

TOURNAMENT FOR CLASS C SCHOOLS GIVEN GLADSTONE

MANISTIQUE, ST. JOE, NORWAY AND KINGSFORD PLAY HERE, MAR. 2-3

C. C. STRICKLAND, MANAGER

Gladdstone was awarded the baseball tournament for Class C schools in District 29 by McFarlane, principal of Ishpeming High school, upper peninsula representative of the State Athletic Council, who presided in a committee of other school officials to work with him on the management of the schools. C. C. Strickland, principal of the local high school, was a member of this committee and the other two were W. E. Thorsberg, Crystal Falls High, and C. M. Ummins, Negaunee High.

The tournament will be played off here on March 2 and 3 and teams will be entered representing this city, Norway, Manistique, St. Joe of Escanaba and Kingsford. Mr. Strickland will be the manager of the local tournament. Under the new ruling teams need not necessarily be entered to play in their classification, if consent for a change is secured.

Iron Mountain was given the Class B tournament for this district, with Escanaba and Menominee competing against that school. Class D schools in the district, Garden, Hermansville, Rock, Rudyard, Pickford, Stephenson, Bapre, River, Amasa and Channing, will play off their district tournament at Vulcan. Teams in the other two upper peninsula districts will play their elimination contests on the same dates of Mar. 2 and 3, and a week later the winners will compete at Marquette.

MENOMINEE WAS BEATEN EASILY

Coach Eldon Keil's high school coach team had an easy time defeating Menominee, 28 to 11, in a game played on the local gym floor last Friday night. Gladstone's defense was airtight and held the visitors' scoring to three field goals, all of them long shots. The center, five Referee Williamson was calling the fouls close and before the game was ended, Kircher, star forward, and Liberty, capable center, were taken out to be replaced by the reserves. Menominee also had one man ruled out on personals.

Although the score was one-sided, the play was fast and the fans were able to enjoy the game.

ONE CITIZEN PROCLAIMS MAIL ORDER CURE

Most people dislike telling about the times they get "stung." Perhaps they fear it betrays their judgment. Anyway when they nibble on something that proves costly, they keep it to themselves. That's when it's an outside source through which they were fooled. Whenever they are dissatisfied with a deal made with their fellow townsmen, they usually proclaim it from the rooftops.

But this is a story of an unusual citizen, one willing to admit a mistake. Harold Bucholtz sent a mail order house over $130 for a radio set. It was cataloged as an exceptional value. The machine came and it proved of inferior construction and gave very poor reception. Letters and telegrams were sent asking for a "make good." Several days elapsed without replies. The machine went back. Meanwhile, the company returned the $130. They kept it for a month before sending it back.

Mr. Bucholtz says he's "off" of buying radios, by mail. He has purchased an all-electric machine from O. C. Estenson and is so well satisfied with the reception, he wouldn't trade it for two or a dozen of the mail order variety.

MORE LOST GLASSES RETURNED TO OWNERS

Last glasses seen to be coming from all directions to the Reporter classified department. Last week another pair were brought in, found near the Pump House. A "FOUND" Ad was inserted, and first thing Friday morning Mrs. Wilford Ayyotte came in to see the "specs" and identify them as her sons. He forgot them in a cafe when he took them off because they were "steamed" and in some way or other they got traveled down near the Pump House.

Any way a Reporter classified ad brought 'em back to Mr. Ayyotte, it all resolves down to just this: If you lose your glasses, we'll find 'em for you if they're not stuck up on your very own forehead.

DEATH HAS TAKEN P. J. GODMSEN, PIONEER RESIDENT

PROMINENT CONTRACTOR HAS HAD MANY YEARS OF ACTIVE WORK

Death took one of Gladstone's prominent residents and earliest settlers when N. J. Godmsen, 70, passed away at his home at 501 Wisconsin avenue on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30. His sudden death coming as a great shock to the members of his family and friends. He had been enjoying good health and working steadily until about a week ago when he became ill. He was on the road to recovery and was resting on a couch shortly after noon as he read a newspaper when the heart attack came that brought his death.

Mr. Godmsen's career as a contractor in Gladstone is that of a very active man since his coming here. He was active in the days of 1887 when the town was springing up. He came here in April of that year from Fayette where they had first settled. He was born in Assens Denmark and came to this country as a young man, living at Negaunee. As a contractor he built many of the first buildings of Gladstone and the best buildings in the city today are his work. Riabto building, First National and Gladstone State Banks, Rosebloom store and residence, the Opera House destroyed by fire a few years ago, the residences of J. D. Staple, L. N. Bushong, Dr. A. H. Miller, G. C. Nequaunee, Dr. A. H. Slings are among the jobs he has done. The Minnesota building, the first building of the city, was constructed here, was built at Third and Minnesota streets by Mr. Godmsen in 1899. It was destroyed by fire, and the streets of 9th and 5th streets and three destroyed by fire. His last work was the erection of the J. T. Jones residence at Wisconsin and 8th streets.

Mr. Godmsen in his earlier days took an interest in the politics of Gladstone, serving as a member of the city council and several terms as a member of the Fire and Water Boards.

He has remained active in his later years. Mr. Godmsen established himself as a man of sterling character, of keen business ability. He was greatly talented in his chosen field and displayed remarkable ability. With a record of honest business dealings he has made many friends during his long period of service in Gladstone who were deeply saddened as the news spread.

Survived are his wife, one son, Wednesday of his death, Carl of Aurora Illinois, two daughters, Mrs. William Cochran of Stevensville Montana, formerly Miss Gertrude, and Mrs. Cecil Geller of Port Arthur, formerly Miss Carrie Godmsen. Mrs. Geller was expected to arrive Friday morning and Mrs. Choran on Saturday morning. Carl Godmsen came Thursday. One son Morris is deceased having passed away in 1919. Other relatives survive in Denmark. Mr. Godmsen made one visit back there after he had settled in this country.

Funeral arrangements were not complete at this writing. It was planned to hold the service from the home either on Saturday or Sunday afternoon. Rev. Robert Grant of the Westminster Presbyterian Church will officiate. The F. & A. M. of which he was a member will probably conduct their rites at the grave. Members of the Masons will also be the pallbearers. Mr. Godmsen was a member of the Escanaba Chapter and the Bio Lodge also.

The grief stricken family and the many friends of the deceased have the sympathy of the entire community in their deep sorrow.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM LOSES TO ROCK, 17-15; FIRST DEFEAT

The local high school basketball team suffered their first defeat of the season last Friday to Rock 17 to 15. The game was very close throughout as the final score indicates. Both teams had hard luck in locating the loop especially D'Amour who missed many attempts at goal.

The game between the second teams of the two schools really proved the thriller of the evening for the fans. The score was a tie as the whistle sounded at the end of a free throw. With the game 8 to 8 in favor of Rock, Caswell fouling the ball through the basket for two points and the game just as the final whistle sounded. The locals will play a return game at Rock next Friday.

FLOOD RAPID RIVER TO PROVIDE SKATING

The ice skating of the past few weeks was checked by the recent thaw and fall of snow but the local enthusiasts of the steel blades are not to be deprived of their outdoor winter sport after once tasting the exhilaration of it. Work was started for the rink by Alpha Cole, Dallas Kuskern and H. J. Wilford to make the Rapid River ideal for skating. A wall of boards was built across the river at the D'Amour rapids, constructed in such a way that the water will pour over the dam flooding the ice for a distance of nearly a half mile. After the ice is flooded in to this length with an inch or two of water, sections of the dam is removed and the water is allowed to freeze. It will take several hours and some cold nights to get the ice in perfect condition but good skating is certain to result. Light suits of snow may be removed in the same way but heavy falls will be plowed off.

With no skating trunks nearer than Gladstone, local skating fans have availed themselves of every opportunity to use every little patch of ice to be found. Skating on the bay and rivers has been exceptionally good this winter until the last thaw and snow. The efforts of the old skaters with a number of volunteers to flood the river for more skating will be appreciated by all who enjoy the outdoor sport.

AUTOS NEED CONTROL SHOWN FARMERS WEEK

Apparatus that should interest even careless automobile drivers will be used to demonstrate the possibility of operating a car with a system of remote controls at an electrical show held during Farmers Week, January 30 to February 3, at Michigan State College. Students in the electrical engineering department have built a car that obeys the commands of controlling agencies that are not a part of nor attached to the car. If such controls could be made automatic, they would take over the guidance of cars that are being carelessly operated, pedestrians would get more pleasure out of life.

Some of the most difficult questions of auctioneering when one side has made a bid of five or more and one of the opponents has doubled. Shall the dealer's partner leave the double or shall he hold his own? If he holds his own and leaves in the double and it is his opening lead, what suit shall he open? Shall he open his own or his partner's declared suit or take a chance on a suit that has not been bid?

These are some of the puzzling questions that arise very frequently and their proper answering usually means a tremendous difference. Here are two hands that illustrate these points very forcibly.

Hand No. 1: Clubs - 10, 9, 7, 6, 5, 2; Diamonds - Q, 7; Spades - 9, 6, 3

No score; rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A passed. Y bid three spades, B bid four hearts, Z four spades, A five hearts and Y five spades. B then bid three hearts and Z doubled.

If all passed, what should Z open? Should he open spades, his partner's declared suit, or should he open the club suit? Some players might even consider the ace of diamonds as a good opening in this hand. However, the choice seems to be between the spade and the club lead. The bidding indicates to a certainty that either A or B has no spades, so that a spade lead would be trumped and thus enable B to establish his side suit before Y Z do theirs. For this reason Z should not open spades.

Z's only sound opening is the five of clubs. If he can establish one club trick before he loses his ace of diamonds, he can defeat the contract. That is the reason for the club opening. If Z's partner has no high clubs but has the king of diamonds, Z can lead diamonds later without loss; but if Z's partner has high clubs, suit the ace and Z doesn't lead them, they stand a chance to lose if A-B have the diamond spades.

As a matter of fact, the club lead will defeat the declaration by one trick. A spade lead will just enable A-B to make the contract. It is a different matter in the lookout for hands of this type and when the bid is five or more in your hand both as to further holding and the proper lead. There is no rule to cover this situation. Y-Z must lead the old bean and plenty of good leads.

Answer to Problem No. 12: Hearts - 10, 9, 7; Clubs - Q, J, 8; Diamonds - A, J; Spades - none

Hearts - A; Clubs - 9, 8; Diamonds - Q, 8, 6, 5, 2; Spades - none

Hearts - K, Q, J, 8; Clubs - none; Diamonds - K, 7; Spades - 8, 6

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win six of the eight tricks against a weak defense? How can A-B play so that they can make three tricks, irrespective of Y-Z's play? Z should lead the seven of diamonds and play the jack of diamonds from Y's hand. Y should now lead the queen of clubs on which Z should discard the king of diamonds. Y should now lead the jack of clubs. If B makes the mistake of trumping this trick, Y-Z can win all of the remaining tricks except two. Suppose B trumps with the deuce of spades. Z should over-trump and lead the king of hearts which A must win. A must then lead a diamond. Y plays the ace and if B trumps, Z will again over-trump. The only trick that B can then

THREE YOUTHS SEEK ADVENTURE

TWO PICKED UP BY SOO OFFICERS AFTER SHORT EXPLORATION

Otto Bingham, age 16, Lyle Park age 13, and Joe Trotter, age 15, decided last week that all the glamour and excitement of the world was not in their school books and they started out to see the wonders of the world through the side doors of a freight car. With little extra clothing and no money the boys started walking but the first day's journey found them in Manistowic. Lits by autumn and the dangerous practice of catching on to freight trains brought them into the Soo by Friday afternoon. The Soo police found the Parks and Trotter by three and returned them to their homes here Saturday evening. The Bingham boy was not to be found but as he is older it is believed he will find some employment for a time at least.

Answer to Problem No. 12: Hearts - 10, 9, 7; Clubs - Q, J, 8; Diamonds - A, J; Spades - none

Hearts - A; Clubs - 9, 8; Diamonds - Q, 8, 6, 5, 2; Spades - none

Hearts - K, Q, J, 8; Clubs - none; Diamonds - K, 7; Spades - 8, 6

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y-Z win six of the eight tricks against a weak defense? How can A-B play so that they can make three tricks, irrespective of Y-Z's play? Z should lead the seven of diamonds and play the jack of diamonds from Y's hand. Y should now lead the queen of clubs on which Z should discard the king of diamonds. Y should now lead the jack of clubs. If B makes the mistake of trumping this trick, Y-Z can win all of the remaining tricks except two. Suppose B trumps with the deuce of spades. Z should over-trump and lead the king of hearts which A must win. A must then lead a diamond. Y plays the ace and if B trumps, Z will again over-trump. The only trick that B can then

BETTER MARKING OF SIDE TRIPS ON U. P. ROADS

The officers and directors of the Upper Peninsula Development Inc. were cordially approved at the recent Marquette business meeting, the marking of township and county roads leading off arterial highways to various points of scenic and historic interest in the upper peninsula.

"There is many a beautiful side trip in this territory that should be made direct for the tourist," said J. P. Norton of Escanaba, who will add to the matter of better markings for side trips in his journey up by the state highway department and various county road commissions.

"The growth of LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes is a wonderful thing but there is a reason. I know, because I buy the Tobacco for LUCKY STRIKE. I buy 'The Cream of the Crop,' that mellow, sweet smoking Tobacco that the Farmer justly describes as I have described it above. The quality of LUCKY STRIKE Cigarettes is telling. It is natural that the brand should show the tremendous growth that it is showing today."

"En Passant" Observations and Comment by Alice Fox

THE CORNER AT Blackwell's seems to be Gladstone's universal zone. Folks gather there, just little groups of two's and three's and discuss everything from politics to what's wrong with the weather man.

EPIDEMIC CAUSED BY IMPURE MILK

PASTEURIZED MILK IS THE ONLY SAFE KIND FOR CHILDREN AND ADULTS

Milk is the most valuable food if it is properly handled to prevent its being the means of spreading disease. Unfortunately disease can be spread by means of milk.

Beginning March 4 the number of cases rapidly increased until 650 were reported during the week ending April 2—a daily average of 93 new cases.

Two-thirds of all cases reported up to March 26 were definitely proved to have used milk from the one dairy which distributed milk to one-eighth of the population.

The recent Montreal epidemic and one in Coffeyville, Kansas, in 1925 were in a pasteurized milk supply, and in each instance a typhoid carrier was found among the milk handlers.

Montreal is an example of what frequently happens in a quieted spirit citizen and interested public citizens secured the passage of an excellent milk ordinance; but the civic authorities failed to appropriate money to employ the needed inspectors and a bacteriologist to make possible the checking up of the efficiency of care in production, pasteurization, etc.

Unfortunately communities will not profit by the experience of other communities but remain indifferent as to the quality of their milk supply until a milk-borne disease epidemic hits near at home.

Through, unending vigilance is the type of supervision we must have of our milk supplies if we would avoid an experience as was Montreal's.

Typoid fever used to be largely epidemic in cities and a city problem. It is now seldom such and when it is, usually means a milk-spread epidemic.

Cities in addition to purifying their water supplies generally have pasteurized milk and do, properly, arranged sewage systems, can not get at the infected excretions. When these things are done properly the number of cases of typhoid fever are few indeed.

Proper examination of all milk handlers would likely have discovered Montreal's typhoid carrier before he handled and infected the milk.

Chats with The Editor

THIS issue of The Delta Reporter comes to our readers of a new Babcock Optimum press, installed since our last publication day. Its acquirement expresses in a material way the confidence which we have written about in dealing with the future of Gladstone and Delta county.

Gladstone has everything that a good city should have. Its location, natural advantages, climatic conditions, church and school facilities, all combine to leave nothing to be wanted. The citizen who cannot enjoy living here, is sadly situated. His perspective of life is soured. He needs to be awakened.

When the present publisher came to Gladstone at the beginning of 1923, he learned that the Delta Reporter would be handled in a manner which would promote its business growth until such time as a new newspaper press was acquired.

There have been some other minor improvements in the office in recent months, and more are planned for the future. We want to give the people of Gladstone and vicinity the best possible newspaper we can produce and will continue to strive for the attainment of the ideal.

MICHIGAN has the finest pine seedling nursery in the United States. It produces the most vigorous and healthy seedlings I have ever looked upon.

These words of praise for Michigan's seedling plant at Higgins Lake, in Roscommon county, come from no less a person than Col. William B. Greeley, chief forester of the United States, after an inspection, and are given circulation by Albert Stoll, Jr., who writes entertainingly and in an instructive way on matters of conservation in The Detroit News.

This writer visited the nursery last June and at that time it was explained that when the work was undertaken on the present scale, the appropriation was so limited that it would have been sufficient to cover only the development of the seed and the planting (so that particular year, or it might have been used to provide the building).

When the usual arguments were brought up to indicate that the criminals were insane, the New York governor displayed little sympathy. The reprieve was refused and the criminals were brought to justice as provided by the law of New York—they died on the electric chair.

Advertising does pay, and you get out of it what you put into it. Advertising is news, the same as the rest of the paper. And just like the rest of it also, it is either good or bad news, lively and instructive, or dead and uninteresting.

WHILE lamenting lack of facilities for outdoor sports we have been overlooking one that has given much enjoyment in other places. It seems W. S. Skellenger returned from lower Michigan points recent and told this writer about the wonderful game of winter golf being played on Lake Erie by folks in that section.

Golf balls are painted red, so as to be found readily in the snow, and players usually carry one club. It was tried first on skates but this gave trouble in meeting the ball properly. Now the players walk around their course, following their strokes from hole to hole as they do on a regular course.

DETROIT is to be commended for trying, but what this writer, among others predicted, was only too true. Michigan's metropolis has no chance to land the national convention of the Democratic, any more than did that of the Republican party. All because Michigan is so overwhelmingly Republican that its credit in that direction is taken for granted.

WE like the idea of game wardens in uniform. And somehow we cannot see the reason that the public will like them that way, too. It is noticeable that those who are either opposed or skeptical, give as their reasons principally that a warden in uniform will be handicapped in discovering law breakers at work, and consequently will make fewer arrests.

There are many game law violations, but it is generally believed that the violations are pretty much by the same offenders, and a little persistent effort should do much to cut down their number. This is not to be made as well in uniform as outside of it. We are glad that the department decided in favor of trying out the idea, getting its inspiration from the state of New York where it has been tried out, successfully according to reports.

THE other encouraging feature of the Conservation Commission activity has been the gathering together at Lansing of the game wardens to talk over their mutual problems and to glean from the department heads a better understanding of what their duties involve. This was done last week, and at the same time Gov. Green told the wardens that their jobs were entirely dependent upon the manner in which they would discharge their duties, all political considerations being cast aside.

THERE would be little dilly-dallying about passing a capital punishment bill going through if the legislature was in session at this time. The fendist murder of little five-year old Dorothy Schneider of Mt. Morris, near Flint, has increased the public mind to a point where the legislature would almost be compelled to act. The sob artists who have been successful in blocking such legislation in the past would get little attention. Fiends like Adolph Hoteling do not deserve to live.

Sometimes one wonders about so-called civilization. The averages have more expressed at his feelings. Nature provided such an attitude, but civilization has provided so many distortions that one is led to wonder if it pays, after all. The constantly mounting crime list is simply appalling. We must waste less sympathy on the criminals and devote more attention to the preservation of the law-abiding.

THE similarity of the Michigan murder case to that of the Hickman murder in California directs attention to a point brought up in these columns, that by the manner in which the crime news is "played up" by the dailies has a tendency to instill in weak-minded characters a tendency to similar offenses. The line between notoriety and fame is closely drawn for such individuals.

GOVERNOR SMITH of New York sent the Democrats a fine letter to be read at the meeting of their national committee at Washington last week. It was chock full of timely suggestions on matters of governmental interest. But after all is said and done the record of a man speaks more effectively than mere words, particularly those expressed at a time when political preferment may be sought. On the subject of crime, Al Smith was positive in his assertion that under our present systems justice often miscarries.

When the usual arguments were brought up to indicate that the criminals were insane, the New York governor displayed little sympathy. The reprieve was refused and the criminals were brought to justice as provided by the law of New York—they died on the electric chair. That will be more of a crime deterrent than dozens of letters written on the subject.

THAT "P. S." in the C. M. & S. Co. "Town Talk" ad in our last issue indicates one thing, that the fellow who writes the copy knows how to advertise himself. For this lack, is the special discount hinted at. And by the way, many are reading the Town Talk ad every week, and the reason for it is that it is thoughtfully prepared.

Advertising does pay, and you get out of it what you put into it. Advertising is news, the same as the rest of the paper. And just like the rest of it also, it is either good or bad news, lively and instructive, or dead and uninteresting. A sales talk through advertising reaches thousands where a direct talk can reach only a few at a time.

THIS is the season of the year when baseball scandals brew. Things were going along quietly when along comes the sensational announcement that Rogers Hornsby has been traded to the Boston Braves by the New York Giants. This brought up numerous "why and wherefores" in the discussion of which many not-to-pleasant incidents are brought up, professional baseball has developed into too much of a good business to remain a good national pastime.

FOREGOING much of the melodrama which distinguished his "Long Patrol" and other productions, Harry Langdon specialized in laughs in his new First National photoplay, "Three's a Crowd" at the Rialto Sunday.

THE work of Gladys McConnell, "Baby Star," who is Langdon's romantic victim in the new picture adds much to the entertainment value of the film. The Story of "Three's a Crowd" has been in Langdon's possession for several years.

THE INVESTMENT RETURNS

The tradesman who does not advertise and wonders why business is not what he thinks it ought to be might profit some by absorbing the thought expressed in this cartoon. It is simple enough. It is just the old story of the man who waits for his ship to come in and puts off everything until that uncertain date when he hopes it will arrive.

It would be a splendid thing for the prosperity of Gladstone as a whole if every one of its merchants realized the truth of this story. For by building greater stores through advertising, the whole community benefits from the resultant prosperity.

In a letter received by Mrs. William Black from her son Wallace he tells of having completed a course in radio operation, and being transferred to Nicaragua, South America. Information in the letter will no doubt be of interest to his many Gladstone friends.

He enlisted in the U. S. Marines June 1, 1927 and was in training at the Marine Barracks training field at Parris Island South Carolina. He was later transferred to Quantico Virginia to take a course in a Radio school. Having completed this on Friday of last week, he received his transfer to Nicaragua, South America where he will begin his duties as a radio operator.

Wallace Black was a Sophomore in the Gladstone High school before leaving to enlist in the U. S. Marines. His friends here will be pleased to hear of his success.

"Don Juan," screen play by Bess Meredith, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picture.

SYNOPSIS

His father's warning—"Take women's love scornfully—and forget"—has made Juan the world's greatest lover. His cynicism is checked by Madonna-like Adriana Varnaeze; loving her, he reforms, but incurs the enmity of infamous Lucretia Borgia, who loves him, and Donati, her kinsman, who covets Adriana. Circumstances destroy Juan's faith in Adriana. He becomes cynical again. He kills Donati, Adriana flees, her father is killed and Juan is imprisoned, refusing Lucretia's offer of freedom if he will love her. He escapes, finds Adriana being tortured and fights to rescue her.

He would go first, so that if she should slip, there would be no danger of her falling. She must look down, lest she be dizzy, and she must have no fear. They would make their way down the wall, not to the water, but to the nearest point where the prison walls touched land. "Just a little way to go, my darling," he told her. "You must not fear."

"I shall never leave while you are with me, Juan," she answered, and it seemed to Juan that her words put new strength into his body. Juan had mounted the horse and crawled through the window first, found the jutting stones which had given him a foothold a short time before, and then helped her through.

Then, slowly, they began to make their way down the wall, clinging to its rough sides, reaching down with one hand, and with the instant finding room for both feet together, then reaching down again. And often, as Juan tumbled on a foothold, he feared that there would be none. He would stop and look down, sometimes to plot his course, and fear whispered to him that if Adriana should fall he could not stop her, could not hold her, and that they would both be plunged to their deaths.

"Better that way than as the Borgia would have had," he told himself. It seemed an eternity, that agonizing slow progress. There was time for many thoughts to pass through Juan's mind. By now his disappearance must have been covered. If Lucretia hurried back to Adriana's cell she must learn of the girls vanishing also, must discover Neri, who lay stoned in a corner. What then?

The moon went under a cloud. Juan felt that he was climbing down into a bottomless pit, wondered if there would ever be an end to this journey. He spoke to Adriana, trying to make his voice steady and fearless. "You are brave, beloved, to follow me lead so fearlessly," he told her. "Your valor in saving me was so great that I can only imitate you," she answered.

At last, suddenly—solid ground beneath Juan's feet. He could hardly believe it. Another instant, and he had lifted Adriana down and taken her in his arms. The moon came again, clear, bright as daylight. Above them there was a shout. They looked up. There, in the window through which they had come, Neri leaned forward and stared down at them. It seemed to Juan that his limbs lost all their strength, that his heart thumped suddenly to a great hammer beat in the hands of a giant, beating against his breast with strokes that made him tremble. Above, in the cell where Adriana had been imprisoned, Lucretia cried out angrily to Neri.

gates. There were two men there, talking. One of them held a horse by a bridle. Something in his voice was familiar, even in the words of two that Juan overheard. He hurried forward. "And I want to hear if he has died, perchance to claim the body, the man was saying. Pedrillo! To Juan the recognition of that voice was as amazing a thing as if the stars had stopped in their course to aid him. "Pedrillo!" he cried, stumbling forward one arm around Adriana. "Pedrillo, your horse." "Master!" Pedrillo cried, turning. Before he could speak again Juan had mounted the horse and lifted Adriana to the saddle in front of him. "Your sword," he cried, snatching it from Pedrillo's hand. "And your prayers for our safety," he added, over his shoulder, as the horse whirled and bounded away. A bare chance of escape, if he could make the wooded slopes outside the city in time. There were shouts all about the prison, and lights flashed. There was a faint flash of light—some of the retainers of the Borgia would be after them. But Juan, holding Adriana close with one arm, guiding the horse with the other, laughed softly to himself. CHAPTER 13—Continued. Lucretia Borgia raged through the corridors of the great prison known as San Angelo like an avenging fury. The leopards, trembling followed her as she ran down the stone steps that had been hollowed by the feet of so many victims of her cruelty. He wondered whether she would have him killed that night or wait until the next day; she had vowed that if Don Juan and Adriana were not overtaken and brought back to the prison by dawn, his head should be the penalty. "Curly she gave her orders to the men she had summoned. They were to follow Juan and the girl wherever they had gone, and bring them back alive if possible. The girl did not matter so much, but every effort was to be made to bring Juan back alive. "Do not spare your men, I care not so many of them die," she told the soldier in command. "Be bring the Spaniard back to me, or Rome shall know you no more save as a corpse." Riding away as fast as he could urge his horse, the cavalier smiled even in the barracks that he gossiped about the Borgia's fondness for the young Spaniard, and his indifference to her. But he did not smile for long. Well enough did he know that she would keep her word, so far as that last threat was concerned. He would not even return to Rome, of course, if he failed to capture Juan. He would ride on, would try to escape into Sicily, and somehow get word to his young wife in Rome and have her join him there. It would mean giving up everything, their home, the small secure place they had made for themselves—but if he failed the Borgia he would be fortunate to escape with his life. And urging his men to follow at great speed, he rode like the wind in pursuit of Don Juan. Juan expected the pursuit. Useless hope to avoid it, when all about the way there would be those who would give the soldiers of Lucretia Borgia whatever information they had, eager to win favor.

SPRUCE IS ATTACKED BY NEW INSECT PEST. The presence of an aphid that does serious injury to ornamental spruce plantings has recently discovered in Cheboygan county, according to reports made by the entomology department at Michigan State College. Specimens that resulted in the identification of the new pest were sent to the College from Cheboygan county. This insect works on the tips of the spruce branches and kills the growth. A spray of miscible oils or of oil emulsion is recommended as a control measure on ornamental plantings where the pest is present.

Inside Out

A Weekly Panorama or Events in the National Capital by Peter Keegan, Special Correspondent for Delta Reporter. WITH EACH day the field of prospective presidential candidates seems to be thinning out. In Washington, now that the question of his eligibility has been satisfactory settled, Secretary of Commerce Hoover appears to have regained the edge over his competitors. The he himself continues to silently saw the departmental wood his many friends in American Congress in Havana next week will produce a new Latin American policy and at the same time materially strengthen our position with the dissatisfied countries along the Caribbean. Thanks to Colonel Lindbergh, we can rest assured that all delegates will arrive in a friendly frame of mind, and it is even possible that our "Ambassador of Good Will" will himself attend some of the meetings.

MUTTERINGS AND rumors in Capitol corridors lead one to believe that the President's visit to the Pan American Congress in Havana next week will produce a new Latin American policy and at the same time materially strengthen our position with the dissatisfied countries along the Caribbean. Thanks to Colonel Lindbergh, we can rest assured that all delegates will arrive in a friendly frame of mind, and it is even possible that our "Ambassador of Good Will" will himself attend some of the meetings.

THE APPOINTMENT of Bronson Murray Cutting (Republican) newspaper publisher of Santa Fe, New Mexico, to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. A. Jones (Democrat) will give the Senate a theoretical Republican majority of one, but until Senators-elect Vane of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois are either seated or succeeded, however, will this majority become effective.

REPRESENTATIVE LA Guardia of New York tore up the speech he had prepared criticizing the Navy's rescue efforts after generally investigating their work at the scene of the S-4 disaster and returned to hold the individual attention of nearly two hundred members for over an hour with his account of conditions of Provincetown. In words simple and unadorned he proceeds to tell his colleagues of the tremendous difficulties under which the divers had been working and of the unjust criticisms that have been received from those unfamiliar with the handicaps under which these heroic men were struggling. As a result, the House approved a resolution for a complete inquiry and a movement is now on foot to reward the divers for their efforts to rescue the imprisoned crew.

THERE IS still some doubt in the State Department over an early agreement with France on Secretary Kellogg's proposed treaty to outlaw "aggressive wars." Cheered, however, by France's emphatic phrases in favor of peace, it is hoped that this disagreement will be adjusted.

The Finnish Lutheran church was packed to the doors with sorrowing relatives and friends when the last sad rites were performed over the body of Miss Elsie Kuuva at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. CROPS SHOW TO BE FARM WEEK FEATURE

The seventeenth annual Michigan crops show will be held at East Lansing during Farmers Week, January 30 to February 4, according to the announcement made by the farm crops department at the college.

Visitors at the Michigan show will see samples of seeds and field crops that brought honors from the recent international Hay and Grain show to Michigan farmers. These samples will not be eligible for prizes in the State show.

A special trophy will be awarded at East Lansing to the county whose exhibitors lead in prizes won last year. Saginaw and Kalamazoo counties stood at the head of the list.

Announcement of the winners of the Michigan five-acre corn growing contest will be made at the show. One of the strongest classes that will be shown this year will be made up of exhibits of alfalfa seed grown in the state. One Cheboygan county grower produced 60 bushels of prime alfalfa seed on 11 acres this year.

Growers of potatoes will have their day when the prize winning exhibits from the district shows throughout the state go on display at the Potato Show, which will be held at the same time.

WANTS PAPER "FRESH"

A woman subscriber called The Delta Reporter office last Saturday to complain that she had not received her copy of the paper on Thursday night. "I want the paper early so that I can read the ads and pick out my bargains; it's no good to me for that purpose unless I get it in time."

The lady was right. The fresh ads are the ones of value and she should have had her paper in time. In some manner was mixed up in the mail. Such things happen occasionally and we want our readers to telephone us at once so that we can, if possible, do for any other subscriber what we did for this one, send a copy by special messenger.

The merchants who advertise with us are entitled to know that you have their ads before you on time. And, if you have what a knock-out this lady's plaint was for the fellow who says "the ads are not read."

WINTER SPORTS FOR LOWER STATE PARKS

Winter sports in State parks—skating, skiing, snowshoeing, tobogganing and other cold weather activities is assured by the Commission's endorsement of the proposal submitted by acting director Hogarth that the Supt. of State Parks be authorized to provide for amusements in four of the state locations. It is not the purpose of the Commission to arrange for professional competition in skating or skiing, but it hopes to provide facilities by which the average participant may enjoy one or all of the winter sports.

Parks selected for winter opening are Grand Haven, where skating and tobogganing will be provided; Island Lake, with a skating rink; Dodge Bros. No. 10, one half mile east of Highland, where slides for skiing and tobogganing have been erected and provisions made for the service of the public; and a large skating rink will be maintained. Highland and Bay City parks have buildings erected for camp groups. These camps are equipped with stoves, kitchens, seats, tables, fuel and cooking utensils and will be at the service of the public for winter camping as requirements arise. At three of the places, Island Lake, Highland and Bay City there are facilities for ice-fishing. All are open and free to the general public.

LAND ECONOMIC SURVEY WANTED

Munising—Passage of a resolution requesting the state to make a land economic survey of Alger county within the next year. Authorization of the committee on courthouse and grounds to prepare a preliminary report on the jail quarters and the jury room of the county courthouse, and the signing of a contract with the Worcester Heights Sanatorium of Marquette county, to provide four beds for Alger county tuberculosis patients during the year 1928, comprised important business features of the January meeting of the board of supervisors held Tuesday at the courthouse.

Some hope had been given Alger county that if the public demand for a land economic survey would be undertaken here within the next year or two. A number of private requests for such a survey have been sent to the state, and the supervisors, in passing the resolution requesting the survey, believe that they are expressing the sentiment of the majority of county residents.

Several counties in the upper peninsula already have had economic surveys taken and other counties are clamoring to have the work done.

CLUB TRAIN TOUR

Directors and officers of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, have endorsed the recommendation of the agricultural committee, headed by E. A. Hamar, of Chassell that a boys' and girls' club train tour the upper peninsula in the spring. The train will visit the same localities in which stops were made by the "Better Crops" special in 1926.

The co-operation of the railroads and Michigan State college extension workers in the peninsula has been given the Development bureau which will pay expenses connected with those of the college and railroads, which will provide workers and trains, respectively, without cost.

There are approximately 6,000 members in boys' and girls' clubs in the northern peninsula and this number can be increased largely during the year if interest can be stimulated in several committees.

The visit of the train, carrying exhibits of various clubs in the peninsula, will, it is believed, bring about an enlarged membership and serve to instruct members of clubs.

Boys and girls, with their exhibits of livestock and other objects, will be on the train and give demonstrations of work done in the last year.

MY EUROPEAN EXCURSION

By Edwin Robert Petre

A FOOL OF MALINES

Years ago my attention was called to the following monkish characterization of Belgians—"Nobilis Brusella viris, Antverpia nunnis, Gandavum laqueis, Formosus Bruga puelis, Lovanium dictis, gaudet Medicina stultis, which Banckert translates, "Brussels rejoices in noble men, Antwerp in money, Ghent in halbers, Bruges in pretty girls, Louvain in learned men and Malines in fools."

The last originated in a story that once the men Malines mistook the moon shining through the cathedral tower for a conflagration and called out the fire brigade to extinguish it. So he it, but my experience with a man in Malines but yesterday makes me rather proud of some of their simple-mindedness. I had come here because it is one of the quietest little towns of Belgium and I wanted some friends to hear its famous bells.

At a cafe where we stopped for refreshment, the bill was so much lower than I usually pay for similar services in Brussels, and elsewhere, that I remarked about it to the proprietor as I paid and this is what he replied, translated as freely as I can manage it, "It may seem a foolish policy, but, as far as I know, no Americans come to Malines. I deliberately charge less so that they will come again. We make more from many inexpensive" calls than from one 'loud' up."

ESSEN THE EAGER

GARAY SISTERS COMING JAN. 26

The Garay Sisters of Budapest and Florence will present the next number of the local Lyceum Course on January 26th. Miss Elizabeth Garay is a violinist and Miss Yalanda Garay is a vocalist. They are assisted by a piano accompanist, soloist.

Both are natives of Budapest and began their study of music at the age of seven years. They have had remarkable success in their concert work in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Italy, and they have achieved tremendous success in some of the most important music and art concerts of Italy, including Bologna, Genoa, Milan, Rome, and Florence. The ease and perfection with which they render the most difficult selections from the great masters is remarkable.

Wherever they have appeared in centers of culture in Europe, or among the simple peasantry of their native land, these amazing young artists have won the hearts and affections of those who have listened to them. During the first few months of their first American tour in the spring of 1926 they completely captivated the hearts and the admiration of their audiences. Lovers of music in Gladstone are looking forward to a real treat with the coming of these artists.

NOW DO YOU KNOW?
Miss Marie Kimber was the first to call us to say that the above pictures were of Louis Burdick, well known local citizen who runs a lunch counter on Central avenue, with a relative friend of his, Herbert Ray of Boyne City, Mich. The picture was taken about 20 years ago.
