After crediting Luther LaComb with the honor of being Gladstone's oldest resident now residing here, we must pass the prize to Philip LaBelle. Philip came here Oct. 21, 1885 at a youth of six years. Labor Day, Mr. LaComb by eighteen months, the latter having arrived in April 1887.

Mr. LaBelle came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George LaBelle, and three brothers and sisters from Pine Ridge. They came over the south hill, then slushy from the melting snow and ice. The horse slipped, dislodging a coop of fifty chickens in the rear of the wagon, and scattering the feathery creatures to the four winds. Mrs. LaBelle received a badly sprained ankle.

Our oldest resident who has resided here ever since, now lives at the corner of Eighth and Minnesota streets. He is an employee of the Soo Line.

GLADSTONE OUT FOR U. P. PENNANT

TEAM MUST WIN FROM ESCANABA TO HAVE UNDISPUTED CLAIM FOR SERIES

Escanaba will play its last game of the 1925 baseball season here Labor Day, the game to start at 3 o'clock. The county seaters are out to win mostly to settle some of the sore spots in the season's schedule. They have lost six of the eight games played with Gladstone. It was the local team that pulled Escanaba down in the league race. Earlier in the season Escanaba was able to win from other teams—but could do little with Gladstone.

On the other hand the locals must win in order to have an undisputed claim to a championship series with the league leaders, Marquette. Sunday the team plays at Munising and the next day they play Escanaba here. Stan Millard is slated to pitch at Munising and Lefty Patten to hurt against Escanaba here. If the Labor Day game leaves Gladstone with an advantage over Iron Mountain for all games played, the local management will complete arrangements for a championship series with Marquette, two games to be played Sept. 12 and 13, and in case of a tie, the third game to be decided Sept. 20.

Last where these championship games might be played is problematical. The Labor Day game might possibly be the last one here. For this reason the attendance should be large. There will be many fans anxious to see their team in action. It is the first time in many years that Gladstone has produced a championship contender. The team has been a good one, and a credit to the city.

The Soo Line band, engaged to furnish the program for Labor Day, will play at the ball park during the game.

TICKETS GOING WELL FOR BASEBALL DANCE

There has been a ready response to the sale of tickets for the dance to be given Labor Day night by the Soo Line men for the benefit of the Gladstone baseball club. Fred Kobliska, Fred Jordan and the other members of the committee have been working on the ticket sale and early in the week declared that their estimate of 500 tickets might be reached. The committee accordingly is going ahead with the plans to make the dance a successful affair.

The proceeds from the dance will be turned over to the Gladstone baseball club to take care of the treasury deficit.

HAVE SPECIAL MEETING
A special meeting of the Volunteer Firemen was held last night at the City Hall to complete arrangements for the Labor Day celebration. The matter of a Kitten ball team was also discussed. The members are very enthusiastic about joining the league and will probably fill out the balance of the schedule.

Miss Hazel Boyle resumed her duties at the Sava Rosenblum store Tuesday following a vacation spent at Beaver Island.

It Might Be Worse

RECEIVE WORD OF SON'S VAUDEVILLE LINEUP

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Burt have received word from their son Rufus, who is the manager of a Vaudeville Troupe telling them of his schedule for the next two months.

Mr. Burt is in partnership with a Chicago man, Michael Kennedy. The company put on vaudeville acts, comedies and acrobatic stunts. Their appearance here during the Firemen's Tournament a year ago will be remembered by many local people.

The schedule sent covers their performances till November 1. They will appear in North Dakota, Montana, Iowa, Washington, Oregon, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

Rufus Burt is a home town boy, having attended the schools here in his youth and local people will hear with pride of his success.

ESCANABA DEFEATS LOCAL KIDS IN GAMES

If the splay team can't beat our regulars the Escanaba kids have to be given credit for winning out in the Vacation League. The schedule commenced July 15 with eight teams in the league, and closed with the "World's Series" match between the two foremost winners, the Gladstone Tigers, and the Escanaba Midgets.

The first played at Escanaba Wednesday, August 26, was won by the Midgets, 15-5, the second here last Thursday was won by the local competitor, 13-6 and the last and deciding game at Escanaba Saturday ended 16-5 making the championship title of Escanaba. The matter of trophies has not yet been decided.

Although the local teams did not come out on the top, they have profited by the excellent training received, and will be out next summer to even up this season's forfeit to Escanaba.

The six teams remaining throughout the season are: Tigers, Bulldogs, Belgiantown, Pirates, Yanks, and Midgets.

PICTURES ON DISPLAY WILL BE FOR SALE

The thirty paintings by Rev. Carl Olson, that have been on display at the library for the past month will be taken down tomorrow, and placed on sale at the Swenson Furnishing Store. Many admirers of art have called at the school building to view the work.

The author is Rev. Carl Olson, a former resident of this city. Mr. Olson is a very able artist and has gained fame in his chosen field. He left here some time ago for McKeaysport, Penn. after a visit at the John A. Olson home, Seventh street.

A daughter, Mary Margaret, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Der Hagen on August 20.

Miss Gertrude Grandchamp of Rapid River was the guest of friends here this week.

CAUGHT BIGGER FISH THAN CHARLIE GREEN'S

A three pound brook trout's some size alright, but Philip Louis has given Charlie Green the back seat with one weighing 2 1/2 pounds. He caught it at Days River about three years ago early 1 May one evening just as dusk was coming on. At that time, Henry Blackwell was offering a fishing reel for the biggest trout he could find, and Phil presented his beauty, and took home the reel.

ARION MALE CHORUS WILL SING HERE SUNDAY

The Arion Male Chorus of Chicago is scheduled to give a performance here at the Swedish Mission church Sunday evening at eight o'clock. The chorus is composed of about forty voices and promises a rare musical treat.

Tickets were placed on sale the forepart of the week and from all indications a capacity crowd will attend.

HOLY NAME RALLY DRAWS BIG CROWD

About 1500 Holy Name Society members from towns in the vicinity to join in the annual round up held here last Sunday afternoon. Societies from Escanaba, Manistique, Perkins, Bark River, Rapid River, Cooks, Flat Rock, Perryville Foster City, Garden, Fayette, Schafer and Gladstone composed the parade several blocks long with the men marching four abreast, and carrying holy name banners, and floats showing their home town. Louis Hillenwerst, Frank Jackey and Sylvester Schram lead the march with the first in sailor uniform carrying the American flag and the two latter as guards. They were followed by the Escanaba City Band.

Many townspeople thronged the streets to view the parade and witness the services on the Parochial school grounds immediately following the march through the principal streets of the city.

Father Maier welcomed the societies and explained the purpose of the organization and the good accomplished thereby.

Attorney J. O'Hara, speaker Attorney John O'Hara of Menominee held the unwavering attention of the audience in his address on "The Religion of the American citizen under the Constitution of the United States." Hearty applause followed his statement, "I don't believe religion or freedom of worship will ever be stricken from the world by the burning of a white robed paragon, or the burning cross." He called upon the people to take more interest in politics by putting able, honest and competent men in charge of the affairs of the nation, and not sitting at home on election day while the minority frequent the polls and fill our Congress with demagogues and parasites on whom we cannot rely.

MANY TO ATTEND K.C. INITIATION AT ESCANABA

Many members of the Knights of Columbus from Gladstone and out in the county will go to Escanaba Sunday afternoon to attend the initiation ceremonies for a class of 65 that will be taken into the Escanaba Council, No. 466, J. P. Kennedy, grand knight and the members of the committee, are working hard to make the event an important one in the history of the Escanaba council.

The first degree will be conferred at St. Patrick's parish hall starting at 10 o'clock. The second degree work will begin at 1:30 and the third degree ceremonies will follow. A degree team from Wisconsin will exemplify the third degree.

In the evening there will be a big banquet served at the Coliseum for the new members, and this will be largely attended by visiting and Escanaba members of the council.

CITY MILK INSPECTION STARTED LAST WEEK

The inspection of all milk and plants from which milk is sold in this city was started last week by the city, the work being in charge of Dr. McPhail. The first test revealed several samples that were far from satisfactory, according to the inspector. No public report was made of this test, but dealers were warned that the next samples would be displayed in some downtown store, with the names of the dealers. No definite time for the inspection was set.

Charles Case has purchased a new Studebaker Sedan.

"TAPS" SOUNDED FOR SODERMAN, WRECK VICTIM

FORMER SERVICE MEN JOIN IN PAYING LAST RESPECTS AT FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

TRAGIC DEATH SADDENS CITY

"Taps" were sounded at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon for John Edward Soderman, 35, whose tragic death occurred late Sunday afternoon, near Harris when his car skidded and somersaulted over the ditch, crushing his skull. Members of the August Mattson Ford, American Legion, pals of Soderman during the World War, turned out for the funeral services to pay their last respects to the departed in military fashion.

At 2:00 o'clock services were conducted at the home in the Buckeye addition, Rev. C. E. Olson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church. Former service men lead the long line of cars from the home to the church on Michigan avenue where services were conducted, both the pastor and Rev. Fred Osoas delivering impressive talks on the life of the young man whose death has been such a sad blow. Following the church rites at the grave in Ferwood cemetery, a firing squad sent up the last volley for their dead comrade and Bugler Soren Johanson sounded taps.

Legion men served as pall bearers, John Strand, William Green, Jack Anderson, August Erickson, Alfred Holm and Jonas Isaacson. The color guard, firing squad and members of the post were the post uniform.

The total accident happened about 6:30 Sunday afternoon when Soderman was returning with a party of friends he had driven to Iron Mountain to visit over the week end, in the Studebaker passenger car were Mrs. William Ogren, an 18-months old baby; Mrs. Theodore Erickson and her baby; Jack Erickson 7, and Thelma Erickson 6 and Leonard Nyland 6. Nearing Harris near the Sundberg farm Soderman attempted to pass a Dodge sedan driven by Roy Johnson and also travelling towards Escanaba.

KNOTTY PROBLEMS IN BASEBALL

Runner on third, two out and three balls and two strikes on the batter. The next delivery was a wild pitch making the fourth ball. The runner on third scored and the batsman went to second as the wild pitch rolled to the grandstand.

Two men out and a runner on first base in the last half of the ninth inning. The game was very much one-sided, the runner stole second, and also wiped third unmolested. The fans set up a howl for him to steal home and the pitcher seeing the humor of the situation started a long wind-up and continued doing so until the runner had crossed the plate and was almost to the bench before the ball was delivered.

Two men out and a runner on first base on the surface, it would seem as though the run should count, because the runner was over the plate before the ball was delivered. However, the umpire thought the play was the wild-pitch on the part of the pitcher; its completion was the flyball which the runner caught, retiring the side. The fielder said, retiring the side not score on a play in which a batsman failed to reach first for the third out. The run does not count even though the runner had crossed home plate before he was out as it was made on, or during the play of the third out.

FORD ANNOUNCES IMPROVED LINE OF BODY TYPES

CHANGES ARE MOST PRONOUNCED—BODIES LONGER, LOWER AND ALL STEEL

Body changes and chassis refinements are more pronounced than any made since the adoption of the Model T chassis were announced here today by the Ford Motor company. There will be no advance in price, it also was stated.

Outstanding features of the improvements in both open and closed types are lower all-steel bodies on a lowered chassis, complete new design in most body types, a change from black to color in closed cars, larger, lower fenders, newly designed seats and larger, more powerful brakes.

Longer lines, effected through higher radiator and redesigned coil and bodies are apparent in all the improved Ford cars, but are especially pronounced in the open types. Wide crown fenders hung close to the wheels contribute to the general effect of lowness and smartness.

While Runabout and Touring car remains in black, the closed bodies are finished in harmonic color schemes, enhanced by nickel radiators. The coupe and Tudor bodies are finished in deep channel green while the Fordor is rich Windsor Maroon.

Greater comfort is provided for driver and passengers in both open and closed cars by larger compartments, more deeply cushioned seats and greater leg room.

Many new conveniences are incorporated in the improved cars. In the runabout, touring car, coupe and Tudor, the gasoline tank is under the cowl and filled through an inconspicuously located filler cap completely hidden from sight by a cover similar in appearance to a cowl ventilator. One-piece windshield and narrowed pillars in the Tudor and Coupe offer the driver greatly increased visibility and improved ventilation.

Driving comfort is materially increased by lower seats, scientifically improved back rests and lowered steering wheel. Brake and clutch pedals are wider and more conveniently spaced.

Four doors are now provided on the touring car and two on the runabout permitting the driver to take his place from the left side of the car. Curtains held secure by rods, open with the doors.

Most important in the mechanical changes are the improved brakes. The transmission brake drum and bands have been considerably increased in size which gives the foot brake softer and more positive action as well as longer life. The rear wheel brake drums are larger and the brake of self-energizing type.

Cord tires are now standard equipment on all Ford cars.

PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

Lansing—Electrification of Michigan is proceeding at the rate of 5,429 customers each month, reports say. Last year saw added 17,157 new customers, making a total of 196,931 customers now being served by Michigan electric companies.

The price for iron and steel is soaring and business experts see in this an indication that business, industrial, is getting better. One Detroit manufacturer last month put 700,000 tons of scrap on the market, one month's cutting.

The Consumers Power company serves 125 Michigan cities and towns. It has twenty thousand customers, serves two thousand essential industries in 32 counties covering 45,909 square miles with a population of 890,000 that benefits from the service. The company has 37 power plants, totaling a quarter of a million horsepower including 23 water power plants interconnected by 1,390 miles of super-power lower lines and 3,900 miles of city lines. It has eight gas plants and 4,900 employees.

The Irish Hills in Lenawee county are said to be among the most scenic in Michigan.

Various cities now are planning rural parks. Persons are demarcating land outside the city limits to various municipalities with the understanding that parks are to result. The auto is making such parks accessible to the city folks.

Efforts are being made to secure another road through the exclusive Grasse Point district along the shores of Lake St. Clair. The common folks want to ride along in easier comfort and enjoy the millionaires' elegant mansions. The millionaires object.

Misaukee county is one of the few counties in the state that has never bonded for good roads but gets as she goes. Her 82 miles of trunk lines were mostly county roads at first. She has nearly 160 miles of fine gravel roads in addition.

The city of Manistee at one time is believed to have occupied the bed of an old salt sea. There is enough salt in the Manistee district to serve the nation for the next 25 million years.

Road houses near Detroit, where old passion hark in the shadows, are lunge thru with youth while deceit and lies many hard bumps these days due to law enforcing agencies.

City police records throughout Michigan indicate that the police and fire alarm signal boxes along the curbs are favorite items for motorists to knock down.

There is no lost motion or pile time in Henry Ford's factory tire fitting departments. The tire fitters are stationed at steel drill presses 20 feet from their tire truck so they can keep out of mischief during the time there is no call. When the alarm sounds the boys just drop around and rush for the apparatus.

During the last four years Detroit's school population has increased from 239,112 to 313,973.

Three hundred eighty-nine men who robbed others and who pilaged homes in Detroit have returned to their victims a total of $25,715 during the last few months as part of their probation reclamation.

State police have been instructed to arrest all one-eyed autos that are caught out after dark in an effort to halt the abuse of the state law in that respect.

Baraga gets an increase of $15,492.60 in her primary school money while L'Anse gets an increase of $3,653.10 so Tom Johnson, superintendent of Public Instruction reports.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This Gladstone Woman Who Tells Her Experience

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that headache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakness. Kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This Gladstone case is one of many:

Mrs. Z. LaBumard, 722 Superior Ave., says: "I had a dull, nagging ache through the small of my back which hurt me constantly. The muscles in my back and limbs were lame and sore. My kidneys didn't act right and I felt run down and all out of sorts. I used Doan's Pills and they drove the trouble away."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. LaBumard had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

TO PAY the war debt of approximately $21,000,000,000 during the next 25 years is described as a "piece of high financing unparalleled in the world's history." They may be some pleasure in hoping for such a goal—but how much better might it not be the hope—could be that there never again would be such enormous sums spent in making war on fellow humans? The 21 billions represent only a fair portion of what this country spent to make the "world safe" for democracy. Every country, almost every important one, was involved more or less. To think that such stupendous sums should be spent in killing when a small fraction spent in educating a selfish world against the petty hatreds and selfishness that cause these wars, might save humanity from such a scourge as the World War proved itself to be. And the trouble is that too many of us are ashamed to speak our thoughts in plain language to the fellow who talks peace. The bravado affected by those who talk war appeals to the masses. So afraid to be classed as pacifists, against their own better thoughts, majority allow the few who profit to work them into a spirit of war. And getting back to the war debt. Desirable as it may seem to clear it, yet if its existence causes public thought on the senselessness of waging war, may it stand forever as a reminder. This writer has seen just enough of war to prepare to fight to prevent another.

THE "would-be" eloquents will be reminded of one news item. That is the one requiring a five-day wait between the application and issuance of a license.

WE HAVE our own war orphans. And we must give them as good training as good a home, make them as loyal American citizens with the same chance their fathers would have given them had they not been victims of disease and bullets during the great conflict of 1917 and 1918. That is the way Joseph Fordy of Saginaw, former Congressman and at present chairman of the Michigan Executive committee for the American Legion Endowment fund, tells the people of Michigan what they must do for those whose homes or health have been broken by their service to their country in time of war. The Endowment fund has been set at $5,000,000, an insignificant sum when it is remembered that many times that much was being spent every day that the war lasted. The income from that fund will be used to help those war orphans and crippled, especially those who need care not already provided for through the existing governmental agencies. Gladstone's quota has been set at $300 and while no direct attempt has yet been made to raise that amount, Gladstone's August Mattson Post has been delegated, with the task of doing so. We say task advisedly, for the reason that worthy as the cause is, considerable effort will be called for in securing subscriptions for that amount. There were many who cheered and paraded when the young men were taken from their jobs to be made into soldiers but the gratitude that the populace felt at the time was not sufficient to extend in this time when they too might help. The former service men are not now asking anything for themselves—they are thinking of those more unfortunate, the war orphans and the crippled war workers made dependent by the ravages of war. They will not shirk now, any more than they did when called to the colors. It is their job to raise the endowment fund and they will do it, even though they themselves must subscribe the necessary funds. But there are enough of those who have not forgotten the war, unfortunately to make the task a lighter one. Those who remember will not shirk their responsibility when called upon to help now.

THE VYRBY RAYMOND COBB on August 30 was honored by the citizens of Detroit and Baseballdom generally, the occasion being the 29th anniversary of his entrance into American League baseball. Through this score of years Cobb has played with the Detroit Tigers and has won for himself recognition as the greater player of all time. Incidentally he has amassed a million dollars. Which brings us to the thought that it matters not so much what one acts out to do, just as long as one does it the best he can. There is always room at the top. And Cobb is famous and rich because he has remained consistently at the top. He has displayed an indomitable spirit that will not be satisfied with less.

GLADSTONE is proud of the record made by William F. Girard who represented this city in the log roll contests held last month at Washburn Wis. He was awarded the world's championship as the trick and fancy log roller. Back for so many years riding the logs down the streams and rivers of upper Michigan was an annual spring event of considerable importance. It was a necessary step in the development of the lumbering industry. The lumber "back" typical of those times is no more. And the contests are the only means left of viewing something of what their line of industry called for.

IT'S TOO LATE to correct the mistake after the crash. That is the way with car driving. Every so often communities must be stunned by the news of a fatal accident to serve as a warning to other drivers. Last Sunday the victim was a man who had led a good life, careful of himself, and thoughtful and considerate of others. John Soderman was well known among his townsmen and fellow employees, all of whom had the greatest respect for him. His tragic death is the cause for general sorrow. Fate plays some queer pranks. John was never known as a fast or reckless driver. Rather he went to the other extreme. But Sunday he had been passed just after enough on his return from Iron Mountain that it appears he too, decided to "step on it." He started to pass another car traveling at a rapid rate of speed, changed his mind when he saw another car coming toward him, stepped on his brakes. The car skidded, turned over several times, and when it finally stopped standing upright, he was found dead, his skull crushed. Fate was more kind to the other occupants of the car. The woman and five children, all of whom escaped without serious injuries. That is reason for thanksgiving, tragic as was the fatality to John Soderman. But he, who gave himself to his country in time of war, had been allowed to choose, would probably have sacrificed himself rather than that innocent women and children be made to suffer.

THE CHILDREN who returned to school this week fall to appreciate the great advantages that are now theirs to enjoy and profit by. That realization will come only in after years. It is natural for the mind to oppose those things that are compelling upon the individual. The students who take to school with a heavy will are in the minority. In the ages before the public schools made education possible for the masses, only the privileged few had available the means of satisfying their quest for learning. Then the less fortunate cast envious eyes towards those who were so privileged. Because education was more difficult of attainment, those who did have the opportunity grasped it and went in for it for all that education promised. The pages of history are replete with the wonderful work of statesmen who became great because they seized every opportunity to educate themselves. New the advantage of schools is open to every boy and girl. Few study with the zeal that marked the ambition of the self-educated individual. But among those who do take up their studies with earnestness, are to be found the leaders of the next generation.

THERE is no disputing Marquette's claim to the leadership in the Upper Peninsula Baseball league. The team has gone through the season undefeated in every color and with credit the baseball enthusiasts in the Quince City of the north. Gladstone however is asking for consideration as the contender in a post-season championship series in pursuance of a tentative agreement made at the schedule meeting held at Marquette in the spring, and later approved by a favorable vote of the clubs in the league. This agreement provided for a post-season series between the winner in the north section and the winner in the south section. In the south section, the teams with Gladstone are Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls. Iron Mountain failed to comply with the league ruling that 16 games must be scheduled and played. They have played 12 scheduled games, and three not scheduled but with association teams, and counting all of these games in the percentage column, Gladstone's record at this writing is better. The management of the Marquette and Gladstone clubs are to meet next Sunday to go into the details for arranging the championship series. Just now it appears that Marquette is reluctant in calling the series for the upper peninsula championship, fearing to risk what it appears to already have won. And there is no disputing its leadership in the league standings. But the agreement was that the championship would be decided in the post-season series, and the Gladstone management would not consider it fair to ignore this agreement, made in good faith. Gladstone has had to defeat the best

HOME HELPS

On Bread
Salt is used to give flavor to the bread. Too large a quantity retards the growth of the yeast.

Sugar is food for the yeast and shortens the time of rising.

Too much sugar causes toughness of both crust and crumb.

The oven should not be too hot when the bread is first put in. A good way to test an oven is with a piece of white paper. It should turn golden brown in about five minutes. The time of baking should be from forty-five to sixty minutes. The bread should brown in the first fifteen minutes, and the heat should be lessened the last twenty minutes.

Egless Cake
2 cups sugar, 1 cup butter, milk, 4 cups flour, 1 1/2 cups nutmeg, cloves, cinnamon, and allspice 2 cups raisins, chopped fine, 1 cup butter, 1 cup cold coffee, 3 level tsp. soda, 1 cup nuts, chopped fine. Mix all together. Add nuts and raisins last.

Club House Sandwich
Butter hot toast well, arrange half the slices on a large platter; lay a lettuce leaf on each slice and brush lightly with a French dressing seasoned with mustard, then cover with pieces of two or three kinds of meat.

cold breast of turkey or chicken sliced and a piece of freshly fried bacon. Add a slice of cucumber or green tomato pickle, serve with the remaining slices of toast and garnish with lettuce and olives. Keep as warm as possible. Fine for luncheon.

Marquettes
Two eggs, 1 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup flour, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup English walnut meats. Beat eggs slightly and add remaining ingredients in the order given. Fill small buttered tins full of mixture and place a walnut on each. Bake in a moderate oven 15 minutes.

Wenham Waffles
Whites of 2 eggs beaten stiff, 2 1/2 cups cornflakes, 1/2 cup coconut, 1 scant cup of sugar and a little vanilla. Mix well and bake on heated tin in modern oven.

Baked Tomatoes
3/4 cup bread crumbs, 6 tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, and butter. Select firm, ripe tomatoes and remove stem end. Scoop out the pulp and drain off most of the liquid. Add the bread crumbs salt and pepper to the pulp. Fill the tomatoes with this mixture. Place in a buttered pan, cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Apple Whip
5 apples, washed of two eggs, whipped cream, and sugar. Bake four or five apples, and press them through a sieve. Sweeten the pulp; the amount of sugar depends upon the tartness of the apple. Fold in the beaten whites of two eggs. Serve with whipped cream.

Beautifying the Exterior
We often see folks who have the inside of their homes spick and span, but have never a thought for the looks of the exterior and the surrounding property. The appearance of our yards and premises in general reflects the kind of person inhabiting that dwelling place. Our yards should always be neat, with no garbage piled up in one corner, and tin cans etc. kept in scattered at will.

Flowers add very much to the beauty of one's premises. Along a garden walk, sweep past climbing graciously over a wire fence, a few tall sunflowers in the rear, what an aspect of home, and hospitality that presents. In songs, and literature, we often hear references to "the rose round the door," and read descriptions of beautiful gardens. All this seems wonderful to us then, and beyond our reach, but this is not the case. With a little time and attention, those gardens and lawns, and fragrant walks can become realistic.

A SURVEY is being made to learn how much Uncle Sam pays his half million employees, scattered throughout the world. It has developed that, despite all the watchfulness of those responsible for paying out the government's money, there is no absolute check upon the amount which goes annually for personal services. The estimate is in the neighborhood of eight hundred million dollars a year. To get an accurate figure the Bureau of efficiency is sending questionnaires to all employees, requiring them to report back to Washington how much they get each year. This will include every one from the president to the scrub-women in post-offices and from Ambassadors to negro messengers.

SENATOR KING of Utah is back from Turkey, where he ever convinced that the Senate has followed the right course in refusing to ratify the Lausanne Treaty and declaring that he will continue the Senate fight to have the treaty rejected or kept in a pigeon hole. King is especially critical of the Turks for their treatment of the Armenians, who he declares have not received a square deal in the past between Turkey and the United States.

The New East, according to the Senator, remains a hotbed, where the seeds of war are at any time likely to find a convenient place for exploding.

FROM THE SUMMER White House at Swanwick the President has found it necessary to sit down hard on alarmists in the army and navy who see all kinds of perils confronting the country unless they can have more money for their respective departments. The administration, however, has refused to be turned from its economy program, ordering that several millions of dollars be cut from the national defense appropriations. Mr. Coolidge's view is that the United States is threatened with no war and can get along with smaller forces. One of the results of the reduction in expenditures will be a curtailment in the peace time operations of both the army and navy, which is being opposed by high officials of both branches who look upon it as a return to the condition of unpreparedness which existed before the World War. The president does not agree with them.

PROMISED TAX reduction will receive its first official consideration about the middle of October when the House Ways and Means Committee will meet here to go over the entire problem and frame a tentative tax revision bill for presentation in December.

August Schramm has raised some notoriety lately as a mighty snorer. As he expects to go grizzly hunting, he has practiced shooting lately. As a result, there are fewer dogs in his neighborhood.

(A Weekly Panorama of Events in the National Capital. By Peter Keegan for The Delta Reporter.)

THE COMING WEEK will enable you to find out how much income tax your neighbor pays as the Collectors of Internal Revenue, with the consent and approval of the Supreme Court, through their house open to the newspapers. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon thinks that it is bad policy to make the income tax figures public property and, upon his recommendation, the President probably will ask the next Congress to definitely repeal the publicity section of the income tax law. Opinion is divided on the question, one group insisting that publishing of the figures helps to get the tax-dodgers, while others declare that the figures made public mean nothing anyway unless all the deductions of every taxpayer are made public at the same time.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS are becoming more skilled in the wily and devious ways of foreign diplomats. It only took the Treasury and members of the Debt Funding Commission a few hours to see in the debt settlement agreement reached in London by France and Great Britain nothing more than an attempt, clever and adroit, to help France in getting a big reduction when she pays her debt of four billion dollars to the United States. It was plain that England has extended a helping hand to France in virtually agreeing to cancel the French war debt to Great Britain contingent upon similar action by this country. The word has been given out, however, that the government here sees through the latest European bluff and will insist upon full payment.

A SURVEY is being made to learn how much Uncle Sam pays his half million employees, scattered throughout the world. It has developed that, despite all the watchfulness of those responsible for paying out the government's money, there is no absolute check upon the amount which goes annually for personal services. The estimate is in the neighborhood of eight hundred million dollars a year. To get an accurate figure the Bureau of efficiency is sending questionnaires to all employees, requiring them to report back to Washington how much they get each year. This will include every one from the president to the scrub-women in post-offices and from Ambassadors to negro messengers.

SENATOR KING of Utah is back from Turkey, where he ever convinced that the Senate has followed the right course in refusing to ratify the Lausanne Treaty and declaring that he will continue the Senate fight to have the treaty rejected or kept in a pigeon hole. King is especially critical of the Turks for their treatment of the Armenians, who he declares have not received a square deal in the past between Turkey and the United States.

The New East, according to the Senator, remains a hotbed, where the seeds of war are at any time likely to find a convenient place for exploding.

FROM THE SUMMER White House at Swanwick the President has found it necessary to sit down hard on alarmists in the army and navy who see all kinds of perils confronting the country unless they can have more money for their respective departments. The administration, however, has refused to be turned from its economy program, ordering that several millions of dollars be cut from the national defense appropriations. Mr. Coolidge's view is that the United States is threatened with no war and can get along with smaller forces. One of the results of the reduction in expenditures will be a curtailment in the peace time operations of both the army and navy, which is being opposed by high officials of both branches who look upon it as a return to the condition of unpreparedness which existed before the World War. The president does not agree with them.

PROMISED TAX reduction will receive its first official consideration about the middle of October when the House Ways and Means Committee will meet here to go over the entire problem and frame a tentative tax revision bill for presentation in December.

MILLARD WEAKENS, LEFF SAVES GAME

GLADSTONE WINS IN 11TH AFTER ESCANABA TIES SCORE IN SIXTH INNING

The uncertainties of a baseball game were seldom better brought out than they were Sunday in the game Gladstone played and won from Escanaba, 6 to 5, after 11 innings of exciting play, some of it had, some of it good and again some of it just ordinary. The locals had got away to a five run lead in the first two innings and Stanley Millard had held Escanaba to two hits in the first five innings and not a runner had got beyond second base. Stan had struck out five in the fourth and fifth innings and he looked strong enough to blank the county seeters.

But that's where the breaks of baseball went the other way. Escanaba is right in claims that Gladstone was lucky to get its five runs at the start of the games. What Escanaba forgets though is that their team was also lucky to get their five in the fifth. In that stanza Smith opened with a sizzling grounder towards third which Jensen fielded but his throw to Gervais was high and the runner was called safe on a close play. The next was a hard grounder hit at Kircher by Vassan. Ordinarily Kircher would put those kind in his pocket and beat the runner to the bag but this time with a chance for a double play ahead of him Kircher tumbled and threw high and late to Knapp to force Smith at second. Both runners were safe and Derwin followed with a single that scored Escanaba's first run. Nelson next hit a line drive to Williams in right field. Another chance for a double play as both runners had started with the pitch. Williams let it go through his hands and Nelson got to second and two more runs scored. Perrow sent a high fly to left which Johnson watched go over his head and Nelson counted. Millard struck out the next batter but he walked B. Johnson and Boyle followed with a scratch double inside of the base line, scoring Perrow with the tying run. Desilets filed to Jensen and Smith on the second trip to the plate sent a grounder to Millard and was thrown out. That was the end of that hectic frame in which poor playing by the locals and a combination of lucky breaks gave Escanaba all of its five runs.

But Gladstone demonstrated that it had the right spirit by settling down after that and holding Escanaba through the 11th while they put over the winning run in that frame. After White grounded, G. Johnson doubled and Kircher followed with a hot grounder which Nelson tumbled, Johnson scoring all the way from second, Perrow dropping the ball after trying to tag the runner who slid over the plate.

After the bad sixth inning Millard pitched the seventh and eighth allowing one hit and hitting one batsman. His control was none too good and Captain Knapp sent in Lefty Patten in the ninth. Lefty had little chance to warm up as he had been playing center field but he pitched very effectively by letting Escanaba down with nothing in hits or runs in the next three frames. He walked Nelson in the 10th. Millard's pitching was erratic. It looked good enough to win any game at the start and then his control wavered and he was less effective. He would have pulled through easily with good support.

Gladstone faced Buzz Johnson of Calumet, signed up last week by Escanaba. He did not look impressive at the start but looked stronger as the game progressed. In the first Knapp sent a liner against the left field fence a few inches from the top. Williams followed with a single that sent Knapp to third and when Williams started for second Johnson threw to Nelson. Knapp came scampering home with the first run.

The second frame was the big one for the locals. Gervais walked and White was hit by a pitched ball. G. Johnson hit to B. Johnson who threw to the plate to get Gervais. Kircher got to first and both runners advanced when Desilets tumbled his grounder and when Bailey made a wild throw on Millard's grounder White and Johnson scored. Patten sent a long double to center and Kircher and Millard also scored. Patten stole third but White grounded and Knapp filed to second.

How Escanaba made five in the sixth and Gladstone scored the winning run in the 11th has already been told. Bailey, Rapid River catcher, was back of the plate for Escanaba when the game opened. He lasted two innings and Bert Perrow took his place and caught a nice game. Bailey is a nice receiver but his throwing is weak.

The score of the game: GLADSTONE AB R H PO A E Patten, cfp 5 0 2 2 0 0 Jensen, 2b 5 0 1 1 3 0 Knapp, ss 4 1 1 3 2 0 Williams, if 5 0 2 0 1 1

Base Ball Gossip

Gladstone's weakness Sunday was largely in the outfielding, both G. Johnson and Williams falling down on the few chances they had. Patten was the only one to come through nicely. He got Smith in the first and again in the third when he ran back towards the center field fence to get his high fly.

Escanaba has failed to appreciate the fact that in Bert Perrow they have a catcher worthy of consideration. There were several times this year when they passed him up for receivers of more questionable ability. That happened Sunday when they started Bailey, a good receiver but poor thrower. Bailey would have strengthened the team playing on second.

Gottfrid Johnson has profited by this year's experience. He has learned to slide into bases. He slid into home in the 11th with the winning run. Several times in the past Gotty has been caught because he went into bases standing up. But he says those are past even though it does mean the occasional scratching of a "limb."

Probably Millard's lack of effectiveness in the sixth is traceable to that long double he hit in Gladstone's turn at bat in that frame. He hit the longest one of the day, clear into deep centerfield and got as far as second but nobody rescued him from that sack.

Iron Mountain lost to Marquette last Saturday 4 to 1, and Sunday they called the second game off, "because it rained during the night." Another reason which they did not state was that a pitcher hired especially for the occasion failed to show up. The Ford Towners called these the championship games, by their own authority in accordance with their own particular high regard of the team's prowess on the field. Gladstone's record entitles it to contend with Marquette for the upper peninsula championship and the games are already being arranged for.

VENEER MILL DEFEATED. SOO LINE ROUND HOUSE

Switzer pitched good ball for the Buckeye Veneer Mill Saturday afternoon, and gave his team a 10 to 8 victory over the Round House team. The latter tied the score at 8 in the eighth inning and the Veneerites broke this in the 10th by scoring two runs. Dementer caught for Switzer and the battery for the Round House was Madden, Williamson and Bovin. The score by innings: Veneer Mill 002 240 000 2-10 12 6 Round House 012 030 020 0-8 6 4

Science Has Many Ways of Finding Criminals

Identification by finger prints has long passed the stage of argument and is considered almost absolute. In fact it has been laboriously estimated that the simultaneous discovery of two persons with identical finger prints might occur once in a number of centuries amounting to forty-nine figures, from the examination of 5,000,000,000 persons, in each century, says L'Avenir, Paris.

Criminologists, however, do not consider identification certain unless there are more than twelve points of similarity between the partial imprint left at the scene of the crime and the recorded description of the suspect's fingerprint. Balzard having demonstrated that, in order to find twelve coinciding features, very nearly 17,000,000 imprints would have to be examined.

But a criminal may leave other marks than those of his fingers. He may leave on his body clothing evidence that he has been at the scene of the crime. The mark of a bite may be as valuable as a signature. The print of a bare foot is almost as characteristic as that of a hand. There are not only the marks left by the shoes of the criminal in soft ground, in blood stains or on certain pieces of furniture—marks which may serve to identify him because of the position of the shoe nails or the manner in which the heels or soles are worn down; but even particles of dust, coal and varnish on the clothing of the murderer and his victim are of valuable assistance to the investigators.

Indians Feared Results of Eating Wild Turkey

Buffalo meat was, of course, the mainstay and universal dish of the plains Indians—now, dried, jerked, dried and powdered in the form of pemmican of wama, as the Sioux called it; sometimes mixed with berries gathered by the squaw, but generally "just plain wama," explains Frank M. Huston in Adventure Magazine.

The hump and tongue were the choicest portions when fresh, though the latter was dried by thousands. Of course, in their season roots and tubers, as well as wild fruits—especially wild plums—added to the larder. Sometimes wild grapes were added to give a dessert finish; but no Indian would eat apples when first introduced to them, nor would the men eat the wild turkey lest they become cowardly as the bird itself. They believed—as do our dietitians—that "a man is what he eats."

Wasteful Men

"Why, Jeremiah Jones?" exclaimed Mrs. Jones when her husband came in late and sound from a railroad journey. "Is this you?" "Why, of course," said her husband, "this is the time I expected to come home, isn't it?" "And you haven't had an accident nor lost your arms and legs or been killed?" "How many times must I tell you that nothing has happened?" said the irritated man. "Well," declared the good lady, "you do beat all. There you went and paid good money for an insurance ticket just before you left, and you haven't done a thing to get the reward. That's money just wasted. Nice manager you are, Jeremiah Jones!"

COSGROVE FEATURED IN "WELCOME HOME" CAST
Luke Cosgrove, the grand old man of the stage and the young old man of the screen, prides himself on being handy around the house.

It almost broke the heart of the white-haired veteran when the script of "Welcome Home" called for him to attempt to repair a table-lamp, make a fix of the job and thereby cause a near feud between his screen son and daughter-in-law, Karner Baxter and Lois Wilson.

"But I can really fix it," Luke told James Cruse, who directed the production for Paramount. And as soon as the scene was over Luke proceeded to properly repair the broken lamp.

In addition to Miss Wilson, Baxter and Cosgrove as featured players, the cast includes Margaret Morris, Josephine Crowell, Adele Watson and Ben Hendricks.

The picture is coming to the Community theater Sept. 12.

Readers Tell Readers

DEAR EDITOR:
I noticed an item in your paper some time ago asking readers to contribute to a department called "Readers Tell Readers" by sending in letters to you relative to civic questions, they may be interested in. My response concerns the Tourist Park, not only our Park but all of them in the country. I don't see where the tourists are entitled to "free consideration." I think a fee should be set for the use of our local park by tourists, not to make it a money making proposition, but merely to defray expenses. Of course it is late in the season now to take any such step, but it should be decided now for the opening in the spring. Of course the upkeep of the park is not coming from taxation, but even so, it is the residents of the city that are paying for it, through the Booster club.

I believe the time will come when all the parks in the country will make a charge. Tourists, as a general rule are the class of people who can afford to pay a small fee, and if they can't, they ought not to be traveling. Some of the tourists appreciate the camps along the way, but many of them expect "the streets all paved with carpet" and take it as a matter of course, and think we're big fish for doing it too.

It is my honest opinion that a charge will be made for our park next year. I am thinking somewhat of taking the matter up with the Booster Club members at some future date.

Still another thing, the Booster members have kept up the park long enough. The burden should fall on some other party. The city budget cannot be made to include its upkeep and the natural outcome is that a charge be levied. Don't you think so? I'd like to read some of the opinions of other fellows on the matter.

A SPARE THOUGHT.

WHAT OTHERS ARE THINKING

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION OF ARTERIAL HIGHWAYS?

I think arterial highways are all right but I do not think the law is regularly enforced. Some stop and others don't. I have observed that about one third of the motorists stop at the corner of Delta and Central avenue. The arterial highways here are not marked properly. The mark "stop" on the road is not sufficient, as is the case at the corner of Delta and 10th. There should be a sign post there as at the corner of Delta and Ninth. Most of our highways are only marked on the road. People not acquainted with the system often get right on the main highway before realizing that they should have stopped. It is natural for the driver to look to the side for directions, and not to the road. The majority of cities have their arterials marked by posts on the side of the roads. That is the most conspicuous place to drivers at night.

I think arterial highways prevent accidents when properly handled. Of course we seldom have enough traffic around here to absolutely need these signs, but it is good training for the driver, and will help him when driving in larger cities where there is traffic.

because someone didn't stop, while others did. I have observed that often the stopping is more of a mechanical act to the motorist. He stops, and goes on just at the time when some one on the main street has the right of way, while if he had gone right on through at first, he would have not been in the way of the other fellow. In large cities, they make you stop right through. If you stop or drive slowly, you're told to "move on." No I don't favor arterial highways.

JOHN A. OLSON, 7th St.

I am not against arterial highways, although I do not think that they have correctly solved the traffic problem. It seems impossible to enforce it thoroughly. Some obey the regulation, and others drive right through regardless. I think the only way to handle the situation would be to have a one way road. On one side, traffic would be allowed to go only in one direction, and the other side of the road to be for cars going the opposite way.

There might be conflicts in the working out of this problem, but they could be handled satisfactorily.

ARTHUR SWENSON.

I think the arterial highways a good thing, because they prevent accidents. Of course there are always a few who will not observe such laws, but that is true of almost everything. We see drivers with one light, and some even without licenses. Because a few feel privileged to do as they please regardless of laws, the law cannot be considered "too good," although that fact discounts the value. All buses and public vehicles stop. This makes public travel more safe at least. Some buses even advertise the fact that they stop at all arterial crossings, thus making it appear that they are "danger proof."

G. VONTELL.

I think the Arterial Highway system much improved over the old right-of-way method. The only thing it should be enforced. Escanaba is much more strict than we are about punishing those who violate the regulation. If we're going to have the law, it should be for everyone and those who do not feel that they should stop at the arterial crossings should pay the penalty. This helps to avoid accidents. It is a means of safety to the pedestrian.

I fail to see where the arterial highways have been much of a benefit. As far as accidents are concerned, there are just as many, and I often see "close shaves" at these stop corners

They feel less in danger in passing the crossings. Then too, it does away with the need of a traffic cop.

PETER BURKHARD.

I think the arterial highways are all right, if they are properly marked, although that is not the case here. However, it would cost quite a sum to have posts put up at the "stop" corners. On Central avenue alone, it would require 14 posts to mark the arterial crossings between Delta avenue and the Bay Shore road. For the entire city it would amount to about 30 sign posts. In a small town, everyone knows the state trunk lines, and the stopping regulations here. In traveling to Chicago through Milwaukee, the arterial crossings were so well marked and observed that I was able to go through without any questions. I think the arterial highways prevent accidents. A person coming on a State highway from a county road will naturally slow down, and look around when he sees the stop sign.

Prisoner's Fate Left to Trial by Ordeal

As recently as the beginning of the Nineteenth century the populace of Hela, near Danzig, twice plunged into the sea an old woman reputed to be a sorceress, who, on persistently rising to the surface, was pronounced guilty and beaten to death.

Grotius mentions many instances of water ordeal in Bithynia, Sardinia, and other countries, and it was in use in Iceland from a very early period.

In the primitive Jurisprudence of Russia, ordeal by boiling water was employed in cases of minor importance. In the Eleventh century we find burning iron ordered "where the matter at stake amounted to more than half a grivna of gold."

A curious survival of ordeal superstition prevailed till quite recently in southern Russia. When a theft was committed in the family of a peasant, the sorceress was sent for. Should no confession be made by the guilty party, the sorceress rolled up as many little balls of bread as there were suspected persons present. She then took one of these balls and, addressing the nearest servant, used this formula: "If you have committed the theft the ball will sink to the bottom of the vase, but if you are innocent it will float on the water."

The accuracy of this trial, however, was seldom tested. The guilty person usually confessed before his turn arrived for the ordeal.

Indians Had Effective Method of Fire Making

The most widespread method of making fire practiced by the American aborigines at the time of the discovery of America by Columbus was by reciprocity motion of wood on wood and igniting the ground-off particles through heat generated by friction. It was the most valued as well as the most effective method known to the aborigines. The apparatus, in its simplest form, consisted of a slender piece of drill and a lower piece or hearth, near the border of which the drill is worked by twisting between the palms, creating a socket. From the socket a narrow canal is cut in the edge of the hearth, the function of which is to collect the powdered wood ground off by the friction of the drill, as with the wood used the heat rises to the ignition point. This is the simplest and most widely diffused type of fire-making apparatus known to civilized man. Some of the tribes also used flint and pyrites (the propellant of flint and steel), which is supposed to have been introduced into America through Scandinavian contacts or from Europe or Asia.

Cost of "Lifting" Oil

Bureau of mines says that from 25 to 80 per cent of the total cost of producing petroleum is due to charges for lifting the oil. Although the lifting cost ranges from less than three cents a barrel at flowing wells, producing several hundred barrels a day, to $5 a barrel, at wells producing less than a fifth of a barrel a day, the lifting cost per well may range from more than $1,000 at a few hours a week, as in most of the oil fields of New York and Pennsylvania, where the average daily production per well per day is less than one-fourth of a barrel.

Authority on Cards

The expression "according to Hoyle" refers to Edmond Hoyle, a writer on games, who was born in England in 1722. Little is known about Hoyle's life. Tradition says he was educated for the bar. At any rate, he went to London, where he spent much of his time writing on games and giving lessons in card playing, especially whist. He published a book in which he systematized the laws and rules of whist, a game on which he was considered an authority. His name became proverbial as an authority on games.

Playing a game "according to Hoyle" came to mean playing it fair and according to the recognized rules. Hoyle died in London in 1793.—Kansas City Star.

Began Life Work Early

Two men who have been considered the world's most famous clowns started acting at a very early age. Joseph Grimaldi, the great fun maker of England, made his first bow to an audience as the Little Clown at the age of one year and eleven months. By the time he was three years old he was a regular member of the company at Sadler's Wells Theater, being cast in the arduous part of "the little monkey."

George L. Fox, the Grimaldi of America, and the man who made "Humpty Dumpty" famous, was of a theatrical family and made his first appearance on the stage when he was five years old.—Mentor Magazine.

Creation of States

Congress in 1780, in order to persuade the states having claims on territories west of the Alleghenies or elsewhere, not included within their confines, to relinquish such claims, promised that it would not hold land intruded to it as subject territory, but would erect it into states of moderate size as rapidly as population should warrant. This promise has been kept 82 times by the government. Aside from Maine, Vermont and Florida, all the states in addition to the original thirteen have been created in accordance with it.

"You're tying my hands," com-

"Those are our terms. Otherwise,

Tommy leaned back wearily.

"I like your style, Curt. But attentive. So be it, then. But one thing is essential—I must see the girl."

"Jane Finn, of course."

The other looked at him curiously for some minutes, then he said slowly, and as though choosing his words with care:

"Do you not know that she can tell you nothing?"

Tommy's heart beat a little faster.

Would he succeed in coming face to face with the girl he was seeking?

"I shall not ask her to tell me anything," he said quietly. "Not in so many words, see he?"

"Then why see he?"

Tommy paused.

"To watch her face when I ask her one question," he replied at last.

Again there was a look in the Ger-man's eyes that Tommy did not quite understand.

"She will not be able to answer your question."

"That does not matter. I shall have seen her face when I ask it."

The German looked at him searchingly. "I wonder whether, after all,

you know as much as we think?" he said softly.

Tommy felt his ascendancy less sure than a moment before. His hold had slipped a little. But he was puzzled.

What had he said wrong? He spoke out on the impulse of the moment.

"There may be things that you know which I do not. I have not pretented to be aware of all the details of your show. But equally I've got something up my sleeve that you don't know about. And that's where I mean to score. Danvers was a d-d clever fellow. He broke off as if he had said too much.

The German's face had lightened a little.

"Danvers," he murmured. "I see—"

He paused a minute, then waved to Conrad. "Take him away. Outrains—"

you know."

"Wait a minute," said Tommy.

"What about the girl?"

"We will seek about it. Only one person can decide that."

"Who?" asked Tommy. But he knew the answer.

"Mr. Brown—"

"Perhaps."

"Come," said Conrad harshly.

Tommy rose obediently. Outside the door his father motioned to him to mount the stairs. He himself followed close behind. On the floor above Conrad opened a door and Tommy passed into a small room. Conrad lit a hissing gas burner and went out. Tommy heard the sound of the key being turned in the lock. He set to work to examine his prison. It was a smaller room than the one downstairs, and there was something peculiar about the atmosphere of it. Then he realized that there was no window. He walked round it. The walls were filthy dirty, and everywhere on the four pictures hung crookedly on the wall represented scenes from "Faust," Marguerite with her box of jewels, the church scene, Siebel and his flowers, and Faust and Megalothelphes. The latter brought Tommy's mind back to Mr.

Brown again. In this sealed and close chamber, with its close-fitting heavy door, he felt cut off from the world, and the sinister power of the arch-demonial seemed more real. Shout as he would, no one could ever hear him. The place was a living tomb.

With an effort Tommy pulled himself together. He sank onto the bed and gave himself up to reflection. His mind soared badly; also, he was hungry. The silence of the place was dispiriting.

"Anyway," said Tommy, trying to cheer himself, "I shall see the child-the mysterious Mr. Brown, and with a bit of luck in bluffing I shall see the mysterious Jane Finn also. After that I shall be free to go."

"I wonder who 'they' are," mused

Tommy, as he continued to make inroads on the loaf. "With a bit of luck the girl might help me to get out of here. She doesn't look like one of the gang."

At one o'clock Annette reappeared with another tray, but this time Conrad accompanied her.

That evening Tommy sat on the bed, and cogitated deeply. Would Conrad accompany the girl? If he did not, should he risk trying to make an ally of her? He decided that he must leave no stone unturned. His position was desperate.

At eight o'clock the familiar sound of the key turning made him spring to his feet. The girl was alone.

"Shut the door," he commanded. "I want to speak to you."

She obeyed.

"Look here, Annette, I want you to help me get out of this."

"Impossible. There are three of them on the floor below."

"Oh!" Tommy was secretly grateful for the information. "But you would help me if you could?"

"No, monsieur."

"Why not?"

"I dare not, monsieur; I am afraid of them."

She turned away.

"What if you try anything to help another?" cried Tommy. "She's row mornin', but in the meantime we're in chances, see. Telling as though you were still at the blooming Blitz, aren't you?"

Tommy made no reply. He was engaged in the sound of some one striving on the floor below. Then the German's voice came up the stairs.

"Gott im Himmel! Conrad, what is it?"

Tommy felt a small hand thrust into his. Beside him stood Annette. She pointed up a rickety ladder that appeared to lead to some attic.

"Quick—up here!" She dragged him after her up the ladder. In another moment they were standing in a dusty garret littered with lumber. Tommy looked round.

"This won't do. It's a regular trap.

There's no way out."

He handed to her. The girl put her finger to her lips. She crept to the top of the ladder and listened.

The banging and beating on the door was terrific. The German and another were trying to force the door in.

Annette explained in a whisper:

"They will think you are still inside. They can hear what we Conrad says. The door is too thick."

"Leave it to me!" She bent down.

To his amazement Tommy saw that she was fastening the end of a long piece of string to the handle of a long cracked jug. She arranged it carefully, then turned to Tommy and said:

"Have you the key of the door?"

"Yes."

"Give it to me."

He handed it to her.

"I'm going down. Do you think you can go halfway, and then swing yourself down behind the ladder, so that they will not see you?"

Tommy nodded.

"There's a big cupboard in the shadow of the landing. Stand behind it. Take the end of this string in your hand. When I've let the others out—pull!"

Before he had time to ask her anything more, she had flitted lightly down the ladder and was in the midst of the group with a loud cry.

The German turned on her with an oath.

"Get out of this. Go to your room."

Very cautiously Tommy swung himself down the back of the ladder. So long as he did not turn round...

All back of the crooked behind the cupboard. They were still between him and the stairs.

"Ah!" Annette appeared to stumble over something. She stooped. "Mon

Dieu, viola la clef!"

The German snatched it from her.

He unlocked the door. Conrad stumbled out.

"He's got away."

"Impossible. He would have passed seeing his two pursuers, of whom the German was one, indocrinally tracking from the door herring!

Tommy sat down quietly on the doorstep and allowed a few moments to elapse while he recovered his breath. Then he stroiled gently in the opposite direction. He glanced at his watch. It was a little after half-past five. It was rapidly growing light.

He betook himself to a Turkish bath establishment which he knew to be open all night. He emerged into the busy daylight feeling himself once more, and able to make plans.

First of all, he must have a square meal. He had eaten nothing since midday yesterday. He turned into a shop and ordered eggs and bacon and coffee. Whilst he ate, he read a morning paper propped up in front of him.

Suddenly he stiffened. There was a long article on Kramentsov, who was described as the "man behind Bolshew" in Russia, and who had just arrived in London—some thought as an unofficial envoy.

In the center of the page was his portrait.

"So that's who Number 1 is," said

Tommy. "Not a doubt about it; I must guess he."

He paid for his breakfast, and betook himself to Whitehall. There he sent up his name, and the message that was urgent in a few minutes

"We accept," he said harshly, "on terms. The papers must be delivered to us before you go free."

"What do you expect, then?"

"I must have liberty to go about the business in my own way."

UNCLE BEN SAYS: "If you want to give your mind a stretch try figures out the beginning and end of TIME"

TAKING ONE MORE CHANCE

When a man has suffered from a chronic complaint for a number of years; tried one method after another without result except expense and possible added suffering, he is apt to become resigned to his fate.

Many an individual is thankful that, after arriving at this mental attitude, something impelled him to take one more chance, and see a chiropractor, for there he found the health valiantly sought elsewhere.

A typical case of this sort is that of Mr. Walter Gover who had been afflicted with Rheumatism for years. He could not know, of course, that spinal pressure upon nerves was the cause of his trouble, and no one told him this, so it was really luck that sent him to the chiropractor.

SUFFERED FROM RHEUMATISM FOR YEARS

"I had been afflicted with rheumatism for a number of years and had never been able to obtain relief, though I had tried most every kind of medicine and been to too many doctors. In 1921 it became so bad I was unable to stand, sit or lie down with comfort, could hardly walk and could not sleep. I was compelled and forced to take a rest every day. About a year later I heard of Chiropractic and decided to try it as I had tried everything else. After the first 2 adjustments I felt relief. I was soon able to discard my walking stick. I am now completely relieved of rheumatism and have been in the best of health ever since." Walter F. Gover, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2123-M.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Oscar Brantly of Detroit

Dear Mrs. Brantly—I have been going out with a young man quite often of late, but there is some one else I like better. This one is the friend of my girl pal. We four always go together. I don't enjoy any parties of any of the evenings we are out because I am constantly longing to be with the other fellow. I do not like to hurt the feelings of my girl friend, but I certainly do want to go out with this other fellow. Please tell me what to do Mrs. Brantly. I am a constant reader of your column, and am sure you can answer this problem for me.

PINING.

Now Pining. If you analyze the situation carefully and at the same time analyze your character, I think you will find that you are just a wee bit envious, and that it is a part of your nature to want what you have not, and see your neighbor with. Isn't that the case? I believe no matter who the friend of your girl pal was, you would desire his company because you did not have it. If he is desirous of your company in preference to hers, he would seek it out for himself. Another thing, you would certainly be injuring the feelings of your friend. Place yourself in her position. How would you like to have one whom you trust you in that manner? Her friendship should mean more to you than that of your gentleman friend. Think it over and you will be satisfied with your present acquaintance.

The following letter has been received from Heartsick who sent her problem two weeks ago, asking for advice in a matter that entailed the lives of two families and as you will see from her letter, she has come through on the top, and has gained new courage, and strength to go on.

Dear Mrs. Brantly—I am the woman that wrote the letter to you a few weeks ago signed Heartsick. I want to apologize for ever having written that letter, which was the outcome of a moment of passion. Through your kind and timely advice, those moments are over and I now feel free from temptation. As I look back into the past I cannot see how I ever allowed such thoughts to my mind, leaving my husband and children and going to the city with another man, where we would at some future date obtain divorces and marry. The thought of it now appals me. Your advice has guided me aright, and I think that my decision in the matter has not only saved myself but this man, also for he too has been inspired and has taken new interest in his home, as you advised us to do. I will ever be grateful to you, Mrs. Brantly and will always direct others in need of assistance to you.

No Longer Heartsick.

Dear Mrs. Brantly I am writing you in the interest of another. This woman is 35 years of age, and her interest and love of her husband and children has all left her, because of her one desire to be in the company of another man. This latter is single. Her husband knows of the affair, but cannot do anything in the matter. I am a close relative and have also tried to argue with her and make her see where she is at fault, but it is impossible to get any satisfaction from talking to her. Even her children are neglected by her and would receive little attention if it were not for the care given them by their grandparents, who are also powerless and have asked me to write you for advice. I do hope you can give me some advice that will help us solve our problem.

She is the source of my heartaches for all of us. We will be anxiously awaiting your reply.

RELATIVES.

Relatives, you have quite a job on your hands to make this woman cease her idle company, but don't give up. You say it is useless to argue with her, and make her see her mistake. It wouldn't try to argue with her but put the matter before her, from the standpoint of others acting the same as she is doing. Point out these instances to her, and gradually let her come to realize her folly. This woman is greatly to be pitied. Has she plenty of work to do, things to occupy her mind? If she were busy always, she would have no time to think of these things. Look to her social life. Did she attend social functions before starting in the company of this other man? It may be that this single man does not know that she is married, and if you explained the situation to him, it would end your troubles right there. Be kind to her. Do not assume an angry air. Nothing will be gained by that. Try to make her understand and appreciate the noble and big things of life. Social service would be a wonderful field for her to become active in. Keep her occupied. Remind her. The rule of most men dates from some idle moment."

DEAR MRS BRANTY: I am a girl 15 years of age, and if I return to school this year I will be a sophomore. That is what I am writing you about. "I don't want to go back to school because if I do I will have to stay in nights, and anyway, I have a better time out of school. I don't like the kids in school as well as I do my associates outside. I have a chance to clerk in a store, and I cannot see where I will profit by returning to school. My parents want me to, and say that I must go back that, with my "meager education" as they call it, I will never be able to even support myself. Well, what of it Mrs. Branty, I don't think a girl needs to be able to support herself. Even so, I can do that much clerking in a store. When I detest school, and can't bear to think of it, I don't see how I will learn anything. Please answer right away. I will be guided by your advice.

ROSE LE.

Rose Le, when you have the chance of an education, and foolishly throw it away, you are not thinking clearly, and I know you will regret it at some future time, and that time will not be very long off. You should follow the counsel of your parents who are too young to be choosing your future course on your own judgment. You would soon tire of clerking in a store, and as far as a girl needing to be able to support herself, she certainly should. There is always a chance of her having to use this ability and it should never be amiss. The society of your school chums is what you should cultivate, and that time you aren't going to learn anything, very little will even soak in. The thing for you to do is to change your attitude. Go back wholeheartedly, and with the understanding that you are going to form friendships and acquaintances with your schoolmates. Attend the athletic events, and the social functions of the school, and get into the spirit of it all. I am sure you will never regret it.

He got alongside and was going at a rapid rate, probably 40 to 50 miles, when he noticed a car coming towards him.

In swerving back to the right side of the road in front of Johnson's car, Soderman's car hit the grass, swerved back across the highway and again recrossed, the front wheels leaping the ditch. Witnesses declared the car turned over four times crosswise of the ditch, the seven other occupants of the car escaping injury because they were spilled out of the machine into the ditch as the car turned over. On the first roll a boy dropped out. The next roll dumped Mrs. Erickson, her baby and Thelma Erickson. The third roll cleared the car of occupants, even the driver being thrown clear of the machine.

Death came instantaneously to Soderman, the left end fender having passed over his head and shoulders, crushing his skull, breaking his neck, and one arm. His face was badly mutilated. Soderman had the Studebaker for only a few weeks and was a comparatively inexperienced driver.

The body was taken to the Alto Funeral home at Escanaba to be prepared for burial and removed here Tuesday. Mrs. Ogren who suffered quite severe bruises was taken to the Loring hospital of Escanaba but was soon able to be removed to her residence here.

The top of the Studebaker was completely smashed although the engine was not damaged. William Green of this city, who was notified of the accident and proceeded to the scene with Alvin Soderman a brother of the victim was able to drive it home.

The deceased was born in Munson, Finland, October 2, 1890, and was 35 years of age. He has been a resident of this city since 1905, and an employee of the Northwestern Co. paper company at the Veneer Mill during that time. He is a member of the August Mattson Post, having entered the infantry, and received training at Camp Custer.

The deceased is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Soderman, of Fourth avenue, four brothers and two sisters, Alfred, Victor, Alvin, and William, Mrs. E. Ohman and Mrs. Alex Berg all of this city.

The death is one of the tragedies of the year. The beautiful floral offerings that covered his casket as he lay in state at the family home are a tribute to the sterling character of the young man, and the high esteem in which he was held by his many sorrowing friends. Words fail to express the sympathy felt by the community for the bereaved members of the family.

MODERN TREND IS ALL FOR SHORTNESS

Abbreviation Seems the Order of the Day.

Longer days mean "shorter" women. For there is an epidemic of abbreviation abroad.

Women have shortened their hair, their skirts, their sleeves, in fact everything that could be shortened in their modes.

Their manners have been subjected to the same process. Engagements are shorter and marriages also.

Social life is a succession of brief functions. Dinner is the merest snip-shot before a short dance in one place and a short drive to the next. Paris Townshead writes in the continental edition of the London Mail.

"Life is short and art cannot be long," is the motto. She will not look at a picture unless its effect is obvious and can be seized in a glance. She prefers short to long stories, and even her novels are arrangements of epigrams. Her letters are reduced to brief notes.

Absence of brevity means presence of boredom to women who prefer even their proposals to be made by telephone. It is quicker to cut off a rejected suitor than to dismiss him.

There is a fashion to cut even just now that quickness means slowness. The skirt means the perfect figure and the short skirt enables plenty of strenuous exercise to be taken even in London. Even stockings are turning into socks for the tennis player, and gloves must end at the wrist.

Short hair means a short way with maids and a quick dressing time.

If brevity is the soul of wit the shortened dinner table of today (it is rarely made to seat more than eight persons) should stimulate with sparkling conversation. Modern women's remarks, however, are so short that they tend to be monosyllabic. It is the fashion to omit all pronouns and as many verbs as possible and to rely on allusion for the rest.

Conversation is carried on in a society cipher and those who hold the key do not appear to find the expanded form particularly enlivening. Still, shorter small talk is probably a boon.

Shorter engagements mean more marriages. The finding-out process takes a little longer than the conventional six weeks, which is all that can elapse between the cut circular notification and the wedding day.

With every occupation cut short, the hours should be long, but the most frequent complaint of the modern woman is that she is too terribly busy. "The days are so short!"

The Change
"Well, how's everything been going on yurabouts whilst I've been away?" asked a citizen who had been over in Oklahoma for a number of years. "Any changes took place?"

"You betchis!" returned Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Three new houses have been built, the whole Hocker-Smith and Heilbecker families have wiped themselves plumb out with their funds, 'most everybody it could have been killed off by bone-dry licker, Lem Lummocks has married ag'in—you know, his first wife had a wart right yur on the p'int of her chin; well, his new wife has got one on the back of her neck—and I'm down in tuther side of the back from what I used to be." Aw, there's a heap of changes took place whilst yur've been gone.—Kansas City Times.

Electricity in Homes

There is now approximately a billion dollars worth of electric labor savers and cooking appliances in use in the electrified homes of the United States. Of these appliances the most popular is the iron, of which there are now 8,250,000 in household use. The next most popular of electrical appliances is the cleaner with 4,575,000 in use while the third place is held by the electric washer of which 3,460,000 are now being used by the nation's housewives. Likewise, the electric fan is very popular indeed. The country over there are now about 4,150,000 of them in domestic and commercial use.

Rural Mail-Box Stand

In order to do away with unsightly rows of individual mail boxes set on posts at crossroads, groups of farmers in many communities fix their mail boxes to large discarded wagon wheels set on a row of fence posts. A newly invented metal stand serves the same purpose and helps to keep the highway more attractive. The sides of the device are used for posting small local notices. Mounted at the top of the center post on which the supporting frame revolves is a small road sign in the form of an arrow.

Hoots Summon Students

University of Maine students are summoned to classes by the hoots of a half dozen horns mounted on electric-light poles at points of vantage about the campus.
