IF AN OPPORTUNITY WERE PRESENTED TO YOU WHEREBY YOU COULD SECURE, WITHOUT COST, A $30 GOLD PIECE

For only five weeks campaigning don't forget that "EVERYBODY WINS" SOMETHING

SEVERAL OF THE MOST AGGRESSIVE "CAMPAIGNERS" HAVE STARTED IN THE RACE WITH ONLY A FEW "CLUBS"

Several of the most aggressive "campaigners" have started in the race with only a few "clubs" to their credit, and the leaders of today do not necessarily indicate the winners by any means, as five full weeks remain to bridge the gap between the highest and those further down the line.

TIME IS LIMITED—GET BUSY!

Now is the time for those who are competing to "make dust fly." Only two weeks remain after this Saturday night during which to secure the MAXIMUM number of votes on subscriptions; two weeks in which to WIN or LOSE—for that is exactly what it means. After May 9, there is a material decrease in the schedule of votes, and after May 22, there is a still further decline in the voting power of subscriptions. In fact, it is cut almost in half.

OUR BEST ADVICE TO THOSE WHO WISH TO WIN IS TO RUSH EVERY AVAILABLE SUBSCRIPTION TO THE CONTEST DEPARTMENT NOW WHILE THE BIG VOTES ARE IN EFFECT

Not to do so simply means that you are throwing golden chances away—chances that may bring you that new model Flini '46" Touring car.

NO QUITTERS HERE

Candidate, you are "off at the post" and the pace hereafter will speed up. Your ability and capacity have been demonstrated. Can you finish strong, as you have started, with the best talent and the keenest wit of Delta county pitted against you? You certainly can if your courage does not fail you now!

WHO CAN FINISH VICTORIOUS IN THE RACE OF KEEN COMPETITION? IT IS NO KNOW CHARACTER AT ALL SO VENTURE THE OPINION THAT NO SUCH MISERY AS A QUITTER WILL APPEAR AMONG THOSE WHO HAVE ENTERED IN THE DELTA REPORTER'S CAMPAIGN

Get in the race with a shout in you are off to the bench, and MAY THE BEST CANDIDATES WIN!

William Marble left Sunday for a four week business trip for the Marble Arms & Mfg. Company. During that time Mr. Marble will visit in the Central states.

J. Rider of Ooster was here on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Stephens of Engadine stopped here Saturday night enroute for their home there. Near Masonville they had the misfortune to run in the ditch, the cause of which was attributed to the rainy weather which made it impossible to see any distance ahead. No one was injured and very little damage resulted.

Mrs. R. Baker and Miss Jeanette Baker of Wells visited here on Wednesday.

COAST GUARD CHIEF AT NEW ORLEANS—TO DRY UP GULF COAST.

Exclusive, approved studio portrait of Rear Admiral Frederick G. Billard, Commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, who has been sent to New Orleans with instructions to "dry" up the Gulf Coast, that long stretch of littoral through which thousands of gallons of good red liquor seeps daily to end the legal parch in all parts of the United States. He has mobilized the chief strength of the "dry navy" against the rum runners fleet and some real battles are expected.

BENEFIT DANCE BY LEGION SATURDAY NIGHT

The members of the Legion in conjunction with the Ladies Auxiliary will give a benefit dance at the Girl Scout rooms on Saturday night. The purpose of this dance is to assist William Martin who was recently injured. About three weeks ago, Mr. Martin was peeling logs and poles when a splinter flew up and cut his eye ball. It was feared at first that he would be blind, and the final outcome is yet uncertain. Mr. Martin has consulted doctors at Ann Arbor and is planning on visiting specialists at Chicago soon.

The music for the dance will be furnished by local talent, and a large crowd is expected to be present.

HIGH SCHOOL CARNIVAL WENT OVER BIG HERE

The Carnival put on under the direction of the Junior Class last Saturday afternoon and evening in the old school building proved a success from every stand point. The sum realized will go toward the banquet the Juniors are planning to give at the close of this school term in honor of the outgoing Seniors.

The Carnival was attended by a large crowd of local people. The Crazy Show, Fortune Telling Booths and the Jivey Dance in the evening following the six o'clock supper were among the attractions that pleased the patrons very much.

HOME HELPS (How to Save Steps)

"Memo" pads with pencils attached conveniently placed saves an infinite amount of time in ordering supplies by telephone, shopping, marketing, or in keeping track of the laundry when it is done outside of the home.

If the housewife finds that the flour is low, when she is making biscuits, a memo jotted down at the time will prevent her from racking her brains later on.

The kitchen has been rightly called the heart of the house. We may live without flowers, we may live without books, but without a kitchen we cannot live without cooks.

Oatmeal Cookies

1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup chopped raisins, 2 1/2 cups raw oatmeal, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream together shortening and sugar. Add the eggs, raisins, milk and oatmeal, then baking powder and flour and drop on greased tins.

Meat Loaf

Rev. Heafield, Representative

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Fisher entertained a small party of friends at supper Sunday evening. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. John Tutvin and Mrs. Rufus Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard, Mrs. Leta Pel-tier, Al Seubert of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cameron, and Miss Marlon Cameron of Gladstone and Mrs. Elaine Jensen of Escanaba. At the close of the evening all partook of a freezer of ice cream and voted the evening enjoyably spent.

Mrs. Frank Tebo was quite sick during the last part of last week. During the period of her indisposition she remained at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Poole.

A lamp which was furnishing heat for forty five newly hatched chicks in the residence of L. P. Peterson and wife of Hurst Bluff, Fayette exploded last Friday afternoon and set the room on fire. In a few minutes the whole room was a mass of flames. James Watchorn was sleeping in a nearby field saw the smoke and rushed to see what was wrong. He found the Peterson family already fighting the fire. Mrs. Peterson sang the big barn yell and very soon a large number of neighbors were on the scene to render any possible assistance. The fire got inside the walls making it necessary to chop several of the interior walls. It was two hours before the blaze was controlled. The building was not burnt to the ground but it presents a sorry looking plight. The loss was covered by insurance. The chicks were promptly roasted.

Ed. A. Laux and wife and family of Fayette were Manistique visitors on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gauthier drove to Manistique last Wednesday afternoon. They had supper with Mrs. Gauthier's sister, Mrs. Noah Deloria after which they saw the play "Captain Blood." Henry Gauthier's mother and Mrs. Walter Stellwagen accompanied them.

Henry Gauthier drove over to Escanaba Saturday morning. He took with him Miss Lucille Boudreau, Miss Rockburg, Miss Wicklund and Mr. Napoleon Boudreau Jr.

Kenneth Heafield made a business trip to Fayette on Saturday.

Pat Casey was in town on Monday selling smoked fish.

Mr. Lucas of the Radio Electric shop and two assistants spent Monday and Tuesday wiring up the Congregational church and parsonage for electric lights. The current will be supplied by the Kohler plant at the LaMotte Cancer Institute.

Mrs. George Larson arrived in Garden Tuesday morning after spending the winter on the Steamer Sierra at Goodrich, Ont. She plans on spending the summer with her mother Mrs. Frank LaCost.

Mrs. Larson and her son Jack motored to Green Bay Saturday night.

Mrs. LaCost is on the sick list this week.

Wm. McNally's children are all sick with a cold.

Maurice Bennett of Fayette was in town on business on Monday.

John Christensen has purchased a new Chevrolet sedan from Dr. Soller's agency at Manistique. The car was delivered last week.

Destie Derochers has returned from Hermansville and is now managing the Reliable Service Garage ditch of town.

Ade Tatrow, wife and two children motored to Manistique on Wednesday.

Robert Eggert and wife of Nahma spent Easter Sunday at the home of their daughter Mrs. Ossie Hazen of this place.

Alex Mayhew was suffering with a severe cold last week and unable to be at his employment on Friday.

Frank LaTose of Hunts Spur moved his family and household goods into Garden on Wednesday of last week. They were brought in on the Stellwagen truck. The family are occupying the home on the Pete Plante farm opposite the Grade Schools.

Chas. Laux of Iron Mountain spent Easter with his brother Edmund and family of Fayette.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Garden Congregational church held their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Garney. In the absence of Mrs. McCashon who has moved to Escanaba the duties were assumed by the vice president Mrs. Eugene Johnson. A pleasant afternoon was spent.

Fred Parker of Chicago spent several days on the peninsula looking up a site to build a resort cottage.

Chas. Olmsted and family spent Easter Sunday with relatives at Escanaba.

If You Have'n't Tile Have A Tile Like Finish

For bathroom walls, basements and such places white, spotless tile is without a doubt the ideal surface, but because of its cost is beyond the reach of the average householder. However, the same glistening, pure white finish can be obtained by anyone at the cost of an ordinary oil paint. Barreled Sunlight is that paint which presents a glossy tile-like surface—washable, sanitary and dirt resisting. It contains neither varnish or lead, is cheaper than enameled and is easier to apply. Flows out smoothly leaving no brush marks and will dry over night.

SENATE APPROVES REAPPORTIONMENT; NOW UP TO HOUSE

SENATOR HOWARTH'S BILL TO ALLOW WAYNE 21 REPS. PASSES SENATE 285

Overshadowing all other issues, the question of reapportionment of Representatives and Senatorial districts monopolizing the center of the stage under the capital dome at Lansing. When the House a few weeks ago voted to indefinitely postpone further consideration of the reapportionment bill, it was commonly supposed that the subject of reapportionment was dead in so far as the present session was concerned.

However, the champions of legislative redistricting saw another opportunity to revise the issue. Senator Elijah B. Howarth, Jr., of Royal Oak, introduced a bill in the Senate providing for 21 Wayne County Representatives, an addition of 7 seats over Wayne County Representatives, an addition of 7 seats over Wayne's present allotment. The Howarth bill was speeded through the Senate and adopted by a vote of 28 to 5, being opposed by Senator Baker, E. L. Cass, Cummings, Herriek and Horton. It has now been transferred to the House where, it is prophesied that it will be considered favorably.

One of the interesting and somewhat unexpected developments of the past week was the passage through the House, by a vote of 97 to 24, of Senator Horton's bill changing the name of the Michigan Agricultural College to the Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science. There was no debate on this bill but when the vote was announced, prolonged cheering broke loose indicating that the members had been worked up to a high pitch over this issue.

County Road Ad

The State of Michigan has definitely abandoned its policy of paying state awards on county roads. The Senate approved unanimously Rep. Kirby's bill which permanently repeals those sections of the old general highway law which provided for the payment of such awards. Passage of the Kirby bill will not affect in any way the approximately $5,000,000 of delinquent awards now due to the counties and townships.

In the midst of contention as to which appropriation bills to allow and which to defer and disagreement as to the size of the requests to be granted, the Senate has passed Senator Brower's bill appropriating $500,000 for the construction of an entirely new state tuberculosis sanatorium up on a site to be selected by a joint legislative committee provided for in the bill. It is contended that the institution at Howell is antiquated and outgrown and that for the proper care of the tuberculosis sick in Michigan, four additional sanatoriums the size of that at Howell would be required. It is said that Michigan is short 300 beds of being adequately equipped to give sanatorium treatment to those requiring it.

Another very important bill relative to human tuberculosis is Senator Greene's proposal for the construction of county tuberculosis sanatoriums and for allowing $1.00 per day of state aid for patients confined therein. After weathering a storm of hostile motions and amendments, this bill was finally passed by the House 89 to 7, and has been sent to the Governor for his approval.

MARQUETTE NORMAL CLUB GIVES PLEASING PROGRAM

The Glee Club of the Marquette Normal school gave a very delightful program at the High School last week for the Junior and Senior high school students.

It consisted of the following selection: United America, a march—by the Orchestra.
The Statesman a march, by the Orchestra.
Hudback, a song, by Chorus.
The Minuet.
Dazhetto.
Selections by the chorus.
Musical selections, "Spirit of the West," "Hail to Uncle Sam."
The program was highly enjoyed by the members of the high school and is to be greatly regretted that it was impossible to have an evening entertainment.

PRO AND CON ON THE WATER FOUNTAIN QUESTION

It is an evident fact that the water fountain causes needless loitering in the halls before school, between classes and any other time during school hours when one accidentally gets an opportunity to take a short stroll for the purpose of exercise. No one ever yet has been seen or heard of stopping for a drink on the way home at noon or on the way OUT of the building.

From the above facts, it appears that the water fountain is a more source of wasting precious moments, an alibi to break the monotony of long hours.

On the other hand, consider the thirsty student as he sits trying to study while his heart aches for even just one refreshing drop of the cool water which he bears running a short distance away out in the hall—yes, running away while his intense thirst is becoming more and more unbearable.

Eat fish for dinner, try to restrain from drinking all afternoon, and note the effect it has upon you; chew gum very violently for half an hour and see how your jaws crave for a thirst quencher, before endeavoring to decide for yourself your attitude on this question.

WE OURSELVES AND US THE CLASS OF '25

We're not a bunch that likes to boast about what we have done, but today, we think we are the great est class beneath the sun. The teachers claim to have been here since 1332.

Gladstone Druggists Offer To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

Money Back if One Bottle of Dare's Good Than Anything
You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.
Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.
You think perhaps you are suffocating.
You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?
Just one dessert spoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.
Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all? With this wonderful medicine you can banish indigestion or dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach or any abnormal condition that keeps the stomach in constant rebellion and one bottle will prove it.
And how happy you will be when your stomach is as good as new for thin dizziness, nervousness, sleepless, headache, dull eyes and other ailments caused by a disordered stomach will disappear and you will be your old happy, contented self again.
G. E. Dehlin and every regular pharmacist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin to show the way to stomach comfort.

Nothing Gentle About Practice of Ju-Jutsu

Ju-Jutsu originated several hundred years ago, before the time of gunpowder, and its purpose was the elimination of an opponent. As it was considered to be used only in a deadly combat, there were no fouls. Everything went with a view to removing the danger to one's life, no matter what position or predicament he is in. The idea was not to lay an opponent on the mat, but to disable him or kill him as the circumstances required. Later, when the use of gunpowder made hand-to-hand fighting in battle improbable, Ju-Jutsu lapsed into oblivion for some years, from which it was finally dragged, dressed up, repaired and altered to suit the requirements of the Japanese aristocracy.
Ju-Jutsu can be roughly divided into three classes: First, tricks for holding; second, tricks for throwing; and third, tricks for disabling or killing an enemy by means of blows or kicks. The latter class is the real essence of the art. It more nearly approximates the old art than either of the other two branches. The first two, as taught today, do not differ greatly from the science as applied to catch-as-catch-can work.
Examples: Holding tricks: Our hammer-lock similar to one of their holding tricks. Front strike is our head chancery slipped down to press on the Adam's apple.
Throwing holds: Our flying mare varied in three ways and called something like "shoenage." Applied from the side in a flash without drawing the arm over the shoulder as in the flying mare. The decorated wrestler will at most always be caught.
Striking tricks: Tsurigume: Knee to opponent's crotch. Some other darn fool word covers a jab with the stiffened fingers to the Adam's apple—A. H. Phelps in Adventure Magazine.

Terrible Bluff
Sophie Kerr, the novelist, said to a reporter as she boarded the Mauretania for a European trip:
"I write for a living. Writers who write for a living give me a pain."
Then, with a rather bitter laugh she went on:
"These art-for-art's-sake writers are terrible bluffs as a rule. One of them, a free verse poet, gave a reception the other day. At the height of the reception, while she was surrounded by the most important of her guests, a pretty little boy in a velvet suit came up and said to her in a loud voice:
"Miss Blank, I think you are a wonderful genius."
"Everybody laughed and applauded, and the poetess kissed the pretty little boy and asked:
"Why do you say that, dear?"
"Because," he piped, "you told me to."

Fish Taken in Swarms
Shoveling fish from the river is the event of the week for the farmers close to the Cowlitz river, Washington. When the smelt start running, farmers shovel them up by the successful, filling barrels and boxes; women use cast-iron nets at the end of portiere poles; boys and girls take father's auto cover for a seine, and the professional fisher employs his linen thread nets. These fish, about seven to nine inches long, run in schools, often filling the river from bank to bank. They are up stream to spawn, after which the smelt return to the ocean and, like the fur seal, spend a long period far from human eyes. The food of the smelt is what makes it so attractive, being canned in glass jars, pickled in spices, salted and dried.

In order to economize before the higher postal rates went into effect, many business houses have flooded the mails with third-class matter at the old rates a casual glance at our waste basket shows.

It was a kind of a dirty trick, according to the Port Huron authorities, to try to ship in that 1,000 cases of Canadian ale, billed as "clay."

Society Notes

R. N. A. Meet
The Royal Neighbors will meet at the home of Mrs. Gasper Page, 1218 Michigan Ave. Business meeting. Social time after. All members are requested to attend this meeting. Important business matters.

Standard Bearers Meet
The Standard Bearers of the Methodist church held their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Lucile Foster. The business discussion was followed by a five o'clock lunch.

V. P. of Mission Church Meet
A meeting will be held Friday night at the Swedish Mission church parlors of the young people of that congregation. The committee in charge has prepared a very pleasing program. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the evening.

Demolay Meet at Escanaba
The members of the Demolay Society recently organized in this vicinity held their regular meeting Tuesday night at the Masonic Temple of Escanaba. The time was spent in a discussion of important business matters.

Kronans Celebrate Anniversary.
The Kronan lodge celebrated their 22nd anniversary at the Wass hall on Wednesday evening. The main diversion was dancing, music being furnished by the lodge orchestra. A very pleasing program was presented in which Gunnar Wickman was very prominent with his usual wit and humor. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge. A large crowd attended this function, which marks one of the big social events of the year in the local lodge.

F. R. A. Attend Escanaba Meet
The local Fraternal Reserve Association was well represented at a meeting of the Escanaba Society on Tuesday night at the Eagle's hall there. The diversion of the evening consisted mainly in dancing. Delicious refreshments were served. The local crowd had a very enjoyable time.

Give Dress Up Party
The members of the Macabees held a dress-up party in the Wass hall on Tuesday evening. The ladies came garbed as little girls, and enjoyed the affair very much. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge at the conclusion of the evening.

Methodist Ladies Meet
The Ladies of the Methodist church held a regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors. The time was spent in quilting. At 4:30 a hot lunch was served. The meeting was very well attended and proved profitable and enjoyable for all concerned.

F. R. A. Meet Thursday Night
The Fraternal Reserve Association held their regular meeting at the Wass hall on Thursday evening. The meeting was opened with the usual business session. About seven candidates were duly initiated into the organization. A social time followed of which dancing was the main diversion. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Not a Good Start
The inaugural dance given Tuesday night by the Community Club did not draw a large crowd but it was a pleasant party for those participating. Manager Lloyd Gordon, who has arranged a list of names to receive invitations will have the list revised and added to and another attempt will probably be made later to popularize the invitational parties. Three ladies, Mesdames Forbes, Jackson and Sturgeon, were asked to sponsor the party, without however having anything to do with the arrangements. Mr. Gordon has the Community hall very artistically decorated for the party in light blue and pink colors.

Olson-Balko Nuptials
Miss Emma Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Olson and William Balko, were united in marriage at the Swedish Lutheran church of Escanaba at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The bride was becomingly garbed in a light blue satin dress and carried American Beauty roses. The bridesmaid wore pale green silk and also carried roses. Matt Medick acted as best man. On Saturday evening a delicious supper was served to immediate relatives and friends.

WELFARE MEETS MONDAY
An interesting meeting of the Child's Welfare club will be held Monday evening, April 27, at 8 o'clock at the Kindergarten building. A number of interesting talks on Community Service will be given by prominent local citizens. An outline of the Early history of Gladstone is also included in the evening's program. Hostesses for the Monday night meeting are Mesdames Magoon, Black, Hall, Clapp, Clark, Tostenen and Marble. All members and friends are welcome.

Benefit Association Met
At the regular meeting of the Woman's Benefit Association held last Friday night at the Eagle hall, Mrs. August Olson was chosen as delegate to attend the convention to be held at Milwaukee June 15 to 17. Following the business meeting there was a program of music and dancing. Refreshments were served by the committee.

Mesdames Madden, Hagen, Houghton and Nobeke. . . .
Auction Sale
The Ladies Aid of the Baptist church will hold a fancy work sale Thursday eve April 30th at 8 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

Carnival Dance at Pine Grove
The Gladstone orchestra will play for the Carnival dance to be given Saturday night by the F. R. A. at the Pine Grove pavilion.

The Misses Beulah Snyder and Grace Strong spent Sunday at Oyster.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson are rejoicing over the birth of a baby girl Tuesday.

R. Davis who has been confined to the Bellevue Hospital at Bellevue, Ohio, is recovering and is expected home about May 1. At the present time he is spending a few days at Stahl farm with his daughter.

Miss Olive Jachor who suffered a sprained ankle while visiting here during the spring vacation, was so covered sufficiently to return to her studies at M. A. C. East Lansing, Mich. on Wednesday morning.

BEGINNING SATURDAY, APRIL 25th Continues 10 Days

This week April 26th this store rounds out its 26th year of continuous service to the people of Gladstone and surrounding territory. This birthday is to be fittingly celebrated by a big 10 day sale. Every department will be alive with new spring merchandise, with prices cut to new low level in order to do justice to the event. Many manufacturers and jobbers have willingly co-operated by giving us special price concessions, to make this a successful sale.

It is only fitting that this store, which in the 26 years of successful merchandising in Gladstone, has been so loyally supported by its friends--should express its gratitude to the hundreds of men and women, who's recognition of our values has made this success possible.

Grills Manager of Prize Contest

Wants to Know the When and Why of Big Campaign—$2,000 in Prizes to Be Given

Did you ever have a bunch of questions fired at you with such rapidity that you hardly knew where you were at?

That's what happens to the manager of The Delta Reporter, big automobile prize contest every day, except that you can't leave him. Ask him as many questions as you like and he'll answer them as fast as he can talk.

Some people might become peeved if questions were hurled at them with the rapidity of a machine gun, but the campaign manager revels in it.

For instance, there came to the campaign department, this morning, a young woman who wished to enter the contest and compete for the valuable prizes to be awarded Memorial Day, May 30.

She wanted to find out "all about it" and if medals were ever given to question propounders, this young lady should be given a solid gold one studded with diamonds.

She walked briskly into the office and came to the point right away.

"I want to be counted in on that race," she announced, "and I want you to tell me all about it."

"Yes, indeed," replied the campaign manager. "You see—"

"Can I win that big Flint Touring Car?" she interrupted.

"You must certainly win. That is if you get the largest number of votes."

"And does it make any difference where I live?"

"No difference whatever, just so you reside in Delta county or adjacent territory."

"Well, then, tell me what I must do to win," and she moved her chair a notch forward.

"That's easy. All you have to do is to see your friends and acquaintances and ask them to subscribe for The Delta Reporter through you. If they are already taking the paper, the idea is to induce them to pay up one, two or five years in advance. That's all there is to it."

"How much does each subscription cost?" she asked, "and that quite straight in my mind," she eagerly inquired.

"That depends entirely upon the length of time subscription is paid and during which period same is received at the campaign department, according to the printed schedule."

"Do renewals count the same as new ones?"

"Yes, they do; for exactly the same."

"Aha," continued the campaign manager, "there are literally hundreds of subscribers now taking the paper who would be only too glad to have someone come and get their subscription, thus saving them the time and bother of bringing it to the office, but properly approached in the matter."

"The young lady drew a deep breath and resumed: "How many prizes will there be awarded?"

"There are six big prizes, valued at over $2,000."

"Where, that's a lot of money! And how are all these prizes to be awarded?"

"To the candidate receiving the highest number of votes in our campaign, we will award the Flint Touring Car. To the next highest goes the Vacation trip, then so on down the line, with the $125 diamond, $100 radio and cash prizes of $50 and $25 each."

"But, suppose I don't win any one of the prizes, what then? Have all my efforts been for nothing?"

"Absolutely not! If you stay with it to the finish and make a routine each report at least once a week, but fail to score among the prize winners, you will be paid a cash commission of 20 per cent—or one dollar out of every five you turn in."

"Then I can't lose; I am sure to receive something anyway! Well, that certainly is fair enough!"

"The two eyed each other for a moment. Then the young lady smiled.

"I guess you think I am asking a lot of questions, but I want to understand everything."

"That's right; just go ahead."

"Oh, yes, here's another one. May I take subscriptions anywhere I can get them?"

"Why certainly! You are not restricted in any sense so far as territory is concerned. Get them anywhere, here in Gladstone, on the rural routes, in other towns, or, for that matter, anywhere else in the state or United States."

"Oh, yes, here's another one. What do you mean by 50,000 extra votes on 'clubs' of $20.00? I just don't seem to get that straight."

"To add a little zest to the matter, and as a kind of a goal to work to,

50,000 EXTRA VOTES will be allowed on every 'club' of $20.00. These votes are over and above the regular number allowed on each subscription. For instance, Two five-year subscriptions amount for 50,000 REGULAR votes, and at the same time constitutes a 'club' of $20.00, upon which 50,000 EXTRA votes are given—or a total of 100,000 votes.

"Is it necessary to turn in $20.00 every time to get these extra votes?"

"No, indeed. Turn in your subscriptions single or in odd numbers, every day, just as you receive them. An accurate record of all accounts turned in by you will be kept at this office, and every time that your money totals reach the $20.00 mark, an EXTRA BALLOT of 50,000 votes will be issued to your credit."

"Well," she said, "guess I'll start now. Gimme a couple of those little receipt books, Good-by!"

Half an hour later the telephone bell rang. "Aha," came a familiar voice. "I told you I would start right away. I have just gotten a five-year subscription and I am going after another that is promised. See you later."

DO YOU KNOW?

Rules of etiquette all should know.

Invitations

Manners embody our finest traditions of conduct. "Do as you would be done by." Whoever observes the golden rule is prepared to adapt himself to any environment. With every invitation arises the obligation to accept or to refuse—definitely and promptly. In every social circle, the telephone has become the preferred means of giving invitations for informal gatherings of friends. The hostess times up her desired guests and names the day, the hour and the kind of entertainment she is planning to provide. If the guests wish to attend he must accept cordially and at once, and not in a hesitating, indefinite or evasive fashion which might indicate indifference to the courtesy. If the person invited cannot attend, she must say so positively, or if in doubt for a sufficient reason, she must agree as soon as possible—and then keep her word. For an afternoon at home, another a tea bridge, a musicale or a reception of a more formal nature, the hostess may use as an invitation her visiting card with the hour and day of the affair written in as:

Luncheon at two o'clock

September tenth

If the affair is given for a visiting guest, the card should include: To meet Miss Turner. For morning bridge, the personally inscribed visiting card may be used, the written lines running thus:

Breakfast at Noon

Cards

For an informal dance, the joint visiting card of the hostess and her husband is sometimes used; or for afternoon affairs the cards of mother and daughter with an inscription in the lower left hand corner. For formal elaborate affairs like evening receptions, balls large dinners and weddings the specially engraved invitation with the conventional wording is required. The form of such invitations varies little from year to year, but the size and style of the paper used and the manner of engraving are prescribed by fashion, with which stationers are always conversant.

Invitations for children's parties are rarely engraved. Usually they are sent out in the name of the hostess, to whose home the guests are invited. herself, the note must refer to her mother, or other adult hostess. The child writes the invitation note may read something like this: Dear Margaret:

My Mother hopes you will have supper with us, on the fourth of July. Then follows the hour, the usual complimentary close and signature.

For young children, a short and friendly little note may be written on stationery designed to interest the recipient who cannot read. All children love parties. If the refreshments are simple, and if only those children are included who are old enough not to be nervously upset by the excitement of the occasion, parties are a good experience for little ones. They may be made the opportunity for pleasant and practical lessons in group behavior which no child can learn too soon.

The spontaneous invitation which carries no meaning is a doubtful tribute of friendship. Some persons have a habit of asking acquaintances to their homes without stating any definite time for the visit. This does well enough as an invitation to call. It is not, however, sufficient for a dinner or luncheon engagement, or a house visit of long or short duration.

Extending the hasty and impulsive invitation is not a very good evidence of hospitality unless it is followed up specifically.

"You must come out to dinner some-

THAT the Delta Reporter is offering to bustling men and women in Gladstone and surrounding territory, $2,000 in handsome prizes for merely selling subscriptions to the best weekly in the Upper Peninsula.

THAT it is not too late to enter this big free offering, and that YOU can ride in your own car in five weeks from tomorrow.

Flint Touring Car

Worth $1390.00

THAT this is the Grand Capital Prize to be awarded on MEMORIAL DAY MAY 30, only five short weeks away.

THAT if you can total more votes than your competitor that Memorial Day will find you behind the wheel in a brand new 1925 model Flint Touring Car.

THAT it is not the number of hours that you devote to your work but the number of earnest hours and the amount of enthusiasm that you put into your work that counts. And if you apply that latter statement to yourself, and enter our big campaign, you can win FREE a $1390 prize.

THAT nothing ventured, nothing gained. So get in the race today, show your friends that you are a go-getter and be a top liner.

IF

IF you want to own and ride in your own automobile get in and get behind our big subscription contest and stay with it until the finish and you will be a winner.

IF you don't want to ride in your own automobile, and would rather take a nice vacation trip to Yellowstone National Park or would like to "sport" a big diamond, or even have your own radio to "tune in" on, then get in the race NOW.

IF you want to get in and win a big prize, call at the Campaign Department, at the Delta Reporter office, have chat with the campaign manager, and he will explain everything in detail, and start you off with 5,000 votes on your way to win that $1390.00 Flint Automobile.

time!" "You'll have to spend a week with us!" These and similar general but indefinite invitations ought to be avoided, unless the speaker has the intention of following them up with an engagement for some definite time.

All acceptances and rejections, whether the invitation is oral or of the most formal nature, should be returned promptly and definitely, as a rule within forty-eight hours.

No acceptance is courteous which is qualified as "I shall be so glad to come—if I am well enough!" The hostess is entitled to know the exact number of her guests in order to complete her plans.

It is not permissible to confuse methods of replying to invitations in the way it was given, to answer by phoned invitations by telephone, to send a card for a card, or a note for a written invitation.

At one time, formal invitations sometimes carried the abbreviation "R. S. V. P." This translated, reads, "Reply if you please." The custom of using the full English wording, of the idea, "The favor of a reply is requested," is more in favor today. But whether the invitation carries this request or not, courtesy demands a prompt reply.

BETTER HOMES TRUCK TO TOUR STATE AGAIN

A special "Better Homes" truck, equipped with a variety of farm and home conveniences suitable for demonstration purposes, will tour several Michigan counties during the coming summer, according to an announcement made at East Lansing this week by the agricultural engineering department at M. A. C. sponsors of the campaign.

A year ago this same demonstration truck covered 22 counties in the southern part of the state, making 71 separate stops. As a result of the success of that trip, the decision to tour again this summer has been made. It is understood.

Starting in Saginaw County on May 18, the tour will reach Midland, Arenac, Ogemaw, Tuscola, Huron, Sanilac and St. Clair counties on its first swing, which ends on June 12.

Later in the summer an itinerary of counties in the western part of the state will be covered.

The truck, which becomes a giant demonstration booth, will carry electric lighting plants, a variety of farm water systems, a completely equipped farm bath room, saw engine, a radio receiver, a concrete mixer and other items of home conveniences. E. Robey, extension specialist at the college and two assistants, will "man" the truck.

Election of a "Michigan" seed bank at each of the stops on the tour, the forms used to be left in the neighborhood for future building, will constitute one of the most important features of the demonstration tour. Local county agricultural agents are completing arrangements for the stops to be made in their territory.

ADAPTED SEED MAKES GOOD ON U. P. FARMS

Adapted varieties of oats and barley have made good in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, in tests conducted during the past four years by specialists from the Michigan Agricultural College. Results of these tests, showing what can be done under the climatic conditions found in the northern part of the state, have been announced by C. E. Skiver, member of the crop department at the college.

"Wolverine and Worthy Oats, and Wisconsin Pedigreed barley have proved to be especially adapted to the soils and climates of upper Michigan," says Skiver. "This matter of adaptability, while very important anywhere, must be watched with special care in northern sections like the Upper Peninsula."

"On the 50,000 acres of oats produced annually in the Upper Peninsula, use of the above named varieties would bring a sufficiently increased yield, under normal conditions, to mean an increased revenue of around $50,000 on the U. P.'s annual crop of 8,000 acres."

The Michigan Crop Improvement Association, with offices at East Lansing, is a cooperative organization of growers who are producing certified seed stocks under the supervision of the extension service at M. A. C.

IT'S RIGHT

Didn't Exactly Order Speeders to "Desist"

As for Irish yarns they never cease to beguile the world, Celtic or non-Celtic. A volume of them, such as Henry Robinson's "Further Memories of Irish Life," can always be treated to furnish examples of the volatile or incoherent spirit—according to the viewpoint—of the Irish. On the words of Sir Henry, Ireland was a paradise for motorists when motor-ing first became the rage and he proves his contention with a story of an incident watched by himself and Col. Oliver Nugent.

There were two policemen on duty at the roadside, and Nugent asked them what they were doing as each had a motorcycle in his hands and wore an air of intense responsibility.

"We're watching out," they said, "for to see that those motorists isn't exceeding the legal limit."

At the time the cars were going "all out" along the level stretch of road, few of them under 40 miles an hour, and many of them far beyond it.

When Nugent, much amused, asked the sergeant what he would do in the possible event of seeing one that appeared to be exceeding the limit.

"We'd order him to desist," said the sergeant.

"But supposing he didn't desist," said Nugent, "what then?"

"We'd arrest him," said the sergeant.

At that moment a roar was heard down the road and a dark-blue torpedo-shaped racer, with driver and mechanic in leather skull-caps, crouching low in their seats, came along at about 70 miles an hour, a fine blur of blue on the highway.

It seemed that here at last was a case where the "order to desist" must inevitably be given. They waited with great curiosity for the result. But not a bit of it!

"Good for you," yelled the excited constable at the flag car, and the sergeant, making a speaking-trumpet of his hands, shrieked out encouragingly: "Ye're the best yet!"

—a boy getting more than a girl. All the work was done by the people and every person—man, woman, and child—had his or her allotted share of work to do. No one was permitted to be overworked, but no one dare be lazy under penalty of death.

First "Athenaeum"

The "Athenaeum" was a temple in ancient Athens, sacred to Pallas Athene. There the poets and philosophers were accustomed to declaim and recite their compositions. There was also an athenaeum at Rome erected by the Emperor Hadrian in 125 A. D. It was founded for the study of poetry and rhetoric, had a regular staff of professors and existed as the Schola Romana until the fifth century. Similar institutions existed at Constantinople, Lyons and Nîmes. The word "atheneum" has been applied in later times to any association or building devoted to literary or artistic purposes.—Kansas City Star.

Emden Sailor Thought Dead 11 Years Home

Hamburg, Germany.—After an absence of 11 years from home, Herman Look of Vollen in eastern Frisia, who was a member of the crew of the famous German sea raider Emden, has reached home. His return caused no little surprise in his native village, for everybody, including his family, had believed him to be dead.

When the Emden was shelled and sunk, Look was taken captive by the British, who brought him to the internment camp at Singapore. Look and several companions made their escape. After a difficult journey through the jungle and through swampy regions they finally reached the ocean. They seized a rowboat and started out, reaching the island of Sumatra after 12 hours. Here Look was again interned and kept prisoner until the end of the war.

Not until recently could he accumulate enough money to take him back home.

In No Hurry to Buy

What would the Broadway motor salesman do with this case, which is typical of the best that he would encounter almost every day in the Orient? Woodhull Hay asks, in Asia Magazine.

A friend of mine was trying to sell a motorcar to an Indian in Delhi. The latter gave many excuses for not purchasing, but in reality he was merely maintaining an attitude of "wasteful waiting." The price had been reduced already several times. The salesman assured him that rock bottom had been reached. If not, no further reduction would be made for at least a year. The Indian at once replied, with a gleam of triumph, as if he had tricked his adversary into disclosing secret intelligence: "Ah, in that case I shall wait until then! There is plenty of time!"

Mocked by Fate

Fortune came too late for a family in Judenburg, Austria. Believing himself to be ruined by gambling, a military officer decided with his wife to kill themselves and their two children at their villa there. The servants were sent to the theater and returned late at night to find the villa in darkness. They discovered the husband poisoned and his wife, son, and daughter shot dead. The baby, Peter, was sleeping unharmed. The family were of English origin. A fortune of $25,000 ($200,000), released by the English courts after a long dispute, arrived at the villa for the captain the day after the tragedy.

New Disease

"They say he's awful sick," a woman was heard to remark to her companion when waiting long on Washington street.

"Is that so? What's the matter with him?" asked the other.

"I believe they call it the intentional flu."

"What's that?"

"I don't know—this new disease I suppose."—Indianapolis News.

Wouldn't Mind

The return of the short skirt led Mayor Croyer of Los Angeles to tell a story at a luncheon.

"A girl," he said, "came down to dinner the other evening in a new frock that made her mother look aght."

"Really, my child," she said, "I think you'd better lengthen that skirt."

"Yes? Why so?" asked the girl as she snuffed a cigarette in a long amber tube.

"Men," said her mother, "will be apt to think you are a child and take you on their laps."

The girl blew a smoke cloud into the air.

"Well?" she said.—Los Angeles Times.

Discovery May Mean Much

Dr. Herbert M. Evans, distinguished scientist of the University of California, has made a discovery in glandular nutrition by which he hopes to demonstrate the effect of "vitamine X" in retarding growth and prolonging life. In his research laboratories at Berkeley Doctor Evans has carried out experiments on rats, tadpoles and guinea pigs that have produced startling results. Much attention has been given to the little gland at the base of the brain called the hypophysis, or pituitary gland. In discussing "vitamine X," the scientist said: "We were astonished to find that if we treated animals with this fluid, provided it was not given by the mouth, but under the skin, or in body cavities, where it would not come in contact with the digestive tissues, and was administered daily rather than at intervals, we could turn normal animals into giants. The next point which arises is just how this will concern the practical problems of human welfare."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Ancient Works of Art

A vase with a secret, a fifteenth-century Chinese production, with a "secret" design, the only known specimen of the period of the Emperor Hing Chih (1488-1505), has just been acquired by the British museum. It is decorated with green dragons, but the "secret" design, almost invisible at first sight, represents rocks standing out of waves, and was traced very faintly and faintly with a needle stylus before the vase was glazed. "There is no special significance so far as I know in these secret designs," said an official of the museum. "It is simply a feature of Chinese art." The carved figure of a bull found in Babylonia, and believed to be about 5,000 years old, minus legs, arms and tail, has also been added to the collection. It is thought that it was used for religious purposes.

Death Penalty for Laziness

The Incas were a great agricultural people, and the remains of their canals and aqueducts may be seen in many places along the coasts of Peru. They had no rich and no poor. The state did everything for its subjects, interfering in all things, even in the affairs of private life. There were three classes—the royal family, the priests, and the people. The chief priest and the head of the army were drawn from the royal house. Every man of twenty-one and every girl of eighteen was compelled to marry. To every child a piece of land was given

The roads, bridges and safety committee presented the following report: Escanaba, Mich., April 14, 1925.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, Delta County, Escanaba, Mich., Gentlemen—As requested by this Board at its last meeting your committee has made a careful investigation of the comparative cost of construction and maintenance of State Trunk and County roads. Also the relative merits of the sand and gravel patrol system. We have also covered the methods used in oiling or tarring roads, as this item was specifically mentioned.

CONSTRUCTION—STATE TRUNKS

For a number of years the County Road Commission has had no direct control over construction of State Trunk Roads. Contracts for this construction are awarded by the State Administrative Board after the bids are approved by the State Highway Department. The County Road Commission can, of course, recommend to the State Highway Department, but has no control. The State Highway Department Engineers submit estimates to the Lansing office on certain sections of road that are to be constructed and with these figures the department is able to ascertain if the bids submitted by contractors are low or high. If figures are too high the bids are rejected. By using this method the contracts are awarded at fair figures. From the above it is apparent that as far as the county is concerned we cannot control the cost of construction on State Trunk roads. From 1914 to 1918 the County Road Commission had control of construction of State Trunks but all Trunks had to be constructed according to State specifications and under State supervision. The following figures taken from State records show the cost per mile and cost per yard of these trunks.

	COST—TRUNK LINE CONSTRUCTION
	Total Cost	Per Mile	Per Sq. Yd.
Manistiquette Trunk, Gladstone Div. Force a/c
1.524 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16—1914	$ 5631.50	$ 3671.12	.39
Rapid River Div. Force a/c
7.765 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16—1914-1915	3524.06	457.77	.49
Ensign Div. Force a/c
7.352 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16—1915-1916	4053.46	543.12	.58
Nahma Div. Force a/c
3.788 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16—1916-1917-1918	2704.22	713.94	.76

From available state records we find that our costs were considerably less than other parts of the state, all things taken into consideration.

Following are figures showing cost per mile and square yard of State Trunks constructed since 1918. These contracts were awarded by the State Highway Department.

	COSTS—COUNTY ROAD CONSTRUCTION
	Total Cost	Per Mile	Per Sq. Yd.
12-2 Nahma Jct. to Isabella Force a/c.
State Const. with county funds
5.727 M. Class "E" Mac. 16	5490.79	943.00	1.02
12-4 Isabella East Force a/c
State Const. with county 1919
3.384 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16	3923.77	984.90	1.05
Average of above
20.161 M. Class "E" Mac. 16	21377.71	6693.33	.71
Lathrop Trunk Biehler Contract
8.50 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16	44625.90	5250.00	.56
3.50 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 16	5725.00	725.00	.76

Note that the cost of this construction is considerably higher than previous years. This of course, was due to the sharp advance of material and labor as a result of the recent World War. These figures also compare very favorably with the cost of similar construction in other sections of the state.

MAINTENANCE—STATE TRUNKS

We were able to get accurate figures for comparison of maintenance costs on four of our neighboring counties, also the average over the State. They are as follows:

	Delta	Dickinson	Menominee	Marquette	Alger	State Ave.
Cost per vehicle mi.	.004912	.002875	.004375	.003291	.005359	.005318
Cost per mile	$69.21	$165.92	$86.105	$421.82	$611.33	$636.29

From these figures you will note that our costs on maintaining water bound macadam are higher than either of the four other counties excepting one, and that we are somewhat higher than the state average. The condition of our macadam roads is responsible for these high costs. Built in the days when traffic was comparatively light and when no one understood the damage that would result from building macadam roads over corduroy, our present construction cannot stand the traffic load and the result is high maintenance cost. It is unfortunate that so much of our mileage is through arroyo sections, where the state roads is so unstable that much work must be done before a good road can be built. At the time the present roads were built it was not considered necessary to make any special sub-grade preparation but experience has taught road builders that a good sub-grade is absolutely necessary before the finish road can be successfully built to stand heavy traffic. Until the present roads are rebuilt our maintenance costs are bound to be higher each year. In counties where macadam roads have been built in recent years and new methods used the cost of maintenance will be of course be less.

When we study the cost of maintaining gravel roads, we find that Delta County cost per mile is considerably lower than the other counties, and also very much lower than the State average.

The type of gravel roads in all counties are approximately the same. This fact being established would prove that the comparison of costs of maintaining gravel roads would be much more just than on other types of roads. So we are convinced that Delta County has accomplished in their maintenance work, when all things are considered, more than our neighbors and more than the average of the state.

REGARDING COUNTY ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Until 1922 all county roads participated in state rewards and it was compulsory to build them according to state specifications in order to participate. When the reward system was first introduced the state paid a flat amount for each mile constructed. Later the reward was paid in amount to 25 per cent of the costs with a maximum limit. Delta county never came within 50 per cent of that maximum limit which in itself is proof that their construction costs were low in comparison to the limit paid by the state.

Below we submit figures showing costs per mile and square yard of such roads which records show are low compared with other parts of the state:

	COSTS—TRUNK LINE CONSTRUCTION
	Total Cost	Per Mile	Per Sq. Yd.
1918 to 1924
Peninsula Road—Hansen Contract
3.50 M. Cl. "A" Gravel 9	$ 898.00	$ 257.00	.40
Peninsula Road—Roberts Contract
2.25 M. Cl. "A" Gravel 16	11795.62	2630.00	.53
Peninsula Road—Force a/c
2.50 M. Class "B" Gravel 9	5230.66	2090.00	.40
Cornwall Road—Berkman Contract
5.594 M. Cl. "E" Mac. 12
Cornwall Road—Force a/c
2.25 M. Cl. "B" Gravel 12, 1922	8139.05	2645.00	.52
Cornwall Road—Force A/c
2.25 M. Cl. "B" Gravel 12, 1924	6754.94	3090.00	.48

Nahma Road—Force a/c
2.594 M. Cl. "A" Gravel 12	9716.33	4729.00	.66
Ford River Road—Force a/c
14.523 M. Cl. "A" and "B" Gravel 16
Low M. Cl. "E" Mac. 12	56529.95	2369.00	.42

What has been said on the maintenance of State Trunk lines is true with the maintenance of county roads.

The patrol system, as it is generally called, is obsolete on gravel construction and is impractical on the Delta county macadam roads. A man and team with a light drag on our gravel roads would accomplish very little as compared with the tractor and heavy drag. This has been proven in various localities and particularly in our own county. The gravel north out of Rapid River could not be maintained for present traffic with anything but the latest equipment. A light drag could not cut down the chatter bumps or wash board effects but the tractor and heavy drag operated by the County Road Commission can cut down all bumps and leave the road as smooth as gravel can possibly be. Any one who has driven over it can testify to this. More frequent dragging is the only way this work could be improved.

On our macadam roads, in this present condition, a patrol man could accomplish nothing. Here we need a gang system to go over the road and do the job thoroughly. After the gang has put the road in the best condition possible it can be there maintained by a light truck with a couple of men. The material needed by this outfit would be delivered to convenient spots along the road by the big trucks. This light truck and small crew could keep a good number of miles in condition, as they would be on the lookout for small bumps and repair them immediately. This system was tried out to some extent in Delta county last year, and will be used on all roads of this type this year. All sources of information seem to agree on this method of maintenance.

In commenting on cost of maintenance it is interesting to know that there were ten times as many automobiles in Delta County in 1924 as there were in 1916. Also that if the one-man patrol system were to be established it would cost to supply material and equipment for fourteen sections of six miles each, approximately $25,452.00.

On investigating the methods used in placing tar and oil on macadam roads we find that here also the State Highway Department specify just how the work should be done. On a newly constructed water bound macadam the tar is not applied until the road surface is thoroughly seasoned. The length of time required depends on weather conditions and sometimes requires as long as several months. After the surface is seasoned the first coat of tar is applied, but must not be covered, but must be left exposed so that it will soak into the road surface.

A cover of any kind would not allow the tar to soak in as the cover would act as a blotter. The second coat is applied on only half of the road and is immediately covered with stone chips slag or gravel. Sand in any form cannot be used as experiments many have shown that the tar soaks up into sand and peels off under traffic. The State Highway Department specifies that for this purpose shall be used stone chips slag or gravel, consisting of clean hard tough and durable material free from soft or disintegrated particles, dirt or other objectionable matter and that sand in any quantity is objectionable and shall not exceed 15%. There is therefore no possibility of Delta using sand for this particular purpose.

Figures and specifications submitted in this report are taken from state records compiled over a number of years by the Highway Department.

The present Legislature has enacted a law to become effective Jan. 1st, 1926, which will take from the county any control they have had over State Trunk construction and maintenance, and the State will stand 100% of the costs.

Just what effect this law will have on our road problem remains to be seen.

In all fairness to the Delta County Road Commission, their Engineer and his organization wish to be understood. It is the wish of this board not to be inclined to criticize their methods, that when all things are taken into consideration, your committee is convinced that road matters in Delta County have been administered in an efficient and practical manner.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

Bad Back Brings Suffering to Many Gladstone Folks

Is that dull, constant backache making you old and miserable? Does your back throbb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going? Do you suffer headaches, dizzy spells and urinary disorders? Feel weak, tired and worn-out? Then look to your kidneys. Delay may mean serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's are recommended by Gladstone folks.

Mrs. Tom Gatter, 5 Third Ave., Gladstone, says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was a severe ache through the small of my back. When I stooped to do my household work, knife-like pains darted across my kidneys and I nearly took my breath away. I had constant headaches and at times dizzy spells came over me when little spots came before my eyes. My kidneys were weak and ached too often. After using Doan's Pills, the trouble left me."

One of the longest gambles in sport is competition in the American Bowling Congress tournament each year. Jimmy Smith, admittedly one of the country's leading bowlers, competed at Buffalo this week. He rolled in the five-men team event, the two-men team event and in the singles. His total scores in these events were 629, 576 and 544. He averaged 297, for the five men, 152 for the two-men and 181 for the singles.

Arthur Boehme, a youngster from Detroit, rolled 684 in the singles, an average of 228. He has been bowling less than one year. Tony Herman, another Detroit, rolled 634 in the singles, an average of 211. He too has been bowling less than one year.

Against these averages of 228 and 231 for two novice bowlers the man who is regarded as the best competitor bowler in America rolled 181 in the singles, and did not do much better in the other two events.

That is one reason why the A. B. C. tournament commands such a stupendous entry list each year. It is a sporting venture, in which every competitor has an excellent chance. There is no dope on which a forecast can be based.

Bee That Lay Eggs in Bricks and Wood

Sometimes as you are looking at an old wall you will notice that the mortar between the bricks contains a number of deep pits. If you probe into various holes you will be started eventually by the exit from one of them of a small, but very angry, bee. You have, in fact, disturbed the mass bee in his home. The hole in which he was lurking was made by his powerful jaws.

The female lays eggs in little receptacles at the bottom of the hole and places a store of food beside each egg. The hole is then sealed up with a mixture of clay and mortar, softened with the bee's saliva. The eggs are left to themselves, and when hatched the young bees eventually eat their way out into the open.

The comb of the mass bee is called the carpenter bee. He burrows into woodwork, choosing generally the underside of the beam, to protect the hole from rain.

At the bottom of the hole an egg is laid. Then comes a partition of mud and wood chips; then another egg, and so on till the hole is filled. The carpenter then seals it securely and leaves the eggs to look after themselves, and when hatched the bees eat through each partition till they get out.

Weather Experts to Make Study of Ocean

The influence which the ocean has upon the weather is very great. "The study of the waters of the oceans," declares Lieutenant Commander George E. Brandt of the United States navy, "will yield results worth millions of dollars to the agriculture and industry of the nation, because from this study we can get a better understanding of the weather, and will probably be able to predict the weather a year in advance, especially the periods of rainfall and drought and their duration." Commander Brandt says that the waters of the ocean are a great reservoir for storing and distributing the heat which comes from solar radiation. During each hour of sunshine more heat is being added to this great reservoir. This heat in turn is given off again by the ocean, influencing very materially the weather over land and sea. Observations made by the Smithsonian institution show that the radiation of the sun varies considerably from time to time. It is this variation, says Commander Brandt, which makes the study of weather so complicated. "Since the waters of the ocean act as an intermediate reservoir," he says, "the full effect of a change in solar radiation is not felt until some years after the change takes place."

The Head Start

By FAIRFAX DOWNEY

(© 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

TRAINER JAKE JONES, whose eyes resembled hard-boiled eggs, fixed them on Stickney McVey, giving that youth an uncomfortable sensation, as if he had eaten too much at a picnic.

"I've done right by you, Stick," declared Trainer Jake. "I've worked hard and earnest on you. You got the build, you got the strength, you got the stride of a runner. But, Judas Priest! you ain't got a getaway. Every time you get left at the post."

"The meet tomorrow with Clay is about the last chance I give you. Try and jump the gun—just once. If you try that, you may start on time after all."

And with that nasty dig, Trainer Jake took himself away.

That night Stickney McVey awoke from a sound sleep to find his bed surrounded by sinister figures in the robes and cowls of monks. By their insignia, he knew he was the recipient of a visitation from that fraternity, an honor highly coveted at Enfield college.

The boy in bed broke the silence with, "Kind of late, aren't you?" "Lateness is not inappropriate in a visit to you," the spokesman declared, and in his words there seemed to be nothing aforesaid.

Then the hooded figures spoke in unison: "Rise, base worm; gird thyself and come forth to trial by combat, boiling in oil, and other ordeals to test if thou be worthy."

"Say, you better let me off tonight," Stickney protested. "I'm in training, you know. Meet with Clay tomorrow. Got to run the hundred."

"The neophyte seems to think," sneered the leader, "that his presence in the meet will make some difference. We had not noticed that it had in the past. We come now to take over your training."

That night Stick McVey ran as he never ran before and hoped never to run again. The event he ran was the gauntlet. Four strong-armed Mu Nus were at the start of every sprint, when Stick crouched for the start. Being equipped with paddles, they insured the continuation of the impulse, and at the finish were more brethren who indulged in slips of congratulation. Finally the initiate did a fast sprint to his room, locked and barricaded the door and composed his weary, smarting body to slumber.

It was so funny that even the crowds in the Enfield stands had to laugh when their star pole vaulter's pole snapped just as he was clearing what would have been the winning height. The ludicrous fashion with which he crashed through the bamboo cross bar and the surprised expression on his face when he hit suddenly in the pit were comical indeed. But when that event gave a margin of points to the rival Clay team, the debacle lost its power to amuse.

Stick McVey, stepping none too sprightly toward the starting point of the 100-yard dash, felt many a pair of eyes on him. He winced, for he realized that now his college's hopes of victory rested largely on him. He'd jump that gun, he would. What did he care if the starter called them all back? It would show 'em he wasn't going to be late this time. No more trailing and finishing fourth for him. And then, as he dug his spikes in the starting holes, Stick knew with a horrible certainty that he was not going to be able to jump the gun—not even with the crawling training the Mu Nus had administered the night before to put fighting spirit in him. Long-formed habit was too strong. He knew in his heart that just as he was deciding to beat the starter's gun by a split second, the darn thing would go off and he would lurch forward too late in the dust of the field.

Before he started he was a beaten man.

"Ready!" ordered the starter. Eight runners rose from their haunches and caught their light, sure balances with hands resting on the cinder track, "off!" said the starter. The crowding bodies of the eight bent forward, every muscle at its utmost tenacity and nerves strung tight for the crack of the pistol.

In the bark of that weapon was lost the gentle crack of an air rifle fired from the track house, directly in rear of the starting point. The concealed marksman was Trainer Jake Jones.

Stickney McVey sprang forward as if he had been shot. As a matter of fact, he had been.

He must have covered five yards or so with his first leap and on the sixth he hit his stride. His well-muscled legs pounded up and down like the pistons of a smoothly running engine.

It was a pretty race, the 100-yard dash the stands saw that day. If only the freezing, thrilling picture could have been more lasting! The watches caught them at only two-fifths over ten seconds. Chest out, head back, Stick McVey broke the safe, gasping for breath. No Clay college man had better than seen his heels, and it was his own Enfield teammates who had crossed the line at his elbows, taking second and third places and salting away the meet.

When track men in later years, deffering to the respected opinion of Stickney McVey, asked that famous sprinter what had been the secret of his success as a runner, he was wont to display a watch charm containing a tiny BB shot, once extracted from his anatomy. That, he would admit, gave him his first real head-start.

Island of Legend

The Island of the Seven Cities was an imaginary island, abounding with gold, and adorned with superb houses and temples, whose lofty towers were visible at a great distance. According to a legend that prevailed at the time of Columbus, this island was settled by seven bishops who, having fled with a great number of people from Spain and Portugal, when those countries were conquered by the Moors, took to the ocean, and finally landed on an unknown island. After their arrival, the bishops burned the ships to prevent the return of their followers, and founded seven cities. It is said that those navigators who visited the island in after years were never permitted to return.—Kansas City Star.

Fish's Change of Color

As a quickchange artist the parrot fish has few equals. Swimming about in the tropical waters, the parrot fish is a clear turquoise green during the daytime. Finding a quiet nook among the stones and weeds, its color fades to a dull olive. Further changes go on whilst it sleeps. Numerous red-dish brown spots appear on its body.

Placed in an aquarium having a plain green bottom, the parrot fish retains its coat of green and does not put on night clothes. But if a few large stones are dropped into the aquarium, corresponding blotches appear on the sleeping fish.

The Glove in History

The use of gloves dates back to remote times. Xenophon sneered at the Persians for wearing gloves to keep their hands warm. The Greeks and Romans also scorned the use of gloves. The glove appears to have become a well-known article of dress in England about the Fourteenth century. The materials used for making leather gloves are principally the skin of deer, sheep and lambs, goats and kids, the latter being the most important, though for more kid gloves are made of sheep than of kid leather.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Nurses in the Southern hospital at Avonmouth are angered by the insolent treatment accorded them by Dr. John Lancaster, head of the institution, and there is a general feeling of unrest into which Joan Westworth, probationary nurse in training, is introduced.

CHAPTER II—Without relatives or friends, and desperate, Joan, urged by friends, goes to Doctor Lancaster's office to ask him to overlook her blunder and restate her. She overhears a violent altercation between Doctor Lancaster and other men she does not see.

A white attendant confronted her—a smiling, undersized man with square eyes—she saw the man's face.

She found herself in a large, lighted room, with the sense of an institution, and she saw the man's face.

As Joan entered an inner door began to open. Joan knew that the man with whom Lancaster had been quarreling was inside a room behind it.

Joan rose up hastily. She realized that the doctor had mistaken her for a patient. Her face meant nothing to him, any more than it had to the day had affected him.

Joan rose up hastily. She realized that the doctor had mistaken her for a patient. Her face meant nothing to him, any more than it had to the day had affected him.

"Why have you come to my house about this?" he asked. "This is not my hour for seeing patients—I mean people."

"I am sorry if I did wrong," cried the girl. "But if you know how much it means to me—"

"I can do nothing for you now," said Lancaster. The voice was harsh again, but curiously flat, as if he was trying to restrain his emotions, hold himself in; as if he was afraid, but afraid of what? Not of his anger.

Joan was standing in front of him, and even then the appearance of the man had something horrible about it to her mind. There was not the least faintness or self-consciousness about him. He looked older than in the morning, depressed, and certainly ill. His manner indicated that of one just aroused from sleep. His eyes were very bright, and his face unnaturally pale.

"I can't answer you," said Lancaster, as if speaking in his sleep. "In the interests of discipline—it is impossible to answer you now!"

"I have not been feeling well," he explained. "I was not myself when I discharged you this morning. When I refused to discuss the matter with you it was because it is an invariable rule that the nurses are not supposed to come to my house. Outside the hospital I see nobody connected with the hospital. I'll see what I can do. The matter will have to go before the board now, I suppose. Why did you come away without your breakfast? Why didn't your folks insist on your having something to eat?"

"I have no people," answered Joan. "My mother died nearly two years ago. We came here from Lanc county, and she was taken ill soon after our arrival. I hoped to get my diploma and have my profession."

"You had no breakfast, and I discharged you for fainting, and your diploma means everything to you," said Lancaster slowly, clasping his hands as if in prayer. "Remember this as long as you live," he said. "In this life people are not penalized for incapacity; they are punished for being unfortunate. Are you unlucky, Miss Westworth?"

"I—why, yes, I suppose I must be," she answered, looking at Lancaster in growing astonishment, mixed with a little fear.

"And you have sympathy for the unfortunate? You—you said something like that just now—about wishing to be of help to others. Are you loyal and staunch?"

"I hope I am," said Joan unhesitatingly. "If one is loyal to others one does not fear one's own misfortune," said Lancaster. "They rise out of some fault or weakness—if one follows the trail far enough back into one's self. I've learned that, heaven knows! Miss Westworth," he ended suddenly, "would you consider a temporary position while your case is under investigation by the board?"

"But they meet in a day or two, and then—"

Westworth, he ended suddenly, "would you consider a temporary position while your case is under investigation by the board?"

"Would you consider it?" repeated Lancaster, "if you could be of greater service than you know? Suppose I said to you as I am saying now, that you must stay here until you have shown loyalty and good will, to help of all the nurses I know, would you accept?"

"Then, Doctor Lancaster?" cried Joan, "if you have that opinion of me you have excuse for not getting the board to restate me."

"The man faltered as she looked at him. He was no longer terrible to her. He seemed to have put off some hateful armor that he assumed, and revealed weakness that none had suspected. Pity for him, a vast and heart-felt pity whose cause she was unable to divine, began to stir the girl's heart."

"I pledge you my word to do all I can for you," said Lancaster. "But you must help me in turn. I need you for this purpose. I want you to go into the country for a month. It will rest you, you see, and you can have your own country for a month. Have you ever heard of the Lancaster Institute in Drexham county?"

"I think so," answered Joan, rather doubtfully. "It is a hobby of mine. My father established it twenty-five years ago for the hill people, but the funds became squandered, and it is not in good shape now. However, it does some good, and it is the only place of its kind within a score of miles. Doctor Jenkins is in charge, and I—I run down there every now and then to see him up to the mark. There is a matron there. The cases comprise a little light surgical work occasionally, an alcoholic or two after pneumonia in its season, and—yes, there is a demented woman there, but she won't come under your care. It's in the hill country. How would you like to go?"

"I don't know what to say," answered the girl. "But you have no attachments in Avonmouth?" he asked, looking hard at her. "Nobody," but Doctor Lancaster, all my thoughts are bent on my reinstatement."

"It'll do my best for you if you will help me out with this case," he answered. "And you will get strong in a month and take up your work again with a light heart. You will have a small remuneration, and your fare, of course. You'll go?"

"I'll go," she said, and she was speaking with a pleading voice and glancing back in apprehension toward the inner door. "I shall not see you before you start, but I rely on you. You must leave at the nine o'clock train tomorrow morning. And you must speak to nobody about this understanding."

"I'll say nothing, Doctor Lancaster. And I have to thank you with all my heart."

He frowned at her. And the curious infection in his manner, the nervousness of the man, which still disquieted the girl, was in extraordinary contrast to Lancaster's appearance in the theater that morning, that she had associated with him. She was utterly bewildered.

"As she rose Lancaster came very close to her, and his voice was little more than a whisper. "I'll write to Mrs. Fraser, the matron," he said, "and I'll have the buggy brought to the station—Lancaster station, Miss Westworth. And I wish—"

But the door opened, and the white attendant slipped into the room. He stared indolently at Joan—Lancaster—"he began. "I'll see you when I am alone, Myers," answered Lancaster. "Doctor Lancaster, will you please give me a few moments of your time, said the plea Joan seemed to see the futility of his manner in his head. Suddenly the idea came to her that this must be the man whom Lancaster had berated in the consulting room."

She went out, and as soon as she was in the passage she heard the attendant begin to address Lancaster in excited tones. Then the inner door opened. She snatched that were three men, after all. Somebody was speaking in high tones; and then Lancaster's deep, booming voice rang out: "You're a fool! You don't know when you are well off. I tell you, I wash my hands of you. This is final—"

But—what? Important? Well, let her wait, then, until I get ready to see her."

The man's steps died away along the rear end of the passage. Joan heard the two men talking again. Then the sounds ceased. She heard the door in the adjoining room creak beneath a quick tread. Lancaster was coming in! Her fears gave her resolution. She would anticipate that movement, see him, insist. She left the waiting room and went into the hall.

It was hung with little pictures of a uniform size, each exactly like its neighbor. It came into the girl's mind, even during those few hasty steps, that this was essentially a man's house; a woman would have arranged things differently, have given the place personality, have made her presence felt somehow, even in the decoration of this dark passage. The atmosphere was that of an institution, not of a home.

Then she was standing with caught breath at the door of the consulting room, which was a little ajar, as if the catch had become unfastened. She knocked, opened it, and went in.

SECTION TWO—PAGE SEVEN

MANY BUY UNDER CERTIFICATES PLAN

Cars and trucks aggregating $4,000,000 have been sold under the Chevrolet Six Per Cent Purchase Certificate Plan since this copyrighted method was inaugurated among Chevrolet dealers seven months ago. The plan, regarded as a fundamental improvement in automotive merchandising, has met with such universal approval that more than 2,000 of the Certificates are sold each month. Under its provisions a prospective car owner may start with an initial payment as low as $5. If desired, a larger first payment may be made. This is followed by weekly or monthly installments until the convenience of the purchaser. These payments are then entered upon the back of the Purchase Certificate. When the sum of the payments plus the six per cent interest earned reaches one-third of the retail price the car is delivered. The balance may be met either outright or on a deferred payment plan.

Natural Steam Harnessed

At Henderson, Cal., 75 miles from San Francisco, is a power-generating plant operated by natural steam from underground. The steam comes from a depth of 300 feet and engineers say that there is enough of it beneath some 4,000 acres of volcanic land to light and heat San Francisco and run all nearby factories once it had been completely harnessed.

Doubtful Compliment

Bobby, aged six, was playing with a little girl. One of his schoolmates passed by and began to glibly: "Bobby's got a girl, Bobby's got a girl!" "Aw, go on!" retorted Bobby. "You've got one yourself, and she's worse'n mine!"—Everybody's Magazine.
