

OBSERVANCE OF LABOR DAY GOES OVER BIG HERE

FIREMEN THINK ALL THOSE WHO CONTRIBUTED TO SUCCESS OF DAY

HARRY NEFF WINS SEDAN CAR

The celebration here Labor Day was one of the most successful and enjoyable observances ever put on in this town. The day opened with a parade at 9:30 in the morning forming at the corner of Sixth and Delta and marching through the principal streets of the city. A car carrying the speakers of the day, Mayor I. N. Bushong, Rev. H. W. Colenso and Rev. S. Mater led the march, with the Soo Line Band, children marching, and bands, many different organizations and bands playing, following with a line of cars bringing up the rear.

The Locomotive Firemen and Engineers were awarded the first prize of $15 for having the best float in the parade. It consisted of a car decorated to represent a locomotive. The work was done by a committee with Axel Frank as chairman. Albert Gagnon won second place, and a prize of $5.00 for his float, a Dodge truck decorated with farm produce. A "Dingy Fire Department" won a $5.00 prize for the most comical decoration. It was arranged by Earl LaBumhard, J. A. Legault and John Hillman. The march terminated at the City Park at 11 a. m. where a program was held. The address of welcome was given by Mayor I. N. Bushong, with Rev. S. Colenso and Mater giving appropriate talks suitable to the day, which was the applause of all.

A basket dinner was the feature at 12 o'clock.

The winners in the afternoon's races follow:

Boy's Fall Race: Lloyd Larson, $2; Leonard Larson $1.50.

Married and Single Ladies Race: Esther Ford and Mrs. E. A. Madden, $4.00.

Girls' Egg Race: Bertha Trvng $1; Irene Kelly 75c and Gladstone Lous 60c.

Frog and Wascelbarrow race: Joe Albin $2; Fritz Frank $1.50 and L. Larson $1.

Boys' Three Legged Race—Joe Albin $1.50; F. Bouchard $1 and Oliver Lund 50c.

The baseball meet with Escanaba at the local park at three o'clock added another scalp to Gladstone's belt. In one sense of the word, although the victory does not permit the locals to clash with Marquette for the U. P. Championship.

A water fight was held at the foot of Central avenue near the City Park at 5:30 with William Healy and Wilbur Glumond fighting against Roger Smith and Jerry Drum. The two latter came off victors. At 6:30 a very interesting exhibition of trick and fancy log rolling was given by William F. Girard, World's Champion log roller.

The fireworks commenced at 7:30 in the evening, from the city park. The display was very grand, including the "Tower of Babel," the American Flag, Flora Pipes of Jungle Land, Crash of Suns, Niagara Falls, Devils Wheel, Chinese Flower pots, and Mother's morning Star. The array was very much enjoyed by the many who witnessed it.

Harry Neff Wins Car

At 9:15 o'clock, the Ford car which the firemen put up as a prize was won by Harry Neff. Edward Peterson, nine years of age, drew the tickets, the ninth to be the winner and with the number 7883, accorded Mr. Neff with the honor of driving off with the Ford. The funds donated will go toward the purchase of a pumper, a long felt need of the fire department.

The Soo Line Band furnished the music and added pep to the program with their selection throughout the day. It is hoped that the band will be continued as a municipal organization.

Dance Well Attended

The dance given by the Soo Lineers for the benefit of the Gladstone Base ball club was the closing event of the day. The Midnight Entertainers of Escanaba furnished the music. A fine crowd was present. The ball room was beautifully arrayed with American flags and patriotic decorations. Several musical selections were rendered by the "Bone's" Deganan quartet of Escanaba which were very much enjoyed by the dancers.

The day will be remembered as one of the most enjoyable and all around

DR MILLER PLACES 3/4 LB. FISH IN BACKGROUND

A five and one-fourth pound brook trout is big enough to cover any man with glory, and that's what A. H. Miller caught in the Nipigon river on July 8, 1925. He was able to pass the "barbed wire flow or vase" on him, after having called Phil Louis, with a 3 1/2 pounder as the winner in last issue.

"The Nipigon river is the greatest trout stream in the world," Dr. Miller exclaimed when interviewed relative to the matter. It is sixty miles north of Port Arthur and noted for the size of its trout inhabitants.

If any reader thinks this a "fishy" story, Dr. Miller welcomes you to visit his office and behold the skin of the beauty mounted on birch bark, framed and decorating the walls. It measures 26 1/2 inches in length and is 5 1/2 inches deep.

H. S. BOYS GUILTY OF MISCONDUCT

Wallace Shach was the victim of Freshman "Initiation" last Friday evening, when he was stripped of his clothing and confined to "Wisconsin" avenue by a group of the older classes. Several minor pranks were pulled off, but this was the only deed for which punishment was given. The boys were caught by Officer Kellerman.

These concerned in the act, whose names Chief of Police, Eric Lindahl was able to ascertain are Lloyd Neville, Earl Peterson, Robert Norze, Robert Haberman, Milton Bonzi, Glen Minnan, George Fraise, Alton Kretzer, Joe Reese, Raymond Kugel and Louis Marckoff.

It was at first decided to bring them before Probate Judge Yelland at Escanaba, but this plan was abandoned for milder punishment. They are to appear this afternoon at the City Hall after school, where they will be reprimanded by Mr. Lindahl and called upon to apologize to Shach for their misconduct.

YOUNG COUPLE TO MAKE THEIR HOME HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Hale, who were married at Escanaba on August 4, are preparing their home at 605 Wisconsin avenue and expect to move here within a few days. Mrs. Hale was formerly Miss Loreta Delker of Milwaukee, but is well known in this section having taught at the Escanaba high school. Mr. Hale is owner of the Hale Porter Advertising company, which operates in this city, Manistique and the towns between. He is well acquainted here having made this city his headquarters in the past two years. Their decision to make their home in Gladstone is a pleasing bit of information which is gladly passed along.

Plans will be formulated by the young people to assume their share of the burden in paying the debt due on their church. A good turnout is expected.

Meet With Mrs. Dr. Miller

Mrs. Dr. A. H. Miller was hostess to the Coterie Tuesday afternoon at her home on Minnesota avenue. Mrs. W. Marble Sr. had charge of the program and gave a very interesting paper on Arnold Bennett. Mrs. E. J. Noves followed with a discussion of "The Day Haneover" by Arnold Bennett. Mrs. Dr. H. N. Keen spoke on Current events. A very delightful luncheon was served by the hostess.

VOLUNTEER MEETING

The members of the Volunteer Fire Department held their regular meeting Wednesday night at the City Hall. The regular business was taken up, and settlements made following the Labor Day performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Champion left Monday for Milwaukee on a visit here.

Mrs. Axel Nylund, daughter, Elsie and Elze will spend Saturday at Iron Mountain with Axel Nylund.

F. L. Burt fished at Masonville Friday and returned with nine big bass.

The firemen extend a vote of thanks and their sincere appreciation to all who in any way contributed to the success of the celebration.

THE COUNTY FAIR

The county fair season which is at hand is eagerly looked forward to each year by many people both old and young. The County Fair furnishes a meeting place to renew acquaintances and it should provide educational features and clean entertainment. Managements of many county fairs as well as state fairs are giving increased emphasis on agricultural exhibits. This is resulting in less attention being given to low grade shows both on the part of the management and the people who attend.

The county agent has been an important factor in stimulating more people to prepare and exhibit products from the farm. He gives instructions as to the kind of material that will make a good showing and encourages farmers and their families to make exhibits of the good crops or livestock that they produce.

The County Fair furnishes an excellent time and place for members of the Boy's and Girl's clubs to exhibit the results of their efforts. They enter in competition with each other in special classes and as a result learn a great deal which is of value to them. The parents are equally as interested as the children in the club exhibits and they too gain much valuable information. It is not uncommon to see an animal or a simple display exhibited by a boy or girl that is better than similar exhibits made by grown people.

Improvements and enlargements of exhibits from farms at the County Fair is resulting in increased interest on the part of town people. It is a means of establishing a closer relationship and understanding between country and town.

Since more people in many counties are taking an active part in their county fairs, the fairs are better supported in attendance and thus financial results are improved. Any public undertaking needs general support in order to be successful and so, the progress which a County Fair is able to make depends on the general interest and confidence which the people have in it.

The management of a County Fair that is endeavoring to make a fair a worthwhile event, should receive the general support of the people in the county. Support can be given by exhibiting by boosting and by attending.

Delta County's Northern Michigan Fair is a County institution put on for the object of promoting the advancement of Agriculture, Horticulture, mechanical and household arts.

It is an institution for the benefit of Delta County farmers. There is much to be learned by the farmer at a county fair as each and every person on a farm has different ideas as to how things should be done and everybody goes to a County Fair to swap ideas with their neighbors. This is an education that you can get at nowhere else but at a County Fair.

Every farmer should bring something to exhibit at the County Fair. Take some interest in your Fair and it will grow. Be a Booster for the Community you live in and you make the Delta County Fair for 1925 the biggest Fair we ever had.

Our Reporter Observes--

THAT the ruins of many cars are in evidence in several places of the city, seeming to stand out as a warning to daredevil drivers.

THAT "cooling" time is here again. Protection "to the full extent of the law" don't safeguard fruitbearing trees enough.

THAT transportation on the street car from here to Escanaba seems to be replaced largely by cars. Wonder if air traffic will ever cut out the automobile?

THAT gas stations are our most numerous business. As the post says, "Never mind, little vacant corner, DON'T you cry, You'll be a filling station, By and by."

THAT our comparatively level roads in this part of the country, can be appreciated after a fellow has driven on stretches composed of ascents and declines.

THAT our water fountains on main street don't receive much patronage.

THAT Pine trees are the only trees of any size left in this vicinity.

THAT as long as folks regard the slogan "Help Prevent Forest Fires" by taking their rubbish out in the big burn it, means of reforestation will be futile.

THAT yellow and red leaves are already presenting an aspect of autumn.

COLTS TAKE THREE CRMES

DEFEATED NAIMMA, OLDTIMERS AND TRENARY OVER THE WEEK END

Bergman's Colts defeated the Naimma team on the local grounds Sunday in a one sided contest, 29 to 4. The game started with Uebriek on the mound for the Colts and the game was a close affair during the six innings he was pitching Sobesky pitched the last three innings and showed good form in his first appearance as a ball-tender. In the seventh the Colts started a bombardment that netted them eleven runs. The longest drive ever made over the right field fence was made by McFarlan in this inning.

The Oldtimers-Colt game opened the Labor Day baseball lid with another victory for the Colts by 10 to 8 in a seven inning game. It was one of the most enjoyable and pleasant games played on the local grounds in years. A number of unusual plays came up during the course of the game that kept the large attendance in continual good humor. "Gravy" Gravelle started on the mound for the Colts and threw a very mystifying article of ball. Only two singles were made off him and as an encouragement for the Oldtimers it was agreed that Cavill should walk on three balls and McFarlan be given four strikes. Gravelle retired at the end of the fourth in favor of Uebriek who was touched up for three hits counting for the Oldtimers in the lead by 3 to 5. Sobesky opened the seventh on the mound for the Colts and only three men "faced" him, two of them being sent back to the bench by the strike-out route. A combination of errors and hits in the last half of the seventh gave the Colts five runs and the game. McNamara of the Chicago police force was on the mound for the Oldtimers and pitched a steady game although he was touched up for a total of 13 hits.

Trenary-Colt Game

The Trenary-Colt game started immediately after the Oldtimers game and was fairly good until the seventh when the Colts became rather unmanageable kicking their heels right in the face of Manager Welland and his virginitous cohorts with the result that 11 runs crossed the plate in this frame Ackley batted twice, scoring two runs as the result of a home run drive and a base on balls. Thurston scored two runs on two appearances at the plate in this frame getting a three base hit and a single. Olson batted twice but was not credited with a time at bat as he was hit by a pitched ball and received a base on balls. Sobesky pitched very nice ball for the time he was on the mound. Delancey went in the 4th inning and was never in danger but his fielding and errors of judgment were not so good.

OLD CIVIL WAR VETERAN ATTENDS ENCAMPMENT

Louis C. Wolfe returned from a six weeks visit with his brother Henry at Bristol, Indiana and with other relatives at Niles, Michigan and other points. It was his third visit to his old home in sixty years, the last visit being 25 years ago. He could barely find a familiar landmark of his boyhood days. Mr. Wolfe's brother did not know of the intended visit and his surprise was complete when, with all seated on the front porch, Mr. Wolfe approached them and pulled the joke of inquiring for a certain party he knew did not live in that neighborhood. After a conversation of some length and realizing they did not in the least recognize him, Mr. Wolfe made himself known. It was a happy re-union and many auto rides were made to points in Ohio and Michigan where at Niles he had enlisted in the Civil War at the age of 16.

Mr. Wolfe returned by way of Grand Rapids where he attended the National Encampment of the G. A. R. giving Rapid River one enrollment among the fast diminishing forms of the Boys of '61. When one passes to consider the fact that it is 60 years since the great civil strife ended, we can realize how fast their numbers are being depleted. It is a glorious but also eligible sight that fills the eyes of the spectators with tears to view their slow, onward march through the streets, broken every little way by some tottering frame who has fallen to the pavement.

Mr. Wolfe greatly enjoyed his visit to his old home but he treasure most valuable his enrollment in this 56th Encampment of his comrades of '61 to '65.

NORMAN HALL TO MANAGE COLTS

George Bergman after the Labor Day games here turned over to Norman Hall the complete management of the Colts after being in charge of them for the past two seasons. Mr. Bergman organized the Colts last year, financing the venture, purchasing the suits, catcher's outfit, bats and everything necessary to the equipment of the team. The receipts from the games this year has practically paid back the amount of his expenditure. The decision of Mr. Bergman to give up the management is very keenly regretted not only by the players but the fans also as he takes a deep interest in the game and scheduled games that gave the fans their money's worth at all times.

The Colts have played a total of 29 games this year winning 12 or them for an average of .550. The Gladstone Veneer team will play here next Sunday and the following Sunday, Sept. 20, the West Ends of Escanaba will close the season here. The Colts and West Ends have a game apiece and this game will be to break the tie. It may be possible to also arrange another game with the Wilson team who also broke even with the Colts in a two game series.

Norman Hall, the new manager of the Colts has been playing second base all season in the style and will take care of the playing and business end of the management. The season is drawing to a close but it is harder to close the season in good style than it is to hold them together in the middle of the season. Everybody come out for the next two games and help close the season with a good feeling that will live through the winter and open the season next year with a defiance to any club in the upper peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Belland and children motored to Florence, Wis. for a week end visit with Mrs. Belland's parents. Jesse Smart left Monday for Marquette where he has accepted a position as filer for the Brown and Snyder Co.

TEACHER IS ENGAGED FOR WHITEFISH SCHOOL

The school board at its meeting last Friday evening transferred Miss Agnes Kirsh from the North Delta school to the Whitefish school. Miss Mildred Reutchar was given the vacancy at the North Delta school and she began her work there Tuesday morning and Miss Kirsh began the same day at the Whitefish school. The school board decided to have no session of school next Thursday, September 17, so that all the children who wish to attend the county fair may do so. It is the desire of the school board and of Supt. Wolfe that the school children attend the fair on this day because absence on any other day greatly interferes with the school work and such absence will be checked against them. A few attending the fair on Tuesday, more again on Wednesday and then a general exodus on Friday greatly handicaps the work of the teachers during all the week. By closing the school on Thursday the school board believes that with the cooperation of the parents this promiscuous absence can be retarded.

Township Completes Road The township road crew completed the ditching and grading of the Rice road this week opening the road to traffic and giving the farmers in that neighborhood an opportunity to get to town or visit one another without traveling miles out of their way. This road will be a great convenience to people going to Perkins, Rock and other points on M35 as it will save driving around by way of Gladstone. The crew will have the first of the week to finish the work of grading and cutting down a hill approaching the new bridge recently completed over the West Branch east of Minor's. A fill must be made on one side of the river and a hill cut down on the other side. This road will lead to the settlement where the North Delta school is located.

Roger Kirsh accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kirsh of Gladstone to the Soo Sunday for a few days visit with friends.

Medicine Show Entertains The Clifton Comedy Co. a traveling medicine show has been entertaining young and old all week with their numerous vaudeville stunts. It is an open air entertainment located on the vacant lot near the Wilford store and the concert is crowded each evening. Dr. L. Vito Dietz is in charge and between sketches take up a little time explaining the curative values of the Brazilian remedies and making many sales to the afflicted. The entertainment will close on Saturday night.

WHAT OTHERS ARE THINKING

This weeks question: "DO YOU FAVOR THE ESTABLISHING OF A MARKET CENTER IN GLADSTONE?"

CHARLES HOLM.
No, I don't favor a market center here, I don't think they are ever successful in a small town. The people in general don't favor it and the farmers who the matter is mostly up to, can't make a success of it alone. That was the trouble before when it was tried here. The people can get the same produce from any of the stores and it is just as fresh because the farmers are able to come in with their goods. It means lots of unnecessary commotion, and blocking off of traffic on certain streets that are to be given over to the farmers.

WILLIAM GREEN.
I certainly am in favor of a Market Day. It benefits the farmer and gives him a chance to sell his produce. As far as the matter being a success, I don't see why it shouldn't be, if it is handled as it should be. Escanaba has put it over 100 per cent and we can too. It should be advertised well, and held in a central place. Between Superior and Delta avenue, on Tenth street would be a good place. It wouldn't interfere with traffic very much. A detour should be established so nothing can stop the progress of the sales.

Competition would be keener, and that's what local merchants need. I am sure that it would be popular with local people. Folks are always looking for bargains and would be glad to have a chance to attend an old fashioned market day.

I think a market day would be just the thing for Gladstone, if it was carried on in the proper manner. The one they tried about a year ago couldn't be expected to be anything but a complete failure when it was located on east Delta avenue. It should be in a more central place. I think Eighth street, between Delta, avenue and Minnesota is ideal location. It is right in the center of the homes of the city, and yet does not interfere with traffic to any great extent. In Escanaba, the street where the sales are carried on, is blocked, and no traffic allowed. This would be necessary here too. A farmers' market each Saturday would create competition among the local merchants, and that all leads to better quality goods and service. I don't think Market Day was properly advertised when tried before. Very few of the farmers even knew that they were to have such an opportunity. It was begun late in the season. Instead of when distribution of farm produce first started, I'd like to see another attempt in the spring.

OLE PETERSON.
EARL DRUDING
I am in favor of the establishment of a Market Center here. The farmers would certainly endorse it, and I think that local people would also support the move. It would give them a chance to dispose of their goods. I don't know whether it would result in better products or not, but at least customers would feel that they were getting the articles fresh from the farms. Escanaba has such a Market each week and it has scored a great success. I see no reason why it wouldn't go over as big here. I recall that an effort was made a year ago to establish one, but very few people knew what it was all about and the location was too far away from the bulk of the people.

O. H. ANDERSON
I think a market day would be just the thing for Gladstone if it were centrally located and properly advertised. Nearly every town has a market center, and Gladstone shouldn't be an exception. Menominee failed to carry on a successful Market Day, because of the fact that the residents are so scattered, but that would not be the case here. As far as it affecting local merchants, I don't think that it would, because the farmers go around from house to house anyway. This arrangement would result in their being more particular about what they sell. Local people would appreciate the opportunity to buy produce that they know is absolutely fresh, coming directly from the farms. I think that such a market center should be situated somewhere in the neighborhood of the Community Building. Some organization should take it upon themselves to put it over and do it big.

DELEGATES RETURN FROM U.P. CONVENTION

Lindblad, Sunday school Superintendent, reported on the work of the local school, held Monday. Theodore Solberg and Axel Berglund were the delegates from the Sunday School. Plans were mapped out for the next years work. The Misses Agnes Lindblad and Astrid Skogquist also attended. Rev. Isaac Skog, who presided at the conference, was re-elected president for the coming year. Harold and Everett Carlson of Kenosha spent the week end at the Charles Holm home. Everett and Lawrence Marshall motored to Ellison Bay. Mr. Marshall, who has been visiting there with relatives, returned with them. F. B. ARION MALE CHORUS A MUSICAL TREAT

The Arion Male chorus of Chicago that performed at the Swedish Mission church Sunday evening, completely won the audience with their vocal talent. The chorus was composed of sixteen voices and rendered a pleasing program of vocal solos, and chorus selections. A piano solo was given by Gilbert Turnquist that showed remarkable skill. The church was filled to capacity and the entertainment was one of the successes of the season.

FINISH SEASON WITH WIN, LOSS

GLADSTONE JUST MISSES CHANCE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES BY HALF OF GAME

The Gladstone baseball team finished the 1925 season by trimming Escanaba here Labor Day afternoon by the score of 5 to 1. It was the ninth game between the old rival teams for the season and it was Gladstone's seventh triumph. Never on record has Gladstone ended a season with such a decided edge over Escanaba.

On Sunday the locals played at Munising and they got trimmed by an 8 to 2 score. That was the fourth league game between these teams, also old rivals, and it was the first won by Munising this year excepting the exhibition game played at the Alger county seat on Sept. 3 which they won by a 2 to 1 score. Gladstone won the first three games played between the two teams.

The loss of Sunday's game was mainly due to the failure of Stanley Millard to keep in training. He started against Munising and when he was taken out before a man was retired in the second inning more than enough runs had been scored to cinch the contest for the Algerites. Millard couldn't pitch, he couldn't field and he was a sorry example of what a ball player ought to be like. Lefty Patten was sent in to hold Munising for four innings and then it was decided to save him for the next day with Escanaba and Letty Gervais went in, Patten going to first. Gervais' pitching was the feature of the game, the wise old veteran pitching three innings and allowing but a single and never being threatened.

Saving Patten for Monday proved a wise move for he still held his effectiveness against that club and let them down with three measley singles, two of them infield scratches. Buck Noiden, a star of years ago was on the mound for Escanaba and staged an impressive come-back. The local slugger garnered 11 hits off his delivery but for at least four of these they had to thank poor outfielding on the part of Escanaba's regular outfielders. Patten's twirling was too good though to give Escanaba a chance. He was in trouble in only one inning where two hits, a walk and a hit batsman combined for the only run for the county seaters.

The loss of Sunday's game to Munising proved costly as it left Gladstone a half game behind Iron Mountain in the league standings, and gave Marquette the excuse that it wanted to refuse to play the post-season games that had been tentatively agreed upon. Gladstone has claimed that it was the logical contender with Marquette for the championship as it was technically in the lead in the southern circuit. Iron Mountain not having played the 16 games required by the rules adopted at the time the schedule was adopted last spring. Millard had been saved for the Munising game and his failure to keep in training for the game was the worst disappointment of the season.

Base Ball Gossip

Beating Escanaba 7 out of 9 games was a record. Another unusual record is that eight of the players who took part in the last game were with the team in the first game of the season. All played throughout the schedule with the exception of Bovin who was with Crystal Falls for a part of the season. Frank Jensen was the only player who finished not in the first game. He was with Gladstone since the July 4 game and remained when Tom Desilets left for western Canada.

Kircher, Knapp, Williams, Gervais played in all the league games. Kircher was the only one who was never switched from his position, at second. Gervais played at first except for the three innings he pitched last Sunday at Munising. Williams played right field in all the league games, and at first in an exhibition game with the Chicago Giants.

One can hardly blame Marquette for being reluctant to play the championship series. They don't turn out winners there very often and it would be a terrible blow if Gladstone should have dented them in a short series. While the local management is disappointed, still there is no hard feeling towards the Marquette management or the team, one that is a credit to upper peninsula baseball.

Lefty Patten wants to return if Gladstone has a team next year and regardless of what the management might be, it can be taken for granted that Lefty would be a welcome part of any team that might be formed. His playing has been dependable at all times.

Merwin Kircher has developed considerable during the year and he can easily be picked as the most consistent second baseman in the league. His hitting, while not heavy, has been timely. Gervais' playing also has been consistently good. He was handicapped through inability to practice because of his work at Nahma, but his

The Secret Adversary

By AGATHA CHRISTIE

"What you tell me about the girl puzzles me," said Mr. Carter. "You believe that she deliberately went back?"

"It would seem so, sir. She ran upstairs while I was getting the door open."

"Hm, she must belong to the gang, then; but, being a woman, didn't feel like standing by to see a personable young man killed. But evidently she's in with them, or she wouldn't have gone back."

"I can't believe she's really one of them, sir. She seemed so different—"

"Good-looking, I suppose?" said Mr. Carter with a smile that made Tommy flush to the roots of his hair. He admitted America's beauty rather shamefacedly.

"By the way," observed Mr. Carter, "have you shown yourself to Miss Tuppence yet? She's been hounding me with letters about you."

"Tuppence? I was afraid she might get a bit rattled. Did she go to the police?"

Mr. Carter shook his head.

"Then I wonder how they twigged me."

Mr. Carter looked inquiringly at him, and Tommy explained. The other nodded thoughtfully.

"True, that's rather a curious point. Unless she mentions the name of an accidental remark?"

"It might have been, sir. But they must have found out about me suddenly in some way."

"Well," said Mr. Carter, looking round him, "there's nothing more to be done here. Good-by. Remember you're a marked man now, and take reasonable care of yourself!"

"Thank you, sir."

Hailing a taxi briskly Tommy stepped in, and was swiftly borne to the Ritz, dwelling in the bliss of the pleasurable anticipation of starting Tuppence, but his enthusiasm received a check. He was informed that Miss Cowley had gone out a quarter of an hour ago.

CHAPTER XI

The telegram.

Baffled for the moment, Tommy strolled into the restaurant, and ordered a meal of surpassing excellence. His four days' imprisonment had taught him anew to value good food.

He was in the middle of conveying a particularly choice morsel to his mouth, when he caught sight of Julius entering the room. At the sight of Tommy, Julius' eyes seemed as though they would pop out of his head.

"Holy snakes!" he ejaculated. "Is it really you? Say, man, don't you know you've been given up for dead? I guess we'd have had a solemn requiem for you in another few days."

"Who thought I was dead?" demanded Tommy.

"Tuppence."

"Where is Tuppence?"

"Isn't she here?"

"No, the fellows at the office said she'd just gone out."

"Gone shopping, I guess. But, say, don't you shoot that British calm of yours, and get down to it! What on God's earth have you been doing all this time?"

"If you're feeding her," replied Tommy, "order now. It's going to be a long story."

Julius drew up a chair to the opposite side of the table, summoned a hovering waiter, and dictated his wishes. Then he turned to Tommy.

"Fire ahead, I guess you've had some few adventures."

"One or two," replied Tommy modestly, and plunged into his recital.

Julius listened spell-bound. At the end he heaved a long sigh.

"Bully for you. Reads like a dime novel!"

He, in his turn, assumed the role of narrator, beginning with his unsuccessful reconnoitering at Bourne-mouth, he passed on to his return to London, the buying of the car, the growing anxieties of Tuppence, the call upon Sir James, and the sensational occurrences of the previous night.

"But who killed her?" asked Tommy. "I don't quite understand."

"The doctor kidded himself she took it herself," replied Julius dryly.

"And Sir James? What did he think?"

"Being a legal luminary, he is likewise a human oyster," replied Julius. "I should say he reserved judgment." He went on to detail the events of the morning.

"Lost her memory, eh?" said Tommy with interest. "By the way, that explains why they looked at me so queerly when I spoke of questioning her. Bit of a slip on my part, that! But it wasn't the sort of thing a fellow would be likely to guess."

There was a moment's pause, and then Tommy reverted to Mrs. Vandmeer's death.

"There's no doubt it was chloral. Let's go round to the scene of the crime. I wish we could get hold of Tuppence. The Ritz would enjoy the spectacle of the girl running."

Inquiry at the office revealed the fact that Tuppence had not yet returned.

"All the same, I guess I'll have a look round upstairs," said Julius. "She might be in my sitting-room."

He disappeared.

Suddenly a diminutive boy spoke at Tommy's elbow:

"The young lady—she's gone away by train. I think, sir," he murmured.

"What?" Tommy wheeled round upon him.

"The taxi, sir. I heard her tell the

"I heard her tell the driver Charing Cross and to look sharp."

driver Charing Cross and to look sharp.

Tommy stared at him, his eyes opening wide in surprise. Emboldened, the small boy proceeded. "So I thought, having asked for an A.B.O. and a Bradshaw—"

Tommy interrupted him:

"Why did she ask for an A.B.O. and a Bradshaw?"

"When I look her the telegram, sir."

"A telegram?"

"Yes, sir."

"When was that?"

"About half-past twelve, sir."

At that moment Julius came back. He held an open letter in his hand.

"I say, Hermselmer!" — Tommy turned to him. "Tuppence has gone out shouting on her own."

"Shucks!"

"Yes, she has. She went off in a taxi to Charing Cross in the decoy of a hurry after getting a telegram. His eyes fell on the letter in Julius' hand. "Oh, she left a note for you. That's all right. Where's she off to?"

"Almost unconsciously, he held out his hand for the letter, but Julius folded it up and placed it in his pocket. He seemed a trifle embarrassed.

"Dear Julius:

"It's always better to have things in black and white. I don't feel I can be bothered to think of marriage until Tommy is found. Let's leave it till then."

"Yours affectionately,

"TUPPENCE."

Tommy handed it back, his eyes shining. His feelings had undergone a sharp reaction. He now felt that Tuppence was all that was noble and disinterested. Had she not refused Julius without hesitation? True, the note betokened signs of weakness, but he could excuse that. It read almost like a bribe to Julius to spare him in his efforts to find Tommy, but he supposed she had not really meant it that way. Darling Tuppence, there was not a girl in the world to touch her! When down was Tom—his thoughts were brought up with a sudden jerk.

"As you say," he remarked, pulling himself together, "there's not a hint here as to what she's up to. Hi—Hein?"

The small boy came obediently.

"The thing here, do you remember what the young lady did with the telegram?"

Henry crumpled and spoke.

"She crumpled it up into a ball and threw it into the grate, and made a sort of noise like 'Whooop' air."

They hurried upstairs. Tuppence had left the key in her door. The room was as she had left it. In the fireplace was a crumpled ball of orange and white. Tommy disassembled and smoothed out the telegram.

"Come at once, Mount House, Ebury, Yorkshire, great developments—TOMMY!"

They looked at each other in stupefaction. Julius spoke first:

"I guess it means the worst. They've got her."

"What?"

"Sure thing! They signed your name and she fell into the trap like a lamb."

"My G—d! What shall we do?"

"Get busy, and so after her! Right now! There's no time to waste. It's simply luck that she didn't take the wire with her. If she had we'd probably never have traced her. But we've got to hustle. Where's that Bradshaw?"

The energy of Julius was infectious. Left to himself, Tommy would probably have gone down to the things out for a good half hour before he decided on a plan of action. But with Julius Hermselmer about, hustling was irresistible.

"Here we are, Ebury, Yorks. From King's Cross. Or St. Pancras. (Boy must have made a mistake. It was King's Cross, not Charing Cross.) It's that's the train she went by. 2:10, that's gone. 2:30 is the next."

"I say, Julius, what do they want her for, anyway?"

"I don't know, but I don't think it's their game to do her any harm," explained Tommy, puckering his brow with the strain of his mental processes. "There's a hostage, that's what she is. As long as they've got her, they've got the whip hand on us. See?"

"Sure thing," said Julius thoughtfully. "That's so."

"Besides," added Tommy, as an afterthought, "I've great faith in Tuppence."

The journey was wearisome, with many stops, and crowded carriages. Ebury was a deserted station with a solitary porter, to whom Tommy addressed himself.

"Can you tell me the way to the Mount house?"

"The Mount house? It's a tidy stop from here. The big house near the sea, you mean?"

Tommy asserted bravely. After listening to the porter's meticulous but perplexing directions, they prepared to leave the station. It was beginning to rain, and they turned up the collars of their coats as they trudged through the slush of the road. Suddenly Tommy halted.

"Wait a moment!" He ran back to the station and tackled the porter anew.

"Look here, do you remember a young lady who arrived by an earlier train, the 12:30 from London? She'd probably ask you the way to the Mount house."

"He described Tuppence as well as he could, but the porter shook his head. Several people had arrived by the train in question. He could not call to mind one young lady in particular.

Tommy rejoined Julius, and explained. Deprivation was settling down on him like a leaden weight. He felt convinced that their quest was going to be unsuccessful. The energy had over three hours' start. Three hours was more than enough for Mr. Brown. He would not ignore the possibility of the telegram having been found.

The way seemed endless. It was past seven o'clock when a small boy said them that "the Mount house" was just past the next corner.

A rusty iron gate swinging dimly on its hinges! An overgrown drive thick with leaves. There was something about the place that struck a chill to both their hearts.

A turn of the drive brought them in sight of the house. That too, seamed empty and deserted. Was it indeed to this desolate spot that Tuppence had been decoyed? It seemed hard to believe that a human footstep had passed this way for months. Julius jerked the rusty bell handle. A jangling peal rang discordantly, echoing round the emptiness within. No one came. They rang again and again—but there was no sign of life. Then they walked completely round the house. Everywhere silence, and shuttered windows.

"Nothing doing," said Julius. They retraced their steps slowly to the gate.

"There must be a village handy," continued the young American. "We'd better make inquiries there. They'll know something about the place, and whether there's been any one there lately."

"Yes, that's not a bad idea."

Proceeding up the road, they soon came to a little hamlet. On the outskirts of it, they met a workman swinging his bag of tools, and Tommy stopped him with a question.

"The Mount house? It's empty. Been empty for years. Mrs. Sweeney's got the key if you want to go over it—next to the post office."

Tommy thanked him. They soon found the post office, and knocked at the door of the cottage next to it. A clean, wholesome-looking woman opened it. She readily produced the key of the Mount house.

"Though I doubt if it's the kind of place to suit you, sir. In a terrible state of repair. Collings taking and all. 'Twould need a lot of money spent on it."

"That's all right. We'll have a look around this evening, anyway. By the way, you've not had a young lady here asking for this key today?"

The woman shook her head.

"No one's been over the place for a long time."

"Thanks very much."

They retraced their steps to the Mount house. At the front door swung back on its hinges, protesting loudly, Julius struck a match and examined the floor carefully. Then he shook his head.

"I'd swear no one's passed this way. Look at the dust. Thick. Not a sign of a footmark."

They wandered round the deserted house. Everywhere the same tale. Thick layers of dust apparently undisturbed.

"We'll go over it again tomorrow," said Tommy. "Perhaps we'll see more in the daylight."

BACK LAME AND ACHY?

The Advice of This Gladstone Resident Should Help You to Get Well! Do you suffer nagging backache? Feel dizzy, nervous and depressed? Are the kidney secretions irregular; breaking your rest? Likely your kidneys are at fault. Weak kidneys give warning. You have backache; rheumatic twinges. You feel weak, tired, all worn-out. Heed the warning! Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant of the kidneys.

Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Here is a Gladstone case. Wm. Beaudry, prop. shoe repair shop, 323 Michigan avenue, says: "Long hours of sitting at my work was the cause of my kidney trouble. My back was lame and sore and the ache I had in the small of it wore me out. My kidneys were weak and often I had to get up two or three times during the night to pass the secretions. One box of Doan's Pills drove the backache away and regulated my kidneys."

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
By Mrs. Oscar Brantly of Detroit

If you have any questions troubling you, shift your burdens to Mrs. Brantly, and watch for her answer in The Delta Reporter. She is a woman of considerable experience, and you will never regret following the advice she gives. Don't spend sleepless nights, and days of worry, when you can send an anonymous letter and receive a reply that will assist you in arriving at a decision. Her answers to the queries of other folks may help you.

Dear Mrs. Brantly:
I have been keeping company with a young man for the past three months and he seemed to care for me very much and vice versa. He was my escort at a dance three weeks ago, and there he introduced me to a former lady friend of his. Since that evening, he has been taking out this other girl, and I have not heard from him. I am 18 and considered good looking. I would like to win back his love, as I think of him all the time. Please tell me what I should do.

'AFFECTIONATE.'
Affectionate, I think it is futile for you to allow your thoughts to dwell on this young gentleman friend. If he cared for your company, he would seek it. The very fact that he has returned to this other girl, after perhaps tiring of her company as he has of yours proves that he is wishy-washy and not worth your thought, and time. No, affectionate, forget all about your love for him, and seek other acquaintances.

Dear Mrs. Brantly:
I am a girl of fifteen and am writing you because my parents think I am too young to go out with young men. I never stay out very late, but they contend that I should have no gentlemen acquaintances whatever. May be I am young, but other girls my age have their friends, and I don't see why I shouldn't. Please answer right away.

HOPING.
Hoping, I certainly do think you a bit too young to be keeping company with gentlemen friends. Parties and social events where your friends are present are a different matter. Surely there are school doings of that nature that you attend. You should take the advice of your parents at all times. You are young to be your own counselor. You will never regret having followed their guidance.

Dear Mrs. Brantly:
I am a girl of eighteen, and have kept company with two gentlemen for the past ten months and have been engaged since June, our wedding set for October. Recently I met another whom I feel that I like better. Before meeting this latter, I loved the first, but now, I can't see how I will ever be happy with him, when I am constantly thinking of this other man. However, this latter acquaintance has not asked me to marry him, and does not show me the attention or seem to care as much for me as the first. I think that will come in time. What shall I do? Would you advise me to break my engagement with the first? Do you think this other friend really cares for me? What is your solution to the problem?

PONDERING.
Pondering, I think you are a bit too young to really know which you love don't you? My advice to you is to wait a while. It is human nature to want what we haven't got, and appreciate less those things that come easily and without much effort on our part. This first man undoubtedly has more regards for you than your second acquaintance, although his love may not be returned on your part. If it is a case of marrying one or the other, I would advise the former, although, I think you ought to wait, and let time be the deciding factor. You are too young to marry. You should wait until your judgment is more mature, and then you will be able to choose unconsciously the one whom you love.

What a Chance!
"Well, you have already good protection against fire," conceded the persistent insurance salesman, "but how about a little ball insurance?"
"Such an idea!" snorted the business man. "How could you start a ball storm?"

UNCLE BEN SAYS:

"There is lots of folks with cross eyes that could cure 'em by smiling more."

TO MAKE A MAN

"It takes nine tailors to make a man" runs the old saying—and it is wrong. All the tailors on earth cannot make the semblance of a man in some cases, nor is the afflicted person much interested in their effort to counterfeit normal appearance.

What he wants is a real manhood—the ability to take a man's place in the world, shoulder to shoulder to the rest of us. And it is fulfillment of that desire, in whole or in part, that Chiropractic offers to many of abnormal physique.

Spinal curvature is one of the most distressing of deformities, but in many cases a course of adjustments will either correct or modify this condition. There are comparatively few cases of this type that cannot derive benefit from Chiropractic.

THIS BOY IS MUCH IMPROVED

"This is to certify that I took Chiropractic adjustments from March 12th, 1921 to November, 1922. These adjustments were for the purpose of correcting a very bad case of spinal curvature which I had had since a child. At the time adjustments were started I was 18 years of age. Previous to this time I had taken exercises and other treatments from doctors for this condition but with little results. At the time of starting Chiropractic adjustments I had a bad case of heart trouble, which on 17th disappeared. The benefits I derived have been permanent. My father states that he would not take any amount of money for the benefits I received, and I feel the same way about it."—Charles F. Matthew Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2125-C.

Base Ball Gossip

 playing was nevertheless of the top notch order. Harry Knapp was of value in the several positions he was called upon to play. The records of the other players were also good, although not as consistent.

The Escanaba players are going to stage a contest there next Sunday with a picked team from Gladstone. The Gladstone players are doing this independently of the former management.

The Soo Liners estimate that about $100 was cleared for the ball club at the benefit dance Labor Day. This will cut to season's deficit to under $300. A report of all receipts and disbursements will be printed at an early date. This will give the names of all those who donated to the baseball fund, including the amounts given to clear up the deficit. No solicitation is contemplated at this time, the directors intending to clear up the shortage. The management is very appreciative of the work of the Soo Liners who arranged the benefit dance.

With baseball out of the way, attention will be turned to the Gladstone high school football schedule, opening here Sept. 19 with Stephenson high. There are only two other home games for the season. Coach Kiel has the boys out for regular practice and he states that the material is promising.

Electrical Appliances
 That Spell Economy and Pleasure for the Housewife and Farmer

That's the line we carry. Is washing still a drudge for you? Consider a MAYTAG electric washer at terms that fit anyone's pocketbook. Do you still iron with the antiquated stove iron? An electric iron costs little more and saves you dollars and dollars in efficiency. Do you, Mrs. Housewife, still tire yourself out in a fruitless attempt to clean with the ordinary broom? Let us demonstrate a vacuum cleaner that will do the work quicker and cheaper.

These are but a few of the electrical appliances that this store carries. Call at our booth at the Fair Grounds if you wish to see them.
