BELIEVE CONVICTS HAVE HEADED FOR LARGER CITIES

FOUR PRISON INMATES MAKE SENSATIONAL ESCAPE FROM MARQUETTE PRISON

LOCAL OFFICIALS ON WATCH

It is known definitely that the four convicts who made the most daring escape in the history of the Marquette prison last Sunday afternoon are making every effort to reach Wisconsin and make their way into the larger cities, where their chance of being captured will be greatly decreased.

The fugitives are Eddie Weisman, Vance Hardy, Joe DeFlora and Isadore Londe. They accomplished their escape during a baseball game in the prison yards Sunday afternoon. They forced two guards to act as shields, to prevent their being fired at by other officers, from the wall or yard, while they climbed a ladder provided by Weisman, and made their escape through a nearby lumber yard to the woods. They each carried an automatic pistol and plenty of ammunition.

Hardy and DeFlora are Hfers. Weisman was serving 15 to 20 years and Londe 20 to 40 years for armed robbery. All were sentenced from Detroit. Hardy is a member of the Parmanoyi shot-gun gang of that city. It is Weisman's second escape from Marquette. He got out in November 1922 with 14 other men who crawled through a steamship tunnel under the prison yard and into the basement of the warden's residence, escaping from there through a window.

Hardy and DeFlora began the execution of their daring plot about 2:30 when they met William Smith and John Warner, prison guards.

They showed pistols against them and forced them to walk through the boiler house and into the box factory, where Weisman and Londe were waiting. The two latter were carrying a 22 foot ladder which they had constructed in the box factory. Covering the guards with their pistols and threatening to shoot, if the officers made a sound or a move, the prisoners instructed them what to do in order to assist in carrying out their plot to get over the wall.

Two Are Murderers

Records of the four Wayne County criminals who escaped show that Vance Hardy was sentenced to life imprisonment last December by Judge E. Jefferies in Detroit for the murder of Louis Lambert.

Eddie Weisman was sentenced to serve 15 to 20 years after being found guilty of participating in a sold up in Detroit in 1918.

Londe was sentenced for armed robbery. DeFlora was sentenced for the murder of Daniel Glavardona.

Still on Watch for Convicts

Circulars bearing pictures and descriptions of the escaped men have been sent broadcast through the upper peninsula. All crossings and highways are blocked, and guarded by officials. It is known that they are on their way to the Wisconsin border with the intention of making their escape to the larger cities where they will have little chance of being captured at least for some time freedom will be theirs.

Held Up Gwinn Man

The convicts have made use of passing motorists, in one case holding up a coupe belonging to Everett Steer, of Gwinn, and forcing him to drive at breakneck speed toward Ishpeming. They disclosed their identity to him, and said they were heading for Wisconsin. After driving through Ishpeming, Isadore Londe, one of the culprits, took the wheel and headed toward Humbolt. At Clarkburg he crashed lost control of the car and crashed into a fence, no one sustaining injury. A few moments later, they boarded a roadster of a tourist party passing there.

The convicts are desperate characters, and it is the popular belief that someone will meet death in their capture, murder meaning nothing to them. Weisman was captured at Rapid River about two and a half years ago following his escape from Marquette at that time. He stated then that Marquette would never hold him.

Local officials have been doing their bit continually since the news of their escape arrived. K. Larson, Lindahl, Isidori and Joseph Poulin have been guarding the roads of this vicinity.

FUNERAL OF W.A. CAMERON TODAY

PIONEER RESIDENT OF GLADSTONE PASSED AWAY AFTER MONTHS OF SUFFERING

Funeral services for the remains of W. A. Cameron who passed away at his home on Wednesday morning will be held this afternoon from the Alliance Memorial Methodist church at 2:30 with Rev. H. W. Colezo officiating. Burial will be made in Fernwood cemetery.

Mr. Cameron has been ill at his home suffering from paralytic strokes at intervals for the past two years. Death came Wednesday morning at three o'clock as a relief from patient suffering. The immediate cause was apoplexy.

The deceased was a veteran engineer on the Soo Line Railroad before illness compelled him to discontinue work about 180 years ago. He was one of Gladstone's prominent and pioneer citizens.

W. A. Cameron was born at Port Huron, Michigan, September 22, 1856, and was 68 years, 9 months and 9 days old at the time of his death. He has resided in this city for the past 27 years and has been in the employ of the Soo Line for 26 years. He was a member of the Order of Macabees, Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, Knights of Pythias and a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Cameron, and seven children, Ivan, of Ramsey, Michigan, Howard of Minneapolis, Wallace who is attending the summer session of the Marquette Normal Percy, George, the Misses Alice and Marion Cameron of this city.

Wallace, Howard, and Ivan were not at the bedside of their father, when death came, but arrived later Wednesday.

The beautiful floral offerings and expressions of sympathy from local people showed the esteem and respect in which Mr. Cameron was held throughout the community. Memories will remain forever in the hearts of his many Gladstone friends.

The local Rotary Club was presented with a Cup at the Annual District meeting held at Grand Island last Saturday for the honor of being represented by the largest delegation of any club there. Eighteen members from here attended.

The local club came out at the big end of a score of 10-9 in a baseball game with Marquette and also defeated an all star team chosen from the different towns represented there in an 8-7 victory.

A musical program was furnished by the State Normal Glee Club. Roy, Tunga of Muskegon and Governor Tunga of Appleton spoke at the evening session.

The cities represented are Manistique, Marquette, Ishpeming, Iron River, Munising, Ironwood, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Menominee and the local club.

Our Reporter Observes

THAT Gladstone is by no means noted for good roads. Delta avenue bumps are very prominent. We have very few street corner crossings that are not sandy ones.

THAT many folks are planning to spend their Fourth out of town.

THAT the Child Welfare Station is a great addition to this city. Many mothers are already realizing its worth and undoubtedly it will be appreciated to a great extent as its popularity increases.

THAT summer vacationers are in evidence on all sides.

THAT the remains of the old Opera House do not contribute to the beauty of our main street. There are several cases where the clearing away of a little rubbish would improve appearances.

THAT our modicum Fourth of July celebration reveals that we lack some one to start things, and a spirit of "let's get it to the other fellow" on the part of the majority of local people.

THAT despite the "cold snap" the weather man has dealt us, gardens are improving.

THAT the local fire department in 1924 consisted of five men, a dray wagon and two horses. A picture of the equipment hangs in the Fire Hall. It was taken at the east end of Superior avenue where the Cloverland office then stood.

COMING—A FREE COOKING SCHOOL

All women interested in modern cooking methods and new ideas in food combinations will be glad to learn of the cooking school to be put on at the Community Building each afternoon for four days beginning July 5th to July 10.

The lessons will be given by a Home Economics Expert of wide experience, who has taught the art of good cooking for many years. She is Mrs. Margaret E. Brown, a graduate in Home Economics from the Indiana State Normal, and who is now connected with the Department of Food Economics of the Corn Products Refining company.

The lectures will cover every phase of cookery from the finest cakes to delicious pies and salads. Each afternoon from two until four o'clock there will be first a lecture on some particular phase of cookery or food study, followed by a demonstration illustrating the points brought out.

Mrs. Brown gives her instructions in such a manner that anyone can become a splendid cook by following the easy methods so carefully and thoroughly described by her.

There will be lectures on the proper diet for every member of the family—that each one should eat and why. Special stress is laid on food requirements for growing children, but the women folks are not neglected either, and there will be many suggestions for simple, home dishes as well as occasions for parties and festive occasions.

The classes are absolutely free, and are to be held every afternoon in the Community building from two until four o'clock.

They will start promptly, and it is urged that the women be on time for each session so as to lose none of the work so generally given.

Mrs. Brown has asked that each woman bring her note book and pencil so that she can jot down the recipes and suggestions given during the lectures.

The schedule for each day follows: Tuesday—Discussion—Food values, Menu Building. Wednesday—Oven Meals, Quick Breads, Deep Fat Frying. Thursday—Discussion—Appropriate Desserts. Friday—Puddings, Pastry, Meringues.

Thursday—Discussion—Quick and Easy methods of cake making. Demonstration—Delicious White Cake, Economy Cake, Orange Cake, Icings and Fillings. ## STAN MILLARD TO PITCH ONE GAME OF JULY SERIES

LAST SEASON'S PITCHING ACE TO DIVIDE HONORS WITH LEFTY PATTEN

LOCALS OUT TO WIN BOTH

Stanley Millard, last season's pitching ace, is expected to arrive in Gladstone Saturday morning and will be ready to take his place in one of the games with Escanaba July 4 and 5. If Millard is in shape to go in the opening game he will be used, as this game will be played here and the management feels that the local fans will welcome the chance of seeing him in action again on the Gladstone diamond.

Dividing the pitching honors with Millard will be Lefty Patten, Gladstone's superb southpaw whose twisting to date has been the talk of the upper peninsula baseball association circuit.

Gladstone will also be strengthened at one infield position for the series. The players have been out regularly this week practicing and getting in shape for this series, the most important of the season as it will determine the standing of Gladstone in the circuit. With the arrival of Millard here, the pitching staff of Millard and Patten places the locals second to no other team in that department.

Manager Tom Doolittle is anxious to win both of the games from Escanaba and the team spirit and play has been developed to a point where he believes that it can be done.

The attendance so far has not been any too good but a new record for the season should be established in the Saturday game when Escanaba plays here.

TO GIVE CONCERT SUNDAY EVENING

The Augustana Male Quartette of Augustana College, Rock Island, Illinois, will appear at the Lutheran church Sunday evening, July 5.

Martin M. Johnston is director of the group with assisting artists Verne Dowie, blind boy violinist, and Elwood Kraft pianist. Members of the quartet are Martin Johnston, second tenor, Arnold Severinus, first bass, Howard Pearce, first tenor and Carl Nelson, second bass.

They come here very well recommended and will undoubtedly render a most pleasing program, one that will be appreciated by all local music lovers.

Mr. I. N. Bushong, Gladstone, Mich. Chairman of Poor Committee. Dear Sir: A few days ago there was a complaint made in me of very grave nature and I would like to call your attention to it. If half of what I was told was true, Mr. Bushong, it would be worth while to bring some of the inmates before the Board and have them testify to those charges. I hope you will take this matter under consideration. Very truly yours, Jovite Robart.

This is being written from Winnipeg, Province of Manitoba in Dominion of Canada. Getting to this long, long ride, not less than 1200 miles by the shortest route, and over 2,000 by the route which took me here, through the straits to Detroit, across to Windsor and Toronto, Ontario and then over the line of the Canadian National Railway. The ride must be made...

Winnipeg is a beautiful city. We were told that and now we believe it. In this city and this province of Manitoba, they have everything. Everything except weather, unless you call rain weather. It was raining when our party arrived on Friday last. Shortly afterward the sun was shining. The rain and sunbats ran intermittently throughout the day, with the rain getting the better of it. This morning (June 27) Old Sol shone in all his glory. A cool breeze kept the thermometer around 60 to 62 degrees. The day clouded up before noon and as the day is stretching into the early evening, rain has come again to claim its share of attention. It's been raining since the latter part of May. The low prairie lands of Western Canada are the result of their inundation but the higher places have benefited to the extent that a new record wheat crop is in prospect. On the benefit and this will be especially so if there is a turn to dryer and warmer weather from this point on, a condition that can be anticipated with reasonable assurance of its being realized.

ONE cannot write about Western Canada, about the prairie provinces, without saying something of wheat. Wheat is the big crop here. When the wheat crop is good and the price right, this section proper, Canada is the leading export country in wheat, surpassing even the United States. Last year Canada produced 470,000,000 bushels of wheat and 300,000,000 of these were exported to other countries. The United States produced more bushels, but the volume exported was considerably less, the reason of course being quite evident, the population in the States is 14,000,000; in Canada it is 9,000,000. The astounding development in the prairie provinces is reflected in the increase in the wheat production. In 1914 the total wheat production was over 50 million bushels. Last year just past the total grain crop equaled 470 million. And the average cost of production and shipping was 42 cents lower in Canada than in the States. Also the price remained on the same level, so the reader will readily understand that the wheat grower here may be prosperous, in fact as well as in name.

CANADA makes no secret that it wants more settlers. It tells the world of the wonderful opportunities that await them. The Canadians like to have the American farmer come over the line. Not necessarily the type of farmer who already has the best of success, but rather the thrifty type, whose lack of capital has limited the opportunities in the States, where desirable land is sold at a premium. To point to the cheapness of the good land in the prairie provinces. Cheap, not because of its undesirability, but rather because of the immensity of the acreage remaining available. Virtually untouched by plow, in the States we have restricted immigration. In Canada we find "selective" immigration. It is the government's problem to bring in the desirable settlers, and to keep out the undesirable. This is being done along sane lines, and the continued development of this country this friendly neighbor is assured.

MANY things have made a favorable impression upon us during our limited stay. For one thing, the cordial welcome of the Canadian of the West, as good to come in contact in. The sincerity and wholesomeness of the hospitality extended is evident on all sides. We had always understood that we could expect this of the Westerner, but really one must actually come in contact with it to appreciate its true meaning. Among other members of the Graphic Arts Guild, meeting here, we have been banqueted, and royally entertained at every opportunity. We have heard such "celebrity" notes as from John Brachsen, Premier of Manitoba; Ralph Webb, Mayor of Winnipeg; Robert J. C. Stead, writer of clever stories of the Canadian northward, and at present in office, in the Canadian Immigration office; and finally, the spirit of friendliness and cordiality has permeated the atmosphere.

GETTING back to railroads. They get much more attention here in Canada. In the States, one usually falls back on the railroads as a last resort. That's because we have good roads and can travel much such when in motor. Here in Canada, the immensity of acreage, sparsely settled, has made the road problem one for the future. After leaving Toronto and that portion of Ontario settled by farmers, one goes over a route which takes us through hundreds of miles of timbered and cut-over land. The small communities are located on or near the railroad. The few roads are of dirt and they are limited in miles. Even to within a few miles east of Winnipeg the roads are muddy and hardly desirable for motor travel. West and South of Winnipeg, there are some roads, but getting even as far south as the States is yet a difficult drive, and seldom attempted except during a dry period. So then Canadian roads, cannot be compared with those in the States. The Dominion is progressive and the time will come when paved roads will stretch in all directions, but the time is not yet.

AMONG the places we visited, lower Fort Garry proved of greatest interest. It is situated over 15 miles north of Winnipeg and was built by the Hudson Bay company between 1831 and 1839, as the center for the fur-trading of those days. It was also the day of the fur trade, the clearing house of the junction of the great northern, southern and western trade. Here the settlers and friendly Indian tribes were wont to meet to settle their claims, and here they were prepared to defend the rights which they obtained. The buildings, the stone wall, four round tower bastions, have been retained by the company. All around the stone wall, at regular distances, are rifle holes through which those within were prepared to fire to protect themselves against enemies. There were no serious outbreaks between the tribes and the Hudson's Bay company, a fact that stands as a tribute to the pioneers who guided its destiny in the early days. The first treaty of 1870 settled the Indian problem, then and forever. In our party, there was a Mrs. Kennedy, now a resident of Winnipeg, who was born at the lower Fort Garry, and who recalled the day of the signing of the treaty, a historical event of great import.

THERE are many interesting things about Canada which we know our readers will want to read. In our next issue we shall give further expression to our observations. In a spirit of friendliness, it will be our aim to tell about what we saw of Manitoba and the other countries. The United States produced more bushels, but the volume exported was considerably less, the reason of course being quite evident, the population in the States is 14,000,000; in Canada it is 9,000,000. The astounding development in the prairie provinces is reflected in the increase in the wheat production. In 1914 the total wheat production was over 50 million bushels. A Faithful Friend by Lawrence Hawthorne. An illustration of a man and a woman in a rural setting, with a dog. Text: We ain't much on goin' places. Like so many does today. Ma ain't she got the million. Home's a duff good place. No, we don't see many people. An' we seldom gets to town. But the way we're livin' gives us. Little cause to fret an' frown. Some folks maybe gets to thinkin'. Or at least we ain't ben told it. Or that this is past an' gone. But them days has long since ended. Makes no difference where you be. So don't waste yer idle moments. Feelin' bad fer Ma an' me. We don't miss the roar an' racket. Folks in town is forced to stand. And we ain't got greedy strangers. Crowd'n' us on every hand. No, we—Well, here comes the mail man! He's a mighty faithful cuss. Look at all the readin' matter. That he's leavin' here for us!

It is the cooking oil and foodstuff of the race. The United States consuls reports from Hongkong that both imports and exports of the oil are steadily increasing. During the first quarter of 1925 import reached the high total of $738,708 and exports $571,920. Large stocks of peanut oil are always maintained in Hongkong and the local oil is crushed from nuts grown in the colony in South China and north China. Exports are shipped chiefly to nearby markets in South China, the Straits Settlements, the Philippines and Canada.—United States Commerce Reports.

(A Weekly Panorama of Events in the National Capital, by Peter Keegan for the Delta Reporter.)

SECRETARY MELLON has established a summer home at Southampton, Long Island and may hold some of the foreign debt negotiations there, Washington, according to members of the American Debt Funding Commission, gets too hot during the summer months for successful work of a nature as serious as that of debt conference. Negotiations already have been opened here for the funding of the two billion dollar debt of Italy, Belgium is to take similar action next month, and it is the hope of the Government that France, Czechoslovakia and other nations will follow suit.

THE NICHOLAS LONGWORTH family, recently added to by the arrival of the infant Paulina, is now scattered about the waters of Lake Michigan. Mrs. Longworth, the former Princess Alice, is engaged in moving into more commodious quarters on Massachusetts avenue, while little Paulina is spending the summer with her grandmother in Cincinnati.

WORKMEN HAVE descended upon the White House, taking advantage of the absence of the President and Mrs. Coolidge to make extensive repairs. Fifty thousand dollars have been appropriated by Congress for this purpose. The whole Executive Mansion will be torn up throughout the summer, and this was one of the reasons why the Presidential family had to establish an auxiliary home at Swampscott, Mass. The President, by the way, pronounces it Swampcut.

THE RADICAL bloc in the Senate has been reduced by half by the deaths of Senators LaFollette and Ladd. The two remaining "outsiders" are Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa and Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, supported at times by the Farmer-Laborite, Shipstead of Minnesota. It is now expected that the leadership of the "ultra-progressives" in the Senate will fall to George Norris of Nebraska as a Republican, but with ideas as wide and free as those of the dead LaFollette.

THE PRESIDENT has been invited to review the great parade which the Ku Klux Klan will stage down Pennsylvania avenue in August. Klan officials pointed out that the President reviewed the parade last year of the Catholic Holy Name Society, and that there was no reason why he should not do the same for them. Under present plans, from 150,000 to 200,000 Klansmen, all in white robes will take part in the spectacle. The parade license issued by the Metropolitan police provides however, that no masks be worn.

THE COOLIDGES have decided to return to the Pre-Roosevelt days, when there was no social secretary at the White House. Miss Laura Harlan, the present secretary will be retired this fall, and formal social affairs henceforth will be under the direction of the State Department. This change was based largely upon the President's policy of cutting down expenses wherever possible. Miss Harlan has received an annual salary of $5,000. The same work will now be handled by a $3,000 a year clerk in addition to his regular duties.

SOME CRITICISM is being heard among extreme drys to the new prohibition enforcement plan of the Treasury. This scheme, drafted by General L. C. Andrews, one of Secretary Mellon's assistants, and approved by the President, will remove control of enforcement from the Prohibition Commissioner and will place it directly under the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The country will be divided into twenty-two enforcement districts, and present state officials will be abolished beginning August 1st. The drys claim that the new plan will destroy cooperation between the families and the Federal Government, but the official heads, Prohibition Commissioner Haynes is said to be greatly displeased with the change in policy, which takes away nine-tenths of his authority and he is expected to resign.

NERVES ALL UNSTRUNG?

Gladstone Folks Should Find the Cause and Correct It
Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant backache; sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.
Gladstone folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles.
Mrs. E. Leroux, 42 1/2 Superior Ave., Gladstone, says: "I had a dull ache through the small of my back. Often-times I would almost cry out with sharp pains that caught me across my kidneys when I bent over to pick up anything. I felt nervous and out of sorts all over. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Doan's Pills from Stewart's Pharmacy were all that I needed to rid me of the trouble."
Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Leroux had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

TRIM ALGERITES IN FAST GAME

The Gladstone nine had their batting eyes last Sunday and the result was that the Lake Superior bunch went back on the short end of a 5 to 3 count.
Munising started out in the first stanza to sew the game up in the early innings and for a while it looked as though they would. The lead off man for Munising sent a stalling roller down to short which went through Knapp. Serio, who followed, smacked the apple for two bases and Sandstrom went to third on the hit. Corey next up took three healthy swings at the apple and went back to the dugout talking to himself. The next man to face Patten was Charlie Burns, the most dangerous hitter in the association.
Due to old Chief White's knowledge he was intentionally passed filling the bases. The next hitter was Boyak and he sent a foul fly down towards third and Callahan ended their scoring chances when he hit one at Kircher at second whom he retired easily.
After this first inning the Algerites would get on but through brilliant support by the local side would be retired before any of them could scamper across the plate; although two men were thrown out at the plate.
The Desilets crew counted two runners in the first inning, one in the second, fourth, and sixth, this ended the Uphays scoring for the day, but Munising came back in the eighth and put three runners across the old rubber before they could be subdued.
Both teams were hitting the old pill hard but Patten kept his hits well scattered. Johnston who started for Munising went to the showers in the 5th after he had been pounded unmercifully.
Vedders who replaced him, was not treated much better although they could only score once against him.
A fair crowd witnessed the game and were well satisfied with the brand of ball displayed.

Base Ball Gossip

Lloyd Ackley played a fine game at third last Sunday, handling his position like an experienced third baseman. He also connected with the pill for two bases.

Chief White sure used his brain when he signalled for four waste balls when Charlie Burns came to bat with two men on in the first inning last Sunday.

Mgr. Tommy Desilets, Knapp, Patten and Kircher each got two hits Sunday.

Word has been received that Stanley Millard, star pitcher of last year's club, is at the height of his career this season, just winning his 14th consecutive game in Jamestown, Tenn.

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO. HAS TEN SCHOOLS

The Chevrolet Motor company, expanding its policy of assuring long years of driving satisfaction thru proper service, has added three more units to its chain of service schools.
There are now ten schools in various parts of the country, each in charge of two highly skilled instructors. It is axiomatic that there always is one right way and several wrong ways of doing anything. The Chevrolet instructors teach that right way. Their classes are small—no more than six or eight men—to permit individual attention. Each week the ten schools return to the service organization between 60 and 80 graduate mechanics whose specialized knowledge of the car and its servicing equipment eliminates the element of chance and guesswork.

Born to Great Name and Great Traditions

A son born to Dr. and Mrs. George Boiling Lee is an event of wide interest to the people of the United States, particularly to those of the South. That he will bear the name of his celebrated great-grandfather, the leader of the Confederate forces, should be a source of much gratification to all who have in them the faintest vestige of sentiment, the Richmond Times-Dispatch announces.
Doctor Lee is the only living direct male descendant of the southern chieftain. The death about two years ago of his brother, the third Robert, left him to hold a unique distinction. And the distinction carried with it a heavy responsibility, for it would have been a real pity, sentimental, if not actual, for the male line from General Lee to have been broken.
The little newcomer is the fourth R. E. Lee. The first, of course, was the great southern commander in chief; the second, the general's son, who rose to the rank of captain in the Confederate army, and the third, Colonel Lee, whom thousands of contemporary Virginians remember as the genial "Bo," son of Maj. Gen. William Henry Fitzhugh (Rooney) Lee.
The fourth Robert has been born into the world as the child of fortune. If he is not wealthy in material things of life, he is fabulously rich in the high traditions of contemporary Virginia through a long line of distinguished ancestors. No blood to be found in any part of the globe is better than that of an aristocrat of aristocrats. His great-grandfather was the finest flower of Anglo-Saxon civilization, the possessor of a mind and heart that has shined lustre to the history of the race.
But, if his is a great inheritance, it entails an light responsibility. He is heir to a name that has made the hearts of his people that will be extremely difficult to fill. To bear worthily the name of R. E. Lee is no easy task. Men will expect much from young Robert. May he have the strength to live up to their expectations.

Money in Muskrat Farming
In reference to muskrat farming, I can say that there is a successfully operated farm on the eastern shore of Maryland just out of Cambridge, Md. This is conducted by a man who manufactures muskrat traps. He leased several hundred acres in the swamp lands of Maryland to use in experimenting with his traps and found the proposition so profitable that he extended the lease to cover several thousands of acres, and it is reported that he made fabulous sums from Robert. May be the strength to live up to their expectations.

Collar Button Foiled
"Although the elusive collar button has been made the subject of jokes for years, its reputation is well-earned," declared a Burlington, Vt. resident. "But I have discovered an efficient method for combating its wayward tendencies. I had my wife fix some drapes to fit on the bed and the dresser, closing up the space between these pieces of furniture and the floor. And now, when I drop a button, while it rolls straight for its usual hiding-place, it is stopped in its mad flight by the drapes. All I have to do then is to reach down, pick it up and chuck it."—Detroit News.

Sharks' Fins in Demand
The demand for shark fins is always greater than the supply, and they fetch a high price. The principal American market is San Francisco. Considerable quantities are consumed by the Chinese of the Pacific coast, but most of them are exported to China, where shark fin soup is regarded as one of the greatest of all delicacies. The fins should be at least six inches long; those of eight inches are preferred. The fish should be trimmed off them, after which they should be dried thoroughly in the sun, without salt.—Fidelity Herald.

The subject of text finding was being discussed by two clergymen in regard to addresses to married couples at wedding services.

Proof That Stone Age Man Knew Use of Iron
The use of iron was known to the Stone Age man, Dr. Albert Sauveur of the Harvard School of Engineering told the Third Pan-American Scientific Congress at Lima, Peru, the other day. Hammered implements of meteoric iron have been found in the ancient sands in Ohio.

"So simple was the operation required for extracting a small mass of metallic iron that primitive man may well have discovered it by means of a fire accidentally lighted on ground where iron ore existed near the surface," said Doctor Sauveur.

The first iron furnaces were a single excavation on the side of the hill facing the prevailing wind, with an opening at the bottom for the draft. In this appliance the ore was heated, and in contact with charcoal a small, pasty mass of iron was obtained.

These primitive furnaces were called blastfurnaces. Very early in the development of the iron industries an artificial blast was introduced. In the mouth of Europe artificial blast furnaces were used long before the Roman invasion.

It was not until the early part of the Twentieth century that steel began to take the place of wrought iron as manufactured as it was in less days of heat in the Seventeenth century. With the development of Bessemer steel, although it needed high-grade ore, wrought iron was practically obsolete. No improvement in the Bessemer process has been recorded; however, iron ore has been reduced by electricity as a source of heat and carbon as a reducing agent. Manganese steel appeared to startle the metallurgical world some years ago by its extreme resistance. It was called "Manganese steel," but it is now widely used for that purpose.—Science Review.

Tchitcherin an Eccentric
Tchitcherin, Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, has a complex nature. He works all night and sleeps during the day. This is why the foreign office messengers with lights while Moscow gets its fitful sleep.

It follows that his favorite hour for receiving visitors is midnight. When I met Brockhoff-Banzan, the German ambassador accredited to the Soviet government, he told me that he had discussed the diplomatic rupture with Germany with the commissar at two o'clock that morning.

Tchitcherin's oddities in attire and habits are proverbial. He takes pride in the fact that he has only one suit of clothes, and looks the part. A confirmed bachelor, his domicile is a bare room on the top floor of the foreign office.

Although he has a large staff, Tchitcherin is the type of person who likes to do everything, from sharpening pencils to filing papers, himself. Being absent-minded, this works many hardships. Frequently the business of the foreign office is held up for a whole night while he frantically hunts for a document that at the moment reposes in his coat pocket.—Isaac F. Marcovson, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Big Isle Basaltic Mass
The island of Egg, pronounced Egg, off the Argyleshire coast, where Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain and their family have recently been among the guests of the owner, Sir William Peterson, the shipowner, is an extraordinary mass of basaltic shafts rising from a steep rocky base, and is a conspicuous object for miles around. It has an area of about eighteen square miles and a population of some 200 persons, and its farms are noted for their sheep and highland cattle. Sport is good with winged game and there is any amount of trout fishing in the lochs. Years ago Egg was in the possession of Norsemen, and it is interesting to remember that Sir William Peterson is Danish by birth, though he is naturalized here, and had an Irish mother. A previous owner of Egg was the archeologist, ethnologist and highland historian, Laurie Thompson, who lies buried on a wild headland of an islet of Egg.—Montreal Star.

Bears All Right Now
She was visiting a certain zoo and gathering as much information about the animals as was possible in one short afternoon.

"Well," replied the keeper, slowly, "they was when they arrived, mum, but they've been all right since we cleaned 'em down with carbolic."

Amanda Jorkin, wife of the latest negro in South Carolina, was discovered by a neighbor fanning her husband as he lay on his bed.

"Am Sam sick?" ventured the caller.

"Not sacky," replied Mandy in a whisper. "He jes' needs exercise."

"Dat ain' no exercise fo' him."

"Sh-h, woman. De on'y exercise he gits an walkin' in his sleep, an' he ain' walked fo' two nights."

STILL ON LOOK-OUT FOR CONVICTS

M-15 has been partially blocked opposite the Simon Jewelry store by a wrecker for the purpose of preventing the convicts who escaped from Marquette prison last Sunday afternoon, getting away if they should take this route. Weisman, one of the quartet that escaped is the same "reasel" that led the local deputies a merry chase here a few years ago. With his pal, Salanardi they ran from the main street to the Tacoboo bridge where Salanardi gave himself up but Weisman made his way down the river to the railroad, then through the lumber yards and along the bay shore to the Rapid River railroad bridge. He then proceeded east on the railroad until near Estlin where he took to the highway and was captured when about a half mile this side of Kneism. At the time of his capture here he was surrounded by a large throng of curious people and it was the opinion of all who saw him, that he was a very desperate character. He stated that the prison would never hold him. Salanardi seemed to have been pleased with his capture. The wife of Hardy, one of the escaped convicts, spent a night in one of the local hotels about two months ago and stated at the time that she was on her way to Marquette to work and be near her husband who was serving time in the prison there. She had walked all the way from Flint, Mich., except for what rides she was offered and accepted from automobilists. After spending the night here, she proceeded on her way to Marquette by foot.

MALE QUARTET AT WHITEFISH CHURCH

The Augustana College Male Quartet of Rock Island, Ill. under the leadership of Mr. Martin Johnson will give a concert at the Swedish Lutheran church at Whitefish, Sunday forenoon at the regular services and again in the evening beginning at 8 o'clock. Master Iverne Dowie, blind boy violinist will assist the quartet in its program and also render several solo selections. The boy, who is only twelve years of age has been blind since the age of four when infantile paralysis destroyed his sight. He has attracted considerable attention through his unusual gift and progress on the violin. His tone is joyous and full of warmth of understanding and with the quartet numbers, music lovers will have an opportunity of enjoying a very creditable program, beautifully rendered. The quartet ranks as one of the very best college quartets in the country. The public is cordially invited. There will be the usual services in the morning with Rev. C. A. Lund of Escanaba, Rev. C. E. Olson of Gladstone, Rev. O. E. Hanson, of Seattle, Wash and Student Minister Anders Anderson in attendance. Rev. O. E. Hanson and family will leave Sunday evening for their home at Seattle.

JULY 4TH TO BE GREAT DAY HERE

The program committee for the 4th of July celebration met Monday evening and arranged for the day that will keep everybody on their toes from early morning until late at night. There will be the big parade, speeches, races for boys, girls and (at men). The boys and girls races will be arranged so that all those participating will be in a class of their own size or age. A ball game between the Cooks Fence Busters and the local Colts in the afternoon will furnish thrills for all. Cooks is coming prepared to wipe out the defeat sustained a few weeks ago here. A giant tug of war and a water fight by the local fire department will help wind up the days activities except for the grand finale, a dance at the Smith Annex Hall with an orchestra from Escanaba.

Memories--Rapid River

(Rapid River Locals, July 1, 1905) Levi Barbeau will take care of his camp personally the rest of this summer. He is up there now. The home of William Ackley at Whitefish was totally destroyed by fire Monday morning. The cause of the fire is not known but it is thought to be matches in the pockets of old clothes which has been thrown in the attic, where the fire was discovered. Alex Laframboise was going up the road about a quarter to seven that morning when he saw smoke coming from the gable end of the house. He warned those in the house, most of whom were in bed and Frank Ackley opened up the trap into the attic and almost fell over from the smoke. The fire spread with great rapidity, upstairs. Glen Cole and Lester White went up to Round Lake this week to fish. Walter Cole went to Nahma Sunday to see a friend. Miss Mabel Forrest is now keeping house for her father. Ed. Hill is building a sausage factory behind his house. Mr. and Mrs. Wiede attended a friends wedding at Perkin's Wednesday. Geo. Thompson came from Nahma Saturday. Mrs. Miller of Marquette visited Mrs. Hamilton Wednesday. Miss Mate Larabee of Pensacola, Fla., is visiting her relatives here. She arrived Tuesday and will stay for the summer. The Misses Schram and Emma Schultz left Tuesday for the Marquette Normal school to take the summer course.

PRISONER RECAPTURED

Harry Lee Bryant, who escaped from Marquette prison on April 22, was captured at South Bend, Indiana on June 24th. The night of his escape he made his way through here and was questioned by Deputy Sheriff Carlson but because of the meagre description received by Mr. Carlson over the telephone from Marquette, he was allowed to proceed. With two other men, he had stopped at the Carlson garage about 1:30 in the morning for gas. The following morning photographs received by mail from Marquette verified Carlson's belief that he had guessed the right man. Bryant made his way to Grand Rapids, Mich. where he roomed with a patrolman for three weeks before he was suspected and before he could be taken he had left and was later caught at his old home at South Bend. This was Bryant's third escape in three years.

SYNOPSIS

PROLOGUE:—Realizing that she has a possible chance of being saved, the Lusitania is sinking, a stranger gives a young American a package which she asks her to deliver to the American ambassador in Berlin. She is saved.

CHAPTER I:—In London, former Lieutenant Tommy Beresford and Miss Prudence Cowley, form an organization, The Young Women's Whittington. Tommy makes a business appointment with a man, Edward Whittington, who asks for a name and address, but on giving her name as "Jane Finn," who she had met on the street, Whittington shows agitation and Tompence is told to return next day.

Tompence passed a moment to admire her own ingenuity, and then said softly: "I shouldn't like to contradict you, Mr. Whittington." "So we come to the usual question—how much?" Tompence was in a dilemma. So far she had fooled Whittington with complete success, but to mention a paltrily impossible sum might awaken his suspicions. An idea flashed across her brain. "Suppose we say a little something about, and a fuller discussion of the matter later?" Whittington gave her a ugly glance. "Blackmail, eh?" Tompence smiled sweetly. "Oh, no! Shall we say payment of services in advance?" Whittington frowned.

"You're about the limit, that's what you are," he growled, with a sort of unrelenting admiration. "You took me in all right. Thought you were quite a neat little kid with just enough brains for my purpose. All the same, someone's been talking. You say it isn't Rita. Was it—? Oh, come in." The clerk followed his discreet knock into the room, and laid a paper at his master's elbow. "Telephone message just came for you, sir." Whittington snatched it up and read it. "That'll do, Brown. You can go."

"The clerk withdrew, Whittington turned to Tompence. "Come tomorrow at the same time. I'm busy now. Here's fifty to go on with." He rapidly sorted out some notes, and pushed them across the table to Tompence. The girl counted the notes, secured them in her handbag, and rose. "Good morning, Mr. Whittington," she said politely. "At least, an revoir, I should say." "Exactly. An revoir, my clever and charming young lady." Tompence sped lightly down the stairs. A wild station possessed her. "Let's give Tommy a surprise!" murmured Tompence, and hailed a taxi.

The cab drew up outside the tube station. Tommy was just within the entrance. His eyes opened to their fullest extent as he hurried forward to assist Tompence to alight. She smiled at him affectionately, and remarked in a slightly affected voice: "Say the thing will you, old bean?" "The thing?" "Of course, silly! What do you think of the idea?" "Sort of thing one reads about in books. People will wonder what in books. Anyway, it will be rather a lark." They met by arrangement the following morning and proceeded directly to the building. Tompence plunged into the building. Tommy strolled slowly down to the end of the fare was managed.

"Well," said Mr. Beresford, at length able to relieve his feelings, "Tommy! The place is stiff. I can't make anyone here." "That's odd." "Let's try again." Tommy followed her. As they passed the third floor landing a young clerk came out of an office. He hesitated a moment, then addressed himself to Tompence. "Were you wanting the Eastonia Glassware?" "Yes, please." "It's closed down. Since yesterday afternoon. Company being wound up, they say. Not that I've ever heard of it myself. But anyway the office is to let."

"Thank you very much," said Tompence. "Come on, Tompence." They descended to the street, where they gazed at one another blankly. "That's torn it," said Tommy at length. "Clear up, old thing, it can't be helped." "Can't it, though?" Tompence's little chin stood out defiantly. "Do you think this is the end?" "It is, if you're wrong. It's just the beginning." "The beginning of what?" "No, that's not it. Tommy, don't you see, if you are scared enough to run away like this, it shows that there must be a lot in this Jane Finn business. We'll get it to the bottom. We'll be sleuths in earnest!" "Yes, but there's no one left to sleuth."

"No, that's why we'll have to start all over again. Lead me that bit of pencil. Thanks. Wait a minute—don't interrupt. There?" Tompence handed back the pencil, and surveyed the piece of paper on which she had written with a satisfied eye: "What's that?" "Advertisement." "You're not going to put that thing in after all?" "No, it's a different one." She handed him the slip of paper. Tommy read the words on it aloud: "Wanted—Any information respecting Jane Finn. Apply Y. A." The day of disillusionment had been a Wednesday. On Thursday the advertisement had duly appeared. On Friday letters had right to be expected to arrive at Tommy's rooms. He had been bound by an honorable promise not to open any such letters if they did arrive, but to repair to the National gallery, where his colleague would meet him at ten o'clock. Tompence was first at the rendezvous. She enquired herself on a red velvet seat until she saw the familiar figure enter the room. "Well?" "Well," returned Mr. Beresford vigorously. "Which is your favorite picture?" "Aren't there any answers?" Tommy shook his head with a deep and somewhat overcast melancholy. "I didn't want to disappoint you, old thing, by telling you right off. It's too bad. Good money wanted." He gazed at her, there it is. The advertisement has appeared, and there are only two answers?" Tompence snatched the two precious envelopes from him unceremoniously, and scrutinized them carefully. "Thick paper, this one. It looks rich. Well keep it to the last and open the other first." "Right you are. One, two, three, go!" Tompence's little thumb ripped open the envelope, and she extracted the contents. "Dear Sir: "Referring to your advertisement in this morning's paper, I may be able to be of some use to you. Perhaps you could call and see me at the above address at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning." "Yours truly, "A. CARTER." "27 Carshall Gardens," said Tompence, referring to the address. "That's Gloucester next way. Now for the other letter. I'll read it: "Dear Sir: "Re your advertisement, I should be glad if you would call round somewhere about lunch-time." "Yours truly, "JULIUS P. HERSHIMMER." "It's said Tommy. "Do I smell a Boche? Or only an American millionaire of unfortunate ancestry? At all events we'll call at lunch-time. It's a good time—frequently leads to free food for two." Tompence nodded an eager assent. "Now for Carter. Well, we have to hurry." Carshall terrace proved to be an unimpeachable row of what Tompence called "hedge-like looking houses." They rang the bell at No. 27, and a neat maid answered the door. She looked so respectable that Tompence's heart sank. Upon Tommy's request for Mr. Carter, she showed them into a small study on the ground floor, where she left them. Hardly a minute elapsed, however, before the door opened, and a tall man with a lean, hawklike face and a tired manner entered the room. "Mr. Y. A.?" he said, and smiled. His smile was distinctly attractive. "Do sit down, please." They obeyed. He himself took a chair opposite to Tompence and smiled at her encouragingly. There was something in the quality of his smile that made the girl's usual readiness desert her. As he did not seem inclined to open the conversation, Tompence was forced to begin. "We wanted to know—that is, would you be so kind as to tell us anything you know about Jane Finn?"

"Jane Finn? Do I smell a Boche?" "Jane Finn? Ah!" Mr. Carter appeared to reflect. "Well, the question is, what do you yourself know about her?" Tompence drew herself up. "I don't see that that's got anything to do with it." "No? But if you know, really it is a fact," he continued, as Tompence way, and continued reflectively. "So that brings us down to it again. What do you know about Jane Finn?" "Come now," he continued, as Tompence remained silent. "You must know something to have advertised as you did? He leaned forward a little, his weary voice held a hint of persuasiveness. "Suppose you tell me."

"We couldn't do that, could we, Tompence?" "But, for her surprise, her companion did not back her up. His eyes were fixed on Mr. Carter, and his tone when he spoke held an unusual note of credence. "I dare say the little we know won't be any good to you, sir. But such as it is, you're welcome to it." Mr. Carter steeled round in his chair. His eyes asked a question. "Tommy nodded. "Yes, sir, recognized you at once. Saw you in France when I was with the Intelligence. As soon as you came into the room, I knew—" Mr. Carter held up his hand. "No names, please. To know as Mr. Carter here, it's my cousin's house, by the way. She's willing to lend it to me sometimes when it's a case of working on strictly unofficial lines. Well, now—be looked from one to the other—"who's going to tell me the story?" "Fire ahead, Tompence," directed Tommy. "It's your yarn."

"And obediently Tompence told it, telling the whole story from the forging of the Young Adventurers, Ltd., downwards. Mr. Carter listened in silence with a resumption of his tired manner. Now and then he passed his hand across his lips as though to hide a smile. When she had finished he nodded gravely. "Fire ahead, Tompence. Quite suggestive. If you'll excuse my saying so, you're a curious young couple. I don't know—you might succeed where others have failed. I believe in luck, you know—always have." He paused a moment, and then went on: "Well, how about it? You're out for adventure. How would you like to work for me? Expenses paid, and a moderate salary?" Tompence gazed at him. "What should we have to do?" she breathed. Mr. Carter smiled. "Just go on with what you're doing now. FIND JANE FINN."

"Yes, but—who is Jane Finn?" Mr. Carter nodded gravely. "Yes, you're entitled to know that, I think." He leaned back in his chair, crossed his legs, brought the tips of his fingers together, and began in a low monotone: "In the early days of 1915 a certain document came into being. It was the draft of a secret agreement—treaty—call it what you like. It was drawn up ready for signature by the various representatives, and drawn up in America—at that time a neutral country. It was dispatched to England by a special messenger selected for that purpose, a young fellow called Danvers. It was hoped that the whole affair had been kept so secret that nothing would have leaked out. That kind of hope is usually disappointed. Danvers sailed for England on the Lusitania. And there is a certain man, a man whose real name is unknown to us, who is working in the dark for his own ends. The Bolsheviks are behind the labor unrest—but this man is BEHIND THE BOLSHEVIKI. Who is he? We do not know. He is always spoken of by the unassuming title of 'Mr. Brown.' But one thing is certain, he is the master criminal of his age. He controls a marvelous organization. Most of the peace propaganda during the war was originated and financed by him. His spies are everywhere." (To be Continued)

"What are you doing, Mildred?" asked a fond mother. "I'm knitting mother," replied the great young thing. "I heard Jack say the other day he was afraid he'd have to buy a new muffler for his car, and I thought I'd surprise him."—Legion Weekly.

UNCLE BEN SAYS

"A cheerful frame of mind usually restrains the picture of Health."

We live in an age which demands brevity of speech. Because this has found expression in a series of names, each of which denotes a specific collection of symptoms of human life, we are apt to lose sight of the fact that "disease" simply means disease.

Worse than that, we seldom stop to consider that widely varying manifestations of disease may, and do, spring from a single cause, and as a result there is too much treatment of symptoms—too little correction of causes.

The cause of most disease is spinal interference with the flow of vital energy from the brain, through the nerves, to various organs. In the case of Mrs. Allen a simple intervertebral created symptoms indicating four distinct and serious "diseases." Spinal adjustments led to the disappearance of them all.

ALMOST EVERYTHING WAS WRONG!

"In February, 1922, my wife had a general nervous breakdown, kidney trouble and high blood pressure. She was unable to do anything—just gave up and felt she would never be any better. We called a medical doctor, who said she had leakage of the heart and must be very quiet. She got no better and was

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION WILL BE ORGANIZED

Plans are going forward for the organization of a Parent-Teachers Association when C. H. Teague, Superintendent of Schools arrives in September. No steps in organization will be taken till then. It will be talked up, and preparations made during the summer months.

A meeting was held at the Kindergarten Wednesday evening at which Supt. W. Olds of Escanaba gave a most interesting talk. He explained the good of such an association, and gave pointers in organizing same. He emphasized the fact that it would prove advantageous to the teacher as well as to the parent. "If we don't have some understanding between the two, the children, just between both, are the ones who suffer as a result." It will be arranged later to have Mrs. H. F. Ames of Escanaba, District Organizer to get things started. Mrs. Ames has been president of the Escanaba Parent Teacher Association for the past three years. The committee responsible for this step in advancement is Mesdames Phoebe Filmore, Ed. VanHorn and W. J. Moore.

GLADSTONE WILL NOT CELEBRATE JULY 4TH

For the first time in many years, Gladstone will not observe Independence Day in some manner. It appears to be a case of "leaving it to the other fellow" and the other fellow not doing anything.

For some years past, the local Firemen have taken it upon themselves to provide appropriate amusements on this day. In this case it was left up to other organizations to do something with the result that there will be no observance here.

Both Escanaba and Rapid River have planned elaborate programs. Races, music and the usual events will take place at both cities. Many local people are planning to spend the day outside of town.

RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT CHILD WELFARE CLUB

At the last meeting of the Child Welfare Club held Monday night at the kindergarten, Mrs. W. H. Corbett, was re-elected president of the organization. The other officers chosen also served the club during the past year.

Vice President—Mrs. J. D. Staple and Mrs. J. D. McDonald.
Treasurer—Mrs. L. J. Smith
The annual report of the club was read. Meetings will continue in September.

LOG ROLLERS OF WORLD TO COMPETE AT WASHBURN

(From Superior Telegram)

Washburn, Wis.—What is expected to be the best rolling contest that has ever been held in the world, and at which log rolling experts from all over the United States and foreign countries will be brought together to compete for the world's championship at Washburn Aug. 9 to 16.

There is a long list of claimants for the log rolling championship scattered throughout the country and the purpose of the meet this summer will be to bring them together to settle all disputes.

Plans are to have motion pictures taken of the events, which will enable hundreds of thousands who have never been able to witness an exhibition of this truly Northern Wisconsin sport to see the best in the world in action.

The tournament will be held in a small lake at Houghton near here. The lake in question formed from an old quarry hole is large enough, is about 60 feet deep and it is well protected from the wind which will prevent postponements and in addition has ample space about it for spectators and parked automobiles.

It is expected that the log rolling contest will attract thousands of people and will assist in attracting additional persons to the Apostle Islands resort which is held at the same time, according to those in charge here.

AROUND THE U.P.

Offered M. C. M. Post
Houghton—W. O. Hotchkiss, chairman of the state highway commission, has been offered the position of director at the University of Wisconsin, has been offered the presidency of the Michigan College of Mines at Houghton. Mr. Hotchkiss was offered a salary of $7,500 a year, which he refused. Later an offer of $10,000 was made and he is said to be considering the latter offer.

Will Vote on Highway Bond
Iron Mountain—Breitung township will vote on the proposal to issue bonds for $20,000 to pay the cost of building a new road between Quinnesec and the village of Kingsford. The road, it is claimed, will cut off about two and one-half miles over the present route in the round trip between the Ford plant and Quinnesec. Some opposition has developed to it because of the proposal to route it over Breitung avenue in the village instead of Green avenue, the village Skidmore boundary line. This is the same highway that led the Iron Mountain chamber of commerce to voice a protest against its being built on the ground that it was inimical to the interests of the city.

100 Men Work in Road Gang
Amasha—The gang of men that are laying the steel on the St. Paul road have been at Amasha for a week. Their cars are side tracked on the old Michigan mine spur. There are about 100 of them and they live in cars, which have been rigged up for sleeping and eating. The men lay about 1,000 feet of track per day. It is necessary for them to keep traffic going and so they are careful not to take out more rail at one time than they can have ready for the train when it comes along.

ROAD TO BE OPENED FOR THE FOURTH

M-12 and M-15 which has been under construction from north 2nd street to Kipling for some time will be opened to the public for the first time tomorrow, July 4th. This news is gratifying to those who have traveled the detour.

The last pour on the highway was made about two weeks ago. The fine road provided now makes up for the inconveniences experienced when this stretch was under construction.

THANK YOU

The Child Welfare Club wish to express their sincere appreciation and gratitude to all who helped in any way toward their Health Station. They are particularly grateful to the Firemen, and Mr. Marshall, who did a great deal of the painting.

BAND PLEASED AUDIENCE

The exhibition given by the Escanaba City band under the direction of J. Greenfield greatly pleased the large crowd in attendance at the city park Tuesday evening. Every number was thoroughly enjoyed.

WRITES OF JEWISH EMPIRE IN DESERT

Interesting Study of Medieval Africa by Frenchman.

Reviewing Charles de la Ronciere's recent book, "Decouvertes de l'Afrique du Moyen Age," R. Darmagnac observes that in the Middle Ages relations between Africa and Europe were much closer, more frequent and more congenial than in the succeeding "enlightened" centuries. Says L'Action Francaise:

"In the Thirteenth and Fourteenth centuries the kings of Aragon concluded a number of commercial treaties with the Arab rulers of Tunis, Tripoli, Marrakech, Fez and Sidjilmasa. Morocco was formerly the seat of a famous Jewish cartographic school, of which the influence is apparent on all of the Catalan plans. Charles V. sent Abraham Cresques's Catalan atlas to the Louvre.

"These relations between Europe and central Africa were indeed largely due to the Spanish and Moroccan Jews, polyglot by necessity and fearless international traders. They ceased at the close of the fifteenth century, when the Arabs were driven out of Spain and when the Jews, also expelled, were being massacred wholesale by the Moslems in the Sahara (1494).

"One of the most interesting chapters of M. de la Ronciere's book describes this Jewish era in the Sahara. Throughout the Middle Ages, in fact, the Jews in southern Algeria and Morocco, mentioned by St. Augustine, had extremely prosperous colonies in most of the desert. The empire of the Sahara may even have existed in the first centuries of our era. The first 42 kings of Ghenna (up to the year 790), which was the capital of a great and flourishing state, were white. Hebrew inscriptions to this effect have been found in the recently unearthed ruins of the city of Ethiopia, where there are still a few Israelites along the Blue Nile, had a Jewish king in the 17th century.

"Supporting his statement upon the persistent references to the mysterious Beni-Israel tribes and other evidence, M. Delafosse, author of 'Les Noirs de l'Afrique' and numerous other works, believes in the Jewish origin of the Peulhs. The Arabian geographer, Khordadbeh, tells us that in the Ninth century the Jews carried on a flourishing trade in slaves, opium, sword, hides and spices; and a Moroccan Jew refers to a Jewish Sahara empire whose ruler was converted to Islamism. In the Fifteenth century Malint reported the survival of a rivalry between the Jews and 'Phalintines' (the Touraregs) in the heart of the desert.

What Is Iron Made Of?

This looks like a singular, not to say foolish, question, and yet some chemists are beginning to doubt whether iron is really a chemical element. They think that instead of being an elementary substance it may be a highly complex compound, and that eventually means may be found of separating or isolating the bodies, or elements, of which iron is made up.

Different substances are ordinarily combined either by simple intermixture, as oxygen and nitrogen are in ammonia in the air, or by solution, or by chemical combination. But of late it has been suggested that there may be a fourth state of combination still more intimate than that which is implied by the usual expression "chemical union." The combination of yet unrecognized elements which make what we call iron would be an example of the fourth state.

What this conception necessitates may be judged from the fact that it seems to do away with the atom as the smallest elementary particle of matter.—Washington Star.
