HENRY GEORGE is getting rich. His anti-poverty society probably got its name from the fact that he expects poverty to ante up to his support.

AN AMUSING criticism, whether truthful or not, has been made by Henry Labouchere upon Holman Hunt's picture, "The Awakened Conscience," as follows: "It is the art of the nursery, the coloring of the jam-pot, and the sentiment of the Salvation Army."

PAPER doors are coming into use, and, as compared with those of wood, possess the advantage of neither shrinking, swelling, cracking or warping. It is formed of two thick paper boards, stamped and molded into panels, and glazed together with glue and potash, and then rolled through heavy rollers. After being covered with a waterproof coating and then with one that is fireproof, it is painted, varnished and hung in the usual way.

THE suspensions of the short-haul sections of the Interstate Law have terminated. The commissioners announce that none will be renewed and that in future they will make orders under the discretionary powers conferred upon them only in special cases after examination. The cases acted upon will be so few in comparison with the number on which action is asked for that it may be assumed that the short-haul section will be in force everywhere for a long time to come. It has been remarked that railroads may disregard it in some cases on the ground that circumstances and conditions are dissimilar, or substantially so, and take their chances on being sustained by the commissioners or courts. If they unwittingly make a mistake they are liable for actual damages only, but if they do anything that is construed as willful violation the $5,000 fine may be imposed.

"THERE is a flavor of tyranny of the worst sort in the policy of the General Executive Board of the K of L toward the Glass Blowers' League. The latter is made up of workmen who refuse to return to the Knights of Labor, from whom they seceded. They are on good terms with employers, and are receiving higher wages than the glass-blowers who are Knights, have been working for. In order to compel them to rejoin the order the Knights have directed a boycott against their employers. Is there any meaner or more outrageous form of oppression than this? The Knights conspire to injure employers in order to force workmen to do that which they do not wish to do and which would be a direct injury to them. There is nothing in the history of the wrongs inflicted by employers on unorganized labor that is equal to this. Probably the boycott will fail. We hope it will be fought in the courts and its authors and instigators punished. But whether this is done or not, the mere adoption of such a policy is proof that the Knights have completely abandoned their original professed purposes.

THE investments of the great Chicago and Menominee operators in white pine may be taken as a remarkable evidence that Northern lumbermen are nowadays facing South for new fields of endeavor. The parties in the interest indicated would not look at Southern timber a short time since. The Chicago Cypress Company, a new organization composed of the Ludington, Wells & Van Schaick Company and the Kirby-Carpenter Company has been started for the purpose of purchasing cypress timber in Florida, and eventually converting it into lumber. The company, says the Northwestern Lumberman, through the agency of A. G. Van Schaick, has already purchased in Alachua County 11,300 acres of cypress land in one tract and 6,700 in another, both comprising 700,000,000 feet of stumpage. They intend, at an early day, to erect mills, manufacture lumber and ship it North for sale. Mr. Van Schaick confidently expects to market much of it in this city. He thinks that an outlet can be had on the Gulf Coast, either by railroad or river, that the lumber can be conveyed thence to New Orleans by sea, and up the Mississippi River by barge line. Whether this route can be made to compete successfully with one all-rail remains to be demonstrated. The company has also purchased 11,000 acres of yellow-pine land in the vicinity of Waldo.—Chicago Bulletin.

IN THE "Nineteenth Century" James Keith compares England and the United States in the matter of compensation of labor. The Inter Ocean says: "When an American protectionist tells Americans that free trade means cheap labor the American hirelings and dupes of the English Cobden Club reply that he has a senile imagination, and that tariffs do not effect wages. The English free trader, talking to English free traders, tells the truth, and says that free trade is just cheap labor, no more, no less. But hear what he says as to the certain effect of free trade in this country: "The only advantage we have over the United States is, as I have said, that we have cheap labor. * * * When the United States adopts free trade, or anything like it, the price of American labor will come down." The Englishman free trader speaks truly; would that American free traders would do likewise. And under the head of "taxation" Mr. Keith makes it a point in favor of the United States that the American citizen "at present pays no imperial (national) taxation whatever, the whole Federal Government and civil service expenditures being paid out of the import duties." These are the import duties which prevent cheap labor on the one hand and direct taxation of the poor on the other; the import duties which foolish theorists or venal advocates of English policy for America denounce as tolls paid to "robber barons." The English free trader sees in them an advantage which the American citizen enjoys over his directly taxed cousin in England.

A PERSON of the name of John McMackin, residing in New York city, and another person named James J. Gahan, a resident of the same place, have notified the world that they are displeased with the postmaster general's condemnation of a scheme to organize a strike society in the postal service.

The postmaster general pronounced the scheme to be "worse than unnecessary," because the only "fraternity" that the postal service needs is that every postal servant shall be capable of discharging his trust and faithfully discharge it; and because the "equitable grading" of those servants is the function of the minister and his assistants, not of the servants that are to be graded; because such an organization of public servants "is forbidden by sound principles;" and because the public service is constitutionally regulated by the law making power, and the country "neither requires nor would be likely to tolerate societies of its servants formed to advance their own particular views."

The postmaster general appears to have a rather clear and certainly an entirely correct idea of this wretched project of extending the trades guild and the strike society, and by natural consequence, the boycott and the riot, into the public service. The country not only would not tolerate such a programme, but would begin the process of intolerance against the administrators that should tolerate it.

The whole duty of a servant of a government is to discharge faithfully and properly the service for which he is employed, and to leave politics, parties, and strike societies very severely alone.—Chicago Times.

SUPPOSE we go back to free trade. The free trader tells us we would then get our goods cheaper than we do now. We would buy more of England and less of home manufacturers. After awhile our home manufacturers would begin to shut up shop. Well, of course that is all right, if they can't compete with England. We buy where we buy cheapest, you know. Well, by and by foreign competition drives out certain American manufactures entirely. Armies of American workmen are then out of work and must go to the soil and become producers. More producers and less consumers year after year. Markets gradually closing up as a logical consequence. Where are we now? England has closed up many of our industries because we could not operate them in open competition with a country that pays half we pay for labor. What next? Well, the next thing is we are at the mercy of the English monopolists. They have driven out all competition and will now proceed to fix the price on their goods as high as they please and we must pay it because we must have the goods. If England puts the price up on us so outrageously then we can go to manufacturing again, can we? Yes, and by the time have our factories in shape to run England drops her prices again and drives us to the wall. The what does this mean? It means that we cannot compete with the manufacturers of England on a free trade basis unless we reduce the price of labor to the low scale of English wages. Laboring men, shall we do that?

Some there are who would open wide the door for England to step in and manipulate and monopolize the markets of this country. They would invite free competition with pauper paid labor and not only make it impossible for new industries to thrive in the west and south, but would shut down many of those already in operation. This suicidal policy is advocated by some of our distinguished statesmen to-day, and indorsed nowhere so cordially and earnestly as in free trade England.

The people of the west and south, and of the whole country, may well view with alarm any attempt to turn the great industries of this country over to the mercy of merciless commercial foe.—Detroit Tribune.

MR. ANDREW CARNEGIE has a Scotchman's directness in telling wholesome American truths across the water. Speaking on the festive occasion at Edinburg the other day while the able and amiable nobleman Lord Rosebery was present, the great iron manufacturer said:

Lord Rosebery's aspirations to reform his own order were never more patent to me than they are to-day, because I find that, with the exception of himself, there are but one or two others who are to be associated with men of the people, and he will be the first to confess that his own order does not seem to vie with the men of the people in this country in distributing the wealth for the good of the community. Who can point to an aristocracy that ever did, or to a monarchy that ever did? No, gentlemen, the forces of democracy and the forces of privileges are antagonistic forces, and Lord Rosebery, with all his power and with all the popular affection which surrounds him, some day yet will see that, in regard to the diverting of wealth from the aristocracy, men do not gather figs off thistles.

Perhaps no one in Mr. Carnegie's audience was more impressed with the truth of these observations than Lord Rosebery, His connection with the aristocracy is really an injury to him. It hampers him and retards his political progress. He is able, liberal-minded, and eloquent. He made a capital Secretary of Foreign Affairs. And were he a member of the House of Commons he would be Gladstone's political heir-apparent. Being a member of the House of Lords, he is lost to the public view, except when he addresses public meetings. Nobody pays any attention to his addresses in the so-called Upper House. That assemblage is really a place of banishment for an active, progressive man. The Orangeman Johnston inadvertently stumbled into a proper description of it the other day in the Commons. Having expressed the hope that Mr. Gladstone would soon be translated to a place of quiet, inactivity and peace, there were loud cries of "Shame" from all parts of the House, which greatly astonished the blundering but honest Irishman. Seeing his mistake, he said: "I don't mean that I hope Mr. Gladstone may die. I mean that I hope he will be sent to the House of Lords, where he can do neither harm nor good." The appreciative roars which followed were significant of progress. Indeed, the recent political backsliding of Lord Hartington has sometimes been ascribed to his belief that he could not maintain leadership in the Liberal party after he succeeds his father as Duke of Devonshire. Lord Rosebery as plain Mr. Primrose would be a more promising man than he is now. As a commissioner he would be ahead of Morley, perhaps. Now he is hardly even with the latter.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.
 Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and New York, had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at Geo. P. Rowson's drug store.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Iron Port, Which is of no Consequence to Any body else.

"It's a case of survival of the fittest at THE DELTA office—cheap's the word from now on. Those people who have hitherto been sending their job printing to Milwaukee, Oconto, Marinette or Marquette are hereby informed that this office will do their work better, quicker and cheaper, by ten per cent. than any other. It's pretty tough when a fellow meets you at every corner with a cut rate that neither he nor you can live by, but such is the fortune of war." THE DELTA represents the whole county and the testimony of strangers is that it does it well. One of its editors is a legally qualified elector in the second ward of the city of Escanaba and expects to continue so. All the wages paid in THE DELTA office are spent among the merchants of this city. So far, as the account stands, this office has more than repaid to the city every dollar that the city has paid to it. Much of its support comes from abroad and is contributed to Escanaba. The grocer, the butcher, the merchant and the mechanic, get all THE DELTA earns. If there is a question of equity as to who is entitled to the printing of the city. THE DELTA's claims are foremost; but its proprietors are not silly enough to believe that there is a very large admixture of sentiment in the business of job printing. He who, in open market, offers the best goods at the lowest rate will be apt to take the persimmons. There is no Chinese wall about this city. "Drummers" have always, since the publishers were old enough to be cognizant of the fact, come here from printing offices abroad, and have taken the best of the printing trade. They did it last year, they have done it this year and they will continue to do it as long as there are such words as business and economy. In so far as THE DELTA's business as a paper is concerned it has no need of a drummer. It has always solicited custom and always will. It has put no drummer on the road. One employee has gone and another has taken his place. Mr. J. H. LeClaire, who so successfully "drummed" for the Iron Port last year, is engaged in the same business this year, except that he labors for THE DELTA. Surely this office has the same rights which any other has. It has never begged for work and all its prosperity has come from the fact that its patrons believed they were doing business to better advantage with it than with another. It has always got up early mornings to help its neighbors along. It has never, under any pretense, done anything to hurt a neighbor. It has enemies because it has ideas and opinions; but it has never advanced them offensively, because it was above it. It has a world of epithet and invective which it can use against meanness and smallness of soul—if it thinks it proper to do so. But it will never stain its pages with its own quarrels. It must be a great occasion which tempts it to strong language. What its editors may think and say in private shall never worry its most fastidious reader. To return to the subject. THE DELTA will do job work for anybody and every body at the lowest prices ever known in the upper peninsula—and continue to be the best county paper in Michigan at $1.50 per annum, while assiduously minding its own affairs and keeping its eye on the object.

Sherbenow's premises, at the corner of Harrison Avenue, look very attractive since Harris has concluded his labors there.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleiber left on the noon train for Turin, where they will make their home in the future.—Mining Journal.

Circuit Court convened last Wednesday morning, for the trial of Ida M. Peterson. A jury was not secured until late on Thursday, when the following panel was sworn: Hans C. Jacobson, Malcolm Aird, Nelson Cook, John Barron, Jr., Frederick Deiter, Albert Sieman, Edmund Hill, Robert Bruhus, John Fitzpatrick, Joseph Kodet, Edward L. Mitchell and Charles D. Johnson. Prosecuting Attorney Mead was assisted by R. C. Flannigan, of Menominee county, and John Power and E. P. Royce conducted the defense. The arguments were not concluded until Monday evening. Immediately after supper Judge Grant gave his charge to the jury and the court was given up to their deliberations. At the hour of going to press, 3 p. m. Tuesday, the jury was still out and not likely to agree. Whether another trial takes place or not is difficult to say.

Shipments of iron ore for the week ending July 18, were 75,333 tons. For the season north mines, 350,826 tons and from the south mines 453,637 tons, making a total of 804,463 tons.

It is not only bad manners, but shows defective bringing up, to read copy or proofs in a printing office. Publishers have people on hand who are paid for that purpose. If you really wish to help them out, then tackle the wood pile.

Saturday afternoon, during the heavy storm that came up so suddenly a bolt of lightning struck John Koppes' new brick building, knocking off plaster and otherwise doing much damage. A bolt struck Chas. Whybrew's house, entering the second story, knocking off clap-boards and scattering the plaster all over the house descending into the first story, tearing up the walls there, and escaping through the siding. Considerable damage was done, and only the fact that no one was near saved serious if not fatal injuries.

Base Ball.

The excursion given by the Escanaba base ball club from Escanaba to Garden Bay on the str. City of Green Bay last Sunday was well patronized. The excursion left Escanaba at 9:30 a. m., arrived at Garden at 1:15 p. m. It was accompanied by the E. F. C. B., which rendered the music in its usual good style. They were met at the dock by the Van's Harbor Brass Band and the Garden base ball club; after the Van's Harbor band had played a piece of its splendid music they all departed for dinner which was served at the Garden House. The game of ball began at 2 p. m., with Escanaba at the bat. This side was put out after scoring two runs; the Gardens went to bat and were shut out with a big goose egg. The game was very interesting and well played by both clubs. At the end of the fifth inning the score stood 7 to 11 in favor of Escanaba. The Gardens were shut out entirely the next four innings, Escanaba scoring 11 more runs making a score of 22 to 7 in favor of Escanaba. The game lasted two hours and twenty minutes. Mr. Geo. Cahill of Ishpeming was chosen umpire and dealt fairly with both clubs.

Gladstone the new town on Bay de Noc, is booming splendidly, and has an excellent helper to its boom in THE DELTA, the new paper managed by Mason & Bushnell.—Detroit Daily Journal.

THE DELTA has received a copy of a six-column quarto newspaper published at Duluth which for neatness of get up and as a provider of news, takes the cake. It is none other than the Duluth Evening Journal.

The business of the Delta Avenue Hotel has increased to such an extent that it was found necessary to enlarge the dining room, which has been done by removing a partition between it and a bed room adjoining. The office, a large and pleasant room is nearly ready, only lacking the clerk with his smile and diamond shirt stud.

A WORD FROM WELLS.

Some Points About the Proposed Road Between that Place and Gladstone.

TO THE DELTA:—A wagon road from the Wells farms to Gladstone was laid out Friday of last week by Commissioner Reno and the work of construction will soon be commenced. The road will be cut out three rods wide and the commissioner proposes to have the road in shape for the farmers to haul the products of the farm, as well as wood, logs, posts and ties next winter. This road will be of great benefit to Gladstone and the farming community. Within ten miles west of Gladstone there is the makings of many fine farms. There is an abundance of good timber, a soil that responds generously under fair cultivation, and a climate the healthiest in the world. We can grow crops of hay, wheat oats and potatoes that are not excelled any where in the state, and early varieties of corn do well here. The hardier varieties of apples are successfully grown and the small fruits attain perfection and yield abundantly. Garden vegetables of all kinds can be grown with profit here, as in no part of the state are better prices obtained for the products of the farm and garden. The best markets in the state are at the farmers' door.

The county, and especially the township of Escanaba takes particular pride in its schools. Fine school-houses, presided over by the best educational talent in the county are found everywhere.

Our public highways would be a credit to any country. This part of the county offers many advantages that makes this a most desirable location for the man of limited means, but who desires to make for himself a comfortable home where he can support and educate his family and lay up a competence for old age.

Wells invites the man of thrift and intelligence to locate within her boundaries. This being a new country some money is required to start with, but not as much as is necessary on the treeless plains of the west. No destructive cyclones, tornadoes or violent storms have been known to visit this part of the state. We do not claim that it has no disadvantages, for what place has not? But we do claim, and justly, too, that for men looking for homes few better places can be found than this. There is an abundance of work at good wages.

This township is being settled by an intelligent class of people and there are lots of locations left. Gladstone, our nearest town, is destined to be a large and flourishing city. Its business men are ambitious and are thoroughly alive to every interest looking to the advancement of the city and surrounding country. Men of capital are turning their attention to this part of the country and in a few short years mills, foundries and manufactories of all descriptions will spring up, and the vast quantities of pine, cedar and the hardwoods on the Escanaba river, along with the inexhaustible mines of iron, will give employment to thousands of men, making this one of the most desirable localities in the country.

To the intending purchaser of a farm we say come to Wells, look over its fine farming lands, and if you do not conclude to remain with us we will admit that our judgment is at fault. * * * Wells, Mich., July 19, 1887.

August, the foreman at Davis & Mason's lumber yard will build a residence at once and move his family here from Chicago.

The Echo, a weekly edition of the Detroit Daily News, is received. The paper is an eight-page sheet, eight columns to the page and is a pleasant paper to read, made so by the absence of patent ads. There is no other weekly paper in the United States that contains so much good reading as does the Echo, and it costs only one small dollar per year. If you wish to be prosperous and happy you should have the Echo in your house, and THE DELTA too, for that matter.

June 28 THE DELTA made a statement, taken from repeated rumors that a dance house and saloon had been opened up at Masonville, north of Peacock's mill, and requested the county officers to look the ground over. On Saturday last Mr. Robert Peacock informed the writer that no such place existed, or ever did exist near his mill; that there is no such place anywhere on the bay, and further stated that there would be none while he resided here. THE DELTA is glad to be able to make the correction, because it does not wish the impression to go abroad that places of the kind mentioned are tolerated here, and only mentioned the rumor in the first place in the way of a complaint to the county's officials to suppress it.

Mr. J. H. LeClaire, late of the Reporter Publishing Company, Oconto, Wis., has accepted a position with THE DELTA and will devote his time and abilities to making THE DELTA a good paper and gathering in what business he can for it. We will introduce him to you as a gentleman and will feel grateful for any favors shown him in his work.

CHIT-CHAT ABOUT PEOPLE.

A Record of the People who Visit Gladstone During the Week and Those who Depart.

Engineer Dunbar was here Monday. John K. Stack and son were here Friday.

Dr. Jas. H. Tracy was here on Wednesday last.

Pat McPhee of Garden looked the town over Friday.

Geo. English made his regular weekly visit here Wednesday.

Peter McRae and James Blake were here Monday morning.

James Cleary, sr., was up from Escanaba Sunday and Monday.

Mr. Owen Cleary and wife were passengers on the Lotus Sunday.

Mrs. Chas. Lightfoot and children, of Missouri arrived here Thursday.

Miss Kittie Moran of Escanaba was a passenger on the Lotus last Wednesday.

James Bacon, a retired merchant of Escanaba, was here the first of the week.

Mr. Davis who is to occupy the building now going up east of Blackwell's was here Sunday.

C. W. Davis, of Davis & Mason, lumber dealers, was here Monday looking over his business.

Dell Brotherton with a couple of young ladies, made Gladstone and this office a visit on Monday.

John and Nicholas Welch and P. F. Schils were up from Escanaba Monday, looking for lots.

Geo. English left the Eagle Stable long enough Wednesday to come to Gladstone and pick blueberries.

John A. McNaughtan, E. Sanberg, A. A. Kirkpatrick and Geo. Preston were visitors here Thursday.

"Old Washington," otherwise Mr. Dausman of Depere, was here on Monday last selling flour to our merchants.

W. L. McDonald and T. W. Gilmore, of Chicago, are camping at Lake Mada. They are friends of F. C. Buck, Esq., of the Exchange Bank.

Frank Atkins visited Gladstone on Friday last. Frank has a large and growing trade with the people here and must call on them once in a while.

Mrs. Bissell and her mother, Mrs. Peckham, and Miss Peckham, accompanied by R. R. Sterling, were up on the Lotus Friday morning for a little outing.

Morris Goldman, the enterprising hustler for Kratze's double stores, Escanaba, was in Gladstone several days last week making friends and selling goods.

Joseph Picard was absent this week on a visit to the new town of Gladstone on the Minneapolis & Sault Ste. Marie railroad. He will probably invest in real estate in that town.—Iron Spirit, Bessemer.

Mr. W. H. Frazer of New York city was in Gladstone and called on THE DELTA in company with a Mr. Clark. Both gentlemen are favorable impressed with the location of the place and intend to invest in real estate.

Brown, Pierce & Co., are erecting a frame store building east of Blackwell Bros' store for Davis & Honk who will occupy it as a drug store about the first of August.

Residents of Gladstone who have been in the habit of buying THE DELTA by the week are advised to hand in $1.50 for a year's subscription thereby getting it for about three cents per week. Last week extra copies were all disposed of before the paper was twenty-four hours old and many were disappointed in not being able to procure copies. Subscribe for a year or six month and be sure of it.

Ed. Erickson and Will White were here Monday. Mr. Erickson has not completed his arrangements for building his dry goods and clothing store, but thinks he will put up a building 28x70 feet and cover it with iron. Mr. White will—well, when Ed, and the rest of the people get their stores up he will be around selling them gent's furnishing goods. He has a natural weakness in that direction.

A deserted house, with trunks, female wearing apparel, bags of flour, glassware and dishes, was discovered by Mr. Brown, captain of the Amethyst on Sunday last north of Capt. Hammer's place. The doors and windows had been removed from their places and the household goods were strewn all along the path leading to a small dock where a skiff was tied in which was a trunk. On the dock were a couple of bags of flour spoiled by the late rains and in the house Mr. Brown saw a good looking revolver lying on the floor. Everything about the place had the appearance of having passed through several rain storms. In all probability the place belongs to some one who is absent and parties have ransacked the premises and taken whatever there was of value that could be easily carried off and left the rest to be ruined by the elements.

THE WEEK IN GLADSTONE.

As Nearly Complete a Record of Events as it is Possible to Obtain at Present.

See Naylor's ad elsewhere.

Why is Bay de Noc like a bridegroom?

Minnesota avenue is being cut out this week.

The post office is doing a good business—no competition.

A wagon road is being cut out between here and Bay Siding.

Blackwell Bros will move into their building in about a week.

Our milk man is working up a good trade in milk here and at South Gladstone.

Some of Peacock's lumber was blown into the bay by the wind storm of Saturday last.

Day's River was cleaned of its cedar upwards of two weeks ago by Robert Peacock.

Blackwell Bros. have built a warehouse in the rear of their store building on Delta avenue.

Jones & Eichorn's mill is running right along now a stock of logs having been secured.

Wm. Olmsted has his cedar all out of the Rapid river and his ties have all been shipped.

Blueberries were never to the knowledge of the writer, as large and plentiful as at present.

Mr. Hancock is building a handsome little clinker row-boat at his shop near the lumber yard.

Died, at Masonville, Mich., Sunday morning, July 17, Mr. M. L. Lenhart, at the age of 65 years.

James Mason's residence is up and enclosed, and he will probably move into it some time this week.

Peacock's mill at Masonville is idle for want of logs, and the winds are such lately that it is difficult to get any to the mill.

The fire losses for June foot up $10,182,100—nearly $4,000,000 greater than the average for June in the past ten years.

For a handsome bit of scenery one should climb the bluff at South Gladstone and look—well, in any direction except west.

Some things we are not blessed with: hand organs, book agents, insurance men, base ball clubs, "best" bands and street fakirs.

The green apple and the small boy will soon begin to try conclusions. That's why Bert Blackwell looks so disgusted with life lately.

Eight thousand men are now employed on the Minneapolis, Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic railroad between this place and Rhinelander.

There are eight business buildings completed and in process of construction within a radius of five hundred feet of THE DELTA office.

Thos. Robillard has purchased a lot next west of Wilson & Siple's building and will embark in the saloon business. Gladstonians need not go dry.

If you are troubled with mosquitoes—some people are—get a bottle of pennyroyal and place it in your room over night, but don't leave the cork in the bottle.

One would think the people of Gladstone were the greatest eaters on earth if he were to be on the docks every day at the times when the Lotus arrives from Escanaba.

To save numerous compositors throughout the country the expense of writing us regarding a "sit," allow us to state that every position in this office is filled for the present.

Agents of the Minneapolis, Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic Railway were in Saginaw Mich., recently hiring men. Several hundred were engaged and five hundred more are wanted.

A settler in the back district says that when he runs short of tobacco he kills a quantity of mosquitoes, dries and smokes them. We do the same here only that we smoke them first.

Gladstone the new town on Bay de Noc, is booming splendidly, and has an excellent helper to its boom in THE DELTA, the new paper managed by Mason & Bushnell.—Detroit Daily Journal.

THE DELTA has received a copy of a six-column quarto newspaper published at Duluth which for neatness of get up and as a provider of news, takes the cake. It is none other than the Duluth Evening Journal.

The business of the Delta Avenue Hotel has increased to such an extent that it was found necessary to enlarge the dining room, which has been done by removing a partition between it and a bed room adjoining. The office, a large and pleasant room, is nearly ready, only lacking the clerk with his smile and diamond shirt stud.

Davis & Mason's lumber yard has everything needed to go in a building, from sills to roof, and is kept pretty busy dealing it out. Besides the lumber and mouldings on hand they have a vessel load of lime in stock and brick to go with it.

The Corning Lumber Company opened its new $6,000 dam on the West Branch of the Whitefish on Saturday last, and hope to get their logs down stream. This dam is between twenty-five and thirty miles from the mouth of the Whitefish.

Mr. Wm. Diderrich of Appleton, Wis., arrived here last week with a number of cows and a horse and milk wagon and is supplying the residents here with cow's milk. No more condensed milk, thank you. Mr. D. shows considerable enterprise and should receive liberal support.

Mr. Charles H. Deirelieu, of Minnesota Junction, Wis., is here and will immediately commence the erection of a good substantial building which he will occupy as a saloon when completed. He has bought the fixtures formerly used in the "Senate" at Escanaba.

Now that our post office has received bags and all necessary supplies, it might be well for the people here to understand that they should let Mr. Mertz handle their mail in the future and not bother our accommodating friend on the Lotus, Mr. Chas. M. Thatcher. For the present one mail a day will be received and sent out, and the mails will close at 8:30 in the morning, sharp. The mail from Escanaba will arrive here at 4 in the afternoon. The first official mail was sent down on Friday morning last.

Mr. Mertz, our post master tells us he has the lumber here for a post office building and will build as soon as he can decide on a good location. He will put up a building 22x60 feet on the ground, two stories high. The first floor will be occupied by the post office and the second will be finished off for living rooms for himself. The building will be ready for occupancy by September first at the very latest. Brown, Pierce & Co., have the contract and will push the work. Mr. Mertz has already ordered the fittings for office from Yale & Towne, Stamford, Conn., which will consist of 144 call boxes and 16 patent lock boxes. These can be added to from time to time as the business requires. THE DELTA was shown a cut of the cabinet and can say that it is neat and tasty and one our people will not be ashamed of.

A stock company was organized here last week from among the young men of the place for the advancement of yachting. The first thing the company did was to levy an assessment on the members and purchase Capt. Hammer's yacht, a boat well known for speed and comfort. The price paid for the boat was between $250 and $250.35. Anyone wishing to hire a good boat free gratis will have to see either R. P. Mason, Will VanDuzer, Ralph Hutchinson, M. Barnes (the polite young man in Scott & Mason's store) or Mr. Clark. Either one of these gentlemen will tell you, in low sweet tones, that you can not borrow her. The company proposes giving THE DELTA force and the guests at the Delta Avenue Hotel a Sunday's outing soon, to which you are invited, reader. Bring a basket and some crackers and dried herring when you come.

"Say, are not the prices put upon business lots here pretty high?" is asked THE DELTA's man-around-town a dozen times every day. THE DELTA is willing to be liberal and admit that they would be high if nothing had been done to improve them, but people coming here must consider that clearing land and grading streets costs money, and consequently the expense of such work must come out of purchasers of lots. Should the work be left for a village organization to do it is our opinion that they would come higher still, in the long run. Upwards of $30,000 has already been expended by the owners of plat in clearing the land and still there is much more to be done. This money has come out of the pockets of the men who have faith in the prosperity of the town and who wish to see it started off on its career in a first-class manner. A large amount of work has been done in laying it out to the best advantage possible, over 80 acres have already been cleared and more is being opened up every day. Residence streets are being cut out and grades established, Delta avenue and Eighth street are being graded now. This is expensive work, but the owners believe that the majority of people would rather pay for it now than to wait for village organization to do it in the usual expensive manner. So, before forming any such opinions, investigate matters a little. They will bear it.

SOUTH GLADSTONE.

What is Being Done and What Has Been Done in Our Sister Town.

The Schooner Rover cleared on Saturday for Green Bay.

A large number of strangers have been in town the past week.

T. M. Solar and A. O. Blackwell spent Saturday in Masonville.

A. O. Blackwell returned on Friday from Appleton and vicinity.

R. Silverman of Milwaukee, took in the sights on Thursday at this place.

The plasterers have commenced work on Blackwell Bro's store building.

Frank Hayes of Kaukauna, Wis., arrived last week and is engaged with T. M. Solar.

Mr. Samuel Collins, our landlord has been off duty the past week on account of sickness.

T. M. Solar, with his gang of hustlers, is rapidly pushing the work on the warehouse at the dock.

The Schooner Rover, of Green Bay, arrived at Blackwell's dock on Friday, with a cargo of dressed lumber, brick, lime and other building material.

Who will be the first blacksmith to locate in this place and take advantage of the first-class opening here? This is the right place for the right man.

Mr. John Mitchell, General Manager of the Kaukauna Lumber and Manufacturing Co., was in town on Friday on business relating to his firm. Come again and stay longer.

Harris & McGuise were in town on Thursday, making the preliminary preparations for the erection of their saw mill. They also intend to erect several buildings.

Al. Neff, of Kaukauna, arrived on Saturday, to make this place his permanent home. Mr. Neff is an expert with the paint brush and will at once erect a building to be used as a shop.

The large number of passengers from here taking the train at Bay Siding on the C. & N. W. R. R. should influence the R. R. authorities to accommodate the public with some sort of a depot.

Work on one of the side hill roads is being rapidly pushed and in a few days the road will be passable for teams. This will be a great improvement on the old road if we may call it one. Work on the other road will commence at once.

The hard storms of Friday and Saturday played serious havoc with the families who were occupying shanties, in some cases their primitive habitations being flooded. Naturally some begin to talk of building more substantial residences.

Gaspard Roleau has his fine new building nearly completed and in a short time will cater to the wants of the public in all matters relating to his line. Mr. Roleau's culinary abilities are well known to some of his former acquaintances in this place and we bespeak for him a flattering trade.

A Matter of Difference, not Opinion.

THE DELTA is the best lighted printing office north of Milwaukee. The building faces the south and the front has a surface of glass twelve by thirty-eight feet. In the composing and press room are seven east windows two and one-half by six and one-half feet, making the building the most pleasant workshop on the peninsula.

The foregoing is from the Gladstone, late Escanaba DELTA, and it makes us fairly blush at the impudence of the writer in claiming so much. To show that he is somewhat off we give the dimensions of this establishment, together with the means of lighting, leaving it to the gentleman himself to decide whether or not he was too previous in his claim. Like THE DELTA office the Gazette building faces south, has a frontage of 25 feet, and extends back 50 feet, is two stories in front and three in the rear. The main, or first floor, contains the news and job composing room, and is lighted by four windows on the east side, three on the west, and two at the north end,—the windows being 2 feet 8 inches by 5 feet,—in addition to the entire front being glass. The press room, which is in the rear of the building on the ground floor, is 23 feet 3 inches square, and is lighted by two windows of the same dimension as those in the composing room. The bindery department and editorial room are on the second floor, the former is 24 by 33 feet in size and is lighted by seven windows, and the editorial room is 16 by 17 feet, with four windows to throw light upon the doings of the man with the scissors, the windows on this floor being the same size as these below.

If any "printing office north of Milwaukee" can beat this we will gracefully yield the palm but will hardly take a back seat for THE DELTA under the present measurement.—Houghton Gazette.

THE DELTA will admit that the Gazette has a well lighted building but must not allow it to bring in three or four stories to gain its point. THE DELTA's figures for glass were for the main floor 28x84 feet, and figures up just about 598 square feet. This time we add two windows back of our boiler and engine that were not thought of before. Giving the Gazette's front, 25x12 feet and figuring up its other windows on the main floor, nine in number, it comes out at about 535 feet, leaving a surplus in favor of THE DELTA office of about 163 feet. Now to come to the second floor of THE DELTA office, not occupied by its proprietors at present, but built and intended for job and composing rooms when business demands it, we find 23 windows facing north, south, east and west, in which are 414 feet of glass, making a total of 1,012 feet. Nevertheless the Gazette and THE DELTA are both made in buildings adapted for good work, and saying nothing about ourselves, the Gazette itself shows that its facilities are taken advantage of.

Farmers here are wrestling with heavy clover that will go three tons per acre, and it gets the best of them every time. Speaking of hay makes us think of a hay deal made here this week. A rising young farmer, who has just attained his majority, cut his hay crop, and after it was cured he sold it for less than it was worth standing. Mr. Pat Lane captured it with just three of our daddies dollars.

Owen Curran is building a new barn which will be ready in time to fill with hay. He has a fine crop of hay of the best quality.

Mr. John McHale has returned from the county seat where he had been serving his county in the capacity of a juror.

Mr. John Krouse, of Turin, Mich., has opened a new store at the McFarland Hill location and expects to do thriving business at this point.

WELLS.

Alderman Schram and family were in town Sunday.

Thomas Forgrave of Ford River was in town last week.

Hon Isaac Stephenson of Marinette, and Supt. Geo. T. Burns visited the Wells farms Sunday.

C. C. Royce and Wm. Godley of Escanaba with their families breathed the fresh air of the country the first of the week.

THE DELTA is a welcome visitor to nearly every farm house in this township. A few think they can get along without a paper—so they can, after a fashion.

Haying is well under way and the farmers say the crop will be good. All other farm crops look well.

Miss Caron had a severe attack of lung bleeding last week that nearly resulted in her death. She is improving slowly.

Mrs. Frank Provo and her daughter Kittie returned from their Canadian visit last week.

Miss Melvina Fillion of Little Lake is visiting with her parents here.

Mr. Napoleon Vieux and Mrs. Vieux of Spalding visited friends and relatives here this week.

Calvin Harris with a party of friends visited Gladstone last Sunday and returned satisfied with the prospect of a prosperous city at that point in the near future.

The fine weather of Sunday was taken advantage of by our city friends and a large number of people enjoyed a drive through the country.

The farmers of Wells will have another market for their products as soon as a road can be built to Gladstone. It will be open for the next winter's trade, hauling cord wood, logs and ties.

The interior of the N. L. Co.'s store has been repainted the work is neatly and tastefully done and Richard McLean, the genial and good-natured bookkeeper will greet you with more than his usual politeness.

Mr. Bedour of Escanaba has located a tie camp in this vicinity and expects to get out 40,000 ties; there are over 20 men in the crew. The timber used is mostly hemlock.

The new railroad will give employment to a large number of men; business will be good and the farmers of Wells should make hay while the sun shines. And they will, we have no doubt.

The Pleasant Grove district school has a most careful and painstaking teacher in the person of Miss Kittie O'Brien. The good order in her school and the intelligence of the scholars are evidence that her work is faithfully and conscientiously done.

A Sunday school has been organized at Flat Rock. John McNally is superintendent. Meetings are held every afternoon in the Flat Rock school house. Those interested in the religious education of the young should make it a point to attend.

Mr. Julian of Ford River has a large crew of men at work on the river getting the logs into the pond and during the storm of Friday night a tree was blown across their dining room camp breaking both tables, one limb striking a tent in which three men were sleeping, tipping it over but fortunately did no further damage.

A large amount of lumber in being hauled from the mill to the settlement; dwelling houses, barns and other buildings are going up in every direction. We are just entering an era of progress and development. New farms are being opened every week and the outlook is most encouraging.

We visited James Bacon's farm one day last week and were surprised to see the improvements that have been made there since spring. The house has been finished and neatly painted and other improvements have been made to such an extent that the old place was hardly recognizable. Mr. Bacon, though many years engaged in the grocery business, is as enthusiastic in this, his new enterprise, as a young man just starting up in business. Such are the men who help build up our town. Success to him.

FAYETTE.

Mrs. A. Taylor and daughter Grace arrived Tuesday to spend the summer here.

R. McCorquodale, of Chicago, is visiting with his uncle, Capt. R. C. McCorquodale for a few days.

Although our dandy justice has exterminated his nocturnal illuminator, he still survives and the collar box telephone line is still in operation.

A pig iron steamer squelched Reid's row boat Thursday night.

The article published in the Iron Port last week, stating that Wm. Rowe had succeeded A. Reid in the management of the store, is untrue. Mr. Reid is still at the head, and his valuable services could not be dispensed with under any circumstances.

A poor forsaken cow, whose owner is yet unknown was mired and gave up the ghost last Friday, at the south end of Cedar street. Obituary next week. Please omit flowers.

There was a dancing party at the Music Hall on Thursday evening the 14th. Although the committees were appointed, music engaged and participants secured after seven o'clock in the evening, the party passed off pleasantly, breaking up in the early morn. This shows that with a little co-operation, Fayette could be made quite interesting.

A number of dances are on the string for this week. On Saturday evening the 16th, at South River, celebrating the anniversary of a young lady's 18th birthday. At Puffy Creek on Monday the 18th, and at Music Hall, Fayette on Saturday the 23rd. The latter being in connection with a raffle of a grand piano by Dr. Phillips.

Our Sunday school folks indulged in a picnic on Thursday of last week. They left on the scow "Billy Winters" at about 9 a. m. returning at five in the afternoon, and now almost every person we meet says, "Oh! you missed it on Thursday; had such a perfectly delightful time." By the expressions of tiredness at the dance during the evening, we guess they had a good time. Some of the ladies' had not fully recovered from the effects of the jelly cake and chickens stowed away during the evening. Our host and store management graced the occasion, their duty being to look after the children. As there were no Miss-haps they must have done their duty well.

13 and 38 respectively are the ages of a couple united in the holy bonds of matrimony on Monday the 18th, at Puffy Creek.

The Gen'l Passenger Ag't of the Sac Bay Central has been wearing a very conspicuous frown on his face for the past week. The reason being that these warm evenings the boys had rather practice buzzing than band music.

The Schr. Kitchen arrived in port on Wednesday with a cargo of ore. She left for Escanaba Saturday, where she will take a cargo of ore consigned to Cleveland, Ohio.

Frank Finnegan, while exercising a saddle horse of Mr. Merry's, last week, was thrown by the horse stumbling while crossing the railroad track at the back of the barn. It was at first thought that Mr. Finnegan was badly hurt, but we are pleased to note that the gentleman has fully recovered and is now attending to his duties as chief tool clerk at the furnace.

Looking up Shelton Avenue the other day we saw a young man approaching with a bandage tightly bound over his left optic, the bandage at the back was tied in a granny knot over the breast; on nearer approach we recognized the gentleman as Mr. Brown, late of Escanaba. It appears that while practicing base ball he allowed the ball to get in contact with the now blacken member. Dr. Phillip's attended the case and found that the nose of the gentleman is badly fractured, further that the swelling of the eye lids was caused directly by a base ball, indirectly by the use of a handkerchief—too much wind.

NAHMA.

Rob. Dousman and wife of Milwaukee, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McGee.

John Y. Caldwell was elected superintendent and Mr. Walter J. Ellis as assistant; the classes will be divided and teachers chosen next Sabbath. McGee & Swanson are doing a rushing business at their restaurant. These hot days, lemonade is in constant demand and Charlie and Pete know just how to make it.

Mrs. Grunert and daughter Ettie left for their home in Oconto last Friday, little Ettie has been in Nahma since April, and will be sadly missed by her little friends and playmates.

Among the transients Tuesday were Tom Farrell of Fayette, Jas. Blake of Escanaba, Welcome Hyde of Appleton, and R. W. McClellan, of Moss Lake.

Mrs. Walter Stratton has been quite ill the past week.

We do not aspire to being a Gladstone nor yet a New Minneapolis, our little Nahma will be a quiet healthful summer resort. The company intend soon to build an addition to Nahma House, it being too crowded even now and as it is pronounced one of the best hotels in the u. p. already, then with the proposed addition, we intend making it the best. Invalids and tired overworked city folk will find health giving qualities of our mineral water worth more to them than all the new lead and iron mines which have been discovered west of us and with our excellent chances for bathing, yachting, &c., we may be a New Saratoga if we try.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Dousman, of Depere, were in town Saturday and Sunday.
