles a dambo (plain) was encountered, which is very marshy ground with a bog in the middle and which becomes a veritable river in the rainy season. Often a native boy had to be sent ahead to reconnoiter and then the car was piloted through.

Though the diary of the trip contains more than 3,000 words, only the most interesting extracts will be taken.

On July 22, grass from six to seven feet high, intermingled with bushes, was encountered, to say nothing of ant hills and holes which shook the car to its very limit. The sun was so hot that the gasoline had to be completely covered by the equipment.

On the following day the car became stuck in a bog and it was necessary to send back for a dozen natives to push it out. It never rains but it pours, it is said, and next 12 foot elephant grass was encountered which filled the radiator with grass seed, so that it was necessary to stop every few miles and dislodge the seeds to prevent the motor from boiling. Later this same day, the party ran across a great bush-fire—flames from horizon—and only avoided danger by hitting a large patch of ground where the grass had already been burned.

The next day the only thing was meeting a jackal, a wild cat and python crossed their path and a group of baboons which the superstitious natives never kill for fear of bringing bad luck.

"The next day," writes Mrs. Jolly, "my husband went over the car which had extraordinary little the matter with it." Mrs. Jolly explained in her diary that they often encountered great patches of burnt down timber land. The natives burn down miles of trees to fertilize the ground—a busy way to prepare the ground instead of hoeing it.

A raft made of old gasoline cans (overlaid the Chevrolet across a river the next day. Two days later another river was encountered and the wheels of the car went through a bridge up to the axle and it took two hours to unhook the car and get across. About six miles further the same day a second bridge was encountered, and the same strenuous work was needed to get the car out of the rotten timbers.

The party camped under Mount Sunza, the highest mountain in northern Rhodesia, after strenuous work on the bridges. In the small settlement there were 10 Alredades that were used to hunt lions.

About two days later they struck a bad belt of tsetse-fly and it was all they could do to keep the bites of the dog—the bite of the tsetse-fly being fatal to a dog.

The following day the party had to cut down a number of trees and build a 200 foot stretch of corduroy road. They shot some delicious pheasants for lunch. For two miles the next day the car was hardly ever out of low gear, as the journey was continually up-hill, the sandhills which made the going most difficult.

Killing a zebra, walking five miles to hunt game only to find a solitary lion, crossing more bridges and helping a sick man to go 100 miles to a doctor constituted the remainder of the trip.

"In conclusion," writes Mrs. Jolly in her diary, "I must pay a tribute to our Chevrolet car. It has been simply marvellous and considering the tremendous load and the roughness of the country which we have traversed, it is more than a fair test of its power and durability. We have spent extraordinarily little on repairs and it is now in excellent condition after a strenuous trip of more than 2,000 miles."

FIGHT GRASS FIRES

The volunteer fire fighters were called out again yesterday morning to fight a grass fire in the open space at the intersection of the Trenary branch railroad and the highway. The dry grass and brush allowed the flames to spread rapidly and when the fire approached a home, the fire fighters were called out to place a under control which they did without great trouble. Tuesday there was a grass fire at the tourist camp site which had to be put out.

BROUGHT HERE FOR TRIAL

Fred Smith went to camp Monday forenoon to bring back "Baldy" John Anderson, who had been fined in Justice of the Peace L. R. Messenger's court. Anderson was fined at an earlier trial but was released to get the money. He went back to work when he did not return promptly enough, the officer went to bring him back. Anderson paid $25.00 at his second arraignment.

Delore Lalond of Oler was in Rapid on business Tuesday.

BILLS TO END TAX FREE PONDS SIDE TRACKED IN SENATE

HUGE APPROPRIATION BILLS ARE ALLOWED; BURDEN TO FALL ON REAL ESTATE

(Farm Bureau Report)

In long forenoon, afternoon and evening sessions the law makers at Lansing are settling the fate of scores of the more important of the hundreds of legislative measures pending before them. Sandwiched in at every available opportunity are earnest committee meetings and very public hearings. In the midst of this intense situation, Governor Greenback has come to plead in person on the floor of the Senate for a bill the passage of which he is insistently demanding. Senator Greene's bill to regulate finance corporations.

Scores of appropriation bills totaling many millions of dollars are being passed. They are to provide the funds for maintenance, operation and new buildings for the various state institutions and departments for the next two years.

Probably the result of a large share of the strenuous labors of our lawmakers will be satisfactory to the rank and file of Michigan citizens, but it is equally apparent that much sadly needed legislation is falling by the wayside.

Fate of Farm Bills Uncertain

After considerable delay the Senate has passed the bill providing funds for paying state awards on condemned and slaughtered tubercular cattle. However, the amount of the appropriation was cut in two, being reduced from $200,000 to $250,000 for each of the next two years. An effort will be made to increase this item in the House so that the TB eradication work may be carried out more rapidly. At the present time there are 22 counties on the waiting list for this work, some more than 2 years. All have provided the local funds, but the campaign is delayed through lack of state funds.

The bill to make the federal potato grades compulsory in Michigan passed the Senate 29 to 6 after being amended to make special provisions for direct sales from the producers to consumers and grocers.

Receiving the attention warranted by its importance, the anti-pollution bill sponsored by Rep. Howard Smedley of Grand Rapids, monopolized practically the entire attention of the House on Tuesday afternoon, March 24. This bill would vest in the State Department of Conservation all authority regarding the investigation of the pollution of Michigan streams, rivers and lakes and the abatement of such pollution whenever it becomes a nuisance and dangerous to public health.

Cut M. A. C. Funds

Appropriation bills traced by Michigan farmers and farm organizations are being meticulously cut in the House. For instance the modest appropriation of $25,000 for each of the next two years to control and stamp out the European Corn Borer was cut to $12,000 by the Ways and Means Committee, after a hearing had been denied. Likewise the appropriations for M. A. C. have been pared to the bone. Requests for permanent improvements have been cut from $2,075,000 to $1,041,000 and the budget for current expenses and extension from $1,025,000 to $520,000.

In an effort to speed up the work of future sessions of the Legislature, the Senate passed by a vote of 26 to 4 Senator W. L. Cass's proposed constitutional amendment to limit future legislative sessions to 90 days. However, a last minute amendment was adopted to allow for extending the sessions by a two thirds vote of both the Senate and the House.

The House is giving earnest consideration to a bill sponsored by Rep. Milton Palmer of Detroit which proposed raising the pay of the members of the Legislature from $300 to $1,500 per two year term. Similar bills have been proposed in previous sessions, but have always been defeated.

The men who try to do something and fail are better than those who try to do nothing and succeed.—Lord Jones.

witness the Cooks vs. Nahma game.

Kolman Casper made a business trip to Manistique on Friday last.

Julius Eggert and family of Fayette were business callers in Manistique on Wednesday.

Paul Lankey and Jay Walsh made a business trip to Manistique on Tuesday.

A peculiar accident befell Jerome Walsh last week while working on the ice. He was sawing when his saw stuck in the ice. As he tried to release it it came out suddenly, the handle of the saw striking him in the mouth. He picked up a tooth off the ice and decided that he had better see a dentist, which he did.

Philip Chandanois returned to Manistique on Tuesday after spending two weeks visiting with his brother Henry here.

Colon Greene, wife and daughter of Fairport were in town on Friday and Saturday of last week.

Giving the Dairy Cow a Square Deal

News Bureau of Animal Husbandry

A write on a scientific basis of the dairy cow. (Inset) From quality takes on basis of cow-herd as poorly treated animals.

There are now 25,875,000 dairy cattle in the United States. Of these, says a recent report, only about one-half are cared for in a manner to enable them to return a fair profit to their owners.

Many a milk cow has been accused of being a "boarder" when the owner had only himself to blame. Unlike human beings, dairy cows never think intentionally, and frequent tests reveal that seemingly unimportant details in the care of milk cows have startling effects on milk production.

If you are considering doing up any of your milk herd because you believe them to be unproductive, fill in the questionnaire below for your own satisfaction. If you can write YES as an answer to all of the questions, it is safe to assume that they are getting a square deal and therefore ought to repay you generously.

Are you feeding them a properly balanced ration?
If not, or if you are not quite sure of what makes up a properly balanced ration for milk cows, get in touch with your county agent. It will pay you to do this.

Are the stables kept clean—especially during the months you keep the milk cows in?

Clean stables and good ventilation are essential if the cow is to give full returns. Clean gutters, clean bedding and lots of pure air are important.

Has your milk herd access to all the fresh water they will drink? If not, give it to them. Water is cheap, and they will repay you with more and better milk.

Do you keep the cows clean? With adhering to tanks and udders takes money right out of your pocket. Impurities are absorbed into the system. That means more feed or less milk. Milk from a manure-caked cow is unclean and, on a strict interpretation, against the law. In just a few minutes, you can clip the udders, flanks and underlines of the cows. Thereafter, it is only a matter of seconds to wipe off all clinging foreign matter with a damp cloth. Farmers and dairymen who follow this practice say it increases milk flow and enriches the milk. And the cow is certainly more comfortable and contented.

Are you giving your cows a square deal?

JOHNSON WITH TORONTO
Reports from the training camp of the Detroit Tigers at Augusta, Ga., are that Bill Johnson of Newberry, training with the team, would be placed with the Toronto team of the international league for this year. Johnson, who played with and against Gladstone on several occasions, has made a very favorable showing and Detroit will keep strings on him. In an exhibition game against Toronto, he pitched five scoreless innings, allowing but three hits. He was a classmate at M. A. C. of Babe Ruth, Gladstone's star of the 1922 season.

TO PLANT TREES ON BUCHMAN LAND

REFOREST STATION PROJECT TRIED OUT ON SACRE TRACT NORTH OF HERE

E. G. Amos and County Agent Jos. Turner were in Rapid River last week to look over a three-acre tract of land on the Buchman farm, five miles north of Rapid River, which was offered as a site for the reforestation experiment in reforestation being tried out in the upper peninsula by the Development Bureau in cooperation with the M. A. C. Extension department. The land was found to be suitable for the planting of white and Norway pine and the work will be undertaken the first of May. The Buchman land on Highway 15, was donated for the experiment.

Experiments in reforestation are also to be made in other sections of the peninsula. In the tract north of here 3,600 trees are to be planted. The intention is to hold meetings for lectures on the need for state wide reforestation.

HARRISON HOME IS DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire Wednesday afternoon destroyed the Richard Harrison home, two miles north of the village of Rapid River. The fire department responded to the alarm but there was not available water supply from which the pumper could be worked and the fire had spread beyond the capacity of the chemical equipment. The entire contents of the home were destroyed, excepting a sewing machine. It is thought that the loss is only partly covered by insurance.

TAXPAYERS TO VOTE APPROPRIATIONS MONDAY

In addition to electing township officers on Monday taxpayers of Masonville township will also be called upon to pass on the appropriations for the various township funds. A meeting of taxpayers will be called at 1:30 p. m. Monday by the election board and the annual reports will be read. The various amounts needed for the various funds will be estimated and the taxpayers asked to vote their approval. During this meeting the voting on the election tickets will be suspended.

GLADSTONE SCHOOLS RECEIVE RECOGNITION

Gladstone high school has been classified as an approved secondary school by the North Central Association of colleges and secondary schools. This information is contained in a letter received by Supt. C. H. Teague, from the Michigan committee of the association. Schools make a report every year to this association and every five years the report is in detail and contains all information as to the manner in which the school is conducted, teaching requirements, program of study, etc. There are 123 schools in Michigan recognized by the Association.

The Association which is conservative aims to accredit only those schools which possess organization, teaching force, standards of scholarship, equipment and esprit de corps, of such character as will unhesitatingly commend them to any educator, college or university in the North Central territory.

The name "Lazzaroni" was given to a class of vagabonds in Naples, Italy, which, in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, formed a distinct caste. They annually elected a chief, called Capo Lazzaro, who was recognized by the authorities and frequently took an active part in political affairs. In 1647, headed by Masaniello, they overthrew the government and for a few days held possession of the city. In 1786, instigated by Cardinal Ruffo and led by Michele Sforza, they successfully resisted the attacks of the French. The Lazzaroni had no homes nor regular occupations. They were ragged clothes, were dirty in their habits, and slept in the open air. They were so-called either from Lazzaro, the beggar, or more probably from the hospital of St. Lazzaro, which served as a place of refuge for the destitute of the city.—Kansas City Star.

FARMING
 The Biggest Business in the Country

THE war demonstrated that the country that couldn't feed itself in a time of national peril was continually in danger. The farmer is the man who makes possible the feeding of this or any nation.

Farm values today are at top notch prices. Farmers have invested millions in buildings and equipment. All this equipment, all the building, represent an investment which should have the best protection against depreciation in value.

The greatest enemy of farm buildings and machinery is weather. Decay causes losses of millions annually. Protection against weather is one of the best insurance policies in which the farmer can invest. Good paint, properly applied furnishes this insurance.

Painting is cheaper than repairs. Paint your home, barns, silos, out buildings, and machinery now before your busy season begins.

Sherwin-Williams
Paints and Varnishes

Commonwealth Barn Paints, Implement Paints and Roof Paints offer the maximum protection against rain, snow, frost, heat, cold, sun and other destroying influences. They are made first of all for protection. They increase the life of your buildings and equipment—they will increase the value of your property.

Stomach Agonized People— Accept Dehlin Offer To-day

Says Money Cheerfully Refunded if One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin Doesn't Stop Gas, Indigestion or Any Distressing Stomach Trouble.

Indolent eating causes acute indigestion, gas, acidity, heaviness and sour stomach—sometimes the distressing stomach causes that dreadful feeling of near suffocation.

Isn't it worth something to know of a remedy that will stop this distress in a few minutes—quicker than anything else you can think of.

This is no common stomach remedy for it took years of time to combine Pepsin with Menthol and the other effective agents that make Dare's Mentha Pepsin so good that the worst cases of indigestion and gastritis and other chronic stomach ailments are speedily overcome and the most badly deranged stomachs are made clean, strong and healthy.

You can get one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and if after you take it you do not say it did your stomach more good than anything you ever used before, your money will be waiting for you. This is a straightforward offer and is so understood by G. E. Dehlin and every druggist everywhere.

This delightful and effective medicine not only gives instant relief from gas, flatness, acid stomach and distress after eating, but taken regularly for a short time will turn your weak, run down stomach into a strong, healthy one able to perform its duties without help.

It ends indigestion, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach and does it in a surprisingly short period of time.

One reason why a lot of children say "objectionable movies" is that they can't be left at home alone—Anacostis Standard.

Yard Distance From Royal Nose to Thumb

More than eight hundred years ago there lived a king—an English king, one Henry, surnamed Beauclerk. Alexander Meikle relates in the Atlantic Monthly, Karye in his own gray-haired countenance declared that in their opinion it would be nice to have a measure of length called a yard; and this should be the distance between the tip of royal Henry's nose and the end of the royal thumb.

The king's nose may have been large or small or tilted upward. Moreover, the distance may have been measured when the king's nose was swollen, for royal noses can hit a soapbox in the dark just like common noses. And the royal thumb may have been stubby or spatulate. Henry, too, might have playfully extended his fingers and seized them with his thumb not quite at, but very near, the end of his royal nose; or he might have wiggled eight fingers with the thumb of one hand touching the little finger of the other. Twirling his fingers thus he could delicately convey to the court scientists who were conducting the royal triangulation just what he thought of them. But at all costs the deed was done and the Englishmen of the Twelfth century achieved a yard.

Dog Carried Danger Signal

A motorist who was driving through a small town in Canada one night was astonished to see a little red light dancing about close to the ground on the road ahead. As he drew nearer he saw that it was an electric bulb from a dry-cell battery fastened on the back of a little dog. The owner, a woman who was walking nearby, explained that the dog refused to stay off the streets at night, and that to keep his front legs run over she had contrived the canine tail light, so to speak. No doubt the dog will soon become familiar with the rules of the road—will slow down and bark at all crossings, keep always on the proper side of the highway and never go more than 40 miles an hour except when he sees a cat ahead.—Youth's Companion.

Somebody's always knocking Chicago. Now it is claimed she has more telephones than all of France, Wichita, Beacon.

Rules of etiquette all should know.

New values lately have accrued to manners.

Civility is today neither a fashion, a fad, an affectation nor a bad mark of social position. It is a necessity because civilization itself is founded upon our regard for the comfort and well-being of others.

Genuine courtesy, which is the outward show of inward kindness, will carry far without the nice details of good form. Yet it must be admitted that the polish on the gentleman or woman, like that on the genuine diamond, adds a distinction and a loveliness that are beyond price.

INTRODUCTIONS

Perhaps no single incident of social intercourse carries it such tremendous consequences as the introduction.

Introductions are significant because they are, in a sense, at the basis of all social life. They are the safeguards of society. Custom says that strangers may not come acquainted except through a third person known to both and vouching for each.

The rules for introduction, though seemingly trivial, are like most paragraphs of the prevailing code of etiquette, the product of centuries of social experiment. Whatever its import, the ceremony is of the simplest. A man is always presented TO a woman, as:

"Mrs. Brown, may I present (or introduce) Mr. Smith?" Or the shorter form may be used: "Mrs. Brown—Mr. Smith."

When there is a marked difference in the ages of two women, the younger is always presented to the older: "Mrs. Brown, may I introduce Miss Rice?"

Children introduce their friends to their parents briefly and directly: "Mother, this is John Brown."

The person introduced may simply repeat each other's names, by way of recognition. People introducing strangers, or those bearing unusual or foreign names, must pronounce the names distinctly to prevent embarrassment.

When introducing two persons in a public place, it is polite to speak to both names quietly. Few persons care to be "passed" before the general public. Careful friends also avoid using first names in a tone which will attract the attention of the crowd.

To acknowledge the introduction, a man when meeting a woman may say, "I am glad to meet you," or words to this effect. But it is not good form for a woman, unless she is a hostess or a dowager, to use the same greeting. She may acknowledge the introduction with a bow, repeating the man's name.

It is unnecessary for two persons meeting for the first time, to ask, "How are you?" or to use that meaningless expression, "How do you do?" It is plain that neither could be interpreted in the other's health at this early stage of their acquaintance.

If a man is seated when a woman enters a room, he rises. Obviously he is standing when he is introduced to her.

If a woman is seated when a man is presented to her, she remains seated. She also remains in her chair when meeting another woman who is newer than herself, or is one to whom she wishes to show marked respect.

A hostess tries to meet her guests, or any visitor, and also when they leave. The consideration and dignity of this proceeding reflect a proper esteem upon a woman as the hospitable "lady of the house."

Stars in Southern Cross

The Southern cross is not a phenomenon. It is the popular name for a Southern constellation situated near the Antarctic circle, and therefore never visible in northern latitudes. It consists of four bright stars, to which fancy, aided by Christian associations, gives the cruciform shape. Two brilliant stars, which mark the summit and foot of the Southern cross, have nearly the same right ascension. The constellations, therefore, is almost vertical when passing the meridian, and these two stars act as pointers to the Antarctic pole.

Early Monopoly

Monopoly in America began in 1628, declares Edward MacMahon, associate professor of history in the University of Washington. A cow was brought to a Pilgrim colony from England, Professor MacMahon said, and allotted to several families, including Capt. Miles Standish, a backer. Captain Standish soon gained control of the cow, share by share, and he and his relatives enjoyed an abundant supply of milk while neighbors went without, related the historian.

URGES CARE IN CHOICE OF WORK

SANFORD SPEAKS BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE ON VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Chester M. Sanford lectured here Tuesday night on Vocational Guidance as the fourth number of the Lyceum Course.

In his talk, Mr. Sanford divided the young people into four distinct classes, those with a hobby, general superior type, but without a hobby, general average type, also minus a hobby, and general inferior. He stressed education, as consisting in the discovery of the latent powers in a person and genius as only the tendency to take pains with one's work.

Practically every seat in the Junior high school auditorium where the Lyceum numbers are held, was filled discussion followed the next day. The majority being students. Only 56 adults were present.

The English classes made a special study of the information gained.

CHESTER M. SANFORD

using an outline which had been prepared by their instructors. A class discussion followed the next day. Mr. Sanford met the Senior girls Tuesday morning and discussed the choice of a vocation with them individually. He talked to the boys in the afternoon. Through a series of questions he is able to give his opinion in regard to your fitness, in character and in ability for a certain profession or work.

Mr. Sanford's influence is illustrated by the great number who remained after his lecture to take part in the Round Table discussion which followed. His talk ended at 10 o'clock. About a dozen people left. The rest stayed to ask questions and seek counsel.

Mr. Sanford called upon the Rotary Club and Women's Organizations in the city to take upon themselves the task of assisting High School students in choosing their life work. He explained that this cannot be accomplished within the High School and is the duty of the business man, and representatives of every profession in the city to talk to the students about the work they themselves are following.

ing, and help them in making their final choice.

The Betty Booth Company, which is to be the last number on the Lyceum Course, will be here April 16. There will be numbers from great masters, ensemble numbers, and original operetta.

MILLARD WITH RHINELANDER

Stanley Millard, who pitched for Gladstone last season has signed up with Rhineland for this year. He has already made his appearance there. Millard's health failed him before the close of the 1924 season but reports now are that he is OK physically. He has sent a request for a tryout with Rhineland to Merwin Kitchin. The latter prefers to stay here this season but has indicated he would go to try for a berth in the Wisconsin town if no team was organized here.

THE TAILOR'S GOOSE

By G. GILBERT

(By Short Story Pub. Co.)

"MONSIEUR visits his suit pressed? He has just time between trains to have it done? He requires that I let him take an outfit while he sits in my shop and I press for him. Well, such things can be done.

"Once another young man sat in the old wicker chair where Monsieur sits and I pressed his suit for him, while he wore an old one. Such a romance. What? You think no romance could come out of a presser's shop? Listen and you shall hear.

"This Washington brings to me all sorts of strange people, who have the desire to be the most pressed in a hurry. Some want to attend a White House reception, they say. Some want to look nice after a long journey before the presser for the position their boss has promised them. And some because they must look well on small money, in hopes of getting a better place. Of such was Charles Jacques Le Mans. He was young, he was dark, he was handsome, with his pinky cheeks and bright eyes. His mustache was beautiful, with its curly ends. He had one place at $20 a week in a department. And he wanted another, at $30. So he lives at a big apartment house over Northwest and he has one suit.

"He could dance, he could sing, tra-la-la. He could play the ragtime on the piano. He made friends. He had one place at $20 a week on the place at $30 a week.

"If," said Charles Le Mans to me, "I can but win one lady's heart she shall pull the wire and I shall have the place, and we shall be so happy."

"Romance in a pressing shop? You shall see, monsieur.

"My Lizette would come in at six o'clock with my supper. She was fifteen years old then—six years ago. She was shy; she went in and out quietly when she looked at Charles Le Mans, I thought; 'Now if she could marry a young man like that.'

"My Lizette was then fair to see. She was small, plump, dark of hair and red of cheek. She would glide in and out without much noise. Charles Le Mans would not look at her much. So matters went for six months. Twice a week Charles Le Mans came to my shop to have his suit pressed. He wears the old clothes, he tells me of his progress. He tells me of Miss Smithson, the blonde daughter of the secretary to the third assistant cabinet member is being won.

"One night I go home and tell my Lizette all about that suit. She does not seem to listen. But next night she asks me if the suit is still waiting. I tell her 'yes' and she seems still for a time. Soon I must perform prodigies of skill upon that suit or it will be worn. I invent new grease removers; I polish goose so it will not take off the nap with new scratches. Charles Le Mans asks me to trust him for pressing as he has to buy some tickets for Miss Smithson. I consent. He is so grateful that I feel like a benefactor. He even smiles on my Lizette when she comes with my supper. I introduce them and they chat a moment. He tells her how beautiful is this Miss Smithson. She tells him she hopes he will win her and his place.

"One day Charles Le Mans comes in and tells me he is going to ask that question of Miss Smithson that night. What was she to do? I know bestow on that one suit. My goose was truly then an appliance of Cupid. On its work depended so much for Charles Le Mans, who was almost my companion. From my shop would go a man made handsome enough to win his way up and up. If he became a secretary to a chief of bureau, might he not be a congressman or a senator? Naturalized citizens may aspire so far. Who knows? What joy I had as I saw him go forth, early in the evening for him, to try his fortune. He tells his name. He sets his head back and cocks the hat? Ma foi! He was then a handsome figure of a man.

"Soon comes in my Lizette with my supper. I tell her Charles Le Mans's great day is come. She is very quiet for a time. Then she begins to cry. Since her mother died she had not done so. What would you? I was amazed. She, my bright Lizette, crying? How could it be?

"I love that Charles Le Mans, she sobbed. I hope he will get the lady he loves and the $30 a week and be happy?

"What now? My goose has made him handsome to break my Lizette's heart. Romance in a tailor's goose? You shall see, monsieur. Romance? You shall see.

"My Lizette goes home, after I comfort her. The child is a woman and a sensible woman. How I love her! "When it comes time to shut up shop, I remain. I cannot go home. Something holds me. About nine of the clock who comes in but Charles Le Mans. He is a changed man. His hat is worn over his eyebrows. His face no longer twirls. His beautiful suit is crumpled. He falls into the chair distraught.

"I ask him no questions, but soon he begins to speak.

"I am deceived," he said. "She loves another and has taken him and she shall have the beautiful $30 a week."

"Then he goes out like mad. I am depressed. I fear for him. I go home and tell Charles Le Mans the news. I do not weep. Woman are better crying than laughing with the devil underneath. Monsieur.

"So, I see no more of Charles Le Mans for three months. And Lizette at first is mournful, and then more cheerful. I have my work and do not notice her much. I mourn for Charles Le Mans sometimes and miss him when night comes and no one is here to talk with. So I go slyly to his $20 a week office in the department and find that he is working steadily. I find from one there that he is living in a cheap boarding house.

"This boy has the right manner," I say. "Misfortune does not crush him."

"My Lizette grows more cheerful. I think: 'He on those fickle girls. He you love mortifies for a broken heart and you can laugh with tinkling bells in your voice.' Some women are so, monsieur, as you may know, but I thought my Lizette was not.

"Then came one night when to my joy, Charles Le Mans came in. He had on his beautiful suit again.

"Press me," he said, "as of old, good friend," he said, "once more and I shall pay you when my happiness comes."

"I am so glad to see him that I forget about the time he was once and he dresses in the old suit and I press the other which is neither old nor new, but well preserved, by my aars.

"You have another flame? I ask him.

"It is even so, my friend Polquet," he says, slyly.

"Will she get you the fine position? I ask.

"The one I will love best, said he in a low voice. It shall place me where I want to be."

"Like my Lizette," thought I, "he is fickle. The old love forgot so soon the new interest in his breast."

"Soon comes in my Lizette. She is fully dressed now. She is cherry and plump.

"Aha, my Charles Le Mans," I think, "if you had one like her, now, at the age of eighteen, which she will be in two years, you might rise, because she will make some man work hard to make her happy."

"Lizette lie sly to Charles Le Mans. She greets him shortly, lays down my supper basket and turns to go. I think she is gone and I go on pressing, thinking how the hearts of men and women turn away from right and truth and go on crooked ways, when they might better go in straight ways and be happy. I am so angry that I press the marvelous suit too hard and it screeches. Smoke arises from it. My goose is too hot for the worn cloth of the knees, now the bag comes, as you know, monsieur. I make a loud snort of anger and hear a queer noise behind me. I turn around quickly, only to find Lizette holding the hand of Charles Le Mans and he is looking into her eyes.

"The beautiful suit is scorching at the knee, Charles Le Mans," I cry, "and what do you here holding my Lizette's hand?"

"Charles Le Mans gets him up. He is handsome by far, even in his old clothes, he looks so determined and delighted.

"I have the honor, Monsieur Polquet," he says, to ask you for the privilege of visiting your Lizette at her home at proper hours and proper intervals."

"My Lizette she looks down like a happy little calf. She makes the tears come from her eyes. She looks then at me and blows me a kiss from her pink finger tips. What must I do?"

"Charles Le Mans," I say, "my Lizette is too young."

"She is as old as her mother was when Monsieur Polquet first courted her," says Charles Le Mans.

"How do you know that? I ask.

"I told him the last week when he came to walk with me down to the grocer's in the evening," said my Lizette, no longer calm.

"So," say I, "is this that makes my Lizette to smile and be cheerful?"

"I care not about the beautiful brown suit," says Charles Le Mans. "I have a new gray one. I came tonight for this surprise. Lizette made it up and I came to ask if, in time, she might not be my Lizette, as well as yours."

"Now, monsieur, what could I do? Such a manner he had. Such a way of progressing. Could anything keep this man down, I asked? No, indeed. Could my Lizette be better off than as his Lizette, when she came to the proper age? Might it be, better that she should be fate early than wait and make a poorer choice? Who knows. I may die and leave her alone. So many things may happen.

"Monsieur's suit is done. He is creaseless once more. He can go to his train with the peace of mind that comes to one who has been to a discriminating tailor. As he passes up the street he will see a stationer's shop, with the elegant brass post card rack in front. He will read the sign, 'Charles Le Mans, Novelties.' He will see that Charles Le Mans is rising. This government could not hold him in its service. He will not see Lizette, my Lizette and Charles Le Mans together.

"No, monsieur. It is not their first child. The twins first, now this other Lizette. So has love been blessed. They want me to put up my old goose and live with them and help in the store, but no, no! Soon I shall have enough saved in little bonds to rig me have one doing a little income. Then I shall go to live with them, but as a self-supporting old man.

"Good-by, monsieur. If you come to Washington again, come to see me and if need be, I shall press your suit with Cupid's goose."

Solomon's Equal Teacher: "What's the opposite of Hydrolysis?" John Norton: "Electrolysis."

Gum Drops One day in English 10, Jessie Welch was chewing gum very violently. As the teacher cast his optics over the room, he noticed the stentorian motion of her jaws and thinking she should be using the upper portion of her head more than the lower, approached her with the waste basket. "Have you a deposit to make?" he asked questioningly. Miss Welch reluctantly placed the gum in the usual depository. (She had only mas'icated it for the last two days, and thus its career was to be ended?) The professor eyed it from an angle of exactly 42 degrees and asked dubiously, "It is Spearmint or Juicy Fruit?" "I dunno" was the response of his own.

The professor then looked at it very critically, but even such close observation failed to assist him in giving a correct verdict. As he carried the basket to its usual place, he had a sudden inspiration and cried, "Looks like Black-Jack."

IN LINE with the thought so well expressed in the above paragraph, it is well at this time, just preceding an election, to call attention to the citizen who brags that he does not vote. Usually they go on to explain that it doesn't matter, because all those in office are crooks, or some other similar remark, just as ridiculous and unbecomingly as exceptions to every rule, but in most all cases those who seek public offices are actuated by a desire to properly serve the people. It is for the people to elect by their vote. And if one should exercise the right of franchise, then might it be said, truly, that the elected are a choice of the majority.

THOSE who really take sufficient interest in their government to take the time to vote on election days are not often among those who stand around complaining about how the government is being run. Such complaints more often than not come from those who try to do nothing and succeed. Next Monday, April 6, there will be elected in Gladstone two city commissioners and a justice of the peace, also available. There are five candidates for the commission, while for the other two offices no nominations were made and the names will have to be written in on the ballot. So far as The Delta Reporter is concerned it has worked for no candidate in particular. We are satisfied to accept the will of the people, expressed through their votes. But we do want to see the vote reach a total which will prove that the people of Gladstone are taking an active part in the conduct of the affairs of their city. So we say to all citizens, "Be among those who try." Then if you fail to elect those of your choice, you will still be better than those who succeeded by trying nothing.

DESIDES the ballots for the city officers, there are also candidates to be elected for important posts in the state. There are two justices of the supreme court, two regents of the University, a superintendent of public instruction, a member of the state board of education, two for the state agricultural board, and one state highway commissioner. The vote through the state will be very tight for these offices, largely for the reason that the Republican ticket is as good as elected. The Democratic party has nominated a complete slate but the vote will be light, mostly because there are many who "try to do nothing and succeed." There are very few Democrats in Michigan but at that if each one of that party voted next Monday, their vote would probably exceed that cast by the Republicans. Then of course, if all the Republicans voted their ticket—but that's again another story.

THE WEATHER is not only "springy" one might go so far as to say it's real "summery." And just fine for talking the national game, baseball. Despite all these favorable elements there has been no action taken for a team here. Secure in the belief that the fans do want some action taken, we have taken it upon ourselves to call a meeting for tonight Friday, to be held at the city hall. We hope to see that live-wire fans turn out to help in the formation of an organization to make it possible to "get in the game", along with the other cities of Cleveland. After talking with some of the fans, we believe we express the general opinion when we state, that a baseball association should be formed to finance the club, with a board of directors to attend to the schedule and the business end. The playing manager can be decided upon later. As for players, Gladstone is fortunate in having a good supply of fellows right here at home. Most of them want to remain here during the summer if sufficient inducement is offered. The attitude of the fans will be better understood following to-nights meeting. Be there, and have your say, all you live wire baseball enthusiasts. Don't place yourself with those who look at games over the back fence and go around complaining about the way the club is being run.

DELTA county is faring better in the 1925 legislature, thanks to the untiring efforts of public-spirited men who have worked faithfully in the interests of the people. The new plan to sit this county, and others with heavy school costs, has been offered by the law-makers and at this writing is assured of being signed by Governor Groesbeck. It's as good as a law and means that Gladstone will get an increase of about 50 per cent from the primary school fund. Other towns and cities will fare as well. Then this week, the Legislators passed the Green bill to give more state aid to the county sanatoriums. The Delta Mesonimre sanatoriums for 1925 have received approximately $6,000 a year and under the change, which is almost certain to become a law, the state aid will total about $15,000 annually. The new measure allows $1.00 per day for each indigent patient. Delta county will not wait for state support to provide a proper institution for the care of its sufferers from the great white plague, but the increased allowance will be appreciated by the taxpayers, none the less. It will make possible a reduction of about $3,000 a year in the taxes levied by Delta and Mesonimre counties for the maintenance of the institution. C. A. Clark of this city, who is a director of the sanatorium, has worked in behalf of the bill unceasingly since the opening of the 1925 session. It failed of passage at that time. But Delta county fared better in 1925.

RAPID River is entitled to honorable mention for the fine spirit shown in the matter of contributing to the fund for the relief of the tornado-stricken district, just a few miles south of Michigan's southern boundary line. The Legion men took upon themselves the responsibility of asking donations for this worthy work and the canvass in the village was made by C. R. Johnson. Residents contributed 100 per cent strong. The response in Marquette and Essig was as whole-hearted, with the result that more than $150 was raised for the needy. In the two latter places, other canvassers covered the territory. It was fine work all around and The Delta Reporter is pleased to give recognition to it.

RESIDENTS of this section who have gone south to spend the winter ought to be urged to hurry back home to enjoy the beautiful weather with which Nature in her goodness has blessed us. We have seen some of the letters from Gladstonians wintering in Florida, telling about the pleasant climate of that section, but these testimonials did not make us envious, not the least bit. We are perfectly satisfied with what we are getting right here at home. While it must be admitted that the season is a little ahead of its average time, still this serves to make us the more appreciative. No telling just when a turn for the worst might be expected. But in the meantime residents have every reason to feel thankful. And we would like to see those sojourning in the south back home that they, too, might get the benefit of the balmy atmosphere.

THERE was a time when marriages were contemplated at leisure and contracted in due time. Now the young folks get married and friends and relatives hear about it afterward. Some judges have said that the ever increasing rate of divorces is the direct result of hasty marriages. At any rate a bill has been introduced in the house of the Michigan legislature providing for a certain time, about five days, to elapse between the granting of the license and the ceremony. This proposal is in line with an idea that is just as prevalent as the hasty marriages—that is that a man should think he is making a wrong, a law is proposed to correct it. It might help to make couples wait longer before getting married and then again it might result in other evasions. And it would be more ball. We hope to see that live-wire fans turn out to help in the formation of an organization to make it possible to "get in the game", along with the other cities of Cleveland. After talking with some of the fans, we believe we express the general opinion when we state, that a baseball association should be formed to finance the club, with a board of directors to attend to the schedule and the business end. REPORT from Lansing states that it has been estimated that two billion feet of water-logged logs, mostly pulp, at the bottoms of Michigan rivers on which logs were floated last winter during the 60 years of the last century when lumbering was one of the state's chief industries. The value of these logs, before raising, is estimated at $2.00 per thousand feet, and if this is true, it means that there is $14,000,000 lying on the river bottoms. In recent years a number of small mills have been operated wholly with logs lifted from river bottoms.

Our Happiest Day

When at times we sit and ponder
On the lessons life has taught,
When we pause to count the blessings
That experience has brought,
There's a certain joyful moment
That we always shall recall
With delightful recollection
As the happiest of all!

Since that day the skies are brighter;
Music has a finer tone;
Flowers breathe a sweeter fragrance;
Love since then has richer ground.

Gates that lead to realms of rapture
On that day were opened wide;
When our little home was paid for,
All the world seemed glorified!

ARMY, NAVY, STATE HELPING FORESTERS' ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT

The entire available Great Lakes training fleet of the U. S. Navy, consisting of a cruiser, four submarine chasers and several cutters commanded by two commodores (DETROIT) and by two commodores (DETROIT) will be in Milwaukee harbor for the Foresters' encampment during the Head Camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, next June. The fleet will help to furnish a background for the grand review which will be held in Juneau park on the lake front. Six United States army officers will be present and will judge the competitive drills, and army officers from Scott Field have been promised. An invitation has been given to officers of the Wisconsin National Guard, including Governor J. J. Blaine and staff and Adjutant General Ralph M. Inman and staff, to take part. Five thousand men will be in uniform.

IN THE SPRING TIME (Detroit News)

Its symptoms are unmistakable though they vary. There is a pronounced disinclination to tell of "spin" and much study is wariness in the flesh." There is an extreme nervousness to study rooms, and the state air of the office or study store. The patient loses interest in his profession, trade or calling. He is obsessed by hallucinations as of floor clouds, platiately murmuring broods. He fancies the softest of winds ran his cheeks and imagines himself ankle deep in some violet scented ward. At times the patient becomes violent and is disposed to fling muddy aside overcoat, muffer and galoshes. At last the crisis comes and the patient, freed from house, office and shop, his destination the open road, forest, creek or lake. Moreover, the ailment is contagious and others are affected quite as profoundly. Small boys are driven to playing marbles on public highways, housewives to strange outbursts of carpet beating and window washing. High school students are moved to dark deeds of verisification and maidens persist in playing "Juanita" at all hours of day or night.

BE GOOD TO THE TOURIST (Detroit News)

This is the time when the tourist begins to speculate on rates, contemplate his tires and pursue mad adventures in anticipation of summer weeks to come. Michigan will be among the goals of the tourist, each year the varied charms of this peninsula state attract the tourists from east, west and south in increasing numbers.

Detroit is happy to be one of the gateways through which these visitors come. It should be the pride and pleasure of Detroit to see that every tourist who passes through this city carries with him the memory of a pleasant experience. It is not difficult to assure that. All it takes is a little forethought, a little energy, and plenty of courtesy.

Plata and helpful signs should direct the visitor along his route; legible street signs should inform him where he is; considerate traffic officers should remember that the visitor can not be expected to memorize the traffic regulations of every large city until some uniformity is attained. The visitor will make mistakes; set him right gently and with a smile, and send him on his way to spread the news that Detroit is a good city to have on the map. Hospitality is the word.

THE McCALL TEST CASE

causing much interest among the strict constitutionalists here. The Controller General is apparently one government official who one but the United States Congress can dislodge from his position. His appointment in 1921 by President Harding was for fifteen years, and unless the Congress decides otherwise, McCall will continue to be Controller General until 1936. The decision of the Supreme Court is awaited anxiously not only by all official Washington, but also by many prominent lawyers who are interested in the constitutional phase, relating to the powers of a president.

ONE OF THE FIRIST duties of the Attorney General, John Garfield, was to be to add the veterans of the World War. It is alleged that Public Printer George Carter has violated the law in discharging from the government Bureau of Engraving and Printing Office, veterans who have received honorable discharges from the Army, and whose work in the Department is now being done by the Department. It is alleged that the general "sweeping out" in the government departments is a direct result of Coolidge's economy plan, and is losing for him much popular support not only among the veterans involved in this particular case, but with the government employees of all the departments.

THE RECESS APPOINTMENT of Woodcock as a member of the Interstate Commerce commission, which Coolidge made in defiance of the Senate, presents a striking similarity to the recent case of Warren whom the Senate refused to confirm as Attorney General. These two cases in which the Senators even the "Old Guard" refused to back the President seem to point to another fruitless session of Congress when it convenes again next December. The cooperation between the executive and legislative branches of the Government, for which President Coolidge has so strongly pleaded, appears to be lacking still.

HOME HELPS (How to Save Steps)
Have a small oilcloth covered table on rollers to push up to sink to place dishes on as they are wiped.
A small stool rug in front of the sink is a great help to tired feet.
A high stool for use when possible, is besting.
A baking powder can with holes to allow the escape of air will save time in chopping potatoes and vegetables (or hash and salad).
A hinged chair is very useful in a small kitchen for extra space.
Ironing Day let's
Cover your ironing board alike on both sides. Use side for dress and white materials, and the other side for clothes that fade.
What You Don't Drop You Needn't Pick Up
When sewing, always have an empty paper sack near the machine, into this put the waste threads and scraps of cloth, etc. and it saves sweeping.

WASHINGTON HAS CALMED down again. The members of Congress have gone back home and the remaining officials have turned their minds to local questions. The traffic problem, in particular, is causing much interest here, since M. O. Eridge has been made Director of Traffic. Washington is especially in need of stringent traffic rules because of the "wheel line" plan of the city. This plan, which was introduced by L'Enfant in the days of George Washington, offers many opportunities to make the city beautiful, because of the numerous parks and circles but it also makes the traffic copy life here. It is rumored that if Eridge succeeds in untangling the traffic problem, he will be rewarded by the G. O. P. with a position "on the hill."

The birthday was attended by many Democrats and one Republican, Vice President Charles Dawes, who is a good friend of the former Democratic Presidential candidate, and who seemed to be the most friendly terms with his political rival in the recent campaign, "Brother Charley." The other important birthday in the last week was Secretary Mellon's. His observance of

SINNERS IN HEAVEN

BY CLIVE ARDEN

"Oh, yes you will! But"—turning blazing eyes upon the laughing, furious face—"you are all wrong! How can you tell what was right and what was not-out there? What do you all know of real, fundamental life? What experience have you had of love, temptation-any problems-that you should dare-dare to judge? You all carry out your religious observances to the letter-but what about the spirit of it all?"

Barbaram went away. She gave no address. "I want to feel out of from everything and everybody who knows me-for a time," she said, when her friend expostulated.

LAKE LINDEN LOST AFTER FINE START

Ann Arbor.—Sturgis proved too fast for Lake Linden here and the upper peninsula champions were defeated, 36 to 25, in the final battle of the state interscholastic basketball tournament.

Lake Linden put up a strong game, leading Sturgis most of the first half, but in the third and fourth quarters the downstate quint gradually pulled ahead. Nester, McDougal, and Grove and Clemmons for Sturgis, were the stars.

Summary:

Sturgis (34)	Lake Linden (25)
D. Groves	R. F. McDougal
Nariker	L. F. Bennett
Clemmons	C. Nester
Bergert	R. G. Brown
	L. G. Rhoades

R. Groves, 4; Nariker, 4; Clemmons, 4; Nester, 5; McDougal, 3; Bennett, 2; Foui goals—D. Groves, 3; R. Groves, 1; Clemmons, 2; Nester, 2; Bennett, 3. Referee, Olds, Michigan Normal; umpires, Mitchell, U. of M. and Stephenson, U. of M.

Pick All-Tourney Team

Lake Linden, Sturgis and Grand Haven players were named by Coach Edwin Mathew, of the University of Michigan, as the five best players in the Class B tournament. The all-stars selected were McDougal, Lake Linden and Don Groves, Sturgis, for wards; Nester, Lake Linden, center and Clemmons, Sturgis and Pace Grand Haven, guards.

First Loss of Season

Their contact with Sturgis for the Class B championship of Michigan was the first loss this year by the Lake Linden stars. They have played 24 games, including those in the upper peninsula tournament in Marquette and the state meet in Ann Arbor.

Gladstone People Must Believe Such Convincing Testimony as Mrs. Lefebure's

No one in Gladstone who suffers backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this two-fold story of a Gladstone resident. It is confirmed testimony, telling of lasting benefit from Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. It's evidence that no man or woman in Gladstone can doubt.

Mrs. Teles Lefebure, 206 Third St., Gladstone, says: "My back was weak, stiff and sore. I seemed to be tired most all the time. Daily spells came over me when black spots floated before my eyes. My kidneys were diseased, too. After using a box of Doan's Pills, I was rid of the trouble." (Statement given May 17, 1923.)

On September 29, 1924, Mrs. Lefebure added: "Doan's Pills cured me and the cure has been lasting." 666 at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

Republican Candidates on State Ticket, Election Monday, April 6

It is very apparent that Michigan Republicans believe that public interests at all times deserve to be rewarded for their faithful performance of duty, the entire state ticket at the April election being present incumbents of their respective positions. Supreme Court Justices John S. McDonald and George M. Clark are present members of that bench; then William L. Clements and James O. Murfin have each for a number of years been active on the Board of Regents having charge of the U. of M., while L. Whitney Watkins has served two terms and Mrs. Dora H. Stockman one on the State Board of Agriculture, the governing body of the M. A. C. Frank F. Rogers, State Highway Commissioner, has held that office more than a dozen years and was connected with the same department since its creation in the present form. Thomas E. Johnson has been connected with the school work of Michigan since 1890 and was appointed Superintendent of Public Instruction to fill vacancy by Governor Sleeper. Frank Cody, who is superintendent of the public schools in Detroit, has been a member of the State Board of Education for the past twelve years and is now the Republican party nominee for a third term.

The TRUANT SOUL
by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

COPYRIGHT BY W.G. CHAPMAN

WHO gets closer to life than a doctor? What other person comes more directly into daily contact with its romance, its hopes and defeats, its sordidness and its uplifting qualities? Who else has the drama of it all so constantly before his eyes?

This strange tale, eerie and mystifying in part, but filled with passionate interest and charm is the romance of a surgeon. Its heroine is a nurse. Its strongest scenes are in a sanitarium. One of its most effective climaxes takes place at an operating table. Edifying and thrilling; a story that engages the mind and the heart and does not permit interest to lapse for an instant. One of the most unusual and satisfactory of Victor Rousseau's many remarkable stories.

FORD HAS BRANCH IN SOUTH BRAZIL

To facilitate the handling of increasing demands for the Ford production in South America, the Ford Motor Company has established a new branch at Pernambuco, Brazil, a point on the Atlantic coast about 500 miles south of the equator.

A dealer organization is now being formed throughout the new branch territory. Consignments of Ford cars and trucks and Fordson tractors have been sent to Pernambuco from the branch at Sao Paulo in the assembly plant at Kearny, N. J. Pernambuco is the fifth Ford branch to be established in South America. The others are located at Sao Paulo, Brazil; Santiago, Chile; Buenos Aires, Argentina; and Montevideo, Uruguay.
