Chats with The Editor

THIS writer withheld expressing any opinion on the charge made in the daily newspapers that the Michigan weekly newspapers were in the pay of the power trust, as dictated by the federal trade commission's public utility investigation.

We hoped that the man who was accused as the agent of the trust at a monthly stipend of $150 might see fit to satisfactorily explain his position. This he has had an opportunity to do, but nowhere in the issue of the Jonia County News of July 5 do we find any reference whatsoever to the editorial subject. No man is guilty until proven so, but by the same token a charge as serious as the one made demands refutation before the accused may hope to win back his good standing.

The charge is more serious than simply to have accepted money from the power trust—it involves the betrayal of the countless number of weekly newspaper publishers who were proud to call Fred D. Knester their friend, and who looked up to him as a worthy leader.

A brief summary of the facts upon which the charge is based will disclose that the newspapers are blameless and that the responsibility rests entirely upon the one man. Some three or four years ago there was a discussion of a means that might be employed to encourage editors to write columns in all weekly newspapers, for many of the smaller papers overlooked this important phase of their newspaper work.

But it seems that sandwiched among these were slighted in articles absolutely and positively nothing more than propaganda for the power trusts. It was for these that Mr. Knester was alleged to have received the money, and we are sure that he was being represented by the Michigan workers.

Regarding the groundless charge insofar as it affects the individual papers, the Association is going to suffer a serious setback through the disclosures of Mr. Knester's activities, though the reasons of his leadership in the organization and it is now up to the members and the officers to do everything in their power to prove how unswerving was the charge.

Far from helping the utility trusts in blinding the public to their rights, this writer holds the opinion that fortunate indeed is the city that OWNS AND CONTROLS its utilities, especially electric, water and street railway where the latter service is indispensable to the municipality's development.

Government ownership may be socialist when it involves the ordinary line of merchandise that may be secured from many sources where competition controls price under private management, but when it comes to such essentials as fire and water service, the people have a right to a voice as to the manner in which those utilities shall be run.

We have purposely refrained from including telephones and railroads from the above category for the reason that while they are classed as necessities, they are not indispensable to the average household in the same sense that the others are daily necessities.

That which we have, our material possessions, give us the prestige which the human enjoys while on this earth. But after death these possessions are as nothing and only that which has been done for others remains to endure the memory of the departed.

THERE are so many things that need be done to make a city all that it should be. Take Gladstone. It needs a playground, somebody had to take the initiative. The PTA did and now the boys and girls of Gladstone have a fine place in which to play and romp.

These are a few of the needs. And there isn't any designated agency provided for these things unless some of the citizens take it upon themselves. And that is what the Gladstone City Club has been and will continue to do, not for the private gain of any individual or individuals, but for the general good of the greatest number.

It takes vision, and cities are built by the vision of a few men. We like to live in them. We like to see ourselves of that, because it helps to pull us out of a common ailment of "resting on our oars" and letting the other fellow do the pulling.

Perhaps it helps to remember the old illustration of the two mules tied together and each pulling for a separate mound of hay, getting nowhere until they agreed to state of each hunger they travelled together to consume one mound and turning T.O. GETHER to consume the other.

Senator Herbert F. Rushton has reconsidered his decision not to again be a candidate, and early this week announced that he would allow his name to be entered on the primary election ballot. The news was accompanied with the announcement that two other candidates, Atty. J. J. Herbert of Manistique and Eugene Brown of St. Ignace have consented to withdraw their names.

Senator Rushton was prominent in the activities of the last legislature, being listed with the leaders in the most important enactments, and his nomination and re-election at the writing appears assured. Formerly the newspapers and their actors in politics who had endorsed Atty. Herbert of Manistique will transfer their support to the incumbent, for it is recognized that the two were closely allied in their ideas of what should be taken up at the 1927 session.

ADVICE that costs nothing is worth as much. That is an old saying proven true by all who have been foolish enough to pass out freely of their advice. But sometimes there is satisfaction in telling some worthless individual just what you think of him.

Confidence is necessary in most every spot. Consider, if you will, the Detroit Tigers. Down they are now at the bottom of the American League standings. Once a team hits the bottom, every other team feels that it can be used as a stepping stone for those going up.

Confidence is an asset in all things of this life. Not over-confidence, for that is a detriment. The difference is that there is no percentage column in the game of life, like there is in all lines of sport, unless it is the bank account. But that is a false precept for one may win material wealth and may be at the bottom of the standings when the worth while things of life are being thought of.

WHENEVER a party platform maker is in a tight place on a party plank he falls back on former greats—Abraham Lincoln if he is a Republican and Thomas Jefferson if it is a Democratic party sought. And George Washington can always be misquoted by the other party for our first president was the choice of the people, and not of any party.

They will spend the summer at Houghton where the groom is taking a course at the College of Mines, and in the fall they will go to St. Paul where Mr. Wals will complete his studies at the University of Minnesota.

The Fourth of July celebration proved too much for the Opera House legions. After the guests had departed, it pitched headlong into the street with a dining room like a thousand of bricks. A Fox who was present, congratulated himself that he had not collided with it.

G. E. Hinchey moved on Wednesday to the residence vacated by E. H. Wisner. The Fourth of July was celebrated both well and long in Gladstone this year, in spite of the dampness prevailing all day. There was little noise in the early morning as many enjoyed a long sleep.

Eleventh street is now being paved with crushed rock to the Ace Factory. Delta Avenue continues barricaded while the street gang sweep the loose rock from the pavement. Twin sons were born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Constant Schoonert. A daughter was born Sunday, July 5, to Mr. and Mrs. John I. Day.

CURRENT COMMENT

BOXING AT THE FAIR (Norway Current)

The county fair directors are making up their sports schedule and while they are doing all they possibly can to make this year's fair a "bumper," a certain section of the citizenry are requesting a good boxing card to be staged in front of the grand stand Labor Day night.

Real worthwhile young chaps are going to see boxing matches some how or somehow—they're going to watch with keen interest this good old Anglo-Saxon sport, and the fair directors will give the boys a street treat with a Monday evening boxing bout.

Where is the regular fellow who would not carry an extra two bits or a half dollar over the regular addition to see a good boxing bout? It is difficult to find, and the fair directors, faced with a treasury as lean as a Kentucky "cracker," would do well to consider the young men of the county.

IT'S THE MONEY IN THE TRAFFIC

(Crystal Falls Diamond Drill) Editor Chas. of Iron River and Sturgeon of Gladstone are having an argument over the present day liquor traffic. Editor Sturgeon contends that so long as there is a demand for liquor there is the means of supplying it. We should add to Bro. Sturgeon's statement "and there is money to be made in the traffic" for it is money or profit, whichever way you want to put it, in the business that causes men to enter it. It was the easy money in the old saloon business that made the business a crime and it's the enormous profit in the unregulated traffic that keeps bootleggers and saloon operators busy.

And none but those who want to keep saloons were that institution back. It is quite apparent, however, that there is not a majority favoring the absolute prohibition of the use of liquor to those who wish to use it and do so without infringing on the rights of others. This condition has brought about a situation that is bad, had not alone as to all liquor enforcement.

M. P. A. SUMMER OUTING OF 1928 AT VAN ETTAN LAKE LODGE ENJOYABLE; THREE GLORIOUS DAYS FOR MEMBERS

Visit Saradella Farms, Au Sable River Hydro-Electric Plants, Witness Life-Saving Maneuvers, Enjoy Golf, Fishing, Sports, Games and Dancing, and Make Merry to Their Hearts' Content.

(By Philip T. Rich, Midland, Mich.)

It's all over and the boys are back home rubbing their eyes and wondering if it really was true or could it have been a dream. The trip to Van Ettan lake lodge will go down in the history of Michigan Press Association outings as one of the best ever held by the association.

Rain and more rain could not dampen the spirit of so genial a group of folks gathered from every corner of Michigan to celebrate and "just have a good time." In fact it helped to bring them into closer social contact and each went home knowing that he knew "Peck," Mack, Bill, Art, Sam, etc., and their respective families just a little more intimately than he had ever known them before.

It was a great old session that "Peck" Prescott, Bill McGilivray and W. L. Chappelle engineered and the whole entourage (if that means everybody) was unanimous in voting Frank G. Cowley, the smiling host at Van Ettan lodge, their thanks and the appreciation of the association.

You'd never suspect Mr. Cowley, whose hospitality was unlimited, was in charge of the entire estate with its dozen of varied sports and that he was busy personally seeing to it that their guests could never at any time have cause for even the slightest complaint.

It was Thursday morning when the "delegates" began arriving in earnest, although an advanced guard had come to the hotel on Wednesday. Thursday proved a fine day for the trip, a few running into rain in the afternoon, but the majority reporting that it was "great driving."

Van Ettan is located two miles north of Oshtemo, known particularly for its historic fire which destroyed the major portion of the city as well as its sister town of Au Sable, and the flying field used by Selfridge flyers. The lake nestles along the shores of Lake Huron within easy distance of the wild reaches of the Au Sable river and in the heart of northeastern Michigan.

Here 150 of "the boys" and their families dropped "shop" and "cut capers" which would be the envy of any school boy. Herb Wood, Len W. "Fink" Feigener, Bill Berkeley and George Averill had complete possession when the others began to arrive and it is "alleged" that they stayed until the last fish was fished and the final dive was dove.

At any rate the crowd scattered in every direction Thursday. Golf, tennis, riding, fishing, boating, dancing, bridge—all had enthusiasts. Late in the afternoon a rainstorm brought most of the newspaper folks back to the hotel and a night of revelry followed.

Friday morning was cloudy and a misty rain started to fall. The official "sports" program began with Rimecasters G. V. LaBoe's court of Reading, calling off and "Let" Rogers, of Camden, acting the part of "chief clown" and ticket dispenser.

Every one of the events from the winning of Field Manager Len W. Feigener's trophy to the bait casting contest had its "high spots" and thrills aplenty. A large gallery attended all events, part of which took place in the hotel and the rest on the "drive." Excellent prizes had been donated for the affair and helped to swell the list of contestants.

In the afternoon a delegation visited the estate of Karl Schmidt, where a specially conducted tour was arranged. The modern dairy plant on the 12,000 acre tract was inspected first. Here dozens of pure bred Holstein cows with high records for milk and butterfat production form one of the finest herds in all Michigan.

Stalls with stanchions and individual drinking fountains where each cow had a name and "tree," telling all about her own records and those of her ancestors, were just a few of the features. The whole place, is scrubbed and scraped daily and after looking it all over there was a rush to get the milk served to the aggregation at the cooling plant. The horses also were kept in equal style and the calves have a barn all their own where they are taught "manners" before being allowed to associate in the higher register of society.

The "road across the lake" leads directly to the main house of the premises and here one winds around until the menagerie is reached. The children of the party were particularly interested in the fine herd of buffalo and elk. There was a tiny calf with each group of animals which attracted the attention of the scribes and their families.

During the various lulls a bridge tournament was under way in the lodge lobby during the afternoon and evening.

Saturday furnished the only perfect day. Hardly a cloud marred the beautiful blue of the northern Michigan sky and it added new vim to the assembly of the newspaper fraternity.

A trip to the Starbuck Point light-house and coast guard station was on the official program and a group of 18 cars went there to see Capt. T. H. Tice and his crew of six men put on exhibition drills. The light-house was built in 1869 and during the intervening 59 years the great beacon has flashed its guiding light to thousands of ship captains guiding their vessels through the otherwise unmarked expanses of Lake Huron. A climb to the "light" gave an interesting panorama of the surrounding countryside and lake.

Captain Tice and his men braved the heat of a scorching sun to go into "action" for the weekly publishers. An imaginary stranded ship was located on the beach and the rope for the rescue equipment was fired over the spar by use of a small cannon. This has a range of a quarter of a mile and is used to take passengers off the boats when the sea is too rough for life boats. Mrs. Ida Kaufman, secretary of the field manager, of Lansing was the first woman to volunteer for a ride in the breeches buoy. Two others tried to brave the trip over the "sea" but were stranded on the "waves" and the crew was on

Next Year's Outing

The newspaper folks of the Upper Peninsula want the M. P. A. to come to their domain for the 1929 summer outing. We ought to accept, for two reasons: One is that they want us to come, the other is that there is so much about the upper peninsula that the lower peninsula newspaper men ought to see and know. The upper peninsula is not only a vast domain, but a greatly diversified and intensely interesting one. A tour of the great north land would not only be jolly fun, but would be an eye-opener to most of us.

ands of ship captains guiding their vessels through the otherwise unmarked expanses of Lake Huron. A climb to the "light" gave an interesting panorama of the surrounding countryside and lake.

Captain Tice and his men braved the heat of a scorching sun to go into "action" for the weekly publishers. An imaginary stranded ship was located on the beach and the rope for the rescue equipment was fired over the spar by use of a small cannon. This has a range of a quarter of a mile and is used to take passengers off the boats when the sea is too rough for life boats. Mrs. Ida Kaufman, secretary of the field manager, of Lansing was the first woman to volunteer for a ride in the breeches buoy. Two others tried to brave the trip over the "sea" but were stranded on the "waves" and the crew was on the point of exhaustion before they could be "rescued." President W. H. Berkeley, Cassopolis, and R. E. Prescott, Lincoln, submitted to being "saved" when the rescue tests for drowning were demonstrated. Each survived without serious injuries with the exception of Pres. Berkeley claiming the misplacement of a floating rib.

Following a sumptuous dinner—and such meals, (we have never eaten better)—the Consumers Power tour to the Au Sable river dams was in order. The power company had graciously provided two of their instructors, W. E. Jacobs and G. L. Jensen to conduct the party composed of 12 cars along the scenic river.

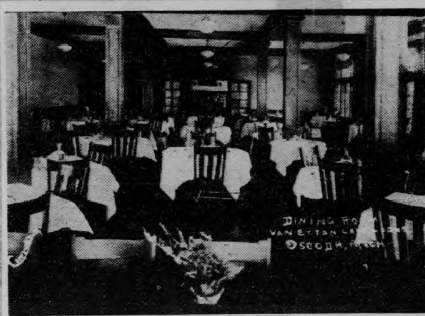

Foot, Cooke and Five Channels dams were visited. No finer scenery can one imagine than the dense country of the Au Sable where mountains of white sand, green forests and a mighty harnessed river blend into one picture. And what a picture! Words cannot adequately describe the Au Sable. Winding through high hills which are rapidly being reforested the great tumbling river has been made into a series of beautiful lakes.

It is 105 miles by river from the first dam at Mio to the last one known as Foot. The Mio dam has a 25 foot head and its back waters cover 700 acres; Alcona is 50 miles downstream, forms a thousand acre lake and a 50 foot head; Loud is 19 miles below and its 25 foot head backs the river over 600 acres; Five Channels is a brief 3 1/2 miles away, its lake covering 550 acres; Cooke has a 1900 acre pond, 42 foot head and is 16 miles by river from Five Channels; Foot is naturally the "lower end," no matter how it is spelled. It forms a 1600 acre body of water and has a 32 foot head.

The theoretical head for all the dams from Mio to Foot would be 378.5 feet and the working capacity is little short of that for the dams. Here, a brief step from the jack pine plains and bisecting them, is one of the greatest power units in the state. The electrical energy, generated by the mad rush of the cold waters from the "peak of Michigan" to Huron, is carried to thousands of industries in every section of the state to say nothing of lighting whole cities and being turned to hundreds of uses.

At Five Channels and the party halted for lunch and A. J. Goulette, who is in charge of the river plants, was the host. The party then returned to Van Ettan, some 22 miles through the charming sand trails and along a scenic route with few parallels.

Sunday morning brought showers and the party began to break up, although some of the group remained at the lodge until after dinner. Before inscribing our "thirty" at the end of this story we cannot help but say that to us it was a wonderful thing, a delightful party at every turn and it has helped to knit the friendships of the Michigan weekly publishers into an inseparable bond.

DINING ROOM, VAN ETTAN LAKE LODGE

The Feminine Viewpoint

(By Natalie Haskins)

The Van Ettan Lake outing was a decided success in the eyes of the wives and daughters of the Michigan Press, judging from the enthusiasm which they displayed and the enjoyment with which they entered into all the activities of the week-end.

Many of the mothers brought their children along and the children became acquainted and enjoyed themselves immensely. The Capt. Howells brought their four interesting children with them. The mothers that left their children at home had the joy of recounting the recent achievements of their youngsters to their friends. Friday morning a group of these mothers was soon gathered together talking earnestly and displaying snapshots which were passed around with an air of great pride and approval. People standing near by became curious as to what the topic of conversation might be and finally Secretary Wood investigated and discovered that these were all proud grandmothers and the topic of conversation was, of course, grandchildren. Mr. Wood soon lined them up and the following women present were enrolled in the "Grandmother's Club": Mrs. John Olney of Grand Rapids, Mrs. A. Van Koevring of Zeeland, Mrs. Len W. Feigener of Nashville, Mrs. Fred Keister of Ionia, Mrs. C. W. Hungerford of Detroit, Mrs. C. M. Rowe of Milford, Mrs. C. F. Grim of Blanchard and Mrs. Dave Hubbell of Crowell. Mrs. VanKoevring was declared the most recent grandmother.

Several of the non-climbable ladies present cast longing eyes at this select group and Mrs. J. B. Haskins was heard to remark that there should be a "Mother-in-law Club" as she knew she could qualify as the most recent in that class. Friday morning the ladies were all enthused over the program of sports and there were many entries in each event despite the inclement weather. In the afternoon five tables of bridge competed for two boxes of candy offered as prizes. Mrs. Henry Goodman of Detroit won first prize and Mrs. Phil Rich of Midland won second prize. Mrs. Let Rogers of Camden seemed to be the only enthusiastic fisherman in the party but her enthusiasm made up for what the others lacked as she was undaunted by the rain and the unwillingness of the fish to bite. Saturday the party drove to Starbuck Point where a coast guard station was visited. Most everyone climbed the light-house and enjoyed the view from the top. The women seemed greatly interested in the graphic description which the captain's wife gave of the life at a coast guard station. During the life saving demonstration Mrs. Kaufman, of the Mich. Press office at Lansing, was the first to volunteer to be rescued in the breeches buoy which is used in bringing passengers ashore from shipwrecks. Mrs. Rich and Miss Jashnow also enjoyed a ride in this novel conveyance. So the three days passed all too quickly for the women members of the party—with visiting, playing bridge, swimming, hiking, playing golf and dancing every one felt that this summer meeting had been worth while. New friendships were formed and old ones renewed and the womenfolk have added one more memory to the chain of happy memories associated with the summer outings of the Michigan Press.

Chippewa Chief Deserts His Tribe Rather Than Quit Beloved Au Sable

East Michigan River, Famous in Poetry, Prose and Song, Mecca For Noted Persons

MADE famous in prose and poetry, and favored with unrivaled scenic splendor along its course of 250 miles past timber-embellished bluffs and grassy moors, bringing kaleidoscopic changes as every turn, the Au Sable in East Michigan is in winter a rendezvous for the hunter and trapper and in summer a romantic adventure for the tourist.

This great aquatic artery, rising in northeastern Michigan near the central part of the lower peninsula, fed by many lakes and countless streams and springs, has an unending charm. Met who have once floated down its waters return to its precincts year after year. An Englishman crossed the Atlantic year after year to fish the river. An Indian chief deserted his tribe rather than leave his fishing and hunting stream. Two Bay City, Michigan, men have made their forty-first annual consecutive pilgrimage to it together and are already planning for next May 1 their forty-second visit.

The river is not only historically and scenically appealing but it has a pleasurable attraction. Postmaster General Harry S. New, of Washington, D. C., has been fishing the stream for 41 years. The late James Oliver Curwood, the novelist, who died in 1927, had a cottage on its banks in which he wrote many of his popular stories. Annually he had as his guests prominent New York publishers and editors. Gene Stratton Porter completed her last book in her cottage on the Au Sable and at the time of her tragic death in California had an option on 15 miles of frontage on this wonderful stream.

R. C. Durant, better known as "CHIT," son of W. C. Durant, founder of General Motors, has a cottage on the South Branch of the Au Sable. "Hideaway," young Durant calls his place. Cliff Durant, knighted chiefly to the public as a sportsman, automobile driver and aviator, plays the stock market from his Au Sable cottage. Freed from the distractions of civilization, he has, from his Au Sable cottage, traded in his issues the number of 10,000 to 20,000 a day. This he achieves through the use of telegraph and telephone wires. Durant has several times been a compelling driver in the automobile race at Indianapolis.

Au Sable, divorced himself from his tribe, when with the coming of the white man, he quits the territory. Shoppengon remained in the vicinity of the river for the remainder of his life and up to the time of his death a decade ago worked as guide and fisher and hunted on the stream. Noted men in every line of endeavor returned regularly to assimilate Shoppengon's hunting and fishing knowledge.

Today, here at Grayling, Michigan, near where the river rises and from which many start on the canoe trip down the river, is named after the Indian chief and a life-size painting of Shoppengon, the work of one of his artist patrons, is prominently displayed in the lobby of the hotel.

Shoppengon was an interesting and romantic figure and while he lived was as much a center of attraction of the section and the river as the landmarks. His name and the Au Sable were almost synonymous. He embraced Christianity after the departure of his tribe and one of his devout tenets was a profound aversion to fishing or hunting on the Sabbath, a circumstance that contributed to the manner of the massacre of the British at Fort Michilimackinac, first hand facts of which he claimed to have received from his father who was a participating chief in the Pontiac uprising.

A cross, seven inches long, brought to this country by the Jesuit mission in the seventeenth century, was handed down to Shoppengon and was preserved jealously by him almost up to the time of his death. The cross is now on display in the rooms of the Bay City Historical Society at Bay City.

The Au Sable flows through a part of the great Michigan Forest of 213,000 acres which is visited annually by residents from every state in the union, the provinces of Canada and even from England, France, Japan, and South American countries. Many of the canoe trips from Grayling to Lake Huron, into which the Au Sable empties, is one of the charming, intriguing magnets for many of the tourist visitors. This trip may be made in company with guides whose entire lives have been spent on the river.

Bridge Tournament

A bridge tournament for the ladies, on Friday afternoon, "spanned" what would otherwise have been a gap in the program.

Because of weeping skies, slide trips that in fair weather would have been very interesting, lost their attractiveness to many of the ladies who preferred the auspicious lobby of the Lodge to braving the out of doors with Jupiter Pluvius "reigning" (spell it whichever way you prefer).

Thoughtful, as usual, C. W. Hungenford, of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., suggested to the committee that he would provide a 5 pound box of good candy as a prize for a bridge contestant and, modest as usual, he asked that the name of the donor remain anonymous.

The applause that greeted the announcement was evidence that the movement was a popular addition to the program. The committee later decided on two prizes, for winner and runner-up, so instead of a 5 pound box of candy the prizes were changed to a 3 pound and a 2 pound box.

Mrs. Vivian Goodman, of Detroit, was the winner, of the first prize in the spirited contest that followed, and Mrs. F. T. Rich of Midland, took the second box.

The rainy weather of Friday prevented taking of a group photograph until Saturday afternoon, by which time quite a number of the members had left the lodge. The total registration was about 200.

Lake Solitude, near East Tawas, Michigan, about three-quarters of a mile from Lake Huron, one of the great inland seas, has a skeleton of a mystery ship buried in the mud underneath its placid waters. How the derelict came into the waters of Lake Solitude is as much an enigma as the presence of the ship itself.

Lake Solitude is small and has no connection with any body of water except through a narrow two-foot stream that trickles into Tawas Bay and Lake Huron during the spring of the year and dwindles to a dry bed for part of the year.

The battered old boat was in Lake Solitude when the first white settlers arrived. It was a sizable craft, about sixty feet long, with a deck. First settlers described it as having an ornately fashioned prow, broad bows and narrow high poop resembling the old Spanish, Portuguese and French carved ships in the sixteenth century. Nails which held the withered old hull together were said to have been of copper.

On Lake's Bottom Centuries

The boat has been on the bottom of Lake Solitude for decades—perhaps centuries—that old hulk of rotting, rotting upper timbers immersed in a cubbyhole atmosphere of antiquity. The pioneers who came to the shores of Solitude sixty years ago saw it and wondered. Historians have wondered ever since. Tourists from every state in the Union, from provinces of Canada, from European countries and even from the Orient, lured by the romance of the mystery, annually visit the isolated lake.

No one has positively ascertained what ship it was that rests upon Solitude's bottom, or how it came to be in the inland lake. A sixty-foot vessel never sailed into Lake Solitude by way of the two-foot wide creek, but tumbled with mark. It was a derelict before white men settled in Michigan and there is no living person who has been able to bear away the shroud of marine mystery surrounding it.

The waters of the lake have receded and the deck has rotted away, but the keel is said to be still intact, under the water, despite the constant siltation of lake waters, winds, ice and storms.

The explanation? Here is the only logical one, given some credence by historians.

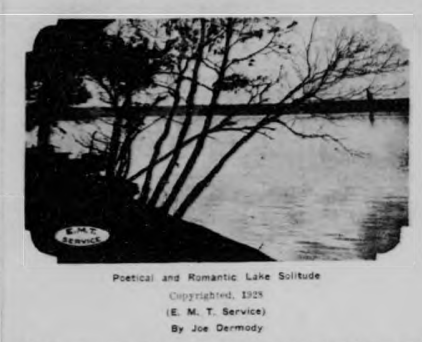

Vessel Built in 1679

The story starts in that epoch of derring-do when English, French and Portuguese adventurers, explorers and voyagers, impelled by the known human motives of conquest, discovery and royal reward, sailed the known and unknown seas seeking new worlds, gold, Arcadias and fountains of youth.

Nearly 250 years ago, when the penetratingly bitter cold of a January day in 1679 congealed the marrow of the most hardy, a little band of approximately thirty men toiled wearily through the plains and naked forests on the hazardous and difficult portage around Niagara Falls. They made up the gallant and intrepid company which followed La Salle into the water wilderness of the Great Lakes.

On their backs they carried ship's furnishings from chandeliers of Paris and in their hearts the high purpose of blazing a trail into a strange and unproven land. Above the falls they hewed great timbers and fashioned these timbers into the first sailing vessel to embark on the Great Lakes. On the vessel's prow was factually carved the grotesque monster which gave the "Griffin" her name.

Cruise Ends in Tragedy

In August the boat, which was destined to be the flagship of all the great feet on the lakes today, set sail. But the cruise which had started so auspiciously ended in tragedy—and mystery. It departed on August 7, with La Salle as commander and Father Marquette as journalist. The Griffin made port at St. Ignace, where Father Marquette had established a mission eight years before. It cleared Michilimackinac for Green Bay September 2, where it took on a cargo of rich furs for La Salle's creditors in Montreal. La Salle sent the Griffin back to Niagara Falls while he continued on in canoes to Lake Peoria, Ill. The Griffin was lost in a storm and never heard of again unless, perhaps, the wreck which lies in the waters of Lake Solitude is that of the ill-fated craft. The fate of the Argonauts is unknown.

Great Inland Sea Covers Areas

Lake Huron probably extended farther inland than the three-quarters of a mile of high timbered ridges which now separate it from Lake Solitude. It is definitely known that at one time what is now the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan was covered by a great inland sea, and undoubtedly Lake Solitude is what geologists call a relict lake.

So it is not impossible that the hulk of the Griffin was buried upon the shores and the water later receded, leaving only a small lake. Pieces of metal salvaged from the old boat are of ancient workmanship. As recently as 1900, skeletons were found in the vicinity of the boat, one with a sword thrust through it, which after much cleaning proved to bear the French Lilies and French motto and a sixteenth century date.

If the boat was the Griffin what romance hovers about the decayed old derelict? What history lies there in the salvific? All those who know the truth perished with the Griffin.

And every summer, thousands of tourists visit Lake Solitude, described by one author-tourist as "a spot too poetic for anything but a honeymoon," to dream about the ancient sailing vessel lying under the lake's surface, resisting the disintegrating process that always follows in the wake of disaster and neglect and which tries to the visiting tourist from every section of the country, the valorous and indomitable spirit of those voyagers of old who first planted the cross and civilization in this great territory.

Logging Camp at Grayling To Be Permanent Exhibit

The Hanson Pine tract near Grayling presented to the state sometime ago as a memorial to Major Edward Hartwick, is to be the site of the reproduction of old-fashioned logging camp such as was used in Michigan more than a half century ago. Work on the building of this typical lumber camp is scheduled to start this month. The buildings will be constructed of logs grown on the site. Lumbering interests of the state will equip the logging days from the first time when the first woodman's axe fell in Michigan up to the present time. The exhibit will be the only one of its kind in the country.

MRS GEORGE LABUMARD DIES AFTER THREE WEEKS ILLNESS

Mrs. George Labumard passed away at about 3 o'clock Monday morning at the nursing hospital, Escanaba, where she submitted to an operation on June 13. Mrs. Labumard had suffered a number of attacks of appendicitis during the last two or three years and had planned on entering the hospital this fall. The fatal attack came the night of June 12 while engaged in her duties about her home. She had milked the cows and run the milk through the separator but was unable to put the milk and cream away, so sudden did the attack come upon her. She passed a night of intense suffering during which time the appendix burst. In the morning she managed to get out on the front porch where she seated herself and waited for someone to send word to her children. Mrs. Blanche White, motivated by notice of her condition, called a neighbor and also a daughter Mrs. Walter Busch. The patient was removed to the hospital immediately and the operation performed. Very little hopes were held out for her recovery because of her condition but when it was known when it seemed she was winning her battle against all odds. The fight was too long however and eventually became weaker and weaker until she passed peacefully away early Monday morning.

Mrs. Labumard was born near Plattsburg, N. Y. on June 8, 1878. When a little child the family moved to Wisconsin and later on moved here, about 40 years ago. She was the greater part of the time, her husband coming home for the week ends. She loved to care for her cows, chickens garden and flowers. She had a host of friends who were grieved to learn of her sickness and death.

She is survived by her husband, two sons and one daughter, Howard, Joseph and Mrs. Walter Busch; her father, Jesse Rushford; three sisters; Mrs. Zeph Nephew of Ostrer, Mrs. Andrew Barbeau of Escanaba and Mrs. Rose Hickey of Escanaba.

The body was prepared for burial at the Alto Funeral Home and was removed to the family home Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were held at St. Charles Church, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock with Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guertin as celebrant at the requiem high mass. The church was filled with relatives and friends and many accompanied the remains to the local cemetery. Many also called on the home to pay their last respects to a devoted wife and mother. The casket and room was covered with many beautiful floral wreaths and offerings.

The pallbearers were, Ernest Laviolette, John Grandchamps, Joseph Parent, Joseph Forest, Charles Kirch and Lewis E. Thibault.

CEMENT WALK TO GERMAN LUTHERAN CHURCH

The township board has authorized the construction of a cement walk from the Rapid River Service Station to the German Lutheran church and the work was started this week by Ernest Laviolette. The walk was requested by a large number of petitioners and cement walks have been built to the other churches in the village and on most all of the streets leading from the main street, the township board readily consented to the building of the walk. A part of the walk in the block was built when the Hill service station was constructed and now the walk will be completed to the church.

The township board has also condemned the old board walk north of the J. R. Boyer residence. This is the last board walk remaining in the village and is the oldest in point of service, being built more than thirty years ago. Notices have been posted warning pedestrians of its unsafe condition and persons using the walk will do so at their own risk.

TENT SHOWS TO BE RESTRICTED

TOWNSHIP DESIGNATES LOCATION AND PROVIDES $5 A DAY FEE

Tent shows, circuses and merry-go-rounds appearing here will be restricted as to the location they may occupy and must also pay a license fee of $5.00 for each night according to a resolution passed by the township board recently. The action of the township board will meet with the approval of the property owners who have had the show camped near their homes. The merry-go-round here recently left its tracks grounds strewn with refuse, papers and garbage. Many complaints have been heard from residents of the vicinity of the merry-go-round. The township board on Saturday night after the evening run and the night and early morning hours of Sunday was filled with boisterous commands and noise, while tearing down and moving the equipment. The work continued all Sunday forenoon. Because of these complaints the township board also passed a resolution that all tent shows, circuses, etc. will be prohibited from showing within 200 feet of any occupied building. There are plenty of vacant places suitable for these shows where residents will not be disturbed by their noise or other objectionable features and garbage after their departure.

The Howe motion picture tent show which sponsored here recently turned Monday from a motor trip to Green Bay and Readville, Wis. where they visited with relatives.

LOCALS LOSE TO ROCK, JULY 10 & 11

Rock defeated the locals in a game at Rock Sunday 16 to 2. Young started the game on the mound for the locals but retired in the second inning because of a sore arm. Ueblich relieved him but could not hold the hard hitting Rocks in check. Bridges had no trouble in holding down the locals, getting a dozen strikeouts to his credit although he did not seem to put much on the ball "Brigham" Young starred with the stick for the locals getting three hits. It was his second game of the season and as in his first game he is finding no trouble in solving the deliveries of the opposing pitchers.

Next Sunday Ostrer will appear on the local grounds in a game for the championship of Masonville township. Jess Young of Ostrer was in town Tuesday and disputed Manager Buckman's claim to the township (he thought he had the only team in the township) and proposed the game. There is been rivalry between the north and the south in politics and it will now be extended to baseball. Manager Young says he has a hard hitting team and it will be better to allow only one base on all hits or it will be a continual merry-go-round.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rosenblum and daughter Bernice of Chicago are visiting with Mr. Rosenblum's brother here. They plan to return to their home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schram, daughter, the Misses Blanche and Mary, Irving Brown of Escanaba and Tom Morgan will motor to Iron Mountain to spend Sunday.

Our Reporter Observes--

THAT on a warm day you see numerous heads sticking out of the water at the Tourist Park Beach, and less vestmentous ones letting the waves roll over their toes.

THAT many of the cars that traveled around on the Fourth in fantastic decorations are still boasting of tattered pieces of hunting flags from fenders and flag sticks on radiator fronts.

THAT the Chautauque in Gladstone a biggest attraction this week, one time when old, young, and all ages look to the Playground.

THAT folks usually envy the tourist and his prospect of someone in the open, as they pass the Tourist Park at night, but when they see him waving arms frantically in a war on mosquitoes they stop on the gas and contentedly go home to their own bed.

THAT you can see coats of sunburn and tan on Monday morning on folks who traveled around with the top turned down on their car on Sunday, or lugged dirt on the beach in a bathing suit.

THAT farmers visiting Gladstone seem to be more enthusiastic about their gardens this year, in anticipation of winning prizes at the upper peninsula state fair.

THAT another one of Gladstone's relics of by-gone days, a high board sidewalk leading from Delta Ave. to the Soo Line yard, has been replaced.

THAT with all the parks in our midst equipped with picnic tables and stoves, a family out on a Sunday in search of an attractive camping spot gets more "kick" out of serving their picnic dinner on some farmer's front lawn or in his front yard.

ADVERTISE VACATION LAND OF MICHIGAN

First of a series of advertisements in which the Michigan Bell Telephone Company calls attention to the advantages of Michigan as a vacation land, appears in this issue of the Delta Reporter.

The series is being published in more than 250 newspapers throughout Michigan. According to O. Sundquist manager in this area for the Michigan Bell Company, it is felt that no art of the continent offers so many advantages to the tourist and vacationist as does Michigan.

The first announcement is illustrated with an outline map of the Upper Peninsula, popularly known as Cloverland, showing the principal cities of the state and calling attention to their manufacturing and

DOREEN BLACK, BRIDE, RETURNS FROM CLEVELAND

Miss Doreen Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Black who became the bride of Joseph Wolf of Cleveland on June 28th, has arrived in Gladstone with her husband for a short visit at her parental home.

The bride was attired in a gown of white silk tulle and tulle trimmed with rhinestones and lace. She wore a tulle veil three yards in length, and trimmed with a border of fine french lace. Her veil was fastened with a wreath of rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white roses lilies of the valley, and baby breath.

Two couples attended the bride, Beatrice Wolf, a sister of the groom, Henry Hagie, Miss Alice Kane, and Jerry Andel, close friends of the young couple.

Miss Wolf wore a orchid silk tulle dress and carried a bouquet of pink Columbia roses. Miss Kane's dress was of yellow silk tulle. She carried yellow tea roses.

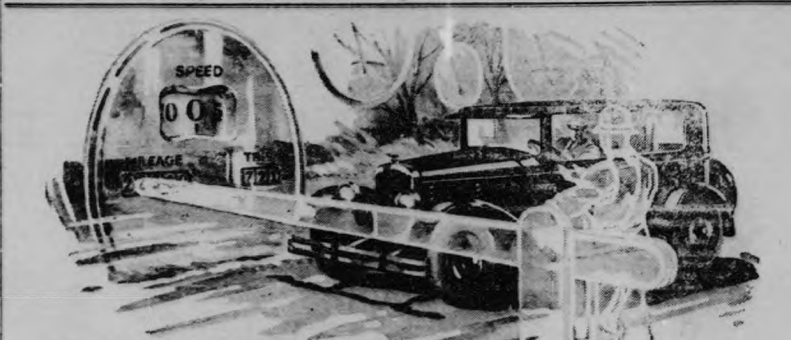

Lobogin's wedding march was played as the wedding party entered the church, and Mendelssohn's march was used for the recessional. Parents of Mr. Wolf served a wedding breakfast and dinner at their home following the ceremony, with the mothers of the bride and groom catering. Covers were laid for forty-five guests.

The groom holds a responsible position with the William Edwards Co. at Cleveland. The bride was employed by the same firm previous to their marriage.

The bride has attended Gladstone schools and made her home here previous to going to Cleveland to be employed.

She has a host of friends in Gladstone who have been pleased to extend their congratulations.

There's a Tollgate of the Miles

NEVER FORGET IT. Somewhere in the span of your car's efficiency there's a halting point where the miles ahead must pay the toll for the miles gone by.

In a score of trifling ways you know you have reached the declining line. Not quite so many miles to the gallon — not quite the old familiar pull and pick-up — not quite the same sharp answer to the sudden calls of traffic.

Halt! Never mind what you have thought in the past about gasoline quality "not making any difference." From now on, you know it does.

Distinctly, emphatically, beyond all question or doubt—

Wadhams 370 - the Year-Round Gasoline

is nothing short of a positive requirement if your car is to hold its own. No more can you safely allow yourself the privilege of drifting in to fill with gas wherever mere convenience dictates.

No more can you risk the dangers of unknown, nondescript fuels offered at tempting prices, or so-called quality fuels that depend on injected dopes or mysterious processes to bolster up their pretensions to the class of "high."

370 IS high and ALL high — so by original nature of material yet it costs no more than highs empirically built up from the lowest of bases. It performs and protects as no other commercially served gas can do.

And no cars are so sensitive, so responsive, to its superiorities as those that stand at the tollgate of the miles! What's ahead for you?

WHY HE WENT CRAZY

This story with various modifications, has been doing duty for a good while, but for the benefit of the younger generation who have not chanced to read across it we tell it again.

It concerns an inmate of a lunatic asylum, who on being asked by a visitor how he got that way, he replied:

"It all started when I married a widow with a grown-up daughter. Then my father, being a widower, married the daughter."

"Then my wife and I had a son. My father's wife is my son's half-sister and also his grandmother. Now, it is easy to see that my father became my step-son by marrying my step-daughter."

"The visitor stopped the lunatic at this point, thoroughly satisfied as to why he went crazy."

San Francisco

BY ALICE LONG MILLS

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. Dolores Castella in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

Synopsis

Don Hernandez Vasquez and his beautiful granddaughter Dolores occupy the old Vasquez ranch in the desert from the first Vasquez on a grant from the King of Spain. The prospect that came to San Francisco by the discovery of gold in California missed the Vasquez hacienda where indolent ways did not keep abreast of modern progress. But the Vasquez acres are coveted by Buckwell, political boss of San Francisco. His lawyer, friend, with Brandon's nephew, Terry, are sent to the ranch to buy it. Brandon fails to accomplish his task, but Terry falls in love with Dolores. Buckwell is incensed by the failure and plans to void the Spanish title, but Terry goes to warn Vasquez and resumes love-making with Dolores. Vasquez ignores Terry's warning and tells Dolores to marry young Spaniard, Don Luis. Terry, heartbroken, leaves without seeing Dolores, and she, with her heartache in pleasures of San Francisco's Barbary Coast.

Dolores is hurt by Terry's abrupt leaving. Dolores goes into Frisco to seek Terry and in saving the ranch. She finds him in a saloon and returns home disillusioned. Buckwell witnessed her visit and is intrigued, goes to Vasquez ranch.

"No trouble at all; besides I could endure many troubles for the privilege of coming to the Chapel to worship, and perhaps to see you—and your Grandfather," he added hastily. "And, by the way, I am afraid it is no condition to go to the city now." Her trusting lovelessness had inspired him with a mad desire to get her away from the ranch and alone with himself.

Dolores looked at her Grandfather, obviously troubled. "The excitement might bring on another stroke—is it absolutely necessary for him to go?" turning around she found Buckwell's dark eyes watching her.

In a flash he changed his expression to an impetuous grin. "It may be necessary for some member of the family to sign an application at the Court House for permission to examine the records, the sooner that is done the better of course."

Buckwell knew that this was a lame excuse. He watched Dolores to see if he was getting away with it and felt relieved when she nodded in assent.

"I—I would do anything to help if you think could sign the application?" she asked.

Buckwell looked up quickly from his pretended contemplation of the papers and hid his satisfaction with a matter of fact nod, said: "Certainly you could—and perhaps you'd take tea with me and could stop at the Crystal Palace on the way."

Dolores had no desire to accept the invitation. Last week's experience in San Francisco was too hideous, and she was perfectly willing to remain ignorant of the details of the Cocktail Route; besides, she hated to leave her Grandfather when he felt so miserable.

"Do you wish to remain in my possession—as long as he wanted them."

"I will go with you to sign the papers, but must hurry back to Grandfather—thank you just the same for the tea party invitation."

"Do you wish to remain in my possession—as long as he wanted them."

"Thank you, it will be very nice to go to tea if it will not cost you any, take long. Shall we leave now?" Buckwell gathered up the papers and followed her example by raising. "I am at your disposal—when ever you are ready!"

"I don't know," replied Dolores uneasily, "but I prefer to remain at the hacienda—Oh, you can save it for us, can you?"

The Detroit International Bridge

"Ambassador" and "Suspension" Describe Its Spiritual Mission.

An Editorial Meditation by James Schermerhorn.

Sure, I'll dash off a piece for the Michigan Press Association about the Ambassador Bridge, that two-mile convex now stretching its steel shape-ness between century-treated neighbors, Uncle Sam and the Daughter of the Snows!

But not a word about the commercial side of the project, foreboded by those two piers lifting their stark outlines to heaven at the water's edge of Detroit and of Sandwich, Tecumseh, Ojibway, Windsor, Walkerville, and Ford City, the Border Cities.

Joseph A. Bower, as intrinsically sound a financier as Detroit ever bequeathed to New York, looked down all that when he turned vision into verity on the ruins of a rejected combined highway and railway undertaking and delivered to the Detroit International Bridge Company the rights acquired by him under his 1924 options from the American Transit Company and the Canadian Transit Company, together with the rights and powers obtained after the project took its present form.

Anything so thoroughgoing a build-up as Mr. Bower, president of both companies, may have left ungrounded or unpropelled, touching the material returns from the linking of teeming territories, may be left safely to real estate pamphleteers and American and Canadian industrial, automobile, lake resort and Chamber of Commerce phraseologists.

Here is something to inspire a "song of sixpence and peck's fall of eye," tentatively and constitutionally speaking. And it will not be necessary for anyone to plead, "Let all rise and sing." This thing is more like the fulfillment of Scripture where it says: "He hath put a new song into my mouth!"

In business I claim an equality with Ephraim to whom David revisited: "Aw un'erstan' yuh done gone an' mortgaged our lil' home!"

"Only temporarily, Dinah," soothed Ephraim, "an' den it'll be forsooth!" "All I know about finance," confessed a senator when they were discussing the repeal of the silver purchase section of the Sherman Act, "is that it takes two names besides my own to make my note good."

This pen disclaims any pretensions to fiscal knowledge. It has no grasp upon modern commercialism. What it knows about business is mighty little, and that little is depressing. It agrees with what the editor of Life said in a recent comment on the way the world is trending, when it gets it full in the face from a full-page advertisement or fight for toe-hold in the shopping district:

"Somehow there is a disagreeable sense nowadays of everything being for sale! Anticipated prizes hung before best sellers, peace essays, most perfect human forms and faces and clearest names for a remedy for housemaid's knees when he cried: "Everyone loveth gifts and followeth after rewards."

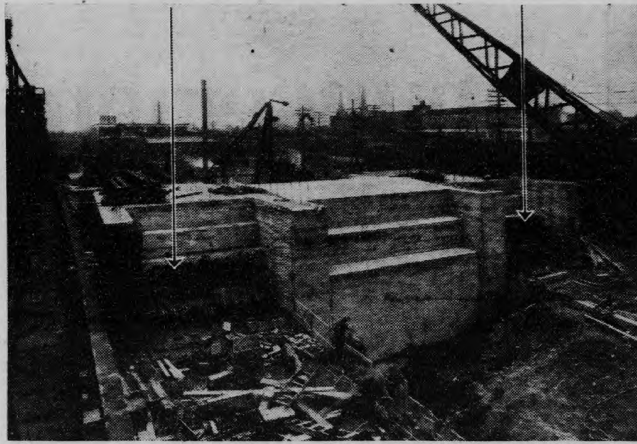

But that is neither here nor there. Or rather it is on both sides of the sapphire strait that is being spanned by this colossal carry-you-over. The spirit of getting while the getting is good, is life. "The nondual luncheon interpreters say it is the maitre d'hotel. Even in the sanctuary there are said to be among the "thousand tongues to sing" those who intone:

"Bring forth the royal dividend. And crown it king of all!" But from this fourteenth floor attic, or so monopolists like to attempt "a daily tit for the home," I can catch above the lofty outline of Belle Isle and the wakening solidity of the Border Cities, the smiling uplands of the Dominion, rising entrancingly to the horizon.

One of the year's best sellers, winner of the Pulitzer prize, philosophizes over the fate of five Peruvians who went down with the "Bridge at San Luis Rey."

Macaulay had a penchant for bridges. While he had the brave Horatius hold the one over the yellow Tiber, to stop the Tuscan army's advance on Rome, he foresaw from London Bridge's broken arches the ruins of St. Paul's. Direful prophecy, still unfulfilled.

Lord Byron employed the melancholy "Bridge of Sighs" in fair Venice spaces that are round about them as the hills are round about Jerusalem. You just better believe it is thrilling to a hovel and too exile, self-plunged to his 100 miles a month ago, to realize that a little way down the river, by lofty path, his daily pilgrimage may soon range afar on the other shore!

I speak as one having a scheme on foot. As for the thousands upon thousands of vehicular patrons, let these patriots articulate for themselves!

The Hurons' warpath of a hundred years ago become on the Sandwich side a slightly approach of 3,800 feet; the crude possibility of pontoon and float of half a century back and the hope of a low structure on piers in later period, grown into the long steel span in the world (1,850 feet) and a clearance of 152 feet over high water in the river—to this superb certainty has the dream of international contact come!

Permit an immaterial worker and a mere walker, for his part to bow before the wonder and the wondrous substance of it all!

Your bridge is the Miss America of architectural competitors. Among all created things for outdoor adornment, it takes the palm. In slashing lines and contour and contrast it never fails to enthral.

It is silver colored art; and is often served by sylvan settings on both sides. Illumination imparts a new glory after nightfall.

Add to its unobstructed symmetry the eye-lingering immensity of it, and you will understand the partiality of poets and painters for this prodigious thing of lofty piers, graceful arches and powerful cables, sometimes looming above us in massive strength, sometimes caught in perspective through emerald vistas, sometimes standing spectrally against the sky.

"Faith an' what is the motor beane the brick too?" asked Pat.

"It is to kape the brick together," said Mike.

"Egorra," said Pat, "I thought it was to kape thim apart!"

A hardboiled brother said he did not want to know a certain man. "I want to hate him," he declared grimly. "I know him I cannot hate him!"

AMBASSADOR BRIDGE is credited to break down detachment that breeds distrust. By many minutes it brings two shores closer. No Ambassador means the absence of close and friendly relations. When an Ambassador is established it is a sign that good understanding and mutual interests are fostered.

Not only traffic but Internationalism gains by Columbia Canada thoroughfares. Barriers are burned away by the fires of affiliation.

The AMBASSADOR BRIDGE is a fine symbolism.

So is SUSPENSION BRIDGE—the longest in the world.

It signifies that separation is suspended—that hatefulness, inharmoniousness are hung up.

Suspended, hung up permanently—which is a long and desirable SUSPENSION!

The Rush-Bagot Treaty, maintaining for over a century unbroken peace along 3,996 miles of unfortified frontier, has at once a Memorial and an Ally in this AMBASSADOR SUSPENSION BRIDGE.

For preserving International tranquility its towering Piers are better than Planes, its Calvaries of boundary-crossers better than Cavalry, its Millions of Motors better than Mortars.

To signalize restored good will two South American countries placed on a mountain crest a statue of the Christ, marking the very boundary that had been the cause of fierce contention.

Two nations stretch across the Strait of Detroit the AMBASSADOR

A little paradise of trees,
And crystal lake and fragrant breeze,
Cool paths your weary eyes to ease,

Green lawns and stretching porch so wide,
A view of tranquil countryside,
A place where peaceful joys abide,

You GOLF, if that appeals to you,
You row or paddle a canoe,
A place where fishing a good sport, too,

There's riding, tennis, and a dance,

We missed genial "Jimmie" Hassellman from the crowd. Probably left into the Au Sable on the way up.

"Bill" Berkeley lifted his toes wondrously in the hop-skip-jump, but his heels dragged in the backward race and Bill did a beautiful head spin.

Major E. R. Eaton was one of the most persistent of the fishermen, but Mrs. Eaton says most of the fish that get to her table are "canned." Well, if he keeps at it, the Major will learn.

One member of the Haskins family was missed from the gathering—"Betty." Well, Betty got married just a few days prior to the outing meeting, and—well, you know how shy girls are.

"Ted" Thompson borrowed a rod and reel Saturday afternoon and went fishing. Returned a few minutes later with a 4-pound pike and promptly beat it for home. Didn't dare take chances with that gang over night. Wise old owl.

Among the later arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Gifford and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Martin of the Eaton Rapids Journal and Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Levinson of the Laramington Enterprise. Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Babcock of the Redford Record.

Former president D. E. Hubbell of the Crosswell Jeffersons appeared each morning cleanly shaven except for what George Averill called a "blotch" under his nose. Dave countered by replying that Mrs. Hubbell wanted him to have the shoe-brush "hennaed," but that one look at George's brilliantly colored mustache decided him against the henna procedure. Well, if each of them is satisfied, why should the rest of us worry?

Satisfactory evidence that the membership of the M. P. A. uses good judgment in electing its officers was demonstrated at this summer outing meeting. They are all winners, as shown by President Berkeley, Vice-President Hanna and Secretary-Treasurer Wood, each coping fine prizes in the athletic contests.

"PECK'S" OWN WAY OF TELLING IT

When the days are growin' warmer and the grass is showin' thru, and the pussy willow's purrin' and the streams are callin' you; you can hear the frogs a-squillin', see the robins in the trees, and you throw away the mothballs from your summer BVDs. Then you get a dizzy feelin', like your skin is full o' dope, and a Christian white man's collar feels like so much hangman's rope. You walk ain't on your business—you go mindin' 'round in dreams—you can see the four-pound brook-trout so a-scootin' up the streams; you can see their dark forms ridin', you can see the water break near the rapids on the Sable or on blue Van Ettan Lake. Then your fever hits the hundred, and your'e gosh-mighty sick, till you crank up the old river and you head 'er for the crick. —R. E. Prescott, Chairman Entertainment Committee.

Tales of big bass have been eclipsed by Russell Walker of Royal Oak. Walker reported taking an eight-pound bass from Williams Lake in Oakland County June 24. The fish may be a record for Michigan.

Never before in 50 years has fishing for pickerel been as good as it has this year in the St. Clair River, according to George Simpson, a farmer and an ardent fisherman living near Marine City. "Catching pickerel from boats has been an easy matter during past years," he says, "but this season the 'snakes' are being hooked by fishermen off the docks and banks."

SUSPENSION BRIDGE as a sign and token that there will be no boundary which the Doges rule!

Standing on "The Bridge" at midnight in the days long gone by, Longfellow thought of the hundreds of thousands of care-encumbered men, who—

Each bearing his burden of sorrow,
Have crossed the bridge since then.

Whether it is the seven bridges of the Seine; "The Auld Brig o' Doon" at Ayr, of which Bobbie Burns wrote so plaintively; or the famous Pirth or Perth near Edinburgh, or yet again the overpowering sweep of the Quebec structure that gives passengers on the boat deck of ocean liners the illusion that the prow of their ship is bound to crash against its looming massive span, there is something about the majesty and slightness of these connecting creations of steel or concrete that holds the on-looker spellbound.

Then there are the Brooklyn, Williamsburg, Manhattan, Bear Mountain and Philadelphia-Camden suspension bridges, each in turn the marvel of its day of dedication, registering the lengthening of main spans from 1595 feet to 1750 feet and the increase of height over water from 135 to 153 feet.

Bridges are the timekeepers of construction progress in this land of mechanical triumphs.

III.
THE AMBASSADOR BRIDGE!

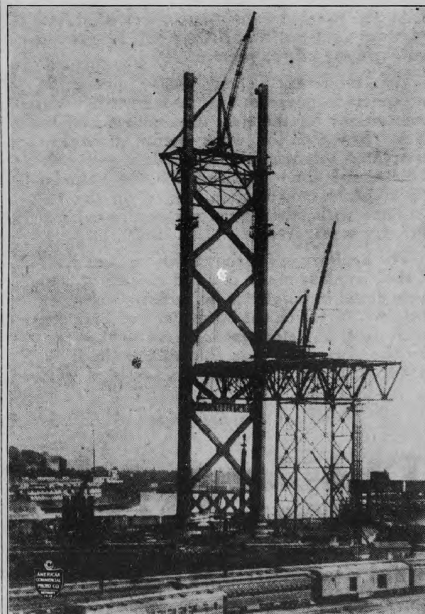

What's in a name? In this instance explanation and inspiration.

Jocularly an Ambassador sent abroad to lie about his country.

But in this massive but mute ambassadorship there is the truth that makes nations free of misunderstandings and misjudgments. It is the absent that are always wrong, says the French proverb. The Ambassador Bridge will carry over continental neighbors into closer contacts and exchanged amenities.

Not only by treaty, but by propinquity, will this Convoy Extraordinary make for amity and mutually.

Bridges are always friendly. Waters are not always so. They are like the dialogue between Pat and Mike.

LAST LIFT OF AMERICAN MAIN TOWER, 383 FEET HIGH

City Had Distinguished Visitor Last Friday

East Tawas had a distinguished visitor last Friday at noon, in the person of John Coolidge, son of the president of the United States. His presence in our city, however, was not noted until after his departure, for with true Coolidge reticence he came without blare of trumpets, and left unobtrusively.

Into the Holland Hotel last Friday noon came two travelers seeking luncheon. There was nothing to mark them from other autoists, save that one was dressed in uniform. After dinner the usual formalities were carried out—paying for their meal and registering. They left the hotel immediately. James Larkin was presiding at the hotel desk, and curiosity as to the identity of the man in uniform prompted him to send the register. His surprise can be imagined as he read the following:
John Simmons, U. S. S. Dakota.
John Coolidge, Northampton, Mass.
—From Incoo County Gazette, East Tawas, June 28, 1928.

Veteran John Randall of the Mio Telegram was most heartily welcomed by all the "gang," who did everything possible to make his outing a pleasant one.

THE LONGEST SUSPENSION BRIDGE IN THE WORLD LINKING DETROIT AND THE CANADIAN BORDER CITIES

an Announcement

To the People of the Commonwealths of Canada and the United States--in Particular to the Citizens of the State of Michigan and the Province of Ontario

THE New Ambassador International Bridge across the Detroit River will be open for traffic in mid-summer of 1929. So many people (individuals and corporations) have asked the question, "when will the new bridge be ready?"—that it has been considered policy to publish from time to time a summary of the progress being achieved—an abridgment of the bridge. As most of the inquiries have come from firms and various enterprises planning to use the new bridge in the daily transaction of their business, this data is released July 11, 1928.

At the present rate of progress, the Ambassador International Bridge will be open to traffic in the mid-summer of 1929.

The mild and open winter permitted unexpected progress in constructing the foundations for the steel towers and anchorages. Now that the work below ground is completed it is possible to schedule with confidence the time required for the remaining steps in construction, based on the experience with other large suspension bridges recently constructed.

The anchorage for the cables on both sides of the river are made of solid masses of concrete equal in height to a twenty-two story building, of which the equivalent of fourteen stories will be below ground and eight above. On the American side the anchorage is located at West Jefferson Avenue and 21st Street in Detroit. On the Canadian side, at London and Huron Line Road in Sandwich.

The massive steel tower on the American side is now complete. The Canadian tower will be completed July 20th. These towers extend to a height of 383 feet above the Detroit River and may be compared in height with the new Buhl Building.

The preparatory work for weaving the large suspension cables will start the first part of August, at which time eight temporary cables will be stretched from anchorage to anchorage and over the tops of the steel towers. Foot bridges will be built on these temporary cables and the work of constructing the large cables, consisting of stretching over 14,000 single wires from anchorage to anchorage, will be done from the foot bridge cables.

All of the property for the project, including that required for the approaches and terminals on both sides of the river, has been acquired.

Both the Canadian and American Governments have approved the general arrangements for the inspection by Customs and Immigration Officers. To meet these requirements it was necessary to provide an area of about seven acres on the American side and more than eight acres on the Canadian side. On the Detroit side all the land between Howard, Porter, 21st and 22nd Streets was necessarily acquired for this purpose. On the Canadian side a strip one-half block wide, extending along Patricia Road from Wyandotte to Walnut Streets, together with more than the equivalent of a city block area between Patricia and Huron Church Line Roads, has been acquired in the Town of Sandwich.

THE TERMINAL spaces required by the Governments on each side of the River may appear unduly large, but a detailed study of the needs proved the necessity of providing room for Administration Buildings for Bridge Officers, Customs and Immigration Officers, for Warehouses, Excise Buildings and thirteen inspection "islands" at both ends of the bridge. Here traffic in twenty-six lanes may be examined simultaneously.

TOLLS—These necessarily can only be definitely established contemporaneously with the opening of the bridge for public traffic, but it is our pleasure to announce that in no event will single trip tickets for other than commercial vehicles be in excess of fifty cents (50c) including driver and five cents (5c) for each additional passenger.

The maximum rates for busses and commercial vehicles of various weights will be announced later.

Commutation tickets will be sold, and it is contemplated that commutation rates will be substantially lower than the rate to be established for single trip tickets.

More than fifty years of the white man's effort to bridge this stream are culminating now in the building of this bridge.

CONRAD VEIDT IN "A MAN'S PAST"
Conrad Veidt, noted European screen star, makes his first appearance in an American starring production in the Universal Jewel picture, "A Man's Past," which comes to the Rialto theater as the feature attraction on Friday.

HOOT GIBSON STARRED

In his latest Universal Jewel release, "Hey! Hey! Cowboy," which comes to the Rialto theater Saturday.
Hoot Gibson is cast in the type of role that fits him like a well-worn glove. Imbued with a thirst for the heroic lightning, and continually in hot water through his attempts to be romantic and adventurous, Gibson colors his role with the high-lights of daring deeds. His acting is set off against a background of comely relief furnished by experienced actresses.

RAMON NOVARRO AND JOAN CRAWFORD ACROSS TO SINGAPORE

RAMON NOVARRO HERO OF "THE STUDENT PRINCE"

Ramon Novarro, hero of "The Student Prince," "Be-Hu," and many other famous plays, comes Sunday to the Rialto Theater in his latest screen success, "Across to Singapore." The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by William Nigh, is a dramatic romance of the high seas. Laid aboard the old clipper ship, New England and the mysterious Orient.
Novarro plays a young sailor, one of three seagoing brothers, who in an amazing tangle of love and adventure, figures in desperate runs across the Pacific mutiny and other graphic details incidental to a charming love story.

NON-STOP LAUGHS IN AVIATION SKIT

There's not a reason in the world why "Flying Romeo," the first National Comedy which comes to the Rialto Theater here Tuesday shouldn't be regarded as one of the funniest pictures of the year.
Based on an unusually clever and original idea, the picture certainly has a background of humor as its basis.
George Sidney and Charlie Murray, comedians of first rank, are featured in it.

"THE COSSACK'S WITH JOHN GILBERT COMING JULY 18-19

Men who braved death on many war fronts, a troop of hard-riided Cossack soldiers who fought for the Czar and with the White Army, traveled from Europe in turn screen actors when they rode with John Gilbert in "The Cossacks." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular epic of Russia, coming Wednesday to the Rialto Theater.
"The Cossacks" is one of the most elaborate screen plays of the season. With Gilbert in the leading role as a young Cossack soldier, and Renée Adoree as a heroine, a cast that includes Ernest Torrence, Mary Alden, Noel Neely, Dale Fuller, Josephine Borio, Joyce Sherwood, Paul Hurst, Joseph Mari and others of note played with the throng of Russians who regarded it as not merely a picture but as a labor of love for the glory of their native land. George Hill director of "Tell It to the Marines," directed the huge feature.

DETROIT TIMES HIGH BOYS AND GIRLS TOUR

ONE MAN'S SECRET

A 14-year-old boy, George Black, built himself a wagon out of four wheels, an axe crate and some other material, and is peddling merchandise for eggs among farm folk around the town of Pigeon, Mich.
Black, a former local boy, came to town a year later he opened a store. The business was successful, and he had a factory-building. Recently he built a three-story addition to the store, valued at $50,000. A year in this town of 800 population. People for miles around trade with his store in his store. His business makes $250 a week and the woman at his notion counter makes $30 a week. His business nets about $1,000 a day. Not long ago a merchant in a larger town took a day off and went to Pigeon solely to ask George Black if he cared to divulge the secret of his success. Black, smilingly said he was glad to tell the world his secret, and he told it in words every merchant should read and commit to memory.
He said: "I offer nothing but real bargains—and I advertise in the weekly papers in this county."

MICHAEL J. DOYLE WAS TRULY GREAT

(Editor's Note) Following is a tribute to Michael J. Doyle, a native Menominee Attorney and Mayor of the City, written by Roger M. Anderson, president and editor of the Menominee Herald-Leader and Business Manager of the Detroit Times, who was intimately associated with Mr. Doyle during his life.

In the passing of Michael J. Doyle Menominee in particular and Michigan in general, lost a distinguished lawyer and an eminent citizen.

Had Mr. Doyle politically affiliated himself with the dominant party in his youth, or had his path led him to a law work at the bar in New York or Chicago, he would have been as well known and beloved a public figure as he was appreciated in the more restricted territory in which his life work was carried on. In all that makes up the worthwhile elements of greatness, Michael J. Doyle was a great man. With an unselfish devotion he loved the city of Menominee, and he was a prompt response to any call of citizenship or patriotism. His sense of personal honor was keenly developed. He was satisfied if he had all the money my creditors wanted—Chicago News.

CAMP SHAW CONVENS

Interest in the forthcoming boys and girls Camp Shaw at Chatham August 6 to 11 is higher this year than ever before, in the opinion of C. A. Rood, upper peninsula boys and girls club leader, Marquette.
Attendance has grown to a point where it will be necessary to exclude boys and girls under twelve years of age, because of lack of accommodations. All club members, other than boys eligible to attend must have their projects in good shape and records up to date.
Leaders in the various counties report unusual interest in the forthcoming camp, as well as the roll of the boys and girls club special train which toured the peninsula this year.

U. OF M. MAY OPEN FORESTRY SCHOOL IN U. P.

Prof. A. G. Craig of the University of Michigan forestry department is searching for a tract of upper peninsula land suitable for the establishment of a forestry school in connection with the university.
An acreage of not less than 1,200 or more than 5,000 is desired with at least some original timber standing, and bearing both coniferous and hardwood. Persons or corporations having lands so appropriate in this description, can communicate with Professor Craig through the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, Marquette.

(Editor's Note: Here's a poem about Cup Fisher contributed by Mrs. J. Curry, who assists with the cooking at the Fisher Hotel.)
Go to Fisher's for your breakfast if you want something to eat.
For Cup serves up his pancakes Both crispy and so sweet.
He comes along to greet you With a long, pleasant smile
And to eat at his table Is something that's worth while.

But that by far is not all For when he serves up his trout That he hauled from the water With a laugh and a shout
For he just goes to the river With his well-ridg look
And big speckled trout Just snap up the hook.

"En Passant"

O. T. ESTENSON had an unusual customer for a picture, a young lady who was celebrating her seventeenth birthday by having her photograph taken.
You took my picture exactly fifteen years ago today, she confronted him. Do you remember me?
Delve into the past as he would Mr. Estenson couldn't recall any two-year-old Miss who had posed for her picture exactly fifteen years ago to that day. He gave any clue to the appearance of his customer. There was a just possibility, Mr. Estenson thought, that after those fifteen years she didn't resemble very much the youngster, but how was he to know? And she didn't like it one bit either.

NEERING A PAIR of baggy old knicker coming down the street one's first thought is that he's just another one of those tourists finding his way up town from the Tourist Park. 'Twas a time when you could be cock sure that he was a tourist, but not so now. When the knickers come bither, he's apt to turn out to be Charlie Green, or any of those local golf artists. You can scrutinize the plaid socks, and the sweater that boasts of nearly the same pattern and color scheme, but you'll get no clue there as to who 'tis. Not until you get a close view of the golfer and see the gleam in underneath his cap, that sits on one ear, do you recognize which one of 'em it is.

Who ever at the Busy Bee Cafe the other day, they didn't know Charlie Green from a hole in the ground, so there you are.

THE REPUBLICANS are afraid of doing anything to disturb business and the Democrats don't know what business they're talking about.
ONE CAR SALESMAN gleams from statistics that there's one car smashed up every minute. Maybe it's right judging from the number of cars around our garages on Monday morning, Gladstone must be contributing close to their quota on creek ends anyway.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is getting to be quite a fisherman. Just think of it. He caught five fish last trout, in half an hour, in his little stream down at Brule, where he's spending his vacation. And two of these trout, he got on the same line.

Nobody else fishes in Mr. Coolidge's little stream, and they keep the fish hungry, so the poor trout have only one alternative, either starvation, or eating Mr. Coolidge's worms. And you know what happened to the five of them that were so tempted.
That's a peach of a catch, the photographers and newspaper reporters gathered in the back ground conceded. In time Cal may be able to pull in the bag net if he continues to take good care of his little fish pond.

ONE EDITOR SPEAKS favorably of Lindbergh as a forthcoming successful diplomat for the United States in dealing with our foreign relations. "We're going to find Lindbergh holding an ambassadorial appointment when he gets a few years older, and we can count him capable of untangling any kind of international snarl" he says.
Yes, maybe he'd make a success as an ambassador just as he would at lots of other things, because he'd apply himself in whatever endeavor

Observations and Comment by Alice Fox

But you can't picture Colonel Lindbergh in the time worn ambassador's uniform, beginning with the patent leather shoes and spats and topped off with a silk hat, and swinging a cane from one side and dangling his kid gloves in the other hand. Lindbergh somehow doesn't fit into such a picture. He comes closer to the hearts of the American people in a pair of grease spotted canvasalls.

THE PUBLIC is continually wondering about what happens to the best news makers of the past why they never hear any more about him. Lita Grey, for instance, who crowded front pages for a long time. And Gertrude Ederle will have to take another trip across the English Channel if she expects to have any more of the same success that he was. The other day some one inquired what had happened to Doc Stewart's big orange umbrella top, that he used to adorn his Ford last summer. But this sunshade can't have traveled the path of the news makers like ever remember her name. It certainly can't allow that orange umbrella to go into obscurity with Gertrude Ederle and Lita Grey.

TODAY IS FRIDAY, THE THIRTEENTH. The Thirteenth is usually bad enough, but a combination of that date and Friday too is one that makes all superstitious folk keep long ways away from black cats and broken mirrors. 'S funny, but just fact that such ancient superstition remains in folk to make them wary of a Friday the 13th, makes you feel like going out and walking under ladders, smashing mirrors and following black cat around.

And Friday the 13th, ought to be the day of days to defy superstition.

WOMAN ON BEL TEST

East Lansing—Mrs. Hazel A. Tubbs Armada, has been awarded a prize of fifty dollars for suggesting the best name for a group of the leading sugar beet growers of Michigan.

The name contest, conducted by sugar companies of Michigan and Michigan State College, was entered by several hundred Michigan farmers members of their families. Farm women were especially successful in suggesting names.

The title suggested by Mrs. Tubbs "Banner Beet Growers," was selected after the hundreds of titles had been reduced to those sent in by J. Liscomb, Merrill, Helen Paxton, McBride; Mrs. Everett Henderson, Memphis; M. E. Sellers, Akron; Lewis Gilman, Vandalia; Mrs. Will Klahn, Lowell; Jessie E. Yawner, Hale; Mrs. L. H. Bates, Romeo; Harry Truaxer, Yale; Arthur Johnson, Bangor; Mrs. Theodore Doll Forest Hill; and Mrs. Maude Steele, St. Charles.

Selection of members of the group will be determined by their success in producing a crop of beets by methods which are practical and which leave the grower a fair profit for his work and the capital which he has invested.

NATIONAL FOREST AREAS PROJECTED IN U. P.
The seventeenth annual meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau in Ontonagon June 27 and 28 commended the recent establishment of two national forest areas in the upper peninsula, and suggested to the U. S. forest service that a third unit be erected in the western part of the Peninsula.
Recommendations will be made to the forestry department that the two or possibly three units be designated as the Hiawatha National Forest of northern Michigan.

TEST ON BEL TUB TITLE

Fifty of the leading sugar beet growers of Michigan have been nominated for places in the first year's group of Banner Beet Growers. Twenty of these men will be chosen.

Selection of members of the group will be determined by their success in producing a crop of beets by methods which are practical and which leave the grower a fair profit for his work and the capital which he has invested.
