Singers win top talent spots

MICHELLE CHENARD, 14, of Germfask, sings one of three songs that won her a $25 first prize at the Manistique High School Talent Show Sunday afternoon. Runners-up in the high school drama club-sponsored event were Patty Alexander, singing and guitar playing; and Mary Orr on piano and Linda Schurbing on trumpet performing "The House of the Rising Sun."

Paper mill granted tax aid

Improvements underway

The State Tax Commission has granted the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. tax relief on a record $5 million investment into plant expansion and new equipment to increase the local mill's productivity.

The mill received its industrial facilities exemption certificate last week in a letter from Edward W. Kane, administrator for the State Tax Commission. The certificate will enable the company to make the plant improvements without sustaining higher assessments on the specified areas of investment for a 12-year period.

Construction has already begun on parts of the upgrading project, most of which is scheduled for completion by mid-July.

Three areas of improvement were listed in the district designated for tax relief. —the waste paper mill, where masons are now constructing a new tile chest to process raw pulp rejected in the screening process.

—paper machine equipment replacement and modification to advance the design speed from 2,000 feet per minute to 2,500 feet per minute.

—boiler expansion to meet expanding production of the mill. This phase of the project is expected to be completed by the fall.

Leif Christensen, vice president and general manager of the company, said the improvements will enable the mill to increase its output from 55,000 to 67,000 tons of paper per year.

The rise should make the mill more competitive with others in the industry. Christensen said. He cited an Illinois newsprint manufacturer that has three times the productivity of the mill's present output, at essentially the same wage rates.

The tax district contains $1,624,256 worth of existing obsolete industrial property according to the 1976 State Equalized Valuation.

Though the exemption certificate will postpone a valuation rise in the area affected by improvements until 1990, Christensen expects the mill's annual tax payments to grow anyway.

"We fully expect in our forecasting that our taxes to the city of Manistique will continue to rise, even if there are no increases in the tax rate," he said. "They will continue to rise because ongoing improvements will continue outside of the tax rehabilitation district." The mill currently pays 20 percent of all the property taxes in the city.

He added that a $1 million secondary effluent treatment plant underway will provide no benefit to the company.

The plant filed for tax relief on the $5 million investment last year under State Act 198 of 1974. In making the application to the state, the plant declared that more than 50 percent of the waste paper mill, paper machine and steam plant needed replacement, restoration, renovation or reconstruction to attain and preserve an economically efficient operation.

The plant's plan to participate in a tax abatement district was approved in sequence by three local taxing units: the City of Manistique, the Manistique Area School District, and Schoolcraft County.

Christensen said the investment by Field Enterprises Inc. of Chicago is the largest in the 59-year history of the mill. The last major improvements were made on the paper machine in 1971.

The mill is the only newsprint manufacturer in Michigan, and 40 percent of its production is of such paper for primarily small and medium-sized daily and weekly newspapers in the state.

The firm also produces drawing and teletype paper and other ground wood papers, all on the open market.

IT LOOKS LIKE KING KONG'S cage, but it's actually in the process of becoming part of the Manistique Pulp and Paper Company's $5 million project to upgrade and expand the mill. The iron shown here will reinforce a tile dump chest that will have a capacity of 100,000 gallons, tripling the size of a current chest holding a mixture of wood fiber and water in the plant's waste paper mill. ## There's a reason roads are slick

by Mark Eisenlohr

Michigan's winter wonderland may become one of puzzlement as motorists drive the remainder of the winter on roads that will not be as ice-free as in past years.

The clean pavement era, or the policy of providing June driving in January, has stopped. It's highly unlikely that it will resume again in the future, at least according to the State Department of Highways and Transportation which has adopted a new policy of using less salt on the roadways.

Reasons for the new policy were numerous, but on the top of the list were ecology and the high cost of procuring, storing and spreading the salt.

Ernie J. Wiedenhofer, a U.P. district engineer for the Department of State Highways and Transportation, said that the number of accidents and traffic problems would not likely increase because of the new policy.

"I don't believe the number of accidents or the effect on traffic will be that different," said the Newberry based Wiedenhofer. "When conditions are icy the traffic is usually slower anyway. It's a matter of discretion on the motorist's part."

Sodium Chloride, or rock salt, is spread on the roads when conditions are right to prevent the roads from freezing into ice. Traffic turns the hard salt into a saline brine which has a lower freezing temperature than water. Snow plows can then remove this brine leaving the roads relatively dry and clear.

"The state has had a policy of maintaining dry pavements during the winter months," Wiedenhofer said. "By applying the salt at the proper hours and the proper temperatures we believe a 10 percent savings would not effect the conditions of the roads." By comparison, Wiedenhofer said the cutback would result in the same amount of salt being used on the roads as was during the winter of 1967 and 68.

Last year the state spread an average of 500 pounds of salt per mile of road, or 330,000 tons. They hope to reduce that to 300 pounds per road mile this year. But because of the unusually harsh winter Wiedenhofer said that it probably would not be achieved this year.

Ecological problems created by the salt also created a major factor in reducing the salt use, according to Wiedenhofer.

"It has created a tremendous build-up on the side of the roads which has killed vegetation," the engineer said. He added that the saline content of the Great Lakes water region has been increasing over the past 10 to 15 years as a result of salty brine seeping into water supplies.

Wiedenhofer admitted that the state in the past been careless with the salt application, usually using more than is needed.

But he added that in past years equipment used to spread the salt on the roads was probably not the best.

"Today we have better salt spreading equipment with metered devices that control the flow of salt more economically and efficiently," he said.

"We have not been the big violators of salt usage," Wiedenhofer said about the Upper Peninsula. "Lower peninsula areas such as Detroit where they get rain and drizzle with warmer temperatures have a tendency to put it on heavier."

The state's new policy will only allow salt to be used when temperature is 22 and rising.

Schoolcraft County has no immediate changes planned in snow removal but a spokesman for the road commission indicated that its policy has never been one of heavy salting.

Joseph De Winter, superintendent and manager of the road commission, explained that salting can cause more problems if not done at the right time.

"During high winds we don't salt because it tends to cause blowing snow to stick to the road creating drifting problems rather than just blowing across the roads," De Winter said.

The Automobile Club of Michigan has issued a warning to motorists regarding the new salting policy and advised them to stay off of the roads during periods of heavy snow.

"Our decision could have an adverse effect on Michigan's winter tourism industry such as ski and snowmobile resorts, lodging facilities and on truckers and firms depending on a highly mobile sales force," said James Moffat, auto club general manager.

"Tourism is Michigan's second largest industry and winter travel brings $800 million, or 20 percent of total yearly tourism revenue, to Michigan," Moffat said.

"The State Highway Commission's decision to use less salt on snow-covered roads means that driving has become more difficult and hazardous than in previous years," he said.

The auto club adds that most county road commissions in Michigan have reduced or, in some cases, nearly eliminated overtime plowing and salting.

In the past, highway crews made more use of cinders and sand or other abrasives. Sand fell out of favor because it eventually ends up in the drainage ditches on the side of the highways and has to be dug out in the spring. If the sand is not removed, it clogs the drainage systems and causes flooding and sewer and storm sewer back-up problems.

To avoid flooding problems in the spring, snow removal teams have turned almost exclusively to de-icing by salt. In all, 20 states in the eastern and north central sections of the country use more than 90 percent of all chloride compound deicers. Ohio, Michigan, and Minnesota are among the top five users.

SHERWOOD HARRINGTON, driver for the Coastal trucking firm, talks with Manistique Public Safety Officer Thursday morning after his truck trailer jack-knifed at the U.S. turn from Maple to Elk Streets. Harrington said he was trying to avoid a collision with a car coming from the opposite direction when the braking truck caught a front tire on the snowbank and the trailer slid ahead. Harrington, who said it was his first accident in 25 years of professional truck driving, said he was delivering a latex mixture to Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. A wrecker pulled the truck free. # Showando Feb. 8

Boy Scout Troops 400, 401 and 402 and Cub Pack 402, in observance of Boy Scout Week will present a scouting show on Tuesday Feb. 8, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Manistique High School Cafeteria.

The show is designed to demonstrate various scouting skills in the area of first aid, knot tying, pioneering and craft skills. A feature of the Cub Scout display will be a Pinewood Derby race. Visitors to the Showando will have a chance to try and learn skills and also find out more about the scouting program in the area.

Following the Showando the scouts and scout leaders will participate in a scouting rededication ceremony. This will take place in the MHS auditorium. This program will also involve area scouts presenting skits. The public is invited to this event.

Scout Week begins with the observance of Boy Scout Sunday in area churches on Feb. 6.

1st college game a homecoming for 6 Emeralds

It'll be homecoming for six former Emerald cage stars when Bay de Noc Community College and Lake Superior State College's JVs tangle Tuesday night in the first college game ever in Manistique.

"Tough is it won't be easy for most local fans to decide which team to root for. That's because the Emeralds alumni talent is represented on both teams.

Four former Emeralds—Jim Ebli, Scott Harrison, Jay Keticik and Bill Pistulka—are playing for Bay de Noc, and two more—Jim Nelson and Guy Thorell—are on the Lake Superior JV roster.

Tip-off is set for 7 p.m. at the Manistique High School gymnasium.

Proceeds from the contest, being called a "basketball appreciation game," will go into a special Manistique High School Scholarship Fund, with one scholarship to each college.

Bay's Norsemen stood at 9-7 on the year going into a home game with Suomi College Wednesday night. The squad has some good size with 6-foot-9½ center Paul Haas, and a solid shooter in Pistulka, who holds Bay's all-time record for most points in one season, 413 last year.

Ebli, another letterman, also is a regular. Harrison and Keticik are in their first year on the college squad.

For Lake Superior, Thorell has seen action on both the varsity and junior varsity while Nelson, a sophomore, has seen plenty of action on the JV squad.

Tickets for the game are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. Members of athletic teams at the high school will be admitted free.

Momentum? Emeralds host Gwinn, Big Bay over weekend

The Manistique Emeralds enter the stretch this week in their race for an exemplary season.

Some of the toughest tests lie ahead, though, for Coach Seb Rubick's squad. The Emeralds, 8-3, face Gwinn Friday night and Big Bay de Noc Saturday night in an important two-game weekend home stand.

Performances this week may set the pace for confrontations with state-ranked Negaunee on Feb. 11 and Class A rival Escanaba on Feb. 22.

On Friday night, the Emeralds survived the "pit" at Munising and emerged with a 74-65 win in the small Mustang gym.

The Mustangs were without the services of their leading scorer, Dave Klosowski, but the Emeralds still had a fight on their hands in the early minutes of the game.

Manistique trailed at the first stop, 14-12, but exploded for 19 points in the second period to Munising's 12 and built upon the lead in the second half.

John Pistulka had a fine night, sinking 12 of 18 field goal attempts, 9 of 12 free throws and grabbing 16 rebounds. He finished with a career-high 33 points.

As a team, the Emeralds fired in 29 of 62 from the floor for a 47 percent average. The Mustangs netted 27 of 69 for 39 percent. For its first 11 games, Manistique has hit 46 percent of its field goals to 43 percent for their opponents.

Leading scoring averages are held by Pistulka, 19; Rick Berger, 16.7; Don Videtich, 11-5.

On Friday, Kevin Patz came through with 10 points to aid the winning cause. Team summaries:

Manistique—Masters 2-0-2-4; Pistulka 12-9-3-33; Patz 4-2-2-10; Berger 4-0-1-8; Videtich 2-2-0-6; Taylor 2-1-2-5; Kaiser 3-2-1-8; Strasler 0-0-2-0; Goudreau 0-0-1-0; Lee 0-0-2-0. Totals: 29-26-16-74.

Munising—K. McNelly 3-0-5-6; Pirlot 0-2-1-2; Niemi 5-2-3-12; Boucher 1-0-0-2; McNally 3-2-0-3; Peters 0-0-3-0; Storm 9-3-4-21; Hill 1-0-1-2; Pertulla 1-0-5-2; Daniels 4-2-0-10. Totals: 27-11-22-65.

Big Bay de Noc keys for Manistique game

Big Bay de Noc's Black Bears will have plenty of incentive when they face Manistique on the Emeralds' court Saturday night.

It may be their last crack at Coach Seb Rubick's team.

"We're ready for Saturday night," Big Bay Coach Dave Pelletier said. "It might be our last game with them."

Pelletier noted that with Manistique's entrance into the Mid-Peninsula Athletic Conference in 1977-78, the Bears may not find a place on the Emeralds' basketball schedule.

Big Bay also will be coming off a well-played game against Perkins. The Bears shot 47 percent in losing the home contest in double overtime, 77-75.

Perkins, which hit at a 49 percent clip, led by as much as 8 points in the first quarter, but the Bears slimmed the margin to 37-34 by the halftime break.

The game was tied several times in the third and fourth periods. A basket by the Bears' Jody Stikoski tied the game at 67-67 to necessitate an overtime period. Perkins overcame two-point Big Bay leads in the overtime to take the victory.

Kevin Miller led the Bears with 23 points. Greg Pelletier netted 14.

The loss sent the Bears to a 7-8 record on the year.

Big Bay notched the seventh win with a 68-53 decision over Eben Friday night.

The Bears overcame a 14-11 first period deficit and led 27-26 at halftime. Big Bay gained some breathing space in the third period, easing out to a 47-40 advantage and breezed to the win in the final frame.

Team summaries: Big Bay de Noc—Roder 1-0-2-2; Tatrow 2-2-5-6; Pelletier 9-3-0-21; K. Miller 11-1-0-23; J. Miller 5-0-3-13; Sitkoski 1-0-3-2; Spaulding 0-0-1-0; Parkinson 1-0-1-2; Peterson 1-0-1-2; Lucas 0-0-1-0. Totals: 31-6-17-68.

Eben—Chartier 7-2-1-16; Lammi 5-0-1-10; Kirby 1-0-3-2; Maki 6-2-3-14; Carradino 0-3-1-3; Smith 0-2-1-2; Hakanen 3-0-0-6. Totals: 22-9-10-53.

Frosh rip Munising, 64-41

The freshman Emeralds extended their season record to 6-3 with a 64-41 victory over Munising on Friday night.

After playing even with the Mustangs in the first quarter, 13-13, the Emeralds opened up a 33-22 halftime advantage and inched it ahead to 45-32 at the third stop. Manistique thumped its rivals 19-9 in the final frame to pad the win.

Leading the Emeralds' scoring were Ben Godlewski with 22, followed by Paul Culey with 17, and Jeff Savoie, 9.

"Jim Demers and Brian Hewitt played great games as substitutes to get Manistique through some foul trouble early in the first half," Coach Mike Oas said.

Behind the rebounding power of Culey, Savoie and Godlewski, the Emeralds dominated the backboards.

Three-point first period dooms JV Emeralds, 59-46

A three-point first quarter proved to be too much to recover from as the Manistique junior varsity cagers fell to Munising 59-46 Friday night.

"I think that first quarter killed us," Coach Bob Ryan said. "We couldn't buy a basket."

Meantime, the Mustangs produced 13 points in the first stanza and were never headed in the contest. The Emeralds trailed at halftime, 28-21 and at the third stop, 40-29. Pacing the Munising victory was Owen Marble, with 26 points. For Manistique, Jim Curran led with 13 and Gary Keticik picked up 11. Coming off the bench, John Villemure pumped in 8 during the fourth quarter.

With the loss, the Emeralds record stands at 7-4. The team returns to action with a two-game home stand this weekend, Friday night against Gwinn, and Saturday against Big Bay de Noc.

Wrestlers gain gold from Rudyard meet

The Manistique Emerald grapplers came home with some gold following Saturday's invitational wrestling meet at Rudyard.

Heavyweight Jay Bowman pinned two opponents to take the first place rating for his class. Kevin Beckman (178) and Brian Fountain (165) both took second place silver medals in their respective weight classes. Jeff Tufnell (105) captured third place for his bronze medal.

Coach Paul Cappoferri commended his wrestlers saying, "It was the best we've wrestled as a team. 5 places out of 11 isn't that bad."

"Third place winner Jeff Tufnell had some pretty stiff competition. One was a previous U.P. champion in the 98 weight class and the other was a runner-up in the state finals for the 98 weight class," Cappoferri said, describing the type of competition they meet.

Cappoferri said he was "pleased" with the wrestling and the over all aggressiveness of his grapplers.

Rick Cook in the 132 class took a fourth in that meet.

In Tuesday night action against Negaunee, the Manistique Emeralds didn't fare as well, though, as they accepted a 48-28 defeat on their home floor.

Cappoferri said that the wrestling was not as aggressive as Saturday's and the over all wrestling was "not very good."

The summary for Tuesday nights game:

- 98: Weber (N) forfeit
- 105: Champion (N) forfeit
- 112: Champion (N) pinned Leney
- 119: Hosking (N) pinned Holmberg
- 126: Schoonver (N) pinned Swanson
- 132: Rick Cook (M) default over Baldisari

- 138: Tinknel (N) forfeit
- 145: Rivers (N) pinned Traven
- 155: Brown (N) dec. Hicks, 10-3
- 165: Pelon (M) pinned Rivers
- 178: Beckman (M) pinned Beaudry
- 191: Fountain (M) drew with Clark
- Hvywt: Bowman forfeit

The Emeralds wrestlers next home game has been set for February 9 when they host Gwinn.

Coach Cappoferri added that starting Thursday today, Feb. 3, Jr. High wrestling begins with the first practice at 5:30 p.m. at the Manistique High School gymnasium. The Jr. High program will meet for practice every Monday and Thursday night from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

The Emeralds were handed a 50-15 wrestling defeat by the Munising Mustangs earlier that week when the Emerald grapplers won only three matches in play against the Mustangs last Thursday, Jan. 27.

Brian Fountain (165) and heavyweight Jay Bowman claimed pins, and Jeff Tufnell won on a decision for the Emeralds points.

The summary:

- 98: Hill (Mun) won by forfeit.
- 105: Tufnell (Mstq) dec. Peck, 6-0
- 112: Peters (Mun) dec. Leny, 4-1
- 119: Schultz (Mun) pinned Mohn
- 126: Perry (Mun) pinned Swanson
- 132: Fredrich (Mun) dec. Coods, 3-2
- 138: Case (Mun) won by forfeit
- 145: Cook (Mun) pinned Traven
- 155: Perry (Mun) dec. Bertrand, 12-9
- 165: Fountain (Mstq) pinned Hill
- 178: Buchman (Mun) pinned Beckman
- 191: Sadler (Mun) dec. Pelon, 14-0
- Hvywt: Bowman (Mstq) pinned Johnson.

Installing a wood stove only part of precaution

Proper installation of a coal or wood-burning stove in the home is only half the effort necessary for fire safety. The counterpart is operating it correctly.

"Most stoves are intended as auxiliary sources of heat and should be used as such. They are not trash incinerators nor blast furnaces. Firing a stove until it's red is asking for trouble," says Dr. Richard G. Pfister, Michigan State Extension safety engineer.

A major problem with wood burning is possible buildup of creosote and soot in the stovepipe and chimney. On new or clean burning installations, a vigorous tap on the stovepipe with index fender results in a characteristic "ting." When that sound changes to a muffled sound there probably is a substantial amount of soot or creosote built up in the pipe and chimney. This may lead to a dangerous chimney fire unless cleaned out.

Various chimney cleaning methods can be employed such as using a rope to lower and raise tire chains inside the flue or tying a rope to each end of a burlap sack filled with straw or chicken wire and pulling the sack up and down the chimney flues.

Chimney fires are usually started by too large fires that result in a mass of burning material roaring up the chimney. Problems can also be caused by burning paper, excelsior, twigs or other light material that roar up the chimney with the draft wide open.

If you have a chimney fire, call the fire department. If firemen don't arrive quickly, an air-tight stove is an advantage. Control the fire by closing the damper on the stove to reduce oxygen supply. The damper must be solid and stovepipe connections must be tight for this to work. If your damper is a ventilated type a second damper with solid core may be added to cut off the air between chimney and stove. A sound chimney with no other stovepipe connections is also needed, and this is another reason why one stove connection per flue is wise.

NFPA says that while awaiting arrival of fire fighters, the blaze may be controlled by dumping a large quantity of coarse salt (the type used to melt ice on walks) into the fire chamber of the stove. In a fireplace, water can be poured on the fire and then embers covered with a water soaked rug or blanket. DO NOT put water in a wood burning stove or into the chimney itself because of the hazard of steam explosion or the possibility of cracking the stove firepot or the flue liner. A good safety measure would be installing smoke detectors in strategic locations within the home. Smoke detectors installed just outside bedroom areas on the ceiling or wall provide basic protection in the average home. The ion-chamber detector (battery or electric power) and the photo-electric detector (electric power only) are both effective.

The photo-electric unit is probably the best for use on the ceiling near a room containing a wood or coal stove because it would be less likely to false alarm during or after fueling.

When possible, burn only dry, well-seasoned hardwood which has been dried at least six months. Seasoned wood produces less creosote; and common hardwoods such as hickory, oak, ash, beech, hard maple, elm or cherry provide 20 to 25 percent more usable heat when dry.

Softwoods (conifers) such as the pines, spruces, cedars, firs, etc. have a high resin content which can cause heavy creosote buildup. There woods should be avoided perhaps for an occasional piece to produce a nice aroma.

Do not burn green wood, because it also can create creosote problems. With some experience, you can spot it easily; it's heavier and looks different from the seasoned material. Seasoned wood often cracks radiating outward from the center toward the bark, like spokes in a wheel. Green wood won't show much of a crack pattern. Green wood also produces less usable heat as considerable heat is used up evaporating the water.

If you intend to burn coal in your stove, make sure that it is designed for it. Look through manufacturer's instructions or ask your dealer about the unit's capability. Coal has a greater heat value than wood but releases more carbon monoxide and other gases. Unless the stove is specifically built for burning coal, gases may escape into the home.

Ashes should be placed in a metal container with a tight-fitting lid. The closed container should be placed on the ground or on a noncombustible floor, away from combustible materials. Ashes should be kept in the container until all embers or cinders have cooled.

How we know it's cold

FAYETTE—Seventeen years ago the U.S. Government set up a weather station next to the home of Mrs. Harold Stern of Burnt Bluffs, Fayette and asked her if she would record the information.

So once a day Mrs. Stern records the information and tabulates the results, which she sends in to the National Climatic Center in Asheville, North Carolina once a month.

The weather station, the only one on the Garden Peninsula, is set up to read the current temperature, precipitation and the high and low for the day.

Occasionally, when the snow is deep, Mrs. Stern finds it quite a chore to reach the weather station at 3 p.m. every day when she takes the information.

Calls regarding weather information on particular days or a span of time come from different government agencies. Past weather information is also valuable in planning the introduction of a new fruit or vegetable to the area.

The station is checked twice a year for accuracy of the equipment by the government, which sets up the weather stations away from buildings for complete accuracy.

Mrs. Stern has received two pins from the government for her work; a 10 year pin and another on her 15th year of service.

Prior to Mrs. Stern, Adele Elliot recorded the information for the government.

Weather can't stop ground fires

Even with all the positive scientific data floating around in support of conflicting theories that the earth is getting warmer, colder, wetter or drier, it's a cinch that none of those involved would dare forecast the possibility of a winter fire season in the U.P.

It started in Dickinson County on Dec. 6 when an ice fisherman reported a ground fire on the shore of Long Lake, just south of the Baraga County line. With two feet of snow for starters, the fire officers who checked out the smudge were certain that winter would take up where their suppression action left off but a follow-up inspection just before Christmas averaged the fire was still smoldering. More grubbing and snow-shoveling were in order.

On Jan. 20, 1977 in sub-zero weather and wallowing snow, Forest Fire personnel from Crystal Falls paid a return visit to Long Lake. The fire had penetrated three feet into the peat over a half acre area, burning out roots and toppling several cedar trees. Tracks indicated that deer had been simultaneously enjoying the downed cedars and warm feet.

Light Side of the Outside

Meanwhile along the northeast shore of Squaw Lake in southern Marquette County another peat fire was reported to have been smoldering for two weeks and fire officers from Marquette unholstered their Pulaski's and snowshoes in to do battle. Seemed mighty strange chopping a hole in the ice to satisfy the needs of their portable pump and the hoses froze up during the briefest lull but the entire burn was ice over nicely in a few hours.

Obviously, neither of these fires are going anywhere this winter but with record low water tables and all prediction-pointing towards another dry summer ahead, it would be most unwise to let any fire get a head start. These two smudges have already proven their durability when fire index is sub-zero.

Actually, there are lots worse things than fire-fighting in January...grooming snowmobile trails in May, for example.

More than one hundred people attended a criminal justice forum sponsored by the Curtis Community Ladies Aid and the Manistique Lakes Bank Monday evening at the Curtis Community Hall.

Moderator for the evening was Cliff Lewis. The panel was composed of Judge Charles Stark of Munising, Lt. Donald Schurer of the Michigan State Police Newberry Post, and Attorney Stephan Ford of Newberry. The audience viewed the film "Critical Decisions about Crime" which depicted information on bail, capital punishment, consecutive sentencing, mandatory minimum sentencing, parole, plea bargaining and rehabilitation. The film was prepared by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan sponsored by the National Bank of Detroit.

The Curtis Quilters Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Grace Cooper and will meet next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Agnes Houseman.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Ballor returned to their home in downstate Bath, after spending a week here visiting at the home of her sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pickell on Wolf Road on the South Manistique Lake.

Big Bay board cuts lunch crew

by Eleanor LaButte

The Big Bay de Noc School Board reduced the number of school lunch personnel from 6.5 to 4.5 persons at its recent January meeting.

Board members said the reduction was made in compliance with seniority rights. In other business, two-year contracts were approved for Wally Bennette, transportation director-mechanic, and Orville Olsen, head custodian.

Bills were approved in the amount of $6,392.72 from the general fund.

A request was heard from the Senior Class for permission to have a snowmobile race as one of its money-raising projects. The board denied this request on the grounds of safety and liability for all involved.

Mrs. Joanne Potvin reported on a progress of the Special Education Study Committee. Since then a second meeting was held on Jan. 12 and the third and final meeting Jan. 24.

Mechanic Wally Bennette and Superintendent Brooks reported on the condition of the bus fleet and the need to purchase new buses yearly to keep the fleet current and to receive a larger portion of state dollars.

The Board of Education retained Thurn, Maatsch and Nordberg as school attorneys. A request from a junior to be released at mid-day was denied. The board has approved only seniors who have jobs that have been approved by the high school principal.

Policy Study Committee: On Jan. 17, the Policy Study Committee met. The objective of this group will be to review present board policy and the need for new policies.

The study committee will then recommend to the school board policies to be studied and approved. This committee is composed of a cross section of citizens from throughout the district-teachers, students, board members and administration. Persons willing to donate your time to serve on this committee may call the Big Bay de Noc office 644-2773.

The board approved the purchase of Auto Mechanic equipment (cleaning tank, brake center and air compressor). This equipment will be paid for through added cost dollars which the district receives from the Department of Education.

Big Bay de Noc Football Booster Club: The winners in the recent raffle sponsored by the Football Booster Club are as follows: $50 winner, Alfred LaVallee, Garden; $25 winner, Charles Miller, Lansing; $10 winner, Homer Turek, Rapid River.

The raffle netted $700. This is several hundred dollars short of the goal for a scoreboard. The First National Bank, Garden, has offered a $1000 donation towards the scoreboard. Since the project was started the cost of the scoreboard has risen $200. In order to prevent any further raises, the scoreboard was ordered, and whatever difference there is, the First National Bank, Garden will loan the Booster Club the money until the Club can raise the difference.

Elementary Notes: The elementary students are saving Campbell soup labels and Post cereal box tops. These labels can be exchanged for school equipment. Anyone may donate either labels.

The Parent Volunteer Training Program began Jan. 10. The parents involved in this program will attend six training sessions on tutoring techniques. The volunteer will be under the direction of an elementary teacher.

Secondary Notes: Follow-up survey for 1976 Graduates- Big Bay de Noc in conjunction with Intermediate School District is conducting a follow-up survey of all 1976 graduates. Federal law requires that this be done for vocational students but all are getting the survey.

The school board detention policy states that students may be kept after school for disciplinary reasons, to make up missed work or because of truancy. If a student rides a bus, he will be given two days to arrange for transportation. Detention will be supervised by the person assigning it unless other arrangements are made with the principal.

Effective Jan. 17, the staff has been directed to use the detention forms of discipline to help, reduce and increasing problem of tardiness, truancy and work deficiencies. Administrative implementation directives have been written and distributed to all secondary staff and students. Parents will be informed both by phone, if possible, and letter.

At a recent assembly three Senior Boys were awarded as follows: Jody Sitkoski, most valuable player; Todd LaBute, rookie of the year; William Nelson, most improved player. All other football players received letters.

Indian Enrollment: A revised student Indian count is needed to continue the Indian Education Program.

Indian Student Enrollment Certification sheets are due by Feb. 1, 1977. The next regular School Board meeting is set for Feb. 14.

Betty LaPointe named as Teacher-of-the-Month

English and communications teacher Betty LaPointe has been named Teacher-of-the-Month by the Citizens Helping Advance Needs-Good for Education (Change).

LaPointe is in her ninth year of teaching in the Manistique High School.

Following an interview with LaPointe, Change had this to say about the teacher: "Her advanced English class is designed to prepare the college-bound student in techniques that should help to make the transition from high school to college less difficult.

"Her general speech class includes high school students of all levels and her hope is for the students to be able to better communicate on a one-to-one basis, as well as improving their ability to speak in front of a group. Communication techniques consists of a variety of skills such as radio broadcasting and oratory.

"Four years ago, Mrs. LaPointe introduced an unusual topic entitled "Perspectives on Death" into the Advanced English curriculum. Considered one of the most interesting aspects of her class, the subject of death is explored from many perspectives and involves community resources as well.

"Students of Mrs. LaPointe are quick to say that her classes are always interesting because she brings so much enthusiasm to each session and relates her subject to the practical world. "My classes are like my family," says Mrs. LaPointe. One reason perhaps that students refer to her as "my favorite teacher."

"Besides teaching, Mrs. LaPointe serves as the forensics coach, which includes debate and many individual events such as radio broadcasting, speech, humorous and serious interpretation and storytelling. Last Fall, the communications class put on a play directed by Mrs. LaPointe.

"She has taught English 101 at Bay de Noc Community College and feels this experience has helped her in teaching her advanced English courses because she knows what is expected of students at the college level.

"She earned a Bachelor's degree from North Park College in Chicago, and a Master's degree at Northern Michigan University.

"She and her husband, John, have two sons, ages 2 and 8 months. Since their arrival, she has curtailed some of her outside activities to devote more time to the children. However, she still retains her position as secretary of the Youth Commission, is active in the Presbyterian Church and maintains an interest in golf.

"By stressing values as well as academics, Mrs. LaPointe hopes that her students may learn better qualities.

"Each person had dual qualities, good days and bad days," says Mrs. LaPointe, "and I try to find the good qualities in each and concentrate on them."

Change welcomes your suggestions for "Teacher-of-the-Month." Contact Doug Germann at 341-6322.

Books presented to Manistique library

LOOKING AT NORWAY by Gwynneth Ashby has been presented to the Manistique School and Public Library as a memorial to the late Kathinka Hansen.

The new publication, given by friends of the family, contains facts and figures of the land and people of Norway and Tells of the Bergen, herring, brisling, ships and shipping, farming and industry. It is superbly illustrated with scores of colored photographs.

The book is currently available for circulation.

"The Bicentennial Almanac, 200 years of America," edited by Calvin D. Linton; "Enemy at the Gates, The Battle for Stalingrad," by William Craig and "History of the Second World War" by B.H.J. Liddell Hart have been presented to the Manistique School and Public Library as memorials to the late Leon Wood.

The new publications reflect the interests of Mr. Wood and have been presented by friends of the family.

The books are currently available for circulation.

Silent movies replace vaudeville times

Jerome A. Halvorsen, of 1008 W. Shore Dr. writes:

"Recently I read your memoirs on silent movies. Yes, Manistique definitely had them too. There is one thing I'd like to straighten out, though. You mentioned Manistique having a theater on each end of town. There never was a movie house on the west end of town, but Manistique had movie houses of plenty.

"The Gero theater you mentioned started out in vaudeville times. The rear of the theater had two stories, the upper consisted of small make-up rooms and all the props hung above the stage. Anytime they needed a change of scenery they would raise and lower the scenes by rope. They could put on any type of play from comic to a court room scene. The local schools also put on annual plays there. One time between acts my father, Edward Halvorsen and my Uncle Arthur Halvorsen: better known as Hitoe; whistled while my Uncle August Bourbeau played the piano to the tune of "Mocking Bird."

"My father and my Uncle Arthur were professional whistlers and they sounded just like several canaries. These boys were well known all over town for their whistling talent.

"When vaudeville went out, Mr. Gero had silent movies in his theater. The films at that time were poorly made and as the movie would go on... well it was nothing to be interrupted two or three times, as the film would break.

"Do you remember stamping your feet until the movie would start again? Well, at the Gero theater when the Halvorsen boys were there and the film would break the boys would step in with a good whistle and keep the folks entertained until the movie would start again.

"I guess the Gero theater was then purchased by Mr. J.L. LeDuc and he called it the Oak theater. Mr. LeDuc also started the Cedar theater on Cedar Street, which had the only canopy over the sidewalk downtown. The Oak theater has been torn down and the Cedar was purchased by Mr. Reese. He then expanded his furniture store. This building is better known today as Flodin's furniture and appliance store.

"There were four other theaters on Cedar street which all had silent movies. The names were as follows; the Photo Play, the Star, Rex Theater and the Princess Theater.

"The Photo Play theater is better known today as the Males Drug Store. The Rex theater was built new, and sometime later it was purchased by Mr. Gero as it was competition.

"This theater is better known today as J.C. Penny Store. Across the street from the Rex theater was the Princess theater, which is presently the Eat Shop. The Star--well--maybe some old timer could help me out, all I know is that it was located somewhere between Males Drug Store and the State Liquor store.

"It's hard to dig up facts of the past like these as they are mostly memories with a few of the old-timers left in Manistique.

"One thing, the theaters advertised but their advertisements were printed on what were then called hand bills. When my Uncle August Bourbeau was a young boy he peddled these hand bills from house to house informing the community of the (silent) coming attractions. Mr. Harry McKarin, the owner of the Princess theater paid these boys with special colored tickets to the movies. This was sometime around 1912 from my uncle's memory.

"By the way, back then the price of a theater ticket was 5 cents. (signed) Jerome A. Halvorsen"

"Thank-you for stopping by Mr. Halvorsen. I'm sure that this will kick up a lot of memories. But I'm just as sure that more will be remembered on this. By the way, have you ever noticed that people are still stamping their feet until the movie starts up again? It would be nice to have the Halvorsen boys around again.

Mill upgrading is good news

The Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. has crossed its last apparent hurdle in obtaining a tax break for $5 million worth of production upgrading at the local mill.

Last week, the company received its industrial facilities exemption certificate, which will allow the investment to occur without a consequent rise in property tax assessments for a 12-year period.

That is good economic news for the paper company, which is the only newsprint manufacturer in Michigan, and for the community.

The plant improvements are keyed to increase the mill's output from 55,000 to 67,000 tons of paper per year. Increased productivity will better enable the company to compete on the open market in an era in which big Canadian mills are producing more and more newsprint for U.S. newspapers.

If the great investment by Field Enterprises Inc. of Chicago, the company's parent corporation, can stabilize the economic viability of the paper mill, then Manistique and Schoolcraft County will benefit. The mill is the area's second largest employer, supplying 180 jobs. Strengthening the plant's competitive stance can only help secure its position as a major source of employment.

To the Pioneer-Tribune, the health of the mill is of particular importance, as it is a local supplier of paper for our printing plant. Additionally, the forest industry in the county and the U.P., from which the mill obtains all of its wood, will benefit from the stability and growth of the local company.

But we also should note a growing effort on the part of the mill toward more contributions to the community's well-being. Its sponsorship of the recent 4-H leaders banquet is one example.

A larger one is a $1 million secondary effluent treatment facility that will help clean up the Manistique River, one of a half-dozen water problem areas on Lake Michigan. The company's compliance with Environmental Protection Agency regulation will help demonstrate its commitment to the local ecology and attractiveness of the harbor and immediate lakefront for recreation purposes.

The tax relief involved in the plant improvements will not mean a loss of revenue to local taxing units, as the county commission, school board and city council have been assured. The plant's overall tax bill is expected to continue to rise, though not so much as it would if the large investment was translated into a suddenly higher property assessment.

One can hardly begrudge the mill for seeking tax advantages through available legal provisions, as any conscientious taxpayer would. We are confident that as the mill's competitive position improves, its "good neighbor" relationship with the community will continue to grow as well.

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

as a laborer in the U.S. Army base in Northern Ireland in 1944.

Aside from that one short period, that family had been hard-core welfare recipients for around 70 years. Jimmy Breslin decided to do something about it. He would get a job for his youngest cousin.

Breslin had some pull with an American factory in the area. He made two jobs appointments for his cousin. The cousin failed to show up, later pleading illness. He was so sick he could hardly make it to the dog track, but he did, and found a bookmaker who allowed him to bet on the cuff.

Breslin decided his cousin "had a social disability which impeded him every bit as much as a broken leg prevents us from walking."

There was no background of work anywhere in the cousin's family. No experience or knowledge of normal life as we working stiffs know it. As a consequence, he was frightened by the prospect of keeping an appointment for a job. Just an appointment rattled him.

"He was not in this position because the people before him chose to be on welfare," Breslin said. "He was in this position because it was official policy in Northern Ireland for hundreds of years to deny opportunities for employment to as many Roman Catholics as possible, thus keeping the Catholics far from any chances of political power."

Breslin had been in Detroit during the 1967 riot, when Jerry Cavanagh was mayor. Upon returning from Ireland, Breslin told Cavanagh: "Jerry, don't feel so badly about the blacks on Twelfth Street. Wait until you see your own kind in action. You couldn't get a Breslin to take a job in Northern Ireland if you put a machine gun at his back."

Breslin's point was that you cannot dump crap on a race of people - black or white - for 300 years and expect them to smell the same as the dumpers. Yes.

And my point is that you cannot identify "them" from across the street. You cannot tell who "they" are by the color of "their" skin.

Pronouns come in all shades, and sometimes carry shillelachs.

Bellybuttons take dip in fashionability

Have you wondered recently, where have all the navels gone? Neither had I until this past weekend. I was going through some bits and pieces of information that had begun to pile higher and higher on my desk when I came across a column written by Durant Imboden on just that subject.

The column seemed worthy enough to be passed on, but has raised yet another interesting question. What kind of a person would write a column on navels? Maybe you can answer that after reading Imboden's piece on navels.

Pity the poor bellybutton! It's born when the stump of the umbilical cord falls away; yet its life ends, for all practical purposes, as soon as the wound has healed. From then on, no one thinks about it. Few of us care about our navels, perhaps because our navels have no way of showing that they care about us.

But it has not always been so, say the historians. The ancient Egyptians prized the navel, and many mummified belly-buttons are on display in Cairo's Belly Dancing Museum, where leading practitioners of the age-old tummy grinding art are enshrined like so many pickled herrings. (EDITOR'S NOTE: The Nasser regime put restrictions on belly dancing some years ago, but illegal "abdominal speakies" soon flourished in Cairo, Fort Said, and other major Egyptian metropolises.)

The navel has received some attention in the world of fashion during the past few months, fortunately, and leading designers are rushing to produce new belly-oriented accessories.

No longer does the well-dressed navel wear a mere glass jewel on formal occasions; today - thanks to the enthusiasm and influence of a few liberated socialites - the bare abdomen sports such novel and navel decorations as star sapphires in peace symbol shaped mountings, tiny religious statues for the faithful, miniature suits of clothing for novice nudists who feel shy unless they're wearing "at least something", and reels that store up to 20 feet of fine-gauge dental floss for use in cleaning one's teeth discreetly in exclusive restaurants.

But this new interest in the navel has yet to filter down to the masses. To quote Dr. Henry Lynt, a leading stomach surgeon and social critic, "The bellybutton is the province of a select few as far as fashion is concerned. It takes courage to come out and say, 'This is my navel - love it or leave it alone.'"

"Perhaps the opportunity to display fine jewelry is what gives these few socialites the fortitude required for such self-display. The middle-class woman who can't afford such expensive belly baubles knows that viewers will ignore her rhinestone navel filler and concentrate on her tummy's wrinkles and blemishes instead."

Still, there are favorable signs. Open Shades, the official publication of the National Association of Peeping Toms, recently extolled the navel as "unmined treasure trove, the most neglected object in the history of American voyeurism."

Beauty contest judges are predicting, furthermore, that navel shape and dimensions soon will be considered in the pageants of pulchritude that take place annually across our land.

But the most significant sign of hope for the future is the increasing attention being given to abdomens by America's youth. "I just love to contemplate my navel," reports one offspring of the electronic era. "I just look at it and pretend it's a quarter-inch TV set."

Improvements to paper machine at Manistique mill will increase output

Adults and Kids' basketball

"Blind and naked Ignorance Delivers brawling judgments, unshamed
On all things all day long."
--Tennyson

"Judge not the play before the play is done"
--Francis Quarles

Sounds like good philosophy. But how does it help the lowly elementary school basketball referee?

He's a guy who has to judge the conduct of young players—fifth or sixth graders—who are just getting their bodies accustomed to the required coordination and

Side Tracks

by Arnold Mackowski

finesse of the sport. Does he get technical and call every precise infraction or allow the youngsters to play the game within the developing limits of their ability?

And a better question: to what degree should adults be allowed to become involved in elementary school games?

The question is important, because attitudes toward sportsmanship and competition can be indelibly formed during this early stage of organized team activity.

Leaders and good team unity can be found or lost in the process of building a school sports program. Whatever the program offered, in Manistique or elsewhere, parental attitudes provide a key to success.

Adults who exhibit irritation toward officiating or coaching may be inviting defiance towards authority in their children.

For some young players, coming to grips with acquired hostility toward the judgment of their elders may have a good result if the passion can be channeled into a productive characteristic. But for others, learned hostility can lead to discouragement, a sense of failure and dropping out of competition.

To avoid the pressures from the adult world, some schools have set up intramural sports programs that encourage real leadership and competitive involvement from even the earliest grades.

The system involved appointing seventh or sixth graders as captain-coaches and co-captains of several teams evenly allotted sixth and fifth grades. Some aspiring cagers in the fourth and third grades also may land a spot on the teams.

"League play" might then be held on a Saturday morning or another time when spectator numbers would be smallest. Officiating may be handled by high-schoolers, whose "big" size from the perspective of the elementary school kid grants them almost unquestioned authority.

But the lesson is simply not one of learning authority, but learning how to compete, to understand the rules of competition, to discover the rewards of team accomplishment, and to cope with defeat.

That's a big enough packet of education, without adding the contaminating attitudes of some adults.

New US-2 route disturbing

To the Editor: (This is a copy of a letter addressed to City Manager Robert Risik)

The Manistique Pioneer Tribune of Dec. 31, 1976, was forwarded to me in Texas, and I was extremely disturbed and very displeased by the suggestion of the Manistique City Council regarding Route D for the proposed new U.S. 2 four lane highway.

The 200 block of Arbutus Avenue is one of the most attractive areas in the city. Here are many beautiful and well preserved old homes whose value would be greatly depreciated by the construction of a wide highway running through it. The entire section would be cosmetically destroyed, and those citizens who have done so much to preserve this beautiful section of the city would suffer great financial damage as a result.

One of the alternate routes suggested to the city council would by-pass this fine residential area and preclude the necessity of building a bridge across the river. It has been said that the motel owners might be hurt by a change in re-routing the highway, but I submit that a few blocks would not result in decreased occupancy for them. Locations of motels in other cities substantiate my reasoning.

I believe that it is as important to keep and preserve the good residential areas of the city as it is to preserve the natural beauty of the countryside. I recognize that there are economic factors involved, but it seems to me that the property rights of our citizens are, and should be, of primary concern when considering these factors.

The city council has a moral and social responsibility to consider the rights and preferences of its citizens. After all, it is the people who support the city with their taxes and financial contributions. The people of a city own it and their wishes and desires deserve paramount consideration.

I shall appreciate your courtesy in seeing to it that the contents of this letter are related to the members of the Council, and I fervently hope it will reach a solution fair and equitable to all the people of Manistique.

Mrs. E.T. Lundstrom

An addition to tax forum story

In an editorial page forum piece by County Equalization Director Robert M. Dawson in the Jan. 27 issue, a few lines were missing in the original copy.

The affected passage pertained to examples of how assessed valuations are determined. The complete example follows:

Example: A $20,000 home should, by law, have an assessment of $10,000.

10,000 - 20,000 equals 50 percent Ratio (Fulfills the law); consequently, if the Assessor has placed a $6,000 assessment on the property, then: $6,000 - $20,000 equals 30 percent Ratio (Does not fulfill the law)

CAA focuses on energy conservation and work programs

Meeting at the courthouse on Jan. 25, the policy advisory committee of the Manistique area of the Community Action Agency focused attention on the three-county agency's energy conservation and work experience programs.

In Schoolcraft County, 19 low income young people who attend school have been placed in a variety of part-time jobs under the Youth Work Experience Program. The jobs provide skills and training, work experience, appropriate work habits, and a source of income.

An energy conservation program, which started Dec. 15, 1975 has completed weatherization repairs on 79 homes of low income and senior citizen families in Menominee, Delta, and Schoolcraft counties.

A study by Cliff Arntzen, program director, revealed substantial savings in fuel, comparing costs for the month of December, 1975 to the month of December, 1976 and taking into consideration differences in temperatures.

Additionally, Ruth Petrich, Area Representative reported that 28 children are attending Head Start classes in Manistique. Also, the Senior Citizens Nutrition Program has increased meal service from three to four days a week, with an increase in participation.

Serving on the Policy Advisory Committee with Billie Doyle, Gloria Chandanais, Father Frank Lenz, Earl LeBrasseur, and Beth Burnis will be Lester Rogers of Cooks.

The community action office in Manistique is now located on the second floor of the new county courthouse.

Junior Steer Show entries due by Feb. 15

BEEF LEADERS:

Dick Ostrander, U.P. State Fair Manager today announced that the Junior Steer Show entries are due. Deadline date for Junior Exhibitors to enter a Beef Steer in the Junior Steer Show at the 1977 Upper Peninsula State Fair is February 15, 1977.

To obtain entry blanks for the show, exhibitors should contact the Extension Office, Courthouse, Manistique. Blanks must be carefully and completely filled out with the name and address of the exhibitor, and identification of the animal by ear-tag or tattoo. The weight of the steer, taken anytime during the first 15 days of February, must be taped or certified by a weighmaster slip from a bona fide vocational instructor or county extension agent.

All entries should be sent to the extension officer for tabulation. They, in turn, will forward the entries to the U.P. State Fair by the deadline date of February 15. Manager Ostrander reminds exhibitors that a minimum weight of 825 pounds is the weight ruling for steers to be eligible to show. This will be the Fair's 25th Steer Sale and will be held on Aug. 17.

Seventy-six steers with a weight total of 74,545 pounds were sold at the 1976 auction. The grand Champion owned by Steve Ashe of Garden, brought the top price $1.10 per pound at that show, and was purchased by the Bark River Oil Company. Dates of the "Golden Anniversary" of the Upper Peninsula State Fair are Tuesday, August 16, through Sunday, Aug. 21, 1977.

TEAM MEETING to be held on Wednesday, Feb. 2, 7:30 p.m. at the Gernfask Hall. Agenda will be to plan and coordinate the Valentine Party to be held at the Lakefield Rest Home on Ten Curves Road near Gernfask. Any teenagers 4-H or non 4-H are welcome to attend this meeting.

HORSE BOWL meeting will be held at Tenary on Feb. 4, Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Township Hall. This meeting will be a planning session for future Horse Bowl Competition and to also give input to the U.P. Fair Book should this category be implemented into the 1977 Fair.

THE 4-H AWARDS COMMITTEE will meet on Tuesday, Feb. 8 at the Extension Office at 9:30 a.m. Anyone is welcome to attend this meeting.

High reflectance of snow impairs vision

by Mark Eisenlohr

Because of the high reflectance of snow, water, and even sand, outdoor enthusiasts may be susceptible to an eye condition commonly referred to as "snow blindness."

Although usually temporary, snow blindness can impair vision sufficiently to cause accidents when driving a snowmobile, skiing or even driving a car.

While permanent snow blindness is rare, particularly in this area where bright surfaces are broken up by a myriad of objects, minor cases where the individual has trouble adjusting to darker surroundings after being exposed to bright light are possible, according to local optometrist Dr. Michael Wilson.

"Snow blindness is the bleaching out of the eye's macula to the point where the eye cannot adapt normally to indoor and night lighting levels," Dr. Wilson said. "It is caused by exposure to sun or the glare from the sun for a few hours."

The eye's macula is a small yellowish area lying slightly lateral to the center of the retina that constitutes the region of maximum visual acuity.

Dr. Wilson said it could be compared to the effect on the eyes of viewing a flashbulb popping.

"If you happen to look right into a flash from a flashgun a white spot will appear in your vision even after the flash has died," said Dr. Wilson. "This will remain for a few moments and be present no matter where you look. With snow blindness, the impaired vision lasts longer because it takes much more time from the eye to recover from the bright glare."

He indicated that unless one was on a frozen lake for an extended period of time without eye protection the chances of any serious cases of snow blindness were improbable.

"In this area, where the region is broken up by trees, bushes, houses or even people the sun glare is not that intense," Dr. Wilson said. "Most severe cases of snow blindness occur in places such as Alaska where there is miles of open snow to reflect the sun."

Dr. Wilson also explained that snow blindness can be caused by other substances such as water and sand.

"A water skier, out on the lake all day, may have trouble adjusting his vision as the sun goes down," he said. Without proper protection, the retina of the eye can also be sunburned, he added.

"When the eye becomes sunburned a swelling of the retina occurs which causes a cloudy or hazy vision that will remain until the swelling goes down," the optometrist said.

Dr. Wilson advised that as a rule, some form of eye protection should be worn when outdoors for an extended period of time. He indicated that even regular glass, specifically plastic lenses, in eye glasses can be of help.

"Plastic lenses in eye glasses protect the eye against ultra violet light," Dr. Wilson said. He added that the windshield of a car can also cut down on the amount of ultra violet light admitted to the eye, as well as the eye's own lens.

Sunglasses are the most effective means of protecting the eye and come in a variety of sizes, shapes and colors. Not all colors are best suited however, and not all sunglasses are equal in their protection, according to Dr. Wilson.

The best color for tinted lenses is medium or dark gray, Dr. Wilson said, because it does not interfere with color perception. Medium or dark shades of green are satisfactory but they do distort color perception somewhat.

He cautioned that sunglasses should be dark enough to screen out about 75 percent of available sunlight. "A good rule of thumb would be that the sunglasses are okay if you can't see your eyes when you look into a mirror," he said.

Dr. Wilson advised that for those that are on the water a lot, or for those that just want the best possible sunglasses, that they choose the polarizing lens, which actually eliminates the glare, rather than darken it as most sunglasses will do.

The human eye has its greatest acuity in the yellow-green portion of the color spectrum. Glare by definition is unwanted light. Thus a filter which would pass the right amount of yellow-green for comfort and good seeing and cause a greater reduction for the rest, and unwanted glare light, would make a proper sunglass lens.

While the basic dark green lens is usually adequate, the properties of that lens is such as that it enhances green and subdues red. Other ingredients, too should be watched for when purchasing sunglasses. It is usually best to have those which filter out ultraviolet which causes sunburn and the possible infrared heat rays which can cause some discomfort.

Photochromic glasses, those that change with the light, are becoming increasingly more popular. The photochromic glass reacts to ultraviolet light, getting darker or lighter as the amount of ultraviolet light increases or decreases. Most of these will eliminate about 75 percent of the light when outdoors and about 35 percent when indoors.

There are more types of sunglasses on the market than those offered here. Some are made for particular situations, such as a pilot's sunglasses which has a clear window on the bottom for veiling shaded areas, or a pair of sunglasses that reduce the blue rays in white light permitting clearer details and enhanced contrast.

No matter what you should decide is best for you, most optometrists will advise that you wear something for protection.

'Trouting on the Brule' book available

Editors note: Since March 1972, the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation has been involved in reprinting books and publishing manuscripts about the Upper Peninsula. Below is the seventh in a series of reviews describing the volumes, all of which are available for borrowing at member libraries including the Manistique School & Public Library.

TROUTING ON THE BRULE RIVER
"Trouting on the Brule" or "A Lawyers' Summer-Wayfaring in the Northern Wilderness," by John Lyle King, is a recent addition to the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation's shelf of historical reprints.

King's party of Chicago lawyers hooked no less than 55 trout their first day out in 1875. That "disappointing" start swelled to 149 the second day, and to 173 the third. The four man party, with two Menominee Indian guides, rapidly found its mealtime consumption trailing its fishing production.

Put their appetite for fishing raged on, and when they finally beached their canoes just above the mouth of the Brule, they carved their names into a big pine and added their total catch for the three week trip: 744 trout.

Not content to let that mark stand, King returned two summers later, and when he and three fellow lawyers again dried their lines and cased their flies and rods, they had landed 1,388 trout. In August.

More than the fishing has changed since those incredible days. "Trouting on the Brule" contains no map on which the lawyers' routes are traced, and following the landmarks cited by King on a modern map of west Iron County will quickly baffle the modern reader. Many place names have changed. Canoeers familiar with the Brule and Paint River territory above Crystal Falls will enjoy speculating about the real identity of the Sugar River-Mud Lake-Lone Grave Lake route the lawyers took from the Paint to the Brule in 1877. Those names do not appear on modern maps.

A trait more disquieting than name changes raises its head in King's travelogue, which first appeared serially in Chicago news magazines. King makes no apologies, indeed seems oblivious to the horror with which later readers might view some of his actions. He and his companions focus their single rifle on every living thing that crosses their bow: deer, fawns, blackbirds, porcupines, mink, even a wasps nest, and a low flying eagle. The mink somewhat provoked the gunnery by filching trout from the men's camp at night. The other animals draw spontaneous fire, and would leave King and his companions in grisly triumph, were it not for their ludicrously inept shooting.

King describes hiring Indian guides, buying canoes, and taking refuge from the continual rain showers in traders' houses. He praises the Indians:

"He is a natural born forester...The canoe and the redskin are the fitting complement of each other...He is a canoeist by a sort of evolution of species."

Most valuable are the notes on the landscape, wildlife and inroads of civilization in the Brule and Menominee River areas. The most memorable of these comes from King's second trip, when he can note the changes of two brief years. In 1877, the two channels of Little Quinnesec Falls were being blasted into one large chute for log drives.

Indian guides blamed the Breen Mine railroad and nearby logging for the decline in deer. (The congruence here of the Breen Mine railroad—the Quinnesec extension of the Chicago & North Western Railway—with the 1877 date cited in Mid-Pen historical reprints is helpful). And he dwells at length on the cutover state of the lower 10 miles of the Brule River: "In these passages, which were nearing us to the mouth of the river, we scarcely recognized the Brule we voyaged in 1875."

Even the mechanical means of King's two trouting trips show interesting differences from today. In 1875, their great canoes accommodated four fishermen and half the party's duffel. The full month's sojourn, including grub, guides and trainfare to Republic or Menominee, cost a mere $100.

Among the lawyers' medicinal potions, a quart of Brule River water, drunk warm by the distressed author, "helped to relieve me in the manner predicted." Another reliable potion, "to be used as an extraordinary remedy," was a bottle of 1865 Hannesey cognac.

Thus the reprinted volume forms a friendly companion to the few other "outsider's" comments on the Upper Peninsula in its formative years. Only the obscure "Hunting in the Land of Hiawatha," a 1904 account of Tahquamenon River area deer hunts by lower Michigan newsman Allen Dyer Schaffmaster, offers as full a volume of offhand observations about a limited U.P. locale by an outlander. And only the historical societies (in such original publications as Hulbert's "White Pine Days on the Tahquamenon" and Longyear's "Landlookers") can match the production of U.P.-related volumes now reprinted by the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation.

Although limited by budget to a photographic reproduction process, Mid-Pen has assembled a shelf of books about the U.P. comparable in importance to the fine limited edition reprints of such standards as Baraga's Ojibwe dictionary begun 20 years ago by Ross & Haines, of Minneapolis.

Kiwanis meet

Dave Grimes had the program for the Feb. 2 meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Schoolcraft County at the high school. The members had lunch from the cafeteria and then viewed a film.

At the Jan. 26 meeting, City Manager, Bob Risik, spoke on the new US-2 highway program. A letter was received from Robert M. Detloff, extension manager of Kiwanis International reminding the group that March 10 is the club's first anniversary.

A director's meeting was held Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. at the hospital in Jim Gardner's office.

Department of Interior Incentive Awards Program gives cash to Glen Losey

SENEY - Glen C. Losey, maintenance man at Seney National Wildlife Refuge, recently received a cash award of $50 under the Department of the Interior's Incentive Awards Program.

The program provides the vehicle for recognition of employees for their suggestions, inventions, and superior accomplishments which contribute to increased efficiency and economy in operations. Losey constructed a free-standing, easily portable exhibit on Seney Refuge and its programs. The exhibit, when set up and displayed at public functions such as county fairs, will be utilized to disseminate and distribute information to the general public about available public use activities available at the Seney Refuge. Losey was presented the check, a certificate, and a letter of congratulations from the Fish and Wildlife Service's regional director by Refuge Manager Jack Frye during a refuge staff meeting on Jan. 21.

TERRY ST. JOHN OF WESTON AVE. indulges in a rather unusual hobby during the winter months. St. John hooks his dog, a Siberian husky named Ringo, and his parents dog, a German shepherd named Sarge, to a harness made of seat belts and lets them pull him down the street, across the snow, or through the country side. St. John said he can reach speeds of 20 mph using the 9 years old German shepherd and the one year old husky. "I didn't have a snowmobile, so this is kind of my winter hobby," said St. John, who also plans on getting more dogs and possibly a sled next year. When this picture was taken St. John had been working with the dogs for about three weeks.

Russell Belleville is honored

A retirement party was held on Jan. 15th at the V.F.W. Hall in Engadine for Russell Belleville who retired Jan. 1, 1977 after working for 36 years for the Emmet Vallier and Co. He was given a plaque and a sum of money for his years of loyal and dedicated service. He also received many gifts from friends and co-workers who attended. A cocktail hour was held at 6 with dinner and dancing following.

Mr. Belleville has been active in community affairs. He served on the Engadine Consolidated Schools Board of Education for 19 1/2 years, missing only one meeting during that time. He served as President and Trustee. He resigned Feb. 28, 1969 when he was appointed Supervisor of Garfield Township, a position he still holds.

He has served on various committees and as an usher in St. Stephens Catholic Church. He was the manager of the Naubinway Baseball Team for several years in the 1950's and later the Little League Baseball team in 1962 and 1963.

He and his wife Jennie Mae have six children, Marjean Hancock of Cheboygan, Jerrold of St. Ignace, Sandra of Gaylord, Dennis of Little Rock, Ark., Victor of Lansing and Patricia who is attending Ferris State College in Big Rapids and eleven grandchildren.

Library receives grant from state

The Manistique School and Public Library recently received a $2,400 grant from the state of Michigan in aid for public libraries. In addition the library was reimbursed $400 from the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation.

The Manistique public library was also featured in the winter issue of the "Michigan Librarian" a state wide magazine on libraries.

The article covered past libraries in Manistique including the room above the fire hall and the old high school location. The article goes on to say:

"In addition to a spacious main reading room, the library has conference rooms, a public reading room, periodical storage room, workroom and separate offices."

La Leche League

The Manistique Area La Leche League will meet at the home of Joan Patz, 411 Intake Park Road, at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The topic will be "The Art of Breast-feeding and Overcoming Difficulties", led by Phyllis Burge. Anyone interested in breastfeeding is welcome to attend. For information call 341-6454.

Attendance down, racers rise to occasion

Seventeen drivers entered nine different races at the second annual Jack Pine Oval snowmobile race held Sunday, Jan. 30 at the Jack Pine Lodge 20 miles north of Manistique.

Attendance was reportedly down because of a rescheduled Traverse City 250 on the same day.

That didn't stop the local drivers nor did the cold temperatures, from competing in the individual classes, though.

About 450 people braved the zero temperatures to watch, drink and eat a little, and to have a good time.

The race was late in getting started but by 1:30 p.m. the machines moved out and three hours later the last snowmobile in the last race crossed the finish line.

Winners of the individual class races are listed below with their hometown, type of machine run and finish place.

250 junior superstock: David Fink of Petoskey, Artic Cat, first; Duane Lukkari of Mass, Mercury, second.

250 junior stock: Ron Malmberg of Soo, Yamaha, first; Jack Martin of St. Ignace, Scorpion, second; and Mike Reimer of Petoskey, Yamaha, third.

340 modified stock: Ken Truscott of Greenland, Artic Cat, first; Rodney Mylren of Mass, Sno-Twister, second; and Fred Burton of GERMfask, Artic Cat, third.

300 super modified: Richard Victorson of Newberry, Artic Cat, first; Steven Fink of Petoskey, Artic Cat, second; and Denny Rye of Pickford, Artic Cat, third.

340 Super stock: Rodney W. Mylren of Mass, Mercury, first; Bruce Ackley, of Hissel, Yamaha, second; and Hubert Lukkari of Mass, Mercury, third.

250 modified stock: Steven Fink of Petoskey, Artic Cat, first; Richard Victorson of Newberry, Artic Cat, second; and Hubert Lukkari of Mass, Mercury, third.

440 stock: Joseph Kim of Greenland, Yamaha, first; and Jerry Wachser of Greenland, Yamaha, second.

340 open: Rodney Mylren of Mass, Sno-Twister, first; Fred Burton of GERMfask, Artic Cat, second.

800 open: Fred Burton of GERMfask, Artic Cat, first; Steve Ferguson of Marquette, Mercury, second, and John P. Reidy of Munising, Rupp, third.

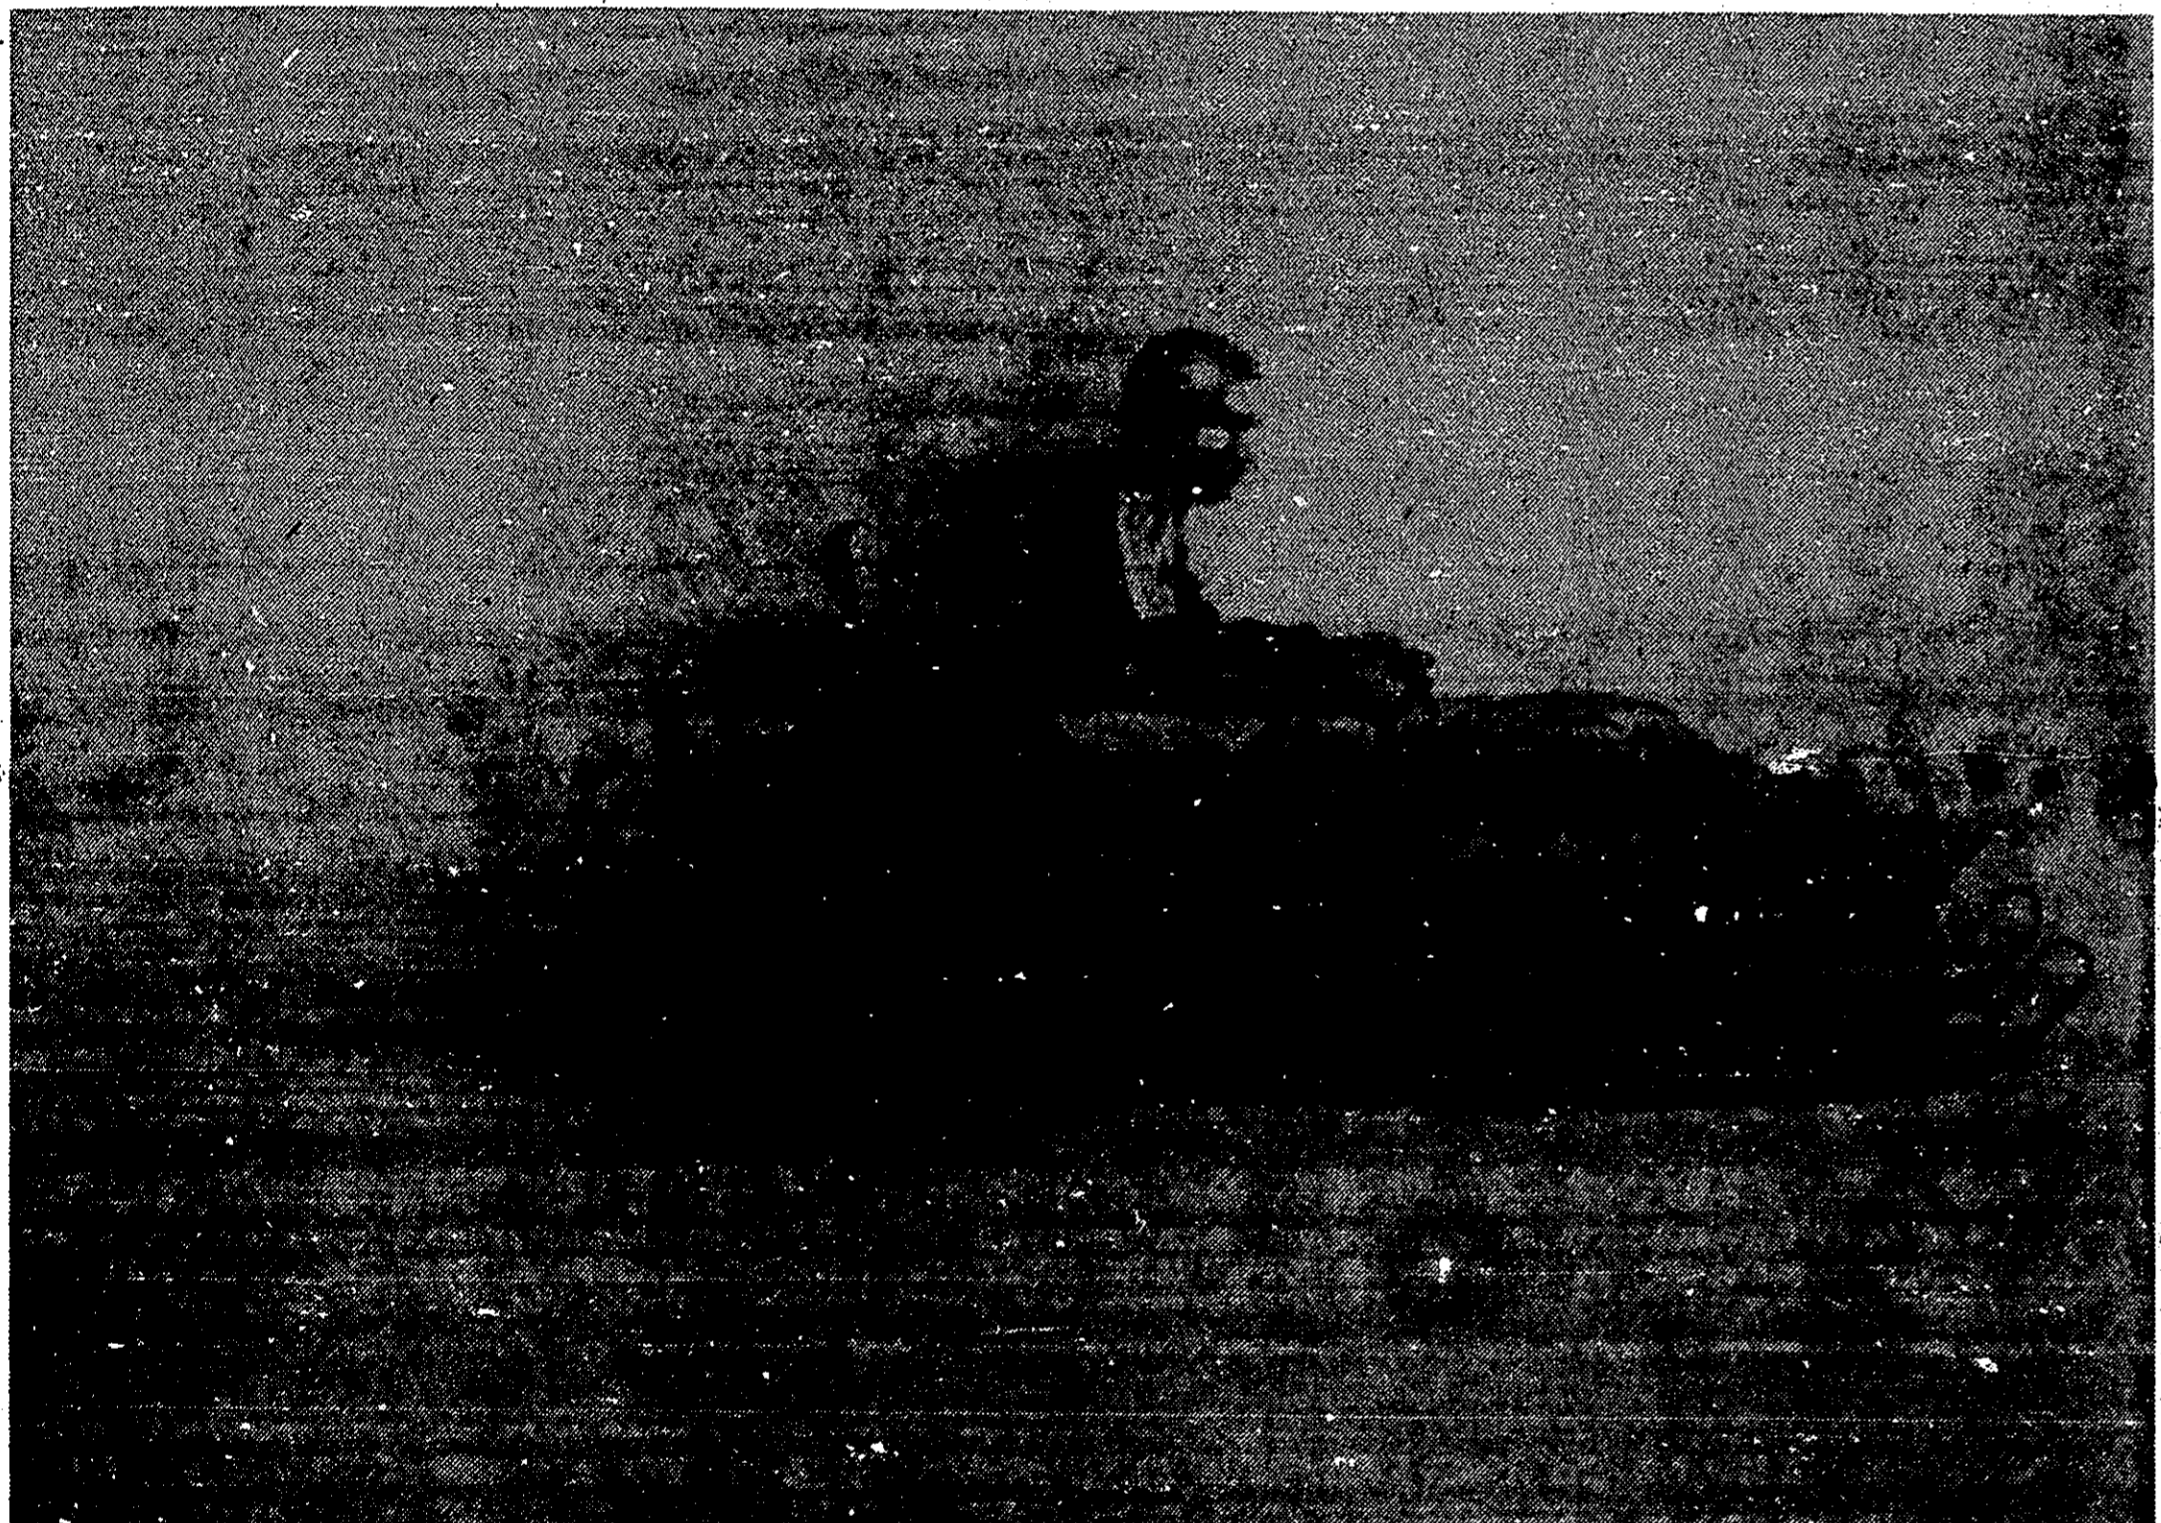

FRED BURTON OF GERMFASK won the big race of the day, the 800 Open. Burton was racing a 340 Artic Cat "Z" sponsored by All Seasons Sports of Manistique and Newberry. Race officials blamed the poor turnout and a lack of bigger machines on the T.C. 250 which had been rescheduled for that Sunday.

Second Annual Jack Pine Oval Snowmobile Race

TRACK CONDITIONS WERE REPORTED in good shape for the Second Annual Jack Pine Oval snowmobile race held last Sunday, Jan. 30. Seventeen drivers from 12 Michigan cities competed in nine different races ranging from 250 junior stock to the 800 open.

SPEED OF UP TO 70 mph were attained by the machines during the race as spectators craned their necks to see the action. Spectators were kept a good distance from the actual racetrack which prompted race officials to call it a "safe race."

Tribune photos by Mark Eisenlohr and L. Charles Frenette

DURING MOST OF THE three hours of racing the pit area was a hubbub of activity as drivers started, tested and looked over their machines in readiness for the race. Each machine has to be running perfectly and the driver in top physical and emotional condition in order to place as a finishing entry.

ACCIDENTS WERE LIMITED during the race held last Sunday at the Jack Pine Oval about 20 miles north of town. Two minor accidents occurred; with neither driver of the machines suffering any serious injury. Race officials had prepared for the worse, however, as an ambulance was kept on duty during the entire race.

Former Manistique resident receives coaching award

Bob King, who now resides at Fair Oaks, Calif. has received word that he has been named the 1977 recipient of the California Coaches Association Cross Country Coach of the Year award.

The award will be presented to him at a banquet to be held at the Jack Tarr Hotel in San Francisco on March 26.

King has been the coach at Mira Loma High School in Sacramento for the past 10 years. In that time his teams have won 112 meets and lost only 10.

He is a 1958 graduate of Manistique High School. While attending school here, he participated in all major sports. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.J. King of Route 1, Manistique.

The Juca-Super Fireplace

ATTRACTIVE
EASILY ABLE TO HEAT LARGE HOUSES WITH A DUCT SYSTEM
EXTREMELY EFFICIENT
DESIGNED TO PAY FOR ITSELF IN ONE YEAR
MANY SAFETY FEATURES
FREE STANDING OR BUILT-IN
CAPATIBLE TO PRESENT FURNACE AND DUCTS
A VERY COMFORTABLE HEAT
BUILT TO LAST
LONG LASTING FIRE

The JUCA SUPER-FIREPLACE was designed to be in the living area. The appearance can blend with any decor. Colors are available with black being standard. The base of the C-3 can be faced with brick or stone to suit your desires. Heat can be ducted up or down through a 8 X 16 duct to join your present central heating ducts. Since your old furnace can remain connected, it could be set at 65 degrees or so. Then, if you're gone more than 10-12 hours, the old furnace would automatically take over to maintain the house temperature. When you return and start the fireplace, your old furnace would automatically return to standby duty.

The JUCA SUPER-FIREPLACE has extremely high efficiency. This table shows the comparison to other heating units at normal operating conditions.

	Amount Usable Heat	Actual Heat Wasted	Approximate Heat Output
JUCA B-3	$399.50	80-90 percent	10-20 percent
JUCA C-3	$599.50	80-90	10-20
Best Woodstoves-Ashley, Riteway	35-40	60-65	25,000
Ben Franklin	25-30	70-75	15,000
Built-in Fireplace with Heatilator	25	75	20,000
Buit-in Fireplace	7-15	85-93	10,000
Other free standing fireplaces	3-12	88-97	10,000
Central Oil furnaces	70-75	25-30	100,000
Central gas furnaces	80	20	100,000
Other central wood furnaces	40	60	80,000

You can see that the JUCA SUPER-FIREPLACE is in a class by itself. The tremendous efficiency has side benefits: A much smaller fire can be used allowing long burning time, typically 8-12 hours. This slow fire gives very constant heat output over this period and there's still plenty of heat to start new logs. With a slower fire, the combustion is very complete, leaving very little ash. We clean our C-3 about once every three or four weeks of constant use. (It's a good fertilizer too.) The slower fire allows the outer surfaces to run cool. Back, front, sides and top can be touched comfortably.
