U. P. STATE FAIR ESCORTS NEXT WEEK

"WE WANT YOU WITH US" SLOGAN OF FIRST SHOW ARRANGES FOR PENINSULA

GLADSTONE TO JOIN IN

(Development Bureau News) Months of effort, money, planning and organization on the part of the board of managers and the executives of the Upper Peninsula State Fair to be held at Escanaba, September 17-22, have produced abundant fruit in the opinion of those who have watched the development of this project.

To organize for an enterprise of this kind, to formulate and carry out a building program to construct a premium list, to procure entertainment features, and to insure the presentation of a worthy, well-balanced program, truly outraging the agricultural, economic and industrial assets, regarding the prosperity of a district as large as Michigan's northern peninsula, has been a task of significant proportions. But visitors to the fair are assured that the first Upper Peninsula State fair will, in every particular, be worthy of a rank among the best state fairs in the entire country.

The familiarity of Governor Fred W. Green with fairs and fair problems has been a decided asset to the Upper Peninsula State fair since the legislature created the fair, appropriated a substantial sum for its development and outlined machinery for its conduct. Fifteen directors, one from each county in the peninsula were appointed by the governor and all of these appointments have stood the tests from the very outset.

A Representative Board August A. Lundquist of Delta county was named by the governor as president, A. W. Thompson of Iron Mountain, as vice-president, C. M. Sisker of Manistowic, as second vice-president, and I. S. Weidman of Trout Creek, treasurer. Other members of the board are W. A. Munroe of Manistowic, Dr. J. Backlund of Baraga, A. Wesley Clarke of Sault Ste. Marie, Abiel L. Rummel of Wakefield, Earl D. McDonald of Calumet, L. A. Johnson of Iron River, Dr. W. T. King of Anamack, John T. Turnbull of Newberry, David E. Perkins of Marquette and Dr. A. Sanders of Steneshon.

The board elected W. A. Munroe, former county clerk of Delta county, as secretary-treasurer. Herbert E. Powell, head of the state (Continued on next ten)

FIRST FOOTBALL GAME WITH CRYSTAL FALLS

Gladstone High School's football season will open Saturday September 29th at Crystal Falls, and Coach Keil has about thirty men at work each night at the close of school out of which he expects to round out winning eleven.

The formation of an effective back field in Mr. Keil's biggest problem, last year's graduation having taken Kircher, Hoffman and Reese. Last season's ends, Switzer and Moore are also absent from the team, so that his positions will have to be filled.

The schedule, which includes four home games and the annual meet up with the Escanaba team on the local field, will be a matter of satisfaction to football fans. The list of games follows:

Oct. 6, Manistowic here.
Oct. 13, at Marquette.
Oct. 20, at Escanaba here.
Oct. 27, Norway here.
Nov. 3, at Kalamazoo.

PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR

All who look upon this exhibition as marking a new era in the inmates given to dairying and agricultural development of the Upper Peninsula will want to attend, to see what is being done to make it a success, thus showing their interest by their attendance. It is desired that all citizens of Gladstone be given an opportunity to attend, therefore:

TELLS ABOUT MOTOR BOATING PLEASURES

The pleasures of motor boating and yachting were told about by Paul Vuorhola on Monday's noonday luncheon of the Gladstone Rotary club. Vuorhola is taking up the sport in cities where facilities are available, he declared, and made the prediction that Gladstone people would soon be among the leaders in the development.

Mr. Vuorhola explained that he had secured no movement during the summer on his yacht than through motoring or other trips. He has a gas tank boat of over 70-foot length capable of traveling anywhere on the Great Lakes, but admits that Little Bay de Noc provides ample room and attraction to make it a place as suitable as any to be found anywhere.

Government regulations relating to power driven boats, licenses and inspections for those carrying passengers, and other information of a helpful nature was explained.

There are several places on Gladstone's shores where a suitable boat might be provided. Mr. Vuorhola said he thought the south shore at the old Tenth Street dock was perhaps the best, although the slip west of the old ore dock provided very desirable facility.

John Frazier, 65, North, Eighth St., who attempted suicide by slashing his throat Wednesday morning, is recovering at St. Francis Hospital. He cut quite a deep gash, about two and one half inches long on the side of his throat with a razor. He had not yet arisen when Mrs. Frazier left the house for a few minutes, about eight o'clock. Upon returning she called to him, and receiving no answer, entered the bedroom to find him prostrate with blood streaming from his throat.

Medical attention was given by Dr. D. N. Kee, and Chief of Police Erick Lindahl was called to the scene. Frazier was immediately removed to the St. Francis Hospital, where four stitches were taken to close the wound.

Enroute to the Hospital, Frazier's only regrets were that his attempt had been unsuccessful. He has been unable to work for about three years, at which time he suffered a broken leg. He has a large family of young children, and feels leaving his inability to support them.

He feared his melancholy periods and only a week ago placed himself in a third Lindahl's care, telling him that he feared that he might make a suicide attempt during times of depression. He was taken to the County Jail, but in a few days was returned to his home here.

THOSE who have contended that the primary was a failure because too few people turn out to vote should bear in mind that the voter himself or herself is best prepared to decide whether there is need to take sides. In other words if the voter is neutral minded in regard to the list of candidates entered by the party of his choice, it is his privilege to remain away from the polls. That is every bit as fair as being compelled to make a choice where there is none in the mind of the voter.

The statewide vote establishes the primary election as a worthwhile medium of choice. Every once in a while it appears that the nominee of the primary election is not suited by training to do the work expected, but this is the notable exception and on the whole it may be admitted that the people are capable of making a fair choice.

Compare, for instance, the primary of last week with the Republican and Democratic conventions to be held, the former next week on Sept. 19. There a handful of picked delegates will determine who shall be candidates for state treasurer, secretary of state, superintendent of public instruction, state highway commissioner, justices of the supreme court and a few other offices of almost equal importance. These delegates will be called upon to name these candidates and they will have no way of determining the popular choice, and they would hardly do so if they could. One or two leaders will dominate the convention and the nominees will be THEIR selections. Just watch and see.

THE trouble with political issues is that there are so many angles to be considered. Nationally it is being accepted that prohibition and religion are to play a bigger part in the selection of the next president than any other so-called issue. And the deeper you get into a discussion of the latter, the more you realize the hopelessness of ever arriving at a conclusion. American people preach temperance and prohibition and conduct themselves in a manner to suit themselves, and it must be admitted that they are liberal as a general thing when it comes to applying restrictions upon themselves. It resolves itself too much to the old axiom, "Don't do as I do but do as I say."

Al Smith as president might believe that the prohibition amendment to the constitution is working out unsatisfactorily and he may be sincere in advocating a change. But the road to that is long and beset with so many complications that the outcome is impossible to forecast. Herbert Hoover on the other hand may sincerely believe in stricter enforcement and as president he may desire to bring it about, but it can be taken for granted that the public will go on doing the things it wants to do.

But the point is that while the minds are being absorbed and the eyes of the public blinded by discussion of really insignificant issues, the practical side of building their cases to suit themselves. Our Nation is so big and interests so diverse it is hardly possible to secure unanimity of thought or action. We must simply continue on as we have, decide matters as best we can and hope for the best. And it hasn't worked out so badly after all, now has it?

MOST cities where commission-manager charters are in operation find themselves periodically confronted with the necessity of deciding for or against this new system of municipal government. There are forces constantly at work to tear down. Eaton Rapids in lower Michigan is the latest municipality where such a vote has been called for and the result is not at all surprising. The results of the election indicated the more modern form, 530 citizens voting to continue the manager form while 290 registered their disapproval.

Credit for the satisfactory vote may be given, in part at least, to the Journal, the local weekly which just before election presented a statement of the city's financial condition as compared with what it was under the old aldermanic form a few years ago. An old bonded debt had been completely wiped out, the tax rate had been reduced, more improvements had been made, the public services had been augmented. What should the people say? Why, they were satisfied and they said so with their votes. It is so disappointing to politicians who usually agitate for a change, more often than not because some of the petty graft known in the old days is no longer possible.

THESE should never be allowed to creep over the populace a feeling of over-satisfaction, one that presumes that everything is all right. The effectiveness and efficiency of any government is determined largely by the public's understanding and participation in public questions and their discussions. Public officials are only human and must necessarily err in their decisions of some of the numerous details that demand attention. The public's reaction must be based accordingly, and understanding must not be based on caustic, and unduly negative, and unbecomingly weighed against the bad and by a preponderance of the results must final judgment be passed.

Gladstone was foresighted in adopting a change at the time it did. The financial burden has been reduced and provision has been made to wipe it out almost entirely in the next two years. This will establish a most notable record and credit to the men who served and made it possible. But the city and its officials must not be too conservative in their provisions for the future. Gladstone must develop and in order to do that it must make provision for the future. Many cities have gone in for airports; the recreational facilities for the people at large have been enlarged upon; parks have been beautified and streets have been improved. There are some of the things that must be kept in mind and the people are within their rights to demand such expansion as soon as a means is found to finance it without unduly burdening the public expenditures.

THERE will be something new next week, The Upper Peninsula State Fair. At the time its sponsors conceived the idea there hardly seemed a possible chance that it would be made a reality. Not at least for years and years. But the motives were unselfish and the gospel of its relation to the agricultural and dairying development of this part of the state preached a every favorable opportunity. There were converts and soon sentiment had developed to a point where the proposal merited the attention of the legislature and its favorable consideration of a demand for an appropriation. The exhibits which will be unfolded to the public at Escanaba next week is the outcome.

Like any new venture the Fair has its skeptics. There are those who say it will not succeed, that there never was any need for it, and that furthermore it was nothing but a political sop thrown to a few politicians. We believe otherwise. Time will best determine the need and benefit from the U. P. State Fair. We hope to see the time when every county in the Hiawatha-Land will look to this annual event as an inspiration to the rapid growth and development of the dairying and farming that we predict will be hastened by it. These individual counties will have continued their county fairs, the importance of which will have been increased by the knowledge that their prizes will have further opportunity to compete in a larger field.

There is no denying that Delta county secured a good break when it was selected as the home of the Fair. That is an honor of which its people may justly be proud and they can best help to justify the selection by cooperating to make it the success that its sponsors set out to make.

THE State recently inaugurated service to Mackinac Island, using the ferries that ply between St. Ignace and Mackinac City for stops to that historic island. The St. Ignace Republican resents the implication carried in the dispatches announcing the new service, which tended to give the impression that the private service previously serving the island had been inadequate. It says editorially:

"Served only by a 'private service' is a covert expression, unjustly belittling by implication the private enterprise, that, so far from keeping Mackinac Island 'practically isolated' has made of it the greatest resort of the Great Lakes country and the north. The state ferries, if it can be furnished without impairing their purpose, will help, of course; but the private service deserves the fullest recognition of its efficiency."

To which sentiment, Al Weber who publishes the Cheboygan Observer just to the other side of the Island, says he heartily agrees. Which suggests that these two near-land observers of events are agreed that service to the Island has been equal to the demand.

It will be interesting to see what effect the stop-over will have on the popularity of the Island. Also how the state expects to take care of the last-increasing demand for service between the two peninsulas. There is already a suggestion that two boats will have to be added to the three in service this year in order to give adequate service during next summer.

A NATIONAL publication sends the editor a questionaire, answers to which are intended to reflect the sentiment in the national campaign. We make no secret of our impression—the people look upon both Hoover and Smith as proper leaders of their respective parties, and while there will be a drift towards the Democratic candidate because he is stronger than the nominations of that party in the last two campaigns, yet this drift is hardly strong enough to warrant a hope, for the Democrats, that Delta county will be carried next November. And that is true. Delta county is equally true for Michigan as a whole.

In answer to the query relative to issues, the answer was given that the issues discussed in the platform are entirely lost sight of, and that the factors are the record and promises of the two candidates—Smith as Governor of the Empire State, liberal, progressive, outspoken, with a pleasing personality and its worth, his promises, and Hoover as the administrator, organizer, untiring worker with a genius for getting things done, and with a background of education and experience that warrant the belief that he would be a President with the qualities of leadership that the people of a free Nation would look upon.

GOV. Zimmerman of Wisconsin was not nearly as successful as Gov. Fred W. Green in establishing the justness of the precedent of the second term. The Badger State executive ran a poor third in a three man race, being defeated by "Kohler of Kohler," with the LaFollette candidate, Beck, running a close second. Zimmerman's defeat only emphasizes that the people honor the second-term precedent only as the means of rewarding satisfactory service and that they are not the least reluctant to turn away an inefficient official at any time.

It would be interesting to know just what part an advertised name played in the Wisconsin campaign. The names of the candidates are widely advertised, and it is well advertised, its employees satisfied and its methods consistent. He promised a business administration and secured a notable victory. The outcome will be watched.

THE law may be cheated but the cheater pays in the end. We have in mind the natives who take far-bearing animals during closed seasons and believe they can evade the law by shipping to buyers outside the state. The Government keeps a close check on the hides that are being bought and sold and those who make illegal shipment are almost bound to get caught in the end. Then they must pay to the State the amounts collected for the hides, plus costs and fines which combine to make it a costly business. It is so much better to cooperate with the State in protecting the beaver, muskrat and other fur-bearers during closed seasons, looking ahead for the time when they may be taken and shipped legally—AT A PROFIT.

MEMORIES

Items of interest of Gladstone and its citizens of yesteryear gone by.

TEN YEARS AGO

News was received this week by Gladstone friends of Miss Flazel Silvers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Silvers of her marriage last Monday in Indianapolis, to Peter Farrell, formerly employed by the Soo Line in this city, about three years ago. Miss Silvers has held a position in Minneapolis for the last three years. Mr. Farrell has been working in Superior Va. in a like period. The groom is now in officers' training camp near Indianapolis. Ole Peterson commenced work Friday on the foundation walls for the new bungalow of Sid Goldstein on Lak Shore Drive. The stave mill of the Northwest Co-operative Company was forced to shut down Saturday afternoon when the main driving gear broke. Eugene Martel on Friday purchased the race horse of Ed Menni of Marquette. The horse was entered in the 2:25 pace Friday and won a $150. purse. He will be entered in the race at Manistowic.

A. J. Legaals for the past five years employed at Menominee has resigned to take the position of shoe department manager in the Henry Roebuck store.

Gladstone residents of Miss Minnie Carlson and Louis Dahl have just learned of their marriage which has been kept a secret since August 6th when the happy event took place at Houghton. Mr. Dahl is now in France and the bride has resumed her employment in the home of Michael Gleason. Mr. Dahl has been a resident of Gladstone for about two years, and was employed as a machinist at the Soo Line Round house.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 12, 1908. Soren Johnson, Charles D. Mason Joseph Easton and W. O'Connell of St. W. Lancaster attended the regular conventions at Escanaba Tuesday as delegates from Gladstone.

The work of framing the new Co-operative mill began Saturday. As soon as the mixer arrives work will commence on the concrete. The engine house is being rebuilt with the use of the old brick.

M. H. H. Harris was surprised by the M. E. choir last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. I. Stephenson. Bruce K. Leslie is the latest addition to the fraternity of concrete engineers in Gladstone. If his work proves successful he will soon be bid to the construction of a concrete viaduct from here to Escanaba. About twenty Gladstone people took advantage of the excursion on the Maywood to Menominee Thursday. A rural free delivery route has been authorized from Gladstone west through the upper lake region a distance of 21 miles. Last winter I. G. Champion circulated a petition in this district and obtained 104 signatures. As soon as convenient install mail boxes of a pattern an-proved by the government, a car will be placed on the route and make daily trips. The Gladstone Military company was well to the fore at Labor Day parade, drilling parading the street during the auto races and making itself generally helpful.

The C. P. R. passenger trains were handled over this division last week. A quarter mile of wooden bridge near White River was destroyed by fire and during its repair the bus through trains passed through here.

The price for the auto race on Labor Day was taken by Henry Blackwell, whose Buick car stopped made the three fourths mile in fifteen seconds, or an average of forty-five miles an hour, including start. The Gladstone High School will put a team in the field this year. The line-up is more favorable this year than for some time. They are led by the new ball grounds, under the coaching of Rufus Siale. H. W. Blackwell is spending a vacation in the upper lake region. A son was born Friday, Sept. 4 to Mr. and Mrs. William C. Prasin, James Young met with a painful accident while working on the frame-work at the Buckeye Mill Wednesday. He stepped off the timber and fell, breaking two ribs.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage this evening of August and Sanna Ohman at Wassa Hall. Rev. H. H. Harris went to Calumet Monday to attend the State Conference. Returning he left Friday with Mrs. Harris for their new home in Evanston.

Class Anderson and John Olson are expected home tomorrow morning after their summer's visit in Sweden. Dr. M. F. Stever and family, after a year's residence in Gladstone have returned to their old home in Thomasville, Mich.

TAKE WARNING (St. Ignace Rep.-News)

Only recently, Rev. Fr. Holland told his congregation at the Catholic church of St. Ignace incident. St. Ignace girl was invited by a stranger to get into his automobile for a ride. She refused. Another was accosted with a similar invitation. She went.

A notable story comes from Manistowic and Delta county of the lonely Garden road, and then, fate of two girls who "picked up" with two men strangers at Manistowic. It contains a dire warning that every parent reading this paper should ponder. The "forward" girl are in jail awaiting their punishment extending herself to the mercy of for the worst crime known; but an utter stranger in an automobile; the twin accessory of the automobile in the despoiler's account for his purpose; the ultimate, awful climax. Bertha M. Clay, in one of her popular novels, describes in colorful language the likely outcome of mere simple companionship of adolescent boys and girls without restraining supervision: "A star from heaven fell, and not even the mercy of God could restore it."

Picture to yourself that wild night scene—the auto ride, the casual nature of the lonely Garden road, and then, the struggle! Realization of their awful, helpless plight came to them. Two men—married men at that—should ponder. The "forward" girl are in jail awaiting their punishment extending herself to the mercy of for the worst crime known; but their punishment cannot restore the ruin of despoiled virtue. Will this story be a warning? To many parents—to. In the Biblical story of Dives and Lazarus the Savior tells of the mental condition of some—they would not repent "even though one rose from the dead."

The pastors of the nation are having a real snappy time discussing Al Smith these days in their pulpits. If Al Smith is elected it will probably be because the people resent the turning of church pulpits into political rostrums.—Crystal Falls Drill.

"En Passant" Observations and Comment by Alice Fox

"Well, Well," Charlie Coon well-willed in our office the other day when we reminded him that he was to have his picture taken in his new warden's uniform, so we could have a cut made to decorate our front page.

He couldn't but know that that new outfit is an attractive one, and bound to make a good looking picture. He said, "Well, Well," once more, but he's going over to Estenson's and pose as though with his eagle eye on some guy taking perch size four and one half inches out of Bay de Noc and then you'll see how the new uniform looks. Well, we'll

GEORGE E. HARVEY must be "fair" through and through these days, judging from the advertising posters and circulars for the Upper Peninsula State Fair, which are in evidence giving folks an idea of the preparations for the first annual event.

Gladstone is hoping for a half holiday when they can lock the doors and pack the family in either their own or their neighbors (flivver and hunch their way over to the Fair. Yes, and Gladstone ought to have a bump at some of the prizes too, Charlie Green for trout, and Albin

Nelson for pike, would surely put all other fishermen in the back ground if they're offering any fur covered fish lines to anglers.

Then there's Otto Haberman's bloodhound. Of course Nero has been numbered with the departed dogs for many long years, but Otto has his picture, and a big collection of stories of how he trailed the odor of sausage up and down the Main street, and that's all that's necessary. One glimpse of Nero and all the rest of the little hounds and terriers would be shipped right back to the farms. Yep, we've got lots of prize material over here for that Fair.

JUST BECAUSE the stores are showing their new fall lines you don't have to think that winter is nigh, although it does sort of put the atmosphere in the air. Jackson Stephenson has been talking coal and filling coal bins all summer long and all winter does cheat on us and come early, we can just blame it all on him.

THE PENNEY STORE building looks as though it holds a lot of us prize. The boarded up front through which workmen pass in and out frequently gives one only a glimpse of the operations inside. You see Sam Tang making hurried trips to and fro and mixing various tins with his little brushes. Mr. Johnson, the manager, visits around frequently, but mum is the word. It's all up to your own imagination until the opening day the latter part of the month.

ONE FARMER TELLS of an apple cooking party that visited his orchard one night. They got some apples alright, but they were green, so green that you wouldn't dare eat them. He says he's glad, and almost believes that they've put a mark on his fence not to ever come back there for apples again. A few green apples sure go a long way.

FOOTBALL SEASON WILL soon be in swing, and paddled up would be Red Granges hurry down to the field each night at the "close of school, clicking their spiked shoes on the cement walks. They always seem to be deeply engaged in conversation, probably discussing who's going to make the best ends and back line men, why, and when. Coach Keil's big figure is in the center of one of the groups.

To make the team is the thing. The boys are willing to sacrifice all the pleasure that training means for the attempt, and whether they realize it or not, they are deriving much more than the football glory that may come. Self control, sportsmanship, are among the qualities, "Football's the thing," they say, but it amounts to lots more than the game.

FOLKS SOMETIMES go to sleep in church during a lengthy sermon and they may not at a lecture when the speaker starts off on a long dry trade. But at a movie, when the picture's a romance, and the music creates the right atmosphere, all so real that even an occasional sigh arises from some thrilled member of the audience, and then some man has the audacity to drift off to sleep with his head propped up on one hand, and all that emits a few snores. Sleep must be superlucagacious, meaning, we'll choose your own—else he's past all enthusiasm.

"SAY WHEN'S CHRISTMAS vacation?" one little fellow inquired on his way home on the second day of school. "Now," he didn't mind school so much he said, only he couldn't chase around barefoot with his dog and the kids up there. Wait till Christmas vacation.

LICENSES AT HALF RATE

The half rate for 1928 Michigan automobile licenses became effective September 1 and until the end of the year car licenses will cost one half of the usual fee.

Any applicant for a car license under the reduced rate must sign an affidavit that the car has not been operated in the public highways this year.

Special instructions by the secretary of state's office regarding license plates to non-residents or to residents who have spent part of the year in another state are included on the affidavit.

The reduced rate is not extended to a former resident of another state or province who has become a resident of Michigan and who has operated his motor vehicle on the highways of the state of Michigan with license plates of his former state or province prior to September 1, the instructions say. "If a resident of Michigan spends a portion of the year in another state and produces plates from that state for his car, upon his return to Michigan he is required to immedately equip his car with Michigan plates if it is operated upon the highways."

Experience is dead unless you can sell it for more than it cost you.

FIRE TOWER POPULAR AS OBSERVATION POINT

Climbing forest fire observation towers has been added to the list of summer sports in Michigan. A review of the registers maintained at the various towers reveals the fact that large numbers of persons are visiting them. Men and even women are not daunted by the tall outside ladders that stretch up to the shanty houses on the top of the towers. They climb bravely to the crow's nest for the unrivaled views that may be had from these vantage points. Visitors from Florida in the south to Washington on the Pacific coast left their names on a record book during the past summer.

NOW DO YOU KNOW

Visitors ascend to be amazed by the stretches of forest covered land that may be seen from the tower, but the regular occupants of the steel nests have a different aim in climbing to their posts. They must guard through the long summer days, even scanning the far horizon for the first sign of smoke which usually means the start of a blaze in the woods. Once discovered the fire wardens go into action hurrying to the location of the blaze with the speed that would match that of a city fire department warden.

Inside Out

A Weekly Panorama or Events in the National Capital. Special Correspondent for Delta Reporter.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, it is learned, will deliver one address in the Republican campaign. Since he is president he does not feel he should be running around the country trying to elect his successor...

DEMOCRATIC PARTY managers are handicapped in a publicity war because of having national headquarters in New York instead of Washington. In Washington there are 300 newspaper correspondents, experts at writing politics...

HOOVER, AS the war-time administrator and as a cabinet officer, has spent the past ten years in Washington. Yet there are thousands of citizens of the city who have never seen him.

REPORTS CONTINUE to indicate that business conditions, now that August is out of the way, are likely to show a gradual pick-up and that the prospects are good for a rather lively fall trade.

NEITHER PARTY, as a party, can make claim to being either prohibition or anti-prohibition. Each party has its wets and its dries. Dry prohibition when "used" as a political weapon is a two-edged sword—it cuts both ways.

ACTUALLY THE prohibition matter will not be affected one way or the other, no matter who is elected president. As Al Smith, who expressly has no personal views, well said in his acceptance speech "It is Congress that passes the laws."

EVEN to obtain submission of the eighteenth amendment, Congress would have to be 65-23 wet in each branch of Congress. The most recent test vote shows Congress 75 per cent dry.

BUT EVEN if Congress were to submit the eighteenth amendment to the states with the usual ratification procedure, it would require that each branch of the legislature in three-fourths of the forty-eight states be two-thirds wet.

THUS IT will be seen that only thirteen states—one more than one fourth of the states—are in position to block any change in the eighteenth amendment. And there are none to believe that there are no thirteen states which would block any such proposal.

SO ACTUALLY the eighteenth amendment is not the least endearing record. There isn't even a chance a comma or a semi-colon in the text of the amendment.

GOVERNOR SMITH expressed his horror of present enforcement conditions and proposed a liberalized prohibition as a means of reducing law violations. But his proposal amounts a little more than a political gesture to the wet set since it is something he could not do were he to live in the White House the next four years. Congress is 75 per cent dry, but it needs only one vote more than one-third dry to block a submission of the prohibition matter to the states. In fact, the prohibitionists are so weak whatever about the Smith proposal because they will know the strength of the dry movement in Congress. The chances of a prohibition vote are no hope for the thirsty.

THE DANGER of all the prohibition discussion is that other issues, other subjects of great importance, are likely to be overlooked in the campaign. Actually there is no prohibition question—there is no reason for such an issue—a presidential campaign is a contest of issues. It is an issue that should apply to congressional elections. Neither Smith nor Hoover could strengthen or weaken the prohibition law. It is not to be doubted that either one of them will do as well with the enforcement job as now being accomplished. They could scarcely do worse.

GOVERNOR SMITH has boldly injected prohibition into the campaign. He is likely to be winning. But the presidential nomination makes it plain he is only expressing his personal views and he finds no fault with a dry candidate. The party managers believe that Coolidge's prestige will help to save Massachusetts from the Al Smith column. It is recognized that Smith is strong in that state.

NEITHER THE Republican nor the Democratic party is disposed to become overly active in the Southern States. The Democratic party doesn't want to put on a red-hot campaign, and the Republican party presumes to be given that it is fearful the Republicans have a chance to elect electoral nominees for Hoover. And the Republicans consider their best strategy is to work quiet, by Hoover in the southern best to get the vote in the southern states. The southern political situation is ticklish.

IT'S a strange political situation when there are Democrats to admit the vote in Virginia may be close and Republicans to admit that the presidential vote in Minnesota may be close.

"WHERE'S LINDY's plane?" is a question asked by most every visitor to the Smithsonian museum who approaches one of the guides. Lindy's plane has become one of the "show places" of Washington. It is the most popular visitor at Mount Vernon.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS are regarded as excellent. Favorable indications are seen with the passing of the summer vacation season. It is expected that the business power in many of the western states will be increased with the harvesting of excellent crops.

THAT housewives are looking all over for tiny cucumbers that are going to be nice little pickles by and by.

THAT there isn't so much snatching over who's turn it is to have the Tennis Court now that the school children aren't in competition any more.

THAT we note the pictures of the favorite presidential candidate decorating the front windows of some homes. They're for their own heart and soul.

THAT the odor of "soft drinks" coming through the cracks in the doors of some of our parlors on Delta Avenue is probably all the invitation the regular visitors need.

"SORRELL AND SON" HAS ENGLISH SCENES

In order that no false note could creep into "Sorrell and Son," his first production for United Artists, Herbert Brenon, who personally directed the screen version of Warwick Despire's stirring novel, took his unit of the Joseph M. Schenck organization to England for the exterior scenes. "Sorrell and Son" comes to the Rialto Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

In England, Brenon and his company filmed scenes in London, Midhurst, Marlow, Risley, Gifford and Chilworth, the last five towns all within 100 miles of London. The original of the "Pelican Inn" is at Marlow, and it was employed as a setting in his picture, the marriage of "Kit Sorrell" (Nils Aulberg) and "Molly Roland" (Mary Nolan) was photographed in an old English church.

Manager John Voat of the Rialto Theatre said that in presenting "Sorrell and Son" to his patrons a popular price he felt he was announcing a presentation of the greatest theatre of one of the five greatest motion picture ever made.

HOOT GIBSON'S LATEST CALLED HIS BEST EVER

"The Silent Rider" Hoos Gibson's latest starring vehicle for Universal-Island which comes to Rialto Theatre Saturday is the fastest moving and most thrilling western of the year according to critics who have been able to see previews.

Gibson himself is excellently cast as a hard-riding cowboy who falls in love with a mysterious girl who comes to the Bar Z ranch to work. Blanche McShafey as the girl displays histrionic talents hitherto unknown, even to her most loyal fans and the rest of the featured cast is correspondingly good. Several thrilling stunts, new even to the athletic Gibson, are enacted in "The Silent Rider" and the action is fast moving throughout with a logical and pleasant ending. The entire company of more than 100 were on location in Lone Pine, California, during a major portion of the shooting.

MAY MCAVOY TO DRAW CROWDS TO RIALTO IN "A RENO DIVORCE"

"A Reno Divorce" is the Warner Bros attraction starring May McAvoy at the Rialto Theatre Tuesday.

The production is a brilliant comedy drama which has the unique distinction of having been written and directed by Ralph Graves, who also plays lead. The story was originated by Robert Lord and cast includes Hilda Haddock, Robert Ober, Anders Handoff, William Demarest and Edwards Davis.

May McAvoy plays the part of a charming but reckless society girl, who is possessed of the not uncommon desire to outshine the successful. This latter tendency causes her to knock down a young artist, whom she at once picks up, converts to her home, and curses, with the usual felicitous results. The arrival of the French, a newly-divorced woman, complicates matters and introduces the menage. France tries to win Carla through her fondness for games of chance, while the former Mrs. France angers the stranger.

Playing opposite her is Conrad Nagel, who plays the part of Jerome, the brother of Napoleon, whose visit to America results in his meeting with Betty and their marriage, and his subsequent difficulties with Napoleon who has set his heart on a marriage between Jerome and the Princess Frederika of Wurtemburg.

The picture is full of beautiful scenic effects and the gorgeous costumes that were in vogue during the time of Napoleon Bonaparte.

in Every Test and Fulfilling Every Promise the NEW Maytag observes its First Anniversary

ONE year ago, I announced the New Maytag as our latest and greatest achievement. Noteworthy refinements and striking improvements, including a new method of soap and water removal, were incorporated in the new washer. It set standards of convenience and washing efficiency that had never been known before.

During the year that has passed, hundreds of thousands of NEW Maytags have been introduced into as many homes, and each time subject to the famous Maytag trial basis. "If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it." Rigorous, exacting washday tests assessed the New Maytag, and it has emerged victorious to a degree exceeding my highest expectations.

Must wash everything quicker, easier and cleaner than other washers. Must wash everything—even collars, cuffs and wristbands, without hand-rubbing. Chapter XVI—Continued

He suddenly stopped laughing, rubbed his upper lip nervously, burst into tears and buried his face in extended arms on the table.

"Terry," whispered Dolores, "what do you suppose is the matter with that man over there, the one with his head on the table?"

Following her direction, Terry replied, "Why, I guess he had too much to drink and he is a doper, there are hundreds of them around. The Chinamen bring the stuff in."

"How pitiful! Dolores did not care to look about the room any more. "I hope we do not have to wait much longer."

They didn't. The fat saucy Chinese manager approached with the long aproned waiter.

"You—send for the man?" he smiled, bowing low before them.

"We want to see Lu Fong," replied Terry.

"—not know?" the gleam of lurking suspicion in his eyes belied the stupid reply.

"What's the matter—isn't he here?" Terry spoke sharply.

The manager immediately assumed a vacant expression and shook his head. "I—no know," he said again.

Controlling his exasperation Terry eyed the yellow man and asked, "Do you want to know that we possess information which could place Chris Buckwell in his power?"

The effect of his announcement was disappointing.

The Chinaman showed only a flicker of interest, then he glanced at Dolores. She became uncomfortable and clutched Terry's arm. Apparently her appearance pleased and decided the manager.

Guiding Dolores by the arm and having no intention of letting her out of his sight until the man was finished they followed the guide the entire length of the room into a vacant booth at the other end.

"You wait," he instructed them briefly, "I come back."

"It is all so mystifying and so-called," observed Dolores, "I wish there was some other way we could accomplish our purpose."

"Never mind, dear, don't pay any attention to the people," Terry placed a chair so she would not have to look into the main room, then moving closer he held her hand protectively.

Their attempt for seclusion was useless. A sailor and his drowsy-looking companion were ushered into the booth and took possession of the two remaining chairs.

"Two beers," ordered the sailor, but looking up he saw Dolores. It had been his luck to visit almost every port of the coast, he knew before had he come across such beauty in a woman. "God, I've missed my ship for years that couldn't sail the same sea with her!" he thought to himself, then aloud, "Waiter, make that three beers, send to Dolores' horror he grinned at her. His meaning was clear.

Her cheeks turned crimson and after one apologetic glance at Terry she pretended to examine a lace handkerchief that she was holding in her lap.

The sailor's effrontery was galling. He tried to catch Dolores' eye despite Terry's forbidding frown. It was a maddening situation for the young lover. He resented any man even looking at Dolores yet here he was bringing her to a rendezvous of the Cocktail Route where she was the admiration of every man who saw her. Terry wanted to get up and drive his fists into the sailor's face but knew it would be wise to restrain himself. They would be called out from the booth at any moment. The man had not spoken disrespectfully. There was nothing definite enough to start a fight about and Terry did not want to be out of the cafe. He had come to help, not humiliate or harm Dolores. Getting into a fist fight would only complicate matters.

When the waiter returned with three foaming mugs of beer the sailor was still trying to attract Dolores' attention and the woman was working equally hard to turn his admiring glances her way. For her part she could not see why a man wanted to look twice at a real young thing like Dolores. Didn't men want women to please them? And what could that innocent thing across the table know about life?

The waiter placed one beer before the woman and lined up the other two in front of the sailor.

Dolores saw a calloused hand, extending from the sleeve of a tight cuffed middle, push a mug of beer toward her. Looking up she found the sailor leaning across the table grinning into her face.

She shook her head and quickly glanced away.

"The lady doesn't care for any," interposed Terry in an effort to avoid trouble.

The sailor's earlier preference for a companion looked up from the depths of her beer mug and was not pleased with her man's shifting interest.

"Come on, you—can't be decent?" and grabbing his arm she deliberately made him spill the beer in his lap.

"Awk!" he growled uncomfortably. "What's eatin' ye?" and he slapped her on the side of her head with his big open hand.

"Say—you big stiff—cut that out!" the wench scrambled to her feet and returned the sailor's slap with an unexpected and well aimed swing that knocked him backwards watched with sparkling eyes. He leaned to join in the mix-up but the trembling grasp of Dolores' fingers on his arm brought a sense of his true responsibility. He held her close to him and shielded her as much as possible from the disgusting spectacle.

From a room back of the bar the manager, returning for Dolores and Terry, gazed on the fight. The whole establishment looked as if it might be wrecked so he called upon the professional bouncers.

U. P. STATE FAIR AT ESCANABA NEXT WEEK

The county of Delta gave to the state, two of all breeds of the Delta county fair grounds. This, however, was not sufficient in the opinion of the board.

Its Big Building Program A building program, aggregating about $65,000 was formulated, contracts let and work rushed in order to have the structures ready.

Additional and more modern date accommodations for all types of livestock, agricultural exhibits, school and household arts, dramatics, and commercial and industrial exhibits have been provided.

The premium list totals more than $12,000. Of this, $4,000 have been offered to dairy cattle and $2,955 to beef cattle. Horses will get $2,400, poultry $4,300, boys and girls clubs $2,500 and the remainder is distributed with substantial sums for sheep, swine, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, dairy products, needlework, domestic economy, school exhibits, agricultural education, arts and crafts.

The Daddy of Them All Fixing the dates for the fair after all of the county fairs of the peninsula are over will make it the county champion to compete for the upper peninsula grand championship prize and most of these county champions will be on display in Escanaba, fair managers believe.

Horse racing will, of course, have an important place in the fair's entertainment program. H. E. Perkins of Marquette, is in charge of this department. W. L. Parks is secretary of speed and Leonard Larsson is manager of the track.

Jack Winnings of Montpelier is famous throughout the west as a racing starter, well known in the capacity in Escanaba.

Stakes Worth Treving For An immense list of enterprises already has been received to compete for the $5,000 in prize money offered. Special prizes have been hung up—one of them by Governor Fred W. Green—in the various races. The program includes:

September 18—2 to 4 in Delta County stake, purse $1,000. 2:20 Pace, purse $500. September 19—2 to 4 in Delta, Cleveland state and Governor's cup, purse $1,000. 2:17 Pace, purse $1,000. September 20—Free for all Trot or Pace, purse $800. 2:24 Pace, purse $500. September 21—2:25 Trot, purse $500.

Special event, course $500. Unusual Amusement Features Some of the best "bit-time" vaudeville and circus attractions in the country have been booked in conjunction with the state fair at Detroit and Grand Rapids. These include:

"Hogland", Hippodrome with 15 people, 12 horses, eight dogs, three mules, a set of auto-carts and calves, animals and novelties in a variety of thrillers.

The Shannon Trio, equestrian and athletic feats.

The Francis Trio, comedy acrobats.

Cliff Curran, who does an acrobatic act on a high stool. Thursday and Friday has been set apart for a continuous five-hour program, daily.

Fair Open Evenings Also Night seasons also will be held, with free vaudeville and fire works as the features.

The cow calling contest, the horse pitching tournament and many other events of this kind will help to cram the fair with interest and entertainment.

Special recognition is being given to the various counties of the peninsula every day.

Monday, September 17, has been designated Albert Schoolcraft and Delta day; Tuesday, September 18, Chippewa and Mackinac day; Wednesday will be Menominee, Dickinson and Marquette day; Thursday will be Iron Gogebic and Ontonagon day; and Saturday will be for Baraga, Houghton and Keweenaw.

Friday has been set apart for the schools and for Governor Fred W. Green, who will attend the fair on that day. It is expected that Governor's day and School day will be one of the biggest days at the fair.

Whiskey Seized SAULT STE. MARIE—Chester Cope, alias Charles Franklin, colored, of the Sault, and Irom Jackson, colored, water aboard the steamer Manitou, are held in the county jail charged with possession and transportation of three 12 ounce cans of Canadian liquor found in Cope's car by Under Sheriff Charles Smith and Deputy Sheriff James McArthur.

Cope was driving the touring car in which the liquor was found and Jackson according to the officers, has admitted ownership of the liquor.

HITCHING POSTS GIVE WAY TO PROGRESS

Few people missed the several hitching posts lined up along the side of the Consumer Milk plant last week. They are gone. They were placed three many years ago by S. Goldstein who desired to accommodate the farmers who had to stop in this city. They had to have places to hitch their horses to. Now they had to be taken out in order to accommodate the farmers who patronize the Gladstone farm market every week. They come in automobiles.

Walter Lied and his men from the dairy did the work of cutting off the iron pipes and the City Club arranged to have Come Hitz paint numbers and marks designating locations for the line-up of cars bringing produce to the market.

Last Saturday's market day was a great success. The attendance was good by both buyers and sellers.

they would be undetected the crackmen would get into the warehouse about 60 feet distant. Then they went into the cellar and found an iron bar which they used to batter the door with the aid of a crow bar. They had bulged sufficiently to form a slit for their nitro-glycerine. The charge blew open the door and was sufficiently heavy to crack the concrete lining. The safe was thoroughly riddled but none of the papers was destroyed. No money was lost in it.

Consolidate Schools ROCK—Three rural schools in Maple Ridge township will be closed during the coming year and the pupils will be transported to consolidated schools as the result of action taken by the board of education. Pupils of the Defiance and Nelson schools together with the eighth and eighth grades of the LaPorte school will be transported to the Rock Center building. The North Osier school will be taken to the South Osier school by Robert Carlson and the pupils of the Nelson school bus is yet unannounced, but Henry Carlson will again transport LaPorte and Defiance pupils. Consolidating the Osier schools and carrying pupils to central buildings in business will save the taxpayers the Maple Ridge township approximately $2,500. It was stated. Then, in the consolidated schools make progress by erecting each pupil making faster progress. Approximately 300 pupils will attend the central school, of which 120 will be in the Junior and Senior high school.

Record Wheat Crop SAULT STE. MARIE. Wheat from 27,750 acres of prairie land of the Canadian northwest was milled in a single crop through the locks of the St. Mary's Falls canal, the highest single crop in the world, through the locks. The total tonnage of the Lemoine which established a new record was 1,630, and the number of bushels was 553,000. Estimating wheat to run 20 bushels to the acre, the crop was estimated to be 17,000. On August 14 of last month the Lemoine carried 16,330 tons for a new record. The mark was of short duration, however, for on August 22 the Lemoine again came down with 16,599 tons of 553,000 bushels of wheat.

Storm Victim Dies BERLIND—Injuries received by James Medley, of Berling, in the storm Monday night proved fatal. He died at a local hospital where he was brought after the storm. WELLS TRIMS LOCALS IN POST SEASON GAME

Gladstone's 1928 baseball champions of the Delta County League lost a week-end game. Wells on Sunday by a 7 to 0 score. Eddie Olson started pitching, lost control and in the fifth inning walked. Wells was gathering a total of five runs and Walter Vandeweghe went in to pitch for two innings. He pitched effectively but being troubled with a sore arm gave way to Buddy Gibbs who finished the game. Gladstone made one run in the first, two in the third, another in the sixth and tied the count at six all in the ninth, but Wells scored one in their turn and won the game. The locals have been handicapped in their last two games by the absence of Dick Bavin, back of the plate. Merwin Kircher was also missing in Sunday's game.

they would be undetected the crackmen would get into the warehouse about 60 feet distant. Then they went into the cellar and found an iron bar which they used to batter the door with the aid of a crow bar. They had bulged sufficiently to form a slit for their nitro-glycerine. The charge blew open the door and was sufficiently heavy to crack the concrete lining. The safe was thoroughly riddled but none of the papers was destroyed. No money was lost in it.

THE KING PIN

by R. Jack Jaster

Already we find the 'open' season for bowling rapidly overtaking us. And from the enthusiasm manifested by our local 'legions', Gladstone will undoubtedly witness its greatest season, by a long way.

The alleys have all been resurfaced and put into first class condition and will be opened on Saturday of this week. And now that we have six regulation size alleys as fine as any, we should have no trouble in developing enough good teams to make a decided impression on the U. P. tournament at Hermansville this year.

I have another surprise for you in the form of trophies which were won by the Buckeye Office team in last year's league. These prizes will literally 'kick your eye out'. Come and see them. They will be on display at the Rialto Bowling Alley.

The trophies will be awarded to the individual members of the winning team at the first bowling meeting, which will be called in the near future. Watch this column for the date and place this meeting will be held.

An Experienced Patient A man of 60 who had been a member all his life had long a practice of consulting his physician on the slightest provocation. One day he called in a young doctor who had gained a considerable reputation.

He was telling the doctor what he thought was the matter with him, when the young M. D. ventured to disagree with him. "I beg your pardon," said the patient, "it isn't for a young man like you to disagree with an old experienced invalid like me." Chicago News.
