Citizens urge tax appeal bill

by Mark Eisenlohr

A resolution that would give some taxpayers in Michigan a welcome relief from high taxes has been introduced into the Michigan legislature.

The resolution, introduced last Thursday, would change the procedure by which property owners may protest tax increases, allowing many taxpayers yet another chance at appealing record high taxes levied in 1976.

The resolution was introduced by Representative Charles Varnum of Manistique, and if heeded by county board of reviews, would open the door for taxpayers to appeal directly to the Michigan Tax Tribunal.

In stating reasons for introducing the resolution Varnum contended that property owners were not informed of an increased valuation placed on property by the state early last year.

If the Michigan Legislature concurs with Varnum's contentions then property owners throughout Michigan would be allowed to appeal their taxes directly to the Tax Tribunal, by-passing the normal route through the local board of review.

However, a local group of taxpayers has organized and threatened to hire a lawyer and fight if the resolution fails to meet the approval of the legislature.

The president of the group, Milton Hero of Manistique told a group of 26 persons last Wednesday that the only alternative would be to "get a lawyer and fight it."

Hero blamed the present situation in Schoolcraft County on local officials, who he felt, should have stood up to the state when they imposed a valuation factor on most property owners in the county.

"It's the county board of commissioners fault that we are here right now," Hero told the group. "If Lansing says jump they (county board of commissioners) say 'Yes, Sir Boss.'"

Hero felt a lack of communication between the county board and the residents of the county was the biggest factor in the increase.

"The information that the county board of commissioners gave us was misleading," Hero said.

However Rep. Varnum feels that perhaps the communications problem, or lack of it, came on the state's part.

"The state imposed a factor on the counties, but failed to tell the people that their valuation was increasing," Varnum contends.

"Many people didn't expect it so naturally, they didn't protest it. In Schoolcraft County, for instance, many people's valuation is up to 125 percent of the true cash value, when the law only allows 50 percent," Varnum said in news release last Thursday.

If passed the Varnum resolution would simply change the procedure so citizens would have a recourse when they are not informed of a tax increase, which in some cases, according to Varnum, have exceeded the lawful limitations.

Meanwhile, the local taxpayers group is preparing for the worse. In the event that the resolution does not meet legislative approval.

Some discussion at the meeting last week centered around the possibility of a constitutional amendment to lower the number of mills that taxpayers must now pay on.

Commissioner, Lindsay Frenette attended the meeting and told the group that while the assessment was high, it may not be the over-riding factor.

"It's not the assessment that's killing you, it's all the millage that you're paying," Frenette said. He also told the people that it would take a constitutional amendment to change the millage rate.

It was suggested to the group that they contact a state-wide organization to circulate the petitions to gather the some 250,000 signatures needed to make an amendment.

Meanwhile, the 26 people who attended the meeting are taking donations among themselves in preparation for a fight against higher taxes.

AS PART OF A COMMUNITY crime awareness project the Manistique Kiwanis and the Michigan State Police are presenting a display this Friday and Saturday on preventive steps that can be taken in Getting to know crime --and how to fight it

by Mark Eisenlohr

Nobody likes crime. Yet, crime, and criminal activity, is as much a part of any community as the city hall is itself.

It was Eugene V. Debs who wrote, "While there is a lower class I am in it, while there is a criminal element I am of it; while there is a soul in prison, I am not free."

It is precisely that type of thinking that two factions of the Manistique community are trying to instill in the community.

The Kiwanis Club and the Manistique post of the Michigan State Police, through their respective community crime awareness programs, are conducting an extensive campaign to familiarize community members with the prevention of crime.

The Kiwanis Club and the Michigan State Police post will be sponsoring a two day display of preventive steps that can be taken to thwart crime. The display will be set up at the C and L Hardware in Manistique Friday and Saturday, Feb. 18 and 19, and will cover a wide range of subjects including self-protection, business rip-offs and securing the cottage and cabin against breaking and entering.

A campaign will also be conducted at that time for Operation Identification, the process of marking all valuable belongings with a driver's license number.

Belongings marked can be traced back to the owner if they are stolen and then recovered by the use of state records on driving license numbers issued. By making residents of the area familiar with crime and its preventive steps, the two factions hope to discourage crime by making it tough for the lawbreakers to get away with it.

"Community involvement is necessary in the prevention of crime," state trooper Mike Olson explained.

"We want to build awareness in the community that we do have a problem and that the only way it's going to be solved is to become aware of it," Olson continued.

Kiwanis President Richard Manning echoed trooper Olson saying, "I think many people are just not aware of how easy crime is."

"They might become more interested in it if they knew that the problems existed and that something could be done about it," Manning said.

The Kiwanis club has adopted the motto of "Safeguard against crime" and will be directing many of their projects in that direction.

While the display will cover many facets of crime and the prevention, major emphasis is being placed on the reporting of actual crimes or just unusual conditions.

"When a person sees that circumstances are not just right, they should notify the respective police agency as soon as possible," Olson said.

"When reporting crimes or unusual conditions people should pay strict attention to license plate numbers if a vehicle is involved, to color of hair, eyes, glasses and anything that can be of help to identify the person or persons involved," Olson said.

Body features such as obvious marks, tattoos, and color of complexion and the type of clothing that is being worn at the time should also be reported. Preventive methods should also be used to discourage crime before it happens, Trooper Olson said.

Securing doors and windows and providing a well lit premise will usually discourage most would-be-lawbreakers.

Notifying neighbors when you will be out of town is also a good idea. Along with stopping all mail, including newspaper delivery.

Local businessmen are also susceptible to crime, Olson said. Credit card fraud, bad checks, shoplifting and burglary are things that the businessman should be aware of, he said.

Probably the easiest of all crimes against business is the shop-lifter.

According to Olson there are several things that the businessman can do to protect himself.

"Alertness of the sales people will usually prevent some of it," he said, "in addition, small items should not be in an open display and if they are, they should be at the front of the store next to the clerk."

Olson cited other steps such as watching certain people who are "browsers" or are carrying large shopping bags in which items could be concealed in.

"This is not to say that every browser or shopper carrying a large bag is a shop-lifter," Olson cautioned.

Detailed pamphlets will be available during the Kiwanis-state police display on aspects of crime such as home security, Operation Identification, shop-lifting, credit card fraud, crime reporting, drug abuse, child abuse, preventing theft, bad checks, burglary, internal theft, auto theft and self protection.

In addition there will be displays of locks and security hardware and confiscated marijuana paraphernalia seized in Schoolcraft county.

Citizens band radio registration decals will also be available for CB operators as well as a sign-up sheet for Operation Identification.

Hours for the display will be from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday the 18th and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday the 19th.

Thompson passes mill

Voters in Thompson Township turned out in small numbers Tuesday, Feb. 15, but passed a three-year, one-mill renewal request by the township board.

The only mill is used for paying garbage collection and sanitary landfill fees in the township.

Township Clerk Ilene Pierce said that of the 271 registered voters in Thompson Township only 55 showed to cast their ballots.

The renewal request passed, 36-19.

School board OKs land purchase

The Manistique Area School Board of Education gave its nod of approval for the purchase of land adjacent to the new high school during a special noon meeting, Feb. 11.

The land, owned by Tom and Bob Mercier, carries a price tag of $11,500.

Manistique Area Schools Superintendent Richard Bonifas told the board of education that the original building and site development plan adopted by the board included the purchase of the land on Maple Street.

"The district is projecting any number of things that the land could be used for including a parking area and assembly point and marching area for the high school band," Bonifas said.

He indicated that consideration has also been given to the construction of a tennis court for use during the summer months.

The board had considered the purchase some months earlier but hesitated feeling that the land could be better purchased at a later date.

Superintendent Bonifas said the final agreement would be reached as soon as legalities concerning the purchase have been completed.

The board was told that bids would be taken on the house situated on the land.

In other business, the board: --heard a complaint from boardmember Margaret Waters, who felt that members should be present during a regular scheduled meeting for public accessibility.

Her complaint stems from a canceled board meeting the previous Tuesday when the board failed to reach a quorum of members. Boardmember Waters indicated that it may be time for the school board to "review our policies in order to comply with the law." It was decided to put that item on the agenda for the next meeting.

--authorized a committee consisting of boardmembers Waters and Denton Nelson to follow through on the acquisition of the Mercier property.

--appointed Billie Doyle to represent the board at the Del-Schoolcraft Intermediate District Budget Hearing, Feb. 21 at Escanaba.

--approved the Bay de Noc College-Lake Superior State College Scholarship Fund for students of Manistique High School who are considering either one of the two colleges. The board was told that over $450 had been taken in at the game between the two colleges played in Manistique last Tuesday. A similar game is being planned each year with the monies to go to the scholarship fund.

--moved their next regularly scheduled meeting to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 23 to allow for a longer meeting due to budget and curriculum reviews.

--was informed by Supt. Bonifas that deadlines for school board nominating petitions are April 11 for the June 13 election. Two board members terms are currently scheduled to expire.

--heard members of the Manistique High School Student Council voice concerns regarding bus transportation and for what they felt were several problem areas in the high school.

Among those concerns that the board heard were problems connected with the hot lunch program. The Student Council felt that there were many students enjoying a free meal by simply walking into the lunch line. Disposal of silverware in garbage cans was also a problem, the council representatives said.

$226,000 HUD program gets council approval

The Manistique City Council approved a $226,000 HUD-funded program for fiscal year 1977, beginning July 1, at its regular meeting Monday night.

With the city's approval, the projects proposal in the program will be submitted to the federal agency for a final decision.

The city is awaiting the results of a HUD audit of its past use of federal funds under the Community Development Block Grant Program, on which HUD charged that more than $70,000 of its money was used for ineligible activities.

City Manager Robert Risik said the results of the audit, being reviewed in Chicago, should be revealed by the end of the month.

The council approved a 1977 program breakdown as follows: $100,000, water transmission lines; $77,000, sewer rehabilitation; $15,000, west side Bicentennial park; $11,400, program administration; and $22,600, local options and contingencies.

Risik told the Pioneer-Tribune that administrative charges will be divided among himself as program director, city staff labor, and printing and miscellaneous costs associated with the projects.

At the present time, there are no definite plans to hire a separate director for the program, as Charles Youngblood had served last year: Youngblood left the post early this year.

Councilmembers Doug Rose, Bob White, Frank Hewitt and Mary Moffat unanimously approved the program. Councilmember Peter Mathson was absent.

The council also adjusted salaries of non-union city personnel in response to union employ increases that went into effect Jan. 1.

The cost of living yearly salary changes were made as follows: City Manager Risik, from $18,000 to $18,350; City Clerk Pat Erickson, from $12,400 to $12,700; Ray Linderth, from $13,750 to $14,100; Mary Weber, from $9,880 to $10,100; Sue Rare-don, $7,200 to $7,400; Donna DeMars, from $6,150 to $6,280; Howard Benson, from $10,600 to $10,820; and Ed Doyle, from $11,700 to $11,950.

General fund budget revisions also were made, following a change in the amount of anticipated revenue sharing from $75,000 to $90,000.

Expenditures were adjusted in the general fund, from the first to the second figures: city attorney, $9,000-$15,950; government buildings, $13,400-$12,900; administration, $71,440-$70,940; elections, $2,200-$1,700; public safety, $204,905-$214,905; tax anticipation notes, $74,910-$74,460.

Expenditures for water and sewer accounts also were charged as follows: plant operations, $129,000-$109,300; bonds and interest, $86,025-$130,725.

Risik told the council the mid-year revisions were made on recommendation of the city's auditors.

In other business during the council's 40-minute meeting:

--Risik was designated single street administrator and maintenance superintendent as the city's authorized agent to sign for funding and contracts in those areas.

--the city manager was authorized to check a site in the city's industrial park being used by General Telephone to store poles, prior to approving the phone company's request to fence the area and install a security light.

--the council supported the application of the Upper Peninsula Health System Agency for federal funding.

--by motion of Council member Rose, approved sending the mayor and two councilmembers to the 1977 Municipal League Conference downstate. Councilmembers Hewitt, Moffat and White plan to attend.

--the council set March 8 from 9-4 p.m. and March 9 and 10 from 9-4 and 7-9 p.m. for the convening of the city property tax board of review.

Snowmobile accident claims 1st fatality

Schoolcraft County recorded its first fatality of the year when a 34-year-old Manistique woman was killed in a snowmobile accident.

Mrs. Sharon K. Larson was pronounced dead after sustaining fatal injuries in a snowmobile accident, Sunday, Feb. 13.

According to state police, Mrs. Larson was headed south on C.R. 437 when she rounded a curve, crossed over the roadway and struck a snowbank.

Mrs. Larson was believed to have died from injuries sustained when she was thrown into the windshield and handlebars on impact.

The accident occurred in Inwood Township on Thunder Lake Road. (Obituary on page 8A).

UFO seen over lake

Reports of mysterious unidentified flying object hovering over Lake Michigan have been filtering into the Michigan State Police post in Manistique.

State Police said that Craig Gogola of Manistique filed a report with the post stating that he had witnessed a U.F.O. over Lake Michigan Sunday night, Feb. 13. Gogola said that the object hovered in the sky for a period of time and that it apparently had flashing lights.

City police officers David Peterson and Don Brock also indicated that they had seen the object on previous nights, also over Lake Michigan.

Other state police officers said that they, too, had witnessed the hovering object while on night patrol.

The object was sighted by Gogola at 11 p.m. Sunday night. Gogola said that he watched the object for about an hour before going to bed.

State Police theorize that it could be a light reflected off of one of the satellites in orbit.

Improvements for Medical Care Facility

Hi, everyone:

This week has been quite busy for us as we are making a few changes in our craft department. The patients are working on a few new projects and we have created a small store in a corner of our diversional therapy room so anyone needing personal items such as hair spray, cigarettes, deodorant or a gift for someone, may purchase them here. It will enable them to shop for themselves.

We hope to have the store run by any patient who would like to try taking on this responsibility. I think it will be quite a boost for them and offer a feeling of independence.

We would like to thank the hospital auxiliary ladies for the fine sewing they did for us recently. A special thanks to Bette Jahn, Carolyn Miller, Kathy Moberg, Irma Brown and Mary Ellen Debelak. All of your efforts are greatly appreciated. Also we received some bibs and slippers from the First Baptist Church and bingo prizes from Lakeside Party Store, Marie Krumre and Charlotte Dragos. Thank you, everyone.

Medical Care

We are also looking forward to our open house which is planned for Feb. 27 between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. I hope everyone will be able to attend and see the beautiful addition to their facility. The ministerial association will be present also on this day and they are planning a dedication ceremony for our new chapel.

Birthday greetings for the last two weeks of February go to Bret Paige, Feb. 12 Ernest Popour, Feb. 17; Viola Gauthier, Feb. 20; Ina Santahoma, Feb. 25 and Hulda Bloomquist, Feb. 28. Have a nice week.

READING GLASSES

See Better Instantly
For Reading and for Close Work

FAILURE OF SIGHT is generally experienced between the ages of 30 & 40 and is owing to the fact that Nature does not supply secretions sufficient to keep the lenses soft and flexible and therefore the power of accommodation is lost. The first indication of failing eyesight is when it becomes necessary to hold small objects (such as fine print or a needle) away from the eye to see them clearly or when it becomes difficult to read in the evenings. When these symptoms occur it is best to purchase a pair of glasses to ease taxation on the eyes.

Out Our Way

News from Road 437
by Josie Peterson

Hi folks,

The past week we had several beautiful days. Hard to believe that the temperature reached up into the 30's.

Sunday changed that weather, when strong March winds brought snow, which caused drifted highways, and miserable driving.

Out our way we even had a power failure that lasted over four hours, which meant extra blankets for the beds. This morning the wind is still blowing strong, and the sky is partly cloudy. In these severe cold mornings even my feathered friends didn't come to the table at day break, as usual.

In our February's garden under a blanket of white, only the skunk cabbage, which grows in swamps and bog margins, in wet mucky soil, would dare rear its pointed, firm, round self through. It's leaves are large nearly two feet long and almost the same width, arising from a stem that extends as the season progresses, which in early stages makes the plant resemble a cabbage.

The height of the skunk cabbage is three feet or more. The rootstocks are thick, going deep into the soil and bearing whorls of fleshy fibrous roots. So as the skunk cabbage peeks through, I know that it won't be long when other sleeping wild flowers are starting to stir.

To keep on the cheerful side during the winter months, there are many house plants one can grow. Take the Impatiens plant; its flowers come in red, pink, white, and never seem tired of blooming. They just come forth with their cheerful blossoms all year long.

I have a cactus that is starting to bloom the second time since the last of November, also a Mikkelpink Poinsettia. The foliage is still as beautiful as when I got it at Christmas time from Mrs. Wanda Berkholder. So a bit of sunshine and cheer during the winter months can be had by growing house plants.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sayers, of Flint spent a week visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dale Potvin of Murphy Lake. Mrs. Sayers is a sister of Mrs. Potvin's.

Mr. and Mrs. Norm Underwood of Manistique visited the Boss and I. While out our way they also visited Mrs. Betty Cleminson of Murphy Lake and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Potvin also of Murphey Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gatkins and children Julie, Jody, Joe and Jim of Livonia spent the weekend at their cabin at Thunder Lake.

Marvin Batchelder of Cedar Springs spent the weekend at his cabin on Thunder Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Denis Marcelle and children, Jennifer, Greta, and Hidee of Green Bay spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. James Hardy, of Cooks. Mrs. Marcelle is a sister of Mr. Hardy's. This visit was sort of special as Jennifer came to celebrate her birthday with her Uncle James. Their birthdays fall on Valentine's day.

Echoes of birthday greetings go out to, Joyce Lakosky, Earl Hruska, Nancy Bringardner, Elsie Johnson, Irene Hinkson, Christine Hurt, Joel Carley Jr., James Hardy, Jennifer Marcelle, Lawrence Sallie, David Neadow, Merlin Cross, Charles Hinkson, Louise Fisher, Ernest Popour, and Kathy Peterson.

Anniversary wishes go out to the Terry Cross' Patrick Rodmans and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Markham, who are celebrating their 63rd anniversary.

May the day for all of you be one of complete happiness.

Until our next chat stay happy and healthy, and think spring.

I'll tell the world

There certainly are a lot of strange and puzzling expressions in our language. Many are trite and overused, some are colorful and some paint an intriguing mental image. For instance, to keep a sharp lookout for something: "Keep your eyes peeled."

When my parents took my sisters and me on a trip they kept us busy watching for landmarks or some point of interest all the time. Mother would say, "Now girls, keep your eyes peeled."

I suspect it was a tactic to keep us from fighting but it usually worked. My sisters would each press her face to a window hoping to be the first to spot the point of interest.

I was nearly always the last one to see it—not because I had the middle seat but because I was having such a wonderful time all the while trying to figure out just how one went about keeping his eyes peeled.

From time to time when I was a kid we had a "hired girl," whose favorite expression when one of us acted a bit less than ladylike was, "You'd better mind your P's and Q's." I had enough trouble minding my parents without worrying about P's and Q's. Who were THEY anyhow? Still, it always scared me a little.

Some years later I learned the expression evolved from the measuring of pints and quarts of ale, and it made me smile to think of our sweet, God-fearing hired girl using it on us.

When the kids were little we had a sitter who drove us all bananas with "I'll tell the world."

"Isn't it a lovely day, Mrs. M?"

"Oh, I'll tell the world."

Or, "You won't have to worry about meals, Mrs. M. You've probably noticed the children will eat just about everything."

"Oh, I'll tell the world."

Some expressions fall into vogue and quickly become passe. Some prevail and color our speech. Proverbs are a bit different. They are products of an era. They are for teaching; they usually have a wise and truthful message. Our parents and grandparents learned lessons of life from them.

I had a neighbor who must have memorized Poor Richard's Almanac. She had a proverb for anything, and stifled many a conversation by using them in lieu of a thought of her own.

One day after our first child had gone off to college and the house seemed rather quiet, I commented how quickly the children grew and how soon it seems they are ready to strike out on their own.

"Well," my neighbor said, "Here today, gone tomorrow." How do you answer anything so profound?

I had my fill of proverbial wisdom one day last week while crammed into a broom closet fitting room trying on slacks. A solicitous clerk hovered over me, yanking the curtain back the minute I got one leg in the pants to ask, "How are we coming, dearie?" (I hadn't noticed anyone else in the broom closet.) She was right there to retrieve a pair of slacks that didn't fit and hand me another - and another.

Finally, when we were both getting tired and a little desperate, I told the clerk I'd come back some other time - either after losing 10 pounds or having my body remodeled.

I guess it wasn't funny. She looked me square in the eye and said, "Oh my dear! Truth is beauty." And, as she took the slacks and turned to leave she muttered, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, you know."

I'll tell the world.

SPRINGTIME IN MIDWINTER

It's possible that a single pot of tulips in midwinter is equal to a garden full of them later on, although most of us want them later too. None, however, can pass lightly over the first tulips of the new year, or the first hyacinths or daffodils either. It's true that all of these flowers have been in florist shops for some time now, but as each day brings us closer to spring, our desires for spring's beauties quicken.

Keep the plants growing after the flowers fade and save the bulbs for planting in your garden next fall. They will blossom each spring for years to come.

Emeralds hoping to change hard luck

Decisive ball games simply have not been on the schedule for the Manistique Emeralds this year.

In the past week alone, only six points separated the Emerald cagers from their last three opponents.

And unfortunately, two of their last three contests have been one-point losses.

"I hope we can snap back here in the last three games," Coach Seb Rubick said following the Emeralds' 53-54 loss at Gladstone Tuesday night. Manistique fell to Negaunee in a heart-breaker, 53-52 Friday night and turned back Rudyard 61-57 Saturday night.

Manistique hosts St. Ignace Saturday and Class A Escanaba on Tuesday.

Last Tuesday, the Emeralds slipped behind 10-2 in the first quarter and trailed 10-6 at the end of the period. The Braves expanded their lead to 27-19 at halftime. The margin went to 33-23 early in the third quarter. Gladstone's largest advantage of the night, but the Emeralds moved to within six, 39-33, by the buzzer.

In the fourth period, the Emeralds were behind 54-46 in the last minute when John Pistulka hit four straight free throws and Don Videtich canned a field goal to make it 54-52 with 25 seconds left.

But Mark LeGault hit a free throw with 10 seconds left, and a Pistulka connected for a bucket in the final seconds to finish it at 53-54.

Pistulka paced the Emeralds with 21 points, but was charged with two technical fouls. Don Videtich had 15 points. Top scorer for the Braves was Ben Trotter with 24.

After the electrifying 53-52 loss to Negaunee the night before, the Emeralds had some unexpected trouble from the Rudyard Bulldogs at Rudyard Saturday night.

Manistique produced a 19-9 first quarter lead for openers, but saw the margin slip to 33-27 by halftime. The gap was 12 at the third stop, 47-35, but the Bulldogs outscored their guests 22-14 in the final period to make things close.

The Bulldogs crept to within one point, 48-47, after Dave MacFarlane, 6-foot-7 sophomore, sank a field goal. But Berger passed the ball to Pistulka, whose shot made it 50-47 and Rudyard never got closer.

Pistulka led all scorers with 21 points, with Berger adding 18 points and seven assists. Manistique hit 41 percent from the floor, 26 of 63 tries, to Rudyard's 28 of 61 for 46 percent. A major difference showed up in the rebounding department, with the Emeralds grabbing 41 to the Bulldogs' 26. Pistulka collected 13 himself.

Team summaries:
Manistique-Taylor 2-0-2-4; Pistulka 10-1-2-21; Patz 1-0-0-2; Berger 6-6-1-18; Videtich 2-0-1-4; Masters 1-1-0-3; Strasler 4-1-0-9; Jahn 0-0-1-0. Totals: 26-9-7-61.

Rudyard-Peake 4-1-3-9; Brown 2-0-4-4; MacFarlane 10-0-4-20; J. Gough 10-0-3-20; S. Gough 2-0-1-4. Totals: 28-1-15-57.

Did Miners 'rob' us? (It's for referees to say)

It was hard not to come away with an opinion after the Emeralds' last-second 53-52 loss to Negaunee Friday night.

Some fans thought the Emeralds were "robbed" of two seconds when officials rolled the clock back from five to seven seconds after Rick Berger hit a 22-foot jump shot to hand Manistique its second lead of the night, 52-51.

The Miners promptly called a time out, and after discussion among officials, the timer and Negaunee coach Dave Hallgren, two seconds were added to the scoreboard clock.

To some, it was akin to Olympic officials giving the Russians a few seconds after time had run out in their cage showdown with the United States at Munich in 1972. The Soviets called a time out and scored at the buzzer to win the contest.

On Friday night, the Miners rebounded the ball underneath their own bucket in the tense gymnasium and threaded their way through the Emeralds' man to man press.

Miner forward Tom O'Neil received the ball at mid-court and almost as quickly lofted a 35-foot shot that bounced off the backboard and into the basket as the buzzer sounded.

"After snatching the lead back and to have it go all for naught because that guy made a 40-foot shot, it hurt," said Coach Seb Rubick.

"A lot of kids couldn't sleep until 1:30, 2 o'clock," he added. "It was an emotional letdown."

The Emerald coach said that while there is some question whether the officials signaled to stop the clock, as the rule book requires, as soon as Berger's shot went through, it still is the ref's decision to regulate the clock.

Section 12 of the National Federal of State High School Associations' basketball rule book states: "If an obvious error by the time has occurred because of the failure to start or stop the clock at the proper moment, the referees may correct the error only when he has definite information relative to the time involved."

The Emeralds set up the last-second excitement with a stunning comeback in the last three minutes of the game. After trailing from the first minutes of the contest, Manistique was behind 51-42 when Berger hit two free throws at 2:50.

The pressing Emeralds engineered two more buckets on shots by John Pistulka with less than two minutes remaining.

Pistulka tore down the rebound after Gary Garceau missed a free throw attempt with 40 seconds left and Berger hit a 20-footer to make the score 51-50 at :27.

Pistulka then stole a Miner pass and the Emeralds called time out with 14 seconds on the clock.

The crowd was on their feet when Berger's shot went through with 8 seconds showing, and the clock clicked down to five during the uproar.

In the first half, the Miners' man to man key to stop Berger and Don Videtich from getting good outside shots, and the tactic worked. The Miners held a 12-8 lead at the first stop and a 31-26 margin at halftime behind the inside board work and shots by 6-foot-5 center John Vercoe and the shooting of O'Neil.

Manistique was hurt in the third quarter by the temporary loss of Pistulka, who caught a Negaunee elbow above the left eye after the Miners grabbed a rebound and he went to the lockerroom at 4:36.

The score stood 35-30 when he left and 39-30 when he returned at 1:30. The margin went to 41-30 when Jack Korpi sank a 16-footer, but Pistulka hit a field goal and Mark Masters netted two free throws to close it to 41-34 by the end of the period.

Pistulka received five stitches on the cut Saturday and played in the Emeralds' game at Rudyard that night.

For the evening, the Miners outshot the Emeralds, hitting 25 of 55 attempts for 45 percent, to Manistique's 23 of 57 for 40 percent. The visitors also had fewer turnovers, 10 to 14 for the Emeralds. But the hosts surprisingly outbounded the Class C power, 28-23.

Pistulka led Manistique with 16 points and 8 rebounds. Berger tallied 12 points and 8 assists.

Team summaries:
Manistique-Masters 2-2-4-6; Videtich 5-0-0-10; Berger 4-4-2-12; Pistulka 8-0-3-16; Patz 0-0-1-0; Taylor 2-0-0-4; Kaiser 2-0-3-4. Totals: 23-6-13-52.

Negaunee-Vercoe 8-0-1-16; O'Neil 6-0-3-12; Jennings 3-2-2-8; Brownell 0-0-1-3; Garceau 3-1-1-7; Korpi 5-0-2-10; Totals: 25-3-9-53.

Grapplers finish 7th at regionals

The Manistique Emerald grapplers finished a bleak seventh out of nine place in regional competition held in Escanaba Saturday, Feb. 12.

While the team as a whole finished low on roster three team members will have a chance to go on to semi-final final competition this Saturday at Marquette. Placing fourth in individual competition were Jeff Tufnell, (105), and Kevin Beckman (178).

Brian Fountain (165) defeated 6 of his opponents to take a third place rating.

Coach Paul Cappoferri indicated that each match was a close one, with the possibility of some of those going to the Emeralds had it not been for the "wrestling breaks."

"We didn't lose because of condition," Coach Cappoferri explained. "It's what is commonly called the wrestling breaks."

Inexperience in tournament wrestling could have contributed to the overall defeat of the team, according to Coach Cappoferri who said, "There is a lot of distraction in tournament wrestling."

"We were wrestling up to potential but the inexperience hurt us," the coach said.

Host Escanaba latched first in the competition with Sault Ste. Marie second and Munising taking the third place finish.

The grapplers were back on the mats Tuesday night as they took on Gladstone on their home floor.

The Emeralds lost that match 36-30.

Manistique constantly hurt by forfeits throughout the wrestling season, was helped somewhat by an evening of give-aways with both Gladstone and Manistique sharing three apiece.

Jeff Tufnell (105) posted the only pin for Manistique, while decisions went to Steve Hicks (155) and Brian Fountain (165) Taking forfeit wins were Dave Mohn (112) Kevin Beckman (178) and John Pelon (191).

Manistique's last season game was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) as they traveled to Negaunee in final preparation for Saturday's U.P. finals.

The summary:
98: Choinard (G) won by forfeit

Big Bay closes at home against North Central

Big Bay de Noc will entertain Class D powerhouse North Central Friday night in the Black Bears final home game of the regular season.

The Bears evened their overall record at 9-9 and their Central U.P. League mark to 6-6 with victories over Engadine and Rock last week.

On Friday, the Bears whipped Rock 81-54 behind Kevin Miller's 31 points. Greg Pelletier netted 16 and Mark Tatrow hit 14.

After a 10-10 first quarter tie, the Bears opened up a 34-24 halftime lead and 57-43 bulge at the third stop. The Bears outscored the Little Giants 24-11 in the final frame to seal the romp.

On Tuesday night of the last week, the Bears made the long trip to Engadine seem worthwhile by coming up with a 64-57 non-league triumph.

Miller wore down the nets with 36 points and Pelletier chipped in 18. The Eagles held a brief lead, 15-13 at the end of the first period, but the Bears went to work, outscoring Engadine 20-12 in the second stanza and 18-12 in the third quarter.

The Eagles outpointed the Bears 18-13 in the final quarter, but too late to threaten the visitors.

JV Emeralds edge Miners, Bulldogs, Braves for 12-4 mark

Three victories in the past week propelled the Emerald junior varsity's season mark to 12-4, including a big win over Negaunee Friday night.

Coach Bob Ryan called the 67-64 victory over the Miners "our biggest win of the year." Negaunee's JVs are 13 and 3 and number one in the Mid-Peninsula Conference. It was a total team effort and I'm really proud of our guys."

The Emeralds trailed at the first stop, 18-11, but knotted it up by the half, 31-31 and took the lead at the third stop, 48-47.

Jim Curran led Manistique with 17 points, followed by Tim Tufnell with 12, Gary Ketcik with 11 and George Danko with 10.

On Saturday, the JVs had less trouble disposing of Rudyard, 68-44.

The Emeralds and the Bulldogs were tied at the end of the first period, 12-12, and Manistique held only a five-point margin at the halftime break, 27-22.

"We got rolling in the second half and the entire team saw action," Coach Ryan said.

The Emeralds whipped up a 51-36 advantage going into the final quarter and outscored Rudyard 17-8 in the final frame.

Curran again led Manistique with 16. Danko and Tufnell collected 14 and 10 points, respectively.

After holding a large lead against Gladstone Tuesday night, the Emeralds found themselves behind in the third quarter.

Manistique was in front 26-14 at the first period, but clung to a 41-40 margin at the half. In the third stanza, the hustling Braves inched ahead, 58-56, but a flurry of Emerald points in the fourth period shut off the threat, 78-65.

Leading Manistique scorers were Curran with 22; D.J. Anderson, 13; and Tufnell and Danko with 12 apiece.

Frosh top Negaunee, Rudyard

Weekend victories over Negaunee and Rudyard moved the freshman Emeralds' record to 9-3 on the basketball season.

On Friday night, Coach Mike Oas' squad edged the Miners 56-51 and on Saturday night clipped Rudyard 54-47.

"Good rebounding by Jeff Savoie, Paul Culey, and Ben Godlewski, plus steady play by Scott Weber and Brian Smith keyed the big win over Negaunee, Coach Oas said."

Manistique took a 18-13 first quarter advantage and expanded it to 33-22 by halftime. The Miners shrank the margin to 42-37 going into the fourth quarter, but the Emeralds maintained it by the final buzzer.

Savoie paced the Emeralds with 16 points. Culey had 15 and Godlewski, 13.

The Emeralds got off to a good start at Rudyard, opening up a 12-3 first period lead. Manistique held a 22-13 halftime advantage and a 39-31 gap at the third stop. Godlewski led Manistique scorers with 16, followed by Savoie with 12 and Brian Smith with 10.

Scooping snow good for you

SUPER SCOOPERS

After spending his first winter in real snow country a Lower Michigan park man recently opined that Upper Michigan women stay healthier and live longer by pushing snow scoops six months out of the year. Perhaps that's true because once the art of scooping has been perfected and a suitable pace established, a lifetime of fun awaits—and everyone knows that recreation is the best route to good health.

The scoop design and maintenance is all important. Unless the bottom is slightly rockered for tilt-back transportation, the bulk of the load will be deposited en route to the dumping station. The forward edge of the metal bottom must be periodically flattened to assure a good bite and everything except the handles should be paraffin-coated. Nothing more tiring than a payload of snow sticking to the scoop at the end of a full-arm thrust.

Techniques change as winter progresses. When snowbanks arise to unnavigable heights, there is no possibility of keeping your own snow and the great migration is underway.

Almost furtively, each scoop of snow is deposited on the edge of the street on the downstream side of the driveway—downstream being where the snow plow will not return the offering. Instead, it is plowed into the adjacent driveway where it is again scooped downstream for transfer to the next neighbor. Once the "Big Snow" arrives and the first scoop of snow changes ownership, the flow is continuous until spring. It's been suggested that some scoops of snow may circle the block completely during a winter and return to rightful owners.

It's also been suggested that this constant handling simply wears out the snow by mid-April, contributing greatly to the arrival of spring.

That's silly, of course, and yet, since the arrival of snowblowers and the decline in the number of old ladies pushing snow scoops, winter does seem to have stretched out a bit....

Memoirs

By Mark Eisenlohr

Fond remembrances of the past

Occasionally through this column I will touch off a remembrance by a reader of some past experience they had while growing up here in Schoolcraft County.

As I read these I am impressed by the detail that can be remembered once the door has been pushed open.

But what I enjoy most, and am impressed with the most, is the singular fact that most remembrances are of a good nature, fond recollection.

Life as it was here in Schoolcraft County yesterday could only have been one of warm and deep, everlasting experiences. Good or bad, they all seem to be remembered with a touch of nostalgia.

Marie Reid of Cook's took a few minutes of her time to sit down and write some of her recollections on past modes of travel. She writes:

Reading "Memoirs" by Mark Eisenlohr in last week's Tribune recalls to mind some reminiscences on my part; namely school bus transportation.

"In the twenties when winter had arrived on the scene, the body of the school bus was removed from its chassis and installed on a set of sleighs with runners that were pulled over the snow by a team of horses.

"Mr. Rocheleau of Cooks, owned such a team. They were beautiful dapple greys and they performed their work well. Inside the horse-drawn bus there was a kerosene heater to provide warmth.

"The floor of the bus was generously covered with nice clean straw to keep our feet warm!

"A fire hazard you say? Maybe so. But to my knowledge, was ever any the worse for this method of getting to school.

"Then in the spring, when the snow had finally disappeared and the roads became muddy, impassable would be more the correct word to use—the sleigh bus was abandoned for a hay wagon drawn by yet another team of horses owned by Curtis Blosser.

"Us kids used to sit on the edge of the wooded wagon dangling our feet over the sides, while perhaps some of the more daring even managed to stand upright as

SNOW REMOVAL EQUIPMENT in the early twenties looked something like this horse drawn plow.

Roads were not plowed during the winter until 1925-26. Most cars were put up on blocks at the start of the winter, with the battery removed. There was probably not much anti-freeze sold in those days.

we made our bumpy way over the deeply rutted gravel road toward home.

"And speaking of sleigh rides, I guess I am one of the privileged few who can now boast that they ever had a real honest to goodness sleigh ride!

"I have fond memories of riding with my grandpa Pierre Archambeault, in his cutter, as he called it. He would come over to get all of us for dinner at the farm.

We all snuggled together under a huge bearskin rug that grandpa provided and it was a happy ride with much laughing and shouting accompanied by the jingle of sleigh bells and grandpa urging on his horse.

Mrs. N. B. Sheppard of 905 Manistique Ave., called me last week concerning the town of Edmore. I had thought that the town was located somewhere in this area.

I had based this observation on an ad that appeared in a 1930 edition of the Pioneer-Tribune informing patrons that the Edmore Coliseum was installing sound equipment.

Mrs. Shepard informed me that there was a town, no more than a wide spot in the road, near Grand Rapids called Edmore.

Which got me to thinking. Could it be that there was yet another theater in this area, possibly called the Edmore Coliseum?

Last week I received through the mail an envelope containing several pictures of flood conditions in Manistique around 1920 and some pictures of early snow removal equipment in schoolcraft county.

Unfortunately, no name was attached to the pictures and little information was provided. What was provided, I've used in the outline for the picture reprinted above.

Perhaps, if a few of you old-timers would want to stop in we could identify the other pictures and offer them to the readers of this column.

Campus Day for women is coming up

CAMPUS DAY FOR WOMEN is less than a month away. We have been working behind the scenes for some time and have put together what we consider a variety package. We have tried to consider the interests of everyone. The comments and suggestions you made on the evaluation sheet last year were of great help in deciding what to offer this year. We will be looking forward to your suggestions this year.

This week I would like to share a few things with you which could not be put on the Campus Day brochure because of space shortage.

The fee of $4 will pay for your lunch and the days activities. Remember that great salad lunch we had last year - served by the ISD Food Service class under the direction of Mrs. Emma Raboin. This year we are having a repeat. We are looking forward to a delightful lunch.

The lunch will be served at two different times so you will be able to get through the lunch line faster and have more time to eat. Don't worry about not having enough to eat because last year Mrs. Raboin took back almost as much as we ate.

We are trying to please you as much as we can in honoring your first request, but classrooms are only so big and when the room gets full we honor your second request. Don't delay sending in your reservation. The fairest way we know is "first come, first served".

On March 9 go to the gym for your registration information and keynote speaker address. Then we will divide up and go to our classes. We haven't allowed any special time for you to get between classes. We expect you to hurry along so the teacher can have about 50 minutes for the session.

We have had one change in guest speakers for Campus Day. The class "The Woman Alone and Leisure Time" will be taught by Ellen Fulcher, Bay instructor.

Many people have called and want to know how they will know if their reservation has been accepted. When our quota is full we will return your application and money. If your application has not been returned by March 9th you should plan to attend.

We are all looking forward to this very special day and I hope to see you all there.

Don't Miss It!

School communication channels

Maintaining open channels of communication between itself, the student body and the community is a continuous task for the Manistique Area Schools Board of Education.

The school board listened carefully to representatives of the high school's Student Council at the board's special meeting Friday, and asked questions to bring out details of the students' comments and criticisms.

That is evidence of the board's interest in obtaining student opinion on how the schools are operating. However, a bit of "extra" information was thrown in.

In the course of the discussion on the hot lunch program and student conduct problems on school buses, the name of one bus driver was mentioned. When the driver learned he was named at the open meeting through media reports, he felt that the student council had shown him a discourtesy by not talking to him first.

On the other hand, the student representatives who talked to the board received some feedback from students and others that implied they were responsible for the driver's feeling that he was slighted.

Fortunately, by Wednesday morning the matter was cleared up and the driver, who has a good record, was working his bus route with expected cooperation from his riders.

The experience served to demonstrate how persons can be affected when they are connected with criticisms of alleged activities or incidents in a school system.

Channels to voice comments and questions to the school board must remain open, and the expression of thoughts and suggestions should be encouraged. Students who have the concern and the courage to come before the board with specific comments are to be complimented for their input.

Still, there needs to be care in handling matters touching on school personnel, especially when quick evaluations are made or implied of school employees. Many of the problems are for school administrators, and not the school board, to handle. The board is more effective as a forum for the development of policies and making major decisions; comments and criticisms brought before the board should be made with its true function in mind.

It's a simple lesson to be learned when some feelings are hurt. Simple, yet significant.

Forget the Honor of being called to Washington to work on the Jimmy Carter team. I am turned on by words, not politics.

And Wade McCree Jr. is a sonneteer. A sonneteer writes sonnets. He sonnetizes. A sonnet is a poem which contains 14 lines divided into three quatrains followed by a couplet. (If you are properly impressed, I will now close my dictionary.)

It was a coincidence that I met Judge McCree at a holiday party the night before the media revealed that he might become solicitor general of the United States. It was a touch of class that, during two hours of conversation, McCree never even hinted at the possible honor coming his way.

A lesser man would have been preening strenuously, making certain everyone present knew that his great wisdom was needed by the White House, or the nation might founder.

Most of us mortals would handle such a situation in the manner of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young. A Carter representative asked Young if he would be available for consideration for a job in the Carter administration. No job was offered. But Young made it sound as if Carter wouldn't move to Washington if Young didn't agree to live next door.

Young's syntax was so politically adroit that he fooled the Detroit News completely. The News published a frontpage story saying Young had refused Carter's offer to become secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Young was quoted as saying he felt it was his higher duty to stay in Detroit and save us all from perdition. It was marvelous publicity for the mayor, who faces re-election this year.

But it wasn't true. It was a misunderstanding, to be polite about it. Or the mayor got carried away by the sound of his own horn blowing, if you prefer the rude description.

Whatever. The next day's rumblings prompted Young to clarify the matter. He admitted he hadn't been offered the HUD job. He had simply been queried as to his availability in case of an opening. This was the same query put to hundreds of other big shots who sat by their phones throughout the Carter transition period.

Judge McCree explained it simply. "I have been asked about my availability for consideration," he told a reporter in December, "but that's as far as it's gone....I'm not really in a position to say I've been offered anything because I haven't."

That's class, which is always honest and often has nothing to do with politics.

Last week it was announced in Washington that McCree will get the job. If Griffin Bell is confirmed as attorney general, McCree will be his solicitor general. The newspapers were full of it; tracing McCree's splendid career as a civil rights

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

activist, a lawyer, a circuit judge and a federal judge. It was generally agreed that his next stop will be the U.S. Supreme Court.

Which is all exceedingly impressive stuff. But none of the news articles mentioned that McCree is a sonneteer. You read it here first.

I am supposed to be a writer, and I am never thrilled to learn that some accountant or lawyer can write better than I do. It doesn't seem fair. I never plead cases or audit books. Why don't those smarties stick to their professions and leave the writing to those of us who can't do anything else?

At that Christmas party, when he might have been bragging about his Carter connection, McCree recited some of his sonnets. I wanted to pound a gavel and cite some precedents. But my wife made me listen.

And I heard the sonnet McCree had written on the back of an envelope during the funeral of a friend. He wasn't satisfied with the minister's eulogy, so he whipped off 14 lines and handed them to the widow as he left the church.

This sonnet was written in 1974 for a man named Harold Bledsoe. McCree said he could have written it in 1976 for Sen. Philip Hart.

When a tall tree falls, it makes a thund'rous sound

To tell the forest that a giant is dead,

And now, there seems an empty plot of ground

Where once a stalwart presence raised its head.

But if you look, the ground on which it stood Brings forth green seedlings, reaching for the sun

To find their place as stalwarts in the wood

Beginning as their parent had begun.

And so, the great soul whom we mourn today

Has not left us without a legacy

A host of fledglings studied 'neath his sway,

Each one may someday be a mighty tree

Thus God, His will inexorable ordains

To make us mortals know that He still Reigns.

How Manistique Youth Commission grew since birth one year ago

by Father Frank Lenz Manistique Youth Commission

The Manistique Youth Commission has had a very good first year, a very successful year.

The commission has a good reputation in the community, good rapport with the high school students of the area, and a good feeling of confidence in its abilities to operate and conduct social recreational activities for the high school age kids of the community.

The commission looks forward to continued and growing success, especially in light of the fact that a community center is apparently just right around the corner.

Since it was established by city council resolution on Feb. 9, 1976, the youth commission has paid all of its own bills. It has received no money from city, state, or federal agencies.

The commission is operating on a budget of approximately $5,000 per year. That involves money received and bills paid out, including rentals for the National Guard Armory and bands for dances (averaging about $200 apiece).

At this time the commission has a bank balance of over $1300. This money is gradually growing and waiting to be spent on card tables, pool tables, ping pong tables, magazines, things of that sort to be put into and used in the Manistique Community Center, when that will be built.

The 15 or so dances sponsored by the commission have been amazingly peaceful and free of trouble.

There have been only two occasions of any violence at the dances. At the very first dance on April 24, 1976 was a very brief scuffle between two boys which was over quickly. It has happily broken up by the kids who were right there and they were quickly disposed of.

There was a fight on June 8 involving, not high school students but rather a 19 year old and a 26 year old.

The youth commission acting in advice of the Teen Advisory Committee, decided to take the matter to court to make it very clear to everyone that the dances would be held peacefully and enjoyably and would not be disrupted by a very small minority of people who might be inclined to cause trouble.

As a result of that court decision, June 30, the matter was resolved with a suspended sentence, probation, and court cost decision from Judge Charles Stark, all of which was good news to the commission and to the great majority of kids in the area.

In all of the dances since that time, there has been no repetition of that type of trouble. There have been no fights, no pushing and shoving, no violence of any kind.

The teen advisors are certainly among the most important people on the youth commission, because they have the major responsibility of serving as go-betweens for the adults and official people of the community, the youth commission, the "Establishment," and the high school teenage youth of the area.

From a list of about 50 teenagers recommended by their peers the following students were chosen as the charter members of the Teen Advisory Committee: Freshmen, Val Wood, Judy Traven, John Villemure, D.J. Anderson; sophomores, John Nagy, Norm Jahn, Judy Burns, Jennie Behrend; junior, Rick Berger, Dorre Mulhaupt, Karen Hendricks, and Colleen Cooper; seniors, Eric Reque, Gail Pistulka, Mark Salo, Patti Olesak.

The first dance of the Manistique Youth Commission was arranged through the good offices of Mark French, who is the head of local 663, musicians union based in Escanaba. The musician performance trust fund has a fund to arrange for low-cost or free dances for worthwhile causes, and Mr. French agreed to help arrange for a band called "Big Blue" to play for the first dance, which was held at the National Guard Armory.

Bob Leny was a big help in arranging for the nominal cost use of the armory for this first dance. The National Guard personnel and officers administrators were thereafter very helpful in arranging dances at the armory.

Worthy of special notice are Sgt. Dan Hooffman and Loyd Curruthers, both very helpful in taking care of details and arrangements for the dances held at the armory.

The Manistique Youth Commission has worked in a variety of ways, formal and informal, with any number of other organizations in the town.

One that might be especially mentioned is the swimming program that has evolved with the help of Al Schuster, Mike Younce, and other people of the Manistique area including Bob Renton. The competitive swimming program has involved about 65 people as competitors in the first meet and about 50 competitors in the second meet.

Radio Station WTIQ has provided this regular 15-minute slot on Saturday afternoons at 12:30 as a public service to the people of the community so that the commission could announce its plans, activities, and programs.

Chaperone coverage has been supplied by the Kiwanis Club and the St. Francis de Sales Parent-Teachers Organization for several dances. The Rotary Club also has voiced its willingness to chaperone a couple of dances. It's a great service to the commission and to the youth of our area that different organizations volunteer their help.

The commission also assisted at the annual Fourth of July games conducted at the high school football stadium. Fourteen advisors and several commissioners volunteered to help sell flags along the parade route.

In October, the commission picked four new freshmen teen advisors: Patti Alexander, Barb Bontekoe, Ann Ozanich and Elaine Klarich. Two new junior members picked later to fill vacancies were Kris Reque and Brian Fountain.

Charter commission members appointed by the city council include: Father Frank Lenz, clergyman; Stan Arnold, teacher at the high school; Jane Hensen, advisor to the student Council and high school teacher; Betty La Pointe, high school teacher; Bill Carlson, state trooper; Tony Schomin, junior high teacher and basketball coach; Gerald Graphos, secretary treasurer of Little League for 12 years.

The terms of office of a couple of commissioners are due to expire soon and new candidates are being considered. These new candidates will be recommended to the city council for its consideration and approval.

Cooperation by teen advisors, commissioners and community groups has shown the great potential for the youth commission to raise its own money for future activities and its own equipment, when a community center is constructed in Manistique, hopefully before this year is out.

Don't you believe in snow fleas?

The other day around the office we got into a very heavy discussion on a subject of tremendous importance, snow fleas. Never heard of them, you say. Well, you're not alone. There were a number of doubters around the Pioneer-Tribune office who said they had never heard of snow fleas either. They seemed to think that a couple of wise old timers were trying to put them on.

Proof positive that snow fleas do in fact exist is now at hand. Entomology specialist Richard Sauer of Michigan State University supplied the information from a request of County Extension Director Al Hepker.

Sauer reported that snow fleas are actually springtails. They are a very common and abundant insect which have unusual jumping powers for their size. Because of their small size, springtails are seldom observed and most often are found in concealed situations.

An exception, however, is the dark-colored species of the snow flea often found on warm winter days on the surface of the snow.

The entomologist reports that most springtails occur in leaf mold, in damp soil, in bark and in decaying logs or in fungi. A few species are found on the surface of fresh water pools. The snow fleas feed on algae that grows on the surface of the snow.

With that kind of documentation, I'm a more committed believer in snow fleas, but algae growing on top of the snow I don't know about.

The snow flea and his activities are undergoing further study by a graduate student at Michigan State. If you should be wandering through the woods on your snow machine and spot a fellow on his hands and knees examining the snow, it might just be a snow flea student.

Seven warning signals for dreaded 'cabin fever'

How can you know if you've got "cabin fever?" Here's some warning signals of that dreaded ailment of the deep, late winter:

1. Bloodshot eyes, from prolonged gazing at maps of other states, especially lush garden areas of the nation (until the pattern of red lines in the white membrane matches the colored network of highways on paper).

2. An irresistible twitching in the feet, relievable only by track shoes, at the first sign of the mercury inching above 32 degrees.

3. Any sudden craving for ball park hot dogs (especially with a baseball game in front of them).

4. Olfactory illusions, like the imagined smell of a trout, which, as the fish is lowered (only to rudely awaken to a pan of frozen rainbows thawing in the sink).

5. Deceptive sounds of crashing surf and a slither of water-skiing behind a roaring motorboat (hard reality: another weekend amid the rumbling machines at the laundromat).

6. A daily compulsion to check the TV listings in hopes that "Roots" would continue for another 39 installments.

7. Bolting upright in bed after dreaming of sailing in a hot air balloon over Isle Royale on a glorious August day (especially after half a ton of icicles fall on your house's electrical lines, cutting power for 24 hours).

Actually, detecting the affliction is far less difficult than finding an effective cure. What's worse, some of the cures can wind up becoming additional symptoms—like endless arts and crafts and checkers.

The long, long winter of 1977 doesn't seem to leave many options. Many people are tired of seasonal outdoor sports after three months of freezing temperatures, and the weeks ahead do not seem to promise a sudden change in the climate.

On top of it all, while we struggle along with an unusually harsh Michigan winter, it's the folks in Buffalo who get all the publicity.

Maybe cabin fever spreads faster in penthouses and tenements.

An inspiring gentleman

To the Editor:

I am inspired to write this letter about a person I know little about, but who has really impressed me. What a living lesson to be learned in sheer intestinal fortitude (I like guts better) by watching Russell Greenwood each day this winter.

His walk, six inches at a time, is a magnificent illustration of progress by perseverance. He is a living testimony of how one should live and achieve, a step at a time, doing one's best for that moment.

I understand this handicapped gentleman is in his 80's and I salute him.

I would hope and pray that I could take my handicaps, whatever they might be, and live the future with the same splendor and tenacity.

Put it in your own words

Write us a letter. Box 431, Manistique Mi, 49854

Isabella

by Mrs. Harvey Sundin 644-2349

This reading was given to me by a dear friend and I'd like to share it with you: "Strength for the Daily Grind"

But I say to you. "Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you." It was Dr. William Menninger, pioneer psychiatrist, who noted that security is one of the pillars upon which mental health rests.

He was aware that security isn't a matter of money, because millionaires can feel extremely insecure. It isn't a question of having food and lodging because many who have these lead miserably insecure lives. The sense of security which we all crave, hinges largely on loving human relationships. When we cannot give or receive love, we are bound to feel insecure. If we are loved and surrounded by affection we feel secure and in all probability if we are loved, we have given love to others.

It's a two way street. To be loved is giving love.

There is therefore, grim realism in the admonition of Jesus to love your enemies, and pray for those who persecute you, to live in conflict with others is to invite insecurity, to hate those who hurt us is to ask for inner conflict and haunting feelings; of inadequacy, our hostilities and our conflict with others tear us apart emotionally, and sometimes leave us ill.

The absence of love, also means the absence of God.

It is a sign of genuine maturity when our faith in God, gives us courage to love the unloveable and grace to pray for those who have wounded us with harsh words or thoughtless deed.

The only possible healing for broken human relationships is to be found in love large enough to embrace the unloveable, with undiscourageable good will and concern for them.

In the final summary, he who loves, honestly, gives himself never has to worry about being loved.

He is secure in loves embrace.

Grant us grace to love one another, our Father, to care for our enemies and pray for those who would of spirits.

Is Seeing Believing?

Ever talk, really talk, to someone who's blind? Someone who depends upon their fingertips to get the message, and knows that it's late afternoon only when the warm sun kisses their cheeks?
You may find that they "see" a lot more than we do!
In a dark world, people come to the truth by the sound of voices, the feel of things, the touch of others. Much of life is a sham. Hairstyles don't matter, nor the kind of car someone drives, or the cost of their clothes, or the lavishness of their home, it is the person who counts.
A blind person knows faith, too, because he has needed it desperately, because he's had to grope for it, because it's become very tangible, very precious, when finally he has found it.
We could take lessons.

Beef management tips provided for U.P. farmers

IRRIGATION MEETING

A special irrigation meeting for Upper Peninsula farmers will be held Tuesday, Feb. 22, 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Marquette.

With the recent dry period, considerable interest has generated in irrigation systems, and water sources. The program is as follows: water rights, ground water, irrigation economics, irrigation systems, fertilization through irrigation and irrigation experiences from growers. Following the meeting, farmers will have an opportunity to discuss individual problems with specialists.

I will be attending the meeting and so far have three passengers. Interested farmers should call the Extension Office for transportation.

FORAGE AND SMALL GRAIN MEETING

A meeting on forages and small grains will be held Tuesday, March 2, at 7:30 in the Extension Conference Room. Rich Loop, extension specialist in Crop and Soil Science will be here to cover the latest information in forages and small grains.

His program will include the following: variety selection, moisture saving practices, small grain selection, cultural practices, weed control in forages and small grains and insect and disease control in forages and small grains.

It has been a couple of years since our last small grain and forage meeting and some new varieties and practices have been developed since that time. Attend this special meeting and learn the latest cultural practices and new varieties.

BEEF MANAGEMENT TIPS

With the extreme cold weather the past few months beef farmers should watch the condition of their cattle closely. It seems as though last summer's hay crop was of pretty poor quality, being seriously low in energy, protein and vitamins.

County Extension

The following precautions and practices could help save cattle losses this winter and spring:

1st - have forage tested to determine nutritional quality.

2nd - feed supplemental protein and energy concentrates.

3rd - supply adequate vitamins and minerals

4th - provide adequate clean water.

5th - control lice on cattle.

6th - separate poor doers and give special attention.

7th - observe periodically for problems.

We are also starting into the calving season. Some beef farmers have a number of calves on the ground already. Remember that live calf will be your only chance for a profit.

Some tips at calving time include: careful observation of cows four times daily; drying off calf; make sure calf gets colostrum; disinfect naval with iodine solution; give vitamin shots; and tag calf for identification.

Finally, you should start feeding the lactating cows a higher energy ration than the regular brood herd. We have an excellent bulletin covering calving season management. For a copy stop in or contact your county extension office.

Talents come in doing all sorts of special things including singing, painting, etc., etc.

Ethel Howland is a gal who loves to write and is one of our participants on Friday afternoons. Here are two samples of her writings and I think they are really great.

THE MEANING OF FRIENDSHIP

What does it mean to be a friend? A helping hand to the journey's end. A loyal heart and a loving one too, No task too great for a friend to do!

What does it mean to be a friend? A burden carried around the bend. A hill to climb for another's sake. There's nothing a friend won't undertake!

What does it mean to be a friend? A tongue that is quickest to defend. A friend comes through when the test demands. A friend is a person who understands!

What does it mean to be a friend? A life to keep and a purse to lend. The sort of friend I want to be, The kind of friend you are to me!

RECIPE FOR A GOOD DAY

"Take two parts of unselfishness and one part of patience and work together. Add plenty of industry; lighten with good spirits and sweeten with kindness. Put in smiles as thick as raisins in plum pudding and bake by the warmth which streams from a loving heart.

"If this fails to make a good day, the fault is not with the recipe but the cook!"

I bring you greetings from Florida. I am enjoying the warmth, the beaches and the sunshine and wish you could all be here to share this with me. I will be back Feb. 28 with all my tan and robust senior citizens.

Birthdays greetings go out to: Rose Hobson, Mrs. Ingrid (Harry) Anderson, Feb. 17; Helen Balog, Feb. 18; Hazel Norton, Feb. 19; Marie Marks, Susan Rodman, Julija Lagzdins, Feb. 20; Eva Matlin, Carol Shelly, Anna Lasich, Feb. 21; Marvel Anderson, Emma Fountain, Vera Tennyson, Feb. 22; Gertrude Dean, Beth Cockram, Milton Casey, Martha Cool, Feb. 23.

Building fund donations came from Mike Barkovich, Rose and Carl Christiansen, Dewey and Stella Brawley, Aileen Nelson, Leola and Ken Engel, Ethel Howland, Thomas and Kathe Wood, Chet and Frances Elliott, Anthony Buech, Martha Cool (and in memorial of Cliff Cool), Erlend and Ellen Danielson, Millie DeVine, Frank Gierke, Virginia Foye, Charles and Ruth Matchinski, and Leonard and Magdalen Donaldson and two donors who wish to remain anonymous.

Remember, the Manistique Senior Citizen Center will be closed Monday Feb. 21, and there will be no transportation service on that day!

New group to form

The Eagles would like to take flight in Manistique.

Kenneth A. Teppo of Newberry, who has been interviewing residents on the possibility of forming a Fraternal Order of Eagles here has set an informal meeting at 8 p.m. Feb. 21 at Coluzzi's to discuss the potential.

Anybody 18 years or older, plus present and past members of Eagles are welcome to attend the meeting, Teppo said.

Formed Feb. 6, 1898 in Seattle, Wash., the Fraternal Order of Eagles has supported community services, churches, schools and Eagle charities, including heart and cancer research.

Five U.S. presidents were Eagles: Teddy Roosevelt, Warren G. Harding, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and John F. Kennedy.

Persons interested in obtaining more information may write to Teppo at Box 114, Newberry 49868 or call 293-8000.

"There is no way that I, or anyone else in the government can solve our energy problems, if you are not willing to help."

President Jimmy Carter on February 2, 1977, in his televised address to the American people.

The President is talking to all of us.

The President states it clearly and well. There is a critical energy shortage.

The gas industry is in crisis. The electric power industry has generally been able to meet the demands of its customers. However, the extraordinary cold weather that has gripped much of the nation has strained even this industry's capacity to serve.

There is a need to conserve our energy, and make "mutual sacrifices," as the President says.

And, as we have communicated to him, prompt conservation efforts must also be accompanied by immediate steps to assure an adequate energy supply.

In order to develop an adequate electric power supply, several obstacles must be recognized and overcome. The electric generating plants that are straining today must be reinforced and supplemented by additional plants tomorrow, both fossil fuel and nuclear.

The President also said, and we agree, that we must step up the development of fossil fuel, especially coal, as well as other viable resources.

An adequate energy supply is so fundamental, so vital to us as a people and as a nation, we simply must find solutions that people of good will can agree on.

All of us, not just here, but everyone, everywhere, must work together to solve this critical national problem. And conserving energy is one effective way each of us can help.

Wilderness doors open to cross country skiing

by Mark Eisenlohr

In the middle of a nasty Upper Peninsula winter, just about anything beats walking. But for a growing number of the U.P. outdoors lovers, or the entire Michigan outdoor scene, the "anything" that beats it the most is cross country skiing. Cross country skiers have the advantage of enjoying the outdoors in a silent atmosphere of pine forests, hardwood stands, or even the solitude of a bare and open field, during the middle of the most vicious winter.

As quiet schussing serenely saturates the surrounding scenic outdoors, cross country skiers become overwhelmed by the intense vastness of the state's "playground."

An obscure sport until just a few years ago, cross country skiing was caught on because it's spectacularly scenic, relatively cheap and as easy (almost) as walking.

Skiing also offers the distinct advantage of travel faster than the proverbial two feet. In several hours time, the cross country skier can cover almost three times the ground, and still be going so slow that you can almost see every unique snowflake, every natural wonder, and almost every animal that nature has to offer. Since the beginning of the cross-country craze, prices have dropped somewhat as manufacturers geared themselves to producing a number and variety of skis to fit almost anyone's budget.

For under $80 the average person can get himself up in a good pair of skis that will provide enjoyment above and beyond the cost of the initial investment.

Less expensive wooden skis need to be waxed by hand. The mystique and problems associated with hand waxing are blown out of proportion and preparing wooden skis is relatively simple.

For skiers who don't want to mess with wax, there are synthetic skis with plastic fish scales, used by most racers, or skis with mohair that perform the same function.

But those work best on prepared tracks that are almost like ice, and wooden skis are still superior for touring and breaking new trails through fresh snow.

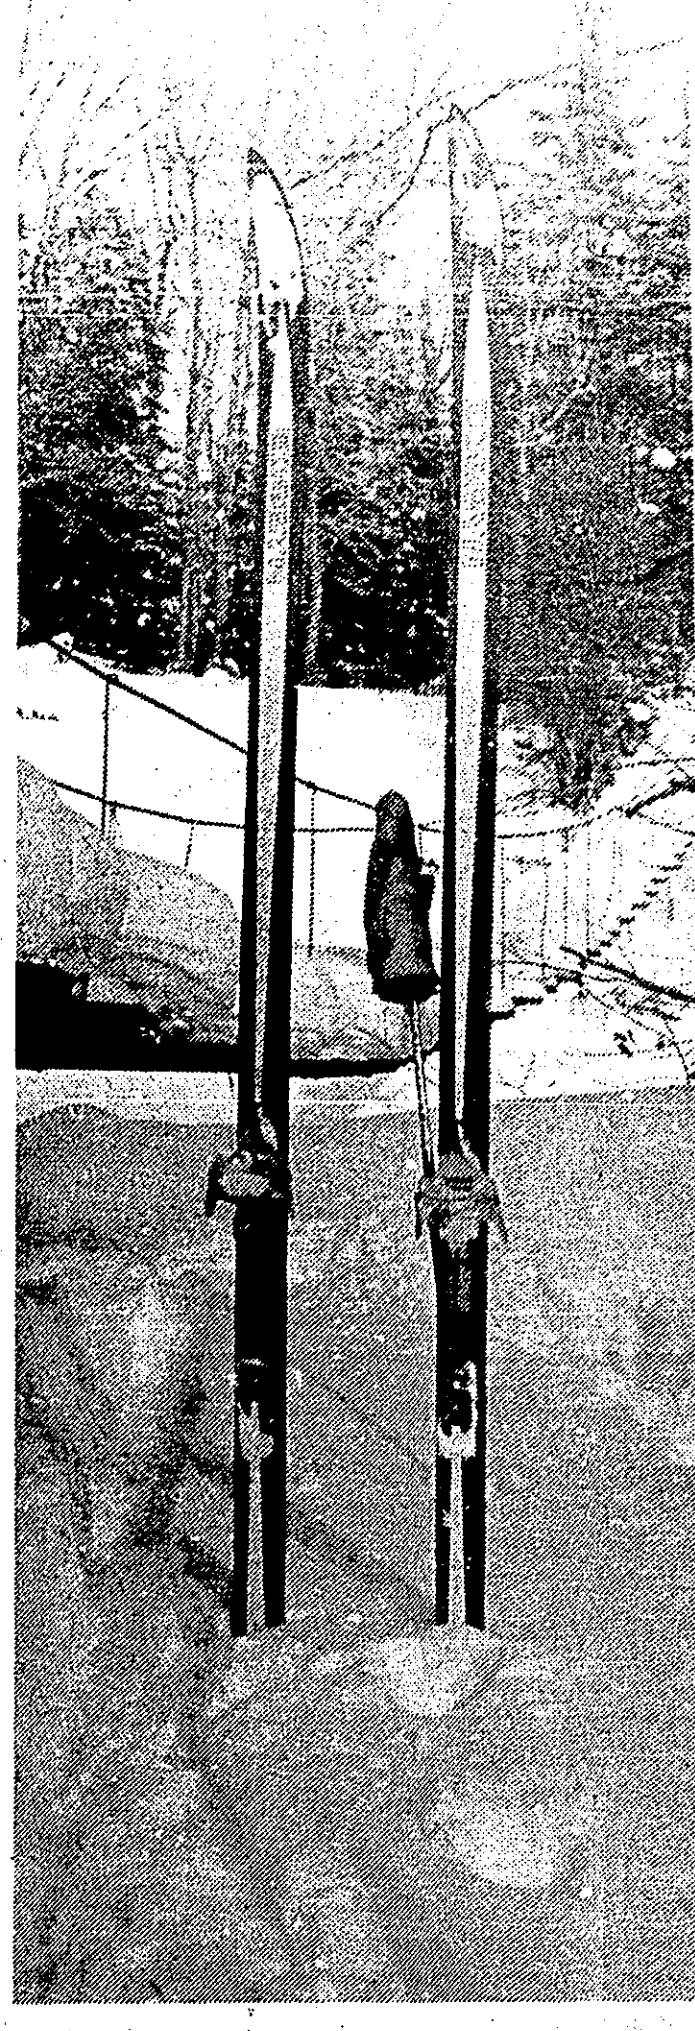

When a skier is ready to start, state agencies will help him decide where to go to.

The Michigan Travel Commission will provide a Winter Sports Guide and Ski Map which lists facilities, directions, telephone numbers and special information for downhill and cross country skiing. Write to them at P.O. Box 30226, Lansing, 48909.

The DNR Forestry Division can provide individual maps of about 20 marked cross country trails in state forests and expects to have about six more ready by the end of this year.

The DNR Parks Division will send skiers a list of winter quiet areas (where snowmobiles and other motorized vehicles are banned) in state forests, parks and game areas, and the DNR Wildlife division can supply individual maps for game areas. Write to them at P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, 48909.

There's not a lot of wilderness left in Michigan, people have said, until the winter comes around and the snow falls and cross country skis let you travel quickly and quietly. And suddenly you find the wilderness.

CROSS COUNTRY ENTHUSIASTS have a variety of locations in Schoolcraft County from which to choose. The Dept. of Natural Resources, forestry division, maintains a trail at Ashford Lake. The 18-mile trail can be broken up into three varying lengths for those who are not hardy enough to go the full length. The first loop runs for three miles; the second for six miles; and the third for nine miles. Or, an unlimited woods area in Schoolcraft County would let the cross-country skier strike out on his own, and possibly find something like this swinging bridge that the photographer "discovered" a few weeks ago.

IT WAS ABOUT A three-mile trek into the bridge area, so a rest was in order upon arrival. Planting the skis into the snow, the photographer prepares to leave the safety of the ground and explore the other side.

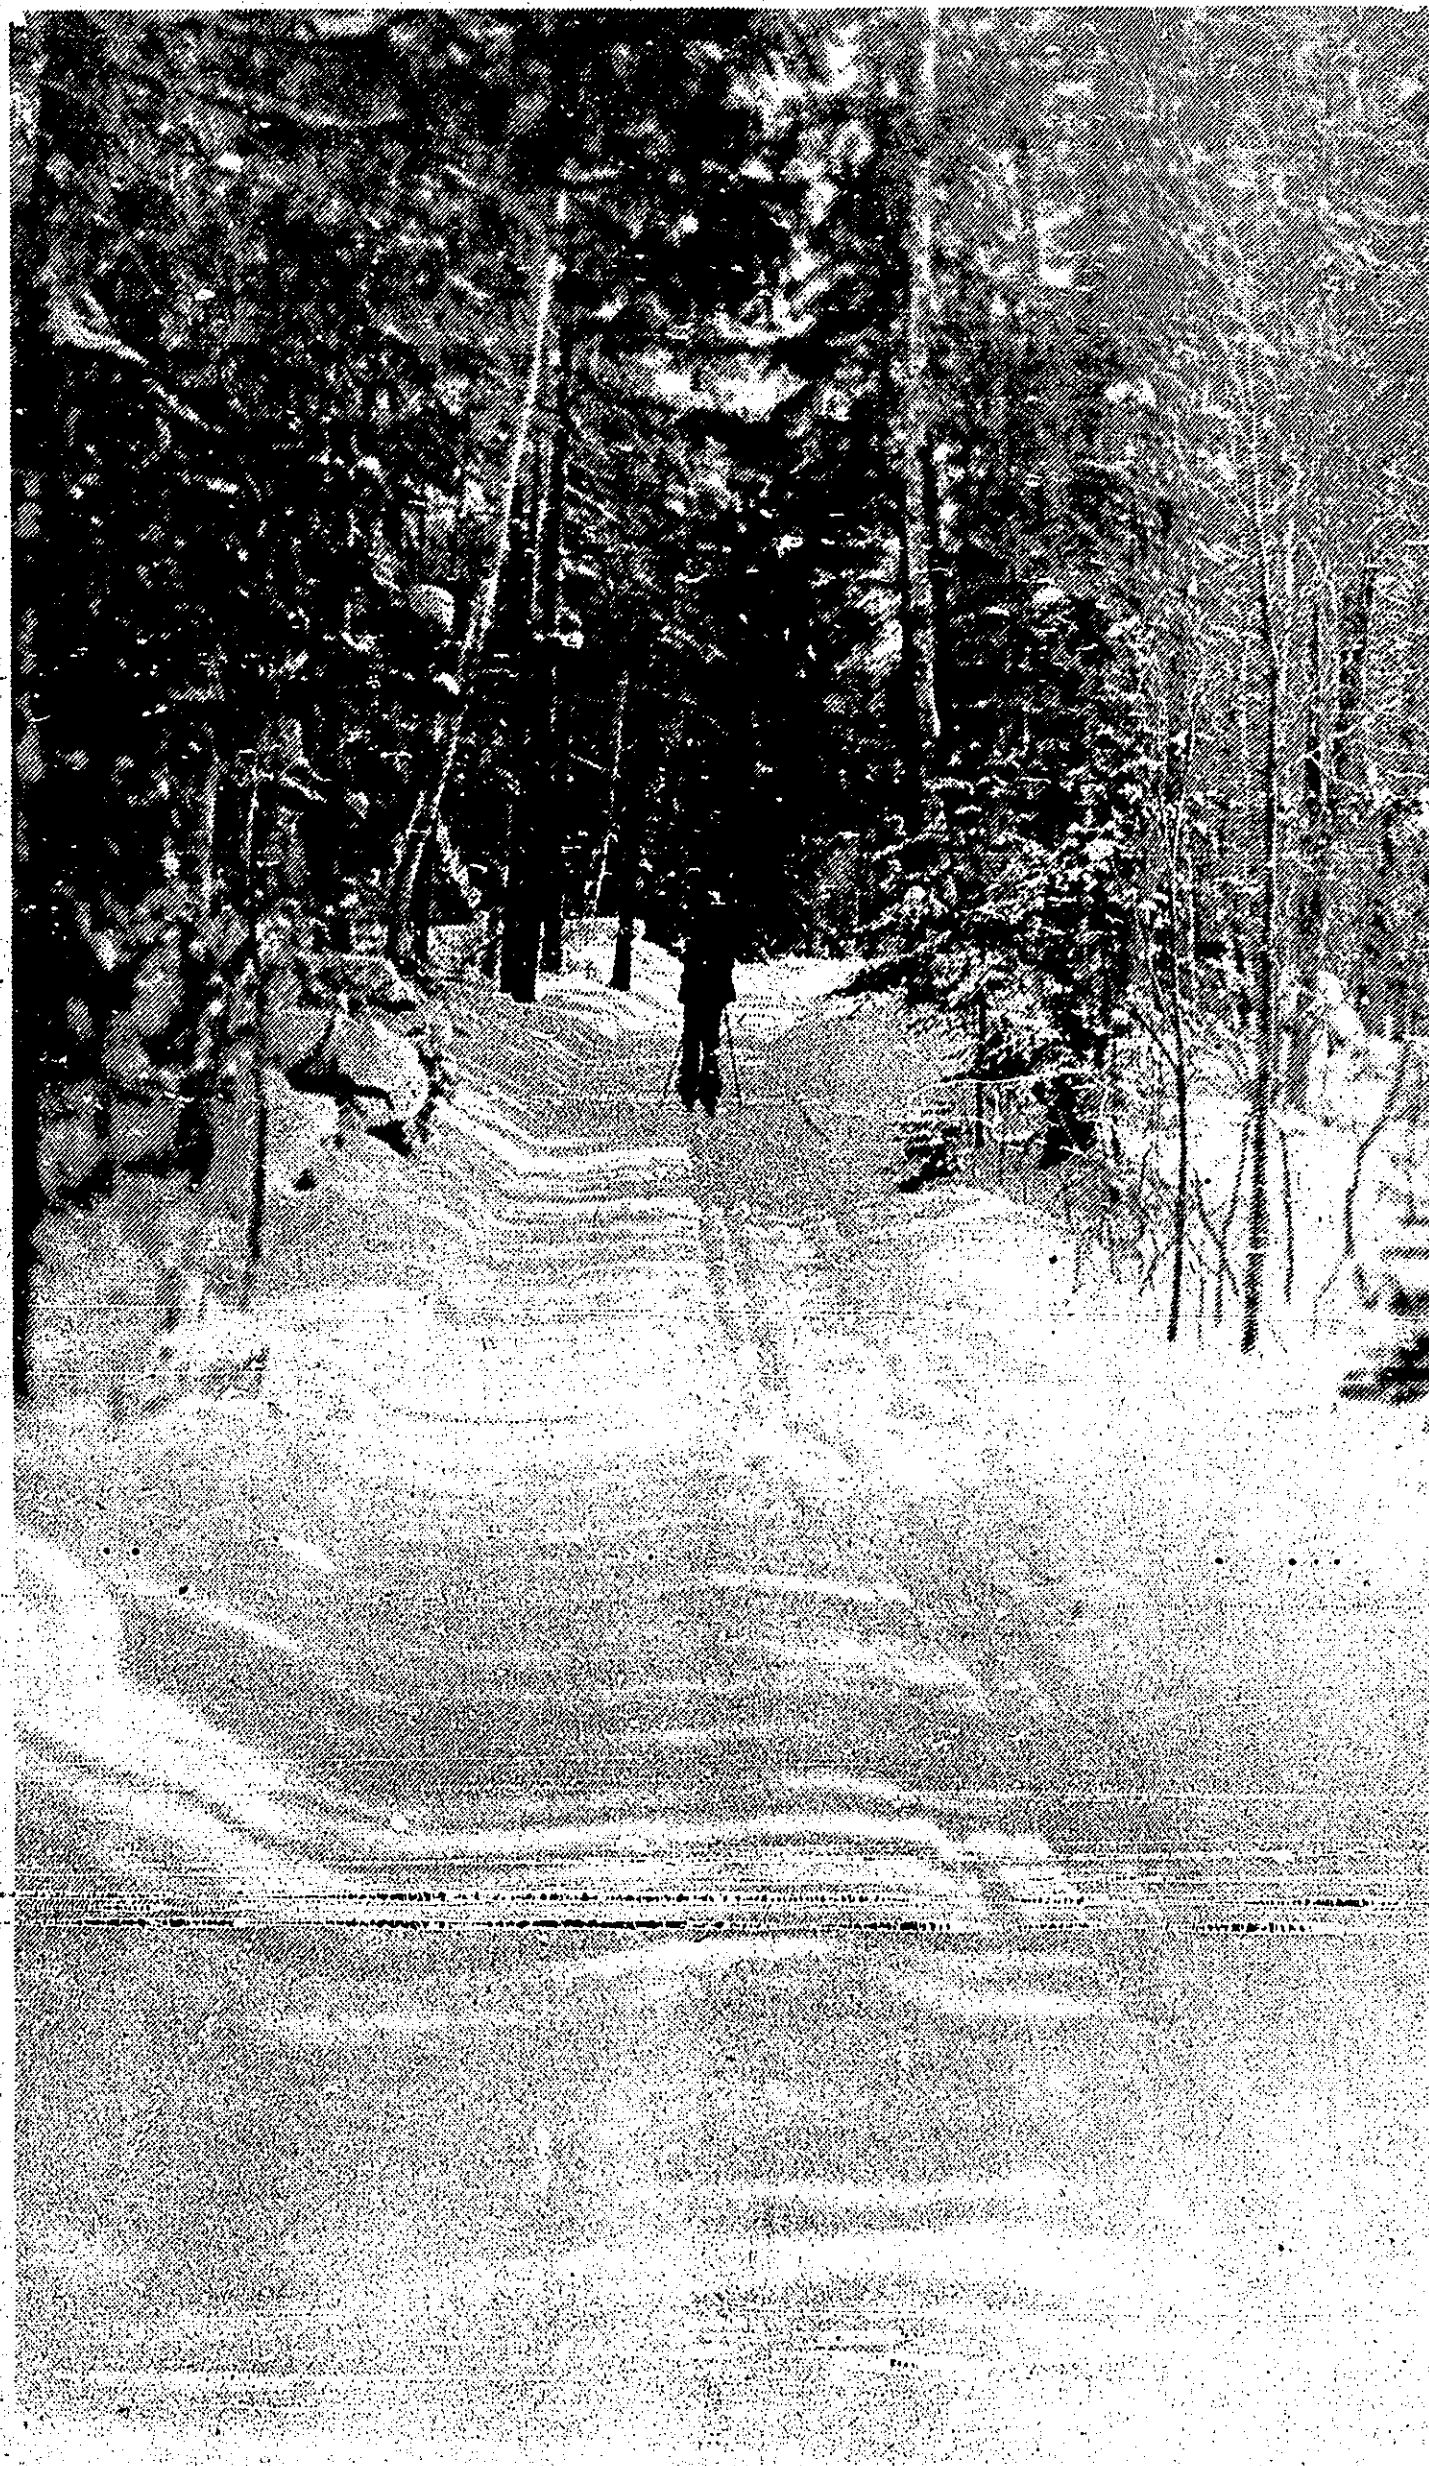

"CAMP SOMEHOW" on "Earlmore Blvd." was the name and address registered on the tree in front of the summer cottage, owned by Bernie Gilroy of Gulliver. It's a little harder when the cross-country skier breaks their own trail, but once broken the return trip proves as enjoyable, and fast, as any groomed trail. Cross-country skiers should check with land owners and get written permission before going out on their own.

JOHN LAPOINTE, left, project coordinator for Indian Education, and Milton Herro, chairman of the Indian Parent Committee review the proposal for next year's program.

Indian Parent Committee accepts proposed education for Indians

A 1977-78 Indian Education proposal for Manistique Area Schools was reviewed and accepted by the Indian Parent Committee at a meeting held on Feb. 3. The proposal, which outlines the Indian Education Program for the following school year, must be accepted by the Parent Committee before being sent to the Office of Education in Washington, D.C., for approval. The Parent Committee is made up of parents of Indian descent.

The Manistique Indian Education program has been in operation for three years. In the Manistique Area Schools, the Indian students are exposed to the history, culture, traditions, and craftwork of the American Indian.

The Indian Education programs were initiated with the Indian Education Act of 1972, and are funded through federal Title IV, Part A grants from the Office of Education, Minority Education Division.

Fluoride applications offered

Topical applications of fluoride will again be offered to Schoolcraft County area children this summer.

The fluoride program, which is supervised by the Michigan Department of Public Health, will be made available to preschoolers, second, fifth and eighth graders and to special cases referred by dentists.

Any interested children in the third and sixth grades are also encouraged to take advantage of this offer, because Schoolcraft County did not participate in the program last summer.

According to the area four-county health department, the procedure consists of four visits to the fluoride clinic. The child's teeth are cleaned on the first visit and a fluoride solution is applied directly to the surface of the teeth. The fluoride application only is then repeated during the three succeeding visits. This technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about forty percent.

In addition to providing protection against cavities, the program offers a painless dental experience for children. Dental health education by the clinic personnel, including instruction in the proper method of brushing teeth, also is an important part of the program.

Parents of eligible children will be notified in the near future and be given an opportunity to enroll their children in the program. A small fee is charged to cover the cost of operating the clinic.

It's easy for any home builder to skimp on quality. Not Tri-State! Our homes feature quality construction at a price you can afford. This is proven by our growing family of satisfied Tri-State Home owners. A three bedroom Tri-State home can be built for as little as $16,398.

In addition, your Tri-State Homes dealer can handle every facet of construction, from arranging financing to completion.

Tri-State Homes are approved by all conventional lending institutions, FHA, VA, and the Farm Home Administration. Send for a free full color plan book and compare with any others before you build.
