BOUS DEMOGRIC IS CAPTAIN FOR '29

FOOTBALL PLAYERS AND COACH GUESTS OF ROTARIANS AT BANQUET

Gus DeHoghe, quarterback of this year's successful high school football team, and the only back field player remaining in next year, was elected captain for 1929 by the letter men who along with other members of the squad were guests of the Gladstone Rotary club at a banquet served Monday night at the Rialto Club rooms. Responding to the call for a speech, the new captain declared: "I feel deeply grateful for the honor of leading next year's team. I know we are going to miss very much the seniors who will graduate next June. But we'll be in there doing all we've got, and with Coach Kiel to direct us and a continuation of the same spirit, I feel we will show that a good accounting will be given."

President Miller presided. Dr. A. H. Miller, president of the club, presided in his usual manner, keeping the program moving along without a hitch. He invited the men of Gladstone to sincerely interested in the careers of their high school athletes, how physical education is regarded as a necessary adjunct to the three "R's" of the school and how much pleasure can be derived in being able to show one's way in appreciation of such results, not only because it is the result in victories, but because the players had worked hard to acquire themselves and had the game square.

Mr. R. Watson, superintendent of schools, was the first speaker, and he addressed the audience in an appeal with which he held on some of the individual members of this year's team. He gave an account of football as a team sport, and how it is the only game that has gone into the professional world. He mentioned the names of such boys who had made their mark as an inspiration to those who heard.

C. Strickland, principal of the high school, and senior high school, mentioned the importance of football as a school sport and how it is related in the work of the school and the development of the individual as well as during their lives.

Alton Kiel, coach of the local football, was next called upon. He, Miller, and he gave an address which was not only to the boys but to the teams. He presented to the winner of the game, Clifford, a trophy. The presentation was made by Mr. Sturgeon, as a member of the staff.

Capt. Post responded with a letter and very appreciably thanking the donors in the name of this school and team.

CAST FOR "ENOUGH'S ENOUGH," IS ANNOUNCED

The cast of characters for "Enough's Enough," the minstrel show to be presented as one of the features of the High School Carnival on Thursday evening, December 5th, were announced this week. Mrs. Abund Hale is directing the Minstrel. Those taking part are: Alton Kiel, Dick Foster, Clifford, Jim Beach, Guzzel, Clyde Berry, Bromo, Robert Haberman, Agony, an abused little spirit, William Schwahn, Ekemo, a perfect lady with a room to rent, Neil Filmore.

The Minstrel will have several presentations, the first beginning at 8:15. Other numbers will follow the show. A tea room is another feature of the carnival which will be making plans for lunches for sale. Mrs. Fred Moore is the chairman of this committee. There will be jittery dancing, with Mrs. Grant's orchestra furnishing the music. The Senior Girls League of the High school are making plans to include a midway, fortune teller, booth, baby show and picture gallery. The proceeds will be divided between the High School Annual, and financing of the ice rink by the Parent Teachers Association.

Directs Plant And Sales Of Very Important Industry Here

Liked Veneer Business; Worked Hard, Studied Long Now Bill Mottle Has Charge of Outstanding Plant

When this reporter approached the subject of this sketch, he quickly turned the conversation to President-elect, Hoover, Will Rogers, and some other notables of national reputation. But we emphasized the point that we were mainly interested in local notables. And he is nothing less than that, is William Mottle.

In interviewing several of the men who have and are now playing a part in the life and development of our city, there has been a noticeable reticence on the part of many to contribute their share. While this modesty may be commendable in its proper place, this writer, being in the newspaper business, feels that the public is entitled to all information properly concerning its citizens of affairs. We need something along this line, and Bill, being above all, a reasonable sort of chap, responded.

William J. Mottle came to Gladstone Jan. 1, 1909 with Joseph Hosenan, the latter as manager of the veneer plant for the Northwestern Co. Paper & Lumber Company and Bill as his assistant and cost clerk. They had worked together at Madison, Wis. where Bill had set out to learn the business with the Wisconsin Timber and Land Co. Mr. Hosenan remained only four months. Two other managers (Continued on page five)

RED CROSS ROLL CALL SUCCESSFUL

The Red Cross Roll Call which closed this week has met with considerable success in spite of the late date on which the matter was placed before the local committee by the State Red Cross officials. The limited time did not permit of extensive organization or publicity and the committee feels well repaid by the response given to their efforts, creating a background upon which future drives can be made by those then in charge and with the prospect of enlisting a greater number of individuals as workers and members.

Everyone is interested in the work of the Red Cross and appreciates the services rendered through the country in times of floods, fires and tornadoes. Nearly everyone is willing and ready to support this wonderful work but except in time of emergency no funds have been solicited locally for several years. In times of disaster free will offerings have been made in goodly amount but no membership organization has been kept intact. This condition is actually a consequence of former activity and method of raising funds during the war when the Red Cross work was carried on as a branch of the War Relief Work.

At that time when women of the country were converting materials into relief supplies and the men were contributing a certain portion of their wages or salaries to the War Relief Chest it was not necessary for the Red Cross to solicit an organization. After the war closed some funds were left in the War Relief Fund and for several years these were expended in continuing support of the National Association without further call upon the citizens for funds. Thus while the work was actually continuing the Red Cross was not brought to local attention thru the annual Roll Call for membership, but eventually the funds were practically exhausted and as Delta is the only county in Michigan which has no organization it has been necessary to revive the work and it will be the annual duty of some public spirited citizens to care for the Roll Call and collect the membership dollars to promote this work of mercy.

No one knows which section of the country will be visited by disaster and this membership aids the Red Cross to be prepared to extend their help. Of the one dollar fee one half is forwarded to the national office and the balance remains in the local chapter funds. Many group memberships have been taken by local industries and organizations in order to give the movement the proper footing for future drives and it is probable that next year personal solicitation will be made in every home and place of business.

His many friends in Gladstone were saddened to hear of the death, and extend their sincere sympathy to his daughter in her sorrow.

Fine Entertainment At Meeting of Kronans

A Fritz of Stockholm, Sweden Swedish entertainer, was present at the meeting of the Kronans Lodge of the S. F. of A. held Wednesday night at the Waas Hall, and presented an entertainment that was thoroughly enjoyable to the Kronans members. Impersonations of Swedish characters, piano xylophone and glass musical selections were presented. The program followed the business meeting which opened at 7:30. Refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. Ole Pettersen, Mrs. Adolph Johnson, and Mrs. Andrew Johnson.

"The Dove Returns"

A Thanksgiving party featured by a dinner was held by the members of the Telephone Force in their Rest room Tuesday night. The meal was served at six o'clock with games and social diversions following.

Those present were the Misses Mildred Boyle, Alma Paulin, Marie Crawley, Marie Petras, Margaret Blodgett, Margaret Brooks, Mabel Skogquist, and Mrs. Hazel Boyd.

AMONG THOSE WHO SERVED

The "Whizkit" feature has proved so popular, that the publisher has decided to continue it with a series of pictures of the young men from Gladstone. Rapid River and other towns from this end of Delta county who served in the World War. The pictures were mostly taken about 10 years ago.

SCHUBERT EVENING BY MISS WHITE'S PUPILS

The following Schubert program was given Saturday evening. Nov. 24, by a group of Miss Clara M. White's piano and vocal pupils at the residence of Mrs. John Johnson on Minnesota Avenue. FRED WICKERT KILLED FOR DEER

FATHER-IN-LAW MISTAKES FUR COLLARED COAT FOR BUCK HE SAW

Fred Wickert, son of Paul Wickert, was shot by his father-in-law, J. R. Francis of Kipling while hunting Tuesday morning near Watson when Mr. Francis mistook the fur collar of his son's abersakin coat for a deer. The accident occurred about nine o'clock, and death followed two hours later.

Mr. Francis had sighted a buck running into cover. A few minutes later he fired at the supposed deer, the bullet striking his son, and entering his right shoulder from the back. Mr. Francis summoned his daughter from the house and she was with her husband when death came.

Mr. Wickert had gone to the hunting camp on Sunday with his wife formerly Miss Beatrice Francis. Mr. Francis and his uncle Michael Wickert, who was in the car, were at Escanaba. He wore a red mackinac on the first day out, but on Tuesday changed to the sheep lined coat.

Mr. Wickert was a graduate of Escanaba High School in 1923, and following his marriage that fall moved to his home at Kipling. He has assisted his father in the management of the Terrace Gardens dance hall. He was born August 14, 1905 at Ironville, Wis. and was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wickert.

Surviving are his wife, a small daughter Joy Lorraine, and his parents.

SHIP OF HEALTH IS LAUNCHED IN STATE

This week thousands of thyphoid cases are being prevented by the Ship of Health, and carrying on their manna's a red double barred cross, the ship are the drim printed on the 1928 tuberculosis Christmas seals. Distribution of the seals through the mails will be started by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association on Thanksgiving Day. The ships inconspicuously are making their first trip on the inside of envelopes, but on their second voyage, to be made in the weeks preceding Christmas, they will be decorated with the 1928 tuberculosis seals of backs and envelopes and on a variety of other articles.

Percolator Causes Fire At Quarntorn Home

An overheated percolator caused a fire that resulted in slight damages at the home of Hagis Quarntorn on Ninth Street Wednesday morning about 7:30. The percolator burned through a board upon which it had been placed, and the blaze had started in the partition of the room when the fire department arrived. A bookcase, a trunk, and a number of boxes that were also in the room were destroyed by the flames.

THANKSGIVING DANCE AT RIALTO GYMNASIUM

A Thanksgiving Ball was planned for Thursday night at the Rialto Gym. The Wolverines who had been scheduled to play at Terrace were engaged, but the game was cancelled because of the death of Fred Wickert.

A dancing party was held on Wednesday night also, but for this dance had been made before the announcement of the cancelling of the dance at Terrace was made.

WILLIAM J. MOTTE

Chats with The Editor

THIS writer remembers Franklin D. Roosevelt when he ran for vice-president on the Democratic ticket with James Cox of Ohio at the head of the ticket in 1920. Roosevelt is the man who will succeed Al Smith as governor of the great state of New York...

Entering the Club he was personally introduced all around, the usual formalities were exchanged and everybody sat around for a while. Conversation was more or less forced and when Mr. Roosevelt departed, old-timers compared the visit with that of Teddy in 1912...

That was the difference in personality. Perhaps an ordinary individual would never have survived the crushing defeat of the Harding landslide of 1920. But Franklin D. was not an ordinary type, despite his seeming lack of personality.

Another incident was witnessed by other members of our party, whose veracity may be unquestioned in the world of ordinary affairs, but for which we could not answer any too positively when it concerns hunting and the woods. Also it involves a man whose ability as a hunter is unquestioned.

THE large number of accidents is a topic worthy of serious consideration. The taking of human life in the woods seems so unnecessary. Too many, it seems, are so anxious to pull the trigger. There is so little alike in the movements of man and deer, that it does not seem possible that a mistake should be made.

People always like and admire a square fighter and they turn to Franklin Roosevelt. They wish him every success in his new job and who knows—it may be but the beginning of something bigger and better, for the man who can carry the state of New York is a figure to be reckoned with.

THOSE who think the President-elect is not a diplomat might well consider his trip to the south. Results count, naturally, and these remain to be seen insofar as the Southern reaction is concerned. But there is one already seen and that is the opportunity it gives Herbert Hoover to avoid the political pests who prey upon all important office-holders, looking for jobs and concessions for themselves and their friends as a reward for real or imagined valuable services in the election.

WEATHER conditions throughout the season were favorable to the comfort of the hunters, less so in the matter of making for a larger kill. Numerous snow storms and mild weather kept the antler trail closely confined to the swamps not so easily accessible to the horde of hunters. Fifty thousand, the estimate for 1928, is a lot of hunters to have in the woods at one time, and if the kill has really been reduced, so much the better.

ANOTHER fire loss suffered by Cheboygan, is that of the Embury-Martin lumber mill, its most important industry, and this writer expresses the hope that replacement of the loss will occur without delay. It means much to that city, a fact often overlooked by many citizens until it is too late.

The new Ford has a very simple and effective lubrication system. THE lubrication system for the engine of the new Ford is as simple in principle as water running down-hill. As a matter of fact, the lubrication system for the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no service attention.

Dolores Costello in "OLD SAN FRANCISCO" is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

Weakly she continued to crawl toward a door. Her groping hands touched its cold iron surface. She crossed the threshold and behind her a falling beam crashed down. The shock of its fall with its closeness was the final straw that broke her aching strength and with a soft moan she dropped forward in a dead faint.

"Outside in the room she had just left the lone lamp sputtered in despair and went out. The whole place was in pitch darkness. Over her head and around her were heavy walls of steel. Scattered about her lay the solid and level of years of accumulation. The wealth of Chinatown Dolores had crawled into the vault of Chinatown's richest madras, and lay there silent as death, the most precious gems of them all.

Up above, half of San Francisco was being devastated. More than fifteen square miles of the city were being laid waste with a thoroughness that was appalling. Railroads and ferries stopped running, the water supply was cut off, telephones and telegraph lines were out of commission, electric power was shut off or put out of order by falling walls and quaking ground.

But the spirit of San Francisco responded nobly. The offerings of those pioneers who endured all hardships across the plains in '49 to search for gold in the hills around San Francisco, faced this awful calamity with a courage as never before. Martin, the millionaire, declared, "I am a Chinaman, and I am a Chinaman."

And so, my brother, we meet again!"

Chinese brother had escaped death a hundred times as they crested through the maze of passages in their frantic effort to find Dolores. The dwarf knew where he had been taken but time after time they found they would be blocked by fallen debris. Terry would give up the search until Dolores had been found or he had perished with her. The dwarf was equally determined to find Buckwell. The streets, the imprisonment had kindled a hatred for Buckwell so intense that the dwarf would not be satisfied until he was sure that Buckwell had perished.

Here and there stray bits of sunshine filtered through openings overhead where some fallen beam had cleared a passage way to the open air. For the first time in its history the underworld of San Francisco was open to the light of day. Strangely enough it seemed to symbolize the purification of sin and crime.

The form of a young girl with one arm protruding from under a pile of bricks started him for a moment. A close examination disclosed that it was not Dolores. The dwarf was like a pointer working a field for quail as he darted with every eye like to every nook and crevice. Searching, continually searching. His progress was meagre. In one place he happened as he slipped through narrow passageways or climbed over obstructions with Terry's aid, ever beckoning over his shoulder to urge a greater speed.

At a sudden turn in the littered tunnel the dwarf passed with an abruptness that nearly precipitated Terry over him. He was bounding low over the body of a handsomely dressed Chinaman. His beautiful silk cloak oddly conspicuous amid the dirt and refuse that lay around him on all sides. In his hand he clenched a small leather bag and from its mouth a handful of diamonds lay scattered beside him. The dwarf calmly released the tense fingers, and picking up the precious stones put them back in the bag and stuffed it into his pocket. The looking of the dead was punishable with instant death but Terry had no thought of turning the dwarf over to anyone for such an end. The dwarf had no consciousness about pocketing the gems. He turned to Terry with a grin of satisfaction as he said, "I know him. He was big Tom's leader. No good. Come on, I think we're near now."

They were. A few steps farther along the passage and they emerged into a large room. The basement of the Den of a Thousand sins was before them.

It was the very room in which just a short time before Dolores had been exhibited to the amorous eyes of the dead, pleasure seeking Chinamen. The room was a shambles. The price of her purchase from Buckwell were strewn over the floor. But Terry did not know it. Overhead a single beam of sunlight found its way through the ruins and shed an unearthly gleam of light over the door.

Terry looked about. All around him were signs of ruined Oriental luxury. Even amid the awful wreckage of fallen walls and ceilings, the lavish furnishings were dimly discernible. He made out on the floor a sudden, almost a tremor, brought Terry whirling around.

The dwarf was dancing madly around the table in the center of the room. And he danced he pointed at a body that lay across the table, crushed by the falling of the beam. A sudden, almost a tremor, brought Terry whirling around.

Terry crossed the room in a bound. His heart gave a jump as he thought that Dolores must be near. With renewed hope he continued to search frantically stopping now and then to call, "Dolores! Dolores! Where are you? It is Terry!"

But only the exultant voice of the dwarf answered as he continued his mad dance before the body of Buckwell. "Ah! My brother, my brother we meet again! But this time I am free and you are confined in a smaller cage than your selfishness provided for me. His wild laughter echoed through the room.

"Stop that crazy racket, you fool!" thundered Terry, half afraid himself at the thought that Dolores too might lie crushed to death beneath those very walls.

But the dwarf was heedless of anything save the sweetness of his freedom. "Dolores! Dolores!" Terry again called loudly in the faint hope that his voice might reach her. He stopped to listen for an answering cry, and instead heard the sound of men's voices coming nearer and nearer along the cluttered passage he had recently traveled. With a gasp he realized that it was probably soldiers searching the ruins for anyone that might still be alive. If they found him he knew that he might be shot as a looter. The dwarf apparently had the same thought for stopping only the dwarf ought to have his eyes on the body of Buckwell. He disappeared like a shadow amid the ruins.

Terry quickly sought a place of concealment. He did not want to meet the soldiers if he could help it. He much preferred to be alone in the search for Dolores without the restricting hand of the law over him. His moving glance took in a half open door partially concealed by a fallen beam.

Movies

HOBBS, GOB, BOXER. LARRY KENT IS NOW A FILM MATINEE IDOL.

The newest leading man in films has the most picturesque background of experience. Larry Kent, juvenile lead in Charlie Murray's late at First National champion of "The Man," an attraction coming to the Rio Theatre Weds. & Thurs. Born at sea under the British flag, he became a sailor and wind-jammers, then on steam vessels. At the beginning of the World War he joined the navy. He also had done considerable "sea-time" in various lands. And meanwhile, he had acquired such a good, self-administered education that he was able to pass entrance examinations for the University of California!

During his years at the University, he was middle weight boxing champion of the world, and won many bouts for his alma mater.

GLENN TRYON SEEN HERE IN NEW SCREEN FARCE

The greatest farceur of them all, Glenn Tryon, has used the ancient and tried theme of the horse race as the butt of his many clever, original situations in "Hot Heels," which will open Friday at the Rio Theatre.

Tryon has a knack of taking simple stories, changing them about deftly, and producing absolute top notch farce comedies. In his preceding pictures he poked the gentle shaft of fun at an automobile inventor, at long-distance flight record and at the mythical kingdom tradition.

His newest picture surpasses even the sparkling comedy of its predecessors. Besides the riotous comedy the picture has more than its quota of real thrills. The story starts off with a country boy spending his last cent to buy a bankrupt road show putting on a race track melodrama. He takes the troupe to Havana only to discover that he has been the victim of a confidence game. He suspects the leading woman, with whom he has fallen in love, with being a party to the plot.

But there is a "prop" horse used in their show which its owner declares can really race so they enter him in the Havana Steeplechase. Thrills and comedy are cleverly interspersed with the result that "Hot Heels" is considered the best of Tryon's and certainly one of the most amusing pictures ever shown here. Patsy Ruth Miller is the leading woman. William Craft directed it.

JACK LUDEN BECOMES A STAR

Jack Luden, star of "Shooting Stars" the Paramount picture which is playing at the Rio Theatre Friday is the first graduate of the Paramount Picture school to achieve stardom. Although he has been under contract to Paramount since the graduation vehicle "Fastening Your Seat Belts," Luden's reputation with another company, F. O. E. for which he played in the fighting serial "Bill Grimm's Progress," and in "The City of Shadows," "The Jade Cup" and "Unlucky Payments," Richard Rosson directed Luden's first starring picture and the cast includes Sally Bane, leading woman Fred Kohler, Richard Carlyle, Lloyd Underwood, Guy Oliver, Scott McGee and Arthur Millett.

BILLIE DOVE MORE FASCINATING THAN EVER IN NEW FILM

Why resort to mythical kingdoms for film romance, when there is a real kingdom so rich in exotic color as Hungary?

"The Yellow Lily," Billy Dove's latest starring vehicle for First National gives the American film audience all that it could possibly wish in the way of picturesque, alluring foreign locale, striking human types, quaint customs, and "different" love-making!

The beautiful screen star, as all those who have seen "The Yellow Lily" at the Rio Theatre Saturday agree, is at her best as a Hungarian maiden who is pursued, "by fair means and foul," by an Archduke. Miss Dove gives a truly great performance. So does Clive Brook, who plays the Archduke.

DOLORES DEL RIO DANCES TO KEEP TRIM FOR WORK

Dolores Del Rio, the graceful hall caste Chela in Fox Films "The Gateway of the Moon" is a firm believer in the terpsichorean method of keeping fit. No matter how busy she may be with her work she never neglects her dancing, and as a result she is voted one of the most lovely as well as one of the most graceful women in pictures.

Miss Del Rio is a natural dancer with a keen sense of rhythm and a native grace that cannot be acquired through any amount of practice. In addition to this she has studied under the most famous masters in Europe, including Alonzo, the famous masette of Seville and Balbainita in Madrid.

"Gateway of the Moon" is the third consecutive picture Miss Del Rio has made for Fox Films. Her work in "What Price Glory" as Charmaine brought her to the at-tion of Fox officials and set her a contract, which resulted in the role of Carmen and now Toni. The latter gives her a colorful background and an opportunity to prove her versatility as an actress.

"The Gateway of the Moon" is coming to the Rio Theatre Tuesday December 4.

PAROCHIAL STUDENTS HONOR FEAST DAY

A demonstration of the Ward Method of singing and the Gregorian Chant, was given in a program held by the students of All Saints Parochial School Thursday, November 22, in celebration of St. Cecilia's Feast Day.

The demonstration included finger drills, rhythmic exercises and ear tests in preparation for the Gregorian Chant. It is the Pope's desire that efforts be made to restore the Gregorian chant by the people that they may again take a more active part in the church services as in ancient times. The day's program follows:

Low Mass, (Singing by Children of 3rd and 4th Grades.)

SENATOR-ELECT William S. Vare, Republican, Pennsylvania, has been named to the Senate last week, will likely know his fate soon. It will be settled at the short session of Congress opening December 3.

NORTH CAROLINA may furnish another Secretary of the Navy. The name of Stuart W. Cramer of Charlotte is receiving the attention of Republican leaders.

IT LEAKED out in Washington this week that a vanload of crates, boxes and barrels accompanied President and Mrs. Coolidge to Northampton, Mass. when they went to vote.

THE WHITE HOUSE social season began this year thirty days earlier than usual. This week fifty dined in the State Dining Room, including Vice President and Mrs. Dawes.

UPON BEING quizzed by reporters regarding his Cabinet, Hoover said: "Any truthful declaration on the Cabinet members will be announced by me, and all other statements will be based on theory and conjecture."

WASHINGTON IS wondering how Mr. Hoover will recognize the Republican South. They realize that he is bound to make some deal.

WHEN CONGRESS opens next December 3 there will be much fun, "wise cracks" and hearty chuckles between Republican floor leader Curtis and Democratic floor leader Robinson.

LAST WEEK radioverts through the U. S. made out new charts as a result of the Federal Radio Commission's reassignment of station wave lengths.

FRIENDS OF William E. Borah say that he will not accept the Secretary of State portfolio should Hoover offer it to him. They say that Mr. Borah is desirous of it being offered him. They say that he wants it in writing and that he in turn will refuse it in writing over his signature.

DIRECTS PLANT AND SALES OF INDUSTRY

Has National Reputation Today the Coopersage company Vaseline plant is recognized as one of the foremost in the country.

Modern methods have been adopted in informing the trade. Direct by mail and by means of advertising have been used to develop and maintain a demand for the local products which have made possible this work from his office.

He had opportunity to prove this in February, 1925 when Mr. Motte's health gave way. The latter was recommended to a sanitarium and advised that no less than six weeks confinement would be essential to his recovery.

Spare Time Studies The work was in my liking but I wanted to get ahead and I determined to take a correspondence course. The course was one of the best available to a high school course.

This course was completed in about seven months and I received offers to work at other places, but I decided to remain with the business of my first choice, even at less salary, and I returned to Matteson to continue in the office of the Venable plant. I remained about two years more, until I came to Gladstone the first of 1909.

Active in Community Until the break down in his health he was active in every phase of Gladstone's community life. Boy Scouts, booster movements, baseball fund drives, everything with which busy men are encountered was met and attended by Mr. Motte.

It was in 1924 that he managed the Gladstone baseball club. Whatever the cause, or whatever the source, Bill Motte's life has been counted upon to bear more than his just share. Generosity is the outstanding characteristic of his nature.

THIS COLUMN IS having trouble about its title again. "En Passant" somebody will say, pronouncing it as though it had "us" and "za" in it, and like no respectable column would be named. But we can't say it out loud, twice the same way, so license to use your imagination is granted, but no cast.

THE DULL ROAD (By Edgar Guest) It's the dull road that leads to the gay road.

THE PRACTICE that leads to success, The work road that leads to the play road. It is trouble that breeds happiness.

IT'S the hard work and merciless grinding That purchases glory and fame, It's the steady doing, not the bragging The drudgery drear of the same.

IT'S the passing up 'gamor or pleasure For the sake of the skill we may gain, And in giving up comfort or leisure For the joy that we hope to attain.

IT'S the hard road of trying and learning, Of toiling, uncheered and alone That wins us the prizes worth earning, And leads us to goals we would own.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO. Long Distance Rates Are Surprisingly Low For Instance: for $1.95 or less, between 4:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. You can call the following points and talk for THREE MINUTES for the rates shown. Rates for other points are proportionately low.

Table with columns: RATES FROM GLADSTONE TO, Day Station-to-Station Rate. Locations include Peoria, IL, Toledo, OH, Burlington, Iowa, etc.

The rates quoted are Station-to-Station Day rates, effective 4:30 a. m. to 7:00 p. m. Evening Station-to-Station rates are effective 7:00 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. and Night Station-to-Station rates, 8:30 p. m. to 4:30 a. m.

A Station-to-Station call is one made to a certain telephone rather than to some person in particular. If you do not know the number of the distant telephone, give the operator the name and address and specify that you will talk with "anyone" who answers at the called telephone.

A Person-to-Person call, because more work is involved, costs more than a Station-to-Station call. The rate on a Person-to-Person call is the same at all hours.

Additional rate information can be secured by calling the Long Distance operator

Thanksgiving Greetings

To Our Patrons and Friends

Thanksgiving means gratefulness. Our pilgrim forefathers set aside the day to give thanks for relief from deprivations, and suffering. How much more reason have we of today to be thankful. It is fitting that we give thought to the many blessings good fortunes and successes that have been ours throughout the past year, on this Thanksgiving Day.

STATE LIVESTOCK ENTERED IN SHOW

Michigan will be well represented at the International Livestock Show at Chicago, Dec. 1 to 8, with entries by farmers of the state who are outstanding as livestock breeders, in addition to a large number of animals to be entered by the Michigan State College.

Twelve horses will be entered by the college—seven Percherons and five Belgians. Maple Grove, Leila, twice Grand Champion at Chicago, will again compete at the International.

Five Shorthorn, four Hereford and three Aberdeen Angus steers will make up the entry list of cattle. Among the steers to be exhibited will be the yearling Hereford which was Reserve Grand Champion at the Michigan State Fair.

Thirty-one sheep from the college flocks, representing breeds that are popular in Michigan, will be exhibited. Thirty-three head of swine complete the list of college entries.

The 1928 International Livestock Exposition is expected to be outstanding in comparison with previous shows. In addition to the livestock show, a large number of the leading Agricultural colleges of the country will have exhibits showing the results of their experimental work in livestock feeding and crop production.

M. S. C. GETS POTATO EXPERIMENTAL FARM

Complete potato experimental and demonstration service for the farmer of Michigan is now guaranteed with the purchase by the State Board of Agriculture, of a 480 acre farm at a cost of $12,000 and, in addition, the lease of 160 acres of land with an option which will permit the board to purchase the tract later if it is desired.

The new farm is located near Lake City and, according to the committee that selected the site, has excellent buildings and soil which is fitted for the experimental work. Experimental work with potatoes is also conducted by the college at the Chatham experiment station in the Upper Peninsula, at the Kellogg experimental farm near Battle Creek, and at the college farm at Lansing.

The northern farm fills the needs of the more important potato producing areas of the central northern and northwestern sections of the state which are included, with few exceptions, within a 75 mile radius of the new farm.

Selection of the site was made by a committee from the agricultural division of the college and approved by the Dean of Agriculture, the Director of the experiment station, and the Director of extension work.

A committee of the State Board of Agriculture secured the services of disinterested parties who made an appraisal of the land and the offer of the board was based on this appraisal.

HOW DO YOU KNOW?

Last week's deer slayers, and they are that too, judging from the deer in the picture, were easily recognized. They are left to right, Frederick Adlett, Anthony Johnson, Charles Green, and E. E. Engstrom.

No, these aren't the deer they shot this year, but what's the difference? The ten men in the Trails are the ten deer during the first couple of days of the season, so there you are.

THE KING PIN by R. Jack Laster

Describe, grab your typewriter and type! Turkey and bowling go for some reason do not seem to mix satisfactorily, so out of regard for the digestive organs of the various teams scheduled to do their stuff on or about Thanksgiving, the series of Wed. day and Thursday are to be held on Friday as follows: Rialto vs. Gladstone Specials. So Line vs. City Club. Consumers vs. Legion. Because of the untimely loss of one of their members, the games which the Gladstone Specials were to have bowled earlier in the week were postponed until later. Next week will bring more snow we are sure, and with that signal meteorological demonstration will occur five of the best matches of the season thus far. Behold the schedule! Mon., Dec. 3—Office vs. Rialto. Tues., Dec. 4—Gladstone Specials vs. City Club. Wed., Dec. 5—Flooding Mill vs. Legion. Thurs., Dec. 6—So Line vs. Consumers. Fri., Dec. 7—Rotary vs. Vener Mill. Miss Rose Schmitt and her mother, Mrs. Burkhead will return Friday from Chaboyan where they visited with relatives for the past few weeks. Mrs. Andrew Moore left Wednesday night for Rochester to be with Mrs. Ed Moore who is consulting specialists at the Mayo Clinic. Mrs. Moore is as well as may be expected.

SERVICE AT ISABELLA

Rev. C. E. Olson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran Church will go to Isabella Sunday to conduct services. The meeting will be at two o'clock.
