Health board backs off on service fee increases

Following protests at a courthouse public hearing last week, the area four-county district health department has dropped its proposed increases for health and sanitation service fees.

Several increases in inspection, sewage system construction permits and food service licenses were proposed by the Luce-Mackinac-Alger-Schoolcraft District Health Department, but the district health board dropped the proposal in a meeting Monday at Newberry.

Mack McDonald, environmental sanitarian who conducted the Schoolcraft County public hearing on the fee hike proposal last Thursday night, said local opposition probably had some bearing on the board's decision.

"This was the only county in which any objections were raised," McDonald said. A dozen county and township officials and interested citizens showed up at the local hearing, voicing clear opposition to the fees. Some suggested that they be reduced to alleviate an already heavy burden of property taxes and other governmental fees.

"With all these permits and fees, people have had it up to their necks," County Commissioner Lindsley Frenette said at the hearing.

Fee hikes were proposed for individual sewage disposal system construction permits as follows: one and two family residential, from $10 to $15; three or more family residential, from $20 to $25; Commercial institutional or industrial (under 2,000 gallon capacity septic tank), from $10 to $15; and the same category over 2,000 gallons, from $20 to $25.

McDonald said the fees had been proposed to help defray the costs of administering the sanitation inspection program. The amount realized through permits and inspection fees approximately equals a sanitarian's mileage expenses, he added.

The proposed fee schedule also established a $15 charge for raw land evaluation if a sewage or water permit has not been issued. For more than one lot, the charge would be $25.

A fee of $15 was proposed for collection of water samples, inspection of well or sewage system, and preparation of a report required for loan purposes. If water and sewage reports are requested separately, the proposal stated, an additional charge will be made for the second inspection and report.

The schedule also proposed hikes in annual food service establishment licenses from $15 to $20; and for temporary food service establishments, from $5 to $10.

County Commissioner Edward Way and officials from Hiawatha and Manistique Townships cited higher property taxes in the area as a factor arguing against fee hikes.

"If this is a service to the people, then give it to the people," Way said.

Frenette suggested that the public as a whole bear more of the costs of sanitation programs, as it is benefiting from health standards.

The fees were called a "nuisance tax" and a discouragement to families trying to improve their homes or more into the county.

McDonald said Tuesday that Jim Schifflet, health department district administrator, met with the health board in deciding to retain present fee levels.

The board did keep one proposal to double the permit fee for those persons caught constructing sewage systems or wells without a permit. Deliberate and persistent refusal to buy a permit carries a misdemeanor penalty, McDonald said.

The fee schedule will go to the board of commissioners in each county before becoming final.

McDonald noted that recent public hearings in the other three counties in the district drew almost no public participation. In Luce, no one showed up, while only one citizen appeared in Mackinac. In Alger County, a Delta County resident was the only citizen from the public to make it to the hearing.

VALENTINE'S DAY HAS BEEN traditionally regarded as the time when lovers, friends and spouses take time to say, "I love you." The day is chosen to honor Saint Valentine, who, according to Butler's Lives of Saints, was clubbed and beheaded in the year 270 A.D. during the persecution of Christians. A Basilica, (or memorial shrine) Church was erected in his honor, but through the centuries Valentine's Day traditionally has come to be a time to honor the better aspects of springtime and love. Mr. and Mrs. John Berger, and daughter Amy, posed for this Valentine picture for Tribune Photographer Mark Eisenlohr. Area residents are also sending their Valentine messages in a new and unique way this year—through the want ads. See page 7A for examples.

Youth commission's birthday

The Manistique Youth Commission will celebrate its first birthday today with a dinner at the Fireside Inn.

The 6:30 p.m. dinner will bring together 16 teen advisors and seven adult commissioners appointed by the city council, said Father Frank Lenz, commission chairman.

Father Lenz detailed some of the history of the commission, to be continued in a later issue of the Pioneer-Tribune.

He said the commission started from an idea that evolved during a meeting on Nov. 14, 1975, called at the high school by Betsy Carey who was a counselor at the school at the time.

A half dozen people attended that meeting and discussed how it would be possible to arrange for a drug education program in connection with counseling activities at the high school.

"It became clear right away that we had the cart before the horse," Father Lenz said. "There was no vehicle to present a drug education program that would be of personal interest to the kids. In fact that it appeared rather clearly to all the people at the meeting that there was little or no organized activity for the high school age kids in the community aside from a few sports programs at the high school."

As a result of that meeting and the discussions that ensued during the meeting, Father Frank Lenz and Betsy Carey were asked to approach the city council to discuss the establishment of a youth commission for the City of Manistique to take care of the responsibility of sponsoring social and recreational activities of some sort for the kids of the area.

The council established the commission with a resolution passed on Feb. 9, 1976.

Community center drawings due soon

Architects' preliminary drawings for a new community center will be ready by the end of the month, City Manager Robert Risik told the Manistique Rotary Club Monday.

Construction possibly could begin in April and the building could be ready for occupancy by the fall, he added.

"Hopefully, the Manistique Youth Commission and a lot of other good and worthwhile organizations in this community will be able to enjoy the uses of the Manistique Community Center before this year is out," said Father Frank Lenz, chairman of the youth commission.

The new center project will include rehabilitation and expansion of the present Youth Center building next to the city ice rink on Maple Street.

Big turnout greets 'old' Emerald stars

The final score was 82-62, but not many will remember the outcome of the clash between Bay de Noc Community College and Lake Superior State College's junior varsity Tuesday night.

It was a primarily a homecoming for six former Emerald cage stars, and it mattered less to the large throng who won the first college game ever in Manistique.

Starting for victorious Lake Superior were Manistique's 6-foot-7 Thorell and Jim Nelson, while Jim Ebbli and Bill Pistulka were in the first five for Bay de Noc.

Scott Harrison and Jay Ketcik, Bay substitutes from Manistique, also saw playing time to the enjoyment of the hometown fans.

The crowd, which swelled to more than 1,000, was the largest that either team has played before this year.

According to Manistique Athletic Director Rudy Brandstrom, a total of $472.50 was realized in paid attendance. The proceeds are to be divided equally to create a scholarship for one Manistique student attending either college.

Superintendent Richard Bonifas said at halftime that the school plans to make the game an annual event to keep the scholarship fund alive.

The Lakers took an early lead against Bay's Norsemen, building up a 39-29 advantage at the half. Bay de Noc fell further behind in the second half and pressed in the closing minutes to little avail.

Thorell netted 12 points for Lake Superior, which was paced by Jim Feldpauch's 22 points and Bob Kapcia's 24.

For Bay de Noc, Ketcik tallied 10 and Ebbli and Pistulka had 6 apiece. The Norsemen's top scorer was Paul Haas, with 14.

The Norsemen had defeated the Lakers 93-78 in January at Sault Ste. Marie.

Residents escape cold weather

For the past two weeks Mr. and Mrs. Jack Phillips of State Road were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Schroeder at their home in Los Angeles and their beach house in San Clemente. Escaping the cold weather of our area, they gloried in the 70 and 80-degree temperatures.

While in California, the Phillips journeyed north to Ventura and spent enjoyable hours trekking along the beaches of the Pacific. They traveled south to the Mission Bay area near San Diego and further south into Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were extremely proud of the fact that one evening they were invited to an Oriental dinner, and managed to use chopsticks throughout all courses of the meal, with the exception of the green tea ice cream, which they were served for dessert.

A couple of highlights during their excursion was a visit to San Juan Capistrano, and a unique and unforgettable drive through Lion Country Safari. While in San Clemente they were fortunate to have been spectators during the whale migration along that coast to Baja California waters. It was not unusual to spot playful porpoises jumping and diving among a school of whales. They described this sight as thrilling and utterly fascinating.

Feb. 14 is for 'just because'

The other day, while searching for something (I've forgotten now what it was) I opened a box that happened to be full of papers and cards saved from the kids' years in grade school. It seems odd that with Valentines Day so near that box is the one I happened to get into.

There were Valentines from all the kids at different grades, different ages. Pasted on, pasted up pieces of paper with lacy cut outs, carefully drawn hearts and cupids. Some had verses, probably copied from the blackboard. Some were truly original sentiments to "Mother and Father." Every one is a masterpiece.

There are times when I'm glad I'm a saver. Sure, its a nuisance storing and moving all those boxes of memorabilia, and falling seven years behind in the scrapbooks, but what a glorious afternoon I had looking over all those beautifully childish valentines. I hope some day the kids will have as much fun looking at their work.

February 14 is a wonderful day. It's the only time of year dedicated solely to sentiment. It's the one day when people like me who are called sentimental slobbs by those pooh-pobling such things can have

What other day is set aside on the calendar for telling someone you love them? What other day is marked for a "just because" present, or for sending a card to a favorite friend just to say "I think you're terrific?"

While I paused over the contents of the box I opened I remembered all the years of school parties and one of our boys in about fourth grade returned home after the class valentine party, his pockets stuffed with red and white candies. He was carrying his box of valentines and his slightly mashed cupcake, and grinning from ear to ear. When I commented that he looked particularly happy and must have had a good time, he replied "Yup. I like that love stuff." Well, so do I.

Bring your wife or favorite girl to a complete evening of entertainment. Fish fry and salad bar (the finest anywhere) followed by dancing to the Family Affair band.

What's Going On

by Mrs. Eunice Olsen 341-6211

Residents escape cold weather

For the past two weeks Mr. and Mrs. Jack Phillips of State Road were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Schroeder at their home in Los Angeles and their beach house in San Clemente. Escaping the cold weather of our area, they gloried in the 70 and 80-degree temperatures.

While in California, the Phillips journeyed north to Ventura and spent enjoyable hours trekking along the beaches of the Pacific. They traveled south to the Mission Bay area near San Diego and farther south into Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were extremely proud of the fact that one evening they were invited to an Oriental dinner, and managed to use chopsticks throughout all courses of the meal, with the exception of the green tea ice cream, which they were served for dessert.

A couple of highlights during their excursion was a visit to San Juan Capistrano, and a unique and unforgettable drive through Lion Country Safari. While in San Clemente they were fortunate to have been spectators during the whale migration along that coast to Baja California waters. It was not unusual to spot playful porpoises jumping and diving among a school of whales. They described this sight as thrilling and utterly fascinating.

Mrs. Raoul (Margaret) Bertrand was a guest of honor Thursday evening at a dinner party at the Fireside Inn to celebrate her birthday and wish her well on her recent retirement from Manistique Medical Center.

Negaunee biggest test yet for 10-3 Emeralds

Fresh from a weekend of subdividing Model Towners and razzlin' Black Bears, the Emeralds are poised for their biggest test yet this year—the Negaunee Miners.

Negaunee, 15-2 and ranked in the state-wide Class C polls, comes to town Friday night.

"They're a well-disciplined ball team," Coach Seb Rubick said. "They know how to win."

The Emeralds clung to enough victory-producing knowledge themselves to overcome Gwin 76-69 Friday night, and Big Bay de Noc 68-67 Saturday evening.

Their play was almost flawless in the opening minutes of Friday night's game, but the Emeralds' zone defense was bothered by the sharp-shooting Model Towners Coach Rubick reinstated a man to man in the second half, and Manistique climbed from a five-point deficit to trade leads with the visitors in the final period before blitzing to a seven-point gap in the final minute.

John Pistulka had a razor-sharp night, hitting 71 percent of his field goal attempts, 10 of 14. Rick Berger led all scorers with 28 points, including 12 free throws.

Quarter by quarter summary:

First: Emeralds 23, Gwin 16
Berger hit a quick dog shot after the opening tip and drew a Gwin foul to complete a three-point play by 7:54. Most of the period went just as efficiently for the Emeralds.

With Pistulka hitting his first five shots from the floor on drives and medium range jumpers, Manistique led 17-7 at 3:02. The margin went to 21-10 when Berger connected on a jump shot on a fast break at 1:36.

The Model Towners seemed anything but shell-shocked, answering with a jumper by Al Branda and four free throws by Ed Vanderhoff in the last bit of time to pull within seven.

Second: Gwin 21, Emeralds 11
The Model Towners slipped on a full-court press and the Emeralds' exemplary play suddenly bore some holes. Pistulka missed his first shot in the first minute of action and the Emeralds were called for a 10-second violation in trying to respond to six straight Gwin points.

Gwin's Doug Wolc knotted the score at 25-25 with a free throw at 5:18, and put the Model Towners ahead 27-25 with a 16-foot-er at 5:04.

With the Emeralds making some desperate passes against the tenacious Gwin defenders, Gwin built a seven-point lead. Shots by Pistulka, Berger and Gary Kaiser trimmed the gap to three by the buzzer.

Third: Emeralds 18, Gwin 16
Berger fed Pistulka underneath for a easy shot at 7:34 and the 6-foot-5 forward connected on a rebound shot at 7:09 to put the Emeralds ahead 38-37.

Manistique, now able to run, pushed its lead to 42-37 by 6:14 but it evaporated under the marksmanship of Wolc, who netted six points in the stanza.

By 1:10, the Emeralds found themselves behind 51-46.

A shot by Kaiser and free throws and an 18-footer by Berger returned the deficit to one by the close of the period.

Fourth: Emeralds 24, Gwin 16
The Emeralds regained the lead at 7:29 with Berger completing a three-point play. The teams swapped leads before a disgusted Pistulka drew his fifth personal at 5:36 with the Emeralds ahead, 59-58.

Gwin regarded a two-point lead, but Berger and Kaiser kept the Emeralds in it with key free throws. After Rich Henry sank a go-ahead Gwin bucket at 1:46, Kevin Patz leaped high at 1:29 to tip in a Manistique shot and the Emeralds were in front for good, 69-67.

In the closing seconds, the Emeralds put through six free throws to insure the win.

For the night, Manistique outscored the Model Towners, 34-24. They also outshot the visitors, hitting 28-33 for a 52 percent clip, while Gwin managed a respectable 26 of 60 for 43 percent.

The Emeralds weren't able to get comfortable for long, as they ran into a determined group of Black Bears Saturday night.

And they played without the services of Pistulka, who sat out the game as a disciplinary measure. Gary Kaiser started the game and Dave Taylor and Dave Strasler also saw plenty of action in the rotating line-up.

The Emeralds had their hands full with Big Bay, which was hungry for an upset after a 14-point loss to the Emeralds back on Nov. 26.

But Manistique came through with a well-balanced scoring effort in a game that saw the lead change hands 19 times, plus 14 ties.

Both squads shot around 50 percent, with the Emeralds netting 31 of 61 for 51 percent, and the Black Bears meshing 28 of 59 for 47 percent. The rebounding was nearly even, the Emeralds grabbing 28 to Big Bay's 25.

Rick Berger turned in a fine performance with 10 assists and four steals. Others, like Norm Jahn who came off the bench in the fourth period to score a key bucket, also made important contributions.

Quarter by quarter summary:

First: Big Bay 18, Emeralds 17
The Emeralds and the Bears swapped leads, with Manistique lofting shots over the Big Bay zone. Kevin Miller stole the ball twice and tallied two driving layups to spark the Garden Peninsula visitors.

Second: Emeralds 19, Big Bay 16
The Black Bears were able to penetrate the Emeralds' man to man for some short range shots, but the Manistique press succeeded in slowing down the fast-break minded Big Bay squad.

Strasler handed the Emeralds their greatest lead of the half, four points, when he sank a 15-footer at 3:02 to make the score 30-26.

Miller answered with a driving layup. An exchange of buckets and a fall-away shot by Neil Roder with 22 seconds left returned the margin to two points by halftime.

Third: Big Bay 23, Emeralds 14
Black Bear guard Greg Pelletier unloaded for five bombs in the period, while a 2-3 zone kept the Emeralds in check. After trading leads in the first half of the period, the Black Bears hit a combination of long jumpers and rebound shots to produce a seven-point lead going into the final frame.

Fourth: Emeralds 18, Big Bay 10
Kevin Patz connected for eight points in the final hair-raising eight minutes, dueling with Miller who tallied all 10 of the Black Bears' points.

Trailing 60-54, Patz hit a driving layup and Jahn sank a 13-footer to pull the Emeralds within two. After Miller hit a 21-foot jumper, shots by Kaiser and Patz tied it up at 62-62.

The lead changed hands three more times by 1:40, when Miller netted a 13-foot fadeaway to make it 67-66, the Bears' last lead. Don Videtich hit a six-footer after a rebound with 44 seconds left, and the Emeralds resisted Big Bay's frantic efforts to steal the ball in the remaining seconds.

Team summaries:
Manistique-Videtich 7-0-2-14; Jahn 1-0-0-2; Berger 5-1-2-11; Kaiser 2-0-1-4; Masters 6-3-3-15; Patz 5-0-3-10; Strasler 4-0-2-8; Taylor 1-2-3-4. Totals: 31-6-16-68.

JV Emeralds dump two foes; move record to 9-4 on year

The Manistique junior varsity cagers improved their season record to 9-4 with a pair of wins over the weekend.

Coach Bob Ryan's team notched a triumph over Gwinn on Friday, 62-53, and romped past Big Bay de Noc, 62-40 on Saturday.

Against the Black Bears, Manistique grabbed a 20-12 first period lead and expanded the gap to 28-18 by the halftime break. The margin went to 45-28 by the third stop, and with everyone getting a chance to play, the Emeralds finished the job with a 22-point lead.

Coach Ryan called the Gwin contest "one of our best games of the year, against a strong J.V. team. A good team effort."

Manistique edged ahead by the end of the first quarter, 19-18, and held a 34-28 lead over the Model Towners going into the third period. But Gwinn slipped ahead 46-45 going into the final frame. Then the Emerald defense went to work, limiting the Model Towners to 7 points in the final quarter, while the offense tallied 17.

Conservationist offers assistance

"We hope that individuals will continue to sign an agreement with the Schoolcraft Soil Conservation District so that they can develop their land with conservation in mind," says Phil Dakin, soil conservationist.

The Soil Conservation Service representative is available to assist district cooperators in the use of their land in conjunction with the conservation of its resources. Persons may contact the office in the new county Court House, 341-5853.

The SCD Directors welcome new cooperators for 1976: Howard F. Davis, Mike Stapanchenko, Marie (Baker) Sellman, Harold W. Sellman, Ronald Norris, Gerald Weber, Gerald Swagart, Emeric Bosanic, William J. Olesak, Russell King, Merwin White.

Improperly selected herbicides cause damage

County Extension

by Elvin Hepker

Movement of herbicides into and over soil is important to farmers, ranchers and others who use these materials. It is also important from an ecological standpoint. How does it effect our total environment? Such movement can cause enough loss of herbicide to reduce weed control and also increase concentration of chemicals in other areas to cause crop damage.

Two forms of movement are being studied by agriculture engineers. Downward movement of herbicides cause little problems when proper application of the right chemicals is used. It is related to several factors: solubility in water; binding of the herbicide to the soil; soil clay and organic matter content of the soil; porosity, compaction, PH of the soil and intensity of the rainfall.

Manufacturers recommend the proper form of each herbicide for each soil condition to help prevent downward movement of herbicides through the soil. When these recommendations are closely followed, few problems result and practically no crop injury.

Surface runoff poses the greatest problem in applying herbicides and also insecticides. Herbicides can be carried in surface runoff from sprayed fields into ditches, streams, ponds and other non-target areas. According to specialists, while runoff can affect herbicide performance, it does not pose a great hazard to animals and plants, even those living or growing in water, as is often charged.

These are a few practices recommended to reduce the incident to surface runoff of herbicides. Solubility in water and binding to soil particles, which are characteristics that influence downward leaching, largely determine the amount of herbicide carried in surface runoff. So on row-crop acreage it is essential to use the most soluble form of chemical available to do the job. Soil incorporation is another practice to reduce the amount of herbicide runoff. Although many selective herbicides used in row-crops may lessen movement by runoff.

The loss of herbicides understandably increases as the volume increases. Runoff losses are greatly reduced by cover crops. Even after 2-3 weeks the runoff is reduced considerably by crops such as oats, rye, wheat, etc.

Some other soil characteristics such as porosity, soil compaction and texture which affect runoff volume, affect herbicide transport in runoff.

Contour tillage, strip cropping and just leaving small grass strips at the end or side of fields will help control movement of herbicides. The grass strips retard the flow of water and tend to settle out the suspended soil particles at that point and not into a non-target area.

Herbicide damage can be a problem if herbicides are improperly selected and applied. Careful examination of the labels and other information on weed control will help eliminate herbicide damage to our crops and environment.

SCD sponsors yearly scholarship for environmental workshop

by Jon Haindl, S.C.D. Chairman

The Schoolcraft Soil Conservation District has been involved in various activities this past year.

A grain moisture tester was obtained by the district last summer. It is a useful tool for grain growers and is available at no cost. Persons may contact the Schoolcraft County Extension Service to use it.

The district's limespreader is still available to farmers at a low cost of 50 cents per ton. This has seen limited use in the past. More people are urged to make use of it. Jon Haindl, district chairman, has more information.

Every year the district sponsors a scholarship for a local teacher to attend the Higgins Lake Environmental Workshop in the summer. This past year no teacher applied so the scholarship was unused. Teachers are asked to be sure to contact the district if they have an interest in this workshop.

Soil Stewardship Week was observed by the district through the use of church bulletin inserts distributed to local churches.

A demonstration plot on oat varieties was done in cooperation with El Hepker, county extension director. The district provided the land, the fertilizer and some of the pesticides.

Farmer's Week is a big event at Michigan State University and it provides update information on equipment and farm products. The district sponsored a farmer, Russ King, to attend this event in '76.

The group purchasing of fertilizer for farm operators is still a coordinated effort with the County Extension Agent. The Schoolcraft Soil Conservation District Directors thank everyone who provided assistance for the advancement of the district's programs.

Horse and sleigh travel returns?

Memoirs

By Mark Eisenlohr

About the time you get a really interesting picture somebody comes along and makes it more interesting by telling you that it's not what you thought it was.

Such was the case last week when this column ran the picture of the road crew cleaning the roads after a relatively heavy snowfall.

Or so I thought that was what it was. Art DeMars phoned me with some thoughts that he had on the picture.

"I remember that we had a real bad storm about that time," says Art, "but I don't think it was the road they were clearing. If you look real close you can see what looks like a railroad track."

"About that time the railroad was snowed in and I think it was the railroad they were trying to dig out. The men would work in shifts so that the train could run between Manistique and Cooks."

Art also told me that normally in that era, the roads would not be plowed during the winter. About springtime a caterpillar pulling a hand made plow would clear the roads and local people hoped that they wouldn't get plugged again.

Travel during the winter was restricted to horse and sleigh or by train.

To tell you the truth, I don't think I would mind taking horse and sleigh ride today. It's unfortunate that such a unique mode of travel should become a memory, regardless of whether it proves to be an outdated or obsolete form of transportation.

I'll bet you that many a sweetheart was impressed when a young beau came driving up to her father's house in a brand new sleigh to take her for a moonlight tour of the local countryside.

Who wouldn't enjoy the horse's mane as it dances with every step, the silence of the sleigh as it glides over the snow and the warmth of the blanket which serves to keep the passengers warm, and to offer an excuse for getting as close as possible.

A couple of weeks ago, Mrs. Lyle Wilson of Manistique handed me a copy of the Escanaba Press that contained a copy of a column written by Mike Utt concerning the House of Ludington in Escanaba.

The House of Ludington, according to Utt, who received some valuable information from Viola Christie Olson of Escanaba, was probably one of the most interesting and oldest of hostleries in this part of the country.

According to the article, a man named Gaynard first ran the House of Ludington, which was first built in 1865. Later this was torn down and the present brick structure was built in 1883.

The Ludington must have witnessed many of the famous events of our country and its history. According to the article, it benefited by the boom following the Civil War, saw the Gay Nineties, World Wars I and II, Korea and Vietnam, the boom of the 'twenties', the stock market crash in 1929 and Prohibition.

Like most hostleries of that day, the biggest business was the "traveling men" who came by train loaded their sample cases. The House of Ludington was said to have five large "sample rooms," and in these were long tables and display cases where the town's merchants came to choose their next season's stock.

It sounds to me like the House of Ludington was an interesting and unique hotel that catered to some interesting and unique customers. Though I dare to mention that I have heard of some equally interesting and unique hotels in our early days right here in Manistique.

My thanks to Mrs. Wilson for pointing out the column and to Mike Utt of the Escanaba Press for allowing me to use excerpts from his column.

As long as I am on the subject of newspapers, a friend, whose name I did not catch, left a Pioneer-Tribune paper dated 1930. I was glancing through it and found some interesting bits of information.

SPEAKING OF SOME TERRIBLE WINTERS. This picture was brought to the Pioneer-Tribune a few days ago. The two men, and faithful companion, presumably walked to the top of the house and had this picture taken to illustrate the amount of snow they received that winter. The year of the snowfall, or the names of the people, and where the picture was taken, were not available. It was believed to have been taken somewhere up by the Seney-Shingleton area.

--The Edmore Coliseum Theatre will install sound equipment. (My understanding is that the town of Edmore was located within a stone's throw of Manistique?)

--An ad for the Liberty Cafe in Manistique that advertises the "best food" in the city. (I never heard of this restaurant before and wonder where it was and just how good the food was.)

--a crusade that was launched to determine the "real facts" behind the rumor that oil can be found in the Upper Peninsula. The paper indicates that a geologist came up and surveyed the area. The paper also points out that earlier, drilling took place on Seul Choix but was eventually abandoned by the promoters.

--County population figures were also given in the 1930 paper, along with comparisons of the population some 10 years earlier, as follows: (the 1920 figure is followed by the 1930 figures.)

- Doyle.....489...457;
- Germfask.....442...448;
- Hiawatha.....455...531;

Daily errands can waste costly energy

Family Living

by Cecile Turner
Extension Home Economist

One of the main problems of energy conservation is that most of us don't consider the amount of energy we use to do everyday things, say Joanne Keith and Michael Lawrence, energy researchers for the College of Human Ecology's Institute for Family and Child Study at Michigan State University.

We don't consider the energy of the light we leave on over the front door because we don't see the cost of that one additional bulb. We might not even notice the cost of that additional trip to the market because of all the miles we've driven that week.

We don't pay for the energy when we use it, so we don't calculate the cost of each of our daily activities. If right then and there you had to pay for the gasoline, depreciation on the tires, etc., you might not make that extra trip for the milk.

Wasting energy costs money. By reducing your thermostat setting just one degree, you'd save three percent on your home heating bill during the winter. Because of the increasing cost of fuel, you might not save one penny over last year's costs. But think of what it would have cost you if you had not "dialed down."

Because we don't pay for energy a penny or a day at a time, we forget the things we did which might have contributed to the monthly bill. No one remembers how much the garage door was left open or how many times the front door was opened and closed.

How often did you turn the temperature up when you could have put on a sweater? Did you run the washing machine half full? Did you dry clothes in the dryer rather than hang them up?

We forget that some months are particularly cold and others are not. When the bills seem high we assume that the month must have been colder than we remember.

We must start recognizing places where we use energy when it isn't necessary and where eliminating that energy use would not affect our lives negatively. For instance, walking to the store for that half gallon of milk might be refreshing on a sunny day.

If the store's a mile away, it will only take you 15 minutes to get there. If it's farther, use your old bicycle. You will have only spent one or two percent of the energy needed to drive a car to the store.

There are many ways to save energy and most of them don't have to cost you any of your hard-won comforts. Small savings of energy in a large number of places add up to a large saving. Just be conscious of what you do and how you do it. Think for a moment if there might be some other way which would bring you just as much comfort without using as much energy.

WHERE PEOPLE ARE ALWAYS IMPORTANT

Let your fingers find a good lawyer

For those who say 'why bother'

Citizens who have a cynical tendency to say "why bother" should take a careful look at what a handful of Schoolcraft County residents were able to do last week in holding back the cost of governmental permits.

Had it not been for a dozen local officials and interested citizens, a new set of fee schedule regulations for the Luce-Mackinac-Alger-Schoolcraft District Health Department might have been put into effect almost unnoticed.

The proposed regulations would have hiked a whole range of inspections, construction permits and food service license fees. In some cases, permit charges were to be increased from 25 to 100 percent.

And in the case of raw land evaluations for sewage systems, some of which were free in the past, new $15 and $25 permits were to be created.

A few citizens who got wind of the proposed permit hikes through friends or a notice in the Jan. 27 Pioneer-Tribune, turned up at the scheduled public hearing at the courthouse last Thursday night. Those who spoke at the meeting were of unanimous accord.

Some citizens said the proposed fee hikes are needless charges for a service provided by the state: insuring that health regulations are met for construction of sewage disposal systems and wells, and operation of food service establishments.

Others said that in light of substantial increases in property taxes over recent years, the fees should be reduced, if anything.

Taxpayers rarely are that lucky. But when the district health board met Monday afternoon and decided to drop the increases, at least for the time being, the protesters could have the satisfaction of feeling that their voices had some impact in the decision.

It is notable, also, that Schoolcraft County is the only county in the four-county district in which citizens raised a cry against the proposed fees. The other counties reportedly had almost no public participation at their respective hearings.

The battle is not yet over, however. The proposed fee regulations will go before the board of commissioners in each county for a final decision. Because two of the vocal participants at last week's hearing were county commissioners, it's a sure bet that the measure will get more than indifferent treatment.

How press, public news views match up

Former Manistique resident and friend Keith McLeod keeps me informed of things in the financial world by occasionally clipping an article from the Wall Street Journal and sending it my way. This way, he not only passes on his store house of trivia, but also proves to anyone that might notice that he "reads" the Journal and just doesn't carry one under his arm.

So it came as no great surprise last week when the morning's mail delivery brought a note from McLeod and an article headlined, "What Do Newspaper Readers Want?"

Do newspapers pick the truly important events of the day for prominent coverage? Or do they concentrate too much on sordid tales of sex, suffering and violence?

And what do readers really want? Do they banker for "good news", for stories that show honest, generous, hard-working citizens building a decent, bountiful country? Or do they really crave sensational exposes and gruesome sagas?

Every newspaperman has been confronted with these questions time and again. Agnew-like critics accuse us of ignoring the garden to report on obscure dandelions. And intellectual critics accuse us of a narrow world view that de-emphasizes events of major historical importance.

Now, thanks to The Indianapolis News, we have some new insight into the issue.

The News recently completed its annual poll of its editors as to which 10 news stories of the past year its editors deemed most important. Alongside the results of the poll it published results of a similar poll of News readers. Readers were enticed to contribute their opinions by $950 in prize money to be distributed among those whose story lists most closely matched the results of yet a third poll, taken nationwide among editors and news directors of Associated Press member newspapers, radio and television stations.

The contrast between the readers' opinions and the editors' is remarkable. Here are the top stories of 1976 as the News's editors ranked them:

1. The presidential campaign and election.
2. Revelations of illegal acts by the CIA and FBI.
3. Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai die; China changes.
4. Upeaval in Southern Africa especially Angola, South Africa and Rhodesia.
5. Earthquakes in China, Italy, Guatemala, Central Asia, Indonesia, the Philippines.
6. Chowchilla, Calif., school bus kidnapping.
7. Washington sex scandals.
8. Legionnaires disease.
9. Civil war in Lebanon.
10. Two U.S. soldiers killed in Korean demilitarized zone.

Notice that the top two stories concern substantial changes in the government of the United States, and that five of the remaining stories concern events of international importance. Only three stories, all toward the bottom of the list, depend on a seductive or morbid appeal to emotion. (In the school bus kidnapping, no one got hurt and no ransom was demanded

Publisher's Corner

by Frank Senger

or paid; the sexual recollections of two floozies and one decoy policewoman neither revealed nor caused any significant change in the quality of American government; and Legionnaires disease, despite its drama, accounted for a relatively minuscule portion of human suffering in the country.)

Now by contrast, here is the top 10 list of News readers:

1. The presidential campaign and election.
2. The Patty Hearst trial.
3. Washington sex scandals.
4. Legionnaires disease.
5. Bicentennial celebrations.
6. Swine flu (a threat that never developed; what little harm there was came from the cure).
7. The school bus kidnapping.
8. The death of Howard Hughes.
9. The Karen Ann Quinlan decision (the rare case of a comatose young woman whose parents have sought for more than a year to end her life).
10. The landing of an unmanned vehicle on Mars.

Here, only the first and last stories involve new developments with broad potential consequence, though the bicentennial is also the legitimate stuff of history. Howard Hughes was a major figure, but the practical business impact of his physical decline was mostly felt in the past, and anyway wasn't for the reason for the widespread fascination with him.

None of the stories concerns foreign or international news. There isn't even mention of the passing of the leadership of the world's largest revolution, and subsequent turmoil, which by any over-view has to be just about the most important recorded event on earth in 1976.

It's worth noting that the Indianapolis News has long been read throughout much of small town and rural Indiana by an audience that receives the newspaper by home delivery rather than via the newsstand. If there is a proper, patriotic, church-going audience for the newspaper, then surely the News has it. All of which indicates that newspapers are probably giving readers more historical relevance and less sensationalism than readers would seek out on their own.

While we don't carry news that has much National or international significance, we do hope that the Pioneer-Tribune does carry the news that interests people living in the Central Upper Peninsula. If there are some things we should be doing, but aren't, or some things you would like us to do differently, we would like to hear from you.

If, as we hope there are, some things that we are doing that please you we would like to hear about that also.

WHO WILL COME to the rescue of homes in the 200 block section of Arbutus Avenue that lay in the path of a rerouted highway US-2? Appraisers from the State Department of Highways and Transportation are expected to establish state offers for the five homes, inflating the values to 1979 or 1980 levels, when removal is required. Groups in the city interested in keeping the homes in town, where they have been located for the past half century, may wish to assist in finding suitable relocations. Aside from the appeal of the homes, the city also has a stake in keeping the houses here: a sizeable property tax base.

Some realistic deductions for frustrated taxpayers

Since we've got the IRS, who needs Las Vegas?

Folks with the wherewithal can learn the income tax odds, play the best percentages and come up with a healthy tax refund.

The trick is to know the deductions, and possess the financial means to take advantage of them.

In a phrase, knowledge is power when it comes to income tax laws.

So as you sit there whittling a tax-deductible pencil in your tax-deductible chair, getting ready to fill out that tax return form, you may wish to freeze that smile on your face.

That too, may be tax-deductible. If a plastic surgeon is responsible for your pleasant grin, you've got a reason to hold it.

For according to the Associated Press, the IRS has ruled that cosmetic surgery is within the federal definition of medical care "for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body."

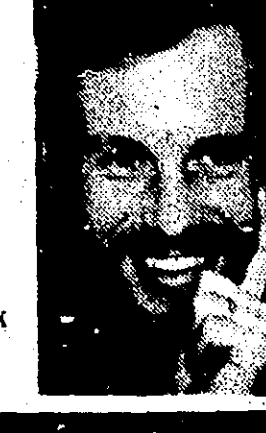

The ruling implies that breast enlargements, belly reduction, and ear flattening may be deductible as well, the AP story said.

What a breakthrough for the practice of plastic surgery and for middle and upper-income people who are tempted to correct an existing personal feature or two.

But what about some relief for the common guy who's sweating it out over his 1040A?

Side Tracks

by Arnold Mackowiak

As he's totalling up wages, salaries, tips and adjustments to income, can he deduct his ulcer?

Or if he has the uncontrollable urge to run screaming down the street as the figure develops into three digits on the line called BALANCE DUE IRS, can he enter the consequent wear on his shoes under Supplemental Schedule of Gains and Losses?

These are burning questions to which America wants answers.

Instead, we get pages and pages with directions like "figure your tax if you decided to take the standard deduction and you DID NOT check the block between lines 15 and 16A (if you checked the block, follow the instructions on page 7; or if you decided to itemize, skip to Step 14)."

The maze of directions and supplemental IRS literature may be baffling, but there's no reason for the taxpayer to feel alone in his frustration. After all, the "house" ultimately wins...consistently.

Thompson needs garbage service

To the Editor:

Re: "Green boxes full of trouble."
Thanks for your paragraph in the Jan. 27 issue of the Pioneer-Tribune, where you mentioned the Thompson Township special millage election to be held on Feb. 15 for the purpose of raising one mill to pay for the green boxes and sanitary landfill for a period of three years, Jan. 1, 1977-Dec. 31, 1979.

This one mill is needed more now than it was in the last three years, as costs are rising each year and we have no guarantee that our costs will stay as they are at the present time.

Our township needs this service, and as the township is obligated by contract to pay for it, we have only two ways in which to go, either by voting one mill or a service fee or charge.

The fee would be more costly, inasmuch as the township does not take in enough money to pay for this service from the general fund as we did when we operated our own dump.

The complaints you referred to were justified, but I believe that a lot more cooperation on the part of the D.P.W. and also the users of the service could eliminate much of the reasons for complaining.

I believe that all the townships are not as happy as your story indicated, if you had contacted all the townships.

I also believe that more cooperation is needed by both the D.P.W. and the users if we are to have more pleasant scenery around the green boxes.

The Michigan Supreme Court has ruled it is now legal for lawyers to advertise in the Yellow Pages. It won't make any difference to me.

Lawyers will remain at the top of my list of those people who make it tough for a wise-guy columnist to earn a living. What I mean is, we smartie writers often depend upon exaggeration to make our point. It's the type of writing that more erudite people might call satire or caricature, or sarcasm.

For example, I wouldn't write that a fat woman is simply fat. I would write that the Rand-McNally people requested her to stand still long enough for alternate routes to be mapped so motorists could avoid the delay of driving around her.

Now you know she isn't really big enough to be put on a map, like an Alp. But you do get the correct idea, which is that she is so big she must walk sideways through canyons. See?

The Trouble comes when the satirist must deal with subjects so outrageous they can't be exaggerated. How could I stretch the truth if the fat lady really did weigh 10 tons?

Washington has been an awful problem in recent year. We had a secretary of the Air Force who didn't know his planes were bombing Cambodia. We had an FBI director who hid secret papers in his shirt drawer. We had a Pentagon that kept score of the war by counting dead bodies and having cheerleaders announce the results every hour on the hour.

How can such outlandish behavior be exaggerated?

Then came Watergate and Nixon and Agnew and all the other lawyers who turned out to be crooks. For years, columnists had been writing that many lawyers belonged in jail. The Smarties didn't really mean it. But now the evidence is in, and the unexaggerated truth is that many lawyers do belong in jail.

And all the crooked lawyers are not in Washington. Just look in your local Yellow Pages. That's what I did when I received a tip that a "well-known lawyer" in my small county was in trouble for not paying his income tax. No name was supplied. That was for the newspaper - me - to find out.

A quick call to the Internal Revenue Service in Detroit was a waste of time. The IRS refused to say whether a Lapeer County lawyer was facing indictment for income tax evasion. Some bureaucratic stuffed shirt said that type of information couldn't be revealed unless I asked about a specific lawyer, by full name and address. In writing.

So I turned to the Yellow Pages. In those days, lawyers couldn't advertise their talents with Ma Bell, but they could list

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

their names and where they could be found (behind big piles of money). I sent the IRS a query about every lawyer in the county, in alphabetical order, in separate envelopes. I scored on a Smith.

The IRS admitted Smith hadn't filed his income tax return. For how many years? The IRS couldn't answer such a broad question. I would have to ask about each specific year since Smith was born. In writing. Honest. It is not easy being an investigative reporter, and it's not worth it unless Robert Redford plays your part in the movie.

Anyway, the years were specified and it turned out Smith hadn't filed his return for 10 years. He had been to busy helping his clients file their returns. He subsequently pleaded guilty and said he was sorry. For punishment, Smith was suspended from work for a few months, and his fellow lawyers pelted him fiercely with marshmallows.

When officers of the court so eloquently crap on the courtroom floor, there is no way a writer can exaggerate the stench.

For another example, take the five lawyers who worked on a Detroit Edison condemnation case in Howell, Mich., two years ago. They billed Edison for a total of $438,000. But a probate judge ruled their work was worth only $75,000. That's an 80 per cent slash!

Judge Dwight Cheevers said: "In effect, the very number of attorneys prolonged the length of the trial, yet each attorney is requesting full payment for the time spent by him and the other attorneys prolonging the trial."

If Art Buckwald wrote that a lawyer had charged $438,000 for $75,000 worth of work, you would be sure he was exaggerating to get a laugh. But it really happened.

Now a lawyer will be allowed to advertise his educational and professional qualifications in the Yellow Pages, along with his law-school photo. But that won't help me. What I want to know is whether he looks any different in a fun-house mirror.

Can I write about him with my tongue in my cheek? Or should I chew bubble gum and learn how to type while holding my nose!

Green boxes, 'no smoking' noise

To the Editor:

It occurs to me that our county board would occupy its time better if they would make some attempt (even a feeble one) to solve the very real problem of their favorite toy, "the green box."

These ill-served and ill-kept monstrosities are an insult to the entire area. The locations are always a mess. Pickup days are irregular. Prices are ridiculous. And the collection of money on tax forms-if it isn't illegal, it should be. Or does it only look like a "head tax?"

I do know that if the 'dump' ever was as messy and dirty as the green box site in Germfask, at least it was out of town.

Instead, it seems a couple of "do-gooders" are making an attempt to prove their power with their "no smoking" nonsense and if their delusion of their own importance continues they will eventually cost us taxpayers $14,000 a year.

What importance can enforcement of such a rule hold? Who cares if the people smoke in the courthouse? Let 'em-maybe their rent can help pay for this ill-conceived architectural blob on the landscape. Part of it is still empty. Why empty the rest?

Zion Lutheran Church Council members installed during Feb. 6 service

The four church council members elected at the 91st Annual Meeting of the Zion Lutheran Church held on Jan. 30 were installed into office at the church's morning worship on Feb. 6. The new council members are Ruth Carlson, Karin Sjogren, David Eriksen and James Nelson. Other officers elected at the annual meeting include: Marion Laux, Dorothy Larson, Rudie Brandstrom, Don DeSautel, Lois Nylander and Betty Flodin, Nominating Committee; Jack Creighton, Conrad Anderson, and Ruth Brundige, Auditing Committee. Todd Anderson was named chairman of the board of ushers.

$37,270, including $10,000.00 for the mission and benevolence program of the Wisconsin Upper Michigan Synod. At the organizational meeting of the Church Council the following were elected: Witter Reid, vice-chairman; Arvid Larson, secretary; and David Eriksen, treasurer.

Plant of the month

The Strawberry-geranium of Saxifraga sarmentosa has been selected as the "plant of the month" for the Manistique School and Public Library. It has panicles of white, long-lasting flowers in spring, carried well above the rounded leaves which are reddish below and green above, veined with white. A characteristic feature is the numerous filiform stolons, each carrying one or more plantlets after the manner of the Strawberry. The plant should have moist soil, shade from bright sunshine and new pots should be started from runners annually.

Senior Citizens

by Eileen Males

After I return from my Florida trip, in which I will be escorting 40 senior citizens, we will try to organize a volunteer Medical Care Facility Auxiliary.

There is much to be done at the Medical Care Facility for the volunteer worker. Personal attention such as beauty care, manicures, letter writing, friendly visitation and organizational responsibilities such as cribbage and smear tournaments, choir direction (with chapel services it would be nice for the patients to have their own choir), etc. Ideas or suggestions are welcomed.

Anyone interested in being a volunteer on a regular basis is requested to call the center at 341-5923. After all the names are in, Mrs. Jane Jasmin, director of nursing, will have an instructional class of do's and don'ts.

Uniform jackets will be worn and volunteer pins will be given. An annual party will be held with recognition certificates of hours given to the most deserving.

Being a patient in a facility with the thought "I will be here till I die" is a very distressing situation and the only way to help is to give an extra amount of love and attention. Also plans for daily activities may give the needed incentive for living that the patients do need.

So please be receptive in this need and call us at 341-5923 if you are interested.

Our Thursday morning cribbage tournament will end Feb. 24 and the new tournament will start March 3. Normie Jahn is high scorer so far with 5902; Ralph Williams following with 5867; Frank Prove, 5845; and Art DeMars with 5817. The play begins at 10 a.m. and lasts until noon. It's a lot of fun and trophies will be given. I thought at the next tournament we could include our top notch women players and of course, being a believer in the superiority of women, I'm sure the gals will be receiving the trophy awards. We wish to thank the following for their donations towards the building fund: Al and Inez Dean, Jim and Mina Bounstra, Neeley and Fern Schnurer, Marie LaFave, Edward and Veronica Buech, Oscar and Hazel Peterson, John S. Faketty, Ernest and Evelyn Eckland and two givers who wish to remain anonymous.

Thrift Store donations came from Margaret Johnson. Edith Washburn made some very nice hot pad mitts to be sold at our Thrift Store. We are very grateful and appreciative of your kindness and generosity.

Birthday greetings go out to the following: Fred Sharp and William Heinz, Feb. 10; Aileen Nelson, Feb. 11; Josephine Derwin, Magdalen Donaldson, Bert Paige, and Elma Swanson, Feb. 12; Loretta Priniski, Mae Carney, and Arnold Henrichson, Feb. 13; Ruth Brundige, Leona DeMers, Vivian Moser, and George Cornell are all wished a Happy Sweetheart's Day along with their birthday on Feb. 14; Wendella Crawford, Blanche Lyntis, and Sara Dorman, Feb. 15; Les Cantrell, Don Dissinger, Rose Stull, and Adolph Asp, Feb. 16; Rose Hobson and Ingrid (Harry) Anderson, Feb. 17.

The Center will be closed Feb. 21 due to holiday.

Local men honored

Two Manistique men have been honored by their employer for their part in contributing to accident-free safety records.

Robert Morford of 1042 West Shore Drive and Gary Koschmider of 807 Garden Ave. have been honored by Michigan Power Company officials for their help in maintaining an accident-free safety record covering four consecutive years.

Employees serving Manistique, Newberry, Engadine and St. Ignace were honored by the power company officials at a recent safety awards banquet held at the Ramada Inn.

Manistique School and Public Library receives memorial books

"Hunting for all Seasons" by Alex Kay has been presented to the Manistique School and Public Library as a memorial to the late Roy Schwichow by friends of the family.

This up-to-the-minute edition is a compilation of the expertise of the leading professionals in the field of hunting on big game, small game, varmints, upland gamebirds and waterfowl.

"Roosevelt and Churchill, 1939-1941, The Partnership that Saved the West" by Joseph P. Lash has been presented as a memorial to the late Leon Wood.

This gripping narrative, given by a family friend, tells how a unique partnership between two enormously egocentric men altered the course of history.

The books are currently available for circulation. "Outdoorsman's Fix-it Book" by Monte Burch has been presented to the library as a memorial to the late Mauritz Peterson by friends of the family.

This is a practical handbook with easy instructions on how to repair and maintain boating and camping trailers, decoys, blinds camping appliances, snowmobiles, canvas, leather and rubber gear.

"Your Hyperactive Child" by Gerald L. Sugerman, M.D. and Margaret N. Stone has been presented in memory of Ruth England by the Schoolcraft County Extension Office.

This book is a doctor's answers to parents and teachers' questions about working and living with hyperactive children.

"The Story of Speech and Language" by Charles L. Barber has been presented in memory of Ruth England by a former pupil of hers.

This new publication is a fascinating record of the development of human speech and in particular of the English language.

All books are currently available for circulation.

IT'S PERSONAL

People keep teaching their children to say their prayers at bedtime, but how many do it themselves?

Maybe sometimes they pray in the darkness, silently, so that no one will know. But why the secrecy? Because prayer is a very deep, personal kind of expression? Because we reveal ourselves through it?

Even those of us who have gotten away from the custom of going to church every Sunday, who think they've put religion down the line on their list of priorities, turn back swiftly when in trouble, saying, "Dear God," first of all.

So why wait? In church you can pray alone or with others, in darkness or in light, but always in your own way—with a blessed sense of belonging.

Schoolcraft Soil Conservation District Annual Report

GRAIN MOISTURE TESTER - a handy little box to help grain powers determine the moisture of their grain for harvest and storage.

PROPER WOODLAND IMPROVEMENT is featured in Ray Lemp's red pine stand after thinning and pruning practices. These practices help produce clear merchantable wood on the trees left for a future economic return.

IRRIGATION IS THE HOPE for this pond in the Cooks area. This past year's drought has prompted many landowners into seeking ways of irrigating crops to increase yields and protect them from future drought.

A comparison of soils affected by wind erosion is illustrated here: A FIELD WITH LITTLE to no residue and minimal roughness is highly subjected to winter winds.

A FIELD WITH SOME RESIDUE and roughness left by machinery holds the snow better and is less subject to winter blowing.

RYE COVER CROP HAS STABILIZED this field from winter blowing. It holds the snow, covers the soil, and provides organic matter when tilled under in the spring. When fields are cultivated they need large amounts of residues or a winter cover crop to protect the soil and hold in valuable snow moisture for future crops.

Various practices can be used to conserve moisture

by Phil Dakin
Soil Conservationist

Rainfall is a very important factor for the growth of plants. This past year has been one in which this fact has been emphasized due to the lack of rain and resulting lower crop yields. We have very little control over weather patterns to change the amount and time of rainfall so we must use what we can to conserve the moisture we do get.

There are various practices used to conserve this moisture. Organic matter build-up, minimum tillage, no tillage, mulching and fertilization are some ways. Sandy soils naturally have a low moisture retaining capacity. Thus, they are problems in years of low moisture. The total exposed surface area is less in a sandy soil than it is in a finer textured heavier soil. This reduces the water holding power of the sandy soil. Also the spaces between the particles are large which permits the rapid passage of water into the lower depths below the reach of plant roots.

These sandy soils are usually low in organic matter. By supplying additional humus the moisture holding power of sandy soils is increased. The humus fills in between the soil particles and decreases this interparticle space and also increases the surface covered by moisture films. Evaporation is decreased in sandy soils containing high percentages of humus.

Other soils are affected by low humus content too. Soils containing sufficient silt and clay to put them in the sandy loam group will frequently crust after beating rains when the supply of humus has become low. This crust is very difficult for the shoots of young plants to penetrate and reseeding is often necessary. Water intake by these soils is decreased due to the sealing action of the crust.

With an adequate supply of organic matter the capacity of the soil to retain moisture increases and the absorption of rain and snow water is increased.

These facts emphasize the importance of increasing the humus content through application of manure, straw, crop residues, and by frequently growing sod crops and green manure crops.

Tillage is another means by which soil moisture can be conserved in droughty soils. Plowing should be done only to cover manure, straw or other residue; to turn under a green manure crop; or to kill weeds. Plowing loosens the entire surface soil and gives a maximum of aeration. This aeration dries the soil and increases the rate of decay of organic matter.

Minimum tillage methods such as wheel-track planting and plow plant have proven to conserve moisture by reducing runoff and evaporation of soil moisture. No-till farming is increasing in popularity and it holds to a minimum the disturbance of the soil and utilizes residues to provide a mulch on newly planted crops. This serves to conserve soil moisture and reduce evaporation from freshly cultivated fields. Fertilization is another means of saving needed moisture. Plants grow slower and transpire more water per pound of plant tissue produced when they are grown in a medium low in quantities of nutrients. By increasing and providing an abundance of plant nutrients the plants are able to produce more plant tissue for the water transpired. Proper nutrient levels is a must for optimum yields and efficient use of the soil moisture.

These methods of conserving soil moisture do not overcome a major drought period but they are management tools useful in conserving soil moisture in years of marginal rainfall.

Vegetation contributes to precipitation

by Phil Dakin
Soil Conservationist

National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration researcher Russell C. Schnell's hypothesis says vegetation is the vital source of ice nuclei, those microscopic solids on which ice freezes to make rain.

According to Schnell, massive overgrazing devours the sources of organic ice nuclei and fewer nuclei are released into the atmosphere. Without this natural seeding, clouds become less efficient rain producers. The rain diminishes and so does plant life. Animals die or migrate, curtailing overgrazing, and plant life begins to regenerate. More organic ice nuclei are released, clouds regain their rainmaking efficiency, and the drought ends.

Schnell bases this theory on two recent discoveries. First, a large proportion of windborne dust is organic which means vegetation plays a crucial role in supplying ice nuclei to prospective rain clouds. Secondly, he has found that large areas with lush vegetation can be separated from barren, overgrazed land by just a fence.

He ran tests on leaves, grasses, dust, and sand from overgrazed and protected areas.

The samples from the protected areas showed considerably higher ice nucleus content than did the samples from overgrazed areas. Schnell says this confirms his theory that vegetation contributes ice nuclei to dusts and therefore may be a prime mover in the precipitation-forming process of clouds.

SOIL CONSERVATION

Good soil conservation techniques work like a watchdog in the fields, guarding against erosion — the natural farm enemy. Stop soil depletion in the beginning before it robs the land of farm production... threatens your personal prosperity and your community's growth.

SOIL CONSERVATION

Our most cherished possession is the land that we live on. The fields, forests and parks serve us all with an abundance of natural resources and beauty. Our lives are enriched by the treasures we reap from the land. And so it is for all of us to treat it with care.

We must preserve the rich fertile soil and all that it provides.

What we take from the land we must replace. What we destroy through negligence and carelessness we must rebuild, or this "endless spring" of bounteous earth will surely run dry.

Let's put a stop to the destructive forces that are exhausting our wellspring and initiate a constructive effort to keep this abundant land thriving. We must start now.

leads the Cub Scouts of the area in a re-dedication at the Manistique High School Tuesday night, Feb. 8, at ceremonies marking the 67th anniversary of scouting. Troop 400 Scoutmaster, Jim Barr, bottom right photo, explains the prestigious Order of the Arrow to interested parents that attended the Showando Tuesday night. The Order of the Arrow is considered a prestigious rank because scouts must be appointed to the Order by their peers.

Scouts rededicate their efforts

To celebrate 67 years of scouting, area Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts and their leaders presented an annual Showando to parents and scout enthusiasts at the Manistique High School, Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The local scouts presented demonstrations in such areas as first aid and science along with displays of hand crafted items. A re-dedication, area scouts pledged anew faith in the scouting program by repeating their scout motto.

Feb. 8 is considered the date in which the first scouting troop was formed in England 67 years ago.

In an effort to keep scouting at a developed level, upper peninsula scouting organizations are involved in a capital raising campaign for improvements in the scouting program and to remodel Camp Hiawatha, a scouting facility located on Forest Road 2234 in Hiawatha National Forest.

Since its inception 32 years ago, the Hiawathaland Council, which serves some 4,000 scouts, has been the mainstay behind scouting activity in the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin.

In 1976, after a council-wide survey which showed unanimous desire and support for the continuation of Boy Scouts, the Hiawathaland Council Executive Board launched a capital development campaign.

Covering a three year span, the development plan will raise capital through donations of pledges, letters of intent, cash, stocks, bonds, real estate, and gifts of construction work and materials.

Most of the capital raised will go for improvements at the scout camp which according to present day health standards, is inadequate.

Primary needs of the camp include water front improvement, campsite development, water system development, camp ranger facility, equipment storage and electrification of additional facilities.

The 840-acre camp was purchased and developed to its present stage in 1967 following a similar capital development drive.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS

Board of Commissioners

Tuesday, January 18th, 1977

A regular monthly (January 1977) meeting of the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners was held on Tuesday, January 18th, 1977, at the Courthouse, City of Manistique, Michigan, commencing at 7:00 o'clock P.M., E.S.T.

The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Ernest S. Hoholik.

Commissioner LeBrasseur, then cited the history and progress of the paper industry in this community from his own experiences, and cited the fact that we should consider ourselves lucky to have as renowned firm as "Marshall Fields", having confidence in Manistique and its people to expend this amount of money, which in itself must be gratifying to all the people of Schoolcraft County. He stated that we should do all we can to encourage such employers to stay in our community, and cooperate with them in anyway possible, as its operation reflects itself in all facets of life in Schoolcraft County.

He further stated that some equitable charge will be made to the various Townships for this work, depend on the amount of time spent on each Township roll. Frenette stated that immediately after the Boards of Review completes their work that the Tax Equalization Committee will meet with all Townships and work out some method of resolving the assessing problem throughout the County, so that this similar situation will not arise in the future.

He reported that an inventory of all surplus properties located at the Airport will be prepared by the Manager, this inventory will be reviewed by the Committee, and any equipment or supplies not needed will be put up for sale under sealed bids, which bids will be opened at the next Board of Commissioners meeting of February 28th, 1977.

tion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

Klarich, that the 1976 Annual reports of the Friend-of-the-Court and the Civil Defense Department, be approved as submitted. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote. A delegation of employees and supervisors from the Schoolcraft County Department of Social Services was in attendance and they were informed by the Chairman of the Board of Commissioners, that the matter of "Rules and Regulations of the Schoolcraft County Courthouse," principally the "non-smoking" provision was not on the agenda for this meeting, as sufficient information was not available to the Commissioners to make a decision at this time, but that it would be placed on the agenda for February 28th, 1977 meeting.

Mr. Mark Daveman, Community Planner for CUPPAD, along with County Sanitarian, Mack McDonald and Soil Conservationist, Philip Dakin, were in attendance to discuss the planning and zoning organization for Schoolcraft County. Mr. McDonald reported that since July, 1976 that the County Planning and Zoning Commission have not been functioning; that terms of four (4) members expired as of December 31st, 1976, and that presently there are only two of eleven board members active, so that the board is in-operative. He reviewed the organization of the Board, and suggested that an eight member board be created under a resolution he is submitting, and that the County Zoning and Planning Board be one and the same, that consideration be given for per-diem and travel expenses for members, and that a completely new board be appointed.

Mr. Daveman reported that the present rural Zoning Ordinance for Schoolcraft County is out-dated and that one of the first functions of the new Planning Commission, will be to adopt a new ordinance of up-date the old Ordinance. He reported that CUPPAD is working on a new Zoning Ordinance for rural Schoolcraft County and he needs to have local organizations to work with so as to implement the Ordinance to Schoolcraft County's particular problems.
