MASON & BUSHNELL, Prop's.

THERE seems to be a quiet undertow in favor of the nomination of Robert T. Lincoln for 1888.

GLADSTONE is to be only a way station. That is, it is a long way nearer the center of business than the Sault.

THE prints of Sault Ste. Marie publish long lists of "buildings," but there are long odds that Gladstone shows a better building record than the Sault at the close of 1887.

THE people of the Sault have studiously instilled into the minds of visitors that the shops of the Sault road are to be built at that place, though all of them who are posted know that Gladstone is the point selected for these important works. It is of such material as this that much of the boom at the Sault has been built.

THE growing sentiment in favor of more stringent laws prohibiting the sale of liquor to minors in all civilized communities is a healthy sign. It starts people to thinking that possibly what is good law for the boys may also be good for the old men. But even old toppers are not anxious to see their boys stagger home drunk.

A NEW feature of Gladstone's future is revealing itself. In the light of present events it seems probable that much wheat will be milled here. Grain for the south and east can be made into flour more cheaply at this point than elsewhere on the route. The grain from Minnesota and Dakota will be handled but once from the cars to the mill, thence to the vessel.

THE great boom at Sault Ste. Marie has reached its climax. Over stimulation has produced an effect which the Sault will long feel. Every art has been used to foster the excitement and the effect has been to raise the values of real estate to abnormal heights. This is the most fatal error which town builders can commit. Opposed to this is the plan of the Gladstone men who are laying the foundations of future prosperity broad and deep. The prospects of Gladstone are better than those of the Sault ever were, and will continue to be so.

THE Georgia Legislature seems to be in earnest in its scheme to send the teachers and trustees of the Atlanta University to the chain gang unless they cease to teach their own children at the same time that they are instructing the colored pupils of the university. The bill has been reported favorably by a joint committee of both Houses, and it is confidently expected that the legislature will approve it. The bill itself is a brutal and barbarous measure and an exhibition of narrow race prejudice of which the people of Georgia ought to be heartily ashamed.—Philadelphia Press.

GLADSTONE is gaining. Her magnificent harbor entrances all comers and ensures here a steady, onward progress for years. How different from Sault Ste. Marie, whose growth depends upon the forcing of Lake Superior through an artificial channel, a work requiring millions of money and years of time. Next year, even, Gladstone will pass the Sault in the race for population and wealth. With the completion of the Soo railroad to this place a large trade will spring up, and before the road is built into the Sault, Gladstone's commerce will have grown greater than the Sault's will ever be.

THE Chicago Tribune has a correspondent investigating the character of labor at the Pennsylvania mines. The Hungarians, he declares, are brutal and vicious to the last degree. In the train of imported pauper labor follow other evils of a kindred nature, and they are by no means confined in their effects to the laboring-men and their families. The great corporations which are responsible for this sort of things are already paying the penalty of their short-sighted policy, and they are only just beginning to reap the harvest of their own sowing. These modern Huns may work for starvation wages for a little while, but they soon learn better, and if not paid what they demand resort to brutish desperation for the enforcement of their demands. The coke strike is only a foretaste of what may be expected. The Hunk has hardly crossed the Alleghenies yet, but the cheap labor contagion may open the gates any day to this pestilence. It is useless to appeal to capital against a policy which promises immediate profit, no matter what the ultimate effect may be; but it is to be hoped that the next Congress will show some genuine statesmanship in treating the greatest peril now menacing the welfare of this country.

THE people at the Sault have been very anxious to make the outside world believe that Gladstone is to be but a "way station" on a trunk line. They should come and see the magnificent docks in process of construction here—such docks as the Sault will never see. A place without a harbor needs no wharves.

THE New York Tribune says: "Thomas F. Grady is round, fat and jolly, but can also be sarcastic in spite of his smiles. He was in the Hoffman House the other night and some one asked him if he was going as a delegate to the next Democratic National Convention and he replied, "Not from the State of New York. I may go as a delegate from New Hampshire or Wisconsin or Massachusetts, or some other Republican State that Cleveland was going to make Democratic as soon as he became President. These are the only States in which a Democrat has a show of getting an office, and in these states they get everything they demand, civil service reform or no civil service reform." When asked if he would support the Democratic nominee in 1888, Mr. Grady replied that if Mr. Cleveland should be the nominee he would take the stump against him. "Cleveland is not a Democrat," he said. "He never was a Democrat, and the Democratic party must be saved from him if it can be done. He wanted to give up the rebel flags. Did he? Well, we will just wrap him up in the most tattered of these old tattered emblems, and bury him a the close of the next campaign, if he should be nominated. I do not believe he will be nominated. The old soldier vote would see that he was defeated."

THE National Civil Service Reform League has declared, in substance:

1. That the President has generally and deliberately disregarded the declaration in his letter to the league of Dec. 25, 1886, that "officers holding for a fixed term should not be removed during their term solely on partisan grounds and for the purpose of putting in their places political adherents of the Administration."
2. That in a survey of the whole service during the last two years and a half "there has been almost as complete a change as was practicable, since an entirely new force would have prevented the regular transaction of the public business."
3. That if changes continue in the same proportion for the remainder of the Presidential term the whole civil service, "whose smaller offices are the local headquarters of the Administration party and are often given to local editors whose newspapers are thus subsidized by the Government," will have undergone "a complete partisan reconstruction."
4. That the Administration is not, in the strict sense of the term, a civil-service reform Administration.
5. That in the recent Higgins-Raisin case at Baltimore the July circular of the President was neglected with impunity, "and should the defiance pass unremarked it may be regarded as withdrawn."

It would seem that the Mugwump is not happy and that he is not unanimously in favor of Cleveland.

MAYOR HEWITT, of New York, has written a strong, level-headed letter which shows his superiority to the small-bore politician of the day, and indeed to the majority of self-seeking demagogues who are so conspicuous in politics. He says in answer to some application for office based upon the applicant's nationality:

I do not recognize the claim of any nationality to appointment to office, and I regard all American citizens, whether native born or naturalized, as standing exactly upon the same level. If, in filling the offices to which I have the appointive power, I should find a citizen of German birth better fitted for the place than one native born, I shall not hesitate to give him the appointment. The test with me will be fitness—not nationality.

This is a well deserved rebuke of the vicious habit in all cities of dividing the spoils in accordance with the various birthrights of the voters. It is vicious because it at least forces an official to appoint an inferior man to an office. It is still more vicious because this appointee represents not American citizens, but voters who think more of the country in which they were born and the race from which they sprang than they do of the country to which they have come. They generally owe to the United States a degree of prosperity and happiness they never knew in the old country. They have a vote and voice in its affairs, which were denied them in the land of their birth. Yet they employ their influence and votes in insisting upon the honor and distinction of their old rather than their new nationality. They put the old nationality first. They are not Americans, but German-Americans, Irish-Americans, Polish-Americans, Bohemian-Americans. They demand offices for their "fellow countrymen," that is, their "old country;" they ask for privileges because they are Germans, or Irish, or Poles. They even bring European quarrels and hatreds into American politics, and are jealous if "Irishmen" or "Germans" get more than their share of the offices. If the French or the Orangemen were more numerous similar feuds would be lugged into American politics.

This is wholly vicious and un-American, and Mayor Hewitt is quite right in his condemnation of it. Indeed it was high time that some one did rebuke it sternly and independently. For to-day the nomination of Mr. Blaine is insisted upon because he is a friend of the Irish. But the Irish do not live in America. They live in Europe. The Germans do not live in America. They live in Europe. Only Americans live America. Mr. Hewitt deserves high praise for calling attention to a fact that is too often overlooked.—Detroit Journal.

SINCE the days when he traveled through Great Britain—north and South, east and west—denouncing the Bulgarian atrocities and heaping ridicule and contempt on the jingo policy of Lord Beaconsfield, Mr. Gladstone has not been as aggressive, confident, hopeful and enthusiastic as he seems to be now. Saturday, after making an after dinner speech at one of the Liberal clubs, he drove off to a mass-meeting of Radicals in another quarter of the British Capital and delivered a long address worthy of the palmiest days of his eloquence. The old rhetorician poured a withering fire of invective, scorn, sarcasm, and ridicule into the ranks of his opponents, tore their flimsy policy to tatters, reviled them to have it out again with him in the open political field. At the rate the Grand Old Man has been going for the last month we will soon have him addressing gatherings in every nook and corner of England, from railway platforms, market carts, the tops of convenient beer barrels and door steps, as he was wont to do eight or nine years ago. Even Mrs. Gladstone cannot restrain his ardor, and he is too impulsive to wait for his usual doses of sherry and egg in order to give mellowness to his tones.

Of course there are good reasons for all this cheerfulness, and they are to be found in the recent election returns. The home-rule cause is winning everywhere, but it is gaining with special rapidity in the southern portion of England, where it was believed that the prejudice of the stolid Saxons against the Irish was invincible. Following up the splendid gains in the recent elections in Hampshire and the London boroughs the news reached the ex-Premier Saturday that the Gladstone candidate won in Gloucestershire the day before by a large majority—that the "state of the poll" showed that the mugwump Liberals had returned to their allegiance to the number of 500, and that the Tories were losing ground. The indications from the constituencies in which contests are going on are also favorable. Hence the veteran leader of the English Liberals feels encouraged and joyous. He does not care a fig about the billingsgate of the retainers and relatives of the Orange Tory aristocrats. His cause is winning, and he will be in his rightful position as the Premier of Great Britain probably before another year opens.—Tribune.

FAYETTE.

The Depere had a large number of passengers last Thursday as usual, some of them stopping off to recruit up and enjoy a week camping out.

There are ten tents and forty-one people camping on Mount Pleasant and as many more at the hotel.

The raffle and dance given by W. W. White was a success. We were unable to learn who the lucky person was.

Miss Nellie Wright returned from Depere last week accompanied by her mother, she has resumed her position in the Jackson Iron Co's store.

On Monday the 25th, the band came out to serenade some visitors. They did very well until they tried to play "Climbing up the Golden Stairs;" they were playing the last change and were nearly to the top of the stairs, when the cornet players concluded to stop and take a rest, which sadly marred the effect of the piece. In a remarkably short space of time the coat tail of the last one was seen disappearing up the boarding house stairs.

The young people from Joliet, who are camping here will give a social party just before leaving for home. When these jolly (et) people once make up their minds to have a good time, they have it.

The Hotel Shelton has been rushed to its utmost capacity the past week. Among the many sojourning here were Mr. Samuel Mitchell, Pres. Jackson Iron Co., his wife and family, Miss Nellie Scott and Mrs. Capt. Jno. Mitchell, of Negaunee, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walters and daughter, of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Perkins and daughters, of Norway, and Messrs. Saunders and White and Miss May White, of Cleveland. The latter trio have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mitchell at Negaunee for several weeks and they return home well pleased with their short vacation.

The Jackson Iron Co. has purchased another scow to carry coal from the different sets of kilns and wood from Summer Island.

The service of christening has not yet been gone through with, though it is generally known "Capt. Evans." Messrs. Winters & Evans should feel proud of the uses to which their names are put.

Miss Marion Tyrrell, of Escanaba, is visiting her cousin Miss Anna Tyrrell at South River. Miss Tyrrell appears to greatly enjoy the beauties of our town.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances. E. G. LOVE, Ph.D."

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. H. A. MOTT, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology."

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome. S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, New York, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair-minded person of these facts.

* While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

New Ore Docks.

The dredge of the Northwestern company is at work between No. 3 ore dock and the breakwater deepening the slip. The work is preparatory to the building of a new ore dock. No particulars could be learned yesterday, but it is certain that the dock will be larger and more convenient than those now in use. The dock is rendered necessary by the increased traffic in prospect over the Watersmeet extension. It is hoped that it will be ready for use next spring.
