THE BARRMEN AT MEMORIAL MEET

CONFERENCE TO STUDY PROS- PECTS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF FLYING

A Michigan Air Conference will be held at Menominee, October 12 and 13, to make a serious study of the problem of bringing the two peninsulas of Michigan closer together by air service.

Industrial leaders and business men throughout the state are behind the movement to eliminate the 24-hour journey that is necessary to reach most of the Upper Peninsula cities from Detroit and Lansing.

The air conference is for the express purpose of devising ways and means of establishing a fast passenger, mail and express service between the vast copper and lumber districts of the north and the big industrial centers of Southern Michigan.

The conference is a direct outgrowth of the non-political air tour made by Gov. Fredson, Green and party of commercial flying enthusiasts to the Northern Peninsula. Using a big Ford trimotor airplane, the government found that even under adverse weather conditions an average of more than 20 hours could be saved in reaching the heart of the Upper Peninsula.

Menominee, Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Blaney Park all have excellent airports and are but a few hours flight from Detroit, and the great Ford plant at Iron Mountain, Mich., is only four hours and 30 minutes away.

Edward S. Evans, millionaire transportation expert and until recently holder of the record for around the world airplane flight, is scheduled to be one of the speakers at the Menominee air congress.

Several manufacturers of commercial planes have signified their intention of sending planes to Menominee for the air congress, and the business men who are present there will have plenty of opportunity to learn about the commercial problems involved as well as seeing the ships in actual operation.

The business survey being made by the Menominee committee is expected to disclose very accurate and interesting information on the amount of prospective business available for northern Michigan air lines. The selection of possible routes will doubtless be based on the findings of this survey, and the possibility of air mail contracts will also depend on the prospective amount of mail indicated by the survey.

FREAK RASPBERRIES IN AL SMITHS YARD

You don't very often find raspberries in October, but that something about the bushes in Al Smith's yard at 517 Delta Avenue have got turned around, and are bearing now. Mrs. Smith reports that they are loaded with blossoms, there are quite a few ripe berries, and many half ripe ones that give promise of a fair crop. The bushes bore as usual during raspberry season this year.

Rev. N. Werner Nelson, who was pastor of the Baptist church of Gladstone for six years between 1915 and 1921, received a call from members of that congregation to return and arrive here last week Friday to take charge. Rev. Nelson's last pastorate was at Minneapolis but he spent the summer months at his former home in Republic Mich.

J. D. McDonald Was Active Politically a Few Years Back

J. D. McDonald was active in political circles not so very many years ago, holding several city positions. He served as city treasurer from 1908 to 1912, and as poor commissioner for several terms, his tenure of office concluding with the beginning of the city manager form of government in Gladstone. He was also a member of the Cemetery Board for several years, and took an active interest in politics in the earlier days of our city.

POPULAR GLADSTONE YOUNG WOMAN DIES AFTER SIX MONTHS ILLNESS

Miss Eva Bolen, eighteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bolen was laid to rest in Fernwood Cemetery Tuesday morning following impressive funeral services at St. Ann's Catholic Church. Rev. S. Maier officiated at the Requiem Mass at nine o'clock. Pall bearers were class mates of Miss Bolen, John Norton, Douglas Mathison, Soren Johnson, Ray Barber, Clifford Liberty and Richard Barry. Interment was made in Fernwood Cemetery.

Miss Bolen had suffered with tuberculosis for six months, having been taken ill last April. She was removed to the Sanatorium at Powers on April 20th, where she remained until the middle of September. She was then taken to St. Francis Hospital to submit to an operation. Her condition gradually weakened in the days that followed and death came Saturday afternoon at 3:30 when she passed peacefully away.

Miss Bolen was a graduate of Gladstone High School with the class of 1928. She was a very capable and popular young woman, and a leader in all school activities. Her death has brought deep expressions of sympathy on every hand evidenced by the many beautiful floral offerings and friends who called at the home before the funeral.

Out of town relatives who were here to attend the services were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woods of St. Ignace, Mich., William Cliff and son of Traverse City, William Hendrick of Clare, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. James Bolen, William Bolen, Edward Bolen, Charles Bolen, Mr. and Mrs. David Bolen, all of Flint.

The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community in their sorrow.

RICHARDSON AND VOYLES GIVEN 2 TO 10 YEARS

Sentences of from two to ten years, with a recommendation of two years, were imposed by Judge Frank Bel in Delta Circuit Court on Saturday on James F. Voyles and Raymond Richardson, Kentucky men arrested at Manistee last August on statutory charges preferred by two Manistee girls. Last night Richardson was charged with an attack on an Escanaba woman, received a similar sentence.

Voyles was charged with rape and his trial took up nearly three days, the jury finding him guilty of assault with intent to rape. After this verdict the two who faced the same charge, pleaded guilty to the lesser offense, and the sentences followed Saturday morning.

Those charged with liquor law violations who pleaded guilty were given fines and paroles and one with a second offence charged against him was given a jail term. William Moore of Rock was tried on a moonshine charge and found guilty.

PASTOR IS ATTENDING MINISTERIAL DISTRICT MEET

Rev. P. E. Palmquist, with Mrs. Palmquist left Wednesday afternoon for Stephenson to attend a district meeting of the Northern Michigan Ministerial Association. The sessions opened Wednesday, and will close Sunday.

U. P. EDITORS TO BE IN GLADSTONE OCT. 20

MRS. GEORGE BESSON DIES IN ACCIDENT

Publishers of the 14 upper peninsula weekly newspapers have been invited to attend a meeting here on Saturday, Oct. 20. They will be the guests of the local publishers at a 6:30 dinner to be served in the Riolo club rooms by Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Corbett.

The editors of the upper peninsula weeklies have been meeting semi-annually to discuss topics of interest to members of their craft. A representative of the Michigan Press association will be here also.

Mrs. George Besson, 43, of Escanaba is dead, and her sixteen year old daughter, Dorothy, in St. Francis Hospital in a serious condition, following an auto accident last Friday morning when they were struck by a car driven by Mrs. Adam Langlotz of this city.

The two women were crossing a street in front of St. Joseph's school of Escanaba. Mrs. Langlotz swerved to the right to avoid hitting some school children, and in so doing struck Mrs. Besson. Mrs. Langlotz, according to her own story, did not see the mother, and believed she had struck only the child until she had brought her to a stop. Mrs. Besson, who was dragged twenty feet by the car, suffered fractures of the skull and jaw, and severe body lacerations. She was taken to St. Francis Hospital where death came shortly afterward.

Dorothy Besson is suffering from concussion of the brain, and is allowed no visitors. She has not been able to hear of her mother's death. The two were on their way to the night school at St. Joseph's church when the accident occurred.

A coroner's jury disagreed in finding Mrs. Langlotz guilty of negligent homicide when they convened this week. Four were for a guilty verdict, and two not guilty. Members of the jury were James Edward Nicholson, Mrs. Peter Thompson, Dewey Meunier, Mrs. Elmer LaPlante and John S. Bolen. It is likely that unless there are further developments, there will be no action taken against Mrs. Langlotz.

A peculiar coincidence was that injuries were suffered by her husband, Adam Langlotz who is employed at the Quality Bakery on the same morning when a large kettle of hot lard burned. Mr. Langlotz had just finished making doughnuts when the lard caught fire. Bursting into flames, it burned one arm, and the side of his face severely when he attempted to remove it from the fire. The loss of about one barrel of lard and damages to the kettle was the only loss.

The fire department was called to the scene and damages to the building were prevented. Mr. Langlotz was able to be on duty again the following night.

A paper on the trend of styles in dress during the past fifty years was read by Miss Mabel Harris at the meeting of the Child Welfare Club on Monday night held at the Kindergarten Building. The paper featured a program on Home Economics. Miss Harris went back fifty years to the mode that was in vogue then, tracing the development and changes during the years. The paper was well received.

Musical numbers that were given also won the applause of the audience. String Ensemble selections, Robert and Gertrude Kee, Angela and George Mallongee and Wava Moore under the direction of Van Kniesbeek. Vocal Solo, Miss Antoinette LaPine, with Mrs. N. J. LaPine accompanying.

INSTALL NEW BATTERY WITHOUT SHUTDOWN

A feat that challenges the attention of those in the business was recently performed at the local Northwestern Coopertage & Lumber company when a new battery of steam boilers was installed in the venter plant without a suspension of work. This was made possible by running a steam line connection from the saw mill, the work being under the direction of J. Paul Bass, general superintendent. The force in one mill was worked days and the other nights so as to allow all departments to operate without much interruption.

Plywoods manufactured by the local company are in big demand, especially the kind used for packing cases for radio, the latter industry now being in the period of its greatest activity. The "Nifty Case" made locally has already won a place for itself among those using plywood cases.

Oz Library Has 38 Youthful Patrons And Collection of 128 Books

The Oz Library that boasts of a collection of 128 books, and circulates among 38 youngsters, all contributors and officials of some sort, is located in the basement of the Thomas McGee residence on Superior Street. The library was the idea of little Eleanor McGee, and two of her playmates, Billy Allison and Bobby Corbett. They have arranged a couple of shelves upon which are neatly placed their book collection among them, several Alger stories, Boy Scout and Camp fire books. A magazine table is at another side of the room and there are located in a several current numbers of popular magazines.

Choosing their name, Oz Library from the book "The Wizard of Oz" which is one of their choice possessions, they have decorated the library with picture drawings of the characters in the story. Typical library warnings are also hung on the walls "Read More, think less, talk less," and the usual "Silence." Eleanor keeps regular open hours from four until 5:30 each night at the close of school, and the youngsters who helped establish it and a few customers are usually on hand. The children have prepared a book in which is listed the customers names, and the books numbered and charged when taken out. Two weeks are allowed for one book, and a penalty is the penalty following. A sum of thirty-three cents was paid through fines and with this a paper bound book was purchased, "The Tale of Fatty Cow." The youngsters have the new additions which they are going to make all in mind to buy as the fine money comes in slowly.

THERE is said to be little in a name and there generally is little. The name does make an impression, good, bad or indifferent. Take politics. New parties come and go, and the two major parties have gone on as such ever since the birth of the Republican party in 1860 when Abraham Lincoln was elected the first time.

Let's go back just 20 years. We find three parties, Republican, Democrat, Socialist Democrat. Prohibition, Populist, Socialist Labor and Independent, listed in the order of the votes received. The following election year, 1912, saw the birth of Teddy Roosevelt's Progressive (Bull Moose) party and the fading of two of the parties listed the previous election, Independent and Populist.

Roosevelt's party polled more votes than did the Republican party, thus assuring the victory of Wilson on the Democratic ticket. In 1915, with war as the main issue, Roosevelt the fighter, threw his strength with the Republicans in an effort to defeat Woodrow Wilson, the pacifist. Wilson won, because "he kept us out of war."

A few short months afterward we were in the mess. But that is another story. The war mistakes and the absolute disgust of the American people with the manner in which they had been deceived assured a Republican landslide, with Warren Harding as the standard bearer. Then followed a succession of scandals. But that, too, is another story.

Four years ago the Democrats were due for a quick come-back. But party politics and religious bigotry broke forth in all its fury in the now famous Madison Square Garden debate between Harding and Coolidge.

That, too, is another story, and its history remains to be written.

SMITH against Coolidge in 1924 would have had a comparatively easy time. Coolidge never had, nor perhaps will ever have, a record of successful accomplishment comparable with Smith or Hoover. The parties count little as a matter of real fact, but count much because of the tendency of so many voters to remain steadfast to their original choices.

What is the difference? Just this. The progressive is not afraid to try something new whenever the something new promises a betterment of the existing order of things. The reactionary declares, in substance, "such and such was good enough for my grandfather and great-grand father, it's all right now, and I see no reason to change it and take a chance on the new."

If our forefathers had all been reactionary they would still be wearing the fig leaf, living in trees and caves, worshipping the sun, stars and moon, and never have known that there was much existing beyond our little domain. Progress is achieved only at the expense of the discarding of established habits and practices.

GLADSTONE and Delta county are getting some attention from the political powers because the contest here is regarded as sufficiently close to merit attention. The Democrats are hoping to carry the county and the Republicans are out to prevent it if they can.

The Republicans have had things coming their own way altogether too easily. An organization worth while must be made to fight for its existence, otherwise it is bound to decay. That is what was happening to the party in Delta county and in others in this state.

There can be no strong majority without an aggressive minority. The Democrats are aggressive now, and that is important, more so than the outcome of the election itself.

The liberal, fair-minded voter will endeavor to hear both sides to the political campaign. We certainly recommend that course.

DETROIT has tried before to win approval for the so-called right of states condemnation amendment to the constitution of Michigan. The Detroit News has waged a long and tiresome battle in trying to win public approval of the proposal. Twice it has been defeated. November will see another referendum. The proposed amendment is little understood outside of Detroit and as is usually the inclination in such cases, the voter disapproves on general principles rather than that an improper

Gladstone, this writer has followed the discussion of its merits and weaknesses and inclines to the belief that a better understanding would see it turned down by an even bigger majority than before.

The amendment would allow, with some restriction, condemnation of land in excess of the portion actually needed for public improvements. For instance, where a city desired to buy a wider right of way, it could acquire title to land it desired along the route. This could be resold at the increased price made possible by the improvement and also the city could control the purposes to which it might be put.

All very desirable from the city's standpoint, but what about the rights of the respective owners? Might it not be very probable that injustices would be inflicted? The News points out that the system works out well in European countries. Which may be true, but there the people are largely accustomed to surrendering their rights.

THE one amendment deserving favorable consideration is that which will give Michigan's legislators an increase in compensation. The Constitution now provides for the term of two years. There is no regular session during that time and it lasts close to four months, never less than three. Sometimes there are extra sessions. More expense, less pay. The $800 is hardly enough to pay hotel bills for the stay at the Capital. Not if the legislator is going to live as comfortably as he would at home, and certainly the people of Michigan do not want their public servants to profit while engaged in public work.

The $3 per day provided in the proposed amendment would pay the legislator $1460 for his two-year term. Assuredly low enough. Michigan should be more generous. The voters should not hesitate in going that far. And they won't, we believe, if they stop to consider the justice in the November 6 proposal.

THE woods were never more beautiful than they are at the present season. Abundant rainfall has kept enough of the forest green to blend beautifully with the autumnal colors. Nothing is more refreshing and soothing to the nerves and the body than a quiet walk along a trail through a timbered area. The writer tried it out over the week end and recommends the experience highly.

Among other things viewed was a beaver dam, one of the largest ever seen in these parts according to more experienced woodmen in our party. At least we think A. F. Raddant and Albin Nelson know considerable about the woods. The expression, "works like a beaver" carries more meaning after having seen the fruit of their labors along the upper reaches of the Haysmeadow.

As we approached this body of water that glistened in the sunlight, it appeared that its level was considerably raised above the ground. We thought it was only a mirage and said nothing, being little anxious to display our ignorance, and that fellow Nelson does get something on the editor. But closer examination disclosed that the water was higher and that it was made so by an expertly constructed dam, the work of the beaver. For hundreds of feet this cunning little animal had built up a retaining wall that held back the hundreds of pounds of pressure from the impounded water.

It was the work of experts. And as one gazed upon it the fact was driven home of the wonders derived through hard work, cooperatively conducted. Humans are like that. They build up worthwhile communities when they work together.

OFFICIALS of the Conservation Department sent out a notice that some of the State Parks will be kept open during the winter and that winter sports will be developed. A mighty fine undertaking. For when folks learn the pleasure, health and satisfaction that can be derived from this winter activity, they will eagerly welcome the winter months. Winter sports will develop slowly at first. When a few get acquainted with its pleasure giving possibilities, they spread the information rapidly. Then the north will truly come into its own.

A healthy, vigorous populace laughs with winter. The cold handicaps only those who sit around complaining about it. And we are glad to see the state take an active part in developing the winter sports.

WHO remembers the oldtimers of perhaps 25 years ago who used to declare, "you can have your automobile ride, but it's best to keep my feet on the ground or ride behind the old grey mare?" Now a fellow who walks or drives a horse along a main highway is really risking his life whereas those who glide comfortably past him in automobiles are assuredly safe. And it's going to be the same way about flying. The day will come when the safest travel will be by air.

Those who now watch the development of the various types of aircraft are seeing history in the making and it is setting considerable of a pace. The air conference being held at Menominee this Friday and Saturday identifies the upper peninsula with the development, just as did the recent dedication of the airports at Escanaba and Blaney. Hiawatha-Land does not want to be left behind. It is interested in the flying business and its people realize, too, that they have more to gain relatively speaking, because it brings us that much closer to the centers of concentrated industrial activity.

We hope the Menominee conference brings about something tangible for the upper peninsula.

THE New York Yankees are 1928 world champions of baseball, having defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in four straight games, and setting a record of eight straight victories in world series baseball. This because they won four straight from Pittsburgh a year ago. The Yankee's victory indicates several things—their superiority over the best team in the National league; the value of a punch that can be put over when needed, and the mental hazard placed upon their opposition. The sport world would have liked to see a change in winners. But it stops to pay tribute to the winners who deserved to win.

WHEN a political speaker makes an effective plea to the voters, its contents are forced upon an indifferent public. When a "boner" is pulled in the way of tactless utterances, the same public gathers up their contents with avidity. Then the speaker is disowned by the campaign committee. Witness, for instance, the case of Mrs. Willibrand.

October 10, 1908. Work is progressing steadily on the new veneering mill north and east of the Coopersage mill. The building to be an eight story high 256 feet, and its foundations are now being poured. The walls, with good weather, will be up next Saturday. In the winter process, as it is to be operated, the logs will be hauled from the pond and cooked for 24 hours in large cauldrons whose walls are already ten feet high, then passed thru the mill and cut into veneer. This will then be dried in a special kiln, and loaded into cars ready for the market. About 70 men will be employed by this mill. Although there has been a slight steady increase for years in the population, the new mill is the first addition to Gladstone's industries, for a long time.

FOUR TOUCHDOWNS BEAT MANISTIQUE

Gladstone high defeated Manistique in the game played here Saturday afternoon, 23 to 6, but the game was a harder tussle than the score would indicate, for the visitors presented what appeared to be their best football for many years, perhaps since the days of the famous Johnny Quick. Manistique's backfield was not heavy, and neither was the line, for that matter, but it made up in speed what it lacked in weight.

Against this lineup, Coach Eldon Keil sent in a heavy line, one that seemed to work together effectively, and capable of opening up holes for its ball carriers. Liberty stood out prominently on the offense, for he carried the ball across for all four touchdowns, and once, after the first touchdown he kicked for the extra point. But the work of DeFoghe, Beach and Murdock stood out in a favorable light throughout the game. It is more difficult to distinguish the individual contributions of those on the line, but against Manistique it was plainly to be seen that McMillan at center, Johnson and Fillmore at guard, Frater and Sutter at tackle and Haberman and White at ends were doing their share of carrying their school to a well-earned victory.

Murray also got a chance to play in the backfield, substituting for Murdock, in the first quarter and the latter came back into the game in the third quarter after Beach, full back, was injured. He is suffering from a scratched eyeball, but is recovering and will not long be out of the game.

The locals' first touchdown came early in the game. Gladstone had kicked off and Manistique punted back after making one first down. The locals also made a first down and punted to Manistique. The latter tried three plays and then punted back, the locals receiving the ball between their own 40 and 45 yard line. On the first play Liberty skirted Manistique's right end, with good interference wormed his way through the defence and then ran the rest of the close to 60 yards for the first touchdown. He kicked for the extra point.

Early in the second quarter Manistique got itself into trouble on had passes from center, Gladstone getting the ball on Manistique's 35-yard line. A 15-yard pass, Liberty to Murdock, a gain through the line of 8 yards by Beach, and another pass Beach to Liberty sent the latter across for the second touch-

The MAYTAG Roller Water Remover

A New and Better Way of Wringing

PASSING a clothes-pin between the rolls of the Maytag Roller Water Remover, shows how the large, soft upper roll hugs the lumps, folds and seams in the clothes, reaches down into the low spots, leaving no wet places to retard drying on the line. Buttons, snaps or ornaments go through safely. A soft top roll, working against a hard bottom roll, creates more effective wringing action than two soft rolls or two hard rolls.

The Roller Water Remover, exclusively owned and controlled by The Maytag Company, has many other features of convenience which make it handy. The safety-feed makes it easy to start the clothes through the rolls. The tension automatically adjusts itself to a thin handkerchief or a bulky blanket.

The drain plate automatically reverses itself, and pressure on the safety release makes it possible to separate the rolls instantly.

The Maytag won world leadership by trial washings in the home. Telephone for a Maytag before your washday. Experience the advantage of the cast-aluminum tub and extra-long action. See the Maytag do a washing in an hour without hand-rubbing anything. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

OLD LANDMARK TO BE RAZED

COLE ESTATE PROPERTY SOLD BRINGS UP HISTORICAL FACTS

The 50 acre farm of the H. W. Cole estate located on the east and west sides of the Rapid river, was purchased by William H. Acker formerly of Munising but who has been touring the country for the past year in quest of a desirable location. Mr. and Mrs. Acker have been in western Canada, California and other places but they declare they find no place as good as this old Michigan. The new owner is a retired mill owner having operated a mill at Munising for many years. He will only do light farming, keeping a few cows and chickens. The old residence and barns will be razed and a more modern home built. The location is ideal for tourists, and a number of small cottages may be built along the river. There would be fishing in the river and bay nearby and an hours motor drive would take the vacationists into the woods for hunting and the lakes for fishing. The baseball grounds are located on a part of this property.

The farm residence is one of the oldest landmarks in the vicinity being built over forty years ago. The land was first homesteaded by William Martin, father of W. J. and Joseph Martin. The old homestead site can still be seen in the south end of the field. At that time there was a road leading from the Daussey point through the Ackerly and Martin homesteads and joining the old state road where the bridge is at present. This old state road was a mail trail from Masonville to Manistique through the Indian settlement at St. Jacques. The first houses in the village were built on the Daussey point and on the state road the present U. S. 2 near the road bridge. Cole's boarding house, a drug store near where the Creamery now stands and Farrell's grocery store where the Carson garage is now. Other parts of this state road were built up between the German Lutheran church and the Central office but it was not until the railroad went through that the present main street was built up.

STATE TRAPPERS CATCH LIVE BEAVER

A Trenary man and Joseph Parent, state conservation men, returned Monday from Round Lake where they spent a week catching beaver in live nets for the state. One large and two small beaver were taken and shipped to Lansing. A large steel live trap or net is used and only one beaver taken at a time. The beaver swim into the trap which closes, making the animal prisoner without in any way harming him. Beaver are plentiful at many of the inland lakes and creeks but are protected by the state until 1930.

TO BUILD GRAVEL WALK AT H. S. GYM

The board of education of Masonville township has called for sealed bids for 100 cubic yards of gravel to be used for the construction of a gravel walk to the main entrance of the high school gym. The grounds have been badly in need of improvement since the construction of the gym several years ago. Sand ankle deep has made walking to and from the gym rather difficult. The gravel walk will greatly improve this and will be used later on in the construction of a cement walk.

Basketball practice started this week under the coaching of H. E. Nelson who led the team through a successful season last year. Leon Johnson is captain of this year's team. With the opening of the season, the gym will again be packed with fans to witness the games and the construction of the walk will be appreciated. Carl Vitzke will again be in charge of the gym.

CHAPTER XVII The Lie

The sensational scandal of Buckwell's deception... By dawn the Tong leaders of Chinatown, headed by Lu Fong, had demanded a showdown and the white bosses had acceded to their demand.

Unfortunately they could not all arrange to meet at Buckwell's until three o'clock in the afternoon but from early morning a crowd began gathering about the entrance to the home of the so-called Cas.

For the most part the curiosity seekers were white. But there were several groups of Chinamen on the outskirts. They all knew Buckwell, and had either envied him his political notoriety or felt the uncomfortable influence of power in their own insignificant lives.

The delegation that came to hear Buckwell refute the accusation against him was ushered into the big main living room and asked to make themselves comfortable.

Lu Fong and the Tong leaders huddled together in a group. Opposite them were the white bosses and a few others, including Brandon, who had a big personal interest in anything that concerned Buckwell's possible downfall.

They had been a little surprised that Buckwell had agreed so readily to the appointment. Although they had not mentioned the reason for their desired visit they had no doubt that he was well informed of its purpose.

A clock in the hall announced the hour of three. Buckwell had not put in an appearance. Signs of restlessness became evident. If the hall door had been opened at that very moment they could have seen the girl who supplied the information being guided down the stairs on her way to Buckwell's secret shrine.

The arrival of Buckwell's callers had been announced to him in the shrine beneath his home and he became impatient. Punctuality was one of Buckwell's strong points and in his case he particularly desired to be prompt.

Dolores looked at Buckwell indolently but there was no doubt about his seriousness. She turned toward Terry and her heart throbbed in agony for him. He had said so much for her account. She had no right to cause his death.

THE KING PIN by R. Jack Jaster

Considerable interest has been aroused by the posting of a few individual scores on the black-board down at the Riatio Bowling Alley.

seems had better hurry if you want to get in it. The Office's score was 248 and the Flooring Mill did 2208. These scores are good; but listen, you legless, there's lots of room for improvement.

The ladies have come in response to last week's request and have fallen on hard for the idea of a few teams, but there seems to be a strong case of "passing the buck" among them.

The show, The Riatio Team was indulging in a little preliminary work out. As a bowler Bob Coe is a good one, while Forrest White needs a gyroscope to keep him steady.

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER No. 4 By Satterfield

1. After Herbert Hoover's father died in Iowa, the three children went to live at Uncle Benajah's farm nearby.

2. Here Herbert had his share of the housework, which included this important engineering job.

3. The children's playhouse was the farm attic, where they read Youth's Companion and Robinson Crusoe.

4. First prize always went to Herbert when the children played dress with Uncle Benajah's old white mare.

Turning quickly as if the delay of a single moment meant death. Buckwell spoke sharply and in haste. "Come on men," motioning to Jimmie and the Texas Kid.

"No! No!" she screamed, running forward and snaking into them. "I told you I would lie to you!" Turning her back on Buckwell she faced Terry as he lunged at the cabinet. "Oh, Terry, dear, she cried, reaching up to touch him with loving hands, "I am so sorry you have to suffer—it will soon be over!" and she smiled encouragingly.

He could not speak but his tired agonized eyes looked into hers and said many things that she understood. "Oh! Dolores whirled toward Buckwell with a new idea. "Soon as I lie to them will you promise to release him?"

"I am pleased to see that you care for him so deeply. It means that you will not fail me. . . . Yes—I promise!" and Buckwell laughed loud at the sound of the childish expression from his own lips. "San Toy!" he called. Immediately she appeared from behind the big screen, and eagerly approached her master. "It will be your sacred duty," continued Buckwell, giving her starved heart his undivided attention for a brief moment, "to guard this prisoner and watch my signal light from the room above. If the light goes out it means that his life passes with it—understand?"

San Toy's small hand came from her waist and in its strong clasp was a long sharp dagger. She held it above her shoulder in deadly position and eyed Buckwell inquiringly.

He nodded his grim assent and knew that San Toy would not fail him. She never had, and he had given her many difficult orders. Dolores groaned inwardly as she and Terry looked at each other across the intervening space so filled with treachery. Messages of love, hope and encouragement flashed between them.

Another minute and you can start to eat your supper, because I'm almost finished. Don't forget that next week, the schedule takes effect and that there will be some lively competition. Come down and watch the fireworks each night this week even if you aren't bowling.

CURRENT COMMENT

CHEER FOR THE SMALL MERCHANT (Newbury News)

Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, has made it plain that he and the United States Department of Commerce, of which his bureau is a part, do not agree with those who predict the eventual elimination of the small manufacturer and merchant.

The independent merchant, according to Klein, holds a better place in proportion to his efficiency and service to the community. The same goes, in effect, for the retailer. The big concern has undoubtedly advantages in certain types of business, but the independent retailer has the advantage in others.

The vast majority of independent business men will assist ability with a willingness to work, to utilize new methods, and to take advantage of new conditions, and with a reasonable amount of new capital, have as great opportunities for success today as ever before—in fact, a greater opportunity because of the steady increase in our living standards and buying power.

Curtailment of unnecessary costs is the answer to the small merchant's gravest problems. Studies conducted by Klein's bureau indicate that his profits are often lost through such wasteful and needless practices as accumulation of dead stock, soliciting of unprofitable customers, and the like.

"He is not restricted," Dr. Klein said, "by rigidly enforced, and unvarying systems, he is at liberty to adjust his methods and his stock to the peculiar tastes, moods and predilections of his clients; he has a broad leeway for qualities of flexibility and adaptability in the conduct of his business."

COLUMBUS

The most heroic story of history—the story of the voyage of Christopher Columbus and his opening of America—is to be celebrated on October 12. On that day in 1492 when Columbus discovered a new continent, the world has gained what an important part of the globe that continent would become, containing as it does, the heart of the greatest nations in the world.

The story of Columbus in itself is inspiring and magnificent—the story of a brave pioneer who feared no disaster, spared no effort, to prove to his own satisfaction and to the satisfaction of Europe that the world was indeed round. Little honor was paid to Columbus during his life-time; he was jeered and thought crazy; his path was beset with difficulties and dismay, his accomplishments disbelieved, his theories discounted. Yet today his name is held in reverence the world over.

Since the days of Columbus the Eastern and Western worlds are close neighbors; Lindbergh, by spanning the Atlantic in an airplane showed us how close they really are. In the days of Columbus the way from Europe to America was beset with perils, both real and imaginary, and sailors on comparatively short trips always feared, tremblingly, that they would come to the "edge of the world" and fall off.

Now we do not fear the "edge of the world"; science and improved methods of transportation have destroyed the bugaboo of the past; now a man may talk in one continent, and by radio, be heard across the sea; travel has been demystified—travel has become a pleasant instead of a hazardous undertaking. Yet we still cannot even glimpse the mystery of life, the Divine Purpose of it all—and probably never shall. We know more and more about ourselves—but have no more knowledge than in the past of the writings of Providence. But just as Columbus praised God for his accomplishment, so must we too, praise God for the things that have come to pass since the days of Columbus.

I think of brave Columbus! Whitman has sung of him, "old, poor and paralyzed," nevertheless thanking God for His divine help. We who have not to face the martyrdom of a Columbus nor encounter the difficulties that he encountered, should surely not be swayed from the spiritual by the mechanical and scientific discoveries of this age. The Soul of Man is more important than man's accomplishments, important though they be—Manning News.

"STOCK DIVORCE CASES" (Charlotte Republican)

In the course of his career every county seat newspaper man doing court reports may observe complaints. He is familiar with the stock changes which experience makes it easy for him to pick out the "excess baggage," so to speak, in this type of court finding. There is no household in the land from the White House down, but what would qualify for this type of legal relief, left to the handiwork of certain lawyers. An insidious infraction of the commonly accepted standards of conduct in all this legal-literary craftsman needs to make the average husband or wife appear as a par with a Chicago gunman. This type of divorce bills are positive features of crime; these overdrawn charges in many cases, stimulate a hate which up to this legal action has, for the most part, been nothing more than amiable stultification. There is no form of "justice" so cruel and malignant as

UPPER PENINSULA

Violators Fined

SAULT STE MARIE—Five men who pleaded guilty to violation of the same laws before Judge John A. Colwell in justice court, were sentenced to pay fines of $10 each and costs of $2. W. Bell admitted that he had three guns in a boat in a duck blind at Munuscong bay when he was discovered by Irving Ladd, conservation officer. One of the guns, he said, had been given him by a friend to fix and he was trying to fix it. He also admitted to being a hunter in a blind or a boat. The other four men who admitted game law violations were Everett McKee, H. Angers, of the Soo; W. H. Elwell, of Munuscong, and Larry Mier, of Detroit. They admitted hunting ducks from a motor boat.

In Magician Society

HANCOCK—Stuart Ross, prominent Hancock young man, has been notified that he has been accepted as a member of Chicago Assembly No. 3, Society of American Magicians, and also the International Brotherhood of Magicians. Mr. Ross is the only magician in the upper peninsula, and one of four in the district embracing the upper peninsula and Wisconsin. He has an excellent repertoire of original sleight-of-hand tricks and is master of many of the most difficult feats of magic. His plans for the future are indefinite, he said.

Strangled to Death

HANCOCK—Mrs. Anton Olm, 57 years of age, Hancock resident, met death in her home, 112 Franklin street, in what may have been one of the most peculiar accidents in the history of the city. Her body was found suspended from a clothes line which had been stretched across the attic of her home. Death had been caused by strangulation. Sheriff John T. Rowe and Coroner Charles Little, who made an investigation, said it was entirely possible the woman, who had been in ill health for several months, had been stricken with a faint spell while standing on a box to hang up clothes, and in falling was caught on the clothes line, and was unable to struggle free.

Cow Poisoning Mystery

MENOMINEE—The poisoning of cattle which cost Labrache farmers several thousand dollars is still a mystery, according to a report by long distance from Dr. F. K. Hanson, state veterinarian. Some time ago the doctor was summoned by local County Agent C. E. Skiver to investigate the trouble. Post mortem of some of the animals was made and portions of the vital organs sent to the state laboratory at Lansing for chemical analysis. The state laboratory now reports that they are unable to find any traces of arsenic or nitrates or any other form of poison.

Charge Dismissed

MANISTIQUE—After hearing several witnesses at the preliminary examination, Justice W. G. Stephens dismissed the arson case of Mrs. Ruth Shippie, Seney, because of insufficient evidence.

Against Sunday Funerals

IRON RIVER—Sunday funerals and a custom of opening caskets at the close of church services are causing the disapproval of the Iron County Ministerial association on Monday at a meeting held in the Carnegie library of Sambauch. The association is comprised of ministers of the county's Protestant churches. Disapproval of the opening of caskets was on general principles but resolutions frowning on Sunday funerals was aimed especially at a custom of delaying a day or two to have them occur on the Sabbath.

May Sell Murray Hill

SAULT STE MARIE—Unless the Murray Hill hotel is sold it will close its doors for the winter October 15, it was announced by A. E. Marriott, manager. "The Murray Hill will close for the winter October 15 unless sold. We have two prospective buyers in view," said Mr. Marriott owner of the hotel. The Murray Hill during the summer did excellent business. Mr. Marriott said The Park Hotel of the Ojibwa Park Hotel company is closed. All the doors and windows will be taken up for the winter. Leon Degelman, associate manager said.

Threatens His Father

IRON RIVER—Under the influence of drink, Edward Lahti, 21 of Caspian, was arrested by Marshall Stanchina after he had threatened to kill his father and burn down his home. He was brought into Justice Curley's court where he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct consisting of drunkenness, threatening to kill his father and to burn his home.

Fathers Win in Court

IRON RIVER—A legal victory for the Northwestern Ready Roofing company and its two attorneys, C. G. Lance, of Chicago, and C. I. Dwyer, of Crystal Falls, was recorded in Justice Curley's court when the case involving Julius Kasser, 20, foreman for the company, was dismissed upon his father's request. Dismissal of the charge against Kasser for failing to obtain a permit from City Manager Walraven for re-roofing a house came after Attorney Diederich concluded that the emergency build ordinance adopted by the commission two weeks ago was unconstitutional and discriminatory.

Recipe For Begging

IRON MOUNTAIN—To attain success in a begging career you must on your arms. That's the formula of Marcel Tebo, 19, a cripple who police say confessed to using such methods here. An "old man" whose name was not given suggested the use of by to make his appearance horrible. Tebo is said to have told police. The scars from the applications of ly were exhibited to people as "burning ulcers." Tebo declared and his "manager" had made him a card to indicate to the public that he had been stricken with infantile paralysis and was seeking money to visit an aunt who had promised to help him. Under questioning Tebo admitted participation in several robberies in Kingsford.

Start Big Power Project

BARAGA—Engineers for the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company have started preliminary work on the Sturgeon River. Approximately $3,000,000 will be spent, and much work will have to be done before the dam is erected. The probability of the main dam will be at what is known as the Prickett Falls, located on section 16, Township 50, North of Range 34, in Houghton county. The project is an extensive one and several years will be required before power can be generated.

Would Buy Equipment

L'ANSE—The State Highway department, through its engineers H. Davis and R. S. Reed, of Escanaba, has offered to purchase $59,770 worth of road machinery from the Baraga county highway department also the sheds at L'Anse and Tioga.

Fined for Seining

IRON RIVER—Seining fish at Lawrence's Point at Chicagoan lake proved the undoing of six prominent Crystal Falls sportsmen who were arraigned before Justice Curley. Each was fined $10 and $6 costs. They were A. L. Flood, Jake Schmidt, Alex Slevinski, Raphael Motter, Emil Biczajo and Myron Heck. Motter appeared for the six and entered pleas of guilty for each. The men were caught by Max Jaeger and M. D. Hayes, conservation officers, who had gone to Chicagoan lake to investigate reports of seining. The men used a boat and a 75-foot seine. They had heard luck, according to the conservation officers who stated that they found only a few fish in their possession. The men were contacted and taken to the state department of conservation.

the injustice of these ruthless, indeterminate. These extravagant charges in the local newspaper it would have a tendency to reduce the degree of viciousness that you frequently characterize modern divorce cases. Scant publicity and the chance for suppression of the files stimulates, if it doesn't actually encourage, this form of home wrecking. Publicity for the "major" divorce might serve to keep the charges somewhat near the actual facts. There is no official record so thoroughly lacking in power and common honesty as the bill of complaint in the average divorce case. Jesus James was a paragon of all the virtues compared to the average husband after these legal novelties complete his marital obituary.

(Crystal Falls Diamond Drill) Gov. Smith stated over the radio from St. Paul last week Thursday night that the question of adopting the St. Lawrence or the All-American canal is one for engineers to decide. He doesn't actually choose an engineer for president then.

A Weekly Panorama or Events in the National Capital by Peter Kogan, Special Correspondent for Delta Reporter

BUSINESS MEN generally are optimistic about a revival of business this winter. With radicalism erased from the political picture as business has no unnecessary even to a "red hot" political campaign is on. Business is unafraid. Indeed, there are indications that business will greatly improve during the present month.

AL SMITH puts on his best oratorical effort before a visible audience; Herbert Hoover does better before the invisible audience. The radio makes Hoover sound like a champion campaigner when actually he is a very poor speaker. Al Smith is a flashy orator who arouses his visible audience to heights of enthusiasm, but he doesn't do so well before the "mike." He gives so much attention to his visible audience that he bows away from the radio apparatus, which accounts for much of the poor reception of his western campaign speeches which have been broadcast.

RADIO SALES are on the boom in all parts of the country, according to reports in Washington. The fact that Radio is having such an important part in the campaign is not surprising. It has been estimated that there has been a rise in sales. Millions who have never seen either Hoover or Smith are now familiar with their voices.

AL SMITH has a distinct "downcast" voice that sounds strident to people of the south and the west. It has the twang of the "east side" of New York City. His voice sounds just as different to those of other sections of the country as the voice of the southerners and westerners sound to him. Western citizens have been greatly entertained and amused by Al's "brogue," as they call it, on his western tour. Many have been more interested in the way Smith said a thing, than in what he said.

COMPLAINT is being made by some of the Republican staidists that it is Hoover campaign rather than a Republican party campaign that is being made. It is being pointed out that the early Hoover boosters are getting all of the recognition in the party organization and that the other Republicans leaders who didn't happen to favor Hoover's nomination but who are regular are being left out in the cold as far as recognition goes. All Republican leaders are expected to help, but most of them must do so without titles.

RECENTLY a lawyer unused to the practices of the United States supreme court addressed the dignified judges as "gentlemen" instead of saying "Your Honors." He immediately apologized.

"Don't apologize for calling us gentlemen," chuckled Chief Justice William Howard Taft. "That's what we try to be."

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT, prominent New York Democrat who nominated Al Smith at Houston is a distant cousin of the famous T. R. He is a rampart Democrat. He says that most of the Democrats have been Democrats, all except T. R., T. R.'s father and now his children.

AFTER MARCH 4 will President Coolidge take a trip abroad? Will he become a writer? What will he do?

These questions are suggested for the barber shop debaters in every town in the land. They are subjects discussed daily in Washington. However, no one has any idea what Mr. Coolidge will do when he leaves the White House.

do? These questions are suggested for the barber shop debaters in every town in the land. They are subjects discussed daily in Washington. However, no one has any idea what Mr. Coolidge will do when he leaves the White House.

LAST WEEK, The Pathfinder, non-partisan, homefolks' weekly published in Westland, Michigan, published the results of a poll of its readers (chiefly rural) in 48 states. The standing-Hoover 233,315; Smith 97,408. Electoral votes represented-Hoover, 321; Smith, 210.

THE POLL (chiefly urban) which the Hearst Poll is conducting, last week stood: Hoover, 390,933; Smith, 337,718. Electoral votes (in the 48 states thus far represented): Hoover, 331; Smith, 181.

PARTY LEADERS feel that it is hard to forecast the outcome on Nov. 6th. Many claim that Straw Votes this year tell little, feeling that women voters pay no attention to them and seldom return their vote, when solicited by someone conducting a straw vote. Never before has there been such a shifting of votes as there will be this year. This is because of the wet and dry question. It's going to be an interesting campaign with plenty of thrills at the last. It's hard to prophesy the outcome. Don't make any wild bets. Play safe.

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN Work now claims that the "solid South" will go Republican. This party is waging an active and diligent campaign thru-out the south. They are saying little about it but have a crew of hard-workers on the job in every Southern state. The Democrats feel sure of the "solid south" and are concentrating their efforts in other states.

WORLD'S CHAMPION GOLD DIGGER COMING TO TOWN Men of Gladstone had better keep their hands on their pocket.

Lorelei, champion gold-digger of the age, is coming to town! Lorelei is the wide-eyed, fluffly little bopper whose inimitable diary was opened for all to read when Anita Loos wrote her now-famous satire, "Gentlewoman from Florida."

It is sensational were the sales of the book and so loud the guffaws of its readers that it was made into a stage play which duplicated the success of the book.

And now Paramount has made it into a motion picture comedy, which will be the feature attraction at Rialto Theatre Friday. In the picture, as in the book and play, the career of the dumb-looking (but not so dumb) gold digger provides one of the funniest plots ever unrolled in movie celluloid.

J. D. MacDonald Active Politically Few Years Ago

(Continued from Page One) ber 14, 1906 from Au Sable, a lumbering town in lower Michigan, now no longer in existence, having been wiped out by fire. He took a position with the Northwestern Co. paper company. He had been employed in the lumbering industry since a youth, and continued with the Co. paper company for about ten years before deciding on a business career.

Opened Store in 1906 Mr. McDonald had had experience in an ice cream parlor in his home town and felt that there was a demand for another business of that kind in Gladstone. In June of 1906 he opened his store, carrying a line of groceries and confectionery goods in connection. He believes himself to be the first to manufacture ice cream and home made candy for retail trade in this city.

There is a much greater demand for home made varieties of candy, than the factory made assortments, Mr. McDonald finds. Gladstone youngsters prefer the home made.

On their way to school, and en route home in the afternoon one can always find a group gathered in front of the counter selecting what they're going to have for their pennies. He enjoys making their chatter, and answering their numerous questions.

Some time ago one little fellow watched him as he opened a case of milk finally announcing, "I know where they get condensed milk from." Mr. McDonald enjoys his experience with the little folks and the big folks too, and likes the business all around.

Satisfied With Business While he does not consider himself an authority on conditions, he feels that though they have not been flourishing locally, Gladstone's business has been on a par with business generally throughout the country.
