

BIG CONFESS TO ACTS OF THEFT

GAS STOLEN FROM CARS, TIRES, AND DOCK PROPERTY TAKEN

The mystery of the thievery and acts of devilry which have been going on about the city for the past several months was cleared up this week when the police department rounded up seven local lads, who have confessed to the stealing.

Much of the property, the total value which is in the neighborhood of about $100 has already been turned over to the police department. This includes four tires stolen from cars, and three from the Swedish Baptist Church about a month ago, eight kits of tools taken from cars, and one from a truck.

A battery stolen from the Quality Bakery has also been returned. The complaint of gas being let out of cars has been a common one. Many motorists have complained upon parking their cars for a short time and returning to find their gas tank empty.

The boys also admitted making an effort to steal gasoline from the Wadams tank on North 23d Street, owned by Soren Johnson.

How the boys will be dealt with has not been decided. Officer Torvald Kallstrom, who is handling the case in the absence of Chief Lindahl, stated that those who are old enough will be tried in Justice court and those under age will appear before a probate judge.

BUILT BY ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH

St. Paul's Lutheran Congregation will construct a modern church building at the corner of 12th and Minnesota. The building, which will be wood construction, will cost about $7,000.

The capacity of the new church will be about 250, to provide for an increase in the congregation members. Rev. Theophil Hoffman is the pastor of the church.

$300. FIRE DAMAGES AT COOPERAGE YARDS

Fire in the wooden inclosure led to the water tank in the W. Cooperage Company's yards caused damage to the extent of $300 about eleven o'clock Wednesday morning. The fire is thought to have had its origin from sparks from nearby smoke stacks.

The water tank, which is the water reserve in case of fire, has an iron pipe leading from it and this has a wooden inclosure about five feet in diameter. Sawdust is packed around the pipe to keep it from freezing in the winter time. The dry sawdust aided the flames in traveling down the pipe, and about twelve feet of its length was burned before the blaze was in control.

Whozit?

Here's one that's going to test your memory, but probably the old timers will know who 'tis. Just for a hint he's a former Escanaba attorney, now out west, and like all County seat lawyers, must have visited around Gladstone frequently.

MRS. A. Z. WHITE CALLED BEYOND

Death took one of Gladstone's first settlers, and highly respected citizens, when Mrs. A. Z. White, age 76, passed away Thursday morning at 2:15 o'clock at her home at 22 N. 7th street.

Death was not entirely unexpected. Mrs. White had been suffering for some time with heart disease, and complications brought on by old age.

Her niece Miss Margaret Morrison of Escanaba was with her during her last illness, and Mrs. W. O. Baldwin who lives on the second floor of Mrs. White's home, assisted her greatly during her illness.

Mrs. White was born in Ireland, and came to this country as a young girl. The family settled in Vermont from where Mrs. White came forty years ago as a bride to make her home in Gladstone.

Mrs. White was a member of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters. Her kindness and eager desire to be of help to others at all times, had won for her a place in the hearts of young and old alike, and her passing is mourned by many.

Joke Isn't On The Plumbers Ernest DeHooghe Says; Tells Of Faith In City's Future

Plumbers have been made the "goats" for that standard joke about their ability to forget some of their tools, and make a trip back to the shop for them before they can proceed with the work at hand. Then they're supposed to have to make at least two or three trips back for more supplies before the job is completed.

All in all, the total number of hours on the job is greatly increased by their time enroute to and fro.

Ernest DeHooghe, proprietor of Gladstone's only plumbing shop, says a good plumber doesn't forget his tools. That standard joke has sprung up through people phoning for the services of a plumber and explaining one kind of repair needed and when he goes to their home equipped to handle that type of job, he finds it's of an entirely different nature. Of course that's the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Dumas.

ADVICE STAT OFF HOTEL SURVEY

Members of the Gladstone City club meeting Wednesday night at the Cedar Hotel requested their secretary, A. T. Solberg, to enter in an agreement with the Hockenbury System, Inc. for the purpose of their making a survey to determine the hotel needs of Gladstone. This report will be submitted at a later date and the club may accept or reject it regardless of the recommendations made.

HOCKENBURY SYSTEM TO DETERMINE NEEDS AND MAKE FORMAL REPORT

The Hockenbury System has been in existence since 1911 and they have assisted as consultants and directors of hotel enterprises throughout the United States and Canada. Under the plan adopted by them about 60 per cent of the hotel cost is placed with stockholders, the balance outside capital. The representatives remain in charge while the stock is being sold, while the building is under construction and up to the date including the opening night. Operating companies may be secured to conduct the establishment, or a local committee may determine that to suit local conditions.

Several different experts in various lines will be sent to Gladstone to make reports before a definite recommendation will be made by the committee. Franklin Campbell, who has been a representative of the Hockenbury System spoke at Wednesday night's meeting, being introduced by H. C. Campbell, president of the club. Mr. Campbell declared that there was an apparent need for a hotel of at least 40 rooms all modern, but that he could not determine definitely the details until his company had been permitted to send experts to study the local situation. The investment would run between $100,000 and $150,000.

There will be two awards given first for highest honors in class work in the 8th grade to Leo Weingartner, and the second to Albert Kinkehl. Both awards are gold medals, and are the gift of Rev. Mother, Mary Rose of Escanaba, Kansas. The diplomas and the awards will be presented by Rev. S. Maier, pastor.

Chats with The Editor

MONDAY next is the day to elect two trustees for the conduct and control of Gladstone's schools. The election will take place at the annual meeting to open at 7:30 in the evening, and both of the members whose terms expire at this time, Mrs. Wm. L. Marble and Helmer J. Skogquist, are expected to be candidates for election.

The expenses have been budgeted, with provision for the retirement of the bonded debt at the rate of $13,000 annually, making a reduction possible through the lowering of the interest charges each year. While the report of expenditures for the year just closing will not be available until July, it appears that the board has not gone beyond the appropriations made a year ago, making unnecessary any loans to complete the term.

Monday night's meeting should be of short duration, regardless of the manner of candidates elected, as under the new law trustees may be elected by a plurality vote. In recent years under the graded school law requiring a majority to elect, there is a record of as many as four ballots to elect a single trustee. Also the new law gives the taxpayer no vote in the tax appropriation for the schools, so that this part of the school business need not be taken up at the meeting. This does not absolve the taxpayer of the responsibility of participating in the election, however, as the success of the schools depends upon the interest taken by the taxpayers, through their representatives. Obviously, these representatives can not take the same whole-hearted interest in the schools unless they know that their efforts are noticed and appreciated. It should be remembered that it is a free service that a school trustee must render; but it is not necessarily a thankless one.

TOO much of a good thing is bad. It is that way with the control systems of traffic. Surveys now show that the traffic signal craze is overdone, stop lights that are a nuisance rather than an advantage. The survey, made by the American Engineering Council, discloses two notable errors. One is to place signals without any adequate study of the traffic conditions they are intended to improve, and the second is to use them at places and at times not justified by the conditions.

The inevitable result, says the report, will be a public recognition of these errors and a consequent disregard of all unnecessary regulations, which will lead to the ultimate defeat of what should be most useful and effective methods of traffic control. The mechanical automatic traffic signal is credited with being the most effective facility, but the report adds, "Like all good things there is an unfortunate tendency to overdo its application, with the result that such signals have been installed indiscriminately without analysis of the probable effect, and are operated at times when there is no possible justification. Three serious consequences are likely to follow: "First, a growing tendency on the part of impatient drivers to disregard the signal, a habit that will ultimately terminate the usefulness of all signals. "Second, utilization of the opportunity by criminals to hold up law-abiding citizens who happen to be stopped alone at isolated locations, especially at night. "Third, general dispersion of traffic from main thoroughfares to unimproved side streets, where the accident hazard, especially to children, will be greatly increased."

It all comes back to our first declaration—too much of a good thing is bad. President Coolidge is going up near Superior, Wis. for his summer White House. That means that many folks will want to travel north this summer, and among them will be many who will learn for the first time of this delightful climate. The skeptics who think we freeze year around are going to have their eyes opened to what it means to live in this invigorating climate of which we boast. When they find it true of Superior and environs in Wisconsin they may be expected to cast their eyes at their road maps and discover that northern Michigan is just "next door."

We know that President Coolidge, members of his household and his official family, all will enjoy their summer stay in northern Wisconsin. As Cal sits along the banks of a beautiful brook, speculating on the odds turns of his political fortunes, and waiting for the "bite" that brings him back to earth, we can't help but feel that he will reflect on the wonders of his surroundings and feel amazed that his advisors did not sooner direct him into this region. Even Presidents must learn that the United States does not start and end with the states bordering on the Atlantic.

WALL Street is said to be against the election of Hoover. The worst thing that can ever be said for a candidate, it is customary to deny all connections, although after the list of campaign contributors are made known, it is generally learned that both parties have been fitted largely by stock brokers and their followers. Candidates don't always take chances, not when they can straddle.

THE decision to go ahead with the hotel survey gives some hope that a means will be provided to take care of the growing need for first class hotel accommodations. Then, too, it will be in the hands of a company with over 15 years experience in the hotel planning and building business, giving every assurance that their findings may be relied upon to work out as will be indicated by the survey. There is no obligation incurred by the City Club in sponsoring the movement, the results of the survey may be accepted or rejected, and even if the proposition looked promising, there is nothing to compel the club to proceed with the plans.

A modern fireproof hotel is a town asset and it is proper that activity to provide it should come from a group of citizens interested in promoting the interests and development of their city. There is no thought of working against the hotels already established. Everything will be done to assure their continued operation, and this can be expected even should a modern new hotel building be added to the facilities already available. It is a case of supplementing the personal ambitions of the few in the interests of the city as a whole. It was this same spirit which motivated groceryman and meat dealer in working for the successful establishment of a farmer's market. While realizing that it would interfere with some lines they handled, they were willing to see this sacrifice made in order that Gladstone might have a well established farm market, helping the farmers as well as the consumers in the city.

The new hotel must come, sooner or later. The sooner, the better, appears to be the popular thought.

EVERY upper peninsula city represented at the recent music contest at Marquette seems to demand all honors. Marquette and Soo newspapers engaged an editorial tilt over merit, and in commenting upon this, the Iron River Reporter says: "If any high school band has cause for feeling decidedly disappointed in a judge's decision it ought to be the Iron River High School Band." Escanaba has taken its defeat gracefully (for Escanaba) but there have been murmurs that all at other quarters, which all goes to show that the judge's lot is not a pleasant one. There is this much to remember about such awards. The judge MUST make a decision, and only ONE school may be first. The difference in the training, ability and performance of the various competing organizations may be ever so slight, but regardless of the outcome there are bound to be disappointed participants. But this much is reassuring—the spirited support for each local organization indicates that all are good, and also that they will not be wanting for lackings.

ESCANABA'S first annual track meet was a decided success and there is reasonable expectation that it will continue as an annual event growing each year more important. This is predicted by the large number of schools participating, the attendance and the value of the trophies, the latter contributed by county seat business firms, and to become the property of the schools winning them three times. The success of the track event was made more certain by the splendid athletic field provided. A quarter mile cinder track has been laid, and with suitable and conveniently located bleacher accommodations for the public, there is every reason to believe that interest will mount with each passing year. With the public taking an interest in the track events, the students will likewise take a different view of these athletic contests applying themselves more in the hopes of making a better showing for themselves and the schools they represent.

Gladstone, despite its sad lack of a suitable athletic field, has been making better than a creditable showing, and the added incentive of public support and interest would do much for the establishment of the track and field events on a larger scale.

WHY DO people buy books they do not want, and then, after the glib-tongued salesman has departed, reproach themselves for being so "soft"? It seems that Gladstone is recognized as an easy spot for most every book salesman lands here to dispose of his wares. Sometimes they are of value, more often they are not, or at least they are sold for more than they are worth. These salesmen come into town with their stereotyped sales talk, people will listen and even though they know they did not want the books, will buy rather than refuse.

A good thing to remember is that if books or articles being offered by a peddler are of real worth, they can be secured directly by mail or through a dealer at a later time and after the prospective buyer has had time to weigh the selling points in the light of actual need or desire. This is difficult to do while the salesman is reciting his sales talk. It is usually cheaper and easier to turn him away in the first place. After the money is paid, there is no chance to get it back.

THE 11th District came near getting into disfavor. It was a mistake, of course, and resulted from an error made by the Washington Herald in printing a picture of our representative, Dr. Frank P. Bohm of Newberry, who was represented as a former socialist now employed as a lobbyist for the power interests. But of course it developed that Dr. Bohm so employed was an entirely different man, and the Capital newspaper has sent out a correction. Now everything is all right again, and everybody knows that Rep. Bohm is confining his activities to the interests of his district and Nation, with the power trust receiving no more consideration than it is due.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. has a modern market where shoppers may pick their groceries, meats and other necessities without getting out of their cars. A drive way through the aisle of the store, with revolving shelves, provides this up-to-the-minute shopping center. That sounds a bit lazy, but it is in line with progress, nevertheless.

THE Conservation Department asks motorists to use care when domestic or wild life strays out on the highway. It has been found that the loss suffered from the speeding automobile mounts up to an alarming figure, a loss that it will be impossible to make up.

SOME people are popular through their natural talents, while others, auto manufacturers particularly, become so by prying women drivers.

A good laugh is like a ray of sunshine. Don't trust to luck anything you can do yourself.

Don't forget, we handle all sizes of grades and colors, Johns-Manville Asphalt Shingles and roll roofing. We will save you money on your roofing orders.

Life would be a dull experience if we knew what it all means. Sheet rock will board takes the place of bath slab and plaster as it is nailed direct to the studs. It saves and nails like lumber and the cost is less, when you consider the labor saved in getting it onto the wall.

Abie was sent home with a note from the teacher which told his mother that Abie smelled bad and needed a bath. At the bottom of the note Mrs. Kalinsky wrote the following: "My Abie is no rose. Don't smell him, teach him."

Cliff Marker has just completed re-roofing his residence with John's Manville Jumbo Varietized Asphalt Shingles, at a saving of approximately forty dollars as compared with the price the Chicago outfit were asking for their roll roofing. Looks like some of our good citizens are getting smart.

Not Surprising. "I thought you said you gave your horse turpentine for last week's colic." "So—Well I gave my horse some yesterday and he died."

Foolish Question. "Son—Pa, what is the difference between capital and labor?" "Pa—Well, the money you lend represents capital and getting it back represents labor, my son."

SCHOOL BOARD IN FINAL MEET.

SCHOOL ELECTION, MONDAY WHEN TWO TRUSTEES ARE TO BE ELECTED

The board of education held a meeting Friday evening at the high school at which time several matters of importance were discussed and passed upon. The meeting was attended by a fair number of taxpayers who were interested in the topics before the board members. The school board has only four members at the present time because of the resignation of Carl Peterson who recently moved to Brownstown. His resignation was read and accepted at the meeting Friday night. The members present were Carl O. Carlson, Alex Robertson, H. A. Harris and Oliver Neveu. It was the last meeting of the present school board.

After accepting the resignation of Mr. Peterson, the board passed on a number of bills presented. Contracted for teachers for the rural schools and for two in the high school was acted upon and accepted by the board. There is one vacancy in the teaching force of the high school, Miss Anna Kelly, Mathematics instructor, having accepted a better position near her home in Iowa. All the other teachers will return for the next school year.

ED. OLSON PITCHES 11 INNING VICTORY

Ed. Olson pitched Gladstone to a brilliant 4 to 2 eleven inning victory at Nahma on Sunday afternoon against Vic Tebo in a brilliant pitching battle that left the outcome of the game in doubt until the eleventh inning when Olson, Switzer opened with a slusher three batters Johnson grounded out and Paddy Gregory was walked and then Tony Gregory came through with a single, the combination bringing in two runs.

Gladstone started early, making two runs in the ordinary frame on walks to A. Kircher and Burroughs, followed by a single by Switzer and two long flies by G. Johnson and P. Gregory. That was all Gladstone's scoring until the 11th already referred to. Nahma made a run on the walk on a hit batsman and two singles. Then in the ninth the Nahma crew tied the count at 2 all. Agin Edder lost control and hit the first batsman who scored on a single by Brophy. That was all Nahma's scoring although in the 11th after Gladstone had scored two runs its slugs threatened. In this inning a single by Butler and a double by Brophy were wanted by the fast work of the Gladstone infield. Gladstone gave a fine exhibition of fielding, being credited with 33 put outs and 22 assists without an error. Nahma was almost as good making 16 assists and 33 put outs with only one error. The locals also had two double plays to their credit.

THE GREAT MAIL ROBBERY

PEIER, MILNB
WALTER R. EBERHARDT
Copyright 1927 by PBO Pictures Corporation
From The Photoplay "THE GREAT MAIL ROBBERY"

SYNOPSIS

Lieutenant MacDowell and his pal Sgt. Bill Smith of the marines, are detailed to duty at Yellow Cavern where a number of mail robberies have taken place. Soon after they arrive the bandits, led by Captain Davis and Howard, dynamite a train which is guarded by a few marines. Howard seizes the bandits and tries to call for help. Soon a fleet of aeroplanes arrive, and Howard, who is apparently one of the robbers, goes up in one of the machines. Laura Phelps, his sweetheart, has been captured by the bandits.

As the machine hovered low Howard strained for a sight of Laura but was unsuccessful. Davis had evidently guarded her safety but she was caught in the net of an assuring. Supposing he tried to use her as a hostage? Occasionally one of the bandits, panic stricken tried to make a dash for it. The result was always certain and unvarying. There would be a swoop by one of the swooping planes, a rattle of machine gun fire that sounded like a tiny fire cracker to those on the ground and the running figure would suddenly disappear to the ground and remain quiet. Davis attempted to encourage his men by saying that night time would give them their opportunity but he was far from believing the confidence he tried to impart to his men.

The moment Sergeant Lyons' column halted into sight the pilot of Howard's machine gave the signal for the others to continue their patrol duty and then sought and found a landing place at the south of the arroyo.

The most urgent thing was to battle up the far end of the arroyo and relieve the airplanes of further duty. The only direct path to the arroyo itself. The alternative of transporting the men by airplane, a tedious job in which only a few could be taken at a time, was fortunately, was short.

Within another half hour the south end of the bottle shaned had been thoroughly corked by a dozen waiting marines armed to the teeth, ready for the rush that they confidently expected would mark the beginning of the end.

With the assurance that the planes had done their duty Howard and his pilot landed for a consultation. To attack the arroyo would have been a useless sacrifice of life. Nature had provided a natural fortress where one man could have held the entrance against a force of men.

"Not a drop that I could see," the flight commander answered. "Don't suppose they've got much food."

"The pilot shook his head. "Night is what they're waiting for. They'll make a rush then, on the chance that some of them can get away."

Howard pondered over that. "Can we smoke them out?" "No grass to start a prairie fire. And it's too long to suffer the heat."

"Did you bring any tear bombs?" Howard asked. "No." The pilot admitted a pardonable oversight. "But we've got them at Fort Dennison. We can make it and back by five o'clock."

Howard summoned Sergeant Lyons. "Keep both ends of the canyon covered," he ordered. "Don't let a man escape. If they still show fight when we get back we'll drive them out with tear gas."

The signal was passed quickly to the other planes. In turn the message was conveyed to the marines guarding the northern end of the arroyo.

The men shouted their encouragement, heartened by the thought that while they itched to fight the plan under way would save lives. In his cave hideout Davis and Gray Eye saw the plan bearing Howard take off and disappear toward the horizon. They eyed it gloomily.

Copyright 1927 by PBO Pictures Corporation

"What in hell do you suppose they're up to now?" Davis asked.

"How should I know?" Gray Eye growled. "If you hadn't tried that damn fool of a soldier—"

Davis silenced him. Laura was listening. He still could sense power over her in the belief that Howard was one of the gang and would break his vengeance on her. He had told her that, repeatedly, during their ride out and used it as a threat to keep her submissive. But Gray Eye was unintentional in carrying his message to Laura. She was still uncertain, but it gave her a shred of hope, the first she had known in many years.

There was a flash of daylight left when the plane bearing Howard dove into night again. They had done miraculous time, with scarcely a ten minute delay. It was a supply of tear gas that would have brought water from the eyes of a sergeant.

Sergeant Lyons sighted the plane when it was still twenty miles off bearing down like an eagle upon the scene of battle. Previously he had carried the message to the marines at the other end of the arroyo that the arrival of the plane was to be designated by a signal that would order a general advance.

Lyons gave the signal now, the firing of a rifle three times in quick succession. At the same instant his men left their protecting drouzys and rushed along the ground. Bullets spat around them and they returned the fire whenever, looking down the corrugated duct of rocks, they could see something to aim at.

For the most part, however, they conserved their ammunition, intent upon their goal of gaining close quarters.

They had no foolhardy intention of rushing the bandits in a death it was too obviously suicide to attempt it where a corporal's guard could have held this Thermopylae of the Rockies. The purpose of the advance was to cover the avenues of escape with a dragnet of men, without, however, running the risk of casualties from the flood of tear gas that would eventually rain from the sky.

Howard's plane glided gracefully to a perfect landing on the level, near where it had made its initial descent. In response to signals two of the other planes dived slowly and then settled on circling skid until they reached a landing area.

The three pilots assembled and Howard outlined the plan of battle. Two huge bags, containing tear bombs, were divided with the later arrivals. It took a team of men to carry them.

The pilot of Howard's machine re-entered the cockpit and waited for Howard to follow before starting "Go in now," he asked.

"No," Howard answered. He was thinking of Laura among the bandits and how he could save her when the attack started.

"O. K.," the pilot nodded. "Just routine what we're going to do to them. The real work will come after."

Howard pondered over that. "Can we smoke them out?" "No grass to start a prairie fire. And it's too long to suffer the heat."

"Did you bring any tear bombs?" Howard asked. "No." The pilot admitted a pardonable oversight. "But we've got them at Fort Dennison. We can make it and back by five o'clock."

Howard summoned Sergeant Lyons. "Keep both ends of the canyon covered," he ordered. "Don't let a man escape. If they still show fight when we get back we'll drive them out with tear gas."

The signal was passed quickly to the other planes. In turn the message was conveyed to the marines guarding the northern end of the arroyo.

JOKE ISN'T ON PLUMBERS

ERNEST DEHOOGHE SAYS

Mr. DeHooghe's version of how that well known joke on plumbers developed.

"I always try to take the proper tools with me, even though I have to use my imagination to do it," he stated. "And when I go any distance, which I take half the shop along."

Purchased Schwab Shop
Ernest DeHooghe bought the plumbing business of George Schwab one of the old time residents of Gladstone and a plumber for the last forty years, in October of 1926. He had been employed by Mr. Schwab for three years previous to that, and they simply turned tables.

Mr. DeHooghe became the proprietor of the business, and Mr. Schwab his assistant, instead of vice versa. They have continued handling plumbing jobs together since.

Worked for Krueger
He got his first experience in the plumbing trade working for H. J. Krueger, now deceased, as a young lad. He had planned that he was going to be a plumber, come what would and after graduating from the 8th grade at All Saints Parochial School he obtained work with Mr. Krueger. The Krueger shop was located in the basement of what is now the Granberg Shoe Shop, then occupied by the Goldstein Clothing Store.

His first job was welding a pick and shovel, plain digging to put in a sewer connection but he was as pleased right then with his opportunity to have a part in its installation as he would have been with an important plumbing job.

He continued in the employ of Mr. Krueger for two years. When he went north long before color took its place in their minds, and they preferred the tinted skin to the white one at home.

ferred the tinted skin to the white one at home. Of business, he went to Marquette and worked for about eighteen months, at his chosen trade. He then returned to Gladstone and took work with Mr. Schwab.

Have Faith in City
To people who think that Gladstone residents are doubtful about further developing their city and their homes, Mr. DeHooghe has to say that there is an increased amount of new plumbing equipment being installed in homes in this city. This spring and also during the spring season a year ago, noticed a considerable increase. Spring and fall are the big seasons in new equipment. Whenever a sewer is built in another street, those residents are quick to take advantage of it, and have modern fixtures placed in their homes.

The DeHooghe plumbing shop aims to give twenty-four hour service whenever possible. Both men are out at all hours on plumbing repair jobs, and from this time on a girl will be at the shop to answer all phone calls. The shop is also open in the evening.

The greatest percentage of the work is repair work. Mr. DeHooghe said, "Installation of equipment comes only seasonally. During the winter months, freeze-ups keep us busy. Let a zero spell of weather come, and you can't get off quickly enough."

Mr. DeHooghe has recently added a line of wash machines to his stock and the latest in plumbing equipment, light colored enamel fixtures. The days of plain white sinks are over. Color is playing a bigger part than ever, and housewives are looking for beauty as well as for convenience. Sinks and bathroom fixtures are being manufactured in all the shades of the rainbow.

When Mr. DeHooghe first placed a green sink on display, many women scrutinized it carefully as they passed by it.

CHAMP CLARK once made a speech that will long be remembered by his former colleagues. He said that a "congressional district is what it picks a good man and then re-elects him just as long as he is willing to serve."

He pointed out that a congressman must learn his job and that when he has learned it, it is all kinds of foolishness for a district to swap him off for an inexperienced person. Sitting members like to have their constituents read that speech.

GENERAL PERSHING, able executive, popular person, is being mentioned from time to time as an available man for the Republican presidential nominee if the Kansas City convention gets into a jam and has to make a sudden turn to a new man. The general isn't expecting the nomination; but he won't turn it down.

THE CHANCES are, however, that General Pershing really would be a much pleased person if his buddy, Gen. Charles G. Dawes should turn up as the G. O. P. nominee. Their friendship began back in the Omaha, Neb. days and it was continued during the world war.

THE INSIDE story is that Hoover, to win, must do it by the third ballot; if he fails by that ballot he is through. But who will turn up as a nominee, in event Hoover is halted, is another question. It's most anybody's guess. Some say Coolidge, others say emphatically Dawes. Some whisper Hughes. And Senator Curtis also gets a mention. And then there is Lowden. It's a cinch there will be no nomination on the first ballot. But from there no one knows what is going to happen. MENTAL DISORDERS (Paper delivered by Dr. E. H. Campbell before the meeting of the Newberry Study Club.) The prevailing ignorance concerning mental disease shows itself everywhere throughout society...

In Michigan between seven and eight thousand definitely insane persons are cared for in the State Hospitals at a yearly cost of better than three million dollars, and even at that, every institution is overcrowded as to be unable to do its best for its patients.

There is a considerable group brought on by physical causes such as alcoholism, and various toxic states, those produced by syphilis, etc. Then there follows the much larger group such as the paranoid, manic depressive and dementia praecox, whose origin is not clear.

Next to the common cold the most common of human ailments and which add largely to the sum total of human unhappiness are the minor disorders of neurosis, hyster-is etc. They and they alone have created the various cults, such as Christian Science, the Chiropractor, Coeism, "chew your food a hundred times," "dig your feet in dew," etc.

Each one of us at some time have been neurotic. You find yourself unduly fatigued, mildly pessimistic about everything, all joys seem non-existent and your own body and mind concentrates all of their attention, sleep and appetite are disturbed.

One knows from their own experience that heredity plays a very large part in the make up of individuals but to believe that heredity is the cause of all nervous and mental diseases, delinquency, crime etc. is to assume an entirely pessimistic attitude.

Just when the physicians had begun to reason that this condition among the men was caused by the effect of disturbance of air pressure on the ear drums and other such matters, still shock began to arise among men who had never been subjected to gun fire.

A meeting of the Young Ladies Sodality of All Saints Catholic church was held recently at the Parish hall. There was a brief business meeting followed by a presentation of hymns for which new members which will take place soon. Dancing was enjoyed following.

one developed an illness, a blindness, a paralysis, etc. he was at once sent to the rear. As far as the patient is concerned it is an unaccountable thing that occurs and seems which are difficult to face do not have to be faced. If I could today have developed a headache or went to a gastro-intestinal condition this appearance before you could have been side-stepped and I should have no further to say.

If one were asked to advise in reference to adult difficulties I think the first factor would be the incalculable proper habits of sleep and appetite. Sixteen hours of consciousness is enough. Any more is too much of a good thing. As to food it is not well to place too much faith in various diets. One who has reached the years of judgment should know what articles of diet to leave alone, but leaving them alone be sure that the mental impressions as a result of the articles of diet are not influencing your judgment.

You will remember that James K. Jervey once wrote that he had read of them but housemaid's knee. It doesn't pay to search our emotional life too intently. One is apt to discover things not pleasant and certainly not conventional. It goes without saying I think, that our emotions should be controlled. The so-called losing of one's temper is a trait carried over from childhood and the cure which is given the child might be many times repeated in adult life.

THE Senate Committee has reported out favorably the Robinson bill eliminating the Pullman surcharge. This action, while apparently a popular one, is class legislation and as such is bound to involve losses not only to the railroads, but to the traveling public who ride in the day coaches and to a number of communities that no longer sleeping car service.

TO THE Railroads, it involves immediately a loss of $40,000,000 in revenue annually, which will have to be made up somehow. The surcharge is the only revenue that the railroads get for the hauling of the heavier equipment and the incidental special service of parking this equipment at the stations and in coach yards.

SINCE the Pullman sleeping car passenger enjoys greater comfort than does the passenger in the day coach, he should expect to pay for the added comfort. The Pullman passenger is allotted two and one half times as much space as the person riding in the day coach.

RAILROADS have only two main sources of income—passenger revenues and freight revenues. THE wiping out of $40,000,000 annually in passenger revenues involved in the abolition of the surcharge on Pullman fares must inevitably do one of three things—

- 1. Result in cutting down of passenger train service now provided by American Railroads; 2. Restricting sleeping car service on the less prosperous lines; 3. Or, shifting the burden of the loss upon the shippers of freight.

IT is a good principle of business at all times to require the person who enjoys a special service to pay for that special service. THE Pullman surcharge requires just that.

THE abolition of the surcharge, therefore, constitutes extra or sumptuary legislation, which is not desirable in this day and age. THE railroads do not object to governmental regulation by the proper tribunal—the Interstate Commerce Commission—constituted to deal with the transportation industry exclusively.

The Graduation Gift— why it should come from our store

WISELY, for the graduation gift you will select a good watch. That has always been the favored gift for graduation.

But in selecting this watch you should give much thought to style, for the person to receive it is young.

And it is here that you may be somewhat perplexed. What is the style in watches?

For young men, the trend is decidedly away from the round watch. The woman's preference is for the rectangular wristlet. For maximum service from a watch of this shape, it should be of the Gruen Cartouche type of construction.

We urge your inspection of our large stock of Gruen Quartz Watches, and welcome the opportunity to explain their superiorities.
