STEPHENSON HIGH TAKEN INTO GLADSTONE CAMP BY 33-0 SCORE

The local football team started out the season by trimming Stephenson at the rate of 33-0.

Gladstone kicked off Stephenson received the ball and tried two punts. They punted, and Gladstone fumbled. The visitors recovered the ball. They tried to make any ground, so punted. Gladstone got the ball, and went down for the first touchdown. Elmer Peterson running 35 yards an extra point was made by a place kick.

Kiel's fighters were on the offensive throughout the game, Stephenson being unable to make any headway.

The last quarter was the scene of spectacular play. Four passes were completed. Noreus crossed the goal line for a touch down on a line plunge. Earl Peterson also made a touchdown on a pass, the game ending 33-0 to the credit of our men.

A neat sum was realized for the purchase of equipment for the team, the same being made a booster event. Despite the unpleasant weather, a good crowd was out to view the locals in action.

The men responsible for the victory are Ends, Earl Peterson and Irving Filmore; Tackles, Moore, Blomquist; with Foster substituting in the second quarter; Guards, Swas and Haxlund; Center, Kruger; Quarter back, Noreus and Neil Reese substituting; Half back Kogel and Full back, Elmer Peterson.

At Manistique Tomorrow Tomorrow Gladstone plays at Manistique. They have four of their regulars back, and with a record of having cleaned up on Munising last Saturday 15-0 are waiting for a few pep rounds with Gladstone. Kiel's men have been going through strenuous practice each day this week, to get in shape for a hard game.

Enthusiasm and school spirit has reached a zenith among the students with everyone arranging to attend the game in some way.

All those who have access to cars, or can obtain the use of one for the day are going to take up spectators to stand behind the team in the clash with Manistique. ACCIDENT VICTIM WILL SURVIVE

9 YEAR OLD YOUTH HIT BY CAR RETURNING FROM FOOT-BALL GAME SATURDAY

According to the latest reports concerning the condition of Carl Davis, nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis of Superior avenue, who was seriously injured when struck by a car last Saturday, he is past the crisis, and will live.

The youth was on his way home from the football game and crossing Ninth street opposite the ball park. He stood in the middle of the road, waiting for a car to pass him, coming from the Buckeye addition. A Ford sedan, driven by Mrs. Franklin from the North Hill, was approaching from Delta avenue at about the rate of thirty miles an hour, according to eye witnesses of the accident. The bumpers of the car struck the boy, hitting him on the fender, and throwing him to the cement pavement.

Ralph Cornell and James Murphy who were passing picked up the unconscious lad, and carried him to the office of Dr. A. H. Miller where medical attention was given. He was taken to the home of his parents, where he lay in a state of insensibility until early the following morning. Days of semi-consciousness followed.

At first it was feared that the child received a fractured skull, but a recent report would be fatal, or a rupture of the brain, and severe head and body bruises.

Although it will be a long time before Carl is able to join his companions, his recovery is certain.

SPEEDER IGNORES STOP SIGN; CARS COLLIDE

Arthur Olson was in the company of a party of friends and had been racing with another car all the way from Brampton. He failed to see the stop sign at the corner and was not acquainted with the fact that he was entering a state highway and collided with the Closs car which was headed north.

No one suffered very serious injuries although Mr. Closs was badly bruised and shaken up. Both cars are total wrecks. The great force with which the two struck caused the Ford to spin round four times, according to witnesses.

2ND INSTALLMENTS DUE OCTOBER 1ST

PREPARING STATEMENTS OF AMOUNT DELINQUENT ON SEWER PROJECTS

The second installments on the Minnesota avenue and Ninth street pavements are now due for collection, at city treasurer's office. Mr. Buschner announced yesterday, in the case of the Minnesota avenue pavement, they were given five years. The first installment of the amount was paid September 15, 1924.

In accordance with the provisions of the City Charter, and resolutions by the City Commission confirming the West Michigan avenue sewer and the west Wisconsin sewer extension, statements are being compiled by the City Manager showing in detail the amount delinquent against each property owner. These will be certified by the City Assessor by October 1, after which the amount delinquent will be spread by the City Assessor on the next general tax roll, including interest at 6 per cent up to December 10. Two notices have been sent out previously by the City Treasurer appraising the property owners who are delinquent.

The amount delinquent on the Michigan avenue sewer is $122.92 and in the case of the Wisconsin avenue sewer extension $565.95 not including the interest.

The state law provides that in the event delinquent assessments are not paid after they have been spread on the December tax roll, they shall then be returned to the County Treasurer who advertises the property for sale, three years after which time the property is sold to pay the delinquent taxes.

SEWER COMPLETED

Nebel Brothers have completed the contract which was awarded to them by the City Commission August 24, for the construction of main and lateral sewers on east Wisconsin between Fourth and Fifth streets. Notices have been sent out by the City Treasurer appraising the property owners of the first installment which is payable October 1.

The committee in charge is Olaf O'Gren chairman, Hugo Berglund, Harold Nelson, Walter Larson, Mesdames Charles Erickson and August Johnson.

Our Reporter Observes--

THAT cold weather sure must be on its way. We witnessed our first northern lights the other night, and although beautiful, their cold gleam had an icy look.

THAT most of our gardens have resolved themselves into a pile of potato vines and corn stalks awaiting sufficient sun to bring them to a state of possible combustion.

THAT farmers are daily callers with their wagons, and the old mare patiently waiting while the driver makes his rounds from house to house.

THAT other cities are already making plans for carrying on night schools. After we have had an evidence of the good accomplished locally we should feel rather sorry about starting one for 1925 and '26.

THAT drivers on the road with no lights, no lights and with two bright lights that they refuse to dim ought to be given their just deserts for a change.

THAT according to the opinions of other cities, and many local folks the Baseball team of '26 will be home fast, and minus professional players.

THAT local deaths are exceeding the births of late.

THAT the temperature has reached that degree that roasts and outdoor parties are not in vogue.

The School Calendar

Sept. 14 to 21 A SCHOOL IDYL (School boy's Version) Run it in, run it in, Children's heads are a-howl. Run it in, run it in, Still there's more to follow...

A Boston Baked Lad

Tod was deeply engrossed in a book of philosophical logic and his brow was wrinkled in concentrated thought. His mother called from downstairs. 'Tod, fetch me a stick of wood.' 'Ah, mother,' replied Tod, 'the grand old portion of your education has been sadly neglected. You should say, Tod my son, transport from that recumbent collection of conundrums material on the threshold of this edifice one of those curtailed excrescences of du-junct log.'

The Senior class should figure prominently in the next published income tax list since they are acquiring an immense fortune through the sale of their left-over pencils.

History in a Nutshell

Some time after the school system was adopted by the Navy, a Filipino was directed to write an essay on George Washington. His contribution was as follows: 'George Washington was born here. He was an American person. He was not free. He said for England on my ship and say to King. I express declarations of independence for American persons. King he say, 'Nobility' don't and Mr. Washington tell Admiral. Dewie he shoot big guns at him. Blamey King, he say he will not run over American persons again. Let George do he say, and today American persons are free.'

Certain members of the Physics class have discovered that illustrating Hooke's law is mighty hard on the prayer-bones.

Biology Field Trip

The Ninth grade Biology class headed by Miss Archer, made a field trip last Tuesday and Wednesday, part of the class going one day and part going the next day.

Many mysterious insects, reptilia and pieces were found. Howard Messenger won the laurel wreath for catch and kill. From the while Roger Kirch has as a result of his catch, an inexhaustible supply of fish stories.

One very thrilling event happened on this adventurous field trip. It seems that three maidens, while occupied in the difficult task of mounting a fowl, espied a stray brindle placidly regarding them. Instantly all was confusion, the girls clinging to one another in terror while gossed again at them rather inquisitively as if wondering what the rumpus was all about. Happily, Louie Messenger came along and like a true knight of old rescued the three damsels in distress thereby winning their undying gratitude.

The only other incident occurred when Helen Wellman while crossing the river became top-heavy and tumbled into the river with a very decided splash. The class returned with many interesting trophies which were placed in the aquarium. Certain frogs are unusually active to the great consternation of certain members of the Physics class who must work uncomfortably close to the aquarium, for you know, frogs can jump!

Eighth Grade Science Class

The Eighth grade science class visited (on their Tuesday) on their first field trip. It proved to be very interesting, especially when Tod Ewald attempted to cross the river on a small log and at the same time roll his eyes at pretty Elizabeth Bedding. Consequently the river came up and a bit of Tod's nose to the great grief of the on-lookers, especially Miss Bedding.

The class discovered that the Rapid River was a young stream; they found many instances of water erosion and found illustrations of the different kinds of soil about their Rapid River. Everyone enjoyed their first field trip and are anxiously awaiting another one.

Saltwater Bird Shot

A man in California makes a living by picking up bird shot. He asks permission to wade the shooting fields of gun clubs for bird shot. Then he sweeps up the ground within a 300-foot radius of the shooting point. He lifts the shot from the dirt, and sells it to lead bars for commercial use.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Oscar Branty of Detroit

If you have any questions troubling you, write your questions to Mrs. Branty and watch for her answer in The Delta Reporter. She is a woman of considerable experience, and you will never regret following the advice she gives. Don't spend sleepless nights, and days of worry, when you can send an anonymous letter and receive a reply that will assist you in arriving at a decision. Her answers to the queries of other folks may help you.

Dear Mrs. Branty: I am a member of a group of girls, five in number. We always "click" together, and have many enjoyable times. We are all between the ages of 17 and 20, have been in school and grown up together. We often "stage" dances, go on roasts and such parties. Of late, our attending dances alone has become the subject of comment. We have chances to go with escorts, but prefer to go alone because we are busy. Do you think there is anything wrong about it? We will be aided in the future by your answer.

Dear Mrs. Branty: "Five" you know, that "staggering" dances is not the accepted thing to do. It is considered unladylike. However, I know that in some towns, the condition prevails that the young men are lacking in their part of the program. They attend dances alone, and the girls do likewise. While this is not right, if the girls do not go alone, they don't go at all. You say you have opportunities to go with escorts, and I advise you to avail yourselves of these chances and go with the young men.

Dear Mrs. Branty: I am in a terrible predicament, and am coming to you as my only refuge. Please do not disappoint me, but give me some advice in your next issue. My sister has been keeping company with a young man two years her senior. He is just my age. This gentleman is good looking, and everything that one would wish an escort to be. My sister has been deeply in love with him and he seems to be with her, but lately, we have become myself and the young man and I have come to believe that he cares more for me. He says that he would like to take me out, but fears to injure the feelings of my sister. I do not want this to happen, but yet, I am deeply in love with him. They are not engaged, but I know my sister is taking the matter seriously and expects to marry him in time. Please tell me what to do. I have not confided my feelings to my sister for fear of spoiling her good times with him. I will be waiting for your answer in the next issue.

MAUD: Well Maud, I advise you to leave the matter entirely up to the young man. If he desires your company in preference to hers, he will find a way out. Place yourself in your sister's "shoes." How would you feel to have your own sister play the "Judas" part, and rob you of your sweetheart. I think this man very considerate in not wanting to injure the feelings of your sister. If he does not find a way out himself, you may be certain that he is content with the acquaintance of your sister, and I would seek my company elsewhere. I think your emotions merely for the moment, and you will profit lots more by doing the kinder thing in the case, and not interfering in this sister's love affair.

Dear Mrs. Branty: My problem is one in many, and one that I think you are seldom-confronted with. I am 25 years old and am still on the lookout for that life mate. In my youth I dreamed of a happy home and always tried to fit myself to be a good housekeeper. I did not enjoy the company of the opposite sex, and often shunned their acquaintance, preferring to be alone and waiting for the man of my dreams. I am still waiting. The other girls who ran around, and had good times, so called, "sowed" their wild oats, are married by now, and happy, while I am still waiting. What's wrong Mrs. Branty? A home means more to me than it does to many of them I am sure. I am not old-maidish. I am considered fairly good looking, and I see no reason why I am doomed to live the life of the hermit.

I have never even had a proposal, but I know this is because I have shunned the acquaintance of every man I have ever met. There are no suitable, I keep thinking, but yet in my subconscious mind, I keep waiting for that Prince Charming. I have had a college education, and am employed as a private secretary, but I am tired of it all, and am afraid of the old maid career.

LONESOME: That man of your dreams may be a long time coming, Lonesome, but he's on his way, never fear. You'll never regret that you have tried to be a lady always, and don't despair. I am sure that you will be a wonderful housekeeper. Perhaps at this very minute, there is a young man, who is waiting for just such a woman as you. The old saying, "Every dog has his day" will not be an exception in your case, so I say again, don't despair, but remember that patience conquers all, and likewise will it conquer your problem. Rousseau has said, "Patience is bitter, but his fruit is sweet." Apply that in your case. The man of your dreams is on his way right now.

Dear Mrs. Branty: My girl friend has a gentleman acquaintance, who cares for her very much. Her affections do not seem to be the same way, yet I think that in her inner self she really does care for him, but because she knows that he likes her, she lets herself along, not appreciating it. You know what I mean Mrs. Branty, we always like those things better that we have to work hard for, and his love has been easy getting. The problem that I want to present is this. This girl is taller than the young man, and larger built in general. Not caring for his company so very much, it makes it easier for her to see those little things. She wants to give up his company for several little matters of this nature. She cares a great deal for appearance, and continually argues about the "picture" they make as they walk down the street her a half head taller than he. This young man will be broken hearted if she should "cold shoulder" him. Please tell me what I can do to keep them together. My girl friend does not know that I am writing to you, so please answer in the next issue, and I will see that she does not get to see that particular paper.

WORRIED: Yes, Worried, I think you have guessed the situation about right. I too believe that she cares for this young man, but does not know it. I have a suggestion, I would get this man to take me out. Tell him about it, and let him play the game too. She will immediately become jealous, and want his company once more. Then he can return to her and if I don't miss my guess she will receive him with open arms. These jealous folks are hard to deal with. They want some thing, yet they are so inappreciative that they don't know what they've got till they lose it. I'd try that if I were you. You'd be interested to hear of the outcome.

PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

(By Ed. A. Nowack)

Bird life has been given the most serious set back in the state's history this year due to forest fires that claim an innumerable birds. Rabbits and other small game suffered likewise, entailing a loss that hundreds of thousands of dollars in conservation money cannot replace.

There are fifteen active mines now operating in the copper country in the northern peninsula of Michigan. Senator Frank P. Bohn, on his summer home at Whitefish Lake, near Newberry, has sunk an artesian well 107 feet deep, that supplies the drinking water for his place.

There are 20 lakes and eight streams on the two townships of Marquette county land that last month was sold to a syndicate of Chicago sportsmen for a private game refuge. These owners will stock their streams and lakes, will employ their own fire wardens and game wardens, and will pay the taxes on this property which was in process of reversion to the state. The land was sold for $166 per acre. Its assessed value is $237 per acre.

At the direction of Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck the German brown trout in the Otter river, in northern Michigan—only stream in the state to possess them—will be transplanted in other streams in a final effort to help the fish stage a come back.

Two of the largest copper mines in the upper peninsula have suffered an annual loss of about $350,000 due to the theft of silver, that was mined along with the copper. One upper peninsula mine is reported to have made a fortune of $250,000 out of dealing in stolen silver.

Senator James Wilcox, dean of the Michigan State Senate spends his summers on Lake Superior shores in Ontonagon county where he has fitted an unused school room with hand made rustic furniture.

A sign board at the city limits, Ann Arbor, tells the tourists that it is the city where "Commerce and Education Meet."

The Ionis Free Fair that is boasted so ardently by Fred Keister is being studied from every angle by many counties that are thinking of adopting the same kind of fair.

There is enough trap rock in Marquette county to build five million miles of splendid highway, according to students of geology.

Finger prints identified 17 persons in Detroit this year who met violent death, either through design or accident.

For the fiscal year now closed Michigan has cared for 9,741 insane persons in her institutions, 802 deaf mutes, 745 blind persons, 154 idiots, 3,143 feeble minded, 936 epileptics and 338 persons who were either deaf or dumb.

The Michigan National Forest between the Soo and Newberry is showing the state conservation department a new wrinkle in real conservation in the manner in which warning signs are erected and protected from the elements.

Copper mines on Michigan's copper range now are engaged in re-grinding the copper from the stamp and that has been run through the mills in the last quarter of a century. About six percent of copper is recovered.

The state has taken over the maintenance of the bridge over the Portage river between Hancock and Houghton and has made it a part of trunk lines M-12 and M-36.

The new pier at the state owned ferry at Mackinac City is composed of huge boulders that were freighted from Drummond Island by lighter. Hundreds of thousands of tons of rock were thus procured for the pier.

Dear Editor:

I am a mother of several sons, and can't resist telling you what I think of this town. Everyone is talking about the folks of some other locality, and minding every one else's business but their own. If they'd leave Escanaba alone and give their attention to their own kids, they'd be plenty busy. The young men of our town don't receive any help whatsoever. When there is a good position open, out of town men are hired, with the result that our own boys have to seek employment out of town themselves. These outsiders that come in here aren't interested in us, and don't work for the interests of Gladstone like our own young men would, and can't be blamed for that. They've got a little home town some place, that they have centered their attention upon. The young people of our city, will make its future. If we spend our money educating them to go elsewhere, give others the benefit of their education, and the taxes we have paid for that education, what are we ever going to amount to? We've got to hand it to Escanaba for the assistance they give their young people just starting out in life anyway. The business men there combine to help the boys and girls, and that's exactly what I think our business men ought to do. Then, and only then, will we be on the right road, and that road will be to a prosperous future, and success. Quit knocking outside of town and in town, and devote your time to civic betterment.

THE U. S. Army and Navy have been thoughtfully in many respects through the years. In some ways there has never been any changes. There are rules and regulations whose value has long ago been overthrown but a conservative person has insisted on continuing the in force. Critics intended to throw light on such antiquated methods as are in vogue are ignored if possible, and when this fails, some other procedure is followed. Colonel William Mitchell suffered a year ago as the result of his too ready suggestions for the betterment of the army and navy air service. At that time he was demoted for publishing an article exposing matters of the old fashioned ideas that are still obtained in the service. The Colonel took his demotion in good grace and continued his attacks. He believes there should be a separate branch for the air service which just now is made a part of both the army and navy. His superior officers don't believe as he does. So they have disposed of him by relieving him of further duty as air officer in the Eighth Corps. The Colonel's statements have not been in vain however as an aircraft investigating board has been appointed and he will be called upon to testify. The action is now aroused sufficiently to ascertain the matter getting a hearing, that may get results if the criticism has been constructive and opens the way to bettering the country's defense forces.

It would be interesting to learn how the Escanaba Traction company managed to operate through all these years, if, as it has contended in its application for an increased fare, it has been operated at a loss. The Michigan Public Utilities Commission having granted a ten-cent fare in Escanaba, it will also be interesting to note how the company's revenue will be affected. During the years and the period of high cost for everything, the Traction company managed to get by, giving at all times a reliable service. It is true that it is one of the few electric railways that maintained the five cent fare. However, if it could operate for so long a time on a five-cent fare, it would appear that it could have found relief in a fare much lower than the ten-cent rate now allowed the company. The fare was not changed in Gladstone, the city commission here having denied the company's request to place the question before the commission for a hearing. The fare was not changed in Wells township for the same reason. Instead of the fare within the city limits is concerned, it matters little what it is as there are few if any, compelled to ride on the cars. If the rate is unreasonable, they will simply walk and save the nickel which the company is now getting. The one who needs protection however is the workman who must travel on the street cars going and coming to and from his place of employment. The days of the electric railway in the small town are numbered and when a company seeks relief in a higher fare it is simply insisting the day when the public will realize it can get along very well without its service.

CLOSED season on partridge in Marquette, Iron, Houghton and Keweenaw counties has been ordered by the State Conservation department, the ruling coming in response to agitation started in the above counties by local sportsmen. The Commission was empowered by an act of the Legislature to regulate the season on game birds in accordance with what appeared to conserve and protect game and fish. In connection with the ruling on partridge in the four counties, the Commission also announced the closing of all feeder tributaries to trout streams for a five-year period. The Director will designate streams in which taking will be permitted. This ruling should do much to conserve the trout. But the Delta Reporter regards the ruling on the partridge season as entirely out of order. To have one county open for hunting partridge and the one next to it closed is an absurd situation, absolutely unnecessary. Either the upper peninsula should be closed, or it should be open. Protection is not needed in one county more than it is in another. As the latter now stands there is nothing to prevent Marquette county hunters from coming to Alger, Delta or any of the other surrounding counties for their partridge hunting. And it can be expected that even among those who afflicted counties there will be hunters who will hunt in their neighbor counties in a ridiculous situation, just as the one in regards to bounties on wolves. Some counties pay a bounty others do not. Half of the counties could pay the bounty for ever, and the wolves would yet remain a menace. It should be all of none. And it should be an open or closed season on partridge. There are times when a half loaf is better than no loaf, but in this case it should be all or none.

SPOKESMEN of the upper peninsula are now agitated by another matter in the recent acquisition by the Hamilton club of Chicago of 40,000 acres of land, which will be converted into a game and fishing preserve for the Chippewas. The tract is 75 square miles in extent, made up of plains, swamp and second growth timber. The Chicago men plan to build clubs and hunting shacks. It will make for a hunting paradise from which the public will be excluded. And while on first thought this appears to be an advantageous way of disposing of cut-over lands, still it is not surprising that opposition should appear as it is not very pleasant to think of these non-resident hunters being permitted to hold such large tracts as a hunting preserve. The Magazine Rod and Gun Club has adopted a resolution which clearly sets forth its opposition to the acquisition of such holdings by private individuals. It is true that if one club of wealthy men can acquire such a tract there is no nothing to prevent other clubs from following the same procedure, and before long there would be nothing left for the public to enjoy the woods and waters of northern Michigan. Certainly something should be done without delay to limit the private holdings for game preserves.

MURDOCK BROS. had been for 18 years leading dealers in ladies' ready-to-wear in Champlain, Ill. The town where the University of Illinois is located. Two years ago the firm ceased its advertising in the Campaign News Gazette. Just recently the firm went out of business, the doors were closed voluntarily to avert being thrown into bankruptcy. E. L. Murdock, who there after some time, he and his brother realized that failure to advertise in their newspaper hurt their business. The wise business person, and the wise buyer too, realizes that after some time, he should place that gets the business. The more business done, the quicker the turn over, the better able is the store to sell on a close margin. Some few associates in remaining in business without advertising. But who ever heard of a business being built up in these days of competition without advertising? One has only to look around for the five cent fare. If it were not advertised, just compare it with the store that does advertise.

THERE is considerable comment in Cleveland papers relative to the license fee to be charged carnivals. Iron Mountain has set the daily fee at $200. Ironwood at $200 and Marquette at $100. Gladstone ought to follow suit. While it is true that the carnivals that have visited here in recent years have done so under the auspices of some local organization and in that way have avoided paying the $5 fee set by the ordinance, this should not prevent collecting a license on future attractions that may want to come here. There was a circus, so called, that visited here last summer that did more than enough harm to cause the barring of such cheap shows for all time to come. By setting a high license fee, it might be that only the better class of entertainment will be tented to come here. The amusements brought here by local organizations have caused little or no trouble, for the reason that they were better supervised. These probably should not be barred but every precaution should be taken to assure their worth before they are scheduled to come here.

THE State of Michigan proposes to enforce the dinner law which became effective last month. Already a check up is being made of the manner in which the law is being complied with. The law reads: "The electric headlights shall be dimmed on approaching another vehicle traveling in an opposite direction and within 600 feet of same." The law is backed by the best intentions but we submit that traveling between here and Escanaba, or between Gladstone and Rapid River, there is hardly any stretch where another car is so near as to approach within the 600 feet specified. That being so, in order to comply with the law, a driver is practically compelled to drive with dimmers all the distance. And while the law in effect drivers will do well to heed its provisions. Our contention is that the law is all wrong and that it should be rescinded at the first opportunity. Just why it should be necessary to use dimmers has never appeared clear to this writer.

The Glory of Living

Do something today to bring gladness To someone whose pleasures are few. Do something to drive away sadness Or cause someone's dream to come true. Find time for a neighborly greeting And time to enjoy an old friend—Remember, the years are so fleeting—That life's final day soon will end. Do something today that tomorrow Will prove to be truly worth while; Help someone to overcome sorrow And greet the new dawn with a smile. For only through kindness, and giving Of service and friendship and cheer, Can we learn the glory of living And find heaven's happiness here.

WITH wide roads, there does not appear to be any reason why an driver should be troubled with another's lights. Those we have heard complain the most were drivers who looked ahead into the approaching lights instead of keeping their eyes to the road ahead. If they would do that, they would soon learn that dimming is an unnecessary will. There is no danger in the use of dimmers, but in this case the danger is for the pedestrians along the right of way. The ordinary dimmer will not reveal an object on the road for 50 feet ahead, that is the ordinary speed is maintained, there is always much chance for an accident. States like Wisconsin have done away with the dimming rule entirely. Michigan, the state where auto comes from, is way behind the times when it endeavors to enforce a dimming law. Exception should be made only on a narrow road where caution is really necessary in passing cars.

THEY never learn. For several years the so-called conservative Democrats and Republicans of Wisconsin have endeavored to unite to defeat what they call LaPolletteism. With the passing of "Fighting Bob" it seems they are going to try the scheme all over again. And just as the people resented and defeated the effort of these polluted busy-bodies, just so will they do it again. The people have already shown by their majority vote for Bob Jr. for the nomination to succeed his father, that they prefer to make their own selection. That is what the ballot is for. The effort to unite on some candidate to defeat LaPollette continues but it will fail, just as such efforts have failed before. LaPollette will be elected and when he comes up for re-election, he, like his father, can stand on his record, just as his father did before him. If his conduct has been in line with what his constituents expect, he will be continuing in office, regardless of the questionable means taken to defeat him. There is absolutely no reason why any group in Washington or elsewhere should tell the people of Wisconsin what sort of Republicans they should be.

Work is going steadily at the Mashek plant south of the city, but it will not be in readiness for business before next spring. Besides the chemical plant, other industries are contemplated and it is said that a charcoal iron furnace is to be one of them. John P. Holm who has been confined to his home for the past three weeks by an injury to his foot which was jammed between two cakes of ice at the warehouse is getting around again and will be about town next week. J. L. Matthews was married September 13 to Miss Maud Atkins of the Soo. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McDonough Monday, Sept. 7. Postmaster Laing has made some needed repairs to the office this week the heavy business done lately having made the floor somewhat out of level. Dr. Bjorkman has decided to remain in his present situation at Delta and Eighth streets at least until next year. 29 YEARS AGO (Gladstone Delta, Sept. 23, 1905) Joseph Brusseau, aged 52, died suddenly in his saloon at the head of Delta avenue last Friday afternoon. He was talking to a man at the bar, when his eyelids dropped and he sank slowly to the floor. Dr. Kee, who was called, pronounced it a case of apoplexy, and it was thought unnecessary to hold an inquest. He was buried Sunday in the Catholic cemetery in unhalloved ground. His sister arrived in town Monday from Canada. Capt. Fisher and Alderman Tardiff and Call went out Sunday to Moss Lake in search of the festive wild duck and returned the same day. They were able to carry their game without assistance. Victor Peterson's little boy was bitten by a dog Monday, and Marshal Murker was called in to shoot the animal. After a long discussion the payment of damages was waived. The quarantine for diphtheria was removed from the houses last Saturday, the town may be considered fairly safe. S. Goldstein has moved his desk downstairs in his store, to save the trouble of climbing the stairs. Irving McEwen and Miss E. C. Dory were married at Sioux Falls, N. D. on Sept. 14. Born, Friday, Sept. 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cassels, a son. Mrs. Anna Riley and Mrs. James Maguire visited Mrs. Mick's Sunday. Marie, the one-year old daughter of Louis Duby, died Tuesday and was buried Thursday. The grading on Ninth street is finished. The sidewalk on the east side of the street will be put in next week. It is hoped that the graveling can be done this fall. The south end of Ninth from Delta to Michigan ought to be gravelled also. Rapid River with its reinforced team, defeated Gladstone Sunday and bore off the prize, by a score of 10 to 8. Aid Heuck met Monday night, assisted by Aid. Ingalls adjourned until

MEMORIES

Items of interest of Gladstone and its citizens of years gone by. 22 YEARS AGO (Gladstone Delta Sept. 19, 1903) There was no council meeting Monday evening for want of a quorum. F. Martindick has arrived from Chicago to join the force in Rosenblum's store. Mr. Martindick has had long experience in the large department stores in Chicago, and brings valuable knowledge with him of the wants of customers and the means of satisfying their needs. His service will be of great assistance to customers at Rosenblum's. Mrs. T. W. McDonough left by Goodrich train for Chicago early Tuesday morning. Mr. McDonough will join them next week and after a few days spent with friends in the metropolis all will return together. Baker, F. F. the proprietor of the tonorial parlors did really and truly move last Wednesday and has since attended strictly to business in his new shop. It will probably continue to do so, and avoid publicity hereafter. But he certainly has borne his affliction with marvelous patience and deserves a great run of luck.

A Weekly Panorama of Events in the National Capital, by Peter Keegan for the Delta Reporter.

MEXICO HAS TAKEN THE spotlight again. After a series of conferences with Secretary of State Kellogg, Ambassador James H. Sheffield is returning to his post at Mexico City with a communication which it is believed will do much to explain the American attitude on the many points at issue between the two governments. The reported dilatory tactics employed by Mexico in settling American claims arising out of their land laws, which are aimed at breaking up large estates are the main reason for the present difficulties. Sheffield, whose health can not survive the high altitude of Mexico City, is expected to resign within a few months.

SECRETARY OF STATE Kellogg has won his first important diplomatic victory, although only in office slightly more than six months. He has succeeded in forcing the Powers to hold a conference aimed at revision of China's treaty relations with foreign governments. Kellogg started the movement for a study of Chinese treaty relations more than three months ago when he announced the "time had arrived" for a thorough investigation of whether or not the present arrangement, which was the main object of the conference, he suggested the commission meet at Peking on December 18.

YOUNG BOB LaPollette, whose election to his late father's seat in the Senate is now a foregone conclusion, will be barred from Republican party councils if certain leaders have Wisconsin primaries as a Republican party, a policy which caused the banishment of LaPollette from Republican ranks, will incline leaders to favor the same type of discipline for Young Bob. A strong movement, however, is now under way to withhold action until his actions in Congress have demonstrated whether or not the son is a "chip off the old block".

THE FRENCH debt negotiations with the United States will probably determine whether President Coolidge will call a new disarmament conference. Should the French receive concessions from the American Commission, it was thought today they would be based on an understanding that France would agree to limit her armament along the lines decided upon at the proposed conference. France, with the greatest military establishment in the world, is regarded as the main obstacle in the way of a successful world wide disarmament.

THE FINDINGS of the committee now investigating military and consular violation will determine whether the Administration will support legislation aimed at radically changing America's aviation policy in the next Congress. President Coolidge's action in suddenly naming a committee to study the subject was understood to be based on a desire to settle the whole involved subject once and for all. If changes in policy are believed necessary they will be rushed through the next Congress. PRESIDENT COOLIDGE brought back a fine crop of freckles from Swampscott, Mass., where he spent his summer vacation. Close friends insist that the three months sojourn at White Court was so beneficial that the chief executive is now in better health than when he first became President.

They will cite all kinds of examples, telling you that this one saw an accident and the blood formed a wing shaped pool. When the child was born the next day it had a birth mark—a red stain just like blood and its shape was that of a butterfly. "It was due to the sight which the mother had witnessed." Well—it is not! Birth marks and little tumors made up of blood vessels and they are produced by a defective development of the circulatory system. The excitement of the mother may have felt had nothing to do with the matter. Some mothers are sure that they are quite sure that because they spent hours at the piano before the baby was born, the child was a musician. Others read poetry in the hope that they will make their offspring poets. Many go to the art galleries to study the paintings in the hope that they will have children famed as artists. Why is it that some mothers who do all these things have commonplace children who have no ear for music, no love for poetry and are bored by art? And why is it that the son of a woman who by some unfortunate turn in affairs has to scrub floors for a living and short to keep up the work until shortly before the baby arrives, does not have a mop-complex but is singularly gifted as a sculptor? Let me tell you something. The moment the two germinal cells united, a new life began and its characteristics were all there at that moment. They may be characteristics dominantly the mother's or they may be those of the father; certainly they will be a mixture of qualities which came down from all the ancestors of both parents. A child may be more like his great-great-grandfather than like either. No matter. He will have inherent talents at the moment of conception and if he is not a member of a family with latent or prominent active talent, all the hours spent at the piano will not make him a musician. What a terrible race of monsters we would be in the world if maternal emotions, aroused by the sights and accidents of the day, or if her activities could "mark" the unborn, helpless child! That it is impossible for a mother to "mark" a child, we should be thankful.

MEMORIES Items of interest of Gladstone and its citizens of years gone by. 22 YEARS AGO (Gladstone Delta Sept. 19, 1903) There was no council meeting Monday evening for want of a quorum. F. Martindick has arrived from Chicago to join the force in Rosenblum's store. Mr. Martindick has had long experience in the large department stores in Chicago, and brings valuable knowledge with him of the wants of customers and the means of satisfying their needs. His service will be of great assistance to customers at Rosenblum's. Mrs. T. W. McDonough left by Goodrich train for Chicago early Tuesday morning. Mr. McDonough will join them next week and after a few days spent with friends in the metropolis all will return together. Baker, F. F. the proprietor of the tonorial parlors did really and truly move last Wednesday and has since attended strictly to business in his new shop. It will probably continue to do so, and avoid publicity hereafter. But he certainly has borne his affliction with marvelous patience and deserves a great run of luck.

Two Wobbly Wheels; A Mother And Her Son; And—Detroit-ward Ho!

(By Harold Knox in Birmingham Eclectic.)

Strange sight met the eye last Friday morning in Birmingham. Traveling its way among many automobiles, came a cart, consisting of a rude planking laid on two large wagon wheels that wobbled crazily as they revolved on their axles. But the astonishing part of this turnout was that a man was the boat of burden and a woman his load.

They halted before a grocery on North Woodward avenue and the man, an unkempt specimen who had allowed nature to take its course in regard to his hair and beard, went into the store for provisions. His companion, left alone to face the public, returned one gaze as unconcernedly as if she saw nothing unusual in her mode of travel. The most interesting part of her mean attire was her ingenious "baldie," an impoverished turban of dirty white cheesecloth that almost completely covering her close-cropped hair, gave her an outlandish appearance.

Left Grand Rapids

Though old and feeble, she seemed to welcome the opportunity to talk and simply, good-humoredly, told a tale of hardships that were reminiscent of pioneer days. About two weeks ago she and her son had left Grand Rapids for Detroit. All their worldly possessions went with them in a real wagon drawn by a genuine horse, but the quadruped developed an unexpected malady and died before they were many miles from their starting point. Thereupon, the son put himself in the shafts, for they had no money with which to provide any other form of locomotion.

Struck By Automobile

As they were approaching Flint one night after dark, an automobile struck the wagon, broke it to bits, tossed the old woman forty times as high as the moon, and completely demolished all their household furniture. Nothing remained to be done except to patch up a cart from the debris. Two wheels and a few planks were salvaged and put together; some blankets, pans and clothes were collected; the son lifted his mother, whose hip was injured, onto the cart, and away they went one more, proceeding without further mishap to Birmingham.

By this time the man had returned with his purchases and stood by running his fingers through his beard. Seeing our attention attracted by some noises issuing from a box at the old woman's side, he said loudly, "We have some babies with us," and pulled out two doves. These, it seemed, were all that remained of the livestock with which they had started.

Receive Contributions

A man came up and laid a quarter in the woman's lap. She took a large handkerchief from her coat, unfolded it, and disclosed a pile of pennies, dimes and quarters which, she proudly said, had been given them along the way, and "they hadn't asked for no help since they started." Her weather-beaten face, creased with hundreds of wrinkles, crinkled still more as she made this boast, and her bright blue eyes under their hairless lids glanced nervously around for commendation.

They refused to disclose their names and we had to be content with the fact that she had lived in Detroit 45 years, then moved to Grand Rapids where she remained until her "man" died this summer. The call of the city where so many of her years had been spent proved too strong for resistance and her son, a wanderer on the face of the earth who claimed no place for his home, was helping his mother make a last painful pilgrimage to the spot where she wished to live out her days.

The woman moved restlessly, her son lifted the bars, and with a cheerful "good-bye" started on the back of the tedious journey. We wondered as we saw the wheels veering from side to side whether the couple's indomitable endurance would not be tested still further before they reached their final destination.

Facts About the Telephone

Telephone conversations in this country outnumber letters and postal cards by seven billion a year. In the United States telephone toll conversations outnumber telegrams three and a half to one. Indiana has nearly 50,000 more telephones than the entire nation of Japan. San Francisco's famous Chinatown telephone exchange handles between 15,000 and 16,000 calls every day. The Chinese call by name instead of by number. The city of Syracuse, N. Y., has more telephones than Bulgaria, Greece and Ireland combined. There are, on the average, two telephones in the state of Ohio for every three families.

CLERGY OF CITY MEET WITH C. H. TEAGUE TO DISCUSS PLANS

The following has been submitted by Superintendent of Schools, C. H. Teague concerning the meeting of the clergy held at the High school Thursday morning, to discuss plans for Bible instruction. Those present were Rev. Isaac Skoog of the Swedish Mission church, Rev. C. E. Olsson of the Swedish Lutheran church, Mrs. Fred Forbes, representing the Presbyterian church, Rev. Soderstrom of the Swedish Baptist church, and Rev. S. Malar, of the All Saints Catholic church. Rev. H. W. Colombo was unable to be present having been called to the South that morning.

"The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the further plans for Bible instruction as was done last year in the Fifth and Sixth grades, at which children went to the several churches according to the choice of the parents. It was the opinion of all that the movement was along the right line, and that it was a decided success, with very little exception. An interesting discussion ensued on the best methods of handling the several classes and it was desired by all with Mr. Colombo assenting an affirmative vote, that the classes should be continued this year. It was decided to commence the sessions from the Fifth and Sixth grades as last year beginning the first Thursday in November, at which time most of the conferences are over. There will be a questionnaire sent out again to the parents explaining the purpose of the classes and requesting their wishes and signatures as to whether they will have their children attend them. As last year, such children as are not attending the classes will remain at school with regular work. The plan has been worked out so that no child loses any credit since the reading and literature is held at the same period and credit will be given at school in that subject for the bible work done in the churches."

JUST "DUCKS"

Body and Matt, Benny and Joe, decided Sunday duck hunting to go. A hard job 'twas to get the boys out of bed, "We finally got started," so Rudy said.

The matter of gas, they left up to Matt, and when the car stopped, they all just sat.

And gazed at each other with that vacant start, Wondering how the deuce the thing stopped there.

Brother Benny, took his place at the wheel and the rest did the pushing as their share of the deal.

Fill a passing motorist made every thing right.

By giving them a lift to their hunting site.

Now comes the part of the story so queer: It wasn't a scarcity of ducks as you fear. Benny and Joe put out the decoys and stationed themselves not making a noise.

Joe heard the ducks cackle as he took his aim And pictured himself in the "Hall of Fame." Benny shot too, and the ducks just flew away. But the boys are going after them again some day.

MRS. J. LATIMER CALLED BY DEATH

END COMES PEACEFULLY LAST FRIDAY AFTER ILLNESS OF FIVE YEARS

When death called Mrs. John Latimer, 77, Friday September 18th it claimed one of the oldest and best loved citizens of Gladstone. She had been in poor health for a five year period. Mrs. John Latimer's maiden name was Rebecca Pangman and she was born at Calodon, Ontario, Canada, Nov. 10th, 1848. Twenty years later in the year 1868 she was united in marriage to John Latimer, also of Canada and has spent 57 years of married life in perfect harmony. They came to Gladstone 28 years ago last year, and have since been residents. Nine children blessed this happy union and all of them are living and were at their mother's bedside when death claimed her. The husband and the children surviving are: Mrs. Catherine Watson, Mrs. L. I. Rollins, Mrs. O. C. Draper, Mrs. V. E. Tillman, Albert, John, Frank, Reuben and Roy Latimer.

The grandchildren present were: Mr. and Mrs. Al Hibbard, Gladstone; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lince, Flint, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence, Lince, Flint; Mrs. Ellis Fillmore, Flint, John and Floyd Watson, Flint; Isabelle and Helen Latimer, Gladstone; Clarence and Margaret Tillman, Gladstone.

Mrs. John Latimer has been a most faithful member of the Alice Memorial Methodist Episcopal church of Gladstone for many years.

The funeral services were conducted at the home, the Rev. H. W. Colenso, pastor of the Alice Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. The pastor spoke in glowing terms of the splendid life and character of one whom he stated he loved from the depth of his soul. He stated it seemed as if he were conducting his own mother's funeral.

The strenuous life, the family devotion, the Christian exemplification of the Christ life was brought out in the remarks of the pastor. "The floral tributes which in itself told the story of the life could not begin to pervade the world like the fragrance of the life and character of this mother and Christian neighbor," said the pastor in his closing words.

The hymns were beautifully sung by Mrs. Ed. Foster, Mrs. L. Stephenson and Mrs. H. W. Blackwell.

The pallbearers were, H. W. Smith, L. Stephenson, L. Wintell, J. Kennedy, F. Adlett and A. Hibbard, St. Clair.

5 CITIES "GO OVER" FOR WAR ORPHANS

Five Michigan cities have already gone over the top with their quota for the American Legion Fund being raised all over the United States for the care and education of the orphans of World War veterans, and other Michigan cities will have filled their quota within the next week. The cities that have already gone over the top with their quotas are Marquette, Iron Mountain, Lansing, Sault Ste. Marie, Midland and Lowell.

A. C. Brackett, one of the field secretaries of the Legion, who has charge of the work in Michigan says that Hon. Joseph W. Fordney's committee throughout the state will complete their work in the various communities within the next two weeks. Many of the Legion posts did not begin work on the endowment fund drive until after the state convention of the Legion at Bay City, and for that reason, no citizen committees were organized in many communities and no work done.

All over Michigan reports come to the state headquarters of the Legion in Detroit, making it evident that Michigan will reach its state quota in a short time. Chairman Fordney of the state committee is enthusiastic over the way the committees in the various cities are working and the publicity that is being given to the drive by every newspaper in Michigan.

"We can accomplish nothing without publicity," says Mr. Fordney, "and I want to say that I have never seen anything started in Michigan that the newspapers of the state got behind so thoroughly as they have the drive for money so the Legion can care for the War orphans of the United States."

AHA! A FILM PARADOX!

They were the bitterest of enemies during the day!

At night they lived together!

Such was the paradoxical situation of Owen Moore and David Butler while a location in the Tonto Basin, Arizona filming scenes for William K. Howard's production of Zane Grey's gripping novel, "Code of the West."

Throughout the pictureization of the story, Moore and Butler were enemies. Rivals in love and business, they clashed on several occasions and once they engaged in a terrific fist fight. In the evening, however, the two made up and went into the cabin they both occupied and nursed each other's wounds.

"Code of the West," is a story of the great open spaces of Arizona where cowboys are cavaliers and hoppers are scarier than bear's teeth. Featured in the cast are Owen Moore, Charles Bennett, Mabel Ballin, Constance Ogle and David Butler.

"Sure she is. But she's not like her photo one bit. At least I suppose she is in a way, but she—she—she recognized her right off. If I had seen her in a crowd I'd have said 'There's a girl whose face I know' right away without any hesitation. But there was something about that photo—Julius looked his head and heaved a sigh—I guess romance is a mighty queer thing."

"At Holyhead, after consultation with the aid of a road map, they were fairly well agreed as to direction, so were able to hire a taxi without more ado and drive out on the coast leading to Treadbur bay. They instructed the man to go slowly, and watched narrowly so as not to miss the path. They came to it not long after leaving the town, and Tommy stopped the car promptly, asked in a casual way whether the path led down to the sea, and hearing it did paid off the man in handsome style.

A moment later the taxi was slowly chugging back to Holyhead. Tommy and Julius watched it out of sight, and then turned to the narrow path. They went down in single file, Julius leading. Twice Tommy turned his head uneasily. Julius looked back.

"What is it?"

"I don't know. I've got the wind up somehow. Keep frowning there's someone following us."

The path was now running along the side of the cliff, parallel to the sea. Suddenly Julius came to such an abrupt halt that Tommy cannoned into him.

"What's up?" he inquired.

"Look here. If that doesn't beat the band!"

Tommy looked. Standing out and half obstructing the path was a huge boulder which certainly bore a fanciful resemblance to a "begging" terrier.

"That's it—for sure."

Tommy looked at the rock with a kind of agonized passion.

"D—n it!" he cried. "It's impossible! Five years! Think of it! Bird's-nesting boys, picnic parties, thousands of people passing! It can't be there! It's a hundred to one against its being there! It's against all reason!"

Julius looked at him with a widening smile.

"I guess you're rattled," he drawled with some enjoyment. "Well, here goes!" He thrust his hand into the twigs and leaves was sliding merrily. Tommy held the sheet of paper near the glow. The paper curled a little with the heat. Nothing more. Suddenly Julius grasped his arm, and pointed to what characters were appearing in a faint brown color.

"See what! You've got it! Say that idea of yours was great. It never occurred to me."

Tommy held the paper in position some minutes longer until he judged the heat had done its work. Then he withdrew it. A moment later he it-tered a cry.

Across the sheet in neat brown printing ran the words: "With the compliments of Mr. Brown."

CHAPTER XIII

Tommy Makes a Discovery

For a moment or two, they stood staring at each other stupidly, dazed with shock. Somehow, inexplicably, Mr. Brown had forestalled them. Tommy accepted defeat quietly. Not so Julius.

"How in taradiddle did he get ahead of us? That's what beats me," he ended up.

"I don't see that it matters any way," said Tommy wearily. "He may have found out some months ago, and removed the papers, then—No, by Jove, that won't wash! They'd have been published at once."

"Sure thing they would! No, some-thing's got ahead of us today in an hour or so. But how they did it, I can't say. It's no good arguing about how it was done. The game's up. We've failed. There's only one thing for me to do."

"What's that?"

"Get back to London as soon as possible. Mr. Carter might be warned. Remove the papers, then—No, by Jove, that won't wash! They'd have been published at once."

"Half an hour after arrival, haggard and pale, Tommy stood before his chair.

"I've come to report, sir. I've failed—failed badly."

Mr. Carter eyed him sharply.

"You mean that the treaty—"

"Is in the hands of Mr. Brown, sir."

"Well, said Mr. Carter after a minute or two, "we mustn't slag at the knees, I suppose. I'm glad to know definitely. We must do what we can."

Through Tommy's mind flashed the assurance: "It's hopeless, and he knows it's hopeless."

The door looked up at him.

"I blame myself. I have been blaming myself ever since I heard this other news."

Something in his tone attracted Tommy's attention. A new fear gripped at his heart.

"Is there—something more, sir?"

"No, sir," said Mr. Carter gravely. He stretched out his hand to a sheet on the table.

"Tuppence?"

"Tuppence?" faltered Tommy.

"Tuppence for yourself."

The typewritten words danced before his eyes. The description of a green topee, a coat with a handkerchief in the pocket marked "F. L. C." He looked at an agonized question at Mr. Carter. The latter replied to it:

"Washed up on the Yorkshire coast—near Ebury. I'm afraid it looks very much like foul play."

"My G—d!" gasped Tommy. "Tuppence! Those devils—I'll never rest till I've got even with them! I'll hunt them down!"

"I'm taking up your time, sir," he said with an effort. "There's no need for you to blame yourself. I dare say we were a couple of young fools to take on such a job. You warned us all right. But I wish to God I'd been the one to get it in the neck. Good-bye."

Back at the Ritz, Tommy packed up his few belongings mechanically, his thoughts far away. He was still bewildered by the introduction of a tragedy into his cheerful common-places existence. What fun they had had together, he and Tuppence! And now—oh, he couldn't believe it—it couldn't be true. Tuppence—dead! Little Tuppence, brimming over with life! It was a dream, a horrible dream. Nothing more.

They brought him a note, a few kind words of sympathy from Peel Edgerton, who had read the news in the paper. (There had been a large headline: EX-V. A. D. PEARED DROWNED.) The letter ended with the offer of a post on a ranch in the Argentine, where Sir James had considerable interests.

"Kind old beggar," muttered Tommy, as he flung it aside.

The door opened, and Julius burst in with his usual violence. He held an open newspaper in his hand.

"Say, what's all this? They seem to have got some fool idea about Tuppence."

"It's true," said Tommy quietly.

"You mean they've done her in?"

"I suppose when they got the treaty she—wasn't any good to them any longer, and they were afraid to let her go."

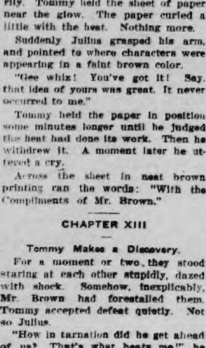

"Well, I'm darned!" said Julius. "Little Tuppence. She sure was the pluckiest little girl—"

But suddenly something seemed to crack in Tommy's brain. He rose to his feet.

"Oh, get out! You don't really care, do you? You asked her to marry you, but I loved her. I'd have given the soul out of my body to save her from them. You had her stood by without a word and let her marry you, because you could have given her the sort of time she ought to have had, and I was out of my mind without a penny to bless himself with. But it wouldn't have been because I didn't care!"

The young men were on the point of coming to blows. What suddenly, of an almost magical abruptness, Julius' mind was made up.

"The two men rose to greet the new-

"Oh, Get Out! You Don't Really Care, Do You?"

singer abated.

"All right, son," he said quietly. "I'm going. I don't blame you any for what you're saying. It's mighty lucky you did say it. I've been the most almighty blithering darned idiot that it's possible to imagine. Calm down—Tommy had made an impatient gesture—"

"I'm going right away now—going to the London and North Western railway depot, if you want to know."

"I don't care a d—n where you're going," growled Tommy.

As the door closed behind Julius, he returned to his suitcase.

"Where's he going? He hadn't the faintest idea. Beyond a fixed determination to get even with Mr. Brown he had no plans. He re-read Sir James' letter, and shook his head. Tuppence must be arrested. Still, it was kind of the old fellow.

"Better answer it, I suppose." He went across to the writing table. With a gasp he remembered that there was a good supply in Julius' string bag, and no paper. He rang no bell. Tommy turned at the door. That is, he remembered that there was a good supply in Julius' string bag, and no paper. He rang no bell.

The American had announced his immediate departure, there would be no fear of running up against him. Besides, he wouldn't mind if he did. He was beginning to be rather ashamed of the things he had said.

But the room was deserted. Tommy walked across to the writing table, and opened the middle drawer. A photograph, carefully thrust in face up-wards, caught his eye. For a moment he stood rooted to the ground. Then he took it out, and the drawer, walked slowly over to an armoire, and set down still staring at the photograph in his hand.

What on earth was a photograph of the French girl Annette doing in Julius Hersheimmer's writing table?

CHAPTER XIV

In Downing Street

The prime minister tapped the desk in front of him with nervous fingers. His face was worn and harassed. He took up his conversation with Mr. Carter at the point it had broken off.

"I don't understand," he said. "Do you really mean that things are not so desperate after all?"

"So this led seems to think."

"Let's have a look at his letter again."

Mr. Carter handed it over. It was written in a sprawling boyish hand.

"Dear Mr. Carter:

"I think I know who the real Jane Finn is, and I've even got an idea where the papers are. That last's only a guess of course, but I've a sort of feeling it'll turn out right. Anyhow, I suppose it in a sealed envelope for what it's worth. I'm going to ask you not to open it until the very last moment, midnight on the 28th, in fact. You see, I've figured it out that those things of Tuppence are a plant too, and she's no more drowned than I am. The way I reason is this: as a last chance they'll let Jane Finn escape in the hope that she's been abducting the money trust, and that once she thinks she's free she'll go right away to the cache. Of course it's a awfully risky for them to take, because she knows all about them—but they're pretty desperate to get hold of that treaty. But if they know that the papers have been recovered by us, neither of those two girls' lives will be worth an hour's purchase. I must try and get hold of Tuppence before Jane escapes."

"I want a report of that telegram that was sent to Tuppence at the Ritz. Sir James Peel Edgerton said you would be able to manage that for me."

"One last thing—please have that house in Boho watched day and night."

"Yours, etc.,

"THOMAS BERESFORD."

"He seems confident," mused the prime minister.

A half smile came to the other's lips.

"And it is this—boy who will defeat the master criminal of our time?"

"This—boy, as you say! But I sometimes fancy I see a shadow behind it."

"You mean?"

"Peel Edgerton. I see his hand in this."

There was a pause, then Mr. Carter continued:

"I asked him to come round here. Not that we'll get anything out of him, he doesn't want to tell. His head instincts are too strong. But there's no doubt he can throw light on one or two obscure points in Young Beresford's letter. Ah, now here it is."

The two men rose to greet the new-

"And It Is This—Boy Who Will Defeat the Master Criminal?"

Comings—George W. Sample, of Ann Arbor, circuit judge, after over thirteen months of deliberation, on August 18, rendered a decision in the Nebel-Sullivan Harrah case which was tried at Munising in June and July 1924, substance of which is that Thos. G. Sullivan, mayor of Munising, misrepresented certain financial lands which he sold to Charles W. Harrah, of Detroit, and that Harrah is entitled to a lien upon certain properties belonging to Mr. Sullivan in satisfaction of the matter. White Judge Sample involves R. W. Nebel, of Munising, plaintiff in the case, of any intention to defraud, he holds that he is liable to Harrah for the sum of four thousand dollars, which Sullivan paid to Nebel as his part of the profits of the real estate deal with Mr. Harrah.

Carter nodded. He took a sheet from his pocket, and read aloud: "Come at once, Astley Prices, Gatehouse Kent, Great developments—TOMMY."

"Very simple," said Sir James, "and very ingenious. Just a few words to alter, and the thing was done. And the one important clue they overlooked."

"What was that?"

"The man's statement that Miss Cowley drove to Charing Cross. They were so sure of themselves that they took it for granted he had made a mistake."

"Then young Beresford is now?"

"At Gatehouse, Kent, unless I am much mistaken. Any more facts about that American chap for me?"

"I'm afraid not. Is it important to find out who he was?"

"Oh, I know who he was," said Sir James coolly. "I can't prove it yet—but I know."

"Well?"

Carter shrugged his shoulders. "I couldn't get much. Young fellow about thirty-five—poorly dressed—face very badly disfigured. He was never identified."

"And you fancy that the two matters are connected in some way?"

"Somehow I do. I may be wrong, of course."

The other two asked no questions. They had an instinct that it would be mere waste of breath.

"But what I don't understand," said the prime minister suddenly, "is how that photograph came to be in Mr. Hersheimmer's drawer?"

"Perhaps it never left it," suggested the lawyer gently.

Two days later Julius Hersheimmer returned from Manchester. A note from Tommy lay on his table:

"Dear Hersheimmer:

"Sorry I lost my temper. In case I don't see you again, good-bye. I've been offered a job in the Argentine, and might as well take it."

"Yours,

"TOMMY BERESFORD."

A peculiar smile lingered for a moment on Julius' face. He threw the letter into the waste-paper basket.

"The darned fool!" he murmured.

NEW CHEVROLET RECORD OF 41,500 CARS IN AUGUST

The Chevrolet Motor company has added another record to the series of sales and production marks established this year.

The new record is represented by the deliveries to Chevrolet dealers during August. A final check of August deliveries places the figure at 41,500 a larger number of cars than the company ever has placed with its dealers during any preceding August.

The August deliveries even exceeded those made during either June or July of this year.

The achievement of the August record preceded by only a few days production of the two-millionth car by the Chevrolet Motor company, the first manufacturer of selective gear shift automobiles to attain that figure.

Firestone Double the Mileage at Half the Cost

Only a few years ago a 32 x 4 cord tire listed over $50.00. Today, you can buy the highest quality 32 x 4 tire—a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord—for about $26.00.

Last spring crude rubber cost tire makers around 40 cents a pound. Today, it is over 90 cents a pound.

It was not so long ago that 7,500 miles represented the average life of a cord tire, while today, 15,000 miles—and more—is only the usual performance for a Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

Due to large, concentrated production, specialized machinery and simplified factory methods, together with economical distribution, Firestone is able to keep tire prices low—no matter where the price of crude rubber goes.

And, because of special Firestone processes, chief among which is Gum-Dipping, motorists are today getting thousands of extra miles by using Gum-Dipped Cords.

Gum-Dipping is an exclusive method used by Firestone. It is an extra process, carried out in special Gum-Dipping plants, after which the cords are put through the usual calendaring machines. Gum-Dipping insulates and impregnates every fiber of every cord with rubber, and practically eliminates internal friction and heat, and builds strength and endurance into the tire.

In the day-in and day-out service of taxicabs, buses and trucks—on the cars of hundreds of thousands of motorists everywhere—Gum-Dipped Cords are giving unheard-of mileage, dependability and satisfaction.

And with a flourish he waved aloft a small discolored packet. "It's the goods all right, seen up in olekin. Held it while I get my penknife."

The unbelievable had happened. Tommy held the precious packet tenderly between his hands. They had succeeded!

"It's queer," he murmured idly; "you'd think the stitches would have rotted. They look just as good as new."

They cut them carefully and ripped away the silk. Inside was a small folded sheet of paper. With trembling fingers they unfolded it. The sheet was blank. They stared at each other, puzzled.

"A dummy!" gasped Julius. "Was Danvers just a decoy?"

Tommy shook his head. That solution did not satisfy him. Suddenly his face cleared.

"I've got it! Sympathetic ink!"

5 CITIES "GO OVER" FOR WAR ORPHANS

Five Michigan cities have already gone over the top with their quota for the American Legion fund being raised all over the United States, for the care and education of the orphans of World War veterans, and other Michigan cities will have filled their quota within the next week. The cities that have already gone over the top with their quotas are Marquette, Iron Mountain, Lansing, Sault Ste. Marie, Midland and Lowell.

A. C. Brackett, one of the field secretaries of the Legion, who has charge of the work in Michigan says that Hon. Joseph W. Furney's committee throughout the state will complete their work in the various communities within the next two weeks. Many of the Legion posts did not begin work on the endowment fund drive until after the state convention of the Legion at Bay City, and for that reason no citizen committees were organized in many communities and no work done. All over Michigan reports come to the state headquarters of the Legion in Detroit, making it evident that Michigan will reach its state quota in a short time. Chairman Furney of the state committee is enthusiastic over the way the committees in the various cities are working and the publicity that is being given to the drive by every newspaper in Michigan.

"We can accomplish nothing without publicity," says Mr. Furney, "and I want to say that I have never seen anything started in Michigan that newspapers of the state got behind so thoroughly as they have the drive for money so the Legion can care for the War orphans of the United States."

AHA! A FILM PARADOX!
They were the bitterest of enemies during the day!

At night they lived together! Such was the paradoxical situation of Owen Moore and David Butler while a location in the Tonto Basin, Arizona (filming scenes for William K. Howard's production of Zane Grey's gripping novel, "Code of the West.")

Throughout the picturization of the story, Moore and Butler were enemies. Rivals in love and business, they clashed on several occasions and once they engaged in a terrific fist fight. In the evening, however, the two made up, went into the cabin they both occupied and nursed each other's wounds. "Code of the West," is a story of the great open spaces of Arizona where cowboys are cavaliers and flappers are scarier than hen's teeth. Featured in the cast are Owen Moore, Constance Bennett, Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle and David Butler.

"SO THIS IS MARRIAGE" OFFERS GLIMPSE OF OLD JERUSALEM
A glimpse of the Jerusalem of King David's time is afforded in "So This is Marriage," Hobart Henley's second production for Metro-Goldwyn Mayer, which is coming to the Community Theatre Saturday. Such a first year student is Harold Lloyd in "The Freshman," which is coming to the Community theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

What the Lungs Need More Than Air

The mental picture of the lungs is that of a pair of bellows, requiring only air to be inhaled or exhaled as they expand and contract. Operation of a bellows requires a hand to contrive expansion and contraction. What performs this service for the lungs?

The answer is muscles, guided and animated by vital energy of nerve force. So it is easy to see that the need, for this vital energy is even greater than the need for air, for without it the human bellows are stilled and life ceases.

The partial stoppage of a nerve, results in a diminished supply of vital energy, and lung trouble develops. When this occurs one thing and one thing only will restore normal and bring relief. Chiropractic spinal adjustments, and nothing else, remove pressure from nerves.

PARTIAL PARALYSIS— THEN LUNG TROUBLE

"In October 1921 I had a stroke of paralysis affecting my left side, which confined me to bed for nine weeks. In June 1922 I suffered a second stroke which left me completely paralyzed on the left side. I also developed a lung trouble which physicians termed tuberculosis. After nine months treatment, doctors gave me up to die. One year ago today a chiropractor began giving me spinal adjustments. Almost immediate results were noted in the lung trouble. Night sweats and daily fever soon disappeared. I began to take on flesh and was able to sit up. After four months I began to have feeling in my left hand. It improved until I could use it well enough to sew. In November I began to be able to walk and have continued to improve—have walked a mile at a time. I am still gaining in health and strength."—Sofa Powell, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2124-8.

HEALTH FOLLOWS CHIROPRACTIC CORRECTS PRESSURE ON SPINAL NERVES IN DISEASES OF THE FOLLOWING ORGANS:

THE LOWER NERVE UNDER THE MAGNIFYING GLASS IS PINCHED BY A MISALIGNMENT. PINCHED NERVES CANNOT TRANSMIT HEALTHFUL IMPULSES. CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTING REMOVES THE PRESSURE. THE UPPER NERVE IS FREE AS NATURE INTENDS.

SCHOLARLY SQUIBBLES

If there's anything in the old proverb, "Well begun is half done," we can hope for the most successful of football seasons. If Elmer, Norvus and Hesse keep up their spectacular performances and the rest of the "eleven" their good work, we are confident of more than one overwhelming victory. We hope the school and town will be well represented at Manistique this Saturday to show the team that Gladstone is behind them.

"Lives of football men remind us. How they write their names in blood And departing leave behind them, Half their faces in the mud."

Miss Mueller—What is syntax Myles? Myles Mac—A tax on liquor, cigarettes and other evils.

The Senior Hi Hiker's hilarious hike held on Friday after school was greatly enjoyed. The hikers, numbering about 35 hiked up the South hill and after a short jaunt along the top of the bluff ate their supper around a camp fire and returned home.

Hess Payne—My stars! Phyllis LaPine is dumb. She thinks Mussolini is a town in Siberia! Jo Macoon—You don't say! And where is it?

The Misses Ruth Norvus, June Woodhall, Eva Bolton and Mildred Cole have volunteered as cheer leaders for the coming year and under the tutoring of our former cheer leader, "Dot" will soon become quip proficient.

Mr. Cheney—Well, how's the team coming, coach. Coach Kiel—Oh, like counterfeit money. M. C.—How's that? Coach—The halves are full of lead and the quarters can't pass.

Jane Kennedy, Dorothy Lemire and Mary Buckbee of Escanaba returned the call to our High School on Friday that Georgia Zink, Helen LaPaver, Christine MacMillan, Anita Rosenblum, Ruth Norvus, June Woodhall, Norma Johnson, Dot Johnson, Grace Stong and Claire Clark, made to their High on the preceding day.

Violet Struble—I see your brother Gordon, is on the scrub team. Grace Hood—Yes, and the poor thing will never even so much as wash his ears at home.

WOULDN'T YOU WONDER? If Norma Johnson came to school with her hair marcelled? If Christine and Esther Gronland had their hair bobbed? If Georgia ever hurried? If Ruth Norvus ever washed her neck? If Howie Krueger forgot his gun? If Helen LaPaver had a nose? If Anita didn't? If Bill LaPine had a date? If George Praise didn't?

WHAT OTHERS ARE THINKING

This week's question: Will the Aeroplane replace the Automobile?

A. T. SOHLBERG—In two decades the motor car has revolutionized transportation, inaugurated a new industrial era and created a new civilization. It paved the way for the conquest of the air. In the light of past performance, predictions as to what man may do or not do appear futile, and prophesy hazardous. The newspapers a few days ago carried an item to the effect that the Ford Motor Company may make aeroplanes to sell. When Mr. Ford started to make motor cars he had an idea and not much of anything else. It he undertook to make flying machines, his idea will have back of it the most gigantic organization the world has ever known. An organization that has constructed and sold ten million motor cars alone.

But with a "flying" aeroplane at a price consonant with the purse of Mr. Everyman there still remains the problem of housing the thing on a lot fifty feet wide and two or three times as long. And think of the plight of the somnolent city dweller at 6:30 a. m. with a half dozen aeroplane motors warming up in each city block!

For all that the crowded highways incite the hope that something may be done to relieve the congestion, and while the buzzing of the aeroplanes is destined to become one of the facts of life, for the most of us to whom the motor car means a method of easily reaching the office or the fishing beach, overhead travel is not going to mean very much.

STEVE GORANOWSKI—It will be many years before the aeroplane supplants ascendancy over its brother, the automobile, but it's a coming thing, even though it be far off. It's the natural result. The roads are so crowded that travel is unsafe. There's plenty of room in the air and congestion will be out of the question. It's the only place there's plenty of room for everybody. Accidents are becoming more frequent because of increased traffic, and this cause will be eliminated by air travel. Of course two planes coming together in the air would be more disastrous than a car collision, but with plenty of room, such happenings will be infrequent.

ED JOHNSON—No, the aeroplane will never replace the car in my estimation. I've talked with Ernest Berg, the aviator, flying with the stunt performer, Babe Kallabek, and he informed me that out of 500 men, possible aviators who were examined and tested for the work only 85 were taken. They have to be haven't enough of those kind of fellows to make air travel possible. Anyone can drive a car. Even small children are seen at the wheel, while the operators of the air machine would be few and far between. I think its use will be increased along the lines of passenger, mail and parcel post; carrying, but to bring its popularity on a par with that of the automobile is out of the question.

W. L. MARBLE—I don't think there is any danger of the aeroplane putting the automobile out of use. Its popularity will undoubtedly increase as time goes on, and it will be improved upon. It is the coming thing, but before it replaces the car, they will have to be made more of an individual size. When they get

If Marie Devost was 6 feet tall? —GHS— HAVE YOU HEARD OF THE GYPSY QUEEN? You never could guess it! She'd never confess it! And I'd like to express it. All about our "Gypsy Queen."

No one to be expected. She's most unaffected. Though to royally elected. For she's now "Gypsy Queen."

I'd like to be plainer. And to try to explain her. But I know 'twould be sner. To say "She's just Gypsy Queen."

To say who would be crime in this mystery sublime. And her name wouldn't rhyme. So she's just—"Gypsy Queen."

them so perfect that they can make five miles a minute, we can go to Round Lake in six minutes. There are too few people capable of driving the aeroplane. There are some folks who are interested in flying and others not otherwise timid, and are fearful when it comes to making flights.

CARL SCHENK—The aeroplane will never replace the automobile, because the former is out of the reach of the poorer class of people. Cars have been put on the market that fit the purses of most of us and till the aeroplane can be brought to this standard the automobile will be able to hold its own.

The use of the aeroplane will undoubtedly be increased in passenger traveling, but for short distances the car will always be in vogue. We couldn't start up our aeroplanes to make a trip down town, and park in front of the business places where we wished to stop. The wealthier people will probably have their private planes for pleasure trips, but it can never replace the car, and bring to the people the advantages and help that the latter has meant.

HUGH LAING—To a certain extent, the aeroplane will replace the automobile, but never entirely. There are too many people who prefer to stay on the ground floor, and let the clouds take care of themselves to allow the aeroplane to become popular enough to make the car an old fashioned device. I was reading an article in a newspaper a few days ago about a man who was eighty years old, and had just had his first ride in an aeroplane. The writer concluded by saying that was the age he wanted to be before he had his first flight. That's exactly the way I feel about it. I think that it is unsafe.

However according to statistics there are less accidents by aeroplane than by car according to the amount of use of each. I think this is because there is more care taken in the air. Everybody is not allowed to operate a plane in the first place. "Would-be-aviators" are put through strict tests before they can fly. Today we see everywhere that the automobile is out of the question.

everybody driving the automobile and its operation among women and children is increasing, which all tends to prove the popularity of the car.

DOES YOUR BACK ACHIE?

Bad Back Brings Suffering to Many Gladstone Folks

Is that dull, constant backache making you old and miserable? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going? Do you suffer headaches, dizzy spells and urinary disorders; feel weak, tired and worn-out? Then look to your kidneys. Delay may mean serious kidney sickness! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant, diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's are recommended by Gladstone folks.

Mrs. Tom Gatter, 5 Third Ave., Gladstone, says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was a severe ache through the small of my back. When I stooped to do my housework, knife-like pains darted across my kidneys and nearly took my breath away. I had constant headaches and at times dizzy spells came over me when little spots came before my eyes. My kidneys were weak and ached too often. After using Doan's Pills, the trouble left me."

Clothing and The Man

Nothing Succeeds Like Success

Clothes may not make the man, but they contribute about as much as any one factor to success.

A slovenly appearance is a far worse handicap to business men than a scarcity of capital. A prosperous appearance is half the battle.

LET US FIT YOU OUT

With one of our suits made by The Famous Mirah Wickwire Tailors, and you will not only look prosperous, but you will grow prosperous.

For Fall Underwear

We have just received a nice line of Fall and Winter underwear at exceptionally low prices. Wool, Wool and Cotton.
