

ASK CITY AID TO CARRY FORWARD WELFARE PLANS

COMMISSION ADMITS HELPFUL SERVICE AND DESIRES TO "SCRAPE UP" COST

BUDGET FIGURES RUN CLOSE

A committee composed of the directors of the Child's Welfare club appeared before the City Commission last Tuesday evening to submit a request that the city take care of part of the expense involved in the employment of a trained nurse to carry on the Child Welfare program undertaken here a few months ago. E. J. Noreus was spokesman for the committee and called attention to the wonderful work accomplished by Miss Melvin, under the direction of the club.

Mayor Bushong in expressing his views, acknowledged on behalf of the city the very constructive work that had been done. He declared it was a credit to Miss Melvin, members of the club and all those who cooperated. He pointed out, however, that the budget estimates under which the city administration is operating for the year did not provide any money for such welfare work, and in order for the city to assume the service at this time, it would be necessary first to determine where other curtailment might be affected. He was followed by City Manager Buechner who also pointed to the limited funds under which the city is operated. The money would have to be taken from some of the other budget items, he pointed out, if the commission decided in favor of paying part of the expense of the welfare work.

In addition to Mr. Noreus, John D. Staples, Dr. A. H. Miller and Dr. Jas. Mitchell also spoke in favor of the city taking over a portion of the expenses. Commissioner Matson expressed himself in favor, while the other commissioners, Hawkins, Murphy and Peterson, indicated they might favor it if the money could be raised without throwing the budget appropriations out of balance. The Welfare club is prepared to finance the work until the end of this year, and the City commission expressed its desire to take action at an early meeting after the City Manager had submitted another report showing the financial condition of the city.

Gladstone has a striking fund with considerable cash and this money is being appropriated for the bond issues coming due in 1927 and 1929.

MAY ORGANIZE CITY BASKET BALL TEAM

A meeting was held in the Community Club rooms last evening, at which all men interested in organizing a city basket ball team were present, and talked over the matter. L. W. Gordon and Percy Cameron presided. Plans were made for the organization, and the problem of financing the team considered.

In the event that a team is organized, L. W. Gordon, will probably act as coach, and plan a schedule of games soon.

Other cities in the vicinity are organizing teams and local interest in one is not lagging.

CITY MANAGER TO GO TO MEETING AT GRAND RAPIDS

Members of the City Commission, meeting Tuesday night, instructed the City Manager to attend the national convention of the City Managers' association, to be held for four days starting Nov. 17 at Grand Rapids, Mich. City Manager Buechner is anticipated to engage in one of the round table discussions scheduled for the meeting. The commission feels that much helpful information may be secured at the meeting.

Nebel Bros. were awarded the contract for the construction of the sewer on Dakota, between 12th and 13th, their bid of $895.98 being the lowest submitted. The work is to start without delay. The other bidders were Ole Peterson, $889.30 and E. E. Enstrom, $897.70.

An application was granted to Henry Sullivan to operate a soft drink stand on Delta avenue.

The commission also voted to have the city take over the milk inspection office recently inaugurated.

ROTARIANS HEAR WELFARE REPORT

Miss Melvin, Public Health nurse, gave a very interesting report on the work at the Child Welfare Health Station at the noonday luncheon of the Rotary club Monday. She discussed the history of public health nursing, explaining the mission of the public health nurse, and her need. "In home visiting lies the principal strength of Public Health nursing. Entering the home for the purpose of instruction or ministrations is the peculiar privilege of the nurse," Miss Melvin stated. The greatest value of the work lies in the fact that it's primary function is to help others to help themselves.

Her talk proved very interesting and was well received.

INDOOR SHOW TO SET NEW RECORD

ADVANCE SALE OF TICKETS FOR CHINATOWN BAZAAR POINTS TO BIG ATTENDANCE

Season tickets for the Chinatown Bazaar, to be put on here for five nights beginning next Tuesday night, show a ready response from the general public and a large attendance is already assured. The show is being put on under the auspices of the August Matron Post of the American Legion, and the proceeds will go to make up Gladstone's quota of $800 for the National Legion Endowment Fund.

The bazaar opens Nov. 17 at the Community Gym, an ideal place for such indoor entertainment. The interior will be attractively decorated in appropriate oriental scheme. The general public will be admitted starting with 7:30 o'clock. Various stunts will be used to entertain, and among these will be a jazz orchestra and after the acts will come a dancing program.

Next Saturday afternoon, Nov. 21, there will be a special matinee for the children. The vaudeville will be intended for them particularly. The London Punch and Judy show is certain to please the youngsters. That night will mark the closing numbers of the bazaar.

The Lappa Amusement company, who will put on the bazaar for the local Legionaires, has built up a reputation in the section for the clean and really worth while entertainment which they are able to provide. The public is assured that every effort will be made to give "value received" for all money spent.

IT'S NOT CHLORINE BUT CROSEOTE

When the water tastes bad, and it was very bad for several weeks, don't blame the city or the water works plant employes for putting too much chlorine in the water. The amount of liquid chlorine is not changed, and the taste isn't chlorine at all. It's croseote and comes from the chemical plants. It seems that even though none of the stuff is discharged into the bay now, some of it lies at the bottom and when a severe wind storm blows up, or a seasonal change in the weather causes a movement of the water in the bay, the trouble starts all over again. The taste is awful. But take courage. Investigations have proven that the water is safe to drink, and the croseote is beneficial. If anything "you can't always tell by the taste, you know. Think of castor oil, for instance.

FOOTBALL SEASON CLOSED WITH WIN

GLADSTONE FORCED TO EXERT ITSELF TO WIN FROM ST. JOE 12 TO 6

Gladstone closed the 1925 football season on Armistice Day by winning from the St. Joe's, Escanaba parishals, 12 to 7. Dogsters had it figured that the locals would win handily but instead, Coach Kiehl's men had to put forth every effort to come out on the long end of the score.

The game started out as expected, Gladstone making a touch down in the first two minutes of playing. The try for extra point failed and when Gladstone kicked off to St. Joe and received the ball in midfield it looked like another march down the field. But right here the breaks changed. Noreus threw a forward pass that was intercepted by Fraser, who carried it to Gladstone's 15-yard line before being downed. St. Joe made 14 yards and a first down on three plays and Frederick went through the line for the visitor's touchdown on the next play. Brotherton kicked from the placement for the extra point and Gladstone was left trailing.

The first quarter ended with St. Joe in the lead and the locals did not appear to be regaining the lead until the next period. Noreus and Joe Reese made two end runs that brought the ball to within 24 yards of St. Joe's goal on the east end of the field. On the next play Elmer Peterson ran along the south side line for the 24 yards and Gladstone's second touch down. The try for extra point again failed and the margin of 6 proved to be the final result as after that the teams played about even, Brotherton having the better of the punting game and the locals gaining more consistency through the line and end runs. Gladstone's record for the season is one that can be pointed to with pride by all followers of the Purple and White. Seven games were scheduled and of these five were won, one by forfeit. The one with Escanaba was a scoreless tie and the game with Ishpeming was lost by a 22 to 6 score.

Sept. 19, at Gladstone 33, Stephen 6.

Sept. 26, at Manistique 9, Gladstone 6.

Oct. 3, at Escanaba 6, Gladstone 9.

Oct. 17, at Ishpeming 22, Gladstone 6.

Oct. 24, Munising game won by forfeit.

Oct. 31, at Norway 0, Gladstone 13.

Nov. 11 at Gladstone 12, St. Joe 7.

The victory against Norway placed Gladstone among the stronger teams of the season as the team there had been classified as the best Gladstone followers of the game consider Ishpeming as having a team with as good a claim as any for the mythical upper peninsula championship honors.

The other clubs are Ironwood, Onondaga Mountain and the question of supremacy will never be settled as neither of the teams in the triangle were pitted against each other.

The lineup in Gladstone's last game of the season:

Krueger c W. Moreau
Haglund lg McGee
Foster rt Brotherton (c)
Walgartner lt W. C. Moreau
Blomquist lt C. Mover
Earl Peterson lt V. M. Moreau
Fillmore re Pajpman
Noreus q Fraser
Karel rb Bink
N. Reese lb Roth
Elmer Peterson lb Frederickson
Substitute, Joe Reese for Kegel.
Reserve, Barry, Ungher, Ted Baldwin, Head linesman, Williams.

TO REPORT CHILDREN PROTECTED FOR DIPHTHERIA

Michigan's 2,000 health officers and public health nurses will answer a roll call at the Fifth Annual Conference of Health Officers and Public Health Nurses to be held in Lansing, November 18, 19 and 20, by reporting the number of children in their communities protected against diphtheria by toxin-antitoxin.

"For four years," says Dr. R. M. Olin, Commissioner of Health, "we have emphasized more than any other single communicable disease. Toxin-antitoxin has been furnished free by the state since 1921. In the first ten months of 1924, we sent out 166,820 cc of toxin-antitoxin. During the ten months of 1925 we have mailed 317,210 cc. No better proof could be given of what Michigan parents, school and health authorities are doing to safeguard their children, but we want to hear from the health officers and nurses themselves how diphtheria is being made ancient history in Michigan."

GROESBECK OUSTS C.W. DICKINSON AS STATE FAIR HEAD

STATE TROOPERS USED TO SEIZE RECORDS TAKE HOLD OF FAIR GROUNDS

POLITICAL ROW BREWING NOW

White State troopers were outting George W. Dickinson from his residence at the State Fair Grounds just outside Detroit and seizing his books and records at the grounds office and at his office in the Warwell Building, Detroit, Alfred Lucking, counsel for John S. Haggerty, Edward N. Hines and Oscar Webber, was preparing to apply in the Circuit Court to have his clients declared lawful members of the State Fair board of management, though they were not reappointed by Gov. Alex. J. Groesbeck when their terms recently expired.

The ousting of Mr. Dickinson took place a few minutes after the State Administrative Board met Tuesday in Lansing under the direction of Gov. Groesbeck and passed a swift succession of resolutions suspending him as secretary and manager of the State Fair.

Mr. Lucking said that in his opinion Haggerty, Hines and Webber were still members of the board of management if the appointees named in their places by Gov. Groesbeck were not legally holding office.

He said he also was taking action to restrain the State Police from removing Dickinson's records from his offices. Any action taken by Gov. Groesbeck's new appointees, he said, would be illegal and invalid.

The troopers ordered Mr. Dickinson not only to surrender his boots, but to get out of his residence on the Fair Grounds and of the grounds. His downtown offices were closed by the Governor's order. A detachment of State Police will remain on duty at the Fair Grounds to enforce the property, which the Governor intends to open as a public park.

OLD RESIDENT IS RETURNED TO DEATH

The John Bergman home at Whitefish and occupied by John Bucklund for the past several years where he lived alone, was destroyed by fire last Sunday evening. The fire was discovered and the alarm turned in at about 9:40 p. m. by a auto party that was passing and noticed the interior of the house in flames.

The pump and chemical trucks responded immediately but the fire was too far advanced for the chemical to be used effectively and the pump could not reach the river on the east side. The pumper was then taken to the west side of the river where a wood place was to be had and the hose struck over the bridge.

At the time of the fire it was not known that the occupant of the house John Bucklund, was at home. He had been up the river at the home of August Benson for a week but had returned to his home Sunday at noon.

Search then was made in other parts of the house and the body was soon found underneath a pile of debris in the kitchen. Some of the brick chimney and plaster had fallen across the body and prevented the body from being entirely consumed by the fire.

John Bucklund was born in Norway, Sweden and was 48 years of age. He came to this country in 1881 and shortly after made his home at Whitefish living here continually since that time. He followed the occupation of lumberman and carpenter until the last few years when he began selling men's and women's apparel from house to house.

The School Calendar

THE HAUNTED CAMP: Once there was a man who owned a camp up in the woods which he called the Lonely Pine, because there were so many beautiful pine trees there. The cottage had a beautiful lake with a sand beach. The water of the lake was very beautiful, sparkling in the hot summer sun.

One day some tourists stayed over night at the camp. That night when they were in bed they were awakened by weird noises and somebody walking around. One tourist saw a glowing light and the cottage was haunted. The next morning the travelers went on their way again.

"Yes sir, come right in," and the middle aged man was sitting on the porch. "How do you do sir," greeting the stranger. "I am one of the many tourists who visit your camp. Last night when we were sleeping we were awakened by weird noises and somebody walking around; I saw the ghost."

"Ghosts," echoed the middle aged man. "Ghosts!" how and when did it get there?"

"I don't know," was the quick reply. "But, bless my shoe laces we were frightened."

"Well, I'll have to see about this," remarked the middle aged man. The stranger said the owner of the Lonely Pine, had a short conversation and thanking the stranger for telling him about the ghost the middle aged man made him goodbye.

The boys were quite frightened and to make them feel more miserable they heard some one walking around the kitchen moaning and groaning as if in pain. One of the boys shouted, "Who goes there?"

The only reply was the echo coming from the empty kitchen. The ghost ceased to walk and the boys went to bed. The next night passed peacefully but the next day the wind howled furiously over the trees moaning and groaning through the pine trees. Every now and then the boys could hear the ghost walking as before in the kitchen. They weren't going to be peepers and they waited longer so they took a flash light, some sticks, stones and an alarm clock to throw at the ghost.

The kitchen door was locked by the tourists who were afraid of the ghost and did not want it to bother them again. They did not know where to find the key and they were all standing there thinking of what to do, when one boy said that they should try to break the door open while he looked for the key. All of the boys agreed to this and were soon at work. The boy who was searching for the key found it on the floor. He brought it to the other boys who opened the door. Then all went into the kitchen.

When they saw the ghost they all burst out laughing for the ghost was an old stove pipe with a ring around it that protects the pipe from the wind. The ring around the stove pipe was loose and when the wind blew down through the chimney and into the stove pipe the ring would jiggle against the wall so that one would imagine the noise to be foot steps. The moans and groans of the ghost proved to be the wind howling through the pine trees. As for the ghost the tourists spent the night in a white curtain hanging from a window.

The boys hastened to the owner who was very glad they had captured the ghost. He gave the boys fifty-five dollars for their club and you may meet some boys were very happy and felt that they had been real detectives.

LITTLE DIGNITY CHAMBERS

What's the matter? You look thoughtful. My twelve year old son brought home a list of questions to answer. What of that? My average ranks me as a deficient.

Pa, what's a post-graduate? A fellow who graduated from one of those correspondence schools, I suppose.

One student handed in the following in an examination paper in U. S. history. General Braddock was killed in the Revolutionary war. He had three horses shot under him and a fourth went through his clothes.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEM

By Mrs. Oscar Branty of Detroit

If you have any questions troubling you in which you would like advice, or help in arriving at a decision, write to Mrs. Oscar Branty, of Detroit. Address your letters to this office, from which they are forwarded to Mrs. Branty, our correspondent. It is not necessary to sign your communications.

Mrs. Branty, while not an elderly woman, has had a great deal of experience in life, and is capable of guiding you aright.

Dear Mrs. Branty: If you have any booklets of exercises to reduce weight, will you please forward some to me? I am inclosing a stamped addressed envelope. I am about 15 lbs overweight, and want to get back to normal. Marjole.

I have sent the exercises, Marjole, and you probably have them by this time. Don't start out too strong, rather with less time at the beginning, and increase it as you go along. The main thing is to practice regularly and not drop them in a short time, because you find it tedious. Don't forget your diet and the taking of natural exercise in connection.

Dear Mrs. Branty: I never thought that the familiar saying, "friendless is a big city" could be possible. I have come to realize its truth, and only too sure am I of its existence. Mrs. Branty, I am one of its victims, and only if you have experienced such misery, do you know what I am suffering. I am friendless, don't know a soul that I can call a friend. I am a girl of 20. All my life I lived on a farm in southern Wisconsin, till three months ago. For a long time, I had been tired of the dull life of the farm, and envied the city girls. It was my only ambition to leave the old home, and seek fortune and pleasure in the city. I had relatives in Chicago (I had never seen them) and after months of coaxing, and making of idle promises, I obtained the permission of my parents to go to Chicago, to work, and make my future home. I recall how glad I was at the prospect now. Little did I know the happiness I was leaving, and what my future existence was to be. I thought I was lonesome on the farm, and that life was dull. Mrs. Branty, I at least had friends, true, trustworthy friends, and I realize how much they meant to me, now.

I went to Chicago, and found the home of the relatives. Having been reared in the city, they were naturally very different than I. How they laughed at my ways, and all that I did or said. I got a job through their influence in a department store, selling hosiery. I decided to stick it out, regardless of the taunts, and the miserable existence. I forgot to tell you that there were two daughters in this family near my age, that were responsible for the way I was treated. These girls gave parties, but never allowed me to meet their friends. They were ashamed of me, and whenever their gentlemen friends called, they made sure that I was out of the way. My work was my only hope.

I had received so many admonitions about making friends with the city folks, that I was very skeptical about choosing my acquaintances. I held myself so much aloof from my associates that today, after three months of this life, I am not even on intimate terms with those with whom I work. I still stay at the relatives' home, but am treated as a boarder, and that's the way I want it too. What I want is friends, Mrs. Branty. Some one I can go to and talk over things, can you believe that anyone can be so miserably helpless, and without friends in a big city, surrounded with people, oceans of folks, passing all around you, and yet not one that you can call a friend? I hope you will answer right away, because I sure do need advice. No, I'm not despondent, and heart-broken at all. I long for my home and all that goes with it, but I put my foot down real hard, and stay on. No, there's no danger of my giving up. I couldn't go back there with the realization that I have been defeated.

HELEN. Yes, Helen, there are lots of lonely folks around us that we don't know anything about. The big city don't make a bit of difference, and probably if folks there were located in some smaller place, they would be able to find friends.

The conduct of your relatives is needless to say, very shameful, but I admire your grit in sticking it out, and am sure that you have the backbone that will in the end win success for you.

Helen, I think that you are holding yourself too much aloof from your comrades. Perhaps you do not allow any one to get well enough acquainted with you to be your friend. Of course, you are doing right in using care in the choice of your company. I do believe that within a short time, you will have met someone whom you will consider a friend.

Keep smiling, Helen, and your problem will be settled in its own way. Holding the position that you do, you meet with lots of people, and I believe this contact will lead to some lasting friendships.

Dear Mrs. Branty: I am looking for a good hair dye, something dependable. I want to change the tint of my locks from a golden shade to black. I am of the opinion that black hair will be more becoming to me, than the shade that nature gave me. However, I am sort of afraid to try it. I have seen lots of dyes advertised, that seem good, but on the other hand I have observed so many bad jobs that I hesitate to take the risk. I think that you can probably give me some advice. Do you advise dyeing?

I certainly am dissatisfied with my present hair, but I can't decide to really do the deed. I will be waiting for your advice. My complexion is light, and I have blue eyes. I think black hair is what I need, don't you?

IN DOUBT. No, in doubt, black hair is not what you need. Where do you see a blond, with black hair? There is no dye that I can really recommend, nor do I favor dyeing. Nature has given you the shade of hair that matches with the rest of your face, and you cannot improve it. You aren't dissatisfied, but just looking for something upon which to experiment, and I would advise you to direct your energies elsewhere. You say you have observed lots of bad jobs. Just picture yours as that, and you won't be hunting for dyes. All of them end up as "bad jobs." If they are passable at the beginning. As the new hairs come in, their true shade can be seen at the scalp, and it would be impossible to cover up your tracks well enough to make the black hair seem a reality.

F. R. A.'S MAKE PLANS FOR THANKSGIVING DAY. The F. R. A.'s held their regular semi-monthly meeting last evening here. Was held at the home of Mrs. Branty, and was given over to business matters foremost of which were the plans for proper observance of Thanksgiving day. Committees have been appointed to take charge of the preparations, and plan a fitting entertainment.

(A Weekly Panorama of Events in the National Capital. By Peter Keegan for the Delta Reporter.)

WITH A considerable lack of enthusiasm, the Senate subcommittee on elections is preparing to render a decision on the Brookhart-Stock election contest. There is much to be said and many leading Senators maintain for the claims advanced by both sides the committee will be justified in seating either of the candidates. Although Republicans would like to see Brookhart returned to private life, it is believed likely that he will be declared victor. If Brookhart loses it is probable that he will oppose the veteran Senator Cummins in 1926. Such a fight would be a toss-up for either Cummins or Brookhart. Thus if Stock, a Democrat, is seated by the Republicans, they are confronted with the possibility that Brookhart, a progressive might defeat Cummins, a regular Republican, and thus still further decrease the Administration majority in the Senate.

WASHINGTON is chuckling over a mishap to a member of the foreign diplomatic set. It seems that Count Gian Franco della Porta, of the Italian embassy, was forced, as he claims, to make a prompt adjustment for damages to an automobile after a collision. Foreign diplomats are privileged characters in that they are immune from arrest. The State Department requested Governor Ritchie of Maryland, where the accident occurred, to have the payment refunded to the Count, together with an apology from the policeman who "arbitrated" the dispute. Ritchie refused to have anything to do with the case on the grounds that the Count paid the damages voluntarily, on the spot where the accident occurred. Ritchie's letter was forwarded to the Italian embassy. The $30 he paid is expected to be gone forever.

GOVERNOR SMITH of New York has let it be known that he will retire from active politics when his present term expires. This word has gone out as a result of persistent reports that he would oppose Senator James W. Wadsworth next year, in a race for the upper house of Congress. Smith's personal fortune is small and he wants to enjoy private business. It seems probable though that Smith would decline to seek the Democratic nomination for President if he felt there was a reasonable chance of securing it. The overwhelming victory in New York of the candidates and issues supported by Smith are regarded by many as a further reason why he should make another effort to win the presidential nomination.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will be confronted with one of the most important problems of his recent career during the next few weeks. He will be called upon to decide the fate of Col. William Mitchell and at the same time consider the recommendations of the Air Board which was organized after Mitchell levelled his sensational charges against War Department officials. Should the Air Board uphold Mitchell's contention that military aeronautics are mismanaged, it appears unlikely that President Coolidge will approve drastic punishment for the dying colonel. Vindication for Mitchell's superiors however would incline the President, according to many observers to approve the findings of the court.

FRIENDS of Senator Burton K. Wheeler hold slight hope that the District Supreme Court will grant his argument for dismissal of the indictment which charges him with using his office to unlawfully secure favors for a client. The argument will be heard next month. Wheeler is basing his present case on the fact that the Montana courts returned a verdict in his favor on virtually an identical indictment. He claims he is being hounded by the Department of Justice for investigating the activities of former Attorney General Harry M. Doughterty.

FIND USE FOR OLD FARM STRAW STACK

Use of Michigan's straw stacks as valuable sources of fertilizer is promoted as a result of work being done by the soil men at the Michigan State College. During a visit to the famous Rothamsted experiment station in England last summer, Dr. M. M. McCool, head of the college soils division, learned the methods of procedure followed in Europe and saw the materials which were being produced. That the results there were very satisfactory was shown by doubled yields of potatoes and other crops where the artificial "straw stack" manure was used. Pine results were also reported on truck crops.

That these old world practices may find a place in Michigan agriculture is indicated by the work being done at East Lansing.

"The soils sections of the college is making use of straw stacks by adding water, fertilizer, and lime and permitting the stack to material to form valuable fertilizer," says Dr. McCool, in discussing the practice. "When ammonium sulphate, phosphates and carbonate of lime are added to the straw and the mass moistened, fermentation takes place rapidly.

"If the work is done properly, the resulting mass is brownish-black and finely divided, and is ready to use within three or four months. It appears to be very promising for use by vegetable growers, florists, and as a substitute for other top dressing materials on golf courses."

Truck Killed Deer. A big buck deer was killed Thursday evening when Quasy Bros' oil truck collided with the creature as it tried to cross the road, M-12, west of Moran. The truck wasn't injured and Joe Quay, the driver, brought the carcass to town. We know lots of rabbits and partridge having been killed by autos, but this is the first deer meeting death that way that we have ever heard of in this county.—St. Ignace Rep. News

Chats With The Editor

J. A. Sturgeon

MAYOR Bushong takes us to task for our criticism of the law enforcement methods tried out in Gladstone. What he says in answer to our editorial or last week will be found elsewhere on this page. We fully realize that Mayor Bushong is absolutely sincere in his belief that about the strict enforcement of the prohibition law depends the future of this great Nation. He admits in his communication that there is a greater disregard for law in America at this time than ever before in the history of any nation. In this we are agreed but the divergence of opinion comes in what we believe to be the cause of this flouting of our laws.

WE STATED and repeat, that when it is found necessary to engage persons of questionable character to enforce a law, it causes an unfavorable reaction against the law. Mayor Bushong says, "I can see no unfairness whatever in hiring any type of men to get law violators." This we maintain is wrong for it is based on the principle that two wrongs make a right. Mayor Bushong states that it is not possible for the regular police to secure convictions of liquor law violators. And that is true, that is about the condition that obtains today. However, it is not proper to declare on this point that the fault lies with one of two things? Either the law is wrong or the officers are not competent. And admitting that the officers here are as competent as are police officers to be found anywhere, then it must be that there is a fault with the law itself, and we should seek about for ways of either strengthening it and making it effective, or liberalizing it and securing public sentiment in favor of its enforcement.

HOWEVER we are getting away from the main point. It is not our purpose originally, neither is it now, to speak against prohibition. What we started out to broadcast was that public sentiment did not approve of hiring "stool pigeons" to secure evidence. Mayor Bushong inadvertently called us to task for declaring the majority of the people in Gladstone did not favor law enforcement. We simply said they did not approve of the methods employed. Everybody knows that the liquor law is being violated almost openly, and if a respectable officer cannot get evidence that will satisfy a court of jurisdiction we have come to a sorry pass.

WHETHER we personally could secure evidence, we are frank to say we have no desire to try. Neither would we expect our City Commissioners, who are already giving much of their time to the city's welfare, to go out in an endeavor to enforce the law. Their duties are clearly defined by the Charter under which they were elected. The City Commission must decide by a majority vote, on a policy, and it is then up to the City Manager to carry out the policy decided upon.

IT would seem that the City Administration should already have satisfied itself as to the effectiveness of private detectives in eliminating the moonshine traffic. The experiment was tried out once before. Two private detectives engaged two years ago from the Russell Agency in Milwaukee. They cost the city of Gladstone more than $2,000 besides what the city had to pay out for fuel and for the families of those who were sent to prison. A general cleanup of the city was effected in those raids. From the standpoint of the number of convictions the experiment was a huge success. But—and here's the point we make—there are more moonshine parlors in Gladstone today than there were before the experiment and convictions. For every one taken out of the business, one or more answered the lure of easy money to enter the illicit business. The sources of supply were distributed for a time, but nothing constructive had been done to lessen the demand for the stuff, and where there is a demand, it appears a means is usually found to supply it.

WE ERRED, it seems, in stating that all cases involved in the last raids were quashed. City Manager Buechner informs us that three of those arrested pleaded guilty and were sentenced at the Soc. term of court. Also, he states that two of the dealers have declared their intention of quitting the business. The raids then were not entirely without result. We believe that more good comes from inducing those in the business to get out, than comes from securing convictions and jail sentences. And that is why we urged more activity on the part of the regular police, and less of this amateur detective stuff. Those in the business know they are defying a law. There is no denying that they are all WRONG but likewise they are not ALL bad. The thing to do then is to endeavor to show them the error of their ways. The federal government is trying out another system of enforcement. Maybe something worth while will be accomplished. A solution to the problem would be generally acclaimed. Another failure would probably give grounds for a demand for a change in the law itself.

BEFORE concluding our remarks in reply to the Mayor, we want to say that we are glad Mr. Bushong decided on a fair and open discussion. We are sure the critics are appreciative of his sincerity and honesty on the subject of prohibition. And they also realize the value of a man of his business ability to work out the city's business problems. He may be an amateur in outlining a law enforcement policy but his business success testifies to his ability as an executive and organizer. And we don't think there is any one desiring to ask for his recall. Troublesome as liquor law enforcement admittedly is, still it is not of paramount importance. For it will in time, right itself. The same remarks apply to the City Manager. He studied as an administrator of municipal affairs, not to become a prohibition agent. Our Commission-Manager form of government has been a success and it will remain so long as its provisions are lived up to.

We can be brothers thru this life. Of ceaseless toil and care; There is no time for hate and strife, Then let us all be fair. —Walter Drummond.

HOW long before pedestrians will learn that they are safer walking on the left side of a highway? We have called attention to this need before and do so again in the hope that other serious accidents may be avoided. The need to walk on the left hand side of the road applies particularly on that stretch of pavement between this city and Kipping. The man who walks on that side does not confuse the driver but it remains nevertheless that he might easily have saved himself much pain and suffering had he elected to walk on the other side of the road. We are walking with a pedestrian in his direction. We do not feel that there is need for a law compelling people to walk on the left of the road. The advantage of doing so is so thin and so understood that a pedestrian who falls to so safeguard himself has only himself to blame.

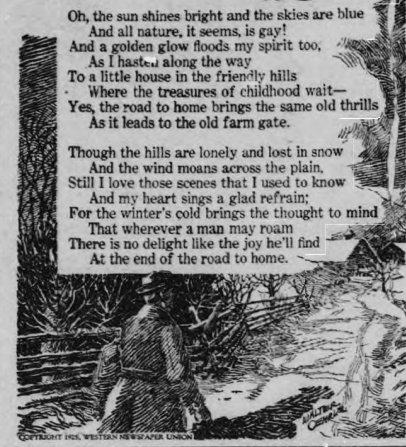

CONSTITUTION DAY will be observed in the schools, Monday, November 15. It is our Constitution that guarantees equality of educational opportunity, and on that day it will give thought to have this opportunity has meant to this Nation.

WEDNESDAY, November 11, marked the passing of seven years since the cessation of hostilities in the World War. At eleven o'clock on the memorable day in 1918, the guns on the western front in France suddenly became silent. It seemed that the forces of death, destruction and desolation were exhausted. Thousands of thousands had paid the supreme sacrifice that justice might triumph, that humankind might, for a time at least, be freed from the black clouds of war. It has been said that the victory was won at the price, it is easy for us to say that, for those of us who remain did not make the supreme sacrifice. Modern civilization came through the terrible conflict but in future conflicts, this modern civilization faces annihilation unless some means is found to avert this calamity. The League of Nations has been tried and found wanting. The World War showed the uselessness of such agreements such as had been entered into at Tre Hague, and such as proposed in the World Court of International Justice. We believe the best safeguard against war in the presentiment of the universal draft, taking all the profit out of war. If this is successfully enacted, then indeed might it be felt that the World War was worth the cost.

FORTY million of our people are organized to uplift the other 70,000,000, and the 40,000,000 are getting sick and tired of it.

THE S. IONACE Republican-News, speaking of the commission-manager forms of city governments, says: "One thing that makes us suspicious of these new-fangled charters is that the old-time election days are never considered good enough." A position not very well taken, we believe. For admitting that one day is as good as another, there is an advantage in having the multiple election set of itself for the very good reason that voters may then concentrate their intention, and votes, on local issues.

The Happy Road to Home

Oh, the sun shines bright and the skies are blue And all nature, it seems, is gay! And a golden glow floods my spirit too, As I hasten along the way To a little house in the friendly hills— Where the treasures of childhood wait— Yes, the road to home brings the same old thrills As it leads to the old farm gate.

Though the hills are lonely and lost in snow And the wind moans across the plain, Still I love those scenes that I used to know And my heart sings a glad refrain; For the winter's cold brings the thought to mind That whenever a man may roam There is no delight like the joy he'll find At the end of the road to home.

LAST year many game law violators were apprehended crossing the straits on the state ferries. The attorney general has ruled that this year wardens must have direct evidence before they can undertake to search the cars. It is known that there were many violations, and with all the close watch at the straits, the violations continued through the season. We wonder if the hunters are placed more in their honor, whether more of them will not show a disposition to keep within the restrictions? It seems nowadays that there is a law to regulate most everything, and human nature rebels against being told what it must do, and is just contrary enough to want to do the opposite.

DETROIT elected a mayor the other day, John W. Smith, who had been elected to fill a vacancy, was re-elected, defeating Charles Bowles who by running on stickers in the previous election had made Smith's election possible. The Detroit News declared that the voters were left with a choice of the lesser of two evils, and Smith was it. A religious issue was unfortunately injected into the campaign, creating a situation that will make trouble for time to come. Smith is regarded as a typical politician, with all the faults that usually go with his kind. He believes in building up a machine, not only for Detroit, but one that will have its influence felt through the state. He and Groesbeck do not ride along together very well so that there is a possibility of some fireworks in the next general election.

Our Reporter Observes--

THAT snow fences are already occupying their usual positions along the outlying high ways of traffic where snow will soon be piling up.

THAT we have the east end of Delta avenue in good condition, but the same street going west, just after you have left the business district is to be found sadly neglected—cars hit bumps that test their springs, and your head sometimes strikes the top in a headlong collision.

THAT our formerly well manicured lawns are forgotten now, as they will with ground fire, and grass mowing the dead leaves that the wind blows about.

THAT wood chopping and planing parties are quite the vogue in preparing the winter's fuel.

THAT if we can't haul away the Opera House dump pile, let's do the best best thing by hiding the unsightly place with a bill board. Why worry about the appearance of our alleys and back yards with such a land mark on the cities central avenue?

THAT the lights on the Escanaba docks visible as one drives along the road between the two cities at night have many admirers.

THAT the Soo Line Band, that came so near filling the needs of the people as a municipal organization, seems to have dropped entirely out of existence.

THAT with the football season over, we haven't any form of athletics to take our interest.

THAT road bugs are hugging the fire, and tuning in.

Readers Tell Readers

To the Editor of the Reporter, Nov. 7, 1925. City.

Dear Sir:—I read carefully your editorial giving your ideas of the way the prohibition law should be enforced. This, no doubt, was brought about because of the development of the meeting of the commissioners. Tuesday night, in which it was brought out that the City Manager had spent something over $300.00 of the money collected from fines in the prosecution of the bootleggers and violators of the prohibition law.

"The question was raised by one of the commissioners as to whether or not the City Manager exceeded his authority under the Charter. In this connection, I do not think he did as he never had had any specific instructions as to just what he should do in the way of enforcing the law and it certainly is a part of his duty to enforce the law to the best of his ability, unless his duties on this subject are specifically defined by the Commissioners. Therefore, I stand with the City Manager.

"I know nothing about the hiring of the men that did this work neither do I know either of them now. However, I still stand with the City Manager.

"I would be very glad to see the principal cornerstone under our entire economic and social code, and that failure to observe the same over a long period of time, must bring disaster to this or any Nation—as this is a principle so well established in the history of the Nations of the past that it needs no defense from me.

or any source that will enable them to bring about better law enforcement. "When we have persons in the community that will make affidavit that one of their own family is not mentally sound—this is done after two bottles of whiskey had been procured from this individual—to prevent a penitentiary sentence, is it not time we would give serious consideration to the enforcement of law? If the time ever comes that I shall not gladly do what I can for law enforcement and the protection of the rules of society in the community in which I live, I trust my tongue may cleave to the roof of my mouth and my right arm drop helpless at my side; especially when it is a fact that the per capita murders and crimes committed in the United States are three times as many as in any other Nation in the World, notwithstanding this is by far the richest Nation in the world. Do we want these murders and crimes to continue whenever we know they are largely the result of the bootlegging and whiskey game? "You mention that these matters should be held in open commission. If this is so decided by the commission, it would be so ordered.

"I repeat in closing that I hope that I am the last man that would lay a straw in the way of any citizen, be they man or woman, that is making every attempt to observe the laws. Were this entire matter to be done over again, my attitude and position would not be changed in the least.

"I shall send copies of this letter to the Morning Press at Escanaba, asking that it be printed in the Gladstone items, as I am anxious for all to have a chance to know where I stand.

"The charter provides that any member of the commission not doing his duty as a majority see it, may be recalled, and I am anxious to give the voters a chance to exercise their privilege in this regard.

Yours truly, I. N. BOSSHONG, Mayor."

SOUPS

Too many of us neglect soups in our menus. Soups should be served once a day. They are one of our healthiest foods and not to be overlooked. They fill the vegetable needs of our constitutions, are easily digested and very nourishing. The following are favored in the soup kingdom.

Vegetable Soup No. 1. 1 c. lima beans, 1 c. peas, 2 tbsp. barley, 2 tsp. rice, 1-2 c. kidney beans, 1 c. diced potato, 1 onion cut up, 1 small red turnip, 1 c. tomatoes, 1 ham bone.

Soak rice and barley in cold water for 1 hour; bring it to the boiling point, add cut raw vegetables, and cook until tender. About a half hour before serving, add the canned vegetables and the ham bone. Stir frequently, adding water as it cooks away. Serve quite thick and also very hot.

Tomato Soup. 1 c. tomatoes, 1 pt. meat stock, 2 tbsp. flour, 1 tsp. butter, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1/2 pepper.

Place tomatoes in a granite pan, add meat stock and heat to boiling; thicken with the flour and butter, add seasoning, strain and serve.

Cream of Tomato Soup. 1-2 can of tomatoes, 1 1/2 tsp. soda, 1 qt. milk, 2 tbsp. flour, 2 tbsp. butter, 1-2 tsp. salt.

Cook the tomatoes with the soda and strain. Heat the milk in the double boiler and thicken with the flour and butter. Add the tomato pulp, heat, and serve with croutons.

Cream of Lima Bean Soup. 1 c. lima beans, 2 pts. hot water, 2 slices of onion, 4 slices of carrot, 2 tbsp. butter, 1 c. milk, 2 tsp. flour, 1 tsp. salt, 1-2 pepper.

Heat the beans in the water and thicken the beans in the water and put through a sieve, cut the onion and the carrot into dice and cook in the butter until yellow; add the milk, flour and salt and pepper; stir this into the boiling soup.

Cream of Corn Soup. 1 can of corn, 1 qt. milk, 2 tbsp. flour, 2 tbsp. butter.

Heat one cup of peas in their own liquor; add to one qt. of milk. Melt the butter, mix with the flour and thicken the soup with it. Season to taste and serve hot.

Expensive Lessons. "I'm getting up a little poker game, Major," invited the friend. "Would you like to join us?" "Sir, I do not play poker." "I'm sorry, I was under the impression that you did."

"I was once under that impression myself, sir."—Leslie Weekly.

A MIRACLE WORKER

For the Farm Home, Too

For homes without Electricity, this wonderful washer is available with Gasoline Multi-Motor.

It costs more for you to be without the Maytag Multi-Motor than to have it

There's no excuse now for you—or any woman whose home is without electricity—being without Gyrafoam service. You can have—and should have as fine a washday service as you would be sure to have if your home were in the city. This is available now through the famous Maytag Multi-Motor Washer—operated by a powerful little built-in gasoline engine that starts with a flip of the foot lever. Your biggest washing is quickly, conveniently and economically handled—costs only a few cents for gasoline. And the washer is easily moved about—to porch, shade tree, or basement—wherever you wish.

As a matter of fact, you couldn't have better washday service even if you did have electricity—because there is no better service than Gyrafoam service. It is the Gyrafoam principle of washing—not electricity—which makes the Maytag the fastest, cleanest, most helpful washer in the world.

The Maytag Multi-Motor brings you not merely the advantages of an electric washer—but every single iota of helpfulness of the newest, most advanced, most efficient—washing principle the world has ever known—the Gyrafoam principle. The Maytag Multi-Motor is operated by the Gyrafoam principle the same as the electric washer. Both washers are same except that one operates on electricity, and the other on gasoline.

What do women think of the Maytag? In less than 600 days, 125,000 women adopted Gyrafoam service—not simply because of what they heard about it—but from what they actually saw right in their own homes, when they washed with it on test trial. Now everywhere, every day, you hear them talking about the Gyrafoam. They have named it "The Miracle of Monday," for it has performed a miracle with their washday—made it the easiest day of the week.

The Maytag Multi-Motor is the only washer operated by its own built-in gasoline engine

WHAT OTHERS ARE THINKING

Do you believe the Police, Professional or Amateur Detectives should be called upon to enforce the Prohibition Law in Gladstone?

C. A. WALZ—
We're paying revenue to keep up the national government, we pay direct taxes for the state and city units, and we shouldn't go hiring outside bums to do the work of the police department. It's just as possible for the police to get the evidence as any of these bums, or anyone else you could put on the track of the bootleggers.

We have thousands of laws to be enforced, and we don't hire outsiders to enforce any of them, nor does this situation require it either. If our civilians can handle these other laws, this one can be no exception.

The police can get all the evidence they want—if they want to get it. If the city officials would do their duty they would get plenty of evidence. That's what they're on the job for, and if they can't do it, then there's something lacking. I do think this, however, the police should be allowed to enter any of the "soft drink parlors," and carry on a search at any time, without getting out warrants.

JOHN B. MATTHEY—
If our police officers can't enforce the law get some that can. The taxpayers are now supporting no less than four separate groups of officers, federal, state, county and local. If the prohibition law is right, surely it would appear that at least one of these bodies should be able to function effectively. The number of cases where actual bribery was proven should already have pointed out the danger of engaging men of poor character to uphold a law.

ARTHUR SAWYER—
The police are not in a position to get the evidence on the bootleggers, and the only result is that someone else should be employed to do the work. It stands to reason that just the fact that they wear the uniform keeps them from getting any of the inside stuff on these soft drink parlors. They're placarded, so to say, and the bootlegger sees them coming, they dispose of their goods in short order. I think that the raiding should be done by Federal officers. I do not think city funds should be expended for the purpose.

Truth Will Out

Mrs. Beryl Clanson and Robert Nebel were united in marriage on October 5. The secret has been guarded for a long while but "the truth will out." Mrs. Nebel is well known in this city, having been employed by the Coopers company for some time. The groom is a well known contractor. They will make their home here, and have the well wishes of their many friends.

Trinity Guild Met at Aslett Home

The Trinity Guild of the Trinity Episcopal church held a regular meeting Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Aslett as hostess. The time was spent in work on a quilt that the ladies plan to sell in the near future. At five o'clock, a luncheon was served.

Royal Neighbors Meet Tonight

The Royal Neighbors will hold a meeting this evening in the Eagle hall. Business matters will be settled. The meeting will conclude with the serving of a potluck luncheon.

Miss Cecelia DeVet, and Ernest De Hooghe spent the week end with relatives at Garden Bay.

Mrs. Peter Cannon, who is ill at the St. Francis hospital is recovering.

Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Leroux celebrated her first birthday anniversary Thursday. A number of little guests and their mothers enjoyed the afternoon immensely. A delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Lyons (Kan.) Republican.

The Fringed Gentian

It is rather paradoxical, that of the profusion of beautiful and sweet-scented wild flowers that nature marshals through the spring and summer seasons, we should have to wait till autumn to look upon the most beautiful of all, the fringed gentian. But nature decreed it so and for this reason less is known of this roadside resident than most of the other common wild flowers of the state. If the fringed gentian bloomed in early spring we would have eyes for no other wildling, for its intense blue upon slender, tall stems, frail, delicate and wonderfully fringed, sets it apart from its earlier associates. Of all the nectar bearing wild flowers, the fringed gentian is the last of the season to feed the hungry bumble bees. When it folds its four petals, nature's confectionery shop is closed for the year.

Them Was the Days

A display in a store window of this city indicates the old-fashioned valentines, not the "comic," but the sentimental, lacy kind with bluebirds and hearts and forget-me-nots. Cupids and pretty girl faces, and cloying words of sweetness in verses of sentiment are coming back. These valentines are made in Germany and were very popular in grandfathers and grandmothers' days—they were little boys and girls then—and the sight of them will bring back tender memories. —Lyons (Kan.) The Latest in the Radio World JUST ARRIVED

Radiola 25-Hetrodyne

A second-harmonic six tube Super-Hetrodyne. The circuit is firmly entrenched as a permanent feature of the Radiola line. Experience has demonstrated that it meets every demand of the broadcast listener, with respect to selectivity, distance getting capabilities, volume and distortionless reproduction.

Radiola 25 is equipped with the new Radiotron UX-120 dry battery power amplifier, thus giving volume in excess of the average type of radio receiver operated by storage batteries. Space is provided in the cabinet for housing all the batteries, the internal battery connections being appropriately tagged to simplify the procedure of connecting up dry cells.

The R. C. A. Uni-control mechanism with "straight line" point to make condensers, is employed in this Radiola, moonshine parlors in purposes, local or long distant stations than there were before. For every single tuning control. For increased out of the business, one distance reception, this control, may answered the lure of easy mo-to tuning control, thus giving the enter the illud business. The supply were diminished for a tuning. but nothing constructive had been done to lessen the demand for the stuff, and where there is a demand, it appears a means is usually found to supply it.

WE ERRED, it seems, in stating that all cases involved in the last raids were quashed. City Manager Bueschner informs us that three of those arrested pleaded guilty and were sentenced to the 300 term of court. Also, he states that two of the dealers have declared their intention of quitting the business. The raids

DISMISS CHARGES AGAINST RANTALA

The case of Frank Lagina who was seriously injured by John Rantala, both of Kipling was settled Thursday afternoon before Justice Hupp. Lagina was struck down and seriously injured while on his way to his home in Kipling Tuesday night Nov. 3 by the Rantala car. He suffered a fractured skull, and internal injuries that were expected to prove fatal until a few days ago, when his recovery was assured.

The charge against Rantala for failure to stop and give aid was dismissed on the motion of prosecuting Attorney Carr of Escanaba because of lack of evidence. Rantala claimed that when he was told that he had "killed a man" he was so awe struck that he could not move from his seat. As soon as he could operate the car he glanced around, but the injured man had already received care. He then drove off to his home in Kipling. Rantala was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, and was unable to see the side of the road, where Lagina was walking.

The charges against him for reckless were also dismissed when it was found that his speed was 20 miles an hour.

His driver's license has been revoked indefinitely. He agreed to pay the expenses of the injured man, and his wages during the time of his convalescence.

VETERAN FORD GOES UP IN SMOKE

The Ford Touring Car, of Cap Fisher, 1917 model, breathed its last amid clouds of smoke, and smoldering flames near Bay View about 4:30 Sunday morning.

Robert Fisher, was returning from Escanaba, having taken a passenger to meet the early train there. His attention was attracted by a dim flood of light on either side of the road. Glancing around, he beheld the rear of the trusty flivver blazing high. He steered for the ditch, made a hasty exit, and left the Ford to its fate. It is not known exactly how the fire started. The probable solution is that the fire started underneath the front end, the wind fanning the blaze and spreading it to the rear of the car as it drove along.

The Ford may be considered a family heirloom. It stood the test of all kinds of weather, never boasting of a roof over its head. Since its purchase by "Cap" in 1917, it has seen lots of service, but "Cap" intended using her lots more. No insurance covered the loss.

ARMISTICE DAY WELL OBSERVED

ALL WORK STOPPED FOR ONE MINUTE AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK

Armistice Day was properly observed in the city Wednesday, with many of the business places closing, flags at half, and all work stopped for one minute at eleven o'clock. The blowing of whistles at that time brought recollections of our first Armistice day to many.

Some of the stores closed up shop for the entire day, while others remained open in the morning, closing their doors at noon.

In the afternoon, a football game, the last of the season, between the Kleiman, and St. Joe's of Escanaba, was the big attraction, ending in a local victory.

The Legion dance held in the evening at Terrace Gardens was a pleasant culmination of the day. A large crowd was in attendance from this city, and adjacent places. The music, which contributed much to the affair, was provided by the Midnight Entertainers.

ARE WE REALLY TOLERANT?

When a public speaker takes occasion to call for "tolerance" in this nation he is sure to be cheered warmly and to be commended afterward from press and pulpit for his plea. But how many of us who cheer him are really ready to be tolerant? We may think we are—but are we? Tolerance might be said to consist largely in minding one's own business. If you're tolerant you don't worry about your neighbor's conduct, his religion, his race, his beliefs. You let him say and think what he pleases. You strive, in plain English, to carry out the Golden Rule to the very best of your ability. It's a fine thing to cheer pleas for tolerance. It's a better thing to take stock now and then and see if we ourselves are really being as tolerant as we might.—Soo News.

THE FIRST HUNTING ACCIDENT

(Manistique Pioneer Tribune)
One hunting accident occurred in the county over the week end which should serve as a warning to those who are planning to begin the quest for deer on November 15th. Don't shoot until you know what you are shooting at. It is better to be sure even though a deer may get away now and then.

The man who was shot evidently was mistaken for a deer. Luckily, he was not killed. Being shot through both legs is, indeed, serious enough. Hunting accidents during the open deer season are kid enough. There is just one conclusion to draw when such an accident occurs out of season, especially when the carrying of a rifle is prohibited by law.

From the talk which is common gossip about the city, we judge that it would not be difficult to fix the blame for the shooting. At the time of writing this no action had been taken by the officers. However, we are looking forward to an investigation with much interest.

TOO MANY LAWS ARE IMPEDING JUSTICE

(Keeweenaw Miner)
The courts and police officials have been loaded down with too much work by the multiplicity of laws according to the Attorney General of Indiana, Arthur L. Gilliom, who is quoted by the National Republic, which says: "Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom, of Indiana, has put his finger on one of the chief causes of lawlessness when he declares that by multiplying laws regulating conduct we have loaded down the courts and police authorities with more work than it is possible for them to do. So many acts have been made wrong by legislative fiat, which heretofore were unknown or legal, that the work of our police forces has been multiplied to the point where it is impossible to give sufficient attention to detecting and punishing the more serious crimes. Mr. Gilliom says: 'This is a condition which has come about as the result of the ever increasing tendency to regulate almost everyone and everything by setting up moral standards and arbitrary conceptions of conduct, and by attempting to compel obedience thereto by means of our police forces and other enforcement offices. If this tendency continues, I fear that it will ultimately lead to a condition of poorly protected people against real crime on the one hand, and a terrifying enforcement of tyrannical laws which invade the sphere of private conduct on the other. To me it seems plain that we must keep such police forces as our people are willing to sustain, sufficiently free to permit them to cope with those who are the real criminals, and those who must stop demanding their protection primarily or a vague public instead of the interests of the public."

Reopen Rogers Mine
Iron River—About 350 men will find steady employment when the Rogers mine, inactive since May 4, 1925, reopens next January with the M. A. Hanna Co. as operators. Both Hiawatha and Rogers mines, formerly operated by the Munro Iron Mining Co., will be operated by the M. A. Hanna Co., according to arrangements made recently. With M. A. Hanna Co. as operator the Hiawatha mine will also be worked to capacity, according to announcement made by G. M. Jahn, general superintendent of the Munro properties. More men will be needed at this property immediately, he says. Steady employment at both mines will be assured for several years, once operations get under way.

UNCLE BEN SAYS: "Most of us run with our feet but you tell whether a clock is running by its hand"

A Mere Skeleton

A living skeleton in the circus side-show is a "freak". He is a freak because, although only skin and bone, he manages to keep on living. Many others get down to his weight at times, but they either recover quickly or die. There is no more wasting disease than a severe nervous affliction. The worst of these is St. Vitus Dance. Strictly a nervous disorder, the victim must ceaselessly be on the move in some manner and flesh is eaten as a locomotive consumes fuel.

Many and many a case of this type has been checked by taking Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments. Though few people are so unfortunate as to be afflicted in this way, the results obtained by adjustments in this condition are an object lesson showing their application to all nervous afflictions.

ST. VITUS VICTIM RECOVERS

"Four years ago my daughter was afflicted with St. Vitus Dance. I tried many doctors but got no relief. Her condition was deplorable, with constant twitching and movement of arms, feet and face. Her voice was affected and she had to be fed. She was but a mere skeleton and very irritable. In February, 1921, I was persuaded to try a chiropractor. Not being able to walk, I had to take her to his office in a small express wagon. It was not very long until a change was noticed. Her nerves became more quiet and she was able to walk. She is well and has had no trouble since."—Mrs. Chas. Rightour, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 2135-V.

HEALTH means the clock Backward. Chiropractic corrects the cause of disease in the opposite direction. The lower nerve under the magnifying glass is pinched by a misaligned joint. Pinched nerves cannot transmit healthful impulses. Chiropractic adjusting removes the pressure. The upper nerve is free as nature intends.

SCHOLARLY SQUIBBLES

Final rehearsals are under way for the H. S. operetta "Peast of Red Corn" to be held Friday night, Nov. 20. The principals and the chorus are completing arrangements for costuming and other details. The feature stage setting is that of a fall scene, corn stalks and autumn leaves adding to the effect.

The pupils of Miss Mueller's home room presented an enjoyable program at the Junior HI assembly Wednesday morning. Fern Woodhall sang "Persephaticity," Mary Shrock, gave a reading, "Gee Whiz," Robert Kee gave a violin solo and Juanita Kircher gave a piano solo.

The various home rooms of the Junior high school will each have an opportunity to present a program before the assembly.

Mr. Cochran, of the National Sportsman Association gave an interesting and instructive talk to the student body Friday morning in the gymnasium. "Conservation of the Forests" was his topic and in dealing with this important and timely subject he provided himself to be very familiar with existing conditions.

The seniors have been "photographed" this week. The committees of the various departments have also been chosen and copy is being turned in regularly. The subscription committee will be appointed this week and will then begin the campaign.

Eight debaters from the Public speaking class gave a debate before the contestants for the H. S. debating team to give them an idea of the question at issue and the manner of conducting a debate. The elimination contest was held Wednesday morning. It would seem that the girls are more enthusiastic about Public speaking than the boys since there are 16 of the former to only two of the latter.

Those who presented the affirmative side of the question. Resolved: that the proposed child amendment shall be adopted, were Anita Rosenblum, Helen LaPaver, Charlotte Marble, Georgia Zink, Elizabeth Keen, Marguerite Rupp, Russell Skellenger, Ruth Noreus and Josephine Magoon, while those upholding the negative were, Christine McMillan, Helen Erickson, June Woodhall, Claire Clark, Merle Papineau, Anna Quarstrom, Reno Payne, Lawrence VanHorn and Evelyn Sword.

A Moose Hunt in Quebec

(Editors Note: Mr. Jones, manager of Marble Arms & Mfg. company, recently gave an account of the moose hunt to members of the Rotary club. The hearing it would be of interest to many readers in Gladstone and vicinity where the proportion of hunters is no doubt greater than elsewhere, we prevailed upon him to put the details in form for printing.)

By James T. Jones

To relate the story of a moose hunting trip in an interesting manner in the space which must necessarily be limited may prove more difficult to an amateur hunter than was the actual hunting of the game, for many of the details must be omitted. A score of monthly magazines carry items and stories which apparently never contain full and complete information regarding the various phases of hunting or of the game hunted. No two hunting trips are ever exactly the same and probably no two animals were ever killed in a hunt under exactly the same conditions. It is the expectation of something different that brings the thrill of anticipation.

Deer hunting breeds a desire for the next day in sport which is to bag the bull moose, a kind of king of the class of game, an animal that may be the hardest or the easiest game to get—depending entirely on who is telling the story. That I secured one on my first trip was due to good fortune, luck we call it. I presume the same average of those who score on deer holds good on moose, the chances seem to be about even. One half of the hunters who went out from our main camp took home nothing but the remembrance of diversified weather, bangs of lead and packages, possibly a determination to try again another year and a few assorted ideas.

I was attracted to the Quebec country, as it is termed the "Last North," that section being as yet undeveloped and owned by the Canadian Government. The wilderness seems unending and the chances are slim for the future when necessity drives the mills that far into the wilds to provide pulpwood for paper making. I was lonesome for the maple, oak and elm which abounds in our local territory which is frequented by deer. But moose prefer the thick forest of spruce which is adjacent to the numerous lakes and rivers and where quietness prevails except for noises produced by the elements and the denizens of the forests.

East to North Bay, south to Cochrane and east again to LaSalle, Quebec, put me at the detouring point. An American tourist, as I was called, would find it more convenient to have an interpreter or a knowledge of the French for few indeed speak English. Thirty six miles by river and lake in a canoe propelled by a "kicker" brought me to the main camp on Duquet Lake and here the various parties were outfitted and sent out to the hunting grounds in different directions twenty or more miles further into the wilderness.

Moose hunting parties in Canada are usually well organized. For a stipulated sum you are provided with a canoe, tent, food, competent guide and miles of double country. You are informed in advance that it is no fit recreation for one afraid of cold, wet or windy days and nights and that upon cooperation with the guide depends your success or failure. Each hunter has his individual guide it is usual for two hunters and two guides to make up a party. After placing the various parts of the outfit in the two canoes we headed across the lake and up the river. After covering six miles our companion canoe headed toward shore, carrying one half of our cooking outfit. The winter tent, expecting to follow after us. We found them at the main camp when we returned the following week. About the only persons we expected to meet were the fire wardens who travel entirely by canoe, spending six months each year in the wilderness, aided by aeroplanes from headquarters which also keep a watchful eye for fires. Recent gold discoveries are bringing in prospectors and this is expected to ruin that section for moose hunting for these animals retire as civilization advances as they wish to be in the thick timber entirely alone.

We were scheduled to go twenty-five miles from the main camp, getting a late start the first day we covered only ten miles, but a lot of new experience in paddling and portage can be crowded into a few hours. I had an excellent outfit, but were a 30, strong and willing, which was well. When John, the guide, said "portage one" I knew we were in for something new, for my gun, sleeping bag, pack sack and traveling bag looked numerous enough with John's pack, tent, assortment of dishes, large box of oatmeal and the canoe thrown in. Portage meant to transfer the sundry items one half mile over a steep grade and deposit same on the other side without loss or damage. The job was finished in two trips, thanks to the capacity of the guide, which capacity seemed limited only to our ability to pile the items on his back and head. If anyone thinks he is hardened to outdoor sports even a half mile portage will soon convince the most that John kept us out most of the night but could get no answer. The sharp frosty air was too much and pulling off my boots I pulled my sleeping bag up to my shoulders and endured it until John paddled back to camp to salvage a portion of the night for sleep. The next afternoon we started our hunt earlier and ended it earlier as that territory appeared devoid of game.

The following day found us back near the Indian shack, but camped on a small island which was our headquarters for the rest of our stay. Starting one afternoon toward one end of the lake John spied game so far away that he almost could discern it. Frantic paddling took us around a point of land out of view of the moose but so the guide could get us close to the animals but he soon ascertained that a moose cow and calf were favorably lying pads along the edge of the lake. These animals are protected and naturally not sought by hunters who at best can carry away only the head and must from necessity await the opportunity to shoot a bull moose. The wind was favorable and so quietly did the guide handle the canoe that we were within sixty yards of the animals before they strode away in the woods, never suspecting that they were being watched.

The next afternoon we repeated but the wind was so strong it did not quiet down until late and then it was necessary to choose the other side of the lake. It was nearly six o'clock before John received an answer to a call and incidentally was instrumental in bringing together a whole family of moose. The bull passed within 100 feet of us, heading up the lake to join the cow and calf, which was favorable to us on account of wind conditions. John paddled silently after but this precaution just then seemed unnecessary for when the bull moose is coming thru the thick woods he makes no less noise than would be caused by dragging an automobile thru the same place. It was a marvel to one accustomed to having deer come and go without hearing them, to listen to the brush and timber crack in the wake of that moose.

My sensations and feelings during that chase are for me alone to think about, and for the reader, if there be such, to imagine. Would John get the canoe near enough to shore and would the moose come out of the thick timber for me to get a shot were apparent in my thoughts. The deepening shadows along the lake occasionally brought something from John as we intently scanned hitting a reed or lily pad for he was now propelling the canoe absolutely noiselessly. To hurry along to the last chapter and the great moment, the canoe finally rounded the point of an island, John instinctively guessing what would transpire on the shore for he had closely scrutinized that shore during the afternoon. Rounding the island the canoe

POTATO CHAMPION HAILS FROM CHAMPION, MICH.

A message from E. C. Mandagor, of the state department of agriculture to the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, contains the information that John DeLongchamp of Champion, Marquette county, again has carried away the highest honors in Michigan with his exhibits of Green Mountain potatoes at the state potato show. Mr. DeLongchamp's tubers took first prize in the baking contest, fourth in the certified seed class, first in the 32-potato class, and his 32 samples won the sweepstakes prize. DeLongchamp has a six-acre field of Green Mountain potatoes which produced 388 bushels to the acre this year. Last year the production average was 400 bushels to the acre. Two years ago Mr. DeLongchamp sold two or three carloads of Green Mountain seed potatoes to growers on Long Island, who heard of his remarkable success. DeLongchamp was induced to standardize on the Green Mountain variety six years ago by L. R. Walker, Marquette county agricultural agent. He has made rapid progress since then and Mr. Walker points to his record as proof that standardization of potato crops is the best policy.

PROPOSES FUND FOR REFORESTATION

BILL UP IN NEXT CONGRESS WOULD PROVIDE U. S. CHAIN OF FORESTS

By SHIRLEY ALLEN. (American Forestry Ass'n.) The Woodruff McNary bill is only 17 lines long. It goes straight to the heart of the question of whether we are to have an adequate chain of national forests east of the great plains. And the heart of that question is the adoption of a plan by which the purchase of necessary forest area may go forward promptly. This bill calls for congress to commit itself to a plan whereby $3,000,000 a year for five years are authorized to be appropriated and following this period $5,000,000 a year for five years more. This means $40,000,000 in a period of 10 years. It is designated to accomplish the establishment of national forests in the lake states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, covering an area of not less than 2,500,000 acres, in the pine regions of the south. All of this activity is authorized by the Clarke-McNary act, except the appropriation of money for the purchase and on this question, Section 6, which reaffirms the forest purchase provision of the Weeks Law of 1911, is entirely silent. From a national standpoint, according to Colonel W. B. Greeley, chief forester of the United States, the McNary-Woodruff bill is the next important step to take in rounding out an effective national forest policy. Would Help U. P. From a local standpoint, the upper peninsula of Michigan will not get very far in securing a national forest unit unless congress is made to commit itself to a more generous provision for land purchase than it has made at any time before. During the present fiscal year, one million dollars was made available for this purpose and at a recent hear-

PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

(By Ed. A. Nowack) Zeeland, the town where Editor Vanhooker recently held a house warming party with reference to the fact that neither a car or its contents ever have been stolen there. While that fact entitles Zeeland to particular mention, the town also boasts the largest hall clock factory in the world. Five members of the Michigan State Police are preaching the gospel of safety first on the highways, appearing at rural schools in behalf of the safety campaign. Figures gathered by interested officials as to the monetary return by reason of the tour are in the state reveals one farmer on M-12 who reported $1,700 worth of sales from his roadside stand. Flivver hoboes are the latest menace with which Michigan officials have to deal. Families in dilapidated flivvers are moving from place to place, out of funds, relying upon the charity of the world. Another nuisance troubling police and sheriff's is the highway tramp who hits the autos for a ride rather than steam roads. Detroit this year is building the last of three million feet of asphalt pavement which amount is equivalent to 300 miles of 18 foot roadway. Many hundreds of ringneck pheasants were released from captivity at the state game farm at Mason immediately upon the close of the season on the birds. This act will replenish the stock killed off and will also do away with the sale of the birds as here-tofore. Wayne county plans 21 miles of new pavement for 1926 and 40 miles of pavement to widen existing roads. Scores of special game warden will be stationed on the highways between Michigan and Wisconsin this month to prevent the smuggling of deer. Forest fire losses this year in Michigan are piling up a staggering total, judging by the reports coming in to Lansing. In less than three years Detroit has had five mayors. Resignations due to political advancement and ill health made the changing complexion possible. Mayor Couzens resigned in 1922 to become U. S. Senator. Frank Doremus succeeded him until ill health sent him to a hospital. Then came John C. Lodge and then Joseph A. Martin, the latter beaten by John W. Smith. The Bell Telephone company has informed the Public Utilities Commission it plans a $23,000,000 expenditure for 1926 improvements. With recent annexations Detroit's total population today is about 1,270,000. Osceola county plans installing 14,000 feet of snow fence this winter while Missaukee plans on 10,000 and Westford 9,000. John Canfield of Manistee will experiment with radio and a laboratory on a 400-acre tract of timberland near there. The Michigan Sugar company, with its nine factories, is busy with the full crop of sugar beets. The Sebewaing plant, with around 250 men employed, will handle more than 60,000 tons of beets.

CRITICAL REVIEW BY A CHORUS GIRL

Arrange with the manager of the current musical show or vaudeville act to have a chorus girl see "Trouping with Ellen" and write a signed critical review of the photoplay, stressing especially the truth of the inside views of a stage girl's life as portrayed by Miss Chadwick. This picture will be shown at the Lyric theater Sunday Nov. 15.

BORDERLAND

Here is a territory as large as the New England States, supporting a sparse population of a few thousand, unknown to the world at large—the arid wastes that divide the United States and Mexico. "Border Women" comes to the Lyric theater Monday and Tuesday. For sixteen hundred miles the international border traverses desert and mountain. Cities are few and far between—villages, a New Yorker would call the largest of them. Policing the border is a difficult, almost impossible task. It is easy enough to maintain military guards and custom houses in such cities as Nueva Laredo and Tia Juana, where large American towns exist on the other side of the line.

PROBABLY LISTENED WITH THEIR RADIO ANT-ENNAE

What—ants that talk over the telephone! Yes—ants that not only talk, but actually make love to one another over the telephone wires. At least, so says Dr. Wolfgang Kohler, eminent student of animal psychology, who has made a comprehensive study of these little animals and has been much impressed with their intelligence and human characteristics. Dr. Kohler, who is director of the Psychological Institute of Berlin, has been making a tour of this country and has been lecturing at the University of California. While modern minds have the advantage of their grandmother in that they can use the telephone to call up their sweethearts, they have nothing on the ant, says the distinguished scientist. But let Dr. Kohler speak for himself. "In order to test the auditory ability of ants, I carefully selected a pair who appeared especially affectionate. I took the male to a house five miles distant from the laboratory. I connected the two locations with a sensitive telephone instrument, removed the receiver and held it near the female, while an assistant opened the other end of the line and placed it near the male. The female immediately went to the telephone," he added.

was headed toward shore, which was about 200 feet distant and the three moose could be seen at the edge of the timber about fifty feet from the water. It was now so dark that it was impossible to discern one animal from the other, even the guide was uncertain and it required quick work with a flash light which finally settled in the direction of the bull moose and with the shrill cry to "about him, shoot him again!" "You hit him!" "Mr. moose we got you!" the bullets began to fly and to the delight of both of us they were effective. I was very cautious in approaching the fallen moose but he was down for the count with a splendid shaped set of horns measuring four foot across. We were then four miles from our little camp. Returning the next morning the guide skinned out the head and before we were again at camp a steady downpour of rain attempted to dampen our spirits. We were sure it would continue to rain or snow so we hurriedly packed and at noon we started our return trip, the guide remarking that we would not dare to stop until we reached the main camp and we didn't altho it kept us busy paddling, carrying and portaging for seven hours up and down streams and across a rough lake which at any other time would have turned us back from our determination and objective. The moose head was an added burden for it meant an extra trip on a portage and in the small streams was continually endeavoring to hook the brush along the shore.

The main camp had not appeared very strongly on the trip up but on that windy and snowy night, with a fire place doing full duty it was a haven of rest for a couple of wet and tired mariners. The next day a thirty six mile trip in the canoe propelled by a "kicker" over more rough water brought us to the railroad and I was within three days of home, with a successful trip and new experiences to think of. Naturally I could be generous enough to talk about my trip but did not expect to be so inconsiderate as to impose upon the good nature of the readers of this paper, for as stated in the beginning it is rather difficult to make this article thoroughly interesting as many little experiences and happenings must be left unsaid.

BOYS' CONFERENCE SET FOR FEBRUARY

Preliminary plans for the Annual Upper Peninsula Older Boys' conference, which will be held at Marquette in February, are under way. President J. M. Munson of the Northern State Normal school, assures the committees of the use of the Normal buildings and equipment, and co-operation in planning the conference program. Prominent educators already have been invited to speak.

The boys of the Hi-Y club at Michigamme, who had a banner delegation at Hancock last year, have a unique plan to assure a good delegation at Marquette. Every two weeks each boy in the club deposits 50 cents to his credit in the Conference fund. By February each boy will have the necessary fund to pay his railroad fare and conference fee.

Escanaba boys have already extended an invitation for the 1927 conference to be held in their town. New clubs at Gladstone and Republic, carrying the emphasis of the conference throughout the year, will assure particularly large delegations.

Nague-Pada Nuptials

A very pretty fall wedding was that of last Saturday when Miss Helen Nague became the bride of Arvid Pada, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Pada, of North Court Street.

The ceremony was performed at the Pada home at four o'clock by Rev. C. E. Olson.

Arvid made a charming picture garbed in dark blue polart twill, and carrying Colidge roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Edith Pada, a sister of the groom, wore a dress of the same material in a lighter shade. She carried Columbia roses. Miss Esther Smith, acted as maid of honor. She wore a pretty gown of tan polart twill, with like accessories, and also carried roses. The groom was attended by Gene Keeler and Carl Major.

The home was prettily decorated in out flowers with roses used in profusion. The ceremony was performed in the living room underneath a bow-er of roses, that added beauty to the scene.

A wedding supper followed, with plates laid for fifty relatives and close friends. A dancing party was held at the Pada home in the evening.

Both bride and groom are well known here, and are extended congratulations by their many friends.

They will make their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Pada for the time being. Mr. Pada is employed at the Flooring mill. The bride, who came here from Grand Rapids, has been employed at the Phil Rachel home.

SALVATION ARMY MAKES APPEAL

"During the twelve months of the year this organization ministers unceasingly to the needs of the community and only one week out of the fifty-two is the general public asked to contribute to this very necessary work.

"The Army is absolutely impartial regarding belief or creed of the people they help and the work is being done quietly and efficiently, often behind the scene, so as to shield those who are being helped.

"It is a long since established fact that every community is greatly benefited where the army is at work and here in Gladstone this has been proven time and time again by the quick way in which the organization has handled problems and unfortunate cases brought to their attention in their daily work amongst less fortunate situated.

The Salvation Army work in Gladstone is just one link in the great chain encircling the whole world by this time, but as a chain is never stronger than its very weakest link, it is imperative that the work be supported in this city so as to make it one hundred per cent efficient. Surely every good citizen will do their best and make their contribution more liberal than ever before in order to raise the yearly quota of $700,000."

FELDT'S NO. 16 BOOTS STALL OTTO'S FORD

It's a well known fact that lots of things stall Fords but about the most unusual in the list, is a pair of No. 16 boots, the property of August P. D. Q. Feldt.

On this particular occasion Otto Haberman had borrowed them to use on a duck hunting expedition last Sunday. Having placed them in the back seat of the Ford, he was unable to coax the outfit out of Beaudy's garage. He and Robert Haberman put their shoulders to the wheel, and finally through the art of pushing got it someplace in the vicinity of Kjellander's Garage. Otto isn't sure that it was Gus's boots, but we are told that Kjellander took the boots out of the back seat before he could tow her in.

MALE ACTORS HONOR DIRECTOR WITH EXPENSIVE GIFT

Forty-two actors who appeared in "The Merry Widow," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production coming to the Community theater next week presented Erick von Stroheim, with an unusually handsome gold cigarette case as a token of their appreciation and regard for their director. The presentation of the gift was made at a banquet held in Marchetti's restaurant, in Los Angeles tendered to the director by the men who contributed to the present. This is probably the first time in the history of motion pictures that all the men acting before the camera—the principals, small part players and extras—have clubbed together to make a present to their director.

Using a horse that was roped out of a herd of wild horses several years ago and broke to the saddle by Jack Hoxie, Cliff Smith has directed a picture featuring the horse and a band of a thousand nomad steeds. The picture is called "The White Outlaw," a Universal Blue Streak Western now showing at the Community theater. Marceline Day plays opposite while Scout, Hoxie's famous white mount, has the title role. Issadore Bernstein wrote the story.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tischer and the latter's sister Miss Dorothy Baker, arrived Wednesday from Chicago to spend a few days at the P. J. Baker home.
