FORTIETH YEAR - NO. 33

GLADSTONE, MICH., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1925

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 A YEAR

GOOD ATTENDANCE FAILS TO COVER LEGION'S BAZAAR

FINANCIAL FAILURE RECORDED BUT PUBLIC SHOWS ITS GOOD INTENTIONS

WORKED HARD TO PLEASE ALL

Large crowds attended the Legion Christmas Bazaar held five nights last week at the Community Gym and from an entertainment standpoint it might be said to have gone over, but financially the venture was a failure as not enough was netted to clear expenses, the Lippa Amusement company making up the deficit, under the agreement entered into with the local Legion Post.

An average of over 400 people turned out each night, a total of close to 2,500 for the five nights. The total receipts, including the advance sale of tickets, were $755 and the total expenses were $820, leaving a deficit of $65 for the Lippa company. The proceeds expected were to have been used to make up the local Post's deficit for the Gladstone quota of the National Legion Endowment fund.

There were some tickets sold by members in advance and not accounted for in checking out, and this money was released by Mr. Lippa to be used for the fund. The committee hopes that this will amount to about $50 and will be turned into the endowment fund.

The big items of expense for the Bazaar included $175 for the Community Gym; $210 for the vanities; $105 for the orchestra; $98 for advertising, printing and posting. The rest of the expense was for merchandise, express and incidentals.

A meeting of the Post is to be held tonight and a decision will be reached then on how to complete the Gladstone quota. If $50 is realized from the bazaar, there will remain about $80 to raise by solicitation from members not yet approached to assist in the endowment fund quota.

The receipts of the venture reflect the financial condition. The citizens showed their good intentions by attending and for this the committee in charge and the Legion officers, are mighty thankful. The committee worked hard to please the public and give it something for the money spent and if it failed, the failure was due to circumstances which could not be foreseen or controlled.

HIGH SCHOOL OPERETTA WON BIG AUDIENCE

"The Feast of the Red Corn," staged by the Girls Glee club of the high school in the Junior High school auditorium last Friday evening completely won the large audience in attendance. The play was of Indian origin, all the characters appearing in full costume.

Miss Marie Grayce, leader of the cast, as Queen of the Wanta Tribe, took her part in an accomplished manner, with Fern Woodhall as Impresario, her young son, Mary Elzeget, Pearl Heslip and Florence Bouchard as Pudge, Pudge and Wudge, all doing justice to the excellent training of Miss Nellie Althaus, director. Dancers were June Woodhall, Helen Anderson and Miss Jeaphrine Magon as Sorceress of the tribe. The solo work was exceptional, and much credit is due the members of the cast.

HIGH SCHOOL ASSEMBLIES IN HONOR OF THANKSGIVING

Assemblies were held in both Junior and Senior High schools, Wednesday evening, in celebration of Thanksgiving Day.

Rev. S. Maier was the speaker at the latter. He gave a very interesting talk with theme in keeping with the spirit of the occasion. Miss Helen L. Fayer gave a reading pertaining to Thanksgiving, which was very well received. The High School Orchestra, led by P. J. Murphy, rendered selections at both gatherings.

In the Junior High school a fine program was given, under the direction of Miss Ross.

F. & A. M. WILL ATTEND SERVICES IN BODY

The Order of Masons will attend the Alice Memorial church in a body for the evening of Wednesday night. Rev. H. W. Colenzo will deliver a sermon, entitled, "The Light of the World." The service is open to the general public.

WILL COMBAT WITH ESKY BOWLING DEMONS

A team of Gladstone Bowlers will go to Escanaba Saturday to combat with that city's best men. Walter Vandeweghe, Frank Kobilska, Kirk Swan, Theodore VanGysel, and Ben Kemp comprise the local fighters, that are going with high expectations and expect to bring home a title for themselves.

Escanaba has been defeated by the Gladstonians twice already this season. The last game was played on November 14, and won by 217 pins. The bowling league will commence on December 1. All bowlers planning to enter are requested to leave their names at the alleys, soon.

CITY MANAGER ATTENDS MEET.

GLADSTONE MAN TAKES LEAD IN PART IN ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS

City Manager F. R. Buechner returned here Saturday from Grand Rapids where he attended the Twelfth Annual International Convention of City Managers held there from Nov. 23, to 27.

Over 200 city managers from all members in advance and not accounted for in checking out, and this money was released by Mr. Lippa to be used for the fund. The committee hopes that this will amount to about $50 and will be turned into the endowment fund.

The major part of the program was Round Table discussions on municipal problems such as traffic regulations, selling municipal administration to the people, civil service, Budget Control and management, training for the city manager profession, and the problem of the city manager of a small city. In the latter, Mr. Buechner took a leading part in the discussion, drawing from his actual experience in the work. Many valuable contributions were made to the science of Municipal Administration, all of which will be published in the annual year book of the Association.

Among the speakers who addressed the convention were Dr. Samuel May, head of the Department of Political Science at the University of California. He had just returned from a long tour and investigation of the government of European cities, and gave a very interesting talk on European city governments.

The subject of Governor Groesbeck's address was Executive Administration.

Dr. Merian, head of Political Science at Chicago University talked on the Need of Business Executives in Municipal Administration.

The contact and exchange of ideas, is one of the great benefits of the Convention. Above all is the inspiration, and the vision that one gets from gatherings of its kind.

It was decided to hold the next Convention at Colorado Springs, Colo.

SPORTSMEN BENEFIT MOVIE ON DEC. 3

Preparations are practically completed for the Sportsmen Benefit Movie to be held at the Community Theater on Thursday evening, December 3. The program will consist of reels dealing with various kinds of hunting, fishing and nature study. It is a picture that will be of interest to everyone. To the hunter and lover of the woods, it will bring back the days of days afield with rod and gun. The proceeds of the picture will go toward the purchase of wolf hounds by the club.

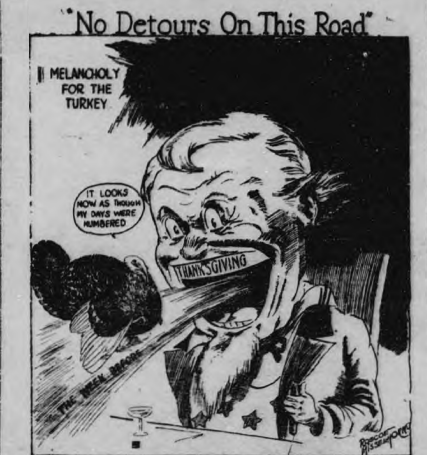

The ticket selling campaign will continue next Tuesday. To the members of the club, who purchase two tickets, a copy of the "Field and Stream" magazine will be given.

The elimination of Christmas Day delivery was decided upon by Postmaster General Neid, and is meeting with the approval of the general public.

He urges everyone to see to their Christmas mailing early, to avoid the rush, and delay caused at that time. The elimination of Christmas Day delivery was decided upon by Postmaster General Neid, and is meeting with the approval of the general public.

The membership drive will be conducted in the spring, and will open with a social event, to follow a hunt for wolves and coyotes in January.

WILL CONDUCT SERVICES AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Rev. J. D. MacKinnon of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., will conduct the services at the Presbyterian church on the next two Sundays.

Mr. MacKinnon is a graduate of the Queen's University of Kingston, Ont., having had five years in Arts and three in Theology. Since graduating he has held appointments in Western Canada under the Home Mission Board. He comes quite highly recommended, and it is quite possible that should his services as a supply minister prove satisfactory he will become a candidate for the local pastorate.

EDNA MEANS TO APPEAR ON LYCEUM

Miss Edna Means, widely known dramatic reader, who will appear on the local Lyceum course at the Junior High school auditorium Friday evening, Dec. 4 stands in the front rank of American platform entertainers.

Miss Means has had ample opportunity to study human nature during her many years of platform work. Constant traveling has brought her into contact with varied types of people, many of whom she depicts in a series of readings entitled "From the Passing Crowd."

Into these readings Miss Means injects her magnetic personality, a rare sense of humor and an intense desire to make everyone more tolerant and sympathetic.

Her subject matter and an admirable platform art win her audience from the forefront of her program.

Miss Means appears here under the direction of the Redpath Bureau.

MEETING OF WOMEN'S CLUB

A special meeting of the Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Danitz Wednesday evening. Plans were furthered for the Annual Christmas Seal Sale, which will be commenced the forepart of the coming month. A social time followed. A potluck luncheon was served.

COMMISSIONERS HAVE BEEN G TUESDAY

A regular meeting of the City Commissioners was held Tuesday evening in the council chamber.

ASK CHURCHES TO OBSERVE SUNDAY AS HEALTH DAY

GOVERNOR ASKS THAT NOV. 29 BE GIVEN OVER TO THINK OF SICK

TOO OFTEN PEOPLE FORGET

A nation wide observance on the part of the churches and clergy of America will characterize the last Sunday of this month which has been set aside as Health Sunday. A vast number of churches a portion of the sermon hour will be given over to a discussion of the crusade against tuberculosis, which is being waged by the National, state, and local tuberculosis associations. The long story of the plague, acknowledged to be the most terrible in history because so unerring, will be told. The scientific aspects of the fight against the disease and its philanthropic aspects will be touched upon. Clergymen will, almost unanimously, from the pulpit or at all denominations unite in urging upon their people the importance of giving their support to the hosts arrayed against tuberculosis.

Health Sunday in Michigan has the active endorsement not only of the clergy but of Governor Groesbeck who says, "In the daily round of our busy lives it sometimes happens that we unintentionally forget our obligations to the afflicted. It, therefore, seems fitting to me that Sunday, November 29th, should be set aside in Michigan, as I understand it is throughout the nation as a day for considering in our churches man's great scourge, Tuberculosis."

F. R. A.'S INSTALL OFFICERS AT PARTY

The installation of the officers elected some time ago was the principal feature of the Thanksgiving party held in the Wassa hall last evening by the F. R. A.'s. Mrs. J. A. Stewart, was re-elected to the presidency.

A Thanksgiving party followed, opening with a program.

Reading, Irene Kee, Solo, Miss Marie Grayce, Dance, Angela Mallogren, Reading, Alice Fox.

Dancing was the chief diversion of the social time that followed. Music was furnished by the Ball Room entertainers. At a late hour, refreshments were served. The committee responsible for the success of the affair is Mrs. Ralph Murray, entertainment, and Mrs. Leo Piottie refreshments.

BOY TRIPS WHILE SKATING, BREAKS LEG

Clarence Tillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Tillman, is confined to his home suffering from a broken leg, received in a fall Tuesday evening. The boy was roller skating, tripped and fell breaking his leg at the ankle.

The accident took place on Minnesota avenue near the Montgomery home. He is recovering, but it will be some time before he is able to join his playmates.

FORESTRY CLUBS ARE ORGANIZED

A new project in boys' and girls' club work, that of Forestry Clubs, is announced by M. L. Wright, Assistant State Club leader, of Marquette. Only a few groups will be organized this year, according to Mr. Wright, because of the nature of the project making it a long time proposition. The two definite projects so far worked out are Farm Woodlot Care, and Planting Two Year Old Seedlings.

Arrangements are being made whereby the members doing best work will be given a trip to the Annual meeting of the American Forestry Association.

Mrs. Edwin Seeger of Nahma came Tuesday to care for her daughter, Miss LaFaver, who is ill with Diphtheria at the Percy Cameron home.

RED CROSS YEAR A RELIEF RECORD

Huge Relief Work After Midwest Tornado the Greatest in American Annals.

DISASTERS DROP IN 1925 Ranged From Fire to Earthquake and Covered Wide Area at Home and Abroad.

Virtual completion of the largest peacetime project of post-disaster rehabilitation ever known has been accomplished by the American Red Cross in less than a year.

The story of the Red Cross service in the past year, recounted by the report, ranges from fire heading the list of destructive forces with 29 disasters, to mine explosions, tornadoes, typhoons, floods and earthquakes.

The Santa Barbara earthquake was among the outstanding events recorded in the report. The Red Cross had completed its relief organization on the scene within a few hours of the disaster.

The Red Cross service in the period following the wreck of the Mary air ship "Seanadash" was typical of its promptness and effectiveness.

The American Red Cross serves in your name; you can make it more effective by adding your name to its membership during the Roll Call, Nov. 11-26.

Remarkable, If True "Accidentally" said Robert W. Chambers at a dinner in New York, "always welcome in the very people they should welcome in."

Sad, but True Most historians have remarked the fact that the broadcaster speaks slowly and distinctly at the outset and frequently pauses--ahem--between words.

Then suddenly he changes his pace and we know that the official in charge of the station has noticed to him that his time is almost up and he will have to get some of his pre-arranged material.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Oscar Branty of Detroit

TO SUBSCRIBERS:

If you have any troubles worrying you, shift your burdens to Mrs. Branty. Let her help you to make your decisions. Mrs. Branty, who is an elderly woman, has had considerable experience in life, and is well able to give you wise counsel. Don't spend sleepless nights and days of doubt and worry. Seek the advice of one who will help you to the correct solution of your problems. It is not necessary to sign your communications. Address all letters to this office, from which they are forwarded to our correspondent, for her answer.

Mrs. Oscar Branty:

Dear Madam: I hope you can solve my problem. I'm just at my wit's end, thinking all the time of a girl I love. Let me tell you all about it. It's probably a long story but hope you can spare the space and time for an answer. I have known this girl now for three years. I'm 24 years of age and she is two years my junior. Those last three years of my life have been happiness, yes, part of the time, and again such misery and hopelessness that you cannot imagine. The trouble is this: the girl is a Catholic and very true to her faith, she refuses me because I am a Swede. My parents are very strict church members and I have been brought up accordingly and think as much of my religion as this girl does of hers. We have argued about it many times and that was the cause of our first quarrel and separation, which ended after a few weeks. Don't suggest that we go together just as friends, because it is impossible. She would be willing to do that but my feeling is too deep for mere friendship. She knows this, and feels that since she cannot be more than a friend to me, it is better that we don't see each other. Oh I just can't stand it any longer Mrs. Branty. Ever so often I get so disgusted over it all that I go and call her up or write her a letter, and then perhaps I take her out a couple of times. However I believe that she goes with me just because she feels sorry for me, and hates to refuse me. I have heard indirectly that she does not love me, but only cares for my friendship, and I'm not satisfied when this is all.

Mrs. Branty do you think anyone should look down on another because of his religion or nationality? He won't give up her religion for me, so why should I give up mine? I think just as much of it as she does of hers, and it would be an unbearable disappointment to my parents if I should ever do such a thing. Well that's neither here nor there, but I have just got to have some good advice pretty soon. I can't possibly stand it any longer. There's no other girl for me I know that.

ADOLPH:

No, I don't think anyone should look down upon any other person because of his religion or nationality. To me that's narrow mindedness and certainly shows the maker of that individual, but I don't think your sweetheart is casting downward glances on you because of that reason, any more than you are on her for the same cause. She will not leave her church for you, nor will you become a convert to her faith for her. I think Adolph, if you really loved her, as you say, you would be willing to do this. I realize that your parents are strong in their beliefs, but you're a man standing on your own feet, and a capable of doing your own thinking. Learn the other religion, and be sincere in your change of belief, if it's all on the other hand, if I were you, before I do any more thinking about religious differences, I would find out

If this girl cared for me, it may be as you say, she is desirous only of your friendship. If that is the case, can't you be just a friend? Forget about all the love stuff, and be a friend. Friends are so badly needed. Adolph—real friends, how few and far between are they, and how glad we all are to have one of those true friends to confide in, love and cherish. There's more in true friendship than you realize. If this is the situation, be satisfied with true friendship, and some day you will find yet another "lady of your dreams" to be your lifemate.

Dear Mrs. Branty:

I am a young housewife, to be perfectly exact, a housewife of three months tomorrow. I'm going to be frank. I just don't know anything about cooking or managing a home. I'm 20 years old, and my mother died when I was eight years of age, leaving me in the care of a wealthy old woman. She never knew anything about the kitchen of her home herself, and never deemed it necessary that I should learn. Well, I married against her wishes, and therefore, I am out of the family, and my hubby and I thrown on our own resources, as far as she is concerned. He is a book-keeper and headed for success in his chosen profession but we can't afford to hire cooks and house maids like my aunt could. You can't realize how ignorant I am about all this work. Mrs. Branty, I never entered the kitchen while at my aunt's home, never questioned how my food was prepared, just expected always to have it come to me that same way.

We have a lovely little home, and I am perfectly happy, and contented but I do so want to learn. I get recipes occasionally from my neighbors but I am ashamed of my ignorance. I'll bet your wondering how we have ever got along for three months. Well I'm wondering myself. Once in a while, we take our meals out, and then we both have friends that have invited us to their homes since our return from our honeymoon trip. But those invites aren't going to last much longer. Hubby has really done more of the cooking than I have, and cooking is my job not his. He's mighty kind about it, but I want to be master of my kitchen, myself.

Will you give me some suggestions? I'll certainly appreciate your help.

A NEWLYWED.

There's lots of newlyweds in your predicament, and lots of girls that are going to be, as soon as they get homes of their own—some of them with mothers too. I can see how you were unfortunately allowed to remain ignorant of this art while in the home of your aunt. It's to be regretted of course, but there's time to learn now, if you get right busy and believe your desire to learn will make you successful as a housewife.

For recipes and little household hints, I would suggest that you read the women's pages and departments in the newspapers. Secure a reliable cook book, and experiment. That's about the only way to learn to cook. do it. You can't learn by some one else doing it for you, or telling you how it should be done. You've got to be the man at the wheel yourself. It will probably mean some burnt fingers, and puddings too, once in a while but experience will make those few and far between. Go to the public libraries, of your city, and get books on interior decoration, beautifying the home etc. You will find lots of interesting ways to make your home attractive with little expense. I'm sure that in time you will develop into a model of your trade.

Dear Mrs. Branty:
How much should a girl five feet 6 inches tall and 20 years old weigh? I'm altogether too thin, I know that. I have been in ill health for a long time, and weigh less than 90 pounds. Can you tell me some foods that will increase weight?

SARAH:

Sarah: A girl of 20, 5 ft. 6 inches tall should weigh 135 pounds. Lots of pure fresh milk and cream is what you need, to increase weight, and develop nature's gift of health. If possible you should spend some time on a farm where you can have plenty of milk, and wholesome food. Don't eat too much pastry or candy, plenty of soups, vegetables, bread and plain foods.

BACK LAME AND ACHY?

The Advice of This Gladstone Resident Should Help You to Get Well

Do you suffer nagging backache? Feel dizzy, nervous and depressed? Are the kidney secretions irregular; breaking your rest? Likely your kidneys are at fault. Weak kidneys give warning. You have backache; rheumatic twinges. You feel weak, tired, all worn-out. Heed the warning. Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Your neighbors recommend Doan's. Here is a Gladstone case. Wm. Beaudry, prop. shoe repair shop, 423 Michigan avenue, says: "Long hours of sitting at my work was the cause of my kidney trouble. My back was lame and sore and the ache I had in the small of it wore me out. My kidneys were weak and often I had to get up two or three times during the night to pass the sections. One box of Doan's Pills drove the backache away and regulated my kidneys."

PARAGRAPHS CONCERNING MICHIGAN

Michigan's railroad mileage in 1938 was 42 miles. Two years later this had increased to 104 miles and in the next five years this mileage stood at 233. Ten years later the track mileage was 462. In 1870 the state had 1729 miles of track and in 1890 there was a total of 6,957 miles. In 1910 the mileage was 9,024.

The state highway department has approximately 900 trunklines and federal aid bridges to maintain in the state each year. Seven maintenance crews are on the job all the time.

When the highway expenditure accounts are closed next Dec. 31st around $2,650,000 will have been spent on state trunk line maintenance. For 1938 this sum will be increased to three million.

The first and sixth congressional districts in Michigan carry the heaviest population, the first having about a half million and the sixth about 400,000. The first congressional district is comprised of 11 Detroit city wards.

The upper peninsula has five Circuit court districts. They are the 11th, 12th, 25th, 32nd and part of the 33rd. Upper peninsula judges are Louis Fead, John Stone, Richard Flannigan, George Ericcoll and Frank Shepherd. The latter resides at Cheboygan where part of his district lies.

The first judicial district in Michigan was officially bounded in 1897 and the fortieth district and the last was bounded in 1915.

There are 59 recognized post-offices in Michigan which do not issue money orders due to the fact they are of insufficient size. More than 100 offices in the state are authorized to issue international money orders.

Seven concrete bridges varying in size from forty feet to 450 feet and three important and expensive grade separations have been completed or practically so this year in Michigan.

Seven counties in Michigan have taxable property of a less value than five millions of dollars. They are the counties of Benzie, Crawford, Kalaska, Lapeer, Missaukee, Montmorency, Oscoda, Roscommon.

The Pere Marquette railroad at Ludington maintains a fleet of seven ferries the year around. This fleet, called by Ed. McLean of Ludington the "railroad on water" is valued at ten millions of dollars.

Mason county lays claim to having the largest percentage of standard schools of any county in Michigan. In the 76 districts of the county are 26 standard schools.

Mason county has 67 pretty inland lakes that cover a total acreage of 9,783.

PASS more laws, if necessary. But for every law passed, why not repeal no less than seven new laws that clutter up our statute books? Maybe then, some time in the indefinite future we may have an act other than a Prohibition law, which truthfully may say that they know the law of the law. As it is now there are so many laws that it is hardly possible to turn around without breaking at least one of them.

WHAT proof need we of the feebleness of our numerous laws that the crowded condition of all jails. Right close to home, let us take for an example, the state prison at Marquette. When the last addition was built the cell blocks were increased from 212 to 218. This was just a short time back and it was felt that 700 cells would be adequate for some time to come. Now it is reported that 712 prisoners are quartered at Marquette, it being necessary to quarter some of them in corridors to crowd. Lower Michigan jails are crowded even more and courts have been advised to sentence prisoners to Marquette, even though the intention had been to send only long term prisoners there. At Jackson they are providing a prison which will house 1,000. This is estimated will probably provide for the state "bad" men. The rapid rate of increase in the crime wave may again upset the expectation.

THE people in the United States today are not any more criminally inclined than were those of the early days. They are simply made to appear so through the efforts of reformers to improve the country through legislation. Polka are no longer being urged to be good for goodness' sake, but rather are being told they've got to be good or go to jail. Enforcement methods pursued in the vain attempt to make effective the multiplicity of measures intended to regulate for the individual what his morals should be suggested that the officials are the aggressors rather than the mediators. Too often it appears that arrests are made for revenue purposes. Persons suspected of crime are treated rough and after the really guilty ones are being sentenced they are petted, pampered and finally paroled, too often disgraced with the whole system ready to try all over again to get away with it.

OUR PRESIDENT, in a recent speech, declares that what the world needs is more religion. Yes, religion that comes from the heart, the mind and not from the lips. Intolerance is not any art of the Christian religion.

GLADSTONE, like every community, has the hope to thrive and grow, needs more industries. The expansion is necessarily limited to the number of jobs available for those who live here and any effort directed towards attracting factories and plants is work well expended, whether or not it results successfully. Sooner or later such efforts are bound to bear fruit. But we should not overlook the development of the agricultural districts outside our community. That Gladstone has been abandoned in this respect is an accusation that might well be made. William Allen White, that nationally known small-town editor, believes that agriculture is the backbone of the average small town. He says that shortsightedness and chicanery and business man has caused this important factor to be overlooked.

HERBERT HOOVER, who by the way is stilling up quite an organization to help him for president in 1928, is another booster for the importance of the farms to the towns. He says:

"Agriculture is a better town-builder than industry. It is the backbone of the average small town, but the town boosters are inclined to overlook this fact. They labor under the mistaken notion that a good town means a bigger town and that a bunch of factories would solve their problem. The good-will and noble-hearted support of the farmers in that town's territory is a fairly good reason for steering factories for the average town. This good will and this support will not come UNSOUGHT and UNEXPECTED. The boosting of a community's agriculture will be bread cast upon the waters."
We need not forget the need for factories but let us resolve NOW to progress ourselves by sending a co-op executive hand to the farmer.

THOSE in this section who have become acquainted with George N. Davidson of St. Paul, who has come here frequently during each of the past several years in his capacity as U. S. naturalization officer, will regret that his next visit may be the last. Under a new regulation, it is expected that his efforts will be directed in other districts. Here was a government official whose work and kindly advice was appreciated by all who came in contact with him. Poles of other countries who came here to become naturalized citizens had imprinted in them a kindly sense of appreciation of his aims and ideals through the meeting with such an official as Mr. Davidson. Other districts will now benefit and may be as fortunate in the selection of the naturalization officer who will replace him.

DON'T hold back because you once had a tin with the editor, or the reporter once wrote a story in which your name appeared in an unfavorable light. If the story was right you had yourself to blame. If the story was wrong you had your chance to correct it. News is news, and news in The Delta Reporter is no colored.

THE really big-minded people are those who can forget their grudges. Holding a grudge hurts mostly to the one who holds it.

CONFIDENCE is good. Over-confidence is bad. The 1925 football season furnishes a glowing example. Michigan rarely showed itself to be a highly trained, fast and intelligent football combination. Coach Yost's men started out by defeating Michigan State; then came victories over Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa, some of the victors by large scores while none of Michigan's opponents had been able to score a single point. Michigan was hailed as the greatest football team of the year. Predictions were made on all sides that it would likely be the only major football squad against which no points had been scored. After the overwhelming victory against the Navy, there remained but three games, Northwestern, Ohio and Minnesota. The Northwestern game was regarded as a set-up. In fact Coach Yost planned on starting a second team and actually did put in many substitutes. Every authority writing on the subject conceded the Northwestern game to Michigan. It was to be an easy victory. Over-confidence, with a further handicap of a rain storm, forced the back ground for the season's greatest surprise. Northwestern defeated Michigan 3 to 2. Michigan, coming on the field with an abundance of confidence in its ability, could not master the opposition it faced in Northwestern's playing on a muddy field.

NORTHWESTERN'S little surprise party was Michigan's needed incentive. The squad got down to work again and took Ohio into camp by a 20 to 0 score. That confidence, which was leading by virtue of having won one of its Big Ten conference games and tying the other, Michigan had won four and lost one but under the peculiar system of setting up averages, Minnesota was regarded as the leader. Michigan had to beat Minnesota to win the championship, and the game was a toss-up. Michigan was not imbued with an over-abundance of confidence for this game. The players had confidence in their ability, but realized that this same ability was being put to the ultimate test to make victory possible. There was no over-confidence. And what Michigan was able to do to Minnesota to win the Big Ten championship is now known as "Football as it should be." says Red Grange, sensational quarterback for Illinois. Yes, and the axiom might be reversed, "Life is like football." Intelligence and ability are one thing. They mean little unless they are put into good use.

RICHMOND (Mich.) high school students must have taken a lesson from the Gladstone boys who last year went on strike because they were told they had to wear a tie and button their collars. The Richmond boys walked out Armistice Day because no flag was displayed from the high school staff.

WHAT was to have been a test of the Michigan Gun law proved to be a dud. The case came before Judge Flanagan last week at Crystal Falls and it was dismissed when Attorney McDonough for the defendants, Walter Dausey and Dr. William Kolmehl of Iron River, contended that Iron River, where the arrest was made, was not a hunting area as interpreted in the law, known as Act. No. 366. Judge Flanagan refused to rule that Iron River was a hunting area and the case was dismissed. It has been our contention from the start that it would be difficult to secure a conviction in any court where any defendant could show a fairly good reason for carrying a gun into the woods. For instance Delta county pays a bounty on crows and wolves. The deer hunting season closes Nov. 30 and after that date what's to prevent a hunter from carrying a rifle into the woods? Except the Shiras Law.

W. L. Marble and his party returned from the woods Wednesday after an enjoyable ten days. Each had a deer and that was enough. The weather was not favorable for hunting, so they merely rested and enjoyed themselves.

Sidney Goldstein returned this week with a 67 pound deer, and a choice collection of hunting stories.

Little boy of long ago
You are much too young to know
What the world expects of me
Life to you is mostly play
Laughter fills each happy day
Oh, be carefree while you may—
Childhood never comes again.

Little do you understand
What the later years demand
And you don't appreciate
Half the blessings that you find
For your heedless baby mind
Looks ahead and not behind—
Not until it is too late.

All too soon those clothes you wear
Made with Mother's loving care
Must be laid aside; and so
Every eager step you take
Every childhood hood you break
Will intensify the ache
That your heart some day shall know.

I am you, dear little boy
And I'm trying to enjoy
What appeared so much to you;
But there never comes a day
That I do not long to play
Back there where it's always blue
And the skies are always blue!

MEMORIES

Items of interest of Gladstone and its citizens of years gone by.

20 YEARS AGO
(Gladstone Delta, Nov. 21, 1906)
Eibel, the fourteen year old daughter of August Martin, died Wednesday of Diphtheria, after a brief attack. Her funeral was held the next day.

Frank Hoy returned from the woods Wednesday with a deer. He is now giving a coffee demonstration, but hopes to escape fire.

Poundmaster Skellenger reports that he has found but four stray dogs since his term of office. They are almost as scarce as deer.

22 YEARS AGO
(Gladstone Delta, Nov. 21, 1904)
J. F. McGuire was here this week to consummate the purchase of the Hazardous Inn and other property from F. J. Merritt. The inn is bought by Louis Amber of Chicago, who will either conduct the house himself or put it in the hands of a manager in charge. It is in his desire to make what it was originally intended for a summer resort hotel. It is yet too early to speak of his plans, but it is certain that a man with the necessary experience and capital can do business in Gladstone with the inn as a summer resort.

It is a little early for good sleighing, but we have had it since Monday by those who could get out their cutters and bobs. Looks to go, as though it might stay with us for the winter. In the woods and the swamp, however, there is no bottom for the snow that has fallen, there having been no frost to lay the foundation.

David Hammel came up from Appleton early in the week, went to the Soo Tuesday and returned to spend a day or two in the bank with his son and then left for Iron Mountain on his way home. Among his many business enterprises, Mr. Hammel is greatly interested in his bank here, and as much so in the progress of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Emson returned to the city Thursday and are occupying their residence on Michigan avenue.

E. P. Mertz came in from Milwaukee Saturday to remain until Monday evening, visiting his relatives and a small portion of his friends. He is as busy as ever, and has embarked in still another enterprise which will employ all his spare time.

Paul White, the Kipling liverman, had the misfortune to lose a $150 horse Tuesday.

Roy Hammel is enjoying a handsome new cutter which his father sent him from the Soo Wednesday as a present.

A little excitement was caused Monday evening by a blaze at P. J. Lindblad's. A gasoline stove, used in the coffee demonstration, leaked and when a flame presenting an appearance as if the stove was on fire. A crowd quickly gathered, but the stove was taken out and put on the sidewalk, and the gasoline burnt out. One or two cloths were burnt. The rest of the damage was nothing. A telephone alarm was sent in. The fire department, sundry extinguishers etc. have been called, but the fire was so small that it was extinguished in a few minutes.

W. L. Marble and his party returned from the woods Wednesday after an enjoyable ten days. Each had a deer and that was enough. The weather was not favorable for hunting, so they merely rested and enjoyed themselves.

Sidney Goldstein returned this week with a 67 pound deer, and a choice collection of hunting stories.

Good cake depends quite so much upon the way of putting it together as it does upon the quantity and quality of the ingredients used. Careless mixing will spoil the best recipe. Always cream the butter and sugar, add the milk, stir the baking powder with the flour, and mix in a bowl at a time, then the whites of the egg, lastly the flour.

Water icing
2 cups of sugar, water enough to make a thick paste, a small pinch of cream of tartar. Beat well, if not stiff enough add more sugar. Flavor.

Chocolate loaf cake
1 cup of sugar, 1 teaspoon of melted butter, 2 1/2 cups of milk, 1 1/2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 3 eggs, white of one, grate 1/2 cup of Baker's chocolate into 2 1/2 cup of milk and boil until thick. Flavor with vanilla.

Scotch cake
Rub 2-4 lb of butter and 1 lb sifted flour, mix into it one lb of granulated sugar, and one large tablespoon of cream, mix together, add three well beaten eggs, roll out into a sheet, cut into round cakes, and bake in a quick oven.

Coffee cake
1 cup very strong coffee, 1 cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 3 eggs, 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup seedless raisins, cut in two, 1/2 cup chopped citron, 10 drops extract, allspice, nutmeg and 1/2 cup milk. Rub the butter and sugar to a white cream and add the eggs, one at a time, beating 5 or 6 minutes after each. Stir together flour, and powder, which is to the butter etc. With the coffee raisins, citron, milk and extracts, mix into a smooth batter, bake in a paper lined cake tin, in a hot oven for 50 minutes.

Angel Food Cake
Whites of 11 eggs, 1 1/2 cups fine granulated sugar, 1 cup flour, sifted 4 times, with one teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, whip the whites to a stiff froth. Cut in lightly the sugar, than the flour, mix with the baking powder, lastly the vanilla. Pour into a greased pan and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven. When baked invert pan on 2 cups and let stand till cold.

Plain Fruit Cake
1 cup of butter, 1 cup brown sugar, one cup molasses, one cup sour milk, 2 cups flour, 4 eggs, 1 1/2 teaspoons of cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon of soda, 1 of nutmeg, 2 lbs raisins, 1 cup chopped dates, a small piece lemon, orange and citron peel, ground cloves. 1 cup almonds chopped, 1 teaspoon of cinnamon extract and 1/2 teaspoon of cloves.

Caramel Cake
1 cup of butter, 2 cups of sugar, 1 cup of milk, 1 1/2 cups of flour, 1 cup of corn starch, whites of 7 eggs, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, 1 teaspoon of vanilla and bake in a loaf pan, 1-2 lb of brown sugar, 1-2 lb of High Naval officials to a man are convinced that Colonel Mitchell influenced Mrs. Margaret Lansdowne to make her charges before the court of inquiry investigating the Shenandoah disaster, in which her husband lost his life. The fact that she was unable to produce sufficient evidence to substantiate her case against Captain Paul Foley is characterized by many as an example of the ends to which Mitchell has gone to win his fight against Army and Navy leaders. Mrs. Lansdowne accused Foley, the judge advocate of the court, of attempting to "sway" her testimony in a conversation before she appeared on the stand. Mitchell was the first person with whom she discussed Foley's visit.

GERALD NYE, recently appointed by Governor Sorlie of North Dakota, as successor to the late Senator Ladd, has slightly less than an even chance of being seated. The law itself is clearly in his favor, but the Republicans among the majority of the Republicans appear to believe a special election should have been called. The fact that Nye is an Independent Republican will be against him when the conservative Senate Election committee considers the case. Democrats and insurgents will demand immediate action when Congress convenes, while the Republicans will seek to delay a committee report until a majority is assured on the floor against the seating of Nye.

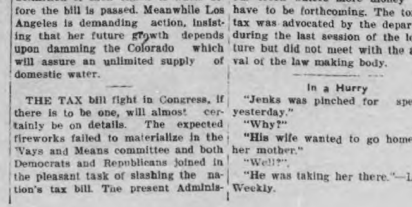

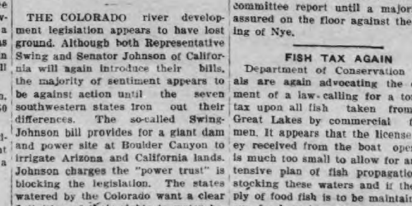

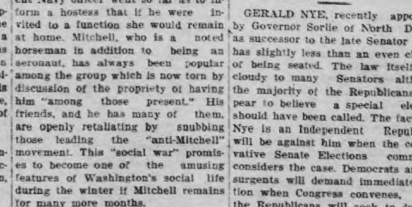

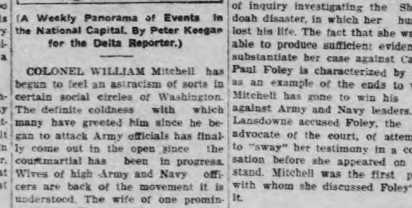

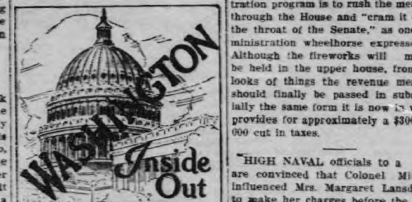

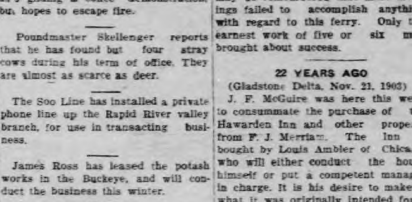

FISH TAX AGAIN
Department of Conservation officials are again advocating the enactment of a law calling for a tonnage tax upon all fish taken from the Great Lakes by commercial fishermen. It appears that the license money received from the boat operators is much too small to allow for any extensive plan of fish propagation for stocking these waters and if the supply of food fish is to be maintained in our fresh waters more money will have to be forthcoming. The tonnage tax was advocated by the department during the last session of the legislature but did not meet with the approval of the law making body.

THE COLORADO river development legislation appears to have lost ground. Although both Representative Swing and Senator Johnson of California will again introduce their bills, the majority of sentiment appears to be against action until the seven southwestern states iron out their differences. The so-called Swing-Johnson bill provides for a giant dam and power site at Boulder Canyon to irrigate Arizona and California lands. Johnson charges the "power trust" is blocking the legislation. The states watered by the Colorado want a clear definition of their rights to water before the bill is passed. Meanwhile Los Angeles is demanding action insisting that her future growth depends upon damming the Colorado which will assure an unlimited supply of domestic water.

THE TAX bill in Congress, if there is to be one, will almost certainly be on details. The expected fireworks failed to materialize in the Senate and a committee and both Democrats and Republicans joined in the pleasant task of slashing the nation's tax bill. The present Administration

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS

Gladstone, Mich., Nov. 23, 1925. Regular meeting of the City Commission.

Present Mayor Fred Tom, Charles Commissioners Matson, M. J. Peterson.

Absent Mayor Dunlop. Minutes of November 10th, 1925 were read and approved.

To the Hon. Mayor and City Commission, Gladstone, Mich. Gentlemen—I hereby make application for six pool tables.

Very truly yours, OTTO LAFOUND RAYMOND LACHANCE. By Commissioner Peterson, supported by Commissioner Matson, that the application for pool room tables for six tables be granted.

Resolution carried unanimously. The application for Beverage Shop license for Otto Lafound and Raymond Lachance 304 Delta Avenue, was taken up and read.

By Commissioner Murphy, supported by Commissioner Peterson, that the bond of Otto F. Haberman, city treasurer for $40,000.00 be accepted, approved, and filed.

Resolution carried unanimously. Commissioner Peterson, offered the following resolution and moved its adoption, which was supported by Commissioner Murphy.

Whereas, the City Assessor has filed Special Assessment roll Number 59 for the construction of Lateral Sewers in Dakota Avenue between Twelfth street and Thirteenth street.

And whereas, due notice has been given of a hearing to review said roll at a regular meeting of the Commission to be held at the City Hall on November 23, A. D. 1925 at 7:30 p. m.

And whereas the Commission and the City Assessor have carefully examined the respective items of said roll.

And whereas, all persons appearing to object to the same have been heard.

Now therefore, Be it resolved that said Special Assessment roll, Number 59 for the construction of Lateral Sewers in Dakota Avenue between Twelfth street and Thirteenth street shall be, and the same is hereby confirmed and the City Clerk is hereby directed to duly endorse the same.

Be it further resolved that the assessment so made in said assessment roll be collected directly therefrom and that the city clerk shall attach his warrant to a certified copy of said Assessment Roll the treasurer to collect from each of the persons so assessed in said roll the amounts assessed to and set aside their respective names therein, as provided by the city charter.

Be it further resolved that the assessment mentioned in said assessment roll shall be divided into two equal installments, payable on or before December 10th, 1925 and September 10th, 1926, respectively, with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum on any balance then remaining unpaid; Provided that assessments may be paid at any time by paying the principal sum with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum from December 10th, 1925 and without collection fees or interest on or prior to December 10th, 1925.

Be it further resolved that in default of the payment of any of said installments at the time when any of them shall become due, that the commission hereby directs the clerk to report to the assessor the description of such lot and premises with the amount of the assessment levied against the same, including the interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of any installment to 10th day of December, 1926, and the name of the owner or occupant against whom such assessment shall have been made and the Commission hereby directs the assessor to levy such sums so assessed respectively as a tax in the general tax roll next thereafter to be made, in a column for Special Assessments to be enforced and collected with the other taxes in said tax roll and in the same manner.

Resolution carried unanimously. Commissioner Matson, offered the following resolution, and moved its adoption, which was supported by Commissioner Murphy.

Whereas, the city assessor has filed Special Assessment roll number 60 for the construction of Main sewers in Dakota Avenue between Twelfth street and Thirteenth street.

And whereas, due notice has been given of a hearing to review said roll at a regular meeting of the Commission to be held at the City Hall on November 23, A. D. 1925 at 7:30 p. m.

And whereas, the commission and the City Assessor have carefully examined the respective items of said roll.

And whereas all persons appearing to object to the same have been heard.

Now therefore, Be it resolved that said Special Assessment roll number 60 for the construction of Main sewers in Dakota Avenue between 12th street and Thirteenth street shall be, and the same is hereby confirmed and the city clerk is hereby directed to duly endorse the same.

Be it further resolved that the assessment so made in said assessment roll shall be collected directly therefrom and that the city clerk shall attach his warrant to a certified copy of said assessment roll, therein commanding the treasurer to collect from each of the persons so assessed in said roll the amounts assessed to and set aside their respective names therein, as provided by the City Charter.

BRIDGE IN "YOLANDA" WINS PRAISE OF ENGINEERS

An engineering feat, seldom if ever attempted before in the filming of a motion picture, was the construction of the bridge "spanning the 'Mesquite River'" shown in "Yolanda" the new Cosmopolitan production. In which Marion Davies is starring at the Community theater for 2 days.

The combined services of 150 expert engineers and skilled mechanics were required for three weeks to build this mammoth bridge. It was constructed over a lake 350 feet wide on the estate of David Mayer near Stamford, Conn. Over ninety trees were felled in a nearby forest to supply the supports and two car loads of planking were used in the construction of the floor and rails.

All sorts of difficulties were encountered by the men in charge of the work. The level of the huge lake had to be lowered in order that the supports might be driven in the proper places. It took sixty pile drivers with the aid of steam derricks nine days to complete this part of the work. Then a severe drought followed which compelled the workmen to install pumps to pull water from artesian wells and fill the lake to its proper level.

THE "BUCKET OF BLOOD" Introducing the "Bucket of Blood," the most notorious dive in all of San Francisco's Chinatown.

In "The Paths of Paradise" coming to the Community theater which re-stories Betty Compton and Raymond Griffith much of the action in the opening scenes of the story takes place in the "Bucket of Blood." The day is named after a once famous dive in San Francisco and the interior of the building was modeled almost exactly as the original one before it was razed and torn down. "Paths to Paradise" was directed by Paramount by Clarence Badger, who made "New Lives for Old" and "Rose Street." It's a rollicking comedy of two crooks who make you laugh all the way from San Francisco to the Mexican border and back again.

Echoes of the early days of the West are seen in the rescue from the lynching which forms one of the dramatic thrills in "The Circus Cyclone." Art Acord's new starring vehicle now playing at the Community theater Dec. 2 It is a Blue Street Western, released through Universal, in which Acord plays a cowboy enmeshed in the plots surrounding a circus playing a border town. Thrills of the ring and range combine in the new offering.

The Baseball
Umpire

By ARTHUR B. HERBERT

(© 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

"RUNNER AS"

First baseman Crowley started at Umpire Tom Emerson, crouched and twisted his lips in significant threat. Hayden's flattened hands, palms downward, stopped in mid-air, hesitating, then he left dropped suddenly, the right moving shamefully over his shoulder in the gesture that spells failure to a baserunner.

"Bunns," Hayden announced it doggedly and closed his ears to the catcalls from the stands. But he could not close them to the unmerciful denunciation from within, the sickening realization that once more he had betrayed his position to save himself.

Five years of faithful service had earned the umpire's mask to Hayden's credit, five years that would this season culminate in promotion to the big leagues. Five years of faithful and joyful service, until this season Red Crowley had made his appearance with the Pointers—Red Crowley, who Hayden the could point to that one spot in Hayden's past that would not stand exposure.

In humiliation and self-condemnation Hayden made the trip to his hotel. Absent-mindedly he received his mail, then brightened at the familiar script on one of the envelopes.

"My big chance at last," Manager Tompkins has promised to let me start a game in the Pointers' series . . . a regular berth if I win . . . but you know that I have to win, and I'll stand that Pointer crowd on their ears!"

It seemed but a few years back that Hayden had roared on the floor with the writer of that letter—now Recruit Pitcher Tom Emerson of the Panthers. All the sentiment of his bachelor heart Hayden had centered in this boy, his nephew and his pitching heir.

The figure of Crowley crossing the coper terminated Hayden's reverie abruptly. What would Hayden do? Would Crowley interfere in young Tom's game? Umpire Curran would be behind the plate during the Panthers' series; Hayden would have to call Tom's delivery to Crowley.

A week later the Pointers came to the plate for the last game of the season with the Panthers, in face of delivery of young Tom Emerson. His last game with the Pointers, Hayden reassured himself as, from his station on the first base, he craned to see the game from the repellent Crowley and as his protégé in the pitcher's box.

In the third inning fate took a hand to upset Hayden's assurance. Curran went down, hit by a wicked foul tip, and the injured man took the field.

Hayden donned the mask and chest protector with the assurance of foreboding, which increased to near panic when his gaze fell upon a gray-clad, patriarchal figure in one of the boxes, Curran's, the league president.

Crowley opened the Pointers' fifth. Three balls, two strikes. He turned to glare at the umpire, then nodded significantly toward Curran's box. Panic seized Hayden. The pitcher wound up for the fast strike his uncle had taught him to use in emergencies. It split the plate.

"Ball four—like your base!" Hayden could not miss the look of pained hurt on the youngster's face. And had he looked toward the boxes he would have seen a gray-clad figure viciously chewing a cigar and crushing a letter in his hand.

In the sixth the Panthers scored twice; the Pointers went out in order. Another for the Panthers in the seventh. Crowley strode to the coach's box, but his attention was fixed not on the Pointer runner on first base, but on the umpire. And again Hayden quailed. Before the seventh inning terminated the Pointers scored two more runs.

Hayden did not dare to meet the accusing eyes of his nephew as he called each added run decision. The ninth—one more nightmare inning, and freedom. Three to two for the Panthers. In the last half of the final inning Emerson showed his first unsteadiness—two passes in a row. Then two easy outs.

Crowley glanced at the umpire, then sauntered toward the presidential box. One more putout and this fearful game would be over! But panic seized Hayden again and two bad decisions waited the batter, slugging the bases. With a confident leer Crowley stepped to the plate.

Strike one—Crowley swung for it. Strike two, straight over the plate; Crowley glared at the umpire.

"The next is a ball unless I kill it," he warned evenly.

Again he seized Hayden. Young Tom out there in the box, the great old game of baseball itself—what did it matter? He had himself to look out for, and protection in the—

The ball cut the plate.

Hayden stood mute while Crowley turned viciously.

"Strike three—batter out!"

Hayden lifted his head proudly and walked past the crouching player, out to the boy he had trained, the boy who should have been a champion.

And the gray-clad, patriarchal figure spat out a chewed cigar butt, smiled contentedly. Then he slowly and methodically tore up first a printed resignation which had been ready for Hayden's signature, and then the miserable mittens letter which had brought him to the pen. His contents had been old knowledge to him, and Hayden had just vindicated his chief's original judgment.

Picked Out Bad Place
To Write Dispatches

Mr. Frank Scudamore, who recounts this delightful story in his book, "A Sheaf of Memories" is one of the most celebrated of war correspondents, and, naturally, has had many interesting experiences.

During the Greco-Turkish war he was watching the operation artillery duel from inside an important Greek fortress, and when the firing ceased at dusk, he and "old" correspondent sought a quiet spot where they might write their dispatches undisturbed.

This was not easy to find, as every-thing was so placed with the results of this first day's work that merry parties were being held all over the place.

At last, however, they came upon a storehouse of sorts, in which was a profusion of great and small cases, and long boxes, together with innumerable bulging sacks.

"This," writes Mr. Scudamore, "was obviously the place for us. We settled ourselves on a couple of sacks, and our conditions on another such bag that lay between us.

"We had been working for, I suppose, a couple of hours, when suddenly a curious noise from the door-way. I looked round. At the entrance stood a Greek officer, his face ghastly white, his eyes dilated, and his lips parted. For a moment I stared at him, perplexed. Then he pulled himself together quietly, and in Greek said, "Mr. Scudamore, will you bring me that candle? I hastened to pick what was left—it wasn't much—of the sack."

"And the other," went on the dull voice. I picked that up also and stroled toward him. He seized them both, flung himself back against the wall of the corridor, and laughed long and hysterically. Then, after a moment, he took me by the hand.

"This is the powder magazine," he said, "and your candles were planted on a sack of explosives. Had they burnt another inch, not only would the fort have been blown up, but with it the whole Greek cause."

New Idea for Motors

A Polish inventor, an engineer, has succeeded in building a car of his own design for which very important advantages of construction are claimed. The inventor's name is M. Kerpowaki and his machine has been called "Polonia" (Poland). The most important feature claimed for the Polonia car is the facility with which various parts can be removed and the whole motor completely dismantled. In the official tests given the machine by the ministry of war, two automobile mechanics, helped by a boy, took apart the Kerpowaki motor forty-five blocks power and cylinder displacement of 90 x 125 millimeters. The maximum speed claimed for this car is 100 kilometers an hour.

Alforestation

Earnest effort is being made in many parts of the country to plant forests to provide lumber for the future. More than 35,000 acres is replanted every year, and about 1,500,000 acres of land has been thus reforested. Fully three-fourths of this total area has been planted by farmers and other land owners. The federal government has replanted 12 per cent of the state government's somewhat less. Many municipalities are also engaged in the work. Among the other agencies engaged in forest planting are the Portland owners, operators of wood-pulp industries, railroads, pulp companies and mining companies.

English Town Bars Jazz

Word comes from London that jazz music has been barred at all municipal dances by the Edmonton urban council, this being the first London suburb to take such action. The council took this step because of numerous complaints from citizens who objected to dances of the wild, body-wagging type." T. J. Harrington, council chairman, said jazz would not be permitted hereafter at the town dances chiefly because jazz dancers during waltzes took up too much space, their movements interfering with the orthodox dancers and, besides, "jazzing was neither graceful nor dignified."

Cotton Gin Fires

Static electricity is the principal cause of fires in cotton gins during the ginning process, according to the United States bureau of chemistry. Mr. Harry E. Roetha, development engineer in that bureau, has pointed out the fact that in the seasons when the greatest number of cotton gin fires occurred electrostatic charges have been abundant. At such times there is a high humidity and the cotton being ginned was particularly dry and dirty. During the periods when few fires occurred, electrostatic charges have been conspicuously absent.—From Treos (Rochester, N. Y.).

Chinese Huns in England

Hans from China are sold in England as coming from Ireland, said a witness giving evidence at the Manchester city police court in a prosecution, at the instance of the markets committee of the Manchester corporation, for exposing for sale alleged unbound meat. The inspector stated that he had known Chinese huns imported into England, sent across to Ireland to be stamped and afterward sent back to England to be sold as "Irish."

Five Hunters, With Five Ideas, Which Amounted to Naught

We went deer hunting early Sunday morning. Now, don't look so disgusted, we're not going to tell you how to fill your license. Rather, if anything, we might benefit the would-be hunters more by telling 'em how not to hunt.

You guessed it, we had no luck 'at all and it would have taken a good share of it for us to succeed. That is, we'd have to be terribly lucky if you believed Glen and Ben when they tell about what a dud we really are.

Anyway, there were five of us when we started out and each one had a different idea on how to hunt. Glen believed in "waiting" 'em out; Ben thought it best to drive 'em out; Rudy rather depended on coaxing 'em; guess we chased the deer twice, but Gale takes the prize, he tried to hypnotize one, fell out of the tree from which he tried to do it and pretty nearly scared the poor animal to death.

Society Notes

Dorothy-Hendrickson Nuptials

A Thanksgiving wedding was that of Miss Marie Dorothea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dorothea, when she became the bride of Hilmor Hendrickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hendrickson, Thursday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. Maier at the All Saints Rectory at nine o'clock. They were attended by Miss Katherine Rogich, and Paul Cretan close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride made a charming picture garbed in charmeuse satin of silver gray. Her accessories corresponded. She carried a beautiful bridal bouquet of red roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Rogich also wore silver gray charmeuse satin and carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

Following the ceremony the party proceeded to the home of the bride where a delicious wedding breakfast and dinner was served to about 35 relatives and close friends. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion.

In the afternoon the bride and groom with a small group of friends motored to Iron Mountain, where a supper was served. Friends one night, they will make their home with the grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hendrickson. Both are well known young people, having attended local schools, and spent their youth here. The groom is employed at the City Light Plant. They have the hearty congratulations of their many friends.

Surprised on Birthdays - A surprise party was given in honor of Mrs. Thos. Burdick's 64th birthday and Grandma Withers's 50th birthday on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wood. The chief diversion was music. At 4:30 a dinner was served to 30 guests. Decorations were carried out in a color scheme of lavender and white with carnations used extensively. The work was done by Miss Marie Kimber. All guests left wishing the two grandmothers many happy returns of the day.

Entertains at Chicken Dinner - Mrs. Eugene Brussick entertained a few ladies at a chicken dinner at her home Sunday. A delicious dinner was enjoyed after which cards and music furnished entertainment. The group consisted of a bunch of "merry widows" the husbands all being on hunting trips.

Entertains Friends - Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson of Plat Rock were hostesses on Thanksgiving Day to 24 families, some relatives and friends, at dinner and supper. Card games and dancing were the diversions of the afternoon. It was a very enjoyable event.

ROOF FIRE AT KNIGHT HOME - A blaze on the roof of Mrs. Wm. Knight's residence at the corner of Michigan and 12th streets brought out the firemen Saturday. Sparks from the chimney is considered the cause. Damages amounted to $10.

Miss Katherine Call of Isabella is spending the week end days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Call.

STATUES OF LAVA ON EASTER ISLAND

Modern Scientists at Loss to Account for Cult.

Easter Island, in the South Pacific, which recently was reported to have vanished in a submarine convulsion, still waits its frownded palms in air. Capt. Alfred King sends to Hilar Zeltner, Berlin, an account of some of its peculiarities.

"In former times," the captain writes, "the tribes and clans on the island lived in constant warfare with each other. The captives were eaten. Many human bones still lie about the island. The original Kanakas had a very queer cult, for which they built gigantic statues of lava. The biggest of these statues are about 555 of these giants, the tokens of former civilization. In 1888 the island was discovered by Peru slave dealers, who caught the majority of the Kanakas and took them by force to the Peruvian guano islands, where they died of epidemics.

"The island people own wild chickens, which they place on the ground and stay at night in the trees. The owners identify their chickens by cuts on the nose. Wildcats are the only game on Easter Island. Daytime is determined by the position of the sun. Tobacco plants grow on the island. The natives use banana leaves as cigarette paper; they always carry a provision of banana leaves at their belt.

"I could never quite find out how martial customs were on the island. It seemed to me that marriage among members of the same household was prohibited. A violation of this law was punished by putting both offenders to death. Otherwise there was complete prenuptial freedom. Cautious fathers shut their daughters up."

Have to Practice Shooting

The reason Argentines rank among the best shots in the world, as shown in various international rifle contests in past years, is that marksmanship is obligatory upon every citizen between the ages of eighteen and forty-five. This is a part of the Argentine system of compulsory military instruction. Not all citizens have to serve in the army. Its ranks being recruited by lot, but those chosen may reduce their one-year term of service by several months if they take the marksmanship course. Those not chosen are obliged to take the course anyway. Statistics recently issued by the ministry of war show that during last year 44,000 citizens took lessons at the 130 rifle ranges in the country, and shot 4,500,000 cartridges.

Task for Pianist

Cortot, the celebrated pianist, is fond of a good joke on himself. On one of his Paris periodicals, reports this: "During my friends one night, he was persuaded at the end of the meal to play a rhapsody, which he did with good grace and brilliance. Pale with emotion, a young woman who had been suffering for a time on her chair suddenly stood up and said: "How divinely you play, matre, but may I ask you a question?" "Ask it, I beg you." "Is a quarter played quickly?" "Good heavens, I should say it is." "And a semibreve?" "Much more so." "Oh, matre," said the lady beseechingly, "do play one for me."

Dagouts for Dwelling

In Katwyk, a small fishing village on the shore of the North sea, the housing shortage is so intense that many inhabitants are obliged to live in trawlers constructed during the World war to defend the Dutch coast against surprise attack. The attention of walkers on the dunes is aroused by chimney stacks out of the trawlers. In dark, narrowed dagouts large families are sometimes quartered. Small tables on which the machine guns were placed in wartime, chairs and bed beds are the only furniture. The loopholes have been transformed into windows. Water and light are lacking. Lodgers profit by the curiosity of passers-by by exhibiting their "dunes" for a small fee.

His Education Lacking

Three-year-old Herbert was taken to his grandfather's for a visit. It was his first visit to the farm and he was much interested in what he saw. He watched eagerly as Hannah dressed the turkey for dinner, and noticed that each handful of feathers was placed carefully in a box. Finally he curiously got the better of him and he asked: "Why do you have to save the feathers, Hannah—for seed?" "At milking time he was surprised on seeing for the first time where the milk came from, and as the man finished milking one cow the youngster exclaimed: "Now are you going to turn this one's fetlocks on?"—Exchange.

SCHOLARLY SQUIBBLES

Twenty three football heroes presented rather an unusual appearance, Thursday evening at the conclusion of their "round-the-world" trip. They seemed variety foreigners with their numerous souvenirs of distant lands featuring the beard of the French Canadian, the Mexican sash, the Irish plaid, the brilliant blossoms of Japan, and last but not least the American flag. All the boys are careful to dine hostesses for the delicious dinner.

The operetta "The Feast of the Red Cow" was a decided success, and pleased both the matinee audience and those who saw the evening performance. Though some of the children were disappointed in that no feast was served, as they had expected, judging from the title. However so pleasing a picture of Indian life was presented that they were all quite pleased.

During the time in which the Senior class were studying Shakespeare, Mr. Hainds asked Harry Haglund, "If he knew Shakespeare well," and Harry answered, "Oh, y' can't catch me there, Shakespeare's dead." During the same class, Glen Stude was heard asking Howard Krueger, "If he knew Shakespeare's works, and Howard wonderingly replied, "No, what kind a factory is it?"

The Junior High day had morning assemblies every day this week, in keeping with Education week. Each assembly was in the charge of a Junior High teacher, and an appropriate program was presented each day to show the importance of Education week.

All six week "exams" were held last week and cards will be handed out Tuesday. The Sophomores have hopes of leading the Honor Roll again, but the Seniors and Juniors as well as the Freshmen have been studying hard and expect to put the "Sopho" far in the background.

Basketball practice has begun and students as well as town fans are anxious for our first game with Gwin to be held here, on December 18. We have quite a few last years regulars back and are expecting a successful season.

Bill LaPine—"Didia know that letter postage is going up to 3 cents?" Mildred Cole—"Is that right, then I'm going to lay in a goodly store of 3 cent stamps."

(Heard about Squibbles) Helen and Georgia—"What's the matter with our jokes?" Mr. Stargood—"They're fine, except for one thing." H. & G.—"What is that?" Mr. S.—"They're not funny."

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Do you think the Lyceum course benefits the student body? I think the Lyceum Course is exceedingly beneficial to the student body. The numbers are both educational and entertaining, arousing the ambition of the students to do great things, such as the entertainers are doing.

besides it is very interesting. It gives the people an idea of what is going on in the outside world because through the variety of dramatic, musical, and other numbers a view of almost every thing worth while is given. The course is so beneficial and interesting and yet the attendance at performances is very small, the gym being nowhere near full. There must be something wrong. The people should back these performances.

The Senior class is going to sell season tickets for the remaining three numbers and the people who have not bought season tickets as yet, will have another chance to do so. Avail yourselves of this opportunity.

CHRISTINE MACMILLAN. I think the Lyceum course is one of the best things that the people of Gladstone have the opportunity to hear. It has given us a chance to hear the best quartettes, orchestras, bands, magicians and lecturers. The Redpath Lyceum Co. guarantees all numbers and if any number of the course does not please the audience another number is sent to replace it. For my part I can not see why the people do not patronize this course, as they are so well worth the money.

LAWRENCE VANHORN. Why do we spend hundreds of dollars each year on Lyceum Courses? First, because these courses, presented each year by the Lyceum course, provide entertainment. The high school student, seeking pleasure after study, can find no better way of spending an evening than at one of these numbers. Some of the best talent in our country perform in these courses and render programs worth listening to.

Second, A musical number or a lecture is directly beneficial. Good music broadens and develops the listener for the beautiful. We learn to appreciate and to understand it. We learn about the customs and habits of other countries through their songs; we learn the joys and sorrows trials and dangers of other people through the medium of their national music. We see and hear the native instruments of other countries, as through the Marimba Band concert given here recently. Lectures are given in some courses, and who can estimate the value received from these? Your boys and girls, as well as older people will enjoy hearing the next number of this year's course, presented at the High School Gym by the Redpath Lyceum Bureau and the Senior Class of '26.

DOROTHEA SOHLBERG. To me a Lyceum course is one of the greatest means of entertainment as well as real benefit a town could have. In small towns, such as Gladstone, people do not have many opportunities of hearing a good, worthwhile program. The musical numbers appeal to everyone, both students and townpeople. The lectures and also musical numbers prove to be educational. Besides the pleasure we get it is an inspiration for everyone to try to do better things.

FREDMAN EMPSON. There are always some good things which people do not appreciate; do not take an interest in. FRANK KOBLISKA WINS TEN POUND TURKEY

With a bowling average of 230-1-3 for three consecutive games, Frank Koblikska took home the 10 pound live Turkey offered by the Community Management as a Thanksgiving token to the best bowler. Mr. Koblikska made this record on November 18. His scores were 266, 205 and 230, making a total of 691 pins, and an average of 230-1-3. The Turkey was not feeling just in the right mood to be handled around, and when Mr. Kemp attempted to present it to the "Bowing King" in some way or other, the bird became miffed of its tall feathers. Other contestants with high averages are Kirk Swan totaling 215 23 and Walter Vanderweghe with 209 as his record. There was much interest manifested in the contest, which was carried on for about two weeks preceding Thanksgiving.

PLANS TELEPHONE EXPANSION IN MICH.

Franz C. Kuhn, president of the Michigan Bell Telephone company, announces that it is planned to spend approximately $22,000,000 for telephone expansion in Michigan during 1926, according to present estimates, and that it is probable that the estimates of total expenditures between now and 1926 will be raised a considerable amount. Michigan is prospering and its industries are expanding which with the very rapid growth of business and population in the towns and cities of the state, and the growing demands being placed on the long distance circuits, are given by Judge Kuhn as the reasons for the heavy expenditures projected.

Telephone plant expansion during the next five year period will bring the Michigan Bell's book value of plant up to about $160,000,000.

Growing and shifting populations, building of new industrial centers and moving of big plants, the unlooked for or very rapid expansion of certain districts and the intensely rapid building up and settling of large sections the past year have brought the telephone utility in Michigan additional problems. These problems are being met and considered, however, and many large projects in which they were involved will be completed next year. The call for additional local service at many points is very heavy and the company is making every endeavor possible to care for current demand and to prepare to keep ahead of the call in the future. Judge Kuhn says. Next year is expected to place the company in a very good position with regard to, he adds, because of the work now under way or contemplated.

LOG MARKET LOOKING UP

What looked early in the summer to promise a river in the timber trade the coming winter is turning out to promise better than the most sanguine expected it would. There are indications now that there is an improvement in the lumber market that is to be reflected back into the log market and loggers in this vicinity are picking up courage and sharpening their tools preparatory to another season's operations. It is understood that the Ford people held about for a long time and that put a quieting effect on early log buying. Inquiries are coming from some of the lumber and veneer manufacturing companies so that it looks as if there will be the usual volume of business transacted.

CARTOONIST OF "MUTT & JEFF" FAME MARRIED ON BOARD OF THE S. S. LEVIATHAN

Mr. Bud Fisher, the prominent cartoonist and creator of "Mutt and Jeff" is shown with his bride, Aedra, Countess de Beaumont of Paris, as the S. S. Leviathan docked at Southampton, last Friday. On the trip over to England, the couple were married on board by the Commander of the ship, Captain Hartley, who is shown "raining" the happy pair with a life preserver.

in Dickinson county, or possibly in the upper peninsula, was killed Tuesday by Victor Grosso, Railroad street, near Daly's farm in the Porter City vicinity. Dressed, the deer tipped the scales at 267 pounds. Only one shot was necessary to bring down the big buck. The bullet pierced his heart, tearing open a large wound as it left the body. The deer sped only 100 yards before he collapsed. The pleasure was all in the shooting the deer for Grosso and a fellow hunter had to haul it four miles to their car.

HUNTER SOBS: SHOT HORNS OFF BUCK!

Iron River, —Blame this one on John Farrington of the Cloverland hotel.

A hunter, from lower Michigan, whose "apple-knocking" is said to be the great outdoor sport, sat on a stump in the woods north of here and bewailed the fact that he has filled his license, yet could not bring his prize to town for fear of being arrested.

There he sat and reproached an adverse fate and foul circumstances for the helpless plight in which he found himself.

According to John, who reels off some of the "best stories" of the area, this man fired at a buck broadside. By a strange coincidence, the bullet grazed the top of the head, cutting the antlers off. Now he is afraid to bring his quarry into town for fear the wardens will arrest him for killing a deer without antlers.

JUNIOR RED CROSS AIDS PEACE BY BIG GROWTH

Gains 142,000 Members in Year in Schools Throughout United States.

A new high level in peace time membership of the American Junior Red Cross is recorded for 1925—its ranks numbering 5,725,848 school girls and boys—a gain of 142,000.

This unique and powerful children's organization started as a war measure, but today is one of the greatest influences for peace ever known. An increasing participation in local programs of service has featured their year's growth. It is indicated that to a greater degree than ever pupils in the schools are performing individual and collective acts of service in a true Red Cross spirit.

The success of the Junior swimming program, launched last year through co-operation of the Life-Saving Service of the Red Cross, has led to a determination to make it a regular feature of both these branches.

An outstanding feature of the Juniors' work this year was the participation for the first time of a Junior Red Cross worker in the disaster relief operations following the tornado in Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana. Schools in many more fortunate localities displayed a keen interest in sending toys and books for the use of the children in the disaster area.

The Junior Red Cross program has flourished not alone in settled communities, but has been extended to Indian schools, and to native Alaskan schools where many Eskimo children undertook Junior work. In addition, the international correspondence between schools is proving more and more popular. American schools are now corresponding with those in thirty-four countries.

Crystal Falls—John Molecky, of Sunset lake, was caught by federal officers in Iron county. Two small stills, seven gallons of moonshine whiskey and 130 gallons of mash were found upon his place. John's operations had been known to the force for sometime but this was the first opportunity they had had for getting him red-handed.

Wanted, Chop Sney, Not Metal

Ironwood—One of the most unusual cases that has ever been filed in Gogebic county was entered on the circuit court docket here by Waples and Waples in behalf of their client, Harry Anderson, who is bringing suit for $1,000 against Eng Ling and Harry Lee, proprietors of the New Hong Kong restaurant at Ironwood, because of the loss of several teeth and other damages to his mouth, which he claims was due to a flat piece of metal concealed in some chop sney which he purchased at the eating establishment owned by the defendants. In the declaration filed Mr. Anderson alleges he paid $1 for the chop sney. He further alleges that metal was concealed in the chop sney.

Chaffee Freed of Suspicion

Iron Mountain—Lee Chaffee, 29-year-old Racine mechanic who was taken back to Kenosha, Wis. from Iron Mountain and grilled for nearly two weeks in the police investigation of the murders of James Sears and his fiancée, Madeline Lattimer, has been freed. The charge of attempted assault which the police placed against Chaffee a few days after his return on the testimony of a girl who formerly lived in Chaffee's block in Racine collapsed at the preliminary hearing in municipal court after defense testimony and alibi witnesses had been introduced. The attempted assault was committed on the night of May 20, the girl testified. She swore she recognized Chaffee and that when she repulsed him she saw him run to his automobile and drive away. Attorney Leonard Baumblatt, Racine, professed as alibi witnesses a garage man who testified he taught Chaffee to drive an automobile last summer, that Chaffee did not know how to drive a car on May 20; and members of a family with whom Chaffee and his wife visited on the night of May 20. The date was fixed by the birth of a child in this family on the morning of May 21. Chaffee took the stand and denied the accusation. He admitted that he knew the girl who accused him but that he had not seen her since she was a little girl eight or ten years ago. Chief of Police Logan announced he had no further reason to hold Chaffee and the man went to his mother's home in Racine.

Radio--the Need of the Farm Home

Farmers used to be handicapped because news reached them slowly. Many a farmer lost money by not knowing how the market stood at the moment he made his decision to sell or to wait.

Then came Radio, with its up-to-the-minute, fresh-every-hour market quotations, its report of crop conditions, its warnings of storms and sudden changes.

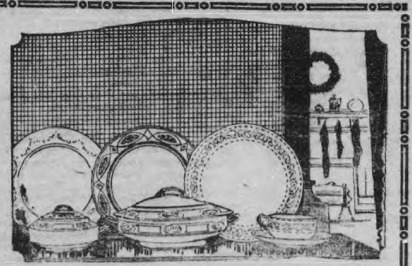

It places a tremendous advantage in the farmer's hands. It is a money making instrument.

And all the other reasons why any human being should have Radio apply with peculiar force to the farm family. Radio ends isolation. It carries to the remotest farm house the best the world has to offer in the way of diversion and education. What the city dweller can get by walking a few blocks, millions of farm people can get only by Radio.

The best Radio for the farm is Atwater Kent. It is so simple, so easy to operate, so well built, that it is known among dealers as "the radio that sells itself and stays sold." And the price is the lowest ever set for such quality.

Safety and Convenience

IT IS SAID that in some oriental countries, in order to send money safely from one town to another it is cut in halves. Each half being sent at different dates and both halves being required for the money to be valid.

Such methods seem very crude in this country where people realize the convenience and safety of a checking account, and know the value of their cancelled checks as receipts and records.

We cordially invite you to open your account with us and take advantage of the facilities we have to offer.

VICTIM OF BLOOD POISONING DIES

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOHN ALFRED HELM ON WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for John Alfred Helm, who passed away Sunday morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Martin, after a case of blood poisoning were held Wednesday afternoon, Rev. C. E. Olson officiated at the home at 1:30 o'clock, and from the Swedish Lutheran church at two. Interment was made in Fernwood cemetery.

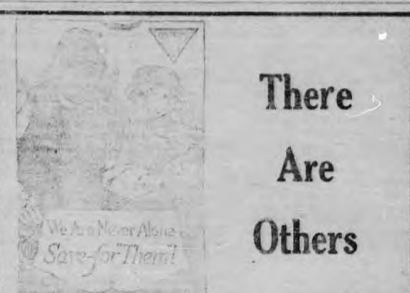

Death was caused from blood poisoning, the result of a small scratch on his hand received some time ago. Passing up such an occurrence in the usual manner, he took care of his duties as engineer at the Veneer Mill of the Coopersage Plant, until illness confined him to his home last Friday.

His condition grew gradually worse, until hopes for his recovery were given up. Death came Sunday noon as held union services at church yesterday

The three Swedish churches, of the city, Swedish Mission, Baptist and Lutheran held services together at the Lutheran church Thanksgiving morning at 10:30.

It opened with a Hymn by the congregation, with Bible reading and prayer by Rev. C. E. Olson following. The Thanksgiving Day Proclamations were read, Rev. and Mrs. Olson entertained with a vocal duet in the relief from hours of suffering. John Alfred Helm was born in Finland, and was 35 years of age. He came here at the age of ten, and lived in this city since that time. He attended the local schools, and had been employed by the Coopersage company since the age of 14. With a willingness to be of assistance to his fellow workmen, and an ever loving disposition he made many friends who mourn his death.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Helm of Stenington, two sisters, Mrs. Charles Anderson, also residing in Stenington, and Mrs. John Martin, of 617 North 7th Street, with whom he had made his home.

He was an active member of the Wasa Lodge and Order of Ruckers. Many members of both visited the home while the remains lay in state to express their sincere sympathy, to the bereaved relatives and friends.

WHAT OTHERS ARE THINKING

CHAS WALK-
This weeks question: Do you believe U. S. should have a separate branch for Aeronautics?

We certainly need a separate division for aircraft. Our army and navy officials don't work together, and the money expended is fooled away. In my opinion a separate branch of the air service is the only solution of the problem. It would insure greater efficiency, and make things better all around. I admire Colonel Mitchell, and am in sympathy with his views. He has sacrificed himself for the benefit of the country. Ultimately his views are going to be the choice of the people of this country.

H. H. ALBIN-
I favor a separate branch. Such an arrangement would mean more developments in aircraft. Aeronautics is a separate branch all by itself and is in a class by itself. In order to carry on successful experiments, and work that will lead to improvements, in flying, it is necessary to have a separate division. Mitchell is right. The officials are trying to side step real issue. I think he has the big majority of the people behind him.

LEO ROUMAN-
A separate division for aircraft would make things better all around. I think the general system is at fault entirely. When men are in charge of this work, who are not even aviators, and don't know anything about it, that's proof enough right there. Aviators, and the most experienced ones available, should be at the head of this branch, and then we'll see some results.

P. J. LINDBLAD-
Yes, we should have a separate branch. There's no system to the present method. When you've got too many irons in the fire, you're bound to burn some of them, and that is the case regarding these departments. Another advantage in a separate branch in aeronautics is the help it would be in conferences. With the navy, army and aircraft division each having one vote there would be no chance for disagreement between them as there is with two.

A. ALGUIRE, Infantry, O. R. C.-
I do not agree with Colonel Mitchell regarding a separate component for the air service in that aviators have all their time taken up in running their planes, and caring for them. Line officers should have charge of all administration, and operation of troops connected with aviation, so as to give aviators more time to develop their own planes. Again, in the case of war, it is necessary to have the units under one head to function properly.

What He Saw in the Transom

By MILLS OVERHOLT

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

A CIGAR is a whole lot like a woman, isn't it? You give it a few puffs and it'll glow and blush and adjust itself to suit you.

But I guess Jerry Bristol, who isn't only a short time ago, thought women were only stenographers and machines, has had a strange experience with them that I ever had.

Jerry is the junior partner in the firm of Belknap & Bristol. One day old man Belknap handed Jerry a cigar, and Jerry lit it up. Miss Brooks, the firm's stenographer, was taking some dictation from the senior partner that day, which is why Jerry smoked. She worked in Jerry's office every other day and those were the days Jerry omitted the cigar. But if he knew the women I know—

Well, sir, Jerry set fire to one of those gift cigars, half closed his eyes, and went and enjoyed his cigar. It must have been after about 25 minutes of ordinary, talkless silence that Jerry sneezed, rubbed his eyes and turned toward me, grinning foolishly.

"Hap," he said, "I've found her! The ideal of my dreams—THE girl—I see her in the smoke! I see her as if in a vision—she is working over a small table—and—see! She is making cigars—these cigars. I see her place the tip of her tongue to the wrapper, so it will hold the cigar together!"

I didn't pay much attention to his remarks, so he ambled right along: "A big bully goes over and scolds her—she's his—she's the brute! She's bending over the table now—his's. No, he's back—talking to her—berating her. I suppose, poor little kid, now he's gone—and she's rolling cigars again—"

I don't know what else he would have seen, but the postman dropped in just then, and Jerry rubbed his eyes dazedly, looked around the room like maybe he thought the wicked enchantress had gone, and went to work.

But Jerry was plumb ruined for commercial purposes. Yes, ma'am, he had gone and fallen in love with a vision.

"Poor little girl, I'll bet that slave-driver works her to death," he muttered to himself that evening after he had come home to our bachelor place. "I wish I knew how to find her. There must be some reason for it." He went on, ignoring my kind words. "You don't see visions every day. I wonder if she could be real."

Well, sir, the next day after Miss Brooks had finished his work and had gone into the old man's office, Jerry touched a fire to his second torch—after having touched Belknap for three cigars—and in a few minutes I heard him mutter:

"She's there! I see her again, rolling cigars. Her boss is standing there—she's waving a hand—scolding her again, I guess. Oh, I'd like to get at him!"

His voice trailed off and he puffed in silence for several minutes. Then he took his feet off the desk and began to get busy as someone entered the office.

But that vision, or the cigars, or something began to affect him terribly. He was worrying about that vision girl, you could see that. So Belknap urged him to take a vacation.

A couple of weeks later he packed up and went to Cuba, to the Philippines, everywhere they make Havana cigars, looking for that girl, and he came back in six months almost a wreck.

It was summer by the time Jerry had given up looking for his girl, and then he came home and was as sad as an oyster till one day—

He was sitting at his desk and he elevated his feet just as he used to do when he smoked, and gazed upward like he used to peer into the smoke—and he saw his vision—a smokeless one, now!

He took his feet down and went over to his partner's door, looked inside, came back, looked up—and again saw the vision.

Then he went to the door again, looked up at the wide-open transom, and solved the whole mess. The dark background of the ceiling converted the glass into a mirror, and he plainly saw his own reflection. Stepping back to the desk, he looked up, got the angle of the reflection from the transom, and saw—what he saw.

A few minutes later he went to the door and spoke to Miss Brooks, the stenographer.

"Will you come into my office?" he asked.

She would. She went in. "Will you marry me, please, this afternoon?" he asked. She said she would. And she did.

Those brown catalogues and stamps did look something like cigars through the transom and smoke that way, I reckon. But it wouldn't have made much difference, love being kind of blind and deaf.

Old man Belknap does look a bit fierce when he dictates, gesturing like he meant it, and all—

But the way it worked out just goes to show what smoking will do to a good man if he doesn't curb the vice in time. Look at Jerry Bristol—it drove him to marriage.

"Where are you going now?"

"I'm out to walk up and down the street and occasionally meet Billy."

Phrases That Can Be Construed as Comed

Have you ever noticed how difficult it is to find expressions to emphasize the meaning of what we wish to convey? There certainly must be a paucity, or shortage of words in our language, because we have a knack of saying, often with the most successful faces, very comic things.

How often we are of ill-treating our eyes; in fact, those valuable organs that about the worst treated a person has. We often rive them, on some striking object, a load, or the horns of a bull. Sometimes they are fixed on a picture on the landscape. At times they are dropped, and very often they are trampled. Again, they are rolled in surprise, and sweeping a room with them is quite a common practice. We fasten them, too, on the fire, and there are occasions when they swim in tears.

A man's countenance will fall, or his jaw drop. When something very extraordinary takes place we have been known to wring our hands and throw up our arms. There are people remarkably skilled in shaking their brows. Rude girls teas their heads, while you, perhaps, keep a dog which has a nasty habit of pricking its ears.

There were some who, on the good old days who asked his countrymen to stand on either hand and keep the bridge with him. It is bad enough, to ward, to have one's toes trodden on.

Have you heard of the piercing cry which rent the air? Have you seen a woman rooted to the spot? Have you seen any one throw up his hands?

Charles Dickens had a keen ear for the ridiculous things people say sometimes. In the Pickwick Papers, when Mr. John Smucker requests Mr. Weller to take his arm, Sam replies: "Thankee, sir, You're very good, but I won't depriv' you of it."

Mark Antony was occasionally "strung up" for a word. He passionately beseeches his countrymen, during his appeal over Caesar's corpse, to lend him their ears.

Have you ever heard of lame ideas? Or perhaps you have heard of them striking? One often hears of people with their minds unlimbered. We have heard of a boy who asked his teacher to excuse the noisiness of the class because his teeth would chatter.—Montreal Family Herald.

Ants Invasde England

A new and most undesirable visitor has arrived at Eastbourne, a popular seaside resort on the south coast of England. This visitor is the Argentine ant. Its appetites are voracious and indiscriminating. It will eat young plants, young birds, and has been known to attack babies in the cradle. There is nothing so common as onslaughts, and it can live anywhere between the tropics and the poles. In Madeira it has almost exterminated the birds and ruined the coffee plants. These ants seem to be free from any known parasite to prey upon them, the cold of a refrigerator has no permanent effect upon them, and during a flood they mass themselves into a ball and float.

Statesmen Not Dressy

The statement that Premier Baldwin is dressing more carefully than he did during his previous term as premier of the imperial parliament has brought forth a statement that none of Britain's premiers have been particularly fancy with regard to attire. Mr. Lloyd George wore well-cut clothes in his premiership, but never gave the idea that he worried about them; the same is true of Mr. Asquith. Lord Balfour was never dressy. Granville used to tell how he met Gladstone in Regent street wearing his topcoat back to front. Lord Salisbury was clothed rather than dressed, and "Dizzy" had ceased to affect the dandy before he became premier.

Odd Form of Evidence

The imprint of a perfect cupid's bow left on paper by the rouged lips of pretty Bertha Riley, eighteen of Los Angeles, was the evidence that caused the conviction of a smatch thief. The prisoner was charged with taking Miss Riley's purse. The purse was not unlike thousands of others when held up to the view of the court. The prosecutor opened it and produced the imprint of the young lady's lips. Another imprint then taken showed similarity, strengthening the evidence.

Engineers Use Airplanes

The airplane has displaced the canoe as first assistant to engineers. No longer is the slower means of travel used to any extent to survey untraveled country. Instead, the engineer hops into a plane and is carried over the trackless highlands, covering a route in a few hours that formerly took many days by canoe and on foot. Such is the romance of engineering as recently enjoyed by H. K. Wickstead in locating a railroad across western Quebec, remarks the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Does Work of Ten

An unusually compact mechanical cabinetmaker, which requires only a one-horse power motor, can do the work of ten men. The machine is declared almost as versatile as larger machines designed for similar purposes. The fly gear is used right and left, and also as a guard over the circular saw. The saw table will tilt to an angle of 45 degrees. A hand wheel adjusts the projection of the saw above the table. Pressure levers hold work firmly on the table while planing is being done.
