Chats with The Editor

Too much importance should not be attached to school athletics. At least the commercial side of the game should not be pressed.

REGARDLESS of the outcome of the national election campaign being waged so hotly just now...

Those from Escanaba who have made the suggestion are credited with good intentions, especially since the use of the new field was offered without cost.

As to which team will have the advantage on one or the other of the fields should be worthy of only secondary consideration.

THERE is going to be an important event in Gladstone on Wednesday Nov. 7 at which time the annual Booster Banquet of the Gladstone City Club will be pulled off.

WILLIAM Jennings Bryan was not so fortunate. The silver-tongued Democrat opposed William McKinley, elected in 1896 and again in 1908 and had the satisfaction of coming close each time.

So many people think of things that ought to be done for their city and lament the lack of action. We are going to suggest that the plan of having all those in attendance write down one idea of what they think the city ought to undertake to be used at the gathering.

HICKMAN, the young murderer, had better than the cat's proverbial nine lives. At least it has taken longer to put him out of his misery.

JUST when we were getting to believe that every man was reconciled to bobbed heads, a Grand Rapids barber announces that his shop is absolutely closed to women.

RE-APPORTIONMENT, giving to each state the representation it is entitled to in Congress in accordance with the 1920 census, should really be an issue.

A matter that might really prove serious because the number of presidential electors is based on the number of representatives, and the states whose populations have decreased have fewer electors.

ANOTHER New Yorker, this time U. S. Senator Harry S. Copeland, raises his voice against the Waterway. Before a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting in New York, Senator Copeland declared that the selection of the St. Lawrence route would be nothing short of a national calamity.

ANOTHER new manager for the Detroit Tigers for next season. That is the way the fans dictate the policies of their favorite teams.

More scandal about the activities of the power trusts. This time in the northwest but the same methods. In the schools, colleges, newspapers, any place it can use, this evil influence, dishonest to the core, has spread its fangs.

Economy

By OGDEN L. MILLS
Undersecretary of the Treasury
ECONOMY in government means not just saving, but wise spending. It means the elimination of waste, the building up of a real sense of responsibility on the part of public servants, and the development of a spirit of unselfish service. Economy in this sense attains the dignity of a fundamental principle of government.
One of the great contributions made by Coolidge to the cause of good government has been the application of that principle with sincerity and thoroughness.
Such a policy is in happy contrast to that followed in New York State under Governor Smith, where during a period of abundant revenue, we have seen an enormous debt expansion, the breaking down of all wise pay-as-you-go policies, and the financing of recurring expenditures by bond issues.
The battle for economy in government is no single dramatic action. It is a continuing and continuous process. Nearly all that has been accomplished in the last eight years could be offset in the first years of a wasteful and inefficient administration.

U. P. FARMERS HARD HIT BY FALL RAINS

(Daily Mining Journal) Late fall rains this year have caused untold damage to farmers because of their dependence on late crops. This is especially true in Chippewa county where the damage is conservatively estimated at $3,000,000. Flax, grain, trees and potatoes are still in the fields and almost a total loss, with every field a sea of mud and still more rain falling.

It has rained in Chippewa nearly everyday for the last six weeks, it was declared yesterday by E. C. Amos, leader of county agricultural agents in the upper peninsula. Chief parts of the peninsula are not hit so hard, but all late potatoes already dug will be hard to keep in storage because of late blight damage.

Bright spots to the whole picture are in those places where farmers have adopted the livestock method of farming. Dairymen who were successful in harvesting grain and hay are fortunate.

This situation again proves that the farmer must use his brains each year in his plans, asserted Mr. Amos. "One of the best potato growers in the upper peninsula," he approved his potatoes each year for protection against late blight. did not do this year and saved a few dollars worth of spore material. Now, when he needs this protection more than any time during the past 10 years, he is without it, it is quickly his loss because several hundred dollars, due to injury to his crop, has been turned down on his application for potato seed certification.

The low price quoted on potatoes is not necessarily due to over-production, but more to the fact that buyers are afraid to store any considerable quantity because of the blight situation. The only dividend some farmers will get this year is the lesson to be drawn from it and even then, with all the precautionary measures, he could not stop the rain from falling or make the harvest.

UPPER PENINSULA

Sent To Prison

HOUGHTON—Two prisoners who attempted to escape from the Houghton county jail and an accomplice who smuggled the escape saw blades with which they saved their way out of the jail "pen," were given stiff prison sentences by Judge John C. Stockton when they pleaded guilty to the crimes with which they were charged. The confessions, which were made by Sheriff John T. Rowe after the would-be jail breakers had assaulted him with a heavy iron bar, implicating a fourth party, who pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and was given a stiff jail sentence. Edward Typki and John Norm were the two who pleaded guilty to deliver themselves from the county jail after assaulting Sheriff Rowe with an iron bar which he opened the outer jail door. The former, who was being held on a charge of breaking and entering in connection with the robbery of the South Range Co-Operative store, was sentenced to serve from 10 to 15 years in the branch prison, and the latter, who was awaiting trial on a charge of larceny from the prison, was sentenced to serve from four to five years in the Jackson prison. William Typki, who smuggled the hack-saw blades to his brother and Neimi, also pleaded guilty to being a party to the South Range robbery and was sentenced to the Jackson prison for a term of from 10 to 15 years.

Will Abandon Boat

SAULT STE. MARIE—The steam or Bartelme, of the Valley Camp Steamship company, has been definitely abandoned by her owners as a constructive total loss. The Bartelme, light and unbound, went on Cana shoal, in Lake Michigan, several weeks ago. Examination of her was made by Captain Canning, of the wrecking tug Favorite. Captain Canning found her out three feet forward and one foot astern badly damaged. Decision was reached later to abandon her to the underwriters. The Bartelme was built in 1890, being one of the first steel steamers on the Great Lakes. She was built at Bay City and entered service as the I. T. McMillan. Later she was renamed the Central West. She is the first steel steamer to be lost this season on the Great Lakes.

Injury Fatal

LAKE LINDEN—Edward Forget, aged 30, Lake Linden resident, passed away at the Lake Linden General Hospital. Mr. Forget suffered injuries on October 11 while at work for the Calumet & Hecla that necessitated the amputation of a leg. He slipped and fell while walking on a slag pile and was struck by a slag car. He was made a second amputation imperative, and death followed.

"En Passant"

Observations and Comments by Alice Fox

EXPRESSMAN TURNER HAS removed the "be careful" signs from the side of his truck since it tipped off the platform at the Depot. Especially that one, "When in doubt be sure and take the right course," has completely taken his confidence in such warnings. He had always read on his truck to do just that, but it didn't seem to have very good judgment on the right course. No more signs—Mr. Turner says.

AFTER LISTENING to some of the long winded speeches made over the radio in the interest of the presidential election by folks who've never heard of letters, you begin to realize the meaning of the term, "man made state."

AN ACTOR WITH literary leanings after spending 3 weeks on the stage is returning to write his reminiscences of fifty years in the theater. It is getting that long to him, it must have been a century or more to the poor audiences.

YAH THAT WAS an awful mistake we made comparing John Olin to Rip Van Winkle found beside him after sleeping for forty years, because now it develops that Rip only slept for twenty years. But what's the difference anyhow? It might have been forty years for all Rip cared, and twenty years more or less couldn't make any difference to an old time rife like John's. That guy has been old enough to vote now for many a moon.

GLADSTONE IS ASSURED of a skating rink this year, and just as soon as you can freeze ice too. Many of the fans are insisting about it already, and getting out their skating blades from their summer resting places. But lots of skates haven't even been put away. It's out of his seat and up the aisle to get his prize before his mother even had time to see his ticket. George knew the pillow he wanted too, and carried it back to the store all of a million dollars, providing considerable amusement for the audience.

You'll not be any poorer if you smile along your way. And your lot will not be harder for the kindly things you do. Don't imagine you are wasting time for others that you spend; You can rise to wealth and glory and still pause to be a friend—"It isn't costly."—Edgar Guest.

chants has on his cash register. That guy must have the cash system straight. OUR PRESIDENTIAL nominees must learn lots of things about themselves through the articles and features newspapers and magazines print about them.

WE'RE USED to having folks mistake our office for the Ford garage next door, and want us to sell 'em a Ford car, not a couple of tires, but it was new to have a customer for cement the other day. She probably thought we looked like the Cleveland office. We have lots of affiliates, and Fords and cement are two things we just aren't.

YOU CAN TELL THAT there's a vein of superstition in most of us yet today. Whenever there's a ladder leaning against a building on Delta Avenue, or at the State Bank when the clock is being adjusted, folks get naturally a little nervous. If there weren't such a superstition, folks would not pay so much for love nor money. And the few who do take a chance on it all have their own pet superstitions. You may think that you haven't a favorite, but that's just another illusion of yours. You may be willing to open an umbrella in the rain, and don't go stumbling grains of salt over your left shoulder, but then you wouldn't step on a four leg dog, or don't go around breaking looking glasses.

Yup, we're a superstitious lot, one way or another. If you don't believe in 'em, you'll put yourself on the back, or so and rap on wood, and what do you call that?

It is easy to understand why women should rally to the support of Governor Smith when one considers the record of his service for women. This record has been divided into twelve classifications by Nellie Taylor Ross, former Governor of Wyoming, and is presented as twelve reasons why women should support Smith.

1. He called the New York Legislature into special session, in 1919 by ratifying the Nineteenth or Woman's Suffrage Amendment to the Constitution, in order to help secure nationally this privilege for women.
2. He has brought about increased pay for New York public school teachers, with an average doubling of the salaries of the women in the profession, demanding at the same time equal pay for women with men.
3. He ended the discrimination against women seeking positions with the New York civil service by refusing to allow appointing officials to specify that one sex only could take the examination.

He has urged the New York Legislature to remove from the statute books all laws that unjustly discriminate against women, but at the same time would not permit any changes to be made that might interfere with the statute, for the protection of women in the home and in industry.

5. He secured the forty-eight-hour week for New York, making a shorter week and day for women wage earners in factories and stores.

6. He secured the passage of laws ending child labor and the outrageous overwork of women in canneries in his state.

7. He stood for a minimum wage commission to assure a living wage to women and minors and would have secured the same had not the Republicans in the New York Legislature and Constitutional Convention defeated it.

8. He favors the creation of terminal markets and the proper distribution of food supplies so that the farmer and consumer will be assured protection.

9. He favors ample school facilities and provisions for the education of children in rural districts. He believes their educational advantages should be as great as those afforded the children of the cities.

10. He will, if elected President, call all of the proper agencies of the Government at his command in his support in order to end profiteering in the necessities of life.

IRON RIVER.—Her chest crushed Mrs. Glen Phillips aged 32, of Nelma, Wis. was killed when the car she was driving was forced into a ditch on U. S. 2, just a short distance from the pavement west of Iron River. The accident occurred near the James Luca residence. Mrs. Phillips and her two children, Dean 14, and Marie, 18 months old, were returning to their home after shopping here. The children were unhurt, although badly shaken up. W. J. Johns, county coroner, after an investigation, declared he believed a car going in the opposite direction was responsible for the mishap.

Soo Man Is Killed

The driver of the car was instantly killed and Staley was taken to an Alpena hospital.

THE KING PIN
by R. Jack Jaster

There's one thing that football and howling have in common. You've got to have that old "boven" her chill running down your spine before the infection "takes." And, believe me, the Thanksgiving weather we've been having during the past week certainly has brought with it the resultant interest in both sports. The Rialto league bowlers are putting on some poppy little matches, with the usual line of surprises and upsets. Averages are still way below what could be expected however the next week or two will undoubtedly show a great improvement.

The record (if I may be excused for calling it such) single game thus far was rolled by Walter Lied, his mark being 228. High three game series has not yet reached the proportions where it is fit to print. Not a 600 series has as yet been turned in. And 600 you know is only a beginning. We hope to chalk somebody for at least a 700 series before the old spring fever again turns our thoughts to swimming, baseball and pasture croquet. Schedules are finally completed for the newly formed Inter-City Bowling League. The following cities are to be represented: Marquette, Menominee, Escanaba, Gladstone, Hermansville, Norway, Iron Mountain, and Peshigo. Our first battle is scheduled with Menominee a week from Saturday, November 4th, and will take place right in our own back yard. But if we're going to beat these boys, we certainly will have to develop a few dark horses.

Opening the ladies league Wednesday night, the telephone girls met disaster at the hands of their opponents. Team number 1 lost two to the Lillians, while team number 2 broke even with the Rialtos. Elsie Peterson turned in high single game scoring 133.

The following ladies league games are scheduled for tonight: City Hall vs. High School II. Teachers I vs. High School II. Teachers II vs. Reposters.

Here is also the schedule for next week in the Men's League. Paste this in your hat boys: Monday—Office vs. Soo Lite. Tuesday Gladstone Specials vs. Flooding. Wed.—Rotary vs. Rialto. Thurs.—Consumers vs. Veneer. Legion vs. City Club.

Mrs. Henry Ford Calls Hoover Choice of the Nation's Women

Wife of Automobile Manufacturer Says Issues of Campaign Are the Most Important Since Universal Suffrage.

Mrs. Henry Ford believes that most American women who love their homes and families will vote for Herbert Hoover in November. So firmly convinced is Mrs. Ford that the issue of this year's presidential election is "of exceptional importance to women" that she decided to express her views in the first interview on politics she has ever granted. "The issue is beyond politics," she declared in her home in Dearborn, Michigan, to a representative of the Women's National Committee for Hoover of which Mrs. E. Louie Stude is chairman.

"I shall vote for Mr. Hoover and I believe most home-loving women will do likewise because more than any other candidate seems interested in the problems of women and of the home."

So far as women, generally, are concerned, she explained, the basic issue of the election this year is closely connected with Mr. Hoover's unusual interest in their personal stake in November's battle of the ballot boxes.

"Mr. Hoover," Mrs. Ford continued, "seems to me to be the type of man who would do more than talk about helping in such important matters as social legislation. "Never since women have had the vote has any presidential candidate given such convincing promise not by his words alone but by his record of achievement and by his type of life of fulfilling the ideals which women cherish."

It was not a desire to enter the arena of politics which prompted

The tourist season has been a busy one for the popular cafe and all preparations have now been made for the handling of a large number of people during the hunting season.

"Detectives" An Amusing Picture

Karl Dane made up as a mummy—George K. Arthur emulating Julian Eltinge and disguising himself as a flapper—these are two extremes in art of disguise that are very successfully and amusingly carried out in connection with "Detectives," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy co-starring the comedy team, and playing at the Rialto Theatre Saturday.

"Detectives" is a new idea in comedy. It is, primarily, a mystery thriller. But the two heroes of "Rookies," as amateur detectives, blunder into every thrill to produce a ludicrous anti-climax, and their trials, tribulations, hair-raising escapades and so on create one of the funniest comedies in their experience as laughmakers.

RONALD COLEMAN AND VILMA BANKY AGAIN

To announce, as he did yesterday, that Ronald Coleman and Vilma Banky are coming to the Rialto theatre is enough recommendation for any motion picture in the opinion of Manager Vogt who will introduce the couple's latest production "The Magic Flame" next Sunday and Monday.

"Mr. Coleman and Miss Banky have in the past year made but two motion pictures," said Mr. Vogt "and in those two pictures, 'The Night of Love' and 'The Winning of Barbara Worth,' they have firmly established their reputations as the greatest motion picture lovers on the screen. A great New York newspaper 'The Daily News,' recently held a popularity contest and elected Vilma Banky the most popular motion picture actress. Ronald Coleman was chosen one of the three most popular male stars."

I suppose on the rare occasions when I am able to present one of their pictures, I could fill my theatre at every performance by merely announcing the names of the two stars. But on "The Magic Flame" I want to do more than that. I saw a print of the picture last Tuesday and I can honestly say that the Rialto is offering more than two great stars—we are offering two great artists and one of, if not the best picture of the year, manager Vogt said.

"HAROLD TEEN" COMING HERE NEXT TUESDAY

When Arthur Lake was signed to play the title role in First National's film version of Carl Ed's newspaper comic strip "Harold Teen," which comes to the Rialto Theatre on Tuesday, October 30th, he realized an ambition cherished for nearly two years.

First National purchased the screen rights to the celebrated strip soon after its contemporary, "Ella Cinders," with Colleen Moore in the starring role, proved to be such a sensation and immediately set out to find the typical Harold.

Lake heard of it and put in his bid. Instead of forgetting about it the next day, he became an avid reader of the funny papers and made a close study of Harold's mannerisms. The time for screen tests arrived and Lake, with knowledge of Harold's ways and trick clothes, triumphed over a large field.

The leading feminine role is portrayed by Mary Brian, who, according to all indications is rapidly being accepted for individual stardom. Alice White, the pretty "Dorothy" of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," has a featured part in the picture, as has Lucian Littlefield.

ALL COUNTIES GIVE TO DEVELOPMENT BUREAU

Every county in the upper peninsula made an appropriation to the work of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at the October meeting of the supervisor boards. The aggregate appropriation will be the largest public of the cooperative agricultural and other development work undertaken by the bureau.

FARMERS SHOULD USE PROPER FERTILIZERS

In an effort to assist Michigan farmers in the choice of fertilizers for use on different soils and for different crops the soils department at Michigan State College has prepared National Studies. In order that Miss Moore, her director, Mervyn McKay and members of the supporting cast could see how their work was progressing, an airplane was chartered to fly daily between the location and the studio, taking exposed films to the laboratory for developing, and returning with prints of the previous day's camera-work. Through this fast transportation system the "Oh Kay" company was not in the least handicapped by distance having all the advantages of production at the studio.

The Maytag deserves an opportunity to demonstrate how it will save you time by doing an entire washing in an hour or so, save your health by making hand-rubbing of badly soiled clothes unnecessary, save clothes by its easy way of cleansing by soap and water action alone, and by its Koller Water Remover, with a soft roll and hard bottom roll.

Before La Fong could reply the white bosses returned Buckwell's smile with relief and nods of approval. As they crowded around to extend congratulations on his vindication Buckwell swaggered forward and offered his hand.

The tongue men stared into space or whispered to each other. They were unable to believe their ears. La Fong approached Dolores with a deadly, sneering look in his eyes. But she had even forgotten that he was in the room. As soon as Buckwell left the light but tons to reveal in the plaudits of his associates Dolores swiftly protected the fatal switch with her own hand and electrified every man in the room by crying out:

"Hold Senator Buckwell! He is a Chinaman!"

Buckwell whirled with both arms outstretched and, pushing aside the men who surrounded him, made for Dolores.

"Don't let him touch me!" she warned in terror, her hand covering the switch protectively.

Buckwell was seized by strong hands on all sides. His struggles were futile, yet he retained a fine air of injured dignity. The girl's denoted. Let me have her taken to her room," he said.

But for once no one believed Chis Buckwell. He found that his political contemporaries were holding him prisoner in his own home.

"This is not true. I am perfectly sane!" defended Dolores, her eyes shining and her cheeks red with excitement. "He made me lie to you. He said that if I told the truth again he would press this light switch—he pointed to it as if it were a poisonous scorpion—which would be the signal for the execution of O'Shaughnessy's death."

Her eyes sought Brandon, and she continued: "Terry is bound and gagged down stairs in a torture chamber."

"Hold Senator Buckwell! He is a Chinaman!"

Every white and yellow man in the room knew that Dolores had told the truth. Buckwell glared at her with murder in his eyes, and was prevented from striking her or the switch, by the restraining hands of the men who had him safely pinioned in a big chair.

Every Chinaman smiled broadly in restrained satisfaction, disclosing shiny white teeth. La Fong's very expression asked Dolores pardon for having doubted her. But of all those present Brandon was the most violently affected.

"You—dam scoundrel where is that boy of mine?" he demanded. "It is a strange trait of human nature to protect one's kin in dire extremity, no matter how different one may have been to them when things were running along smoothly. Brandon was not an exception to the rule."

Buckwell calmly returned Brandon a glare. "Find him!" he hissed. It was a challenge.

A dead silence followed the announcement. "He is in a secret room," Dolores hastened to explain. "I was blindfolded when they took me there but I could see beneath the bandage—there is a secret door in here."

Her voice trailed back to the men in the living room, for she had thrown open the hall doors and was on her way to that room at the end of the hall where San Toy had delivered her to Jimmy and the Texas Kid.

The tongue leaders followed close behind. They wanted all the evidence of Buckwell's perfidy that could be secured and surmised that a secret room would be an excellent place to gather evidence against him.

For the first time during the interview, Buckwell lost his self-possession. He cursed Dolores with a vehemence that was worse than anything the white bosses had ever heard, and even they were not unskilled in an irrelevant use of English. Overpowered by the combined strength of his captors, Buckwell was unable to resist. With a poor grace he suffered himself to be conducted to one of the two secret entrances that led to his shrine room. It was well for the future of Buckwell was not able to lay his hands on them for their negligence in permitting Dolores to gain a knowledge of her surroundings. "Here it is!" she cried happily when her hands found the same spring in the woodwork that Jimmey had pressed to open the hidden entrance.

A dark foreboding interior opened up before the astonished men gathered behind Dolores. But without hesitancy she led them down the mysterious stairway and called out a warning when they reached the great iron door that blocked their progress. The fifty foot passage was dotted with men who still held Buckwell prisoner.

Dolores' small white hands fluttered searchingly over the surface and lingered around the heavy hinges.

"I can't open it," she cried in alarm. "I can't find the spring."

Many other hands, both yellow and white, came to her assistance and exploringly covered every inch of the door's surface, searching for the secret spring that would give them entrance. They could not locate it.

"The men who brought me down touched something on this side—about here," explained Dolores as she reached up and pressed against the big metal hinge.

Immediately more matches flared in the darkness but eager fingers searched in vain.

"How do you open this fool door?" demanded Brandon of Buckwell.

The designer of the secret contrivance shrugged. He was enjoying a growing sense of security. He was confident that Dolores and the men who had never discovered the opening spring. The door above closed automatically and was locked behind them. They were prisoners in the shrine room there would be lead them to the surface again until he had their written assurance that they would not proceed any further against him. The surmise of Dolores was in itself insufficient proof to convict him, but if they once reached the shrine room there would be ample evidence. As the minutes passed and the door still defied their efforts Buckwell became more confident and self-assured.

"I regret that my guests must be so crowded," he commented with serene politeness. "But remember you are here from your own choice, and right here you will all stay until I have your promise that the matter we recently discussed upstairs shall be forgotten."

It quickly dawned on the waiting group in the secret passage that they had placed themselves again in Buckwell's power. Their anxiety to reach Terry had been the reason, and now they were separated from him, they were sure, only by the trick door which refused to open to their many attempts.

"They opened it right here, I know they did," insisted Dolores working untiringly to locate the hidden spring.

The flickering light of the matches revealed many tense faces, but it was the tenseness of anxiety rather than fear. Anxiety for Terry. Buckwell's face beamed with silent enjoyment. He was pleased that his accusers had played so convenient-cut is leased for use as a private telephone line. The cable laid in 1918 is the longest island submarine telephone cable in the United States. It is approximately four and three-quarter miles in length, or nearly 5,000 feet longer than this new one, which will cross the straits at a narrower point. The second cable contained 28 wire circuits, but might have been damaged beyond repair and are not in use.

NEE-CABLE TO CONNECT STATE

When this cable was taken up for repairs last year it was found that it had been badly crushed, internally although the outer armor showed little damage. The internal insulation had given away under a tremendous pressure, allowing some of the wires to come in contact and form short circuits. Ice jams forced to the bottom of the lake over the cable, crushed it against the rocks. When the pressure was removed, the steel armor regained its normal shape, but the lead casing had been damaged.

To prevent a recurrence of such damage, the new cable has been supplied with the double armor and is being laid at a point a mile and a half west of the present cable, where the bottom of the channel is less rocky.

Came Back As Supt. Operations in the town being suspended, he came back to Gladstone in 1908 and has remained here since as general superintendent since which time the business has been developed into one of the largest lumber, veneer and conifer manufacturing plants of the north central states.

Mr. Bushong keeps in close touch with what is going on locally around the plant and also at the numerous points where logging operations are conducted for the company, so that he is in and out of the city often. Usually when an important community event is staged he can be found among the press and very often among those who make it possible.

He has been a director of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau for several years and gives considerable of his time to that organization.

Likes Yachting Thrill Mr. Bushong's hobby is yachting. Since going in for this form of recreation a few years back he has owned and maintained more than one type of craft so that he is now familiar with a great deal in this line.

Very exacting in his demands from those in his employe, he gives a first impression of being a difficult person to get along with, but those with experience could tell of numerous instances where he has saved them in their time of need by finding some way around their difficulties. The first impression is perhaps cleared from his natural love of contesting against strong opposition. He fights hard and with every means at his command in his contact with life, but after the smoke of the contest has cleared away he is ready to accept victory of defeat graciously—and start all over again.

IT PAYS TO KNOW POSTAL LAWS

(Continued from Page One) When necessary to write anything in connection with the contents of a parcel, attach the letter to the outside of the parcel and affix a two cent stamp and avoid having the parcel changed with first class postage.

Cannot Be Sealed Another matter in connection with the mailing of parcels is that of sealing. No parcel can be mailed at parcel post rates when sealed unless the sender has a printed label on which the sender's name is PRINTED (not typewritten or in writing) stating that the parcel contains fourth class matter and may be opened for inspection if necessary.

Labels which do not bear the sender's name in PRINT are not acceptable for mailing. Parcels sealed, at fourth class rate of postage. Clerks at office of mailing are instructed to make certain that parcels offered for mailing do not contain any of the above illegal enclosures and that parcels are not sealed except under the provisions above noted.

It might be well at this time to advise persons mailing parcels to state at time of mailing, what the parcel contains and how same is packed or wrapped. Parcels of perishable or fragile nature require such endorsement on the wrapper in order that the parcel will be accorded special treatment in transit and at the office of delivery.

Mark Perishable Goods. At this time of year the mails contain many parcels of chickens, ducks, turkeys etc. all of a highly perishable nature. These parcels should be declared perishable at time of mailing so that they may not be accorded immediate delivery at destination, they could be kept in a cool place until called for or until delivery can be effected. Or use the special delivery service which assures immediate delivery.

It is hardly possible for a postmaster to solicit each parcel individually but it is hoped that if there are any problems of mailing which are not understood by the public, that they will not hesitate to call at the post office for advice or ruling.

Sincerely yours, F. A. MILLER, Postmaster
