SYNOPSIS

Lieut. MacReady and Sergeant Bill Smith come to Yellow Canyon, in charge of a detail of Marines in order to put an end to mail robbery. Bill is arrested for vagrancy. Laura Phelps finds a stolen hood in the pocket of Philip Howard, her lover, and tells her father, who with MacReady and the Marines, go to arrest Howard. Laura warns him, but he is captured in the home of Captain Davis and taken to the Yellow Canyon jail, where Bill is imprisoned. Next morning he binds Bill while asleep, knocks out the sheriff and escapes.

Armed with the latest automatic, fully loaded, the ex-convict point of reassuring himself on a score—Howard waxes a mocking farewell at his two victims and then stepped out of jail into the liberty of Yellow Canyon.

MacReady was spending the early morning hours in the private office of the commanding officer in the abandoned power house. The commanding officer's office was simply a section partitioned off with beams and blankets.

It was his morning for study. Remote as the possibility of bandits and mail robbers seemed, he had to prepare for every emergency. Instantly he scanned over the military map to see from which quarter he could summon help most rapidly if the call ever arose.

Sixty miles to the west was a military post. It was equipped with a cavalry unit, had infantry and machine gun facilities.

Eighty miles east was Fort Dennison. The commanding officer could, on a telegraphic summons, swing a whole company into action in five minutes' notice. There was also an aerial station there. That, Howard decided, would undoubtedly be the logical point of appeal if he ever needed a force of any considerable size.

He was aroused from his inspection of the map by a corporal, saluting at the outer blanket. Two kids want to see the lieutenant, sir.

"What do they want?" "Don't know, sir, but they seem pretty excited. Can't get it clear at all."

"Let them come in." Two battered archers were ushered in, laboring with excitement, indifferent to their tattered clothes and mud stained cheeks.

"We've been climbing to look in the window," one said. "He didn't move at all."

MacReady turned to the corporal. "Have you any idea what they're talking about?" "Something down at the jail, they've come from there, they say," he answered. "Maybe we'd better look into it."

MacReady suited his action to the suggestion. Tarrying just long enough to adjust his hat he followed the youngsters, who were assuming the eagerness of a Columbus, upon finding themselves the center of attention.

One glance at the wide swinging jail gates was sufficient to show that something was wrong. MacReady, followed by the cor.

accustomed to such treatment; but the incoherent lines in Howard's face killed any objections he might have had. As the machine stood still Howard walked to the door, threw it open and took a seat next to the captain.

"Going to town?" he asked. "Yep." "Well, I'm headed the other way, so you'd better point that bus around quickly."

"But—" The automatic was a silence. "No buts about it. They're after me and I'm not in a position to be sign about what I do. You do as I say or—"

"Or what?" "I'm a pretty good shot and I can drive a Ford," Howard concluded significantly. Captain Davis shrugged his shoulders in submission. His quiet blue eyes carried the message that he was evidently dealing with a madman and it was better to offer no resistance. With Howard's eyes watching every movement of his throw off the break and put the car into reverse. He narrowly missed hitting a huge boulder as he backed up on the narrow road and Howard watched him against "accidental" slips that might upset them.

"If I'm taken through your carelessness I'll see that you go first," he announced. Captain Davis refrained from replying. At Howard's insistence he stepped on the gas. They were several miles from the Davis home but Howard wanted him against "accidental" slips that might upset them.

"You'd better stop off for some provisions," Howard suggested. "And clothes. I hate to do it but I need you and this car and we may be gone for some time. I don't want you to suffer from exposure."

"But my wife?" Davis expostulated. "Tell her I've been released, that they discovered it was a mistake, and that we're going out for a camping trip together. And the first false move you make—the patted his side pocket continuously.

Mrs. Davis was surprised to see them, but the captain's explanation modified her. Quietly, calmly he outlined the situation without allowing a trace of his real meaning to filter through his words.

BOUNTIES MAY BE LEGAL

ACCORDING TO OPINION

That there is a state law giving general powers to boards of supervisors which might sustain them in the payment of bounties on wolves and coyotes, is the opinion given a Marquette official in a letter from the attorney general.

Recently the attorney general was appealed to on this question, and the reply in the form of a telegram, was that it was illegal.

Mr. Potter's letter, however, throws a somewhat different light on the question. It follows:

"In relation to the county of Marquette paying a bounty on wolves, I have, as a matter of fact, had examined all of the statutes in this state and there is now no independent statute authorizing this."

"In Section 1 of Chapter 16 of the general highway law, being Sec. 4518 of the compiled laws of 1915 and Compiler's Sec. 187 in the 1925 compilation of the laws relating to highways and bridges, is a provision which says that the several boards of supervisors shall have power and they are hereby authorized at any meeting thereof, legally held: 'To make such laws and regulations as they may deem necessary, and provide for enforcing same, for the destruction of wild beasts, of thistles and other noxious weeds within the several counties.'"

"I do not find that this law has been repealed and it is the only statute I know of that might sustain local legislation for the payment of such bounties."

Hope is a sort of nerve tonic for the ambitious.

A NEW CURE FOR SEASICKNESS

New York—Dr. Hajo Jelden of the North German Lloyd Liner Columbus demonstrates the newly perfected apparatus which is said to be an almost infallible cure for seasickness. Oxygen is pumped into "nauseatine" through a tube and into an inhaler which is placed over the patient's mouth. The symptoms are said to disappear quickly, the improvement lasting for several hours, sometimes permanently.

Leg bands on children's rompers or bloomers should never impede circulation. For this reason elastic bands are not advised. Cloth bands are better. They should be wide enough to slide up the leg five inches or more when the child bends over. Because they must be loose it is necessary to make the legs of the garment short or they will hang down uncomfortably over the knees.

Inside Out

A Monthly Panorama of Events in the National Capital by Peter Keegan, Special Correspondent for Delta Reporter

A FACT known only to those who have personal contact with him is that Herbert Hoover is a super-sensitive man, easily irritated when he is attacked politically. Most politicians are willing to receive as much as give blows without flinching, but Hoover's skin is thin and sensitive to criticism. Hoover flies into a rage if he hears of anyone suggesting that he has an English point of view because he lived abroad so many years. Nothing makes him so mad as to have his Americanism questioned. There is of course the question about Mr. Hoover being a loyal American, but opponents naturally suggest that as an internationalist, politically speaking rather than a strict nationalist. His supporters say he is merely "broad-minded."

BUT HOOVER must expect to be placed on the gridiron and to take his medicine like other men in politics. He is likely to have his opposition upset shortly because Senator Jim Reed is fighting Democraticism to carry take off the hide in going after Hoover. No one can give a more convincing argument like Reed. No one can be so caustic in attack as the Missouri scrapper. Reed never ceases to attack Hoover without adding "Hoover, late of England." Reed is also branding Hoover as an enemy of agriculture and is making up comments about Hoover having Will H. Hays, ex-Republican national chairman, for a political and personal friend. Reed also is speaking of Hoover as an internationalist who favored America's entry into the League of Nations.

PRIVATELY, JIM REED says he hopes the Republicans nominate Hoover. The Missouri Democrat believes that thousands of Republicans, opposed to the League of Nations, would turn to the Democratic party rather than vote for Hoover. Reed also considers farmers as anti-Hoover. It has been well established that Republican farmers are favorable either to Lowden or Dawes rather than Hoover.

WITH OIL rather than booze being pushed to the front as an issue talking of Al Smith for the Democratic presidential nomination is a serious matter, at least to some extent, in favor of Senator Jim Reed or Senator Thomas Walsh. Both Reed and Walsh have been making it just for Republicans, sneering of course. Will H. Hays and Frank O. Lowden, who are beginning with names from Missouri, a state with numerous electoral votes, while Walsh hails from Montana, a state with a small vote. Should Al Smith fail to get over in the convention, he would be sure likely to swing his support to pro-Republican. Lowden, however, is a Catholic, while Reed is a Protestant. The question, he has been urging Democrats to forget the past and try to question and make a united front against the common enemy.

NEW HEMISPHERE of the New England group has elected its seven delegates. However, the number inside does not mean that the number have Dawes for second choice.

FRANK O. Lowden is spending no money to advance his candidacy. He is just relying on the leaders that he will have a big vote in the convention and if he fails to win he will have a voice in dictating the nomination.

WEATHER BUREAU officials figure that the famous Japanese cherry blossoms should be at their best by April 10th or thereabouts. Thousands of persons time their spring visits to Washington to see the blossoms.

WHILE LOWDEN and Hoover are the two most active Republican candidates for President, and each will enter the Kansas City convention with big blocks of delegates, there is a low probability that Washington who expect either one of them to become the winner. There is now more talk of a "Dawes or Coolidge" rather than a "Dawes or Hoover" nomination than there is anyone else.

SENATOR BORAH is "passing the hat" to raise a pot of money to be returned to Senator Borah, who contributed too generously to the deficit fund raised by Will H. Hays. Borah is likely to toss that same hat into the center of the presidential ring. Keep an eye on Borah's hat.

SENATOR NORRIS, Nebraska, has spoken on Muscle Shoals again. It is a low probability that any time there is a shortage of subjects.

HERBERT HOOVER is taking such a personal interest in his campaign for President that he left his home in Nevada to spend the afternoon in political conference at his headquarters in the Willard hotel.

BUSINESS MEN are unafraid of the presidential year because there is no chance of a revival being nominated by either party. It is a conservative year, politically. Business as usual is the slogan.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE never takes his vacation the same place. He likes to change. This summer he may go to Asheville, N. C., which will be a nice piece of advertising for that state. Asheville, has always tended to have pleasant summers; it is not too far from Washington.

SECRETARY OF State Kellogg gave a recent dinner to the foreign diplomats. But one diplomat, Ahmed Moustaf Bey, the Turkish Ambassador, was absent. He got his dates mixed; the dinner was set for March 8 instead of the 7th.

WHEN JIMMY Walker, colorful Mayor of New York City, dropped in at the capital in July, he was the colorful Vice President, Gen. Dawes, twenty-two pages of the Senate scrambled after him to get his autograph. Jimmy was obliging.

POLITICAL RECEIPTS from cities of the country, considered as good economic barometers, are showing an increase over corresponding months of last year. With spring at hand, business is expected to show a quick pick-up.

SENATOR TOM WALSH, Montana, dry Catholic, is being pipped against Gov. Al Smith, New York, wet Catholic. Walsh voted for McAdoo in the New York Madison Square Garden convention. Now McAdoo is backing Walsh, hoping to stop Al Smith. McAdoo, apparently is determined to have revenge for Al Smith preventing his nomination in 1924. Since that memorable convention, McAdoo has been slipped politically. Al Smith appears to be as strong politically, as ever. McAdoo's efforts this time do not, but revenge is sweet to him.

W. W. MILLS of Marietta, Ohio, who is on the Willis slate of delegates to be voted on in the Ohio presidential primary, is an uncle of Vice President Dawes. It seems a fair conclusion that the law is Uncle W. W.'s second choice.

MISSOURI is "showing Lowden"; it gives him most of its delegates.

GEORGE WASHINGTON is the only one of the thirty Presidents who has been elected in the White House. Washington, however, laid the corner stone for the White House. The only reason he lives to live in the present executive mansion is that it was not completed in time.

THERE MUST BE something in a name—Congressman Celler, New York, is politically damp.

STATE TO HAVE LIVE SPECIMENS AT SHOW

What the state of Michigan has to offer the world in the way of scenic and recreational resources will be on view at the Out-Door Life Exposition and Motor Boat Show, May 7th to 12th, at the Coliseum, Chicago. And all the several states that will have extensive exhibits at the show—parading the vacation possibilities of their lakes and woods Michigan bids fair to outshine them all.

Chicago will have two Michigan avenues during the week, May 7th to 12th, the famous boulevard and a long side at the show which will display the resources of the state, and which will be known as Michigan avenue. Everything that the state is noted for from two live Wolverines to exhibits of the live animals, and all of the state will be on view in booths on the avenue and hanging high over them all will be a gigantic map of the state showing the lovers of the outdoors where all of the lakes, streams, highways, and parks of the state are located.

Already workmen are working on the numerous signs and tanks which will be used to house the fish and animals of the state during the show and the activities of the Michigan boaters are expected to make their exhibits, by far the most attractive of any of the numerous ones which will be on view.

Credit for the great showing which Michigan will make this year to the more than 250,000 people who will attend the exposition should go to William H. Lounis, chairman of the state conservation commission, and George Hagarth, acting director of the Department of Conservation, who have leased booths at the show in which to exhibit live specimens of the state's woods and streams and who have secured the active co-operation of the tourist and resort associations of the state as well as a number of chambers of commerce of various cities.

P. J. Hoffmeister, superintendent of state parks, will have active charge of the conservation commission's booths. Mr. Lounis has announced, and every effort will be made to sell the thousands of prospective vacation seekers who will visit the show the wonderful possibilities of the state's woods and streams and everything the pleasure seeker

CITY ELECTION WILL BE QUIET

With no opposition entered against James H. Murphy and Peter Peterson, candidates to succeed themselves for three year terms as city commissioners, a light vote is anticipated at the annual city election Monday, April 2.

The polls for the four precincts will be open between the hours of seven a. m. and eight p. m.

The fact that no candidates entered in the race for the Commission vacancies speaks well for the present incumbents and their admirable record of service for the people of Gladstone.

The ballot will also include a constable vacancy for one year, no candidates having been named for this office.

The presidential nomination ballots will also be cast, the Democratic nominee, Al. Smith of New York, and the Republican, Herbert Hoover.

Chats with The Editor

WHEN this writer charged Editor Tom Conlin of the Crystal Falls Diamond Drill with an attitude bordering on intolerance in his discussion of those he termed as pacifists because of their opposition to United States intervention in Nicaragua, he did so with the expectation that our editor friend would be capable of upholding his end of the contention—favoring intervention. As it is a live subject worthy the attention of the best thought of our Nation, we shall reprint his answer to our charge, afterwards adding some points taken from the history of the relations between the two nations, which should enable any citizen to arrive at a conclusion in keeping with the true American ideal.

When this writer was a young lad he attended a political rally in "the old home town." It was the vile Cleveland-Blaine contest and an attorney named O'Connor, a recent arrival from the old sod and carrying with him a rich brogue that of itself was sufficient to stamp him as a "card," interrupted the speaker with this assertion: "Sir, your hypothesis is wrong and your conclusions must necessarily be wrong." The same applies to our friend Sturgeon's remarks.

In the first place this is a representative government and not a popular government using "popular" as a synonym for "democracy" as it is so frequently used and which meaning we interpret our neighbor's statement as carrying with it. We have delegated to certain representatives the duty of directing this government and it is our duty to stand by them so long as they follow our lines of action laid down by a lawfully constituted majority.

One of the rules so laid down, and for which Editor Sturgeon was as the rest of us, whoops it up is the so-called "Monroe Doctrine" through which we have promised the rest of the world that we will not allow eastern hemisphere interference in the western hemisphere. With that doctrine goes the assumption of our taking over the protection of lawful and legal rights of European countries in the territories which we attempt to so protect. That means such interference as is necessitated by the disregard of one of our wards for the rights of Europeans. The only times and places that we have interested have been to keep our promise and the United States would be false to her promise if she did not so act as to prevent necessary intervention from European nations.

It is unnecessary to go into the train of events that led to the latest intervention in Nicaragua. It is a heritage from former revolutions that necessitated someone protecting the property of foreigners. Are we to lie down on our job or face it faithfully, just as we promised to do? There isn't any question of stopping a quarrel before it started; it is a plain question of whether the United States government will live up to its promise and if the duty of every citizen to stand behind the actions of his government so long as those actions are projected by a legal majority.

In the prosecution of our duty and with an eye to saving life and property the United States government negotiated a deal with all factions of Nicaragua under which this government took upon itself the duty of guaranteeing to the parties and to the people of Nicaragua a square deal in an election which is to be held and which is to settle the question of who shall guide the destinies of Nicaragua. All parties agreed but lately one of them, fearing that the supervision will be too "square" and that he will thus lose some influence that he would have if the United States should keep out has set about thwarting the promised supervision. In this emergency the United States government very properly serves notice upon all factions that it will go through with what it promised it would go through with. Would our friend Sturgeon have us sneak out on our promise. We don't think so.

Editor Conlin in the foregoing paragraphs has presented a strong case, but it still permits room for what we consider an effective rejoinder, and we'll start with his last challenge in regards to our Nation's promise. No self-respecting individual, or nation in any civilized world would want to "sneak out of a promise, providing always that the promise was proper and not based on false promises. Admitting that "Sir, your hypothesis is wrong and your conclusions must necessarily be wrong," likewise if a promise is a false one any effort to enforce it against the common interests of innocent peoples is also in the same degree improper.

The intervention in Nicaragua is not entirely based upon the Monroe Doctrine, which concerns itself with the interests of European nations on the American continent. The United States intervention in the present controversy is to control an INTER-AMERICAN responsibility for which is partly to be placed upon principles fostered by our own State department. The interests of foreign nations is only secondary in the present instances.

It is a well-known fact that in many Latin-American countries, Nicaragua among them, elections are rigorously controlled by the administration to maintain itself in office. Revolution is the only means of forcing a change. Our government, through its state department, adopted a policy of not recognizing any leader who won control after a revolution in which he was in any way connected. In 1925 when the United States Marines withdrew from Nicaragua, Gen. Chamorro threatened to overthrow the established administration of President Solozano. The Nicaraguan Congress designated the rebel. Our Government refused to recognize him, Vice-president Sacasa in turn rebelled and caused Chamorro to resign and this time the Nicaraguan Congress designated Senator Diaz as president over the protests of Sacasa. The United States promptly recognized Diaz and it is to maintain him and insure a legitimate successor that our Marines are in Nicaragua today, fighting and guarding against the opposing forces.

Our contention is that it is strictly an internal question, not the concern of a self-respecting nation believing in the freedom of a nation to govern itself. That being so, we ask Editor Conlin, what promise would be broken by an order withdrawing our Marines from foreign soil.

THE death on March 23 of Senator Woodbridge N. Ferris is the cause for sincere regret, felt generally throughout the state of Michigan without regards to politics, race or creed. His keen sense of humor, deep understanding of human nature, deep-rooted honesty and broad outlook on life won him the respect and admiration of a wide circle of devoted followers, who thought not in terms of partisan politics whenever an opportunity presented itself to vote him into office. Thus he served two terms as Governor of Michigan, being elected in 1912 and 1914, and rendering a type of service that proved his capability. It was in 1922 that the people of Michigan sent him to Washington to represent them as senator, his election by a weak minority party being an expression of disgust with the high finance type of politics indulged in by the majority party.

But it is not as a politician or statesman that Senator Ferris will be longest remembered. His creation and conduct of a business college at Big Rapids, where thousands of young people were trained for better opportunities in life, will stand as a monument to his life-work. His success as an educator best typifies his contribution to the betterment of the present period.

THE Senate has rejected President Candidate's nomination of John J. Esch of Wisconsin for a second term as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The rejection sets a new precedent and serves in direct attention to the consistently unsatisfactory service of Mr. Esch. His district in Wisconsin is that in which he ran for another term in Congress. Like so many other lame ducks (defeated officials) he had some influential friends to land him a job on the Commission. Now he is to be out again. And he ought to remain so until such time he has established himself in the confidence of the people.

THERE is something new under the sun, even in the field of newspapering. The novelty this time came in the shape of a special edition of Ed Novack's Michigan State Digest of March 1. It was most attractive, and best of all, very much worth reading, containing as it did many articles discussing the present activities and policies of the Michigan Conservation Department, along with cuts, some of them full page size, of the men active in the work of the Department. Editor Novack is a clever writer with novel ideas, and he is putting these to work most effectively. More power to you, Ed.

MONDAY is election day and while there are no contests to stir up interest or enthusiasm, the good citizen will want to cast his ballot at the expression of approval for those running without opposition.

Gladstone--Present and Future

(Editor's Note--In reading these letters, it must be remembered all were written in response to a request sent on the same date, and also that several of the replies were received by Sec'y Sohlberg of the City Club before other letters were given publicity. This to explain any similarity in the thoughts expressed.)

Mr. Theo. Sohlberg Sec'y Gladstone, Mich., Mar. 1, 1928 Gladstone City Club

Dear Sir: Having been invited to express opinions and views of our needs present and future, as a community, the writer wishes to say that the position is well taken and that should have been done years ago. But better late than never. The writer has lived in Delta County since 1887 and in Gladstone since 1896, and consequently the feeling is uppermost that there is no place like Gladstone. People have different opinions and this will of course not make our town worse or better. However there is no getting away from the fact that a town or community is what the people living within its borders make it.

Comparing our town at present with Gladstone of 1896, there is quite a change for the better in our homes and streets. Whether or not our general business is worse I am unable to say. It appears to me that we have lost ground as far as employment of labor is concerned. The loss of boats plying between here and Buffalo, and more recently the Kipling Furnace and the Foundry, has more than offset the increase of the N. W. Co-operative & Lumber Co., and the Chemical Plant.

There is also a decrease in property values, at least for the speculator, as there is practically no trading in real estate. This condition should not alarm the home owners. His home is worth just as much to him now as it was when he sold it at 50 per cent profit or 50 per cent loss, providing his work is here. There is no sense in joining with the calamity howlers. If their predictions had been true there would not be a city left but nice here today. Gladstone is here to stay. We will of course have our ups and downs, the same as any other town. Let this be known if he can't do anything else but let us not help him. I believe that outside of more employment we need the spirit of loyalty to our town and that everyone of us work together for the common good of every resident whether he owns his home or pays rent.

We also need people to occupy our bay shores during their summer vacations, and they are coming and their coming will no doubt more than offset the loss of some of our industries lost in the past.

Yours Truly, E. M. JOHNSON

Erick Johnson was unopposed for treasurer. Young and Louis J. Larson won the ward offices in the first ward. C. F. Mason, defeated W. L. Marble for supervisor in the second ward by two votes. In the third Edward Gordon and O. H. Carlson are tied for the aldermanship and W. A. Miller won out as supervisor over A. D. Harris. L. Tardiff and J. H. Murphy won the fourth ward honors.

A most decisive victory was won in the case of the charter revision project, the proposal winning by a two to one vote. A total of 298 votes were cast favoring the issue.

M. P. Fay opened his new meat market Saturday.

The iron posts for the mail boxes have been received and will be placed in position in a short time. It will then be possible to mail letters without visiting the post office.

Easter... Eggs... Shoes

In shoes as in eggs it's sometimes hard to tell what's inside, until it's too late. Increased costs in hides and tanning during 1927 have made leathers higher. Beware of the shoe that parades at a bargain price. Buy good shoes from a reliable shoe store--that's your only protection against inferior quality.

SLIP CANDIDATES ENTER IN FIELD

TOWNSHIP ELECTION MONDAY TO BE ENLIVENED BY TWO CONTESTS

The annual spring election to be held Monday, April 2 is warming up with the announcement of slip candidates for the office of supervisor and clerk. Almon D. DeGraw of Oser has announced his candidacy for the office of supervisor and will make the run on slips as there is only one ticket on the township ballots. Mr. DeGraw has been successful in farming in the Oser district for several years and is a young man held in high esteem by the voters. His candidacy will than would otherwise have voted that would otherwise have voted without any opposition to the head of the ticket.

Ludwig Caswell who was defeated at the caucus by H. J. Willford for clerk is also a slip candidate. While the running for an office on slips is a hard obstacle to overcome because of the little attention or disregard for the slips in the booths, candidates have been successful on a number of occasions. Although the voting by slips for candidates is not as satisfactory a way as by having another complete ticket, it does give the voter an opportunity to express their confidence in the several candidates and add some spice to the pudding.

The annual township meeting at 1 o'clock in the afternoon will be awaited with interest by the taxpayers as at this time the money for the several township purposes is levied. Contingent on the night and other funds are raised by the taxpayers and other matters of interest are proposed and acted upon. Much business has been made on the streets and when plans about the street lights being placed on a meter be located in the town hall and this may be discussed at length at the annual meeting. A flat rate per month for each meter is the present system of the township paying for the street lighting and many believe the lights being placed on a meter and the lights paid for according to the amount of kilowatts consumed. At the present time if a street light is not kept burning all night, and there have been instances when a light has been out of order for two and three months, the township collects the flat rate just the same. This would be the case if the lights were on a meter. The switching out of the lights would be the duty of the single workman and would be a tremendous job in the late hours of the night in case of fire or burglary. The reading of the township clerk's report is made at this time and the needs of the township is discussed by the officials.

LEGION DEFEATS CHATHAM CAGE TEAM

The Legion basketball team defeated Chatham on the local gymnasium Tuesday evening by the score of 32 to 14. The team had the Alger county team outclassed throughout the game but fast work and the cleanliness of the game made it interesting to the fans. Only one personal foul was called during the game, Turner of Chatham being guilty of this one offense. D'Amour was high point man for the locals with eight field goals.

The Friday evening the Legion team will play the Treasury boys at the high school gym. Treasury has been going strong for their first season at the game and a good crowd will be present.

IMPROVEMENT IN LIGHT SERVICE

NIGHT WATCHMAN WILL HAVE CHARGE OF SWITCHING SERVICE ON OR OFF

As a result of a conference between the directors of the Rapid River Light & Power and the members of the Township Board, improvements are to be made in the street lighting service.

The clock switch regulates the lights, and the time they shall burn is set by means of the Power & Light store in the town hall. The night watchman, Charles Rabalais, will have sole charge of this switch. He will adjust the clock on, and off, the lights. It was agreed that when the streets were dark should be given later than eleven-thirty. In the evening that upon notice being given to the night watchman he will cause the lights to be kept lighted as long as necessary.

The Light Company is to make a survey of the entire service lines, have its transformers tested, with a view of determining what changes may be necessary to improve the light and power service to the community. As a part of this survey, the company will submit to the township board a schedule of rates for maintaining the street light system.

The directors expressed their desire to give their consumers satisfactory service at all times. They request any suggestions or complaints in the vicinity of any street light which has become broken, or not lighted for any reason, to report the same to either Mr. Rabalais, or to Mr. Albert Peterson.

VOTERS TO DECIDE TOWNSHIP POLICY

WOULD ESTABLISH SEVERAL DISTRICTS WITH OVERSEERS IN CHARGE

The question of dividing the township into highway districts will be decided by the voters at the annual township meeting in the town hall Monday afternoon. The township board during the past year has received a number of requests to have the township divided into districts. The proponents of the district system of highway management hold that better and more equitable work can be done in this way. As a fair way to settle the matter the members of the board decided to leave the decision to the voters, and will be prepared reading as follows:

Resolved, that the township be divided into Highway Districts:

( ) Yes ( ) No

The system would be the one in vogue in the township many years ago with an overseer in charge of each district. There would be four or five districts in the township and the overseers would be elected immediately following the passage of the resolution.

Wednesday, John C. Hamilton has received notice of his appointment as regular carrier on route No. 1 effective Monday, April 2.

COMPULSORY AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE FOR THE DISTRICT

(Washington News)

Compulsory automobile liability insurance is a bill which has attracted attention through the introduction in the House of a bill by Representative Frank Jones of Washington. The bill is in the District to furnish security in some form before their automobiles can be registered, but the measure is not yet ready for introduction.

However, since the objections to such a measure may be—and there are serious objections to it—some sentiment will eventually demand something of the kind as a protest against irresponsible and imprudent drivers.

Congress should, though, go slowly in the matter. It is comparatively easy to pass legislation, but the most careful consideration should be given to avoid injustice.

Mr. Treadway's bill provides that liability insurance or bond shall be furnished by private companies. Frank Jones of Washington has a bill in the Senate which would create an insurance fund, to be administered by the Federal Employees Compensation Commission, the desire being to minimize the cost of liability insurance and to make insurance a guaranteed affair.

Compulsory automobile insurance here would invite many new casualty companies to do business in the District, and the financial responsibility of some of them might be such as to make the insurance almost worthless.

Governor Smith, in New York, called attention to the need of automobile insurance in that state covering damages, but, with his usual wisdom, he stressed the need of insurance that would absolutely insure. He urged the legislature to appoint a commission to investigate satisfactory and safe methods of liability insurance that would not be too costly to automobile owners and drivers.

The District of Columbia, compulsory insurance should not be required until there has been thorough investigation.

The most serious objection to such insurance is the additional cost involved in automobile operation. The one principal objection is that it will cut down the sales of automobiles and greatly reduce the number of those who will be permitted to operate cars.

Requiring owners of cars to pay for liability insurance, without requiring that insurance from drivers would not be very effective and would not reach the real measure of auto traffic after all.

Only about fifteen to twenty per cent of auto owners carry insurance now. The large majority of those who do not carry insurance are responsible, careful drivers who avoid accidents for which they are responsible. Part of those who do not carry insurance are no doubt careless, irresponsible, and without means to pay for damages they inflict.

The menace of auto traffic, however, does not own cars, and there is no way of holding them financially responsible for the accidents they cause. Not only are they irresponsible as drivers, but utterly unworldly of all consequences.

It is this class of drivers who must be reached. If they can be held to some kind of financial responsibility the results would be beneficial.

The subject is one which Congress cannot and should not, legislate upon without caution. Business interests, the rights of auto owners and drivers, and the public

WILL BUILD TANKS IN MANY COUNTIES

An ever increasing interest in the use of septic tanks for the disposal of farm sewage has caused the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State College to schedule meetings in 24 Michigan counties to show how easily these tanks can be installed.

The department has records where tanks have been installed successfully for the past fifteen years. The cost of building is low and little or no attention is required after the installation.

At each of the demonstration meetings, a set of forms for the concrete work of the tank will be built during the forenoon and the concrete will be poured in the afternoon. The forms are made so that they can be removed and used to build additional tanks in the community.

Specialists at the meeting will explain the best methods for constructing the septic tanks, and also will answer questions on the use of concrete for other purposes on the farm.

Meetings during April will be held in Lenawee, Hillsdale, Cass, Calhoun, and Ingham counties. Washington, Macdonald, Alcona, Alpena, Chippewa, Lapeer, Schoolcraft, Delta, Menominee, and Dickinson counties are to be visited in May.

The June meetings are in Iron, Gogebic, Ontonagon, Houghton, and Marquette counties; and Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Missaukee, Westford, Manistee, Oceana, Newaygo and Mecosta farmers will see the tanks built in July and August. Other counties on the list for later in the year are Ottawa, Kent, Oakland, St. Clair and Sanilac.

STRAIGHT TALK FROM MARYLAND GOVERNOR (Cudahy (Wis) Enterprise) The mania for regulating people by legislation continues.

Michigan has a new firearms act under which the sheriffs in the different counties and city police departments register weapons. The possession of state residents. Failure to register makes one liable to a fine of $100 or imprisonment for 90 days.

The law makes it a rather complicated matter to buy guns and get them properly registered. The avowed object of this elaborate statute criminals from getting dangerous weapons. Commenting on the measure, a South Carolina paper says:

"If Michigan succeeds in persuading all bandits and gunmen to comply with the law faithfully and to promise not to bring dangerous weapons from some other state without permission, doubtless the measure will prove a success."

The law will probably be enforced for awhile. Arkansas had a similar statute, but due to lack of attention paid to it by the citizens, despite attempts to enforce it, it was repealed after three years. Up to the middle of December, Michigan had registered some 85,000 pistols, which are undoubtedly only a small percentage of the number in the state. The new law will make "more lawbreakers," because all the people will never register it. It is the old story of trying to make something unlawful by law which in itself (the ownership of a gun) is not lawful.

The United States Constitution provides that citizens may own firearms. The people will not give up this right. Legislation which puts the honest gun owner in the class of crooks and criminals is putting the cart before the horse. It virtually keeps a police record of the honest man when everybody knows that the lawbreakers will not register. It will be interesting to watch the trend of crime in Michigan.

SEE ALFALFA SEED AS FUTURE STATE CROP

Alfalfa seed growing in Michigan will probably soon be established on a permanent and dependable basis. This is the opinion of the experiences of farmers during the past three years and a few isolated instances that date back as far as 30 years.

H. C. Rather, of the farm crops department, states that 573 bushels of alfalfa seed were certified last year by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association. He estimates that this amount is less than one-eighth of the total production of about 4,500 bushels grown in the state last year, which will plant approximately 22,000 acres.

"There are two things which Michigan alfalfa seed growers must keep in mind," says Mr. Rather. "One is to watch the bloom in order to determine whether or not it will set seed satisfactorily. The other is to keep seed producing fields free from weeds."

"If the weather is reasonably bright and clear, the alfalfa may be allowed to come into full bloom. If more than half of the blossoms are forming into seed, pods, the stand may be allowed to go to seed with reasonable assurance of success. In case the majority of the blossoms are dropping off, the alfalfa may still be cut for hay and the value of the crop saved."

"The opportunity to secure seed is presented in both the first and second cuttings, while in northern Michigan the first cutting must be depended upon for the seed crop."

SALES OF CHESTERFIELD CIGARETTES SHOW GAIN From seven billion smoked in 1922 to twenty-eight billion smoked in 1927, sales have doubled and redoubled within five years. These are the startling figures announced by the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company for their Chesterfield Cigarette.

In current advertising, Liggett & Myers is making strong use of their so-called "platform," in which they declare over their signature that it is their honest belief "that the tobacco used in Chesterfield Cigarettes is of the finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price."

Having a built-in ironing board in a shallow closet saves space, is convenient, and helps to keep the cover clean. The hinged support should be placed to that there is room to draw a skirt or dress over the board. The board should be the right height for you. There should be a good light from a window during the day, and artificial light also. The space below the closet into which the ironing board folds may often be utilized for keeping the iron and various accessories.

GREETINGS (Michigan State Digest) Murl Defoe, efficient Charlotte editor and publisher of one of the state's best weekly papers, gets the following honorable and well deserved mention from the Northville Record:

"The Charlotte Republican, is a truly wonderful newspaper. Possibly from a typographical standpoint it 'Doc' is one of the outstanding editors of Michigan. Why anyone in Charlotte should care to read any other paper than the Republican is hard to understand."

It is reported Doc, after taking a couple of bows, agreed that it is all right with him if everyone in Charlotte decides to read the Republican exclusively.

Many are called, but few choose to get up when the alarm clock goes off.

BLACKWELL HARDWARE IS OLDEST RETAIL BUSINESS

Funny Experiences Too Every business has its amusing and entertaining happenings; the hardware is no exception. Mr. Blackwell related an incident about a woman who on several occasions when she was going to Escanaba would leave her baby buggy at his store, calling for it when she returned on the street car. Grips are oftentimes conveniently left at Blackwell's but baby buggies were a bit out of the ordinary.

tin Smiths Were Employed The stock of the hardware store today is much different than it was when Mr. Blackwell entered the business as a young man. At that time I never saw a nickel plated tea kettle. Mr. Blackwell started using the tea kettle as an example. Trunkettes then were made out of tin, usually with copper bottoms. The work was done by hand by tin smiths during the winter time when the outside work was slack.

You Didn't Marry a Washerwoman

And your wife didn't say "yes" to your proposal in order to get a washerwoman's job. She could have gotten better wages at a laundry than you are paying her.

If she is now doing the weekly wash, under a mistaken idea of "saving money," make her stop it. She's paying a fearful price for her mistaken zeal—shortening her life, piling up future doctor bills, neglecting her children, turning an otherwise happy home into a place of physical discomfort and mental anguish once each week.

All this distress of mind and body is plain foolishness! Because—the Laundry—THIS LAUNDRY—DOES IT BEST!

DAMP WASH SERVICE 5c per lb.

Phone 141, and our driver will call for and deliver your washing each week.

And you Mr. Man, if you are surely selfish (which, of course, you aren't) how do you enjoy going home to a cross-tired, perhaps crying wife, whose nerves are all unstrung from over-exertion?

Home washing is drudgery—because unnecessary.

It was all in the twinkling of an eye as the novelist might put it. And it was the twinkling of an eye that made folks recognize H. E. Hite in "Whoist" last week. The hat might have been a bit puzzling, but it couldn't fool acquaintances of H. E. Hite when they noted the usual mirth in his eyes.

Bill's Car Wouldn't Start So Joyriders Pick on LaPoint's

Bill McCormick, local mail carrier carries a lot of determination, almost to a point of stubbornness, one might say. Whether or not it gets him anything, it is up to somebody else to say. But Bill's Ford has developed the same traits, and thus saved himself being the means of somebody's joy ride. Somebody tried to take it away from near the house about 3 o'clock the other morning, but it wouldn't start. So the revelers picked on Cy LaPoint's car, standing near that home at the corner of 5th and Minnesota. They joyridered for a couple of hours, brought it back and deserted it in the middle of the street. Bill says it pays to have your car insured.
