PENSIONED AFTER 50 YEARS SERVICE AS AN ENGINEER

T. D. SPRINGER RETIRES WITH A GOOD WORD FOR RAILROAD HE HAS WORKED FOR

TRAVELLED 2,000,000 MILES

T. D. Springer pulled the first passenger train out of Gladstone over the Soo Line in December, 1887. Last Saturday morning when he pulled No. 8 passenger train from Weyerhaeuser, Wis. it marked the close of 38 years of service on the one run and 50 years as a railroader. It was the last. For on that day Jerry was placed on the pensioned list and as such will be permitted to reap the reward for his long and faithful service.

Parting of Old Friends
There were few dry eyes among the train crew and fellow workers at the round house when the last farewells were spoken. Jerry had been so long on the run he was known and liked by all and the news of his retirement caused a deep sorrow that was evident on all sides.

Sunday at the meeting of the B. of L. E. brotherhood, Division No. 266, Mr. Springer was made an honorary member. It was only back in February 1922 that his fellow workers had arranged a big program to celebrate the completion of 40 years of service as a railroader and member of the brotherhood.

At that time he was presented with a badge of honor and he was the recipient of many letters congratulating him for his fine record of service. These letters came from men who are now high officials in the railroad world, some of them who had worked with Jerry back in the early days in Wisconsin when the old wood burner engines were the rule.

Praises Railroad and Officials
When interviewed this week, Mr. Springer was enthusiastic in talking of the treatment accorded him by his employers, during his years of service and at this time when he is retiring.

"The officials were my friends," said Mr. Springer. "I greatly appreciate the training and the treatment which I got from them. The Soo Line was always first class to me. I worked in the company's interests because I liked my work and the treatment accorded me made it easy to do my best, always."

Mr. Springer retires at the age of 66. His first job was as a firing in 1875 on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad on the run between Portage and LaCrosse, Wis. His job then was to fire the old wood burner, No. 151. Jerry recalled even the number. It was only five years later when he was 21, that he was recommended and promoted to engineer and he stayed as such on that run until October of that year. Then he went to the southern Minnesota division of the same company.

Came to Gladstone in 1887
Jerry entered the Soo Line employment in the fall of 1886 and in 1887 he came to Delta county, at Larch Junction just four miles from Gladstone. He worked then with the crew laying the tracks for the line towards the Soo and a connection was made at McDonald Lake. In Schoolcraft county, in December, 1887. It was shortly afterward that he pulled the first passenger train out of Gladstone his first run being to Pennington Junction, now called Starks. In those days it took five hours to make the run. Now the distance is covered in three and a half hours.

During all the years that followed, Jerry seldom missed a run. A record

KITTEN BALL LEAGUE GAMES NEXT WEEK

REPRESENTATIVES OF TEAMS TO MEET WITH L. W. GORDON TO MAKE ARRANGEMENTS

If the plans now under consideration for the organization of a Kitten Ball League are completed in the next few days, Gladstone will witness the first games of the schedule in the early part or next week. Teams already organized or in the process of being formed at the present time are: from the N. W. Coopersage Plant, Veneer Mill, two teams, Saw Mill, Yard and Flooring Mill Marble Arm, Soo Line and Rotary club will probably each furnish one. A "Dark Horse" team to round out the schedule is yet to be named.

The Kitten Ball League is a form of indoor "outdoor" baseball which is being initiated here in order to give an hours recreation and fun to the tired "business man." In all probability a schedule covering the next seven weeks will be worked out. This will mean one game per week for each team, or four games in all played on two different days.

Delegates to Meet
All teams organized are asked to send representatives preferably the captain or manager of the team, to meet with L. W. Gordon in the Community Building Club rooms Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock to decide on rules, regulations, schedule, officials and choose some trophy or forfeit to be awarded according to a percentage basis at the conclusion of the season. The place where the games will be held will also be taken up.

The tentative schedule for next week follows:
August 11—Saw Mill vs. Marble Arms; Flooring Mill vs. Soo Line.
August 12, Veneer Mill No. 2 vs. Rotary club; Veneer Mill No. 1 vs. the "Dark Horse" team.

of his service shows that he pulled the passenger train for an average of 18,000 miles each year, and counting the miles traveled in his early days he has covered close to two million and a half miles. During that time he has never had an accident and up and down the line he has a reputation for handling the threat of the smoothest moving passenger train.

Will Take Things Easy
Mr. Springer will take life easy, according to his present plans. He and his family will spend much of their time at their comfortable home in this city and they will visit often with their son, George, who has a responsible position at St. Paul, Minn.

"And Now For A Little Rest"

VETERAN BASEBALL PARTNERS IN MENS' CATCHER IN TOWN CLOTHING BUSINESS

Charles E. Stewart, better known as "Ducky" Stewart, who was catcher for the local team in 1898, and again in 1914 has been in town this week.

Mr. Stewart is employed as a salesman for the Marshall Field company of Chicago and came to spend his annual vacation. He has given up baseball to some extent, although still plays catch for Marshall Field team.

Ducky just about ran the team in 1898. In reality, it was not a city team, but represented the Marble Arms Mfg. Co. He played catch and Ed. Swendsberg, also well known here, pitched. The two are responsible for baseball starting locally.

"The town's built up more although Main street looks about the same to me," Ducky remarked. He says he's heard we've got a real baseball team here this year, and is going to attend the games during his stay.

COOPERATION IN REPAIR OF MAIL BOXES ASKED

On a recent inspection of the City Letter Carrier Routes in this city, a great number of mail receptacles were found to be in poor repair, having broken doors, broken hinges, missing paper racks etc.

The bad condition of mail boxes is a great detriment to letter carriers, and the public should easily realize how the carrier's progress is impeded by boxes which are not accessible more especially when he must use both hands to insert mail into the box.

The average letter box opening is not large enough to receive papers and bulky circular matter and in such cases a paper-holder or shelf should be furnished for the receipt of papers, catalogs and other matter which could not be deposited in the box.

The Postal Laws and Regulations provide that an adequate mail receptacle or slot in door be furnished before delivery of mail shall be extended to a patron, and the same regulations provide that the service shall be withdrawn when such receptacles become a menace to the carrier's progress.

Keeping mail boxes in good repair is not only assist the carrier but will benefit the patron in the earlier receipt of his mail, and the cooperation of all persons whose boxes are now in bad order condition will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
F. A. MILLER, Postmaster.

CAR LOSES DOOR WHEN MOTOR STALLS

A Hudson Coach, property of H. Defnet of Escanaba, went home minus a door, when it stalled at the corner of Ninth and Delta Sunday night.

The Hudson was coming from Escanaba going toward Rapid River. The motor stalled just before it reached the stop sign at Ninth street. The driver motioned to a Ford, coming from the rear to go ahead. The Ford stopped at the stop sign. In the meantime, Defnet got out of the Hudson to push it to the curb. A woman was at the wheel of the Ford, which was a Wisconsin car, and in passing the Hudson took off the door.

OUTLINES PRACTICAL REFORESTATION PLAN

A practical plan for the reforestation and conservation of the National timber supply was outlined by Mayor I. N. Bushong in a talk which he delivered Monday noon at the Rotary club luncheon. He presented a mass of statistics which gave some interesting sidelights on the importance of the woodworking industries, showing that it is the seventh largest in the United States in value and third largest in the number of workers employed.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Bushong included the average consumption in the Northwestern Coopersage & Lumber company mills in this city of which he is the founder and president. He stated that it consumes 75,000 feet of hardwood logs, and from 100,000 to 110,000 feet of softwood logs daily. To secure this supply about a government employe would require cutting over 7,500 to 9,000 acres annually, or about 40 townships. Mr. Bushong quoted these figures to show how impractical the plan would be judged from the standpoint of one actually engaged in the business.

Mr. Bushong believes that the reforestation will take care of itself if the government will provide the fire protection. He pointed to the fact that second growth timber was being destroyed by forest fires. These lands, he believes should be taken over by the state, and protected against fires to assure a timber supply for future generations.

The talk was very instructive and was well received by the Rotarians and their friends who were present.

500 BLACK BASS ARE PLANTED IN ESCANABA RIVER

About 500 black bass of mature size were planted in the Escanaba river this week by members of the Escanaba Conservation League under the direction of Deputy Game Warden Charles Coon of this city, and Herman Leisner of Escanaba. The bass were caught for the state in the waters of Lake Huron, taken to St. Ignace and from there shipped on a fish car.

The fish average 10 inches or more in size and sportsmen of the county are asking that fishermen keep from fishing for them until next spring after they have had a chance to lay their eggs. This will assure a plentiful supply of this game fish for years to come. The fish were planted in the stretch of river between the railroad bridge and the dam.

Floyd W. Marble, secretary of the Gladstone Sportsmen's association declared Wednesday he had written to Secretary Baird of the "State Department of Conservation, requesting additional supplies, if available for the other larger streams of the county, among them Whitefish and Rapid Rivers.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. A. BERGMAN

OLD AND RESPECTED RESIDENT PASSED AWAY SATURDAY AT CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Arvid Bergman passed away at the Augustana hospital in Chicago, Saturday evening where she had been taken three weeks before for an operation and relief from going. Her condition was too weak to submit to an operation and she slowly sank until she quietly passed away with her husband and several of her children at the bedside.

Mrs. Bergman was a quiet, lovable woman, respected and held in high esteem by all. Slow to give expression to her thoughts, when she spoke it was words of wisdom and good cheer. An indefatigable worker for the church and for the home, she was busy without ever complaining.

Mrs. Arvid Bergman was born at Holly, Norway, January 10, 1866 and was in her 60th year when she passed away. She came to this country when a young woman and on August 4, 1890 was married to Mr. Arvid Bergman at Escanaba. They started housekeeping immediately in a home prepared on the bank of the Whitefish and lived in the same home for the 35 years of their married life.

There are five grand and six daughters blessed their union and they were all at home for the sad rites. The children are as follows: George and Milton, of Rapid River, Ore. of Cassopolis, Mich. Carl O. Carlson, Mrs. Albert Peterson, Mrs. Manfred Berquist of Rapid River, Mrs. Ed Johnson of Rock, Miss Marie of Rock Island, Ill. and Miss Emma, of Kalamazoo. There are also 15 grand children, one brother and one sister beside the husband and the children to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother. Mrs. Christina Chous of Wyndom, Mo. Dak., the sister of the deceased with her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Loberg arrived Tuesday.

Services were conducted Thursday afternoon with a short service at the home at 1:30 followed by a very impressive service at the Swedish Lutheran church at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. O. Olson of McKeesport, Penn. assisted by Rev. C. E. Olson of Gladstone conducted the services. A mixed choir from the Swedish Lutheran church of Gladstone and Escanaba rendered several very appropriate numbers that struck paths into the hearts of many. The church was crowded to its doors with sorrowing friends and relatives of the deceased.

The pall bearers were, Alex Wickstrom, G. A. Roberts, Ole G. Olson, Leonard Johnson, Carl Nelson and Peter Holmgren. The casket and room was liberally covered with many beautiful wreaths and flowers showing in a small way the sorrow and the high esteem held by all for the dear departed wife and mother.

MANAGER BERGMAN ISSUES STATEMENT

In an interview with the news reported yesterday, Manager Bergman stated that he was in the city and stated that it was not of his own choosing that his Colts are engaged in such a one-sided contest as is scheduled for next Sunday when they play the old worldie has been, pointing out the value of the old Timers. They have wished it upon themselves and must take the consequences. Mr. Bergman said, however, that he would arrange with the Auxiliary First Aid Corps to be on the grounds to give aid to them in their distress. It is a shame that the great national game should be pulled down until it becomes a mockery of the whole, foolish and feeble-minded. The would be, alas, Old Timers, never could play the old game but like the fisherman who likes to tell of the fish he caught when he was a boy and told the story so many times and added to it every time he tells it, that today the little trout has become a whale. Manager Bergman also warns the public to be careful in getting their shavers, their groceries and in mailing their parcels because heavy will be the hands that are doing it.

Charles Wauack and William Vitzke Jr. motored to Marquette Tuesday where they gave bond for the release of Frank Vitzke who was taken there last Friday on a federal prohibition charge. Frank relayed to his wife and Miss Bernice Colburn left Tuesday for Scandia where she will spend a few days visiting friends.

Orrin Lerquist, Harold Monk and Peter Lamore, Jr. are coming at Indian Lake this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lindberg of Princeton visited at the Grandchamp home here Sunday.

FRANK VITZKE HELD ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Frank Vitzke was arrested Thursday following a raid conducted by federal agents and members of the county sheriff's Department. His base of operations was a shack located on the old Walker place about six miles north of here. Very little attempt was made to camouflage its use. The building process was going on when the officers arrived and a small quantity of the mash and moon with the still was taken to Escanaba.

On Friday, Frank Vitzke appeared before U. S. Commissioner Burton at Marquette where he was held in jail at the next term of federal court. He was unable to furnish bonds and is being held in the Marquette county jail.

WILSON DEFEATED BY RAPID RIVER

COLTS BREAK LOSING STREAK BY TRIMMING WILSON BY 4 TO 3 SCORE

In a well played but hotly contested game, the Colts defeated the Wilson ball team Sunday, by the score of 4 to 3. The much heralded battery of Drafts and Lawrence of the Wilson combats did not prove to be so invincible as has been reported. Drafts started out in a no-hit effort and pitched a masterful game for six innings but then began to weaken. The defeat can be charged only to the supposedly invincible Armada. Dear children, one brother and one sister beside the husband and the children to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother. Mrs. Christina Chous of Wyndom, Mo. Dak., the sister of the deceased with her daughter, Mrs. Melvin Loberg arrived Tuesday.

HUNGRY BEAR IS FED BOYS FISH CATCH

Floyd Ross, Roger Kirch, Leslie Caswell and Lanky Nelson left Mon day for an outing and fishing trip at Bishop lake. While returning to their camp they met a bear who displaced the right of way with them but the cool-headedness and presence of mind of Roger in throwing the string of fish at the bear saved their trousers. While the bear was devouring the fish the boys made their getaway. The next morning Fire Warden Joseph Parent found two of the boys on top of the camp and two under the bed. He scolded the boys home.

REJECTS BIDS TO REPAIR TOWN HALL

TOWNSHIP BOARD MAY DECIDE TO DO WONDER UNDER LOCAL SUPERVISION

A meeting of the township board was held Wednesday night for the purpose of spending the bids for the repairing the town hall and other routine matters. Two bids were received, both rejected by the board because they were too high. The board decided to lower the ball onto a one story cement foundation put in a cement floor, new windows and doors with new frames. The township board decided to investigate the cost of material, etc. and do the work under the supervision of the highway commissioner.

The work of constructing the mile of road known as the Rice road, connecting Mill near the Buchman farm with the road built by Baldwin township to their eastern boundary, was started this week by the township with the highway commissioner in charge. With the completion of this mile of road the distance to Perkins will be less than nine miles and will also shorten the distance to points on M-36 beyond Perkins. It will open up a new route which will be beneficial to the community here and will stimulate more trade between the merchant and the farmer. It will mean also a closer relationship socially with the Perkins neighborhood.

Memories—Rapid River

(Rapid River locals, Aug. 3, 1905.) The cheese factory has been built a year now. Mr. Darrow says that if enough of the farmers will take an interest in the factory, they will have an expert cheesemaker and open it. It is up to them.

The potato crop was badly damaged by the frosts and may not last. The wheat and oats are fine, and the hay will be magnificent if the weather is right.

Louis Wolf was greatly pleased last week to receive from his wife a set of rattles from a state which was run over by her buggy. It was a large one, about four feet long. Mr. Wolf remembered how he used to kill rattlers in Lower Michigan, where they were plentiful and where they were feared from death by them. He says it is the greatest pride of his collection.

The rattler's ring of buttons is what makes a noise with when angry, and sends out a hissing sound. This one has twelve rattles and a button.

The twenty-months old daughter of Steve Dausy died Wednesday.

A farewell party was given by the Macabees Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hill, on the eve of their departure. About 75 gathered at the lodge hall, to make the parting hour merry. Mr. and Mrs. Hill and James Hill left the next night on the train, bidding goodbye to the large crowd that came to the depot to see them off.

An excursion to Munising some Sunday is proposed. The fare would be at $1.75 round trip. If enough tickets can be sold here and in Gladstone, Munising is a pretty place and worth seeing.

Ted Young is now nightwatchman as Mr. Wolf is busy daytime and has determined to put a stop to this disorder. Fred Brackett has been assisting him, and there will be a lot more for any robber who runs into them.

In all probability, some local jokers are responsible for most of the trouble in town and one of them is likely to get shot before long, when the whole town will close. It has gone far enough already. There are a large number of men carrying guns around, and some of them will use their weapons as the "holdup" men.

COLORED TEAMS VICTOR AT RAPID

McCOY-NOLAN PLAY ERRORLESS BALL AND POUND WAY TO 12 TO 4 VICTORY

The McCoy-Nolan Giants colored team from Milwaukee, Wis., pounded their way to a 12 to 4 victory here last Friday afternoon, defeating the Rapid River Colts. Lefty Statory, young pitcher who had pitched against the colored boys on the Saturday previous, pitched the first six innings for Rapid and was hit hard, 12 hits in all in a total of eight runs. Delancy pitched the seventh and eighth innings but two scratch singles in that frame and struck out four, a combination of errors gave the visitors three more runs. Statory, Millard, Gladstone's pitching ace, was on the mound in the eighth and ninth.

He was greeted in the start with a single and triple, but after that he settled down. The other two runs came in the ninth when after Olson struck out, Sobesky singled, Uebriek across. Kniskern ended the rally by grounding out. Another marker was added in the sixth on singles by Sobesky, Kniskern and Delancy, the former scoring. The other two runs came in the ninth when after Olson struck out, Thurston singled and stole and scored on Hall's single. Young grounded out and Uebriek walked, his third free trip, and Millard singled, sending Hall across. S. Olson sent a long fly to center for the final out.

SYNOPSIS

PROLOGUE.—Heating that she has a possible chance of being saved, as the machine is a young American girl, a package which she asks her to deliver to the American ambassador in England. She is saved.

CHAPTER I.—In London, former Lady "Tommy" Hershmer, and Miss Prudence Cowley, "Tuppence"—discharged Army nurse, form an adventuring party. Tuppence makes a business appointment with a man, who is Mr. Whittington, who offers her easy employment, but she declines. Tuppence is told to return next day.

CHAPTER II.—In the morning the girl finds Whittington's office deserted. She answers to an advertisement signed "Jane Finn" and the two receive notice from Mr. Carter and Miss Tuppence. It is an uncommon name, and she should not have been likely to forget it.

CHAPTER III.—Next day the two visit the Hershmer, American millionaire, living at the Plaza Hotel. He is looking for his cousin, Jane Finn, who had disappeared after landing from the Louisiana boat and employs them to search for her. They discover a certain Mrs. Vandemeyer is a Louisiana survivor, seeking information from the Tuppence recognizes Whittington in a caller on Mrs. Vandemeyer. Tommy tracks him.

CHAPTER IV.—Whittington leaves for France, Hershmer, who Tommy had summoned, follows him. Tommy tracks the two men to a high government official, who is really a high government official. He speaks of a mysterious "Mr. Brown" as head of the Bolsheviks in England, and engages the pair to attempt to find Jane Finn, whom he seeks for important reasons of state.

CHAPTER V.—Sister-sinister relations between Whittington and Mrs. Vandemeyer. Tuppence determines to spy on the latter. She discovers her maid in a cure employment in a Paris hotel.

"Presently, he seemed to get to the end of what he was saying. He got up, and so did she. She looked towards the window and asked something—I guess it was whether it was raining. Anyway, she came right across and looked out of the window. Some one came out from behind the clouds. I was scared the woman would catch sight of me, for I was still in the moonlight. I tried to move back a bit. The jerk I gave was too much for that rotten old branch. With an almighty crash, again. He replied dryly, 'You fell with a considerable portion of one of my trees, into one of my newly planted flower-beds.'

"I liked the man. He seemed to have a sense of humor. I fell sure that he, at least, was plain straight. 'Sure, doc,' I said, 'I'm sorry about the tree, and I guess the new bulbs will be in on time, but perhaps you'd like to know what I was doing in your garden?' 'I think the facts do call for explanation,' he replied. 'Well, to be in with, I wasn't after the spoons.' 'He smiled. 'My first theory. But I soon altered my mind. By the way, just as an American, are you not?' 'I told him my name. 'And you?' 'I am Doctor Hall, and this, as you doubtless know, is my private hospital.'

"I made up my mind in a flash. 'Why, doctor, I said, I guess I feel an almighty fool. It is now it to you to let you know that it wasn't the Bull's-Eye business I was up to. Then I went and sent out on my own account a girl. I trotted out the stern guardian business, and a nervous breakdown, and finally explained that I had failed to get my hands on the patients at the home, because my neutralized adventures.

"I guess it was just the kind of a story you are expecting. 'Queer face,' he said, 'but I'm glad you finished. 'Now, Doc,' I went on, 'will you be frank with me? Have you been here at any time a young girl called Jane Finn?' He repeated the name thoughtfully. 'Jane Finn?' he said. 'No.' 'You're charged, and I guess I showed it. 'You are sure?' 'Quite sure, Mr. Hershmer. It is an uncommon name, and I should not have been likely to forget it.'

"Well, that was flat. It laid me out for a space. I'd kind of hoped my search was at an end. 'That's all I was expecting,' he said. 'You're another matter. When I was hugging that damned branch I thought I recognized an old friend of mine talking to you. I was sure it was you. I didn't mention any name because, of course, Whittington might be calling himself something quite different than he is. I'm afraid I'm not very sharp at once. Mr. Whittington perhaps?' 'That's the fellow,' I replied. 'What's he doing down here? Don't tell me he's been likely to forget it.'

"Doctor Hall laughed. 'He came down to see one of my nurses, Nurse Edith, who is a niece of his. 'Why, doctor, I said at last, 'now there's another matter. 'No, he went back to town almost immediately. 'What a pity!' I ejaculated. 'But perhaps I could speak to his niece—Nurse Edith, did he say?' 'Yes, he said. 'I'll be right with you.' 'No, he went back to town almost immediately. 'What a pity!' I ejaculated. 'But perhaps I could speak to his niece—Nurse Edith, did he say?' 'Yes, he said. 'I'll be right with you.'

"That was about all I could do for the moment. Of course, if the girl was really Whittington's niece, she might be too cute to fall into the trap, but it was worth trying. My foot shot me all right. I said good-bye to the little doctor, chap, asked him to send me word if he heard from Nurse Edith, and came right away back to town. Say, Miss Tuppence, what's your name, might please?' 'It's Tommy,' said Tuppence. 'What can have happened to him?' 'Back up, I guess he's all right really. Why shouldn't he be? See here, it was a foreign-looking guy he went off after. Maybe they've gone abroad to Poland, or something like that.'

Tuppence shook her head. 'I've seen that man, Boris something, since he dined with Mrs. Vandemeyer last night.'

"Mrs. Who?" "I forgot. Of course you don't know all that."

"I'm listening," said Julius, and gave vent to his favorite expression. "Put me wise."

Tuppence thereupon related the events of the last two days. Julius' astonishment and admiration were unbounded.

"Bully for you! Fancy you a maid. It just tickles me to death! Then he added seriously, 'But say, now, I don't like it, Miss Tuppence, I sure don't. These crooks were up against would as soon catch a girl as a man any day.'

"Oh, bother me!" said Tuppence impatiently. "Let's think about what can have happened to Tommy. I've written as to Carter about it. Mr. Edith, and told him the gist of her letter."

Julius nodded gravely. "I guess that's good as far as it goes. But it's for us to get busy and do something. I guess we'd better get on the track of Boris. You say he's been to his place. Is he likely to come again?"

"He might. I really don't know." "I see. Well, I guess I'd better get a car, a sleep-up, dress as a chauffeur and hang about outside. Then if Boris comes, you could make some kind of signal, and I'd trail him. He'd be the place. He rose. "Splendid, but he mightn't come for weeks."

"Well, have to change that. I'm glad you like the plan. He rose. "Where are you going?" "To buy a car, of course," replied Julius, surprised. "It be round in it, but no hour?" "You're awfully good, Julius. But I can't help feeling that it's rather a Tuppence got up."

forlorn hope. I'm really planning my faith to Mr. Carter. By the way, I forgot to tell you of a queer thing that happened this morning."

And she narrated her encounter with Sir James Peel Edgerton. Julius was interested. "What did the guy mean, do you think?" he asked.

"I don't quite know," said Tuppence meditatively. "But I think that, in an ambiguous, legal, without prejudicial lawyer's way, he was trying to warn me."

"Why shouldn't he? See here, we don't want any lawyers mixed up in this. That guy couldn't help us any." "Well, I believe he could," reiterated Tuppence obstinately. "Don't you think it. So long. I'll be back in half an hour."

Thirty-five minutes had elapsed when Julius returned. He took Tuppence by the arm, and walked her to the window.

"There she is," said Tuppence with a note of reverence in her voice, as she gazed down at the enormous car.

Friday and Saturday passed uneventfully. Tuppence had received a brief appeal to her appeal from Mr. Carter. In it he pointed out that the Young Adventurers had undertaken the work at their own risk, and had been severely injured in the process. If anything had happened to Tommy he regretted it deeply, but he could do nothing.

"This was cold comfort. It seemed to the girl that, for the first time, she realized the sinister character of the mission they had undertaken so lightly-heartedly. It had begun like a page of romance. Now, shorn of its glamor, it seemed to be turning to grim reality. Tommy—that was all that mattered. Many times in the day Tuppence binoculars the tears out of her eyes. "Little fool," she would apostrophize herself, "don't tell me you've got your head on high. You've known him all your life. But there's no need to be sentimental about it."

In the meantime, nothing more was heard of Boris. He did not come to the flat, and Julius and the car waited in vain. Tuppence gave herself over to new meditations. "What's admitting the truth of Julius' objection, she had nevertheless not entirely relinquished the idea of appealing to Sir James Peel Edgerton. Indeed, she had gone so far as to look up his address in the Red Book. Had he meant to warn her that day? If so, why? Tuppence decided, with her usual shake of the shoulders, that she would try, and try it she would. Sunday was her afternoon. She would meet Julius, persuade him to her point of view, and they would head the lion in his den.

When the day arrived Julius needed a considerable amount of persuading, but Tuppence held firm. "He can do no harm," was what she always came back to. In the end Julius gave in, and they proceeded in the car to Carlton House terrace.

The door was opened by an irreproachable butler. Tuppence felt a little nervous. She had decided not to ask Sir James what he meant, but to adopt a more personal attitude. "Will you ask Sir James if I can see him for a few minutes? I have an important message for him."

The butler retired, returning a moment or two later. "Sir James will see you. Will you stop this way?" He ushered them into a room at the back of the house, furnished as a library. The collection of books was a magnificent one, and Tuppence noticed that all one wall was devoted to works on crime and criminology. There were several deep-padded leather arm-chairs, and an old-fashioned open hearth. In the window was a big roll-top desk strewn with papers at which the master of the house was sitting.

He rose as they entered. "You have a message for me?" "Ah—be recognized Tuppence with a smile—'it's you, is it? Brought a message from Mrs. Vandemeyer, I suppose?'"

"Not exactly," said Tuppence. "In fact, I'm afraid I only said that to be quite sure of getting in. Oh, by the way, this is Mr. Hershmer, Sir James Peel Edgerton."

"Pleased to meet you," said the American, shooting out a hand. "Won't you both sit down?" asked Sir James. He allowed forward two chairs.

"Sir James," said Tuppence, plunging boldly, "I dare say you will think it is most awful cheek of me coming here like this. What I really want to know is what you mean by what you said to me the other day? Did you mean to warn me against Mrs. Vandemeyer? Or did you, didn't you?"

"My dear young lady, as far as I recollect, I only mentioned that there were equally good situations to be obtained elsewhere."

"Yes, I know. But it was a hint, wasn't it?" "Well, perhaps it was," admitted Sir James gravely. "Well, I want to know more. I want to know just why you gave me a hint."

Sir James smiled at her earnestness. "Well, without prejudice, then, if I had a young sister forced to earn her living, I should not like to see her in Mrs. Vandemeyer's service. It is no place for a young and inexperienced girl. That is all I can tell you."

"I see," said Tuppence thoughtfully. "Thank you very much. But I'm not really inexperienced, you know. I know perfectly that she was a bad lot when I went there—as a matter of fact that's why I went—"

She broke off, seeing some bewilderment on the lawyer's face, and went on: "I think perhaps I'd better tell you the whole story, Sir James. I've a sort of feeling that you'd know in a minute if I didn't tell the truth, and so you might as well know all about it from the beginning."

"Yes, tell me all about it," said Sir James. "This encouraged, Tuppence plunged into her tale, and the lawyer listened with close attention."

"Very interesting," he said when she finished. "A great deal of what you tell me, child, is already known to me. I've had certain theories of my own about this Jane Finn. You've been extraordinarily well so far, but it's rather too bad of what you do know him as—Mr. Carter to pitch-fork you two young things into an affair of this kind. By the way, where did Mr. Hershmer learn in originally? You didn't make that clear."

Julius answered for himself. "I'm Jane's first cousin," he explained, returning the lawyer's keen gaze.

"Ah!" "Oh, Sir James," broke out Tuppence. "What do you think has become of Tommy?"

"I'm," the lawyer rose, and paced slowly up and down. "When you arrived, young lady, I was just packing up my traps. Going to Scotland by the night train for a few days. But there are different kinds of fishing. I've a good mind to stay, and see if we can't get on the track of that young chap."

"Oh!" Tuppence clasped her hands excitedly. "All the same, as I said before, it's too bad of—of Carter—to set you two babies on a job like this. Now, don't get offended, Miss—"

"Cowley, Prudence Cowley. But my friends call me Tuppence."

"Well, Miss Tuppence, then, as I'm certainly going to be a friend, I'll say about this young Tommy of yours. Frankly, things look bad for him. He's been battling in somewhere where he wasn't wanted. Not a doubt of it. But don't give up hope."

"And you really will help us?" "There, Julius! He didn't want me to come," she added by way of explanation.

"Hm," said the lawyer, favoring Julius with another keen glance. "And why was that?" "I reckoned it would be no good worrying you with a petty little business like this."

"I see." He paused a moment. "This petty little business, as you call it, bears directly on a very big business, bigger, perhaps, than either you or Miss Tuppence know. If this boy is alive, he may have very valuable information to give us. Therefore, we must find him. There's one person quite near at hand who in all probability knows where he is, or at all events where he is likely to be—Mrs. Vandemeyer."

"Yes, but she'll never tell us." "Ah, she will, if I come in. I think it quite likely that I shall be able to make Mrs. Vandemeyer tell me what I want to know."

"How?" demanded Tuppence, opening her eyes very wide. "Oh, just by asking her questions," replied Sir James easily. "That's the way we do it, you know. He tapped with his finger on the table, and Tuppence felt again the intense power that radiated from the man."

"And if she won't tell?" asked Julius suddenly. "I think she will. I have one or two powerful levers. Still, in that unlikely event, there is always the possibility of bribery."

"Sure. And that's where I come in," cried Julius, bringing his fist down on the table with a bang. "You can count on me, if necessary, for one million dollars. Yes, sir, one million dollars!"

"(To be Continued)" "Not Expected." "Gene—I love you." "Phoebe—I'm sorry, but I can't reciprocate." "Gene—Oh, that's all right. No nice girl does."

down it came, and Julius P. Hershmer with it. "Oh, Julius," breathed Tuppence, "how exciting! Go on."

"Well, luckily for me, I pitched down into a good soft bed. But it put me out of action for the time, sure enough. The next thing I knew I was lying in bed with a hospital nurse (not Whittington) on one side of me, and a little black-headed man with gold glasses, and medical man written all over him, on the other. He rubbed his hands together, and raised his eyebrows as I stared at him. 'Ah,' he said. 'So our young friend is coming round again. Capital. Capital. I think that'll do for the present, sister,' and the nurse left the room in a sort of brisk, well-trained way. But I caught her handing me out a lid-shaped bottle. 'That's a nasty twinge as I did so. A slight sprain,' explained the doctor. 'Nothing serious. You'll be about in a couple of days.' 'I noticed you walked lame,' interpolated Tuppence. Julius nodded and continued. 'How did it happen?' "He might. I really don't know." "I see. Well, I guess I'd better get a car, a sleep-up, dress as a chauffeur and hang about outside. Then if Boris comes, you could make some kind of signal, and I'd trail him. He'd be the place. He rose. "Splendid, but he mightn't come for weeks."

THE THIEF who steals in the night is a gentleman and a thoroughbred when compared to the coal operator who deliberately takes a strike in order to create a better market, with a consequent higher price for their product. It has been the same situation for the past several years. There is started a rumor of a coal strike in order to create a better market, with a consequent higher price for their product. It has been the same situation for the past several years. There is started a rumor of a coal strike when as a matter of common understanding it is simply over-production. The miners face lay-off. They are told to demand wages, to go on strike to force their demands. The coal baron needs only sit back and watch the orders come in. If they come fast enough he raises the price of coal at the mines. When the surplus is pretty well absorbed, the "Strike" is settled, the miners are given a slight advance in salary and every one concerned in the collision is ahead. All except the "dead" people who must pay the inflated price for their fuel. It seems a pity that the government has failed to remedy this annual nuisance. We hope to see the present administration succeed in breaking up the game.

ONCE when William Jennings Bryan was on a speaking tour in Europe, he made a great hit with his audience at Edinburgh, Scotland. A speaker before him had spoken on "The Yellow Peril." Bryan declared, "The only yellow peril we have is the mad brag for the yellow gold." The same peril remains.

LIVE-WIRE communities do not happen, neither are they bought. They are built by the vision of the people who live in them. Back in the nineties Grand Marais was a center of activity in the upper peninsula lumber industry. It was the principal lumber-getter county. The prosperity of its people was increased by the fall of every pine tree in the nearby forests. Then the pine gave out and the town went back. Those who had made money out of the natural resource had failed to invest any of it in the future of the town. It died a slow death and those who had made money moved away to other localities. The few who remained were either too poor, too lazy or indifferent and resigned to what the future might bring. Then came Grand Marais' second incarnation. That was when the hardwood became of value. Grand Marais in its heyday had a railroad and lumbering operations could be carried on advantageously. But this natural resource also disappeared. That was about 15 years ago. Then the railroad was pulled up. It took like the end of the years that followed the finger of decay touched every part of the village. Grass grew in the streets and houses no longer tenanted sagged into homes of tangled weeds. The people sadly admitted that Grand Marais was a "dead town."

BUT then came the automobile. This means of travel, along with the good roads which it called for, caused the rediscovery of Grand Marais. Its picturesque site with its protected deep lagoon at the foot of the hills, its pleasing summer weather on the shores of Lake Superior, made it a desirable point for the tourist. The rebuilding for the third time started. Today Grand Marais is the talk of the people of this state. It is spoken of as a town that refused to stay dead. The vision of the people who live there now will determine its prosperity of the future. Those who make a living out of the tourists may assure a lasting prosperity by investing in the future and giving the tourist fair treatment and looking always ahead. There is every reason to believe that the people who have made possible the third incarnation of the town, will have the foresight to provide for the future. Grand Marais last Saturday started a five-day celebration and a Home-Coming. Naturally this celebration is attracting statewide attention. People are anxious to know what kind of a five-day celebration a "dead" town can put on.

STARTING August 27 next, the new state law designed to prevent highway marriages will become effective. It provides for a five-day notice before a marriage license may be granted. Wisconsin and other states have a law along similar lines. Menominee and other border cities are reporting numerous hasty marriages in the excitement, largely of couples from over the line who wish to evade the provisions of their own state law. Last week a young couple from Appleton, Wis. left a dance hall between dances to come to Menominee, where the clerk to get a license, got out a justice of the peace to marry them. They returned to the dance hall in the early morning hours before the party had broken up. These young folks, the groom was 21 and the girl 20, had just not that night. "He was such a lovely dancer," the girl exclaimed. It appears that the American's idea of speed is more than outcome in such cases, and the new law should bring some benefits.

SECRETARY of State Charles J. DeLand's plan to raise the gasoline tax to three cents and do away with the license system now in use, will command the attention of every thinking citizen. His plan would provide a payment of front $3 to $5 for a license plate when the car is purchased, and this plate would remain for the life of the car. The state's revenue would then be derived entirely from the three cent tax on each gallon of gasoline. The claim is made that this would provide adequately for the building and maintenance of the state's highway system. Secretary DeLand claims that it now costs the state about $500,000 a year for distributing and securing annual license plates. There would be no increase in the cost of collecting the gas tax so the saving of half a million appears possible. And the motorist would not be inconvenienced each year in securing new plates. The gas tax became effective last March and it has already proven itself as a wise plan in raising revenue.

READERS are invited to take particular note of the answers given to this week's question in our department, "What Others Think." It deals with the trading conditions, the attitude towards the end of town buying. The answers to the question are notable in that they are all alike in one respect—each of the parties to whom our inquiring reporter put the question agreed that it was easier to buy outside than it was to buy locally. These replies are amazing because actually they are so far from the truth in making the point of buying locally, we wish we had understood to mean as applying to every community, whether in Gladstone or elsewhere. It is true that the mail order catalogs do make it appear easier to order from outside. But that is only one step in the purchase of merchandise. The sale is not complete until the merchandise is received, found to be as represented, and what is more important, that it is exactly what the buyer intended it should be. And even the most elaborate mail order catalog, which presents illustrations and descriptions in glowing terms, does not begin to compare with the opportunity to actually see and handle the goods intended to be purchased.

INsofar as price is concerned, dollar for dollar, and quality for quality, the merchant located in any community of average size and conditions is not only capable of meeting the competition of the mail order house, but can actually beat it in any of the standard goods. The exception for the mail order house is on a few of the cheaper grade of specials presented to the unwary. Just recently we referred to the mail order on an official report which disclosed the amazing fact that it cost one large mail order house $3 per cent of its gross sales to do business. This is 5 to 15 per cent more than it costs any up-to-date store in general to do business. The smaller business, run systematically and with a quick turnover, can sell for less because of its lower cost of doing business. It must be admitted though that the buyer, in order to make his purchases advantageously, must shop around, just as he would if buying from mail order catalogs; it is only right that the average wage earner who works hard and faithfully for his money, should attempt to spend it where he will get the most for it. Where it is established that he is asked to pay more for it than he would be expected to pay if purchased away from home, then it is time to take drastic action. The merchant who takes unfair advantage of the buyer is a detriment to any town and he should not be tolerated any longer than it takes to run him out.

RECENTLY we heard tell of an instance where a furniture store in a small city in Indiana successfully met mail order competition to the satisfaction of the market. The plan was a novel one but it raised the store's income from $8,000 to which figure it had dwindled, to over $100,000 the first year it was tried. This particular merchant did not have a city in the smaller cities, had simply sat back to wait for business. In ever increasing volume it passed him by. He was on the verge of bankruptcy and probably would have gone under had he possessed an idea, and been tried with sufficient courage to try it out. He advertised—not simply that he had furniture for sale—but he advertised that he would pay 10 cents for every mail order catalog brought to his store. At first the catalog came in slowly. Then they came fast. And to all who came in, the merchant explained that he would duplicate any $100 order in any of the catalogs, and that he would charge but $95. One catalog contained a big special in a dining room set and one of these the merchant secured from the same factory that manufactured it for the mail order house. The polish was removed on half of it. Then another set of a better grade the same pattern was purchased and placed alongside, and part of the polish was also removed from this. When customers interested in furniture came into the store, the merchant permitted them to judge the comparative quality for themselves. They were told that he would sell the set of the mail order house at less than it could be purchased outside. Then they were permitted to examine the other of better quality and to consider its value. It was seldom but that the better grade of furniture was sold. The buying public was no longer skeptical. The store's business increased accordingly and as already related the business jumped from $8,000 to over $100,000 the first year.

THE above incident is related to establish the fact that the merchant is not in the ability of the mail order house to undersell, but rather in the better salesmanship tactics employed by them. The small town merchant fails to tell his people about his merchandise. The fact that he carries a certain line of goods which he will sell is not sufficient. He must advertise, persistently, consistently and continually, just as the mail order house does. That is the modern way of doing business and in order to compete it must be followed. In every town, there is always a glaring example of the merchant who makes the claim that he does not have to advertise—that every body knows him. They do, and also the usually pass him by when they have money to spend. Business goes where it is invited and made welcome.

IRON RIVER boosters are agitating to make their town an incorporated city and also to submit to the people a plan to govern it under the home rule commission-manager form of charter. They have sought information from Gladstone because this city is about the same size, and it already has been proven that this particular form of charter was well suited to its needs. Patrick O'Brien, publisher of the Iron River Reporter, has taken the lead in bringing to the attention of his people the need for a change, one that he already has a strong belief will bring a lasting benefit which the people must pay. And also an improvement in the service which the people have a right to expect. Mr. O'Brien visited a short time in Gladstone last Saturday and a discussion of the possibilities there has brought out the important information that the people of Iron River are paying $11.55 per capita to run their village. Gladstone's per capita cost is $8.75. This should convince even the skeptics that there are some possibilities in a change. It appears that Iron River has preferred to remain as a village because it feared it would cost more to run it as a city. It probably might have been so under the old forms of charters, but this can hardly be expected if the voters there are wise enough to adopt the commission-manager charter and elect commissioners who will pledge themselves to appoint a manager of ability. F. R. Buecher, Gladstone's manager spoke to the business men of Iron River on Monday of this week, and we feel certain that he has already convinced them of the possibilities in the change.

22 YEARS AGO (Gladstone Delta, Aug. 1, 1903) Collector Beattie, while seated at his desk in the office of the Pioneer Fuel company last Saturday during the heavy electrical discharges which occurred during the forenoon, received a shock which rendered him almost unconscious for a time; and he has not entirely recovered from its effects. The current appears to have passed through his chest and his face is yet tender where his spectacles seem to have conducted it around his neck. Dr. Kee was called but when he arrived Mr. Beattie had recovered his strength, though his body was still sore.

Among the strange pranks of the lightning last Saturday was the dance it worked in Judge Fisher's house on Michigan Avenue occupied by August Glenfield, bridge superintendent of the Soo. The fluid came down outside the kitchen chimney heating the stove red hot though none of the family were injured. At the same time it stripped the paper and moldings from the wall of eight rooms in the house, five upstairs and three on the ground floor. At the furnace a house was damaged the same day. The tricks of the lightning are decidedly peculiar, and it is becoming rather too familiar in this vicinity.

There are 31 arc lamps in the municipal lighting circuit. They have done veteran service for years, but have worn considerably; as a result, instead of burning thirteen hours with out renewals as they would when new, most of them will only last seven or eight. A proposition is being considered to put in the more economical one hundred hour incandescent arcs which throw a brighter and much steadier light. The incandescent arc lamps are less liable to have their globes broken by stone throwers, and they would not have a heap of dead molins and shafts in each globe. The round of trimming the lamps each day is a walk of several miles and carries the trimmer in all parts of the city. The lighting of the city compares favorably with that of Escanaba, whose streets are generally dark, while here, there is almost always a light within a block of you when the current is on.

ALTHOUGH HIS power had been waning, William Jennings Bryan was the last national leader of the Democratic Party. Not that the party of Jefferson and Jackson and Wilson will not have other leaders, but at the present time, with Bryan eliminated by the hand of death, the Democrats are without a leader or spokesman with a great personal following such as Wilson and Bryan had. The men who opposed each other for the Democratic presidential nomination last year will of course be looked upon by their friends to take up the reins of leadership. John W. Davis, although defeated last year by Coolidge, is the titular leader of the party, but there are many elements which he does not bring to his support, and he is not interested in politics. McAdoo is also thought of, and it is likewise expected that the Commoner's brother Charles W. Bryan, will not hesitate to follow in the political footsteps of William J. For twenty-five years Bryan had been a power in high Democratic councils and his death causes a big void.

THERE ARE REASONS to believe that the next session of Congress will witness a fight over prohibition more intense than any which have taken place since the passage of the Volstead Act. Senators and Congressmen opposed to the bone dry prohibition law will make a strong move for liberalization on the ground that the Government is finding it impossible to enforce the law in spite of all the money that is being expended for that purpose. Dry forces are as equally insistent on the law as it now stands. Both sides, however, are determined whether they eat worms or cherries. And what if they should prove to be like the unwary human? In all the really happy families, the husband is always allowed a pipe or two to settle his nerves, following a blow from an oatmeal bowl.

THOUGH HE HAS rejected all friendly overtures from administration Republicans, Senator Brookhart of Iowa appears destined to retain his seat in the Senate despite the contest brought by his defeated Democratic opponent and the recent ingoing on at the Capital. Republican leaders fear that, should Brookhart be thrown out of his seat now, he would be a candidate again in the next election and make things hot for Senator Cummins, one of the wheel-horses of the administration. Cummins' friends are said to have suggested to the Senate committee, which is handling the case, that Brookhart be treated with absolute fairness even though he is an avowed enemy of the administration and has been read out of the Republican club.

RENEWED DISCUSSION of the world court has led certain Republican leaders opposed to permitting the United States to join the League of Nations light to call upon Senator Borah, the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, to rise up and put down this new movement before it gets much headway. Although just as opposed as any of them to any connection with the League of Nations, Borah's chairmanship of an important Senate committee such as foreign relations puts him in a position where he hesitates to openly oppose the administration. Cummins' friends in the world court are being taken care of they are said to indicate enough voted to ratify the court protocol as laid before the Senate in the Harding Administration.

YOUNG BOB LAFOLLETTE is not going to slide into his father's seat in the Senate without a fight. Several Wisconsin Republicans have bent him to it in announcing their intention to run. Some of these were supporters of Senator LaFollette, while others are "regular" Republicans who would hope, if nominated, to receive the support of the Washington Administration. Victor Barry, the Socialist, also will be a candidate. Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette, the Senator's widow, has announced that she will not enter politics as a candidate for the Senate, but will devote the rest of her life to completing LaFollette's autobiography.

MILLARD SHOWS PITCHING SKILL

BUT ERROR IN 12TH INNING GIVES IRON MOUNTAIN GAME BY 5 TO 4 SCORE

Gladstone suffered the loss of its fifth association game of the season at Iron Mountain last Sunday. The score was 5 to 4 and the deciding run came in the 12th inning, breaking up a pitching duel between Millard and Tedeschi that night, have some on the darkness had not the Ford Towners been favored by three lucky breaks, a hit batsman and two infield errors, along with a single that decided the contest.

Iron Mountain got away to an early lead when two walks and an infield error in the first inning netted them two runs. They made another in the fourth on a single and double and Gladstone was thus three runs to bat when it opened the fifth inning. That is where the local sluggers put in their work against Tedeschi, the Ford town track ball thrower. After Johnson grounded out Kircher singly and went to second on Slattery's single. After Patten flied out he scored on Jensen's single, and Slattery went to third. Gervais scored the two on his single and he scored himself a moment later on a double by Knapp. Gladstone was then a run to the good with two out and Knapp on second, Williams struck out, ending the rally.

Iron Mountain tied in their turn at bat when Feeney singled and scored on Hoffman's double. Gladstone threatened to score but twice after that, in the sixth inning an infield error and two walks filled bases with two out but Knapp ended the inning by throwing out Feeney at second. The first man up singled off Patten in the sixth and Millard was sent in to run for him. Millard went good the rest of the game and the visitors had few scoring chances, making but two hits, two getting walks and another hit batsman.

The hit batsman came to open Iron Mountain's turn at bat in the twelfth, and that is what proved the beginning to the end. Hoffman was hit and hurt so that Longpre was sent in to run for him. Walsh tried a sacrifice, Knapp scooped up the ball and threw to Kircher to force Longpre at second. Kircher fumbled, so two were on the sacks with nobody out. Millard was strong enough to pull through and he would have been but for another error, this time by Jensen. After Millard struck out Eckholm, Rahoi singled to right, Williams' throw to White held Longpre at third and White threw to Jensen to get Walsh, and when Longpre darted for home, Jensen threw to White in time to retire him at the plate. White threw back to Kircher to get Techo going to second and the runner was called safe on a close play. Soderburg was next up and he had failed to hit easily in five previous trips to the plate. He hit Millard's first pitch directly at Jensen. It was a hopping grounder and Jensen came up on it to make a quick throw. It glanced off his glove and rolled away, permitting Walsh to score the inning run.

GLADSTONE BEATS MILWAUKEE TEAM

MCCOY-NOLANS FAIL TO MAKE GOOD ON CLAIM THAT THEY COULD WIN SECOND GAME

The McCoy-Nolan Giants played their second game of the season here last Saturday and they were beaten by a 5 to 4 score in what proved to be an exciting game. The Saturday before the visitors came here and succeeded in leaving with a 6 to 1 victory. They also claimed to be able to win again so a second game was booked, and this time instead of a recruit pitcher, Stanley Millard was sent to the mound.

The colored boys got away to an early lead making a total of nine hits and scoring one run in each of the first, third, fifth and ninth innings. But that didn't prove enough to beat Gladstone for the locals pounded three runs across in the sixth, tying the count, and made one more in each of the seventh and eighth innings. The three runs came on singles by Williams, White, Patten (his third of the day) and Millard. The other in the seventh came on a single and stolen base by Knapp and a single by Williams. The last counter in the eighth was a single by Millard.

The visitors put up a fast and snappy game and Gladstone had to be going at its best to win. The McCoy-Nolans of this year are admittedly the fastest colored team traveling through this section in a number of years. They played Sunday at Trenary and then left for Points in Wisconsin. The team may be up this way again later this month at which time a play off game may be scheduled.

Base Ball Gossip

Gladstone plays at Munising Sunday and on August 14 the locals will play their first Sunday game at home since July 15 when Iron Mountain played here. Escanaba will be the opposing team in the next game here.

Iron Mountain went into third place by defeating Gladstone Sunday, leading the locals by a fraction of a game. Gladstone will again go ahead of the Ford towners if they win their next two games, even though Iron Mountain wins from Negaunee Sunday.

Gladstone has seven league games remaining on its schedule, four with Escanaba counting the one of this week Thursday, and three with Munising. These are all recognized as hard games and the locals must win the majority of them in order to lead the teams in the southern end of the association as Iron Mountain now has a small lead and but two games remaining to play, one with Negaunee and another with Crystal Falls, both regarded as comparatively easy.

Iron Mountain wants an exchange of exhibition games with the locals but the local management will later consent to play unless some understanding is reached that the Ford towners will play according to the rules. Their manager, Snyder, by name, plainly indicated that he was not only partial, but very unfair. It was the first game this writer was ever connected with where we had to admit that we could not expect fair treatment. Snyder was dirty in his talk and he was no better in his umpiring. We have seen some poor umpiring and prefer that brand, so long as it is good intentioned, to what was handed Gladstone by Snyder. For one thing he made no effort to prevent Tedeschi from doping up the ball as he pleased.

Gervais was the batting star at Iron Mountain, just as he has been in several of the games. Other features were Knapp's fielding and Millard's pitching.

Iron Mountain diamond was rough and ground hit balls were difficult to judge. This, and the off day suffered by Jensen, accounts for the loss.

The McCoy-Nolan Giants, who were defeated here last Saturday by a 5 to 4 score, may return later in the month to play the rubber each team now having one game to its credit. The colored boys showed plenty of snap but they had trouble finding Millard's pitching after the first few innings.

No other week day games are now booked to be played by Gladstone but some exhibition contests with the better teams will be booked if the fans indicate any interest. The attendence at the Escanaba game Thursday will serve as an indicator.

Lefty Patten and Chet Williams each had three singles to their credit in Saturday's game. Millard was next with two hits.

Humor has it that the Escanaba team will either be disbanded or placed under a different business management. The going has been too hard for Leo Youngs, who undertook the job. We want to say that it is no snap for anybody, but at that if Young kept his word and agreement with other folks as he did with the agreement made with Gladstone, he doesn't deserve to fare very well. For one thing, we hold against him the breaking of the agreement that he would book no games in conflict with those scheduled in Gladstone. He violated that agreement on three separate occasions.

IMAGINATION

A young man heard a lecturer say: "Of all venomous reptiles the 'cotton-mouth' is the most dangerous; a man rarely lives an hour, if bitten by one."

Later the young man went fishing. He clamored along a sheer rock wall, his rod pointing ahead of him, his bait adrift upon the water. Presently a cotton-mouth dropped into the stream before him! Then another and another. He paid no attention, for he was used to cotton-mouths. He groped with his left hand in the briars and vines, to hold himself on the ledge. Suddenly something stabbed his finger. Two pin-points trickled blood. Then the biggest cotton-mouth he ever had seen uncoiled from the vines above him.

Cold sweat broke over the young man. His hand throbbled. He felt the poison burn in his veins, paralyze his nerves. He decided to leap into the stream rather than suffer the slow death now coming. He poised to do it when a fish struck his bait. His rod went to the fighting pull of a great bass. Instinctively he thrilled to the battle—the tingling thrill of the fisherman when "a big one" hits the fly.

He landed the bass after an hour, startled over the big, fighting fish, then remembered his hand. It didn't throb any more. He took courage to probe the pinpoint wounds. In each of them he found—a long sharp harmless nettle!

Which only means that imagination can doom men to death; does doom many to failure. Fricked by a nettle, they imagine they have been bitten by the cotton-mouth; meeting a little trouble they imagine it fatal.

Don't let imagination enlarge your troubles. Tare it on the other way, making it enlarge your power to meet troubles and overcome them. Most troubles are nettles, no not cotton-mouths.—Milwaukee Journal.

THIS LOVE BUSINESS

The woman who makes a romance of business and the man who makes a business or romance: these are the central characters around whom Mrs. W. K. Clifford has woven her story, "Eve's Lover" which produced by Warner Bros. It screens from, comes to the Lyric theater on Sunday.

The woman in the case is Eve Burnside, who owns and operates a huge steel plant. The man is Baron Gerald Madrox, who lives for pleasure. How his man and woman, of such vitally different character are drawn together makes a story that scientists assert reflects a condition that is growing more and more important in modern life. The condition, they say, is that women are becoming more and more masculine and men are becoming more and more effeminate. Here the man is the dashing vine and the woman the sturdy oak. Irene Rich, Bert Lytell, Clara Bow and Willard Louis are featured in the cast.

RIN-TIN-TIN AGAIN

Rin-Tin-Tin, the celebrated "Wonder Dog," returns to Gladstone for a two night engagement at the Lyric theater beginning Friday night. This time he comes in a picture called "Tracked in the Snow Country," from an original story by Edward Munsch. Those who have seen this remarkably trained animal in "Where the North Begins," "Find Your Man" and "The Lighthouse by the Sea" will remember him with pleasure and welcome the opportunity of seeing him again.

As the title indicates, the picture has to do with the frozen north. June Marlowe, David Butler and Mitchell Lewis are prominent in the cast.

F. R. BUECHNER TELLS OF CITY PLAN

IRON RIVER ASKS CITY MANAGER TO TELL OF GLADSTONE'S EXPERIENCE IN LOCAL GOVT.

The cardinal advantages of the commission-manager form of city government and the benefits it might reasonably be expected to bring were elucidated clearly to forty business and professional men of Iron River, Monday by F. R. Buechner, city manager of Gladstone, who appeared at the call of Iron River Lions club.

Officers Efficient "There can be no criticism of Iron River's officers; they have served wisely without pay, but the system under which they are laboring is not fitted for the best administrative service," he said. "Good men who give up their time to public service and find that their best efforts are thwarted by a faulty system cannot be expected to enhance our public service. Rather they are discouraged to the detriment of the municipality."

The accomplishments of the manager system at Gladstone has won it the hearty endorsement of the people he said. During the three years it has been in operation, the tax rate has been lowered from 1.5 to 1.45 per cent without revealing the assessments. A cash surplus of $14,000 was built up, the credit of the city was increased, improvements were added, new services given, and all liabilities met without borrowing money each year. As previously, in anticipation of taxes, the city has been able, the speaker said, to pay higher wages to its employees, to give better police and fire protection and better police and fire protection and to maintain all departments of city activity without criticism.

Iron River Costs High "Gladstone although larger in population, has a lesser valuation and budget," Mr. Buechner said, Gladstone's valuation is $2,156,000 which is nearly one and a half millions less than Iron River. The Gladstone tax levy is $31,000 compared to $52,000 in Iron River. Additional revenue approximating $10,000 is received from the Gladstone municipally owned utilities.

An understanding of the comparative costs of each government, he said, can be had from the per capita cost. These he announced as follows: Gladstone $8.25, Escanaba $30, Iron River $11.85. In other words the cost of government to each person in Iron River is considerably higher than in Gladstone or Escanaba—Stambaugh Capital Reporter.

REMODELING STORE Plans have been completed by Arthur and Noble Swenson, proprietors of the Swenson Furnishing Store to remodel the interior, to some extent. For the present, an old counter, and old fashioned shelves in the rear of the building are being removed. These were used years ago, when the proprietors carried a stock of hardware articles.

It is planned to remove the balcony in the rear of the store, and tear down the partition between the front part and the rear of the building. Some interior decorating will also be done. This will add much needed space for display purposes.

"Our Wagon Passes Your Door"

WHAT OTHERS ARE THINKING

This week's Question: DO YOU THINK LOCAL PEOPLE ARE PATRONIZING

OUTSIDE INDUSTRY?
They certainly are patronizing outside industry, and more now than ever before, although it has always gone on to some extent. Mail order houses are a big inducement for them to trade outside. I am not a purchaser from outside institutions myself, so I do not know whether they get the same quality there or not, but I do know that the prices are lower. Most of the shipments coming in from outside are small packages, although, recent orders are frequent. Paints are purchased to a very great extent.

P. B. HAMMOND.
Yes, people are buying outside because they can do better both in regard to price and quality. For example, some men working for small wages could not support their families if they had to pay the prices asked for goods here. I very seldom send outside for articles, but I know that the mail order houses offer bargains in groceries and wearing apparel. Lots can't be duplicated for near the same price here. When such is the case, you can't blame folks for giving their trade to outside industry. Even surrounding cities are getting ours. Usually after a day's number of folks go to Escanaba to stock up on goods for a while.

E. D. MOORE.
Yes, I think they are patronizing outside industry, because of the inducements offered by catalog houses, and a misunderstanding between local business men and the purchasers. They don't come together on the matter, and don't understand each other. The retailer is by himself, and the purchaser is by himself, and each thinks the other not doing the right thing. I think there should be a Chamber of Commerce here, or some kind of an association between the merchants and the buying public. We are all interested in keeping our money at home, and would be willing to cooperate.

P. G. BAKER.
Yes, to a certain extent, I think outside houses are getting local patronage, but I don't believe it can be remedied. There is a certain class of people that buy at these houses, and despite all efforts they will continue to give their trade to these places. While I think that bargains are offered on some articles at mail order houses, as a general rule, they get just the quality they pay for. Then too, the catalogs come right to your door, and saving them your patronage requires little effort. If they would stop to look around they could find the same bargains here, but the mail order house values are called to their attention and accordingly they get the patronage.

GALE WESSCOTT.
I should say they are buying outside, and can't be blamed for it. Local merchants should consider their attitude toward home industry in expecting people here to patronize them. I have always patronized home town industry because I believe in sticking up for the town, and have tried to practice it, but I never yet have got that in return. No, the merchants should do their share first.

MRS. HENRY ROYER.
I think they are. Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck and such places are getting local patronage. They tell me you can buy more cheaply there, and probably can. Those places do a great deal of their own manufacturing and can afford to sell at lower prices than local merchants who have to have their goods shipped in here. There is a lot of our trade going to Escanaba. I think there is too much competition when two towns like Escanaba and Gladstone are placed so close together. Rapid River folks come here to get our bargains. We would do lots better if these towns were separated by a greater distance.

MUSCLES DEPEND ON NERVES!

Health Talk No. 31 by P. J. Mellon D. C., Ph. C.

The muscles which accomplish our movements operate by expansion and contraction. In themselves they are powerless to act, but depend upon motor nerves to furnish the power of movement, and upon sensory nerves to control and direct that power.

When a cut nerve communication and the most powerful of muscles becomes a shorn Samson. From which it will be seen that free transmission of vital energy over the nerve lines is far more important than systematic development of muscles.

In the case of Mr. Harriott, here cited, nerve pressure interrupted communication with certain muscles in his neck and the muscles remained in a state of contraction for 23 years—until pressure was removed by the only scientific method—Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments.

AFTER 23 YEARS MUSCLES AGAIN FUNCTION

"I suffered with contracted muscles of the neck for 23 years. The pain extended from my neck up into my head and right eye, and frequently I lost from two to three days a week from my work, rest was interfered with and general health suffered. I tried all kinds of medicines and many doctors without relief. After reading of Chiropractic I started taking adjustments. I obtained relief from the very first and after ten adjustments I am entirely free from pain and much improved in general health."—Archie N. Harriott, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2116—S.

PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

(By Ed. A. Nowack)
Lansing—Tom E. Johnson, superintendent of public instruction, says there are 20 counties in Michigan with an average school tax rate two and one-fifth times that of Wayne county which raise only 63 per cent as much money per child enrolled in school as does Wayne.

The oldest judge of probate in point of service in the state is Judge Durfee of Detroit. Judge Matthew Bush of Shiawassee county is second.

Township, village and city property leads the list of tax exempted real estate in Michigan with a grand total of $277,341,067 while religious organizations are next with $106,522,243. States owned property is next with a total of $53,407,465.

Michigan's lakes—inland—and her rivers are the lowest they have been in years. The reason for this is causing the men of science some concern. The Chicago water steal is generally held responsible.

Hogan's Alley, in Ecorse near Detroit, once America's wettest spot, is now comparatively dry. Many of its booze joints are padlocked. Many of its former denizens are in jail or in the grave yard. The law, man made, is enforced by state police and constant raids, which have cost bootleggers millions in lost cargoes, are discouraging the rummers.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Oscar Branty of Detroit

If you have any momentous question regarding your person, your love affairs—any matter pertaining to the heart, write and ask for advice in the matter. It will be given you free of charge by Mrs. Oscar Branty of Detroit, Michigan. Address your letters to The Delta Reporter, make them anonymous, if you choose not to have your name disclosed. Mrs. Branty's answer to your query will appear in the following issue.

Mrs. Branty, while not an elderly woman, has had considerable experience in life, and is capable of giving sound and valuable advice on any question you may have.

Dear Mrs. Branty—I am a girl of 15 years, and have fallen deeply in love with a young man 10 years my senior. Last night he proposed, and I don't know whether to accept him or not. Please tell me if you think I should marry him.

My name—Curly Hair.

No, Curly Hair, you should not marry this man. I feel certain that he is not the one for you. You should wait till you are a few years older anyway, at which time your judgment will be more mature.

Dear Mrs. Branty—I am a widow 39 years old, and would like to know if you think I should bob my hair. I hesitate to do so because it is not the same color all over. I am of the blond type and naturally have yellow hair, but have dyed it black and now it has different tints, and I am afraid the variation in shades will show if I cut short. My friends advise me to have it bobbed.—Waiting.

Waiting—Yes I'd bob my hair if I were you. Do not try your mind dwell on the variation in shades, wash your hair often, give it the best of care, and gradually it will grow in to your entire satisfaction. A bob would enable you to make use of the best of the hair before the mirror, and as I said before, forget about the different tints, and cut it off.

Dear Mrs. Branty—I am a girl of 19 years, and am keeping company with a young man of 21. What I would like to ask you is what hour of the night you would consider as a fitting time for him to make his departure. He calls four times a week, and often stays till about 11:30 and my parents insist that he leave earlier.

Pining—Yes I think your parents are right. He should leave earlier, much earlier. I should say 10:30 at the very latest. Don't sit on the porch swing or stand outside and prolong your conversation after that hour. 11:30 is altogether too late to be up 4 times a week. Pining, I certainly advise that you discontinue your acquaintance if you cannot arrange to part earlier in the evening.

Dear Mrs. Branty—I would like to ask your advice on how to get thin. I am 5 feet 7 inches tall, 18 years old, and weigh 170 pounds, which is altogether too much as you will realize. I have tried dieting, but it don't work. My stoutness troubles me so much that I will do anything to reduce. What is your opinion of reducing records? Do you think I can ever get thin?—Hope.

Hope—Of course you can get thin, but it requires tedious exercise. I say exercise because undoubtedly you take very little, and while the exercises I would suggest would not be tedious ones, they are not appeal to you. No don't use reducing records. Take natural exercise. Go swimming, dance and take Gym work. A stiff basketball schedule will decrease weight faster than anything I know of. Then again, frequent the bathing beaches during the summer months. Take hikes, and walk briskly. As to your diet, if you are in the habit of a daily soda, or weekly box of chocolate, discontinue it at once. I firmly believe you will reduce. Don't despair.

The Zenith Washer

Will wash an average tubful of clothes in 4 minutes

Will do it in four minutes without rubbing on the washboard, and without the use of any chemicals—just plain laundry soap.

The ZENITH Washing Principle

The Zenith Principle of washing clothes is different from any other, and the difference is fundamental, not simply designed for the purpose of attracting attention.

It not only saves nearly three-quarters of the time the clothes are in the suds and prevented from bunching and tangling together by a patented, smooth, aluminum cone which occupies the center of the tub, and keeps the clothes spread out in a wide circle while they are being washed. This gives the soap and water a greater chance at the dirt, just as they have on a washboard.

After the clothes are in the tub the flat, tapering rubber fingers of the agitator push them around, forth and back, through swirling churning suds. This action is carefully and scientifically timed so that the water following the clothes reaches them at just the right moment to have the greatest effect as it is passed through them.

Garments cannot catch on either the cone or the smooth rounded sides of the tub. They cannot wad up and bunch in a knot or become tangled and torn. They come up for wringing loose and open, one by one. The whole action is as perfect as though performed by trained human hands.

The Zenith will perfectly wash a tub of lace goods or lingerie in three to four minutes; a tub of blankets, rugs or such heavy materials in five to six minutes; the very dirtiest of greasy soiled clothes in eight to ten minutes. Hard to believe as these statements are, they are easy to demonstrate in a trial by a clock.

Just ask about it.
