The generally favorable comment about the Upper Peninsula State Fair held at Escanabe last month...

There was danger at the outset that the counties outside Delta might look upon it as a local idea...

Perhaps the public's attitude was somewhat that of Gov. Fred W. Green as he expressed it in one of his addresses made while up here.

"When I was first approached to approve of this Fair idea," said the Governor, "I thought little of it and finally considered much against my better judgment...

The time is no longer when we must look askant at an advantage being given to a neighboring community or a neighboring county.

Some several weeks back, for instance, it was announced that a survey was being made by University of Michigan forestry school.

WISCONSIN, unlike Michigan, is listed as a doubtful state by political statisticians.

There is one thing that the Republican party is doing in Wisconsin, intended to benefit the organization, but which will work adversely.

The policy was inaugurated early in the Coolidge regime and is likely responsible for the more or less cold and indifferent attitude of the Wisconsin people to Republican promises.

MICHIGAN, despite the fact that it is conceded a Republican state, will cast its heaviest Democratic vote in November.

What will really be weighed in the political balance will be the relative merits of the two candidates as judged by past performances and prospects for the future.

The Michigan Democrats had plenty of opportunity to propose some constructive legislation but at their Grand Rapids convention they elected to continue to haggle over matters no longer considered issues.

bestow too much power on the Governor. Otherwise it was too big and too good a governmental device to disrupt.

SHOULD Herbert Hoover be defeated in the November election, we believe that his loss to the Nation will be attributable most of all to the Republican mistakes of the last seven years.

It is true, as the Democrats have charged, that Hoover has been a part of the administration and ought to shoulder his share of the responsibility.

AL Weber takes exception to our comment (we did not intend to criticize) about his appraisal of the vote for George Welsh in the Republican primary.

He interpreted the little over 500 votes in Cheboygan county for Welsh as ingratitude toward Gov. Green who had given the county so much.

We are in entire accord with one grievance listed by Brother Weber, and not corrected by a former administration. That stretch of road referred to, AL, was bad, terrible in fact, and if electing Green was the only choice we'd feel inclined to urge everybody to the polls and be tempted to vote a few times for Mr. Green ourselves.

PSYCHOLOGY plays an important part in legislation. There are too many laws trying to make people do the things they know they ought to do, and that they WANT to do and would, except that the element of human weakness enters.

Hoover's great success as secretary of the Department of Commerce, a relatively unimportant job until he came into it, is attributable to the fact that he revolutionized many common practices, not by the application of legal force, but almost entirely by leadership that pointed the way to better things.

ASIDE from electing national, state and county tickets, voters in the November election will be asked to decide upon three proposed amendments to the Michigan constitution.

THE Detroit News says, editorially: If the present presidential campaign should result in the formation of a real opposition party in Michigan, it would confer a substantial benefit on the state.

REPORT has it that the state auto ferries carried only eight passengers to Mackinac Island the first week of the service. That suggests that the disputed question of whether or not the state boats should be sold there will settle itself.

A PROCLAMATION

To the People of Michigan: IN MICHIGAN as in other States it is the practice to set aside a week usually in the autumn, to be known as Fire Prevention Week.

MICHIGAN FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, OCTOBER 7th to 13th. I urge citizens to make special effort to reduce the fire hazard; to dispose of accumulated waste material, inspect chimneys, wiring, ventilation and heating equipment; and make repairs necessary to safety.

Individual citizens, through concerted action it is confidently expected that the lives and properties of all may be made more secure.

FARM DEPARTMENT
By A. T. Sahlberg

The big meeting of officers of Farm Loan Associations held at Escanaba this week has brought particular attention to the situation of the Federal Land Banks in the comparatively short period of their existence.

The Federal Land Bank system consisting of twelve Land Banks and 4,659 National Farm Loan Associations has grown in eleven years to be the largest first mortgage business in the world. To finance the farmers the public has invested more than $1,250,000 in the Federal Farm Loan Bonds. The Federal Land Bank of St. Paul has loaned approximately $1,900,000 to farmers in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Wisconsin.

Delta County has five Associations with loans aggregating we believe is numbered 220 and is dated Aug. 18, 1917. Since then officers have learned a few things, but apparently there remains much to be learned in connection with farm credit. Loans that were recommended by associations without hesitations have become "sore heads" while others that did not look so good have never given the least trouble.

The farm loan system commenced to function when farm values were at the highest point in our history. Farm investments were exaggerated and even the most experienced did not visualize 1921 and the years following. While virtually all associations have had to be liquidated or have had to be reorganized, it would appear that in no instance has the capital stock of any association in this area been impaired. On the whole the experience of farm loan associations will compare more favorably with almost any of the farm mortgage institutions.

Judging from the experience of the Bank River Farm Loan Association it would appear that approximately 20% of the total amount was used for improvements. However the long time provisions of the Federal Farm Loans has made it possible for many borrowers to provide reserves for improvements or to make improvements in anticipation of future income so that it can be safely estimated that a total equal to about 40 percent of the original loans have gone into permanent improvements on farms in this particular area.

The farm loan system is operated primarily for the benefit of the borrower. The old line bank system operated primarily for the benefit of the borrower.

When Men Dress Up This Fall And Winter They'll Wear--

Drop into the Ritz Bar in Paris any morning at the lunch hour for a cocktail, and you find it packed with the most cosmopolitan crowd of men that the world can bring together—artists, authors, gamblers, and men about town. Some are well dressed, others do not, but the most affluent in life are not the most particular, and yet here in this small room one can oftentimes see much that is good in style—for it is Paris that is directing the trend in men's fashion. What Paris states is correct is what is being worn by America's well dressed men.

To begin at the bottom, no article plays so great a part in the lives of men, nor has such a profound influence psychologically speaking, as a pair of shoes. Men may do with or without waistcoats, ties, collars, garters, underwear and various other accessories, but the shoe is essential.

Midnight blue both for dinner jackets and for tailcoats is developing great favor. The blue is regarded as a highly pleasing change from the black which has been in vogue.

Worship at the various resorts abroad, gray, according to Mr. Free is a prime favorite. Gray and tan are outstanding colors. Gray flannel double-breasted suits have been more prominently present than ever, and these are worn with tan buckskin oxfords.

Neckwear is in bright colors. Solid color neckwear has been popular in American markets for some time, plump and various odd shades in solid colors are now noticeable. The snap brim in felt hats has lost some of its popularity, and a hat color observed in many smartly attired individuals is red-brown. Neatly patterned worsted in two or three button models are much in evidence, and carrying decidedly more peak to the lapel than has formerly been customary.

The Prince of Wales tab collar shows no sign of losing headway. It is still favored in narrow multi-colored stripes, set close together and is favored in poplins or broadcloths. Plain blue shirts are very popular for country wear. These striped and plain shirts are accompanied by self-patterned neckwear or neckties to club stripes.

Fancy underwear with solid colored silk or end-and-end madras trunks, and white jersey hosiery is prominent place. Camel's hair polo coats, plained leather belts and polo shirts are other popular fashions being well displayed. Foulard pajamas in bold patterns with a bath robe to match are also featured.

The borrower. The old line bank is operated primarily for the benefit of the stockholder, and very properly so. The destination is fine perhaps but it embodies one of the fundamental principles upon which the system is founded.

The farm loan system has more than justified its existence and has carried thousands of farmers through the depression, that could not otherwise have survived.

John Lundberg, of Enniss can justly claim the title of champion as grower of oats in this particular section. He planted last spring four bushels of White Keson oats, on two acres of ground. He threshed a short time ago 182 bushels from this plot. As a farmer John ranks among the leaders, and hard work, intelligent tillage and careful attention to all details of farm operations are bringing their reward. He now has one of the best barns in his neighborhood and is building a modern residence on the place where he commenced operations a few years ago among green hardwood stumps, with a total capital of $100,000. Lundberg's corner has become one of the show places of Delta County. His hobbies are deep plowing for crops, and Jensen crop tests.

The Grain Crop in Delta County is the heaviest in years. Oats and barley have given good yields everywhere. There is also an unusual acreage of buckwheat, and farmers are beginning to consider ways and means of including this grain in the protein and carbohydrates so necessary in the north country will find an answer in the humble buckwheat. Jack Stephenson's opinion to the contrary notwithstanding. The crop this year will give some opportunity for tests.

Butterfat prices are high and promise to reach the 60c mark this winter. Beef is in high and pork is following along. In fact farm prices are high on many items. But of course the imp of high cost of manufactured products taint along.

In Partre Tres. "I like your Gault" announced Caesar to the nearest inhabitant as he left his campaign—C. C. N. Y. Mercury.

BEAUTIES OF ISLE ROYAL UNRIVALED

"Isle Royale's natural beauties cannot be imagined. They are the words of Walter Hastings, official wild life photographer of the department of conservation, who has just returned from a trip to Michigan's northern paradise. Mr. Hastings has been on the island more than once, but never, until last summer, was he able to see so much of its virgin forests and lakes in whose waters few paddles, if any, have ever been dipped. His accounts of the wonders sound like fairy tales, but anyone who has ever met Hastings knows that he is a conservative individual who carries his proof, in the form of pictures, along with him.

"Imagine, then, that a great forest in which there grow nothing but white birch," Hastings remarked. "I stumbled upon this unusual forest on one of my trips. The white birch ruled supreme. There was not another species of tree to be found within its confines. Some of the birches were 24 inches in diameter. Moss and partridge berry constituted the only undergrowth.

"Some idea of the habitat that exists on the island may be gathered from one of my experiences. We were crossing Siskiwit Lake, one of the several large lakes. We were using one of the two boats on the lake and as we started on our voyage, I noticed that a large trolling line and spoon had been left by some former occupants, I rigged up the line and expressed my intentions of catching some fish for dinner.

"When we started the return trip, I again threw the line out. It had gone only about six feet when I had a strike. I pulled in a beautiful pike weighing 10 pounds. Again I started to let out my line and once more a strike was taken. This fish, another pike, was a trifle smaller.

"But the real catch was still to be made. I had nearly enough fish for our rather large party, but thought I had better make some allowance for the ravenous appetites that are aroused in this territory. So I tossed the line overboard again. The ensuing strike almost pulled me off my feet. I thought that I had hooked lake trout or all fish. Of course the trolling line was a stout one and I hauled the battle in gradually, hand over hand. Eyes popped out when they saw suspended from the hooks a six pound speckled trout."

SCHOOLS CLOSED FOR TEACHERS MEET

The public schools and certain grades of All Saints Parochial School closed Thursday noon to permit their teachers to attend the annual meeting of the Michigan Educational Association at Iron Mountain.

Gladstone's public schools have a 1927 attendance, Sept. 30, of 1,000. The session will close on Saturday.

A feature of the opening day session will be an address by Will Durant, noted lecturer, philosopher and author of "The Story of Philosophy."

In the division meetings, the speakers include W. C. Sullivan, Wisconsin; Columbia University; Dr. W. C. Rivers, University of Chicago; B. A. Walpole, member of the Michigan State College faculty; and C. W. Purnam, director of the Chatham experimental station.

GOOD FEED SECURES LARGER MILK YIELD

Constant deterioration has not basically changed the natural production characteristics of dairy cattle and it is necessary to furnish a substitute for pasture if maximum quantities of milk are to be secured in the fall and winter months.

Close supervision of the cheapest and best feedstuffs for pasture and should be fed at the rate of three pounds daily for each hundredweight of animal.

Good income hay furnishes protein and minerals, which the dairy cow must have. Experiments have also shown that hay contains some undervalued quality that is absolutely essential.

The grain ration fed to dairy cattle should vary with the rate of milk production, and with the kind of hay fed.

Home grown grains balanced with condensed or liquid milk make ideal grain mixtures. Grain should be fed at the rate of one pound daily for each pound of butterfat produced in a week.

HOOVER AND MELLON CONFER WITH COOLIDGE AT WHITE HOUSE

From Scene Closed
MANNEQUIN.—A 17-year-old girl who was found dead in a room at the Grand Hotel, testimony at the preliminary hearing today, was identified by Coroner Steve Johnson and Dr. W. E. Thomson, who examined the body of the baby after the case was reported to authorities.

Minor Killed
CRYSTAL FALLS.—His skull and body crushed, John Martinson, 36, a well known resident of the Maple Grove addition, was killed instantly at the Stratford mine when covered by an avalanche of falling ore. The accident occurred on the fourteenth level of the mine while Martinson was connecting the air hose to the drilling machine, preparatory to his next shift. Ore fell from the back of the slope broke loose without warning.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.
Of the Delta Reporter, published weekly at Gladstone, Mich., for State of Michigan.

County of Delta.
Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared J. A. Sturgeon, who has shown me his sworn statement according to law, depose and say that he is the editor and publisher of The Delta Reporter and that the following is the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of said newspaper, for the date shown in the above caption required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in sections 4433, 4434, 4435, and 4436, of the Michigan Compiled Statutes, as amended.

1. That the name and address of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager are: J. A. Sturgeon, Editor and Business Manager, 1000 S. Sturgeon, Gladstone, Mich.

2. That the owners are: J. A. Sturgeon, Gladstone, Michigan.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total stock, bonds, mortgages or other securities are:

W. M. Mick, Marble Arma & Mfg. Co., N. J. Gorman Est., S. H. Dunsmuir, Serrano Est., E. Hanson, Leo Rossman, E. J. Norwood, P. B. B. Laing, Phil Lewis, Marc J. Miller, Fred Anderson, J. A. Stewart, Est., N. K. M. Gleason, Est., and Steve Johnson, all of Gladstone, Michigan.

4. That the two paragraphs next above giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affirmations of knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders, who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation, who is not shown as a stockholder, owner, interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated herein.

CURRENT COMMENT

KNOWS PAIN OF WAITING

(Cheboygan Observer) We just can't let Editor Joe Sturgeon of the Delta Reporter call us "stinky" and get by with it, without a fight. Our own critic printed what we said about being displeased over the vote George Welsh got in Cheboygan county and now we've had to face under the present administration.

Editor Sturgeon's sense of fairness is stretched a notch or two in his effort to find fault with our conclusions. It may be the up state scribe is living in a county that has enjoyed a just and equitable share of state patronage and benefits and he has not suffered the pangs of leading at an empty trough. Perhaps he cannot see a long list of administration promises never kept. He has not been living on a long ribbon of trunk line fault with us and that the major north and south line road connecting the upper and lower peninsulas centers of population, and that so called trunk line highway being the worst of any from one to the other end of the state—so had in his mind, it has caused a general detour around our county. He has not been pleased with any promises that were never meant to be kept. He has been encouraged to build any normal school air castles. In fact, you're like the fisherman that told the ladies they didn't know what a long hair like Governor Green has come to our relief, however, and given some of the things we should have had long ago, not because Cheboygan county asked for it, but because it closed some nasty gaps in a trunk line system that was not adequately functioning in its neglected condition. He came to our relief in aiding the rebuilding of our locks, another enterprise of Governor Green in our part of the state and contributing to the resort appeal of the northern end of the lower peninsula of Michigan. He has not promised to our people he has not kept, and if therefore he is not entitled to our lauding and other things, our conception of political fairness is "all wet."

WE'LL LEAVE IT TO YOU

(Manistiquet Pioneer Tribune) Our attention has been called by a number of persons during the past week to an advertising bill that was passed recently. The bill took a slap at chain stores and urged the public to patronize home town merchants. And here we come to the funny part—an impression at the bottom of the bill showed that the printing had been done by some firm in Wisconsin. Perhaps the printer is not considered when they talk about this "buy at home" movement. The Tribune is in thorough accord with the buy-at-home movement. Oskarsvick, it did accept some of the lucrative advertising propositions that have been sent to us by large outside firms. We could sign contracts for half-page and full page advertising in the next year with outside concerns if we so desired. This advertising would include everything from groceries to hardware or what have you. Sure, The Tribune could make money by accepting such advertising but it would be a mighty bad thing for local merchants. We believe in our community, in a community spirit which also means one of co-operation. This editorial was written because it makes the editor a little hot under the collar to see bills, printed out of town, urging the patronizing of home stores. But we're going right on boosting the trade at home movement no matter whether the merchants get their bills in Okoboth or their advertising in Timbuctoo. It is only fair that we should.

A PAGE IN HISTORY

(Manistiquet Pioneer Tribune) Dedication of the Blaney airport participated in by Governor Fred W. Green, of Michigan, and Governor Fred Zimmerman, of Wisconsin, has been written on the pages of Schoolcraft county history and will long be pointed to as one of the outstanding high-lights in county history. The meeting on Friday night was most impressive as was also the dedication service.

We are reminded of the words of Rogers M. Andrews, publisher and publisher of The Detroit Times, who in his talk, asked such questions as these:

"Is it possible that a one time lumbering village has been transformed into a summer paradise such as this?"

"Is it possible that we have with us here tonight, the governors of two great states?"

"Is it possible that the United States government has sent six army planes, manned by noted aviators, to take part in this dedication?" Yes, it was all possible and according to Governor Green, Dr. Andrews had considerable to do with making it all possible. Incidentally, we might mention that Dr. Andrews' post as head of The Detroit Times is of inestimable value to the upper peninsula, with its home country and one that he loves. The Earle Brothers, operators of the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Co. party, proved excellent hosts and the distinguished guests left Blaney with a feeling of regret that they could not remain longer.

THE TWO CANDIDATES

(Iron River Republican) This week saw the inception of a presidential campaign that may, for many reasons, be regarded epochal in our national life. In the east Herbert Hoover, invading ground claimed by the Democrats, delivered to a frenzied audience a lucid exposition of his stand on labor. In the words of Alfred E. Smith, in the midst of a warm reception, bent his efforts to an attack of the Republican farm relief program and enunciated his promise to the agricultural sector in the event of his election to the presidency.

Two distinct types of oratory were represented in two equally different types of candidates. Hoover, banishing every trace of political verbiage, showed the student's grasp of conditions underlying the problems of labor; Smith, with his cordial good nature at his best, cajoled his auditors with sharp rejoinders to Republican pledges, a successful trick of the politician in the winning of mass groups.

In this respect, we have a true picture of the two candidates as they really are, and in the last analysis, issues and political claims and halcyon words, were not to surprise our choice, for the next step largely on the personal qualities and characters of the two men.

FAME'S TRAGEDIES

(Charlottesville Republican) We mentioned last week the change that a decade makes in public likes and dislikes. We used the case of Lt. Governor Dickinson to illustrate our point. This week we have a more perfect example, Frederick C. Martindale a dozen or more years ago was perhaps as well known as any public character in Michigan. He had been secretary of state three terms, as we recall, when he was a candidate for governor and beaten in a close contest by Amos Musselman. The other day Mr. Martindale, according to the dispatch, took his own life and a few people, perhaps, recalled the fact that he, at one time, had been a potential figure in Michigan politics. The tragic incident, with which leadership changes and we are forgotten recalls a verse from Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem written for a class reunion many years ago:

Ah, pensive scholar, what is thy fate? A fitting tongue of leaping flame; A giddy whirlwind's flicker gust. That lifts a pinch of mortal dust. A few swift years and who can show Which dust was Bill and which was Joe?

MONUMENT TO POSTERITY

(Cheboygan Observer) The newspaper makers of southern Michigan that speak flippantly and jokingly of the plan to bridge the Straits will wake up some time in the next five years to learn that the trick has been turned, they will learn that the huge and almost inexhaustible lime rock deposits on both sides of the Straits at its narrowest neck have been blasted out of the hills, huge steam shovels have loaded the rock onto cars that have carried the rock out to make a wide stone road bed from shore over shoals to points near the center of the Straits where deep water is encountered there the great crushed stone roadways will give way to a couple of huge bridge spans, neither of which deep water is as stupendous or as imposing as the span now building across the river at Detroit, and presto, automobiles will fit from the upper to the lower peninsula of Michigan in ten or twelve minutes under their own power and the trip will be one of the most attractive experiences in the world. This will link upper and lower Michigan together in a commercial, physical and social way immediately worth more than the bridge has cost. It will then be more seem like one great state, one people, one purpose and one ambition.

HERBERT HOOVER AND ALFRED SMITH GET TOGETHER

Glen Rock, Pa.—Herbert C. Hoover and Alfred E. Smith might be the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates, but to the 800 residents of the town of Glen Rock, Pa., they are only the names of two of their respective citizens, in whose honor a monster parade was held several days ago because of the prominence of their names. These two worthy citizens have the same first name and initial as the nominees and their political affiliations are the same as those of their namesakes.

THE KING PIN

By R. Jack Jaster

The organization of the Rialto Bowling League is rapidly nearing completion. Secretary Vandewaghe reports he has completed the schedule. There are still a few delinquent teams in the line-up, however. Hurry, Hurry, you prospective bowlers enter your names now. Let us hear from the High School Teachers, the Seniors, the City Club, etc. Don't wait until the last minute. Here is an added incentive that should carry bowline interest to a high pitch.

At a meeting last Friday at the Community Club, Hermansville, we have organized the U. P. Inter-City Bowling League for which a team franchise will be purchased by the Rialto Bowling Alleys. This will give our local league members a chance to bowl in weekly inter-city competition, both at home and abroad.

The writer had the honor of being elected president in addition to the following officers—Jim Mahoney, Hickmanston, Vice-Pres., Paul Wickstrom, Norway, Secretary and J. W. Howell, Hermansville, Treasurer.

The league will probably consist of eight teams as follows: Gladstone Escanaba, Hermansville, Menominee, Marinette, Norway, Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls. Actual competition in this league will start around November first.

And now that we have the men off to a good start, we would like to hear from the fair sex. Gladstone has a sufficient number of lady bowlers to organize a good whomsoever she pleases but to use her official position in promoting the activity of any church or denomination in politics is un-American and ought not to be tolerated in a democracy where official preferment is supposed to be safeguarded by the constitution.

Gov. Smith is justified in taking exception to the activities of this woman in the way that they were exercised.

In all departments, it was an effort crowned with success. Its proportions were far beyond that of a county fair, such as it should be, and as a result it measured well with the expectations of the thousands attending.

Particularly impressive was the exhibit of live stock for it conveyed some concept of the importance of pledge of its own. A fine idea would be to organize in teams of three. This arrangement would offer possibilities of from six to ten teams.

Here are some of the organizations we should like to hear from: Teachers, High School Girls, F. R. A., Business Ladies.

Trophies for this league, as for the mens league, will be donated by the Rialto Bowling Alleys, beside which a special prize of 15c per line will be conceded the women.

The ladies of Gladstone should not be outdone by the ladies of the other communities, such as Hermansville, where a womens league is already organized.

Expressions of approval are now in order from the various women organizations.

Second Celebrity—Yes, I dragged down $2,000 for that. First—I've never seen you smoking that brand.

Second—Oh, I smoke those once in a while. But I'm not a slave to any particular brand.

First—Do you think it's ethical to sign your name to an article like that when it isn't strictly true?

Second—Well, perhaps not—but I did it just this once because the advertising agent is a special friend of mine.

First—Oh, I see that makes a big difference, of course. I'm not sold on any one cigar, myself. I wonder if I could meet this friend of yours some time?—Hugh Layne in Life.

SCHOOLS CLOSED FOR TEACHERS MEET

The public schools, and certain grades of All Saints Parochial School closed Thursday noon to permit their instructors to attend the annual meeting of the Michigan Educational Association at Iron Mountain. Gladstone's public schools have a 100% attendance, Supt. A. R. Watson stated. The sessions will come to a close on Saturday.

A feature of the opening day's session will be an address by Will Durant, noted lecturer, philosopher and author of "The Story of Philosophy." J. W. Seaton, Lansing, president of the state association will give the address of greeting. W. H. Pearce superintendent of public instruction, and Gordon J. Laine, dean of the graduate school of arts and literature, University of Chicago, will speak on Friday, and the general assembly on Saturday will hear a talk by Herman E. Ekman, Chicago, insurance counsel and former attorney general of Wisconsin.

In the division meetings the speakers include Mrs. Lois Coffey Moorman, Columbia University, Dr. W. C. Reavis, University of Chicago, B. A. Walpole, member of the Michigan State College faculty, and C. W. Putnam, director of the Chatham experimental station.

GOOD FEED SECURES LARGER MILK YIELD

Centuries of domestication have not basically changed the natural production characteristics of dairy cattle and it is necessary to furnish a substitute for pasture if maximum quantities of milk are to be secured in the fall and winter months. This fact lies behind feeding recommendation of the Michigan State College dairy department.

Corn silage furnishes one of the cheapest and best substitutes for pasture and should be fed at the rate of three pounds daily for each hundredweight of animal. This would make the daily ration 30 pounds or more for most dairy cows.

Chopped beets or beet pulp may be used in place of silage if it is possible to secure the latter. Some bulky, succulent feed must be given to maintain the milk yield of high producing cows.

Good legume hay furnishes protein and minerals, which the dairy cow must have. Experiments have also shown that hay contains some undiscovered quality that is absolutely essential to maintain the health of cattle who do not have access to pasture.

The grain ration fed to dairy cattle should vary with the rate of milk production and with the kind of hay fed. With alfalfa the grain rations should contain 12 per cent of protein; with red clover, 14 per cent; with mixed hay, 16 per cent; and with timothy, 18 to 20 per cent.

Home grown grains balanced with cottonseed or linseed meal make ideal grain mixtures. Grain should be fed at the rate of one pound daily for each pound of butterfat produced in a week.

SR. GERMAINE, FORMERLY IN GLADSTONE, IS DEAD
Word has been received here by the Sisters of St. Joseph of the death of Sister M. Germaine, who was at the local convent about five years ago. Sister Germaine passed away early Friday morning Sept. 21 at the Nazareth Motherhouse, Concordia Kas. An excerpt from the obituary in the Catholic Register, of Kansas City, Mo. follows:

Sister M. Germaine Fournier of the Sisters of St. Joseph died early Friday morning Sept. 21 at the Nazareth Motherhouse, Concordia, Kan. The Mass of the Requiem was offered by Bishop F. J. Tiel, Bishop Tiel was assisted at the altar by Rev. J. Hennessey, rector of the Cathedral and Rev. A. Duakie, sec. to the Bishop.

Bishop Tiel preached a short sermon in which he offered his sympathy to the community of Sisters who had lost another of its devoted members and to the sorrowing mother and brothers of Sister Germaine.

Sister Germaine served her community faithfully and devotedly for 31 years as a teacher in the schools of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Kansas, Michigan and Illinois. She taught her last term of school in St. Ann School, Brighton Park, Chicago. For the past two years Sister Germaine suffered much, but with all patience and resignation.

She leaves to mourn her departure

(Cheboygan Observer)

We just can't let Editor Joe Sturgeon of the Delta Reporter call us "stinky" and get by with it, without a rise. Our up state critic reprinted what we said about being displeased over the vote of George Welsh not in Cheboygan county and how well we had fared under the present administration.

Editor Sturgeon's sense of fairness is stretched a notch or two in his effort to find fault with our conclusions. It may be best to scribe a living in a county that has enjoyed a just and equitable share of state patronage and benefits, and he has not suffered the pangs of feeding at an empty trough. Perhaps he cannot show a long list of administration promises never kept. He has not been living on a long ribbon of trunk line right of way and that the major north and south line road connecting the upper and lower peninsula centers of population, and that so called trunk line highway being the worst of any from one to the other end of the state—so bad in fact that it has caused a general detour around our county. He has not been bothered with any promises that were never meant to be kept. He has not been encouraged to build any normal school or caulked. He has not been like the Irishman that told the ladies they didn't know what pain was like. Governor Green has come to our relief, however, and given us some of the things we should have had long ago, not because Cheboygan county asked for it, but because it closed some nasty raps in a trunk line system that was inadequately functioning in its neglected condition. He came to our relief in aiding the rebuilding of our locks, another enterprise of wide influence in our part of the state and contributing to the rest of the state in the northern end of the lower peninsula of Michigan. He has made no promises to our people he has not kept, and if therefore he is not entitled to our lauding and other support then our conception of political fairness is "all wet."

Our attention has been called by a number of persons during the past week to an advertising bill that was passed out recently. The bill took a slap at chain stores and urged the public to patronize home town merchants. And here we come to the funny part—an impression of the bottom of the bill showed that the printing had been done by some firm in Wisconsin. Perhaps the printer is not considered who they talk about this "buy at home" movement. The Tribune is in thorough accord with the buy-at-home movement. Obviously we would accept some of the lucrative advertising propositions that have been sent to us by large outside firms. We could sign contracts for half-pages and full pages for every issue in the next year with outside concerns if we so desired. This advertising would include everything from groceries to hardware or what have you. Sure, The Tribune could make money by accepting such advertising but it would be a mighty bad thing for local merchants. We believe in our community, in a community spirit which also means one of co-operation. This editorial was written because it makes the editor a little hot under the collar to see bills, printed out of town, urging the patronizing of home stores. But we're going right on boosting the trade at home movement no matter whether the merchants get their bills in Oskosh or their advertising in Timbuctoo. It is only fair that we should.

A PAGE IN HISTORY
(Manistique Pioneer Tribune)...

Dedication of the Blaney statue participated in by Governor Fred W. Green, of Michigan, and Governor Fred Zimmerman, of Wisconsin, has been written on the pages of Schoolcraft county history and will long be pointed to as one of the outstanding high-lights in county history. The meeting on Friday night was most impressive as was also the dedication service.

We are reminded of the words of Rogers M. Andrews, president and publisher of The Detroit Times, who in his talk, asked such questions as those:

"Is it possible that a one time lumbering village has been transformed into a summer paradise such as this?"

"Is it possible that we have with us here tonight the governors of two great states?"

"Is it possible that the United States government has sent six army planes, manned by noted aviators, to take part in this dedication?"

Yes, it was all possible and according to Governor Green, Mr. Andrews had considerable to do with making it all possible. Generally, we might mention that Mr. Andrews' post as head of The Detroit Times is of inestimable value to the upper peninsula, which is his home country and one that he loves.

The Earle Brothers, operators of the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Company, proved excellent hosts and the distinguished guests left Blaney with a feeling of regret that they could not remain longer.

THE TWO CANDIDATES
(Iron River Republican)

This week saw the inception of a presidential campaign that may, for many reasons, be regarded epochal in our national life. In the east Herbert Hoover, invading ground claimed by the Democrats, delivered to a frenzied audience a lucid exposition of his stand on labor. In the west Alfred E. Smith, in the midst of a warm reception, bent his efforts to an attack of the Republican farm relief program. He enunciated his promise to the agricultural section in the event of his election to the presidency.

Two distinct types of oratory were represented in two equally different types of candidates. However, bounding every trace of political verbiage, showed the student's grasp of conditions underlying the problems of labor; Smith, with his cordial good nature at his best, called his auditors to sharp retorters to Republican pledges, a successful trick of the politician in the winning of mass groups.

In this respect, we have a true picture of the two candidates as they really are, and in the last analysis, issues and political claims and haliboo aside, we must appraise our choice for the next president largely on the basis of his ability and characters of the two men.

(Charlotte Republican)

We mentioned last week the change that a decade makes in public life. It is a fact that the case of Lt. Governor Dickinson to illustrate our point. This week we have a more perfect example. Frederick C. Martindale a dozen or more years ago was perhaps as well known as any public character in Michigan. He had been secretary of state three terms and he recalls when he was a candidate for governor and beaten in a close contest by Mr. Martindale. The other day Mr. Martindale, according to the dispatches, took his own life and a few people, perhaps, recalled the fact that he, at one time, had been a potential figure in Michigan politics. The tragic quickness with which leadership changes and we are forever recalling the verses from Oliver Wendell Holmes' poem written for a class reunion many years ago:

"Ah, pensive scholar, what is fame?
A fiftly tongue of leaping flame;
A fiftly whirlwind's feeble gust,
That lifts a bunch of mortal dust.
A few swift years and who can show
Which dust was Bill and which was Joe?"

The newspaper makers of southern Michigan that speak flippantly and jokingly of the plan to bridge the Straits will wake up some time in the next five years to learn that the trick has been turned, they will learn that the houses and almost inexhaustible line rock deposits on both sides of the Straits at its narrowest neck have been blasted out of the hills. Huge steam shovels base loaded the rock onto cars that have carried the rock out to make a wide stone road bed from shore over shoals to points near the center of the Straits where deep water is encountered there the great crushed stone roadways will give way to a couple of huge bridges spans, neither of which will necessarily be as stupendous or as imposing as the span now building across the river at Detroit, and presto, automobiles will fit from the upper to the lower peninsula of Michigan in ten or twelve minutes under their own power and the trip will be one of the most attractive experiences in the world. This link upper and lower Michigan together in a commercial, physical and social way immediately, worth more than the bridge has cost. It will then the more seem like one great state, one people, one purpose and one ambition.

Glen Rock, Pa.—Herbert C. Hoover and Alfred E. Smith might be the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates, but to the 800 residents of the town of Glen Rock, Pa., they are only the names of two of their respective citizens, in whose honor a monster parade was held several days ago because of the prominence of their names. These two worthy citizens have the same first name and initial as the nominees and their political affiliations are the same as those of their namesakes.

Gov. Smith, in his speech at Oklahoma City, called attention to the activities of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, a federal office holder, who in a speech before a conference of the Methodist ministers in Ohio called upon them to return to their homes and appeal directly to the 600,000 persons, whom she estimated they could reach, and induce them to vote against the democratic nominee.

This language of Mrs. Willebrandt, spoken as it was where it was, strikes very closely of the inching of a church war. Mrs. Willebrandt has a right as a private person to advocate the election of

The organization of the Rialto Bowling League is rapidly nearing completion. Secretary Vandeweghe reports he has completed the schedule. There are still a few delinquent teams in the line-up, however. Hurry, Hurry, you prospective bowlers and enter your teams now. Let us hear from the High School Teachers, the Seniors, the City Club, etc. Don't wait until the last minute! Here is an added incentive that should carry bowline interest to a high pitch.

At a meeting last Friday at the Community Club, Hermansville, we have organized the U. P. Inter-City Bowling League for which a team franchise will be purchased by the Rialto Bowling Alleys. This will give our local league members a chance to bowl in weekly inter-city competition, both at home and abroad.

The writer had the honor of being elected president in addition to the following officers: Jim Mahoney, Hermansville, Vice-Pres., Pau Wickstrom, Norway, Secretary and I. W. Rowell, Hermansville, Treasurer.

The league will probably consist of eight teams as follows: Gladstone, Escanaba, Hermansville, Menominee, Marinette, Norway, Iron Mountain and Crystal Falls. Actual competition in this league will start around November first.

And now that we have the men off to a good start, we would like to hear from the fair sex. Gladstone has a sufficient number of lady bowlers to organize a good dairying and grazing in the northern peninsula. Instructive exhibits in all other departments constituted a review of the varied adaptability of agricultural Cleveland and panorama of the industries in the peninsula.

Fair color was furnished with well selected entertainment, races and activities. From all parts crowds streamed to the event and returned to their homes praising the fair.

When people are so universally pleased it is proof of intrinsic merit. Having so well established the event in its first year, Escanaba may anticipate greater success from the standpoint of crowds in another year.

would be of its own. A fine idea would be to organize in teams of three. This arrangement would offer possibilities of from six to ten teams.

Here are some of the organizations we should like to hear from: Teachers, High School Girls, F. R. A., Business ladies.

Trophies for this league, as for the mens league, will be donated by the Rialto Bowling Alleys, besides which a special price of 15c per line will be conceded the women.

The ladies of Gladstone should not be outdone by the ladies of the other communities, such as Hermansville, where a womens league is already organized.

Expressions of approval are now in order from the various women organizations.

Line And Color Are Important In Fall Fashions For "Milady"

The fall season expresses its fashion mode in a modern movement. Loosely translated, this is another form thought expressive of modern speed and yet it is done without the old time skirt or coat fullness that swayed about one's feet. Next in line comes color, and while the black and navy blues seem to be receiving the emphasis of the moment, there are several new ones of a season when detail counts. The new two piece ensembles are coming in for increased popularity in all the new colors, particularly for business, school room, office, and home wear.

Coats for fall will be made of individual sport materials with shawl collars that tend to turn away from the neck. The dress coats will be of smooth materials with small flares to one side, and uneven bottoms, featuring fur, beaver, kid, sky, jay and wolf in many new shades. The colors that predominate will be black, and tan, the new blues and greys.

For early fall wear are featured many shades of brown, starting with the deep chocolate shades from those into the wood, chestnut and sand shades, together with the new shades of blue that are in the early wardrobe.

Materials that predominate in the modern movement in dress is expressed in many interesting versions. One of the smartest ideas is that of using black satin across the grain of the goods, trimming such a frock with the plain and reverse satin is an old stunt, but reversing the actual weave is another thing and gives a variation of light as is pleasing as it is useful.

Closely allied with black satin is the early progression of velvet. Velvet is expected to have almost as good a season as last year, but now the transparent velvets are being featured and most of these are printed and many are used in combination with black satin or more preferably the black georgette.

Flowers in flowers' Paris is showing a great many shades of blue, especially navy and white combinations also pink and bright red. The tri-color in last year consisting of red, white and blue is very popular for trimmings and flowers and is seen on some of the smartest dresses. One also sees a great deal of navy and pink, and black and pink used. A great deal of Copenhagen and royal blue is also favored. Beige shading into brown is seen as well as shades of gray. Castilian red is still shown and used by the younger women.

While browns and navys also have a place, black is the favored color. Red will have a large place of importance. Grays are also looked for as dominating influences and the delicate tints of sea foam will continue to gain rather than decline in dress, realize in a general sense.

Dresses are easily divided into two classes this season. There is the coming season, the smart well dressed woman will wear becoming colors to match or harmonize, blend or contrast with her frock.

Chokers and brooch chokers will predominate for all in neck jewelry. These will be especially good in pearls, crystals and semi-precious stones in colors. White stone jewelry and gold jewelry have both had tremendous vogue during the past season. It is expected that as soon as the dark fall colors make their appearance the steady to wear these two lines which are so adaptable for use with dark colors will again be popular.

Jewelry in jewelry there is a decided trend for smooth calf skin, also call and goat skin leathers with lizard and crocodile. The new metal frames with celluloid frames, particularly in butterflycatch color, most attractive.

NO MUDDY WATERS

There is no need for clarification of the position of Governor Alfred E. Smith's prohibition. He was specific in his acceptance speech and in his address at Milwaukee Saturday night he reiterated his views with emphasis.

In his speech of acceptance Governor Smith said "I, with one hand on the Bible and the other hand reaching up to Heaven, I promise the people of this country that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States and to the best of my ability preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States, you may be sure that I shall live up to that oath to the last degree. I shall to the very limit execute the pledge of our platform to make an honest endeavor to enforce the 18th Amendment and all other provisions of the Federal Constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto."

This statement he repeated at Milwaukee, and also declared his belief that changes should be made in the prohibition laws, and while I fully appreciate such changes to Congress.

It is well known, he said, that I believe there should be fundamental changes in the present provisions for national prohibition based on the fearless application to the problem of Jeffersonian democracy. While I fully appreciate that these changes can only be made by the people themselves through their elected legislative representatives, I feel it to be the duty of the chosen leader of the people to point the way which, in his opinion, leads to a sane, sensible solution of an unsatisfactory condition."

With these two statements Governor Smith has made his position clear. He does not favor the prohibition laws, yet he will endeavor to enforce them honestly until such time as they have been changed through legal process.

Mr. Hoover is opposed to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. While I fully appreciate the problem he offers no solution that can be satisfactory.

factory either to those who favor temperance or to those who oppose it. During nine years of prohibitory laws, temperance has not advanced as rapidly as in the ten years prior thereto. As a matter of fact instead of advancement there has been recession.

Under Hoover's leadership we may look for no change in the personnel or policies of the prohibition enforcement department. He has made no statement that would lead anyone to believe that he would move as head of enforcement the distillery patron from Pennsylvania. He has given no indication that he would advocate changes in enforcement policies.

Senator Glass fully and adequately states the case for dry members of both political parties when he says, "The very origin, the very backbone of the nation's movement against the Eighteenth Amendment and the Prohibition laws is the disgraceful failure of the Republican party to enforce them. To expect Mr. Hoover and the party of which he has been an assenting cabinet minister to do any better hereafter involves a degree of credulity of which I decline to become a victim."

GYM OPENS FOR WINTER SEASON

STRONG BASKETBALL TEAM WITH THREE LAST YEAR MEMBERS IN

The high school gymnasium will be opened next week for basketball practice and other school activities for the winter months. The same economical plan used last year in having a paid janitor for five months of the winter season will be in effect. Basketball will be the major sport again this season and the team will begin training at once. The team suffered the loss of two of last year's star players, Lie Trotter by graduation and Peter D'Amour who has entered the University of Notre Dame. An enviable record of fourteen games won out of nineteen games played last year carried the local high school team into the semi-finals of the Upper Peninsula basketball tournament. With three of last year's regulars eligible to play and last year's strong reserve team to pick from, a team that will stack up with the best of last year in the state.

Coach Helmer E. Nelson will again be in charge of the high school team assisted by Supt. L. C. Wolfe in charge of the Reserve. The keen competition and experience derived from the games last year have given the boys more confidence in themselves and a determination to equal or even better their last year's record.

The girls will also organize their team with a strong reserve under the coaching of Miss Marie Baehk, the English instructor. The girls' team last year also made an enviable record and did not suffer any loss of players by graduation. A strenuous schedule of games will be arranged with neighboring schools which will give to the players and basketball fans a full winter's enjoyment of an interesting sport.

RAPID RIVER MEMORIES

The Delta County Reporter Oct. 7, 1918—TEN YEARS AGO Ed. Huff came down from Ackley's camp the first of the week and yesterday made a trip to the Laine Hospital. His ankle injured some months ago is still sore and causing him a lot of trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Weber and family left Tuesday for Marinette where they will make their home in the future.

Mr. Weber moved their household effects on to the woods to work on the woods Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Isaacs moved to the woods Monday.

Mr. Carlson and children left Tuesday for Waukegan Wis. to join Mr. Carlson in making their home there in the future.

A number of girl friends of Margaret Archambeau gave her a surprise party last Tuesday, the occasion being her birthday.

A fire alarm was started in Tuesday during a high wind and the department hustled to the Obeshaw boarding house where the fire had started in the roof. A number of the boarders with ladders and pails had it under control before the department arrived.

A deal has been completed during the past week whereby the Colquhoun Land and the Company have bought the Stack Lumber Company a planing mill located at Masonville. Within the near future the mill will be moved from its present site to Rapid River and probably located in the vicinity of the company's saw mill. A planing mill is something sorely needed in the community and with this equipment the company aims to furnish all kinds of planed lumber both for the local market and for shipment.

SEEK SOLUTION FOR HOUSEHOLD PROBLEMS

Thousands of Michigan farm women will be aided in the solution of household problems this year through economic extension projects which is being sponsored by specialists from M. S. C.

The help is to be given in home furnishing, home management, clothing and nutrition. The groups which take these extension courses are organized under the direction of a local leader, who attends leader training sessions each month.

A three year course in home furnishing is given and two years' of work is given in each of the other two courses.

The home economics extension staff at the college which supervises these projects will have three new members this year: Miss Florence L. Becker, nutrition; Miss Clara L. Grever, clothing; and Miss Frieda Gilmore, home furnishing.

POTATO DIGGING STAYS ON FARMS

RAINY SEASON SPOILED WHAT LOOKED LIKE A GOOD CROP

Potato digging started in earnest this week and with the closing of the schools of the township on Thursday night the boys are assisting in the work of getting the seeds out of the ground and into the cellar.

It is estimated that the boys on the farms of the township are working or seeking work wherever they are needed.

The greatest crop as good as was predicted a month ago because of the excessive rain during September. Many fine sets of potatoes have been under water for several weeks and the potatoes have rotted or become so badly spotted that they are of no use. This makes the farmer dubious of whether to pick or not. Many bushels and the condition of some of the sets will make picking unprofitable for the farmer.

SCHOOLS CLOSED FOR TEACHERS CONVENTION

The high school and rural schools of the township closed Wednesday noon so the teachers could be present at the opening of the annual convention of the township district, Michigan Education Association at Iron Mountain. Two general sessions held Thursday evening, one at the high school and the other at the Colonial theatre. Will Durant, world-famed as a writer, lecturer and philosopher, addressed both gatherings Thursday evening.

Friday night's meeting will be held in the Colonial theatre. A general session for the township, Iron Mountain band and orchestra will be given. The principal speaker at the evening will be Webster H. Pearce, state superintendent of public instruction.

Saturday will also be a busy day for the teachers with a general session at 10:00 o'clock with Herman L. Ekers, former attorney general of Illinois, as the principal speaker. Mr. Ekers is an insurance counsel and will lead in the general discussion of the teachers' retirement plan.

A strong bid will be made to attend the 1929 convention for Escanaba.

LADIES AID TO SERVE CHICKEN DINNER, SUNDAY

The Ladies Aid of the St. Charles Catholic church will serve a chicken dinner at the high school gym building, Sunday, serving from 11:30 on.

A delicious menu consisting of cream chicken, baked macaroni, red dressing, mashed rutabagas, shredded carrots, rice potatoes, combination salad, celery, pickles, apple and pumpkin pie, and coffee, will be served.

The chicken dinner of the St. Charles Ladies Aid is their annual affair for more than a third of a century. Back in the early '90's the town hall was used for the banquet and supper. The annual dinner of this year is a radical change from the long established custom of serving the dinner in the evening, and usually in the afternoon. It will give many an opportunity to motor here for the day's visit and enjoy the excellent menu. Local people will find many advantages in the serving of the Sunday dinner.

Mrs. C. E. Hamilton is in charge of the affair, and is assisted by an able corps of kitchen and table workers.

POSED AS OFFICER TO GET NARCOTICS

Iron River—In again, out again, in again Harold.

Harold Van Wagner, 31, of Iron River, was charged with the crime of impersonating an officer to obtain narcotics.

Van Wagner was sentenced to four months in the county jail at Iron River, following his arrest by Hal Carr, deputy United States marshal in Chicago.

The Iron River man, who hasn't lived here regularly for some time, but who visits in the city once or twice a year, was charged with getting a quantity of morphine from a Chicago druggist by posing as a federal narcotic agent, according to new dispatches received here.

The news article stated that it was Van Wagner's second offense in Chicago, and he was "boxed" during his first offense.

WARDENS TO HAVE MAPS SHOWING ALL STATE LAND

Maps upon which all state-owned land is clearly designated, are being distributed among the officers of the state conservation department all over Michigan. The department has instituted a campaign to check up on all trespassers and see to it that the state property is properly protected in every way.

Individuals who have been cutting down trees, particularly those who engage in the business on a commercial basis, will have their activities curbed this year.

Unintentional and malicious trespass has been quite prevalent in the past. Because they were not sure of their ground, the wardens in some instances were hesitant about taking the proper steps. The maps will give the wardens the information they lacked. Trespassers who have been apprehended in the past have found that their activity was costly.

"SERENADE" GIVES MENJOU BEST PICTURE OF CAREER. A beautiful love song has been photographed.

"Serenade" is not only the greatest picture Adolphe Menjou has ever done, but it is the sincerest, most convincing photodrama ever presented in the field of romance.

Menjou is a young Viennese musician who achieves fame and fortune after he meets the beautiful Kathryn Carver, in whose mother's home he has rented a room, and under whose inspirational spell he writes the masterpiece of his career, an operetta whose tunes are on every lip and very violin in the world wide.

The mad adulation of the public turns his head, pleasantly enough. The wife who stood by him in the days of his struggle, is rejected until finally his duplicity causes a domestic crisis. The route of an unwise woman's lips and toll for powder on his coat sleeve are the sparks that drive the deceived wife to take sudden and effective action.

Through all of "Serenade" runs the sweet, haunting love song that was dedicated to the young artist' first great love.

WESTERN PICTURES SHOW LARGE GAIN IN PUBLIC FAVOR. Western pictures with their dash, action, spectacular stunts, and clean sweep of open country are not only holding their own in the field of screen entertainment but are rapidly forcing ahead to the lead, according to the crowds expected to attend "The Upland Rider."

Moved by Commissioner Goodman, supported by Commissioner Murphy that the Commission adjourn.

Resolution carried unanimously. F. R. BUECHNER, City Clerk

Marion Douglas has the leading feminine role. Albert Rosell directed and Harry J. Brown supervised production. The scenic qualities of the picture are beautiful. Many of the scenes were taken in the historical Palms Verde estate in California skirting the Pacific Ocean.

"The Upland Rider" is everything an action western picture should be and for thrills, stunts and daring you can't miss it.

RAILSTON MYSTERY PICTURE PLEASES. Esther Ralston has gone and done it again. She's outdoors herself in her latest Paramount starring vehicle, "Something Always Happens."

"Something Always Happens" is one of the most radically different pictures that has played in this city for some time, in that it violates most of the standard rules of picture making and scenario writing.

First of all, there is not a single kiss in the entire picture, and the romance of the hero and the heroine is subordinated by the ghostly happenings which take place throughout the story.

Something is always happening. The picture lives up to its title and set for a moment in the speediness of the story let down. Mysterious hands clutch at the beauty's throat, eerie footsteps and feet without bodies stroll around the house, sinister Chinese faces peer at her—anything that could happen to a girl and a boy in a haunted house does happen.

COMEDY PAIR IN LAUGH MELODRAMA. Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have taken their second step into the new motion picture realm of melodramatic comedies.

"Partners in Crime" is a clever satire, bristling with humor, on another aspect of American life, the backwoods mountaineers.

In "Partners in Crime," Beery and Hatton supplied the comedy overtones which gave the keynote to the picturization of the underworld life of the larger cities.

"The Upland Rider" is packed with thrills and a cross country race is one of the most daring and spectacular stunts ever shown in any picture.

matic comedy, "The Big Killing," which will show at the Rialto, Oct. 10-11, goes a long way from the larger cities and even from the front pages of the newspapers. It deals with a family feud way among the moonshine-making mountaineers in the backwoods. This type of individual still exists in the United States in large numbers but, being remote and his activities being largely confined to his own virgin territory, little is heard or known of him.

STATE CLUB WINNERS SEEK FURTHER HONORS

A large group of Michigan boys and girls have been awarded trips to national shows as a result of winnings made by the youngsters at the Michigan State Fair.

Postpone Chest Drive IRON MOUNTAIN—With only $317 left in the treasury, and some of the participating organizations in urgent need of funds, Iron Mountain's community chest sodget will not be replenished this year, according to a tentative decision of the board members meeting at the Millman hotel. Plans are in progress, however, for a drive in early next year, although the definite date has not been announced.

Unsettled industrial conditions, and the assumption that after the first of the year more will be known of the future prospects were given as the reason for the action taken this noon. "Some of the members," Charles F. Sine, secretary, said, "seemed to feel that we could probably accomplish more in a financial way, by waiting until conditions were more settled."

The Modern Period in Furniture

A new style has suddenly appeared in our midst. It is called by various names that are all expressive of the word, "Modern." Keeping up with the rest of our life, and the changes our development has brought.

It is a new style for a new age, not a new fancy, a passing fad, nor a manufacturer's whim. It is a period style that will be recognized by future ages just as we recognize the period styles of the past.

It is a style that represents us. We are modern people, have modern manners, clothes, way of living, and modern expression in the furnishing and decorating of our homes follows.

The whole world has changed and it is illogical for the people of today to live against backgrounds that are of the past, in which the spirit is dead and gone as the days of the Louis and George's are a new and wonderful era of our own.

This is an age of machinery and steel, of gasoline and electricity, of swift motion, of conceptions of democracy, an age not dictated by the historian but by artists who are using new tools. In this new era we are beginning to be governed by ideas of fitness, timeliness, and creative imagination instead of imitation of other periods.

The basis of the modern style is a new spirit. It is our response to the new order of things. Modernist furnishings are identified by simplified forms. In the desire to escape momentarily from the complex tangle of modern life, we take delight in the contemplation of simple, spacious examples, devoid of sentimental content.

Modern furniture seeks to resolve itself into the simplest forms possible, depending on their proportions and surface contours, not ornament for beauty. In many ways it is strongly influenced by Oriental design, particularly the Japanese, with its restraint and plain surfaces.

Straight lines are used principally, combined with a few simple curves. This is a colorful age. We vibrate with color and are beginning to understand it better. The flat popular surfaces, take color decorations effectively and are used instead of much imitation carving.

A table may be bordered with strips of color, ranging from red-orange through orange to greenish-yellow. Silver and gold is used in great deal in modern color arrangements, also black, and strips of mirror to give flashes of brilliancy.

Modern people seek utility and mobility in their furniture. Modern furniture has to stand much hard usage. There is much moving about, hence the demand for small, easily moved pieces. Family life has changed. There are fewer individuals. Houses are smaller and apartments the home of many families.

Chairs are being made low and comfortable with a luxurious feeling of depth. Tables are low to place beside the low chairs and sofas. Screens are used in great deal. Mirrors play an interesting part, giving life to a room and a sense of spaciousness by reflecting colors.

Few are objects are seen, only those of real beauty and quite pronounced in color and design. The effect of a Japanese interior is striven for in the choice of color. Although we are getting over our fear of color bright hues are shunned.

Some authorities feel that the very simplicity and rationalism of modern houses and furnishings are against them according to the view of life taken by large classes of people. When they are in their homes they are looking for relaxation and not for an impersonal atmosphere. In their own little world of home they are wanting to get away from the extreme efficiency and the machinery of modern life and live in another atmosphere.

They rather like many possessions and things to fuss over. Modernism is bound to make changes in home life, but just how far it will go will have to be demonstrated by the coming years.

THOSE WHO ARE guilty of "whispering" about men of public life, including Herbert Hoover and Governor Al Smith, are the type of busybody gossips that exist in every community of the land. the gossiper ridiculous in their own community. Mr. Hoover was addressed at Washington Governor Smith may be reached at Albany, N. Y.

DRY CANDIDATES for Congress men of both political parties, are wondering why the Anti-Saloon league is spending money for speakers to talk against Al Smith, knowing as it does that the President has nothing to win over or dry legislation. These congressional candidates say they are being overlooked that some of them are in danger of defeat simply because the dry forces are wasting their ammunition on the contest and neglecting the congressional contests. Dry Democratic congressmen especially complain about the Anti-Saloon League devoting all the energy to the presidential matter.

"En Passant"

Observations and Comment by Alice Fox

JOHN KINNE is the man who brings home the birds when he goes out duck hunting. He had fourteen one day that he bagged in the swamp across the Bay. Wonderful birds—all of 'em mud hens. But fourteen is a big day anyway, and John gets a kick out of exciting the crew with all the shuck duck hunters by telling them he got "fourteen."

FOLKS READ of Loeb and Leopold being eligible for parole within six years with an "I" told you so, frown and recalled their predictions at the time of the murder of the little Franka but that their money would mitigate justice.

THE proud new owner walked home with the dog at his heels, his long ears dangling half way down his legs, and with the customary slow gait of the hound. A car passed, and had a blow out just opposite the dog. The poor animal had never heard such a loud report before. He was frightened into quick motion for once in his life and thirty-five dollars worth of hound hit the trail for home. This man is going to raise up his own rabbits hereafter.

LINDY NOT only chooses to fly, but according to the gum advertisements, he chews as he flies.

ONE BUM who was around town soliciting coins for a livelihood the other day had only one arm. His only means of support, he said, was playing a hand organ and now he has the seven year itch. Cheer up. You haven't any troubles at all.

IF WE COULD re-instate the famous wet election of Andrew Jackson's day with a just of hard cider, one of the essentials to every little political discussion, we'd have voters 100%, and they wouldn't care which man was elected either. United States would no doubt become a modern Utopia with all party lines dissolved, and a unanimous acclaim for the jus of cider.

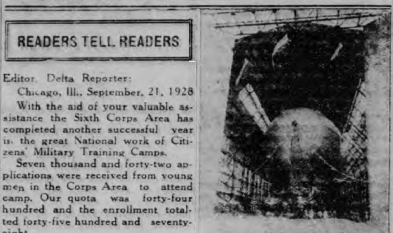

ALL THIS business of trying to reach Mars and find out what's there, and what isn't, is going to land United States into heaps of trouble if they ever do succeed. We're violating the Monroe Doctrine again. Besides if Mars' residents were contacted into this country, first thing we'd do would be to pass some new immigration law. If we were to establish friendly relations with Mars, they'd be apt to want us to send up an army to carry on a war with Jupiter or Neptune. And we know how that worked out before, increase of debt when it's all over, and then the folks who help only hate you for it.

ONE EDITOR, and he's a man too, writes, "We're willing to wager that if some Paris furring of notes were to start the fashion of knee muffs for women in winter it would be all the rage in one season. Naturally."

Just as if men wouldn't fall for what fashion decrees as quickly. How about this stiff collar craze a few years ago, when they wore 'em high and looked as if their chins were propped up under their ears. That wasn't comfortable by a long ways. It was satisfaction with the style of the hour.

BY THEIR NEWSPAPERS WE SHALL KNOW THEM Every live town needs a live newspaper and every newspaper needs a live town. Usually they go hand in hand. This is the way a Colorado editor tells of this interdependence.

"The newspaper is the window through which the world may look and see the community and learn of its advantages, attractions, ambitions, and accomplishments. "A bright, snappy paper imparts the community confidence in itself—and keeps its eyes and thoughts on the ideals that move progress individually and collectively.

"A newspaper is a public service institution on a par with the church and the school if it is properly functioning. Its service cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

"The newspaper is the index for the town. "In short, a live town supports a live paper, but a dead town cannot expect to have a live paper."

UPPER PENINSULA

IRON RIVER—Six alleged liquor law violators, caught in Sheriff Dickie's net a few days before the primary, were bound over for trial at the next term of circuit court in Crystal Falls, when they were formally arraigned before Justice Lyle. They were Robert J. Zich, his wife, Katherine, Mike Auto, Charles Waisanen, Herman Sherman and George Stouff. Zidar, Sherman and Stouff were held over following preliminary examinations. Evidence in the cases of Zidar, Sherman and Stouff was held by Leigh C. Caswell, prosecuting attorney, sufficient to warrant holding them for trial.

May Face Murder Charge

CRYSTAL FALLS—Whether a murder charge will be filed against Casper Oskin, 50, for the death of Peter Bertolini, 18, who died in General hospital from a bullet wound in his back, depends on the credibility of a dying declaration made by Bertolini on the night of the shooting June 27. That was the statement by Leigh C. Caswell, prosecuting attorney. Bertolini was brought to the hospital shortly after he was wounded by a bullet fired from a revolver directed by Oskin in the chicken coop of Oskin's farm east of Crystal Falls. The boy, who was in a critical condition that evening, was alleged to have declared that Oskin shot him after the two had engaged in a conversation. Caswell has the dying declaration in his possession and is now investigating to determine whether Oskin will be charged with murder.

Weather Ruin Crops

SAULT STE MARIE—Continued wet and cold weather has ruined at least 50 per cent of Chippewa county's crops with a conservatively estimated loss of $500,000. D. L. McMillan, county agricultural agent, says the bumper crop that made farmers optimistic earlier in the season is still in the ground, ruined and the wet weather is preventing farmers from harvesting, he said. The clay lands are saturated with water and rotting in the ground. Grain crops are heavy but with prospects that most of them will stay in the ground all winter. "When this wet and cold weather struck us, the farmers of this vicinity were viewing the best crops in years. These crops are still in the ground and there is little hope that anything will be harvested. A 50 per cent loss is a very conservative estimate," McMillan said. The major crops of peas, flax, clover seed and barley were in the ground, bumper crops. Hay was the only crop not above the average for years. Precipitation was ready to harvest when the rain came. The ground is saturated and at this time of the year there is little evaporation.

New Courses at College

HOUGHTON—With the opening of the fall term, October 2, the Michigan College of Mining and Technology will offer a five-year course in electrical engineering. The new department was created by authorization of the state legislature, which widened the field of instruction of Michigan Tech to include other courses in engineering besides mining and metallurgy. President W. O. Hotchkiss says that the new course in electrical engineering will be complete as any offered by any other institution and will include power, communication and illumination engineering. Professor George W. Swenson, formerly assistant professor of electrical engineering at the University of Minnesota, will be head of the department of electrical engineering. Michigan College of Mining and Technology. Professor Swenson is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he received his bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering in 1921.
