JUST FACE TRIAL ON GIRL'S CHARGE

FRANK VOYLES BOUND OVER TO CIRCUIT COURT AFTER HEARING HERE

Frank Voyles, of Taylorville, Ky., who claims to have been touring in this region in the interests of his business as a salesman of concessions used by carnivals, was bound over to the October term of Circuit Court for trial on a charge of murder preferred against him on charges brought by Dorothy Braslow of Manistowic on August 2. The ruling was made by Justice Phelan after all the evidence was presented at a hearing at the City Hall which occupied all Wednesday. Prosecuting Attorney G. W. Jackson appeared for the people and Atty. Torval E. Strom of Escanaba for the defense.

Bonds Set at $10,000
It was also agreed Wednesday to set Friday morning as the time of hearing of similar charges brought against Raymond Richardson by Edna O'Berry both of whom were in the party on the night the attacks are alleged to have taken place. Both the men have been held at the county jail under bonds of $10,000.

Among the witnesses in the Voyles trial Wednesday were Edna O'Berry, Tucker of Manistowic, the two girls who are the complaining witnesses, another girl from Manistowic, who was in the party with them before the alleged attack, and the two defendants. The question of fact which is a jury matter is left to the jury to determine, according to the ruling of the court, as to whether or not force was used by the two men. The witnesses disagree on this point. Testimony in an agreement that the four, along with some others, were on a dancing party on the night of Aug. 2, and the next night the four went out together. The attack is alleged to have taken place along U. S. 2 just beyond the turn of the highway going to Garden.

FINISH STORM SEWER TO CONTROL DRAINAGE

The crew of workmen engaged for the past three weeks in constructing the storm water sewer along Wisconsin street on Eighth street to the bay is expected to have finished the job by the end of the week. The work is being done under the direction of City Manager F. R. Buechner and Water Chief R. Radant. The concrete pipe segments constructed in Gladstone have caused a surplus of water on those streets, more than can be carried away by the sewer system, and at places such as Wisconsin street between 9th and 6th streets on days with a heavy boom trouble has been encountered with an overflow and also a back-up in basements of private homes. It is to take care of these conditions that the storm water sewer is being built at a cost of about $10,000. It is to be an overflow of storm water will find an outlet through it.

Still The Undisputed Champion

WAS FISHERMAN IN EARLY DAYS

JOHN SCHAAWE CAME TO THIS SECTION AFTER SAILING ON GREAT LAKES
John Schaawe, 69 years of age, who came to this section to engage in commercial fishing in the early days of that industry, died at his home at Kipling at 8:15 Tuesday morning. Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the home where he was joined by his brother, Henry Theo. Hoffman of the German Lutheran church, Gladstone officiating. Burial was in Fernwood cemetery.

He came to America in 1883 to follow his vocation as a sailor and for several years sailed on the Great Lakes out of Green Bay, Wis. He is known as Schaawe's landing, just south of Garth. It was at the latter place that Schaawe brothers founded a brick manufacturing industry. They own a wide tract of land with over a mile of shore line and along part of this shore is a bed of clay suitable for the making of a fine quality brick. The industry was progressing nicely when the World war created a shortage of labor and other difficulties which caused the plant to be abandoned. In the year 1923 the machinery and kilns were moved to Kipling, where it continued to be operated. His intention was to bring the clay to this side to be manufactured. The receding waters of the lake interfered with these plans. John Schaawe was active two years ago when he was above at the State Fair at Detroit, Grand Rapids and Escanaba and a number of the larger county fairs this fall. P. I. Hoffman is to supervise the placing of exhibits. The exhibit will be an educational project, giving students an idea of the scope and nature of the work the Department is doing.

WILLIAM B. YOUNG GETS LAST CALL

FORMER RESIDENT WHO DIED IN WEST BURLIED HERE WEDNESDAY

William B. Young, a prominent resident of this village for many years until he moved to Montana in 1906, died at his home in Conway Wash., August 17th. He was due to a cancer of the stomach from which he had been suffering for several years. The body was brought here for burial, arriving Tuesday morning and taken to the home of a son, Reuben C. Young where the services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

William B. Young was born May 4, 1855 in lower Michigan and moved with his parents when a boy to Wisconsin. He arrived here in 1886 from Baylvs Harbor, Wis and the following year moved his family here. He soon entered into the lumbering business, taking into partnership George E. Merrill, the firm name of Young and Merrill being the most prominent in the early growth of the village. A large general store was conducted on the present site of the Caswell garage and the second floor was the village office. It was the scene of many a political rally during the McKinley-Bryan campaign in 1896 as well as the leading one night shows of the time. Some of the best made the town in those days. The store was destroyed in the big fire of 1899 which wiped out two blocks of business places. Mr. Young also engaged in farming here and owned a large farm near Brampton. He moved to Montana in 1906 where he continued farming until a few years ago when he moved to Washington where he had a small fruit farm but lived a more retired life. The deceased is survived by his wife of a second marriage and six children. William Jr., Seattle, Wash. Ted of Spokane, Wash., Mrs. Williams, Cheyenne, Wyo., Edwin Martin, Conway, Wash. Mrs. Jos. B. Martin and R. C. Young of this village. Mrs. H. E. Pfeiffer, a sister. The widow and a little granddaughter, Marvonne Martin accompanied the body from Washington.

The pallbearers were Arthur and John Kniskern of the Soo, Veve Kniskern of Negaunee and Dallas Kniskern, all members of the deceased, Joseph B. Martin, a son-in-law and William I. Martin a close friend.

Many old friends of the deceased and of the family called at the home to pay their respects to one who was held in high esteem and respected by all during his early life here.

SCHOOL BELLS TO RING ON MONDAY

DIFFICULT TO SECURE TEACHERS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS THIS YEAR

School bells throughout the township will ring at 8:45 Monday morning a joyous note of welcome to the pupils to begin study that will continue with very little interruption until near June after a vacation of twelve weeks spent in work and play. The early opening date has its advantages in an early closing in June when the warm weather makes teaching as well as studying rather disagreeable.

The rural schools close in May, having nine months of school. The high school did not close until June 13 this year because of a longer vacation period taken at Christmas but with a shorter vacation period during the holidays the high school may close as early as June 6.

Supt. L. C. Wolfe will have the same teaching personnel in each school as last year with the exception of a Mathematics teacher, Miss Evelyn L. Swenson of Cochrane, Minn. will teach Math. Wolfe will teach in Iowa this year. W. J. Miller will begin his seventeenth year as a teacher in the local school and will serve as principal.

Miss Irene D. Detsch, Public Speaking and 6th grade; Miss Ina Short, 4th and 5th grades; Miss Margaret Hamilton, 2nd and 3rd grades; Miss Mary Jettner, 1st grade and kindergarten.

The rural schools of the township is presenting serious difficulty to the school board and Supt. Wolfe in procuring teachers in time for the opening of the schools on Monday. The requirements now make it a hard task to get normal school graduates to accept a rural school at the salary in force in this township. The pay has remained the same as it was when the teachers were not required to complete a full year of study at a normal. The difficulty may be somewhat overcome in a year or two by the normal course to be carried out in Escanaba. It will make it possible for Delta county high school graduates to complete a year's normal course at much less cost than at Marquette or some other state normal.

Of six co-operating in the rural schools only two have been filled. Miss Amelia Troutier will again teach at the North Delta school and Miss Isabel Racine of Cochrane will teach at Fuhman's. The Oiler and Minor schools and the two rooms of the Masonville school are without teachers although a number of contracts have been sent out to teachers who applied. It is doubtful if these positions will be filled in time for the opening of the schools on Monday.

ERECTION OF FIRE TOWER COMPLETED BY STATE MEN

The new home of Henry Ross towerman, was completed Thursday under the supervision of James Sutfill and Harold Peter of Wolverton. The new tower is 102 feet high, standing on a base 22x22 feet. The base is of concrete 3 1/2 feet deep. Offset ladders inside with a platform every seven feet afford an easy way to the top. The cabin is 7 by 7 feet and all enclosed with windows giving a beautiful view over miles of country. Henry's garden is being made in the green vegetable and is going to see it that no fires are started in it with any disastrous results.

Work in dismantling the old tower was started Saturday and the new tower was completed Thursday noon. The old tower has been stored for the present but may not again be put in use as the state is now making use of small towers with 100 foot tops.

H. O. Danielson.

Road Nearly Finished. L'ANSE—The contractors expect to finish the work graveling the newly built portion of the L'Anse-Skance road in about a week. Where Economy of Distribution and Large Group Buying Make Possible Important Savings to Millions of Families

WHEN our New Store throws open its doors, it will present an entirely new idea in Distribution Service.

First of all, it will be a Local Service Institution, attuned to local needs, in harmony with local projects, managed by local people.

It will be a better local store because of its National Resources, making possible Economy in Buying and Operating.

Most important of all, this Store will have an individually selected stock of goods—not standardized—not just like that of any other J. C. Penney Company Store—but bought by our Manager for this Store and for this Community.

The folks who buy at this New Store will buy here—not because it is part of a National Organization, not because we have other Stores extending "from Ocean to Ocean"—but because of WHAT THIS STORE CAN DO FOR THEM!

And that is as it should be. We expect to build this business strictly on the merits of THIS STORE and its Service to you.

But because of our National Relation to the World's Markets, and because of our ability to effect very large savings in everything we buy—because of these things—we expect to make our Local Store Service more convincingly apparent than would otherwise be possible.

A Weekly Panorama of Events in the National Capital, by Peter Keegan, Special Correspondent for Delta Reporter.

HERBERT HOOVER has no patience with intolerance. He notes there have been occasional outbreaks of religious intolerance, but it meets with no encouragement from him. Of Quaker stock, he had early ancestors who suffered in having their ears cropped as a punishment for alleged heresy. He recently told this story to friends. He had this in mind when he declared in his acceptance speech that he stands for religious tolerance "both in act and in spirit."

BEFORE a visible audience, Hoover is a very poor speaker but over the radio he sounds like a champion spell-binder. He is a large man physically, but has a voice with little natural carrying power. But amplifiers and radio made oratory unnecessary when he delivered his address of acceptance.

THE FLORIDA storm was a blessing in disguise for Washington. The national capital had been torrid for days and days when the end of the Florida blow came, to town, accompanied by several inches of rain, and ended the heat wave that was causing daily prostrations and deaths.

BOTH POLITICAL parties have their bolters. One day you read of a prominent Democrat declining to vote for Smith and the next day some equally prominent Republican shifts from Hoover to Smith. It appears there will be plenty of independence at the polls in November. The shifting voters make present appraisal of the political situation difficult.

HOOVER'S TRIP to California and back represents about the only trip of any length during the campaign. Millions may hear him over the radio, but comparatively few voters are going to have a chance to see him. It is expected he will not make more than five or six more addresses during the campaign and some of these, with a radio hook-up, likely will be made from his Washington residence. Hoover is a far better organizer than a speaker. He thinks he can do the most good by organizing party forces than by addressing voters. Other Republican leaders will do whatever barnstorming is required.

AL SMITH, however, is an attractive speaker. He is an entertainer and says and does things that win him applause. And as the nominee of the minority party it is up to him to be the aggressor. He believes in a short, snappy campaign; it is likely though, that he will make appearances in several parts of the country. His managers want him to sell his personality to voters.

GEORGE E. BRENNAN, Democrat, Illinois, who died recently, was a skilled politician of wide influence who became known in political circles from one end of the country to the other, but he was never a seeker after office or honors for himself. Many years ago he held a minor office, but that represented his only experience as a public official. He was in politics because it was a game he enjoyed; politics was his recreation.

AIR-MAIL postage rates have been cut square in two—now you may send a one ounce letter any distance by airmail for five cents or ten cents for each additional ounce. The airmail is now carrying about 215,000 pounds of mail per month.

OUT AT the presidential vacation grounds, Mrs. Coolidge is taking a five mile tramp every day the weather permits. The secret of it is that Mrs. Coolidge, like many another woman, wants to keep her weight down though she is by no means what might be called fleshy. Walking is a year-around habit with her. When in Washington she hikes more miles than she rides in an automobile. She uses the auto only for transportation to functions.

SENATOR JAMES E. Watson is the prospective successor to Senator Curtis as floor leader of the U. S. Senate—that is provided Curtis should be elected Vice President. Watson is now the assistant floor leader, chairman of the powerful interstate commerce committee, member of the finance committee and the chairman of the committee that assigns all Republican Senators to the various committees. He was an opponent of Hoover in the Kansas City convention, but has since become a Hoover adviser on campaign plans.

SEPTEMBER and October will be the real campaign months. August is too hot for political excitement.

CONGRESSIONAL ELECTORS to be held in Maine September 13th. Both parties will give this state attention. It is the only state that elects congressmen in advance of the regular November election.

NOW DO YOU KNOW

None other than Atty. Torva Strom of Escanaba, candidate for nomination as Judge of Probate, opposing Judge Judd Yealand. The contest is the closest in the Sept. 4 primary and its outcome is being watched with a great deal of interest.

Truth Never Sounds Right. A customer walked into a Gladstone furniture store and selected an article, telling the clerk to charge it. "On what account?" asked the clerk. "On account of not having any money with me." The most tiresome person in the world is the one who is always bargaining on himself.

Observations and Comment by Alice Fox

TO BE HISSICK is bad enough, but to be at home sick when you're supposed to be on your vacation, is much worse. All the family remedies for three generations back... Wontilins and fever are applied, everything from cold compresses for your head, to nice bread and milk poultices for the sore throat. As the latter is rolled around your neck, you recall the tale heard in your childhood of how—Once upon a time, your grandmother's great great grandmother with still a few more "greats," had a sore throat. She placed a bread and milk poultice around her neck at night, and in the morning, the sore throat had vanished. Incidentally, the poultice came off during the night, which proves even more its effectiveness in curing in a shorter time. Wonderful poultice, and in its place, so probably the tinx was broken.

THE DOCTOR'S PILLS, some big white ones, and some little white ones, and a thermometer are on a table by the bed. Every little while somebody rushes in and takes your temperature, and leaves with the admonition, "You've got to take your water." You get the pills exactly on time, the big white ones every hour, and the little ones every three hours. But usually, you don't take your own account, you should be getting the little ones when the big ones come.

When you suggest that you take two of them instead of one to rush things along a bit, a friend tells you a story of a man who received a box of pills from a physician. He said, "If a little is good, more must be better." He took the entire box for one dose. The dear man passed into the next world without even recalling that he had taken a box of pills. So we concluded that we had one at a time.

A DRIZZLING RAIN was falling against the window pane, and the wind was beating the branches in a tree close by. We had an idea. We closed our eyes and "make believe," that it was the sound of the waves washing against the shores of Muskego Lake, where we were to spend the vacation. It worked for a little while, but suddenly an odor of fishweed was wafted from the kitchen, and we awoke to the fact that a new poultice was enroute.

IN THE EVENING THE RADIO was turned on, and a program of old time music featured by "Alice Ben Bolt" was thoughtfully and tearful melodies as "Old Black ground," "Massa's in de cold cold land," came in distinctly. Between each song the chorus of "Alice Ben Bolt," was sung, the subtle tale of how she lies in the old church vault in the valley. We decided to go to sleep, and wondered if that Ben Bolt girl could have had tonsillitis too.

During the night there were loud peels of thunder each a breeze torn from the preceding one. BY MORNING We considered all tonsils a hardship, and wondered why we have 'em in the first place. When folks in their turn came, we the once over and inquired, "How do you feel?" We gurgled forth, standable as though we had a mouth full of mush, and the effect was entirely lost. One of the folks sighed, and said, "Dear, real sweetly, and then, "Too bad, and now your vacation is all spoiled." We managed a crafty smile, and made a mental note to be on all sympathizers in the future.

More days, more big and little white pills, new poultices, and plaster concoctions. QUITE A FEW OF our stores have musical instruments, little or large. We hear no music all week, and they sell them, and there is even one nickel player piano in town.

A SIGN AT WELLS near the street car line intersection reading, "You are now in Wells," in big black letters that take up a full poster board, makes one feel rather insignificant and unknown. Just as though you had been taking a Rip Van Winkle sleep, and then suddenly awakening you have to be told exactly where you are. It may be though that Wells residents feel that folks who don't know their little settlement would not recognize the few scattered houses and couple of general stores in a little village at all. Surely they don't mean to tell us folks from their close by "You are now in Wells."

MOST OF THESE Advocates of the eight daylight saving plan are the folks who can't get up in the morning even with a 98 alarm clock shrieking under their pillow. They want to be wakened up at all. Surely they don't mean to tell us folks from their close by "You are now in Wells."

Continue T. B. Test HOUGHTON—to protect an investment of nearly $100,000 in bovine tuberculosis eradication, the Houghton county board of supervisors took steps to maintain the county's status as a modified accredited county by calling upon County Agricultural Agent Leo M. Geismar to supervise the enforcement of the quarantine relative to imported cattle. The resolution adopted by the board also requested the cooperation of the county milk inspector in this work.

Buyer New Yacht MEMONINE—E. P. Smith, who a few weeks ago purchased the 10-passenger speedboat "Loafee," which has been burning up the bay with speed near the 50-mile-an-hour mark, has also purchased the "Josephine B," a commodious 56-foot eight-passenger cabin cruiser. The yacht was purchased from Chicago parties and is declared to be a thorough sea-going craft elegantly fitted with conveniences.

See Trees Damaged SAULT STE MARIE—So much damage has been done in Sault Ste Marie to lindens and elms by Tussock moth that City Manager Henry A. Sherman has asked the Davey Tree Expert company to diagnose the insects and suggest a remedy for their ravages.

Three Electric Proposals BARAGA—Proposals from three companies to furnish electric current to the village of Baraga were received at a meeting of the village council. The proposals were made by the Houghton County Electric Light company, the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company and W. S. Prickett, of Sidway. The electricity would be sold at wholesale rates to the village, to be retailed by the village for private use. The Houghton County Electric Light company now has lines extending far across the sell, and these could be extended to Baraga. The Wisconsin-Michigan firm already is selling current in Iron county and has lines built as far as Amasa. These would be extended to Baraga if the company's proposal is accepted. The Prickett bid explained a plan to build a dam on the Hervey falls on the Sturgeon river, the power so derived to be furnished to the village for retailing. The village was sent to the falls to investigate. Mr. Prickett asked a return of eight per cent of eight per cent investment of $800,000. Action on the proposals was deferred

In a picture decidedly different from anything in which she has appeared in the past, Colleen Moore, in "Happiness Ahead," plays a National star, comes to the Riothe Theatre next Wed. and Thurs. in her latest starring picture, "Happiness Ahead."

Although this production provides her with every opportunity to display her excellent flair for comedy, Moore will also be seen in moments of deep drama, in which she is said to have proven an unusually capable actress.

"Happiness Ahead" is the story of a little country girl who marries a city card-sharp, believing him to be an entirely honest young business man. The manner in which she discovers the truth, and the subsequent action of the principal characters, gives "Happiness Ahead," a plot which is unique in the extreme. Edmund Lowe plays the chief supporting role in "Happiness Ahead" which was written by Edmund Goulding.

"Spoilers of the West" Replete with Action, Charm and Romance One of the best Western films brought to the screen during the last year is "Spoilers of the West," Tim McCoy's new Western melodrama which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is presenting this week at the Riothe Theatre. The picture is replete with action vividly colored and contains a charming love romance such as is seldom seen in a picture of this character.

There is no doubt that McCoy, who came to the screen only a little more than a year ago, does his best work in this picture, not only as a soldier and stunt rider but as a lover. Marjorie Dewar, who appears with him in the featured feminine lead, is an old trouper as far as years of service in films go, but still as winsome and charming a young lady as when she was being featured a few years back by Marshall Neilan.

"RINTY OF THE DESERT" Rinty fans, and who is not a Rinty fan, will be delighted to know that the Wonder Dog comes to the Riothe this Saturday. In Warner Bros. latest starring vehicle, "Rinty of the Desert," Rinty-Tin-Tin is first seen as an outlaw dog who leaves the regions of sand and cactus, by way of a passing truck, and finds himself at home with old man Marlowe and his pretty granddaughter, Mary, keepers of a small dime museum. Mary's young man, Pat Casey of the police force, becomes a friend of Rinty's. The big-hearted dog, not contented with his limited friendships, also adopts a litter of orphan puppies.

All goes well till Mason, a dishonest partner of Marlowe, learns the old man's away. Pat Casey and Rinty go in search of him. The gang capture and imprison Casey, and escape, leaving him to be attacked by a ferocious bull-dog. Rinty is accused of attacking his master, and sentenced to be shot. Then begins the exciting action of the play—action which shows Rinty more alive than ever! Fiery! Agile. Brilliant.

GRIPPING CRIME PICTURE SHOWN There can be no dissenting word about "State Street Sadie," the Warner Brothers' crook melodrama which opens Tuesday at the Riothe Theatre. There is one of the most novel mystery pictures possible to conceive, crowded with gripping situations that hold interest at white heat.

Seldom has so fine a cast been assembled. There is Conrad Nagel, Myrna Loy and William Russell heading the cast, and George Stone and Pat Hartigan, as members of a daring bandit gang. The plot deals with the successful expose of a phantom "Chief," the mysterious leader of a band of bank looters. After a member of

The same purpose motivates the daughter of the police officer shot by the bandits. Together they work out a pretty piece of manoeuvring to bag the bank buccannier, but not before they have themselves been within an inch of being drilled by a maximum sniper.

THE WHEEL OF CHANCE TURNS—OUT POPE A MELTING POT FILM "The Wheel of Chance" is not a familiar tale that is gambling halls of Monte Carlo, nor has it any thing whatever to do with devices of chance.

The newest Richard Barthelmess starring feature which comes to the Riothe Theatre next Sunday and Monday has given the impression, because of its title, that the story revolved around the famous roulette wheel. As a matter of fact, "Boulette," the title of Fannie Hurst's story from which the film was made, was derived from the familiar rule that in roulette when black wins red must lose, and vice versa.

In "The Wheel of Chance," the picture version of "Boulette," there are twin brothers, one black haired and the other red. These two boys are separated by a trick of fate in Russia and twenty years later they meet under very dramatic circumstances in modern New York. Barthelmess plays both roles.

"The Wheel of Chance," aside from giving Richard Barthelmess unusual "historic" opportunities, gives his director, Alfred Santell, another triumph to add to his list which includes "The Patent Leather Kid" and "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." The cast includes such notable names as Lina Barakat in the feminine lead, Marjorie Livingston as the "other woman," Bodi Rosing in the role of the mother, Warner Oland as the father, Jacob Abrams, Ann Schaefer, the twin boys, Roy and Ray Berendzen, Sidney Franklin, Marjorie Franklin and many others.

Both arms around the sword, pressing it close to her breast, Dolores rested her cheek against the hilt. She wondered what Buckwell intended to do about the new developments. But that worry paled into insignificance beside her new grief.

In the wall case that had been made especially for him in Buckwell's private underground sanctuary, the secret room that could be reached only through hidden doors and of strange bewildering passageway. Again shrieking laughter filled the room. The dwarf knew that it maddened Buckwell and it was his only means of torment. He delighted to employ it—lonely and often.

"Oh, Granddaddy!" she cried and with heart almost breaking knelt on the ground beside his body and reverently placed the sword between them. Then she bowed her head and silently said a prayer which ended with a vow to avenge his death.

"Shut up! You scum of hell!" yelled Buckwell. "You curse, my brother—that is one sin more!" he stopped laughing and continued grimly. "Is it any comfort to me that some innocent senseless tells me when you sin, and I must wait patiently to witness the sight of your cringing, hypocritical penitence. Talk to me! I have no one with whom to exchange ideas—but I know—oh, yes, I know, and sense he laughed and added to the din by rattling the bars of his cage.

"Have Jimmie upstairs within the hour!" he commanded shortly of San Toy who waited with willing and eager hands to relieve him of hat and cane.

"Keep quiet, you damned imbecile!" Angered beyond control Buckwell rose from his knees and strode to the barred window, his face distorted with rage.

"Yes, yes, it is done," she nodded understandingly, but in her heart wondered what new scheme her master was plotting that he needed his favorite spy.

"Kill me!—an ready—I wait patiently for death to release me from this inferno. The dwarf stopped laughing and looked expectantly at his brother.

She had seen little of Buckwell lately and would like to have sat at his feet while he smoked and perhaps played with her as when he laid plans for some campaign. However, his word was law and with only a reluctant backward glance that he did not trouble to notice.

Buckwell halted—he wanted to crush the life out of Dolores and feared the wrath of his Gods too strongly. With bowed head he turned back to the altar, fell on his sacrilegious knees and prayed in prayer.

San Toy darted away through a maze of underground passages to a notorious gambling hall where Jimmie could usually be found.

After a half hour's devotion Buckwell cast aside the influence of his blood inheritance and again assuming the attire and facial expression of a wealthy leader of the western world went above to his sumptuous living room and found Jimmie awaiting his orders.

Divesting himself of frock coat Buckwell slipped into his handsome mandarin creation and knelt at his own Chinese shrine, before the God of his real fathers. Reclining to see if he prayed in a frenzy to the Buddha whom he had cheated and whom he feared would some day conspire with the Christian God to work his ruin.

Until further notice they were simple this. "Don't let Dolores Vasquez get out of your sight. I want to know everything she says or does or plans to do. If you fail me, Jimmie understood and lost no time in getting on the job.

Forgive me! Forgive me!" he ended his prayer aloud, then continued muttering in an undertone.

It was a pitifully small gathering of friends who made the last final tribute to Hernandez de Vasquez, and Dolores was the only relative. The last male member of the Vasquez family was laid at rest in the burial ground of his ancestors close by the walls of the famous old mission.

"So—you have sinned again, my brother," shouted the dwarf gleefully, pressing his hideous, grinning face against the window as he clung to the bars and held himself up after the fashion of a hung, armed monkey. And now you stand alone, ace of a God whose feet even you are not worthy to touch.

He was determined, however, to avenge her Grandfather and bring his slaver to justice—for she felt that Buckwell had truly killed him. But she was weak and Buckwell was so powerful that she despaired of being able to do it, and fearful to even meet him.

A wild peal of laughter filled the room and Buckwell shuddered. Many times he had cursed himself for lacking the courage to kill the deformed brother whose discerning mind always detected his faults and taunted him with his transgressions. It would have been a relief to send him away but even that was impossible because he would talk and reveal their nationality, the one thing that Buckwell took every precaution to conceal. No, the only safe place for his brother was locked up more terrified. Immediately after her Grandfather's burial as she and Terry sat by the patio fountain discussing the best way to meet the situation her hands clenched convulsively and she turned to him saying, "Oh! I know I should not have trusted him—I should never have let him enter our home."

CHAPTER XIII Dolores Plots Venueance

The fast horses that Buckwell had engaged for the trip to the Rancho carried him back to town in record time. Without hesitating in the outer chambers he hurried to his underground quarters.

Gunnar VanToll, of Whitehall, formerly associated with Andrew Erickson in the drug store business in Gladstone, tells of visits from Gladstone folks.

Whitehall, Mich., 8-14-28 Delta Reporter, Gladstone, Gentlemen:

Enclosed find check for $1.00 for which please credit my account. We had a pleasant visit with the family of James Jones a few days ago and today we received a call by another former Gladstone boy, Horace R. Martin, druggist, from Flint, and his family. He learned the drug business under me in the old Erickson & VanToll drug store way back in 1908-09. His mother Mrs. Della Martin, then resided in Gladstone.

Best regards to the staff and friends. I am a neighbor of Harry Skeels, Editor of Whitehall Forum weekly. Yours truly, G. VanToll changed his nationality—he came down a Russian.

"Yes," he replied, falling in with his humor, "but we heard further that this aviator carried a passenger who also changed his nationality—he landed on some telegraph wires and came down a Pole."

Our Reporter Observes--

THAT even the city park is being improved during the real warm evenings.

THAT on Monday, wash day, one just needs to glance around to see all the colors of the rainbow hanging on the lines.

THAT the tennis court is in great demand. One sees them there from the early hours of the morning until the late hours of the evening.

THAT a few electric signs would improve our main drag.

THAT two out of every four cars passing Ninth and Delta carry tourists.

THAT the farmer's market held every Saturday on the corner of 8th and Delta is a real busy place between the hours of seven and twelve.

THAT even the little tots of five or more are attempting the great game of tennis.

THAT one of the many questions the clerk in a grocery store must answer often is "Have you any corn today?" Or, "What have you in the line of green vegetables?"

WILL MAKE PARK AT BIG SPRING SITE

One of nature's curiosities has recently come into the possession of the state of Michigan. A spring of water that measures 200 to 250 feet across, is 40 to 45 feet deep and has a constant temperature of 36 degrees Fahrenheit, is the latest feature to be added to the State's splendid chain of park properties.

The spring is located on a 137 acre tract of land near Indian Lake in Schoolcraft County and was donated to the State by the Palms-Book estate of Detroit.

The spring is surrounded by deep forests, making it a beauty spot that is seldom matched anywhere. The bushy stillness of the forest, the mirror-like bosom of this body of crystal-clear all add to its attractiveness.

P. J. Hoffmaster, Superintendent of State Parks for the Conservation Department, testifying to the transparency of the water, says that a dime dropped in the spring can be readily followed by the eye until it comes to rest on the dazzling white bottom, 40 feet below.

It is said that bits of printed matter that reach the sand can be read from the surface. The columns of water rising in the spring can be seen stirring the sands as they emerge from still greater depths.

The water is so cold that no living things such as fish, frogs or snakes can exist in it. Denizens of the water which find their way into the spring in a short time become paralyzed with cold. The spring is, therefore entirely free from organic matter.

Many people in the legends are written around this piece of nature's handwork. The State plans to make a State park of the territory, giving to Michigan another attractive link in its chain of summer recreation grounds.

Serious Fire

MANISTIQUE—Starting in Section 10, 43-16, the first bad forest fire reported this season, has been keeping a crew of 255 men busy in the Upper Smith's creek area of Hiawatha this week. The blaze has run over several hundred acres of marsh land along the M and L. S. right-of-way and up toward M-94, spreading into section 24. Efforts of the fire fighters are being expended to keep the conflagration confined to this area and keep it out of other timbered tracts. Volunteers reported an unusual sight when a pure white deer scurried out of the smoke-laden area to take refuge in some safer place. Later, a big bear was seen also making a hasty exit.

Pasteurization Is a Public Health Safeguard

(From "All About Milk," published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.)

"For family use, it is advisable to obtain milk already pasteurized by a trustworthy dairy. It is cheaper, safer and better to heat milk by wholesale in a large plant with competent supervision than to depend upon each household heating its daily supply. If drinking water needs purification, it is filtered at a central station and not left for each individual kitchen."

ENSIGN WINS SHUT OUT VICTORY AT PERKINS

The Ensign Harvesters gave the far Perkins team a fine coat of whitewash on the Perkins diamond Sunday afternoon, winning 6 to 0. Both teams played good ball, but the Ensign crew were too heavy for the Perkins nine. The feature of the game was the pitching of Gus Roy Anderson who allowed the Perkins batsmen but three well scattered hits. He struck out 11. The Ensign team played athletic ball behind him, giving Perkins no chance. The score by innings: R H E Ensign 301 000 020-6 8 2 Perkins 000 000 000-0 3 5

REARING OF FINGERLING TROUT BEING PROMOTED

The Department of Conservation is continuing the building of nurseries which will be used to promote the rearing of fingerling trout. As readily as suitable sites are found and approved, the nurseries are being constructed. The Department in this part has specialized in the distribution of advanced fry but the present program is to change gradually to the point where fingerlings will be planted in preference to fry.
