County to study building permits

The Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners appointed a special committee to study the county's building code enforcement and fee program following criticism of the program at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Complaints came from local contractors and township officials and commissioners as well.

Commissioner Lindsley Frenette said a building demolition fee "seems to be a step backward," and that building code administration should encourage construction instead of discouraging it.

Commissioner William Tennyson said that the county's building code program will cost taxpayers more than $2,000 for 1976, because building permits fall that far short of meeting program expenses.

Bob Knopf, local builder, questioned the ability of the county building inspector to carry out the code and complained that no services are realized when a builder pays for a permit.

John Schnurer of Gulliver said he favored state control of the program.

Board Chairman Ernest Hoholik said the county had little alternative but to offer local code enforcement.

"If we didn't have a county one, we would have a state one," Hoholik said. And we wouldn't have any say in how much it costs."

Upon recommendation from Commissioner Ed Way, Hoholik appointed a committee to review the code program and report back to the board. Appointed were Commissioners Way and Frenette; Hiawatha Township Supervisor Nick Frankovich; and Knopf, John Barber and LeRoy Eckbald.

In other business, the board: --approved a tentative 1978 budget of $1,138,450, up from $883,681 in 1977.

--dissolved the Alger Schoolcraft and create a Department of Public Works and create a county-run DPW to collect refuse from green boxes in the townships. The county also agreed to a resolution passed by Hiawatha, Thompson, Manistique, Mueller, Doyle, Sempson and Gernsfask Townships to have the DPW books audited by the state and to prohibit any member of the DPW board to be an employee of the department.

Appointed to the new DPW board were Merwin White, George J. Rubick, Archie Carpenter, Frenette, C.R. St. Martin, Robert Leny and Donald Hughson.

--agreed to have the county equalization department participate in a program to photograph the entire county for taxation purposes at a cost of $1,874 for black and white photos.

--learned that Sheriff Lloyd Gray has refused to install a time clock for his department employees, as the county board directed him to do in March. Gray said in a letter to the board that he did not wish to disturb his present working relationship with deputies whose shifts cover a full 24-hour period each day.

--heard a report from Lloyd G. Schemenauer, district wildlife biologist from the Newberry office of the DNR, report of suggested alternatives to the present method of conducting doe seasons in Michigan. They included providing reserved permits for local residents and landowners. Schemenauer said the DNR hasn't made a decision yet on whether to hold a doe season in the U.P.

--approved, with only Tennyson dissenting, charging no fee to appeal a zoning restriction to the county zoning and planning board. Tennyson had proposed a $60 fee to defray the expense of the calling the board to hear an appeal. Commissioners did approve, however, $20 per diem and 14 cents a mile mileage for zoning board members.

--learned from Commissioner Dan Klarich that the Social Services Department is faced with a fiscal crisis because Medicaid payments in the amount of $38,000 to the medical care facility have not been forwarded from the state. In addition, another $41,000 is owed the county in back general fund plans to withdraw $44,000 from the general fund in order to meet outstanding bills at the facility. This will leave the Social Welfare account with only $1,800, Klarich reported.

Dual listings due

General Telephone will begin offering dual directory listings--two first names in the same surname--beginning Monday, May 2, according to Bob Wellman, president-operations for the company. Applications for the service will not be accepted before that date.

ED DOYLE, director of the Manistique Department of Public Works, inspects a drain between the city's and the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co.'s primary waste water treatment plants on the west side of the Manistique River. During periods of a high water run-off, water and sometimes untreated sewage from the city's combined sewer system bypass the sewage plant and end up in the river. Sewer system improvements, plus construction of secondary treatment plants by the city and the paper mill are expected to greatly reduce waste material dumped into the river. The city's secondary facility is expected to be completed in 1979. (Tribune photo)

Waste water treatment to improve river quality

by Arnold Mackowiak

Four major steps have been taken in the last week toward cleaning up the Manistique River.

The river, regarded in recent years as a water quality problem area, will be receiving far less waste material as a result of actions taken by the City of Manistique and the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. on separate projects.

These developments suggested a significantly cleaner river emptying into Lake Michigan within two and a half years.

--On Friday, the city broke ground on a $2.74 million secondary waste water treatment plant that will be constructed around the city's present primary treatment plant on the west side of the river. A low bid from Associated Mechanical Services of Kalamazoo for construction of the plant was approved at a special meeting of the city council last Thursday night.

--The city also approved a low bid of $464,390 from Penetryn of Columbus, Ohio for televised inspection and repairing of existing sewer lines. The repair work, to begin soon, is designed to help eliminate occurrences of raw sewage reaching Lake Michigan through the city's combined sewer-sewer system.

--The Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. Tuesday sent a letter to the Water Quality Control Division of the Department of Natural Resources, informing the agency that the mill's own secondary treatment plant will be completed by May 31 and in operation by July 1.

--The city council passed resolutions Monday night requesting right of way permits to separate storm sewers from regular sewer lines along highways M-94 and U.S.-2, a project scheduled to be started in the fall at the earliest.

Waiving minor bidding irregularities, the city council approved the low bid from Associate Mechanical Services on City Manager Robert Risik's recommendation. Risik explained that the irregularities included not submitting the entire book of federal regulations with the bid, plus some additions to the contract.

The firm still will be bound to comply with the contract addendums, Risik said.

After the council unanimously accepted the bid, Tom Shaw, a local contractor, complained that the public had no chance to be heard before a vote was taken. Mayor Frank Hewitt responded that the city stood to lose $900,000 in the form of a grant from the Economic Development Administration if there was any delay.

The project will be funded 100 percent with federal and state money.

Ed Doyle, director of the city's Department of Public Works, explained the improvements in a tour of current treatment facilities. Doyle said the secondary plant would remove 99 percent of the solids from waste water fed into the plant, as opposed to 30 to 35 percent now.

The new construction will include five additional drying beds, an additional digester, expansion of the control building, 12 bioreactors for biological treatment, two final settling tanks, and blacktopping. Doyle added that the sewer separation and line repair projects will help eliminate the flow of some untreated sewage from line leaks into the river, plus excessive water from pouring into the plant.

In recent spring days, the primary plant has treated up to 4 1/2 million gallons of waste water a day.

Up the river from the city's primary plant, work is about 98 percent complete on a secondary waste treatment plant at the paper mill.

Leif Christensen, vice president and general manager of the company, said the plant, costing the mill approximately $1 million, houses a biological process through which wood sugar is converted to water and carbon dioxide before the effluent is released into the river.

Christensen said the mill's primary treatment plant, in operation for a few years, removes 90 percent of the dissolved wood sugar, wood fibers and small amounts of mineral clay in the waste water. The secondary plant is designed to remove another six to seven percent of the residue, wood sugars and coloring matter, preventing it from reaching the river.

"It will improve the discharge to the river substantially," he said.

Christensen added he is informing the DNR that the secondary plant will be operating in time for completion of the mill's improvements designed to increase paper production. The expansion is slated to be completed and in operation by late July.

School board aims to upgrade special ed.

Education students at Big Bay de Noc High School and Manistique Area Schools should have a chance at a better education through better programs, the Manistique Area School Board of Education has decided.

The better programs would be a result of combining the two special education programs at the special education program utilizing the Manistique High School facilities.

Richard Olsen, deputy superintendent for special-education at the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District, told the board that the move would provide better education for both schools.

"The only way to get good, basic, sound educational programs for handicapped kids is to look seriously at centralized facilities," Olsen told the board Tuesday night, April 12, at its regular meeting.

"We're going to have to start looking at cooperative school districts," Olsen added.

Big Bay had asked the Manistique School Board to consider centralizing special education services in Manistique for students in grades 9-12, with the intermediate school district providing services.

The new combined facilities would allow the schools to conduct a four-level program for special education students thereby eliminating some overcrowded conditions, that currently exist at Big Bay, Olsen said.

The four levels would be created, Olsen said, by moving students currently in the senior high program to a junior high program and placing students 16 and older in the new senior high class.

The intermediate school district, Olsen said, would pick up the cost of an additional teacher to be assigned to the special education staff at Manistique to handle the new level of special education.

Objections were raised by members of the audience in attendance concerning the loss of revenue Manistique Area Schools will experience when the program is transferred to the Delta-Schoolcraft district.

"The cost of both schools would be considerably less if it were run by the intermediate district," Olsen assured a questioner.

The intermediate district would receive $1,000 per child from the state for running the program.

The 1977-78 allocation budget was also reviewed by the board during the three hour meeting Tuesday night.

Superintendent Richard Bonifas, told the board that at present a $19,400 budget balance is anticipated for the end of the school year.

He added, however, that the school would have to receive all revenues available in order to meet that figure.

The board also heard a complaint from Beth Burnis concerning the theft of a painting done by her daughter as an art project.

Burnis told the board that she was voicing complaint for what she felt was no action taken in the matter.

Joe Wood, chief of maintenance, told Burnis that the door to the art room had been locked the night the painting was stolen, but the door had been left ajar.

Bonifas indicated that administration personnel would be in touch with Burnis concerning the matter.

In other action taken Tuesday night, the board:

--approved a motion seeking bids for roofing repairs at Doyle and Fairview schools.

--approved building and site bills totaling $971.20.

--accepted the resignations of Pauline Miller, second grade teacher at Hiawatha School, and Viola Fredericksen, commercial business instructor at Manistique High School. The board also approved sending letters of appreciation to both teachers.

Bonifas noted that the resignation of Miller would not create a vacancy at Hiawatha. He indicated that the school currently has a teacher on leave of absence who will return next year.

--approved the purchase of a new bus for the school system. The board appointed Denton Nelson and Jim Goudreau to review specifications for the bus before taking any further action.

--approved election resolutions stating that the board will hold a general election to fill two vacancies on the board of education. Those vacancies will be created when the terms of board members Harold Cockram and William Mueller expire. The board also approved a resolution seeking operational millage at that election to be held June 13, 1977.

City council holds off on garbage collection fee increase

The Manistique City Council postponed action on a recommended 50-cent increase in monthly residential garbage collection fees, but authorized City Manager Robert Risik to adjust the fees charged to businesses in the city.

Risik recommended a hike in refuse collection rate for homes from $1.50 to $2 a month and adjustment of rates charged businesses in order to meet rising costs in providing the service since the current rates were set in 1973.

In other major business, council members reviewed the findings of an audit on the HUD-funded Community Development Block Grant Program and discussed a related 312 housing loan program and traffic safety.

Councilmember Doug Rose objected to the recommended garbage fee hike, advising the council to hold off on any increase until the contract for the city-operated landfill can be checked and the budget for the coming fiscal year is formulated.

Rose complained that townships using the landfill through the "green box" collection system were not paying their fair share to support the operation of the landfill.

Risik agreed that townships were behind in payments for the landfill operation, but added that his recommended fee hikes had nothing to do with the landfill.

He said that since July 1, 1973, there has been a 27 percent increase in garbage worker wages, and some businesses are paying $100 to $200 more a year than other businesses getting the same service. Some businesses are getting more frequent refuse pick-ups, he explained.

The council then approved a motion by Rose to table the recommendation and to direct the city manager to adjust rates charged businesses to conform with the services received.

Earlier in the hour and a half long meeting, Risik reported the findings of an audit for the Nov. 25, 1974 to Oct. 31, 1976 period of the city's block grant program.

The audit charged that the city lacked a citizens participation plan in the pre-application planning process; did not meet standards for monitoring and reporting program performance; and submitted inaccurate reports of city performance on program activities.

The audit also charged the city with spending $64,844.79 in HUD money on ineligible costs.

"This is the result of using grant funds for ineligible activities, and before the release of funds had been approved," the audit stated.

Most of the ineligible costs involved the purchase of three trucks and water line installation in the city.

Another major finding of the audit was the city records did not include documentation supporting the spending of another $76,749.33 of the federal money during the period.

This included more than $60,000 in city wages, fringe benefits and travel expenses connected with the HUD program but not documented.

Risik said that so far, about $50,000 of the questioned funding has been accounted for, and more is being investigated to establish documentation.

The remainder, plus the ineligible costs to be paid back to HUD, probably will total about $80,000, Risik said. The reimbursement to HUD largely for the period audited. During those years, $226,000 was authorized for Manistique, but only $150,894.34 actually was spent.

Risik said that the findings did not point toward any illegal activity on the part of the city. After questioning from the council Risik noted that his predecessor, Rush Cattell was city manager for most of the period during which the violations were charged.

With regard to 312 money being spent for housing rehabilitation, Risik said names of persons who received loans could not be made public, according to HUD regulations. Councilmember Rose, who had requested the information, said his purpose was "not to embarrass anyone," but to identify problems with the program. He said it was being rumored that some people who got loan money did not need it.

Risik said that $61,400 is at the city's disposal currently and that he is planning to formulate a grant program to assist the economically, physically or mentally handicapped, with home repairs. The money would not have to be paid back, but applicants would be carefully screened.

In response to a request to investigate speeding on Arbutus Avenue, Public Safety Director Joe McDonough said more stop signs would not be advisable.

McDonough said people in a hurry will tend to ignore stop signs, and the signs bring about an increase in the number of citizens complaints about squealing tires at intersections.

But Councilmember Bob White said that some motorists are doing excess of 50 miles per hour on the residential street, and something should be done.

Councilmember Mary Moffat said that squealing tire complaints are preferable to danger to pedestrians.

"I'd rather interfere with someone's sleep than hit a child-anytime," Moffat said.

The council directed Risik and McDonough to continue study of the traffic problem.

In other business, the council: --tabled a request from the city recreation board to close a road from the youth center to the medical center, awaiting inspection of preliminary drawings of a planned community center at 5 p.m. Monday at city hall.

--directed Risik to ask the city attorney to determine the city's liability for persons using a walking bridge across the Indian River near the new water filtration plant, and investigate the cost of making the bridge safe for fishing enthusiasts and hikers.

WHAT ABOUT VITAMIN C?

Vitamin C. What will it do for you? How much should you take? Does it-or doesn't it-prevent or cure a cold?

These are some of the questions that have been debated in living rooms and laboratories, on radio and TV talk shows. Many of the questions being debated are still unanswered, but there are some things about Vitamin C that are known. The Food and Drug Administration has an informative leaflet that answers many questions on Vitamin C. Write to: FDA, CR-4, P.O. Box 4646, Chicago, Ill. 60680.

PROMPT REMOVAL OF STAINS

Act promptly to remove stains from clothes and furnishings when spots and spills occur. Many stains are simple to remove when they are fresh, but if allowed to dry, stains may be difficult, even impossible, to remove. A good reference to have on hand is the booklet, Removing Stains from Fabrics (revised 1976). The booklet can be ordered from your Extension Office.

BREAKFAST SKIPPERS

Do not neglect breakfast, advised the Food and Drug Administration. Scientists have evidence that a good breakfast can make a person more alert and productive throughout the morning. Use nutrition information on food labels to help you make wise nutrient selections.

TIMELY TIPS

Put those leftover Easter eggs to tasty use. Prepare a 10-oz. pkg. frozen waffles according to package directions. Slice hard-cooked eggs; combine egg slices and condensed cream of mushroom or chicken soup; heat. Serve the creamed eggs over waffles; sprinkle with paprika, chopped parsley or bacon crumbles.

Myrtle Lang

10th generation family member tells history

by Joseph Eichman Jr.
Community Action Agency

Since the telecast of Alex Haley's Roots, many people have begun searching for their heritage.

One member of Community Action's senior citizens activity group, Myrtle Lang, need not search, however. She knows her roots well.

Myrtle Lang, who turned 97 last week, told part of her family's story at the birthday celebration held in her honor.

She was born to Clarence Luther Chaffee and Ida Belle Hazen at Sac Bay on April 5, 1880. Her early life changed drastically at age six when her father died. Her mother went to work by the day while she was raised by her grandparents, Henry B. and Margaret Hazen.

However, hardships were not insurmountable obstacles to them as their people came from hardy stock.

Her ancestors on both Chaffee and Hazen sides immigrated to this country from England. Although her people were not pilgrims, they were among the first wave of Europeans to settle in America.

Details about the immigration of Thomas Chaffee, the first Chaffee here, are unknown. But old records show he bought land in Hingham, Mass. in 1636 just 16 years after the pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. On the Hazen side, Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hazen of Lincolnshire, England, came to Massachusetts in 1647. He settled there and the Chaffees later moved to Connecticut.

According to the same family records, Mrs. Lang is the tenth generation of Chaffees living here and the ninth generation of Hazens.

In addition to the Chaffee and Hazen immigrants represented in her family tree, Mrs. Lang's husband, John, arrived in this country from Ranbers, Denmark, in 1886 at age 15. Lang first settled in Pentwater, Mich., where he lived with his sister before moving to the Upper Peninsula. Details about his immigration are also unknown.

Myrtle and John Lang married at Van Harbors located on the Garden Peninsula in 1901. She was age 20. They resided at Fairport, also located on the Garden Peninsula.

John Lang was a lumberjack by trade. In 1903, they planned a trip to Washington state to see how the logging business fared there. One of Mrs. Lang's aunts lived there and she would arrange housing for them once they arrived. However, their first child was born instead.

Mrs. Lang also recalled spending different winters living in various logging camps.

In addition to his work as a lumberjack,

John Lang did some farming and fishing. Mrs. Lang explained that in those days people did as much as they could to earn a living. The Upper Peninsula was industry poor then and many people had to do more than one thing to provide for their families. For example, people would cut and sell cord wood to the steamships which docked at Fairport. Steamships plied the Great Lakes before the advent of gasoline engines.

In 1912, her brother John Chaffee, her husband and herself went on a fishing trip to Gloucester, Mass. They took a 45-foot boat from Fairport to Gloucester. It had a steam engine in it which was taken out and replaced by a gasoline one.

They sailed the boat through the Great Lakes to Buffalo. They had expected to go through the Erie Canal. However, it was closed due to a leak in one of the locks and officials would not allow any boats through. They put the boat on a flatcar and took it by rail to Boston where it went back into the water. From there, they sailed to Gloucester. Both her husband and brother fished commercially for several months before returning to Fairport. The boat was sold in Gloucester when they quit fishing.

In 1924, they bought a farm in the Fayette area. Mrs. Lang admitted they were not much for farming. Her husband worked in the woods. And she worked as a midwife as her mother had before her. Mrs. Lang worked for many people in the Garden area as midwife because no doctor lived near there. At one time, she delivered a baby on Poverty Island for the Johnson family who maintained the light-house there.

Besides working as a midwife, Mrs. Lang raised four children. She also has 11 grandchildren, 33 great-grandchildren and 6 great-great grandchildren. Her children are: Mrs. Lloyd (Idah) St. Ours of Rapid River, Henry Lang of Fayette, Mrs. Harold (Grace) Stern of Fayette, with whom she makes her home a good share of the time, and Fred Lang of Leland.

Her husband passed away in 1961. They were married 61 years before he died.

Mrs. Lang attributed no special reason for her longevity. She said she always tried to live as good a life as she could. She added she did not quit working when she reached retirement age.

Mrs. Lang is locally known for her fancy work especially quilt making. A quilt she pieced together this winter was finished last Monday. She also helped her daughter enlarge a quilt for one of her granddaughters. The quilt was made from old ties and called a crazy quilt. She has made four such crazy quilts during the past few years. One of her quilts was auctioned last year at the Lord's Acre Sale.

New items donated to chapel

Hi everyone,

Easter has passed and several of our patients were able to be home with their families for the weekend. It's nice that some are able to get out even if it is only for a short time. I believe everyone has to get away from a regular routine occasionally as it sort of gives them a lift and encouragement to continue on.

The weeks before Easter are busy here also as the nurses aides use every spare minute making decorations for the holiday. The halls were all decked out with Easter eggs and rabbits and were quite colorful. The patients in diversional therapy were busy working on ceramic items and as usual we were even a few items short. They do always manage to catch up as we have so many understanding people who are willing to wait until the following year and they do keep their word and come back.

A prayer service was held on Good Friday by Father Frank Lenz and was greatly appreciated by all who were able to attend. Chapel flowers for Easter were donated in memory of Charles Hynes.

We have a few new items for our chapel also, as our stained glass windows have been installed. The windows were donated in memory of Mrs. Anna Vogl. Candle holders were donated by Mr. and Mrs. John Ozanich. Three chairs and a closet were donated by the Manistique Women's Club and we have a lovely silk rose altar flower arrangement donated in memory of Mr. Anthony Trolla.

The First Baptist Church women hosted an Easter party for the patients on April 6. Each of the patients had a treat of egg-shaped cupcakes beautifully decorated as fancy Easter eggs and topped with ice cream. The individual cakes were made by Mable Patz and will long be remembered. Grandma Huston from Wisconsin sent a huge Easter basket full of individual wrapped packages of candy and flowers for all the patients. She sent the package in care of the Thompson Easter Bunny, Shirley Huston. Thank you, everyone.

Birthday greetings go to Belle Blizzel on April 17 and Rose Gagnon on April 28. Have a nice week.

Mrs. Catherine Boudreau

CHANGE picks 'Teacher of the Month'

A mother of six children and a second grade teacher at Lakeside Elementary School has been chosen by Citizens Helping Advance Needs Good for Education (CHANGE) as the April "Teacher of the Month."

Mrs. Catherine Boudreau received unanimous approval for the award at a March meeting of the group.

In teaching her second grade class at Lakeside she utilizes an open class room structure, CHANGE reported.

CHANGE had this to say about Mrs. Boudreau:

"When CHANGE visited Mrs. Boudreau's class we found the students to be working in quiet, happy groups. The children work at their own level and were willingly helping one another when asked."

"When CHANGE asked Mrs. Boudreau if being a parent herself has influenced her teaching, she replied with an emphatic 'yes.'"

"Mrs. Boudreau feels that she is more understanding of her students and their problems because of experience in helping her own kids through similar problems."

"Mrs. Boudreau says that she often finds a spot of mothering goes further with a tired and cross student than strict discipline would."

"Mrs. Boudreau believes that the school and the parents are equally responsible for providing a good educational atmosphere, one in which parents, teachers and students can share their resources."

"She believes that learning should become an enjoyable lifelong experience rather than an experience that has to be endured for the first 18 years of a student's life."

"We in CHANGE feel that the community is very fortunate to have Mrs. Boudreau in our school system."

CHANGE welcomes suggestions for future "Teacher of the Month" selections from both parents and students.

They can be reached by writing: CHANGE P.O. Box 9, Manistique, Mich.

Wrestling Coach Paul Cappelferri honored 17 grapplers, handing out awards and announcing Jeffery Tufnell as the MHS Wrestler of the Year. Gayle Tufnell, cheerleading advisor, presented awards to the varsity and junior varsity basketball cheerleaders.

Voyageurs complete 3,800-mile journey

The LaSalle voyageurs have successfully finished their 3,800 mile trek from Montreal to New Orleans, marking an end to more than eight months of wilderness survival.

The voyageurs arrived in New Orleans on April 3, docking their canoes at a levee on the Mississippi river.

The 23 Chicago area voyageurs were greeted by Choctaw, Apache, Cherokee, and Pottawatomie Indians, as well as school teachers and village mayors along their journey. They became honorary colonists in two states, were given keys to dozens of cities, and hired vans to haul home their awards, plaques and wooden tomahawk souvenirs.

"I know before we began that we would earn each paddle stroke...that none would be free," Reid Lewis captain of LaSalle Expedition II, told the Chicago Tribune.

The group had portaged 525 miles over land when the severe winter froze the waterways from East Chicago, Ind., to Chester, Ill.

Wind chill factors reached 67 degrees below zero as they slept under their canoes during the coldest winter on record.

The voyageurs used 17th century gear they had made themselves. During the cold winter their moccasins froze stiff. They said the footwear provided insulation from the cold.

The group left Montreal last August and made a three-day stay (Oct. 27-30) in Manistique after winds and waves on Lake Michigan forced their canoes out of the water.

Along the journey, four LaSalle voyageurs were seriously injured in a truck accident in Indiana while portaging along a highway. The young men joined the group on the final leg of the journey after months of hospitalization.

Hundreds greeted the canoeists on the banks of the Mississippi. Lewis raised a wooded cross declaring, once again, the territory for the King of France, 300 years after Rene Robert Cavalier, Sieur de LaSalle landed in New Orleans.

Afterwards, the men slipped their canoes back into the water and headed down the river to its mouth.

"We will finish LaSalle's voyage," Lewis told the Tribune. "But we don't intend to re-enact his entire career. The explorer was eventually assassinated—and I want to go home."

Pawley elected MPA director

Glen Pawley, founder of Pawley Oil Co. Inc., of Manistique, has been elected a director of the Michigan Petroleum Association (MPA), a state-wide organization comprised of approximately 400 independent companies engaged in the distribution of gasoline and home heating fuel oil.

As a state director of the MPA, Pawley will represent the interests of his fellow MPA members located in Alger, Delta and Schoolcraft counties.

Pawley was a Standard Oil Co. sales representative for 22 years before forming Pawley Oil Co. in 1959. His son, Richard, is president of the firm.

A resident of Manistique, Glen Pawley is a life member of the VFW and Elks and also is a member of the local Masons and Shriners.

Girls golf organizing

Fifteen girls grades 9-12 have answered the call for Girls Golf at the Manistique High School. The group will have their first outdoor work-out on Monday at 1:40 at the Indian Lake Golf & Country Club. The first match is scheduled with Newberry for May 3. Mrs. Earl H. LeBrasseur is the coach.

Erickson's TV bows in tourney

Erickson's TV of Manistique bowed to the Back Door of Sault Ste. Marie, 103-90 in the Class A championship game April 3 at the Engadine Independent Basketball Tournament.

Jim Nelson of Erickson's was named to the Class A tournament team in the two-class tourney that drew 16 teams.

Erickson's defeated Phil & Lee's Mobil Homes of Escanaba, 76-74 in overtime, and Paradise, 84-73, to earn a berth in the finals.

In Class B, the Seafarers from Royal Oak dumped Falls Hotel of Newberry, 71-54 to win the championship in that division. Earlier in the tourney, the Garden Independents defeated the Embers of Mackinaw City, 64-58 but were throttled by the Seafarers, 75-57.

Bullard's Bar of Manistique, competing in Class A, edged Steve's Tuff Kote of the Soo, 65-59, but lost to the eventual champion Back Door, 92-65.

Local features

Manistique's Kitch-iti-kiipi spring and two local restaurants are highlighted in Automobile Club of Michigan's April Motor News magazine.

The April Motor News is devoted to Michigan and highlights the state's top restaurants, resorts, scenic attractions, natural and man-made wonders and scenic drives.

"At Palms Book State Park, more than 16,000 gallons of water bubble each minute from the 45-foot-deep Kitch-iti-kiipi spring." Auto Club's 1.2 million reader-members are told in an article entitled, "Michigan's Natural Wonders."

A review of restaurants reports that at the Surf Restaurant, patrons choose from a large menu of good food in a dining room overlooking Lake Michigan. The Fireside Inn Supper Club offers a pleasant atmosphere, good food and service, according to the article. "Eleven Fine Eateries, Times Four, Plus."

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS

Board of Commissioners

A regular monthly (March, 1977) meeting of the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners was held on Tuesday, March 22nd, 1977, at the courthouse, City of Manistique, Michigan, commencing at 7:00 o'clock P.M., E.S.T.

The meeting was called to order by the Chairman, Ernest S. Hoholik. The roll was called and noted as follows: Present were: Edward Way, Kenneth O. Mortensen, Ernest S. Hoholik, Daniel Klarich, Earl LeBrasseur, William Tennyson and Lindsley B. Frenette. Absent:

It was moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by William Tennyson, that the minutes of the February 28th, 1977, regular monthly meeting be approved as printed, a copy of which was furnished each Board member. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

Dr. James Terrian, M.D., Medical Director, A.S.H.U., along with James Shifflet and Y. Ane Eide, appeared and each presented a portion of the A.S.H.U. annual report for FY-76. Dr. Terrian reviewed the general operation of the Department and its relationship to the 4-County Health Program. Mr. James Shifflet reviewed the administrative programs, including the budget, income and expense, while Yvonne Eide reviewed the Nursing and Health Care section, especially noting the progress and success with "Home Care". Mrs. Eide noted that approximately 550 services were rendered in Schoolcraft County under this program, that it is basically a self-sustaining program, but that it is open to all, whether or not the party is financially able to pay or not.

James Shifflet, Department Administrative Director, complimented Mack MacDonald, Schoolcraft County-Sanitarian, and his staff on the progress being made in up-lifting the standards of the food establishments in Schoolcraft County, as well as his work in the environmental sanitation field.

Thereupon, it was moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by Kenneth Mortensen, that the annual FY-76 report for A.S.H.U. be approved, as given, orally and written, a copy placed on file in the office of the County Clerk for public inspection. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

It was moved by Kenneth O. Mortensen, supported by Earl LeBrasseur, that the written annual FY-76 report of the Probate Court and Juvenile Officer, be approved, a copy placed on file in the office of the County Clerk for public inspection. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

It was moved by William Tennyson, supported by Kenneth O. Mortensen, that the time-clocks purchased in November of 1976, be installed, in both the courthouse and office of the Sheriff for Schoolcraft County. After a short discussion, and an expression by Sheriff Gray, that he didn't want them in his office, Commissioner Mortensen withdrew his support and subsequently Commissioner Tennyson withdrew his motion.

It was then moved by Commissioner Tennyson, supported by Commissioner LeBrasseur, that the time-clocks be offered for sale, however, after some additional discussion, both agreed to withdraw this motion.

It was then moved by Commissioner Mortensen, that the time-clocks be installed in the Courthouse only on an experimental basis, to see how it worked out there. After considerable discussion, it was determined that this was discriminating against the courthouse employees, and the motion was withdrawn.

It was moved by Commissioner Klarich and supported by Commissioner Tennyson, that the original motion made by Commissioner Tennyson, be revived, and that the time-clocks be installed in both the courthouse and Sheriff's office, that the proposed rules and regulations previously proposed be adopted for administering said electronic time recording devices. Motion carried by 5 Aye to 2 Nay votes. Commissioners Kenneth O. Mortensen and Earl LeBrasseur voting Nay.

The annual FY-76 report of the Schoolcraft County Commission on Aging was presented to the Board in writing and reviewed orally by Eileen Males, Director. She answered questions regarding the Senior Citizens operations, both in Manistique and Germfask, and commented on the proposed new home for Senior Citizens in Manistique.

It was moved by Commissioner Mortensen, supported by Commissioner Tennyson, that the written and oral report of the Director of Schoolcraft County Commission on Aging be approved, and a copy placed on file in the office of the County Clerk for public inspection. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

It was moved by Lindsley Frenette, supported by Edward Way, that the written and oral report of Ferdinand Lesica, in behalf of the offices of County Clerk & Register of Deeds and Abstractor, be approved and a copy placed on file in the office of the County Clerk for public inspection. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

The matter of the "Non-Smoking Ban" was discussed. The Chairman, Ernest S. Hoholik read the following letter received from Mr. Fred Lawless, Deputy Director, Michigan Department of Social Services, Lansing, Michigan. March 18, 1977

Mr. Ferdinand Lesica
 Schoolcraft County Clerk
 Schoolcraft County Courthouse
 Manistique, Michigan, 49854

Dear Mr. Lesica:
 The lease for the Schoolcraft County Department of Social Services office space has been reviewed with one of the Assistant Attorney Generals assigned to our Department. His advise is that the DSS staff need not follow the county adopted smoking rules for that portion of the building which is leased by the State for other parts of the building should be complied with by the staff.

There is no provision in the lease obligating the Department of Social Services to follow rules of the county in that portion of the building being rented. If it were intended such rules be followed, this would have to be stipulated in the lease.

Trust this explains our position in response to your recent telephone call.

Sincerely,
 s-Fred Lawless
 Fred Lawless, Deputy Director
 Field Services Administration

Chairman Hoholik stated that in the light of this letter and Attorney General opinion that would not force the DSS of Schoolcraft County to comply, but would again appeal to them for voluntary compliance. After considerable discussion, during which the Schoolcraft County Director, Douglas Kraatz, stated that the employees and director would continue to eat, smoke and drink non-alcoholic beverages in the leased quarters, but would comply with all the other rules and regulations of the Schoolcraft County Courthouse as adopted November 11th, 1976.

Commissioner Edward Way then moved that smoking be permitted in the lobby of the Courthouse. This motion died for lack of support.

It was then moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by Edward Way, to follow the legal opinion as stated in the above letter, exempting the Schoolcraft County Department of Social Services from the provisions of the Schoolcraft County Courthouse Rules and Regulations relative to "smoking, eating and drinking of non-alcoholic beverages" in the area leased by the DSS of Schoolcraft County. Motion carried by 6 to 1 Aye vote, with Commissioner Tennyson voting Nay.

It was moved by Commissioner Mortensen, supported by Commissioner LeBrasseur that should any other department being housed in the courthouse desire to be exempted from any provisions of the Schoolcraft County Courthouse Rules and Regulations, that said requests must be submitted in writing, with written justification for said exemption, and submit same to the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners for consideration. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

Ex-Commissioner, Merwin White, Chairman of the joint Alger-Schoolcraft D.P.W. Board appeared and explained the operation of the joint board as now comprised and functioning. He noted that said Board was established in compliance with the Statutes, and with the approval of both Alger and Schoolcraft Counties Boards of Commissioners in November, 1973. Mr. White stated that it was the responsibility of the present joint board to manage same until such time as the joint board is dissolved by action of either or both of the respective County Boards of Commissioners. Mr. White stated that there is to be a meeting with the Munising members and that Alger County will officially withdraw from the joint operation on Monday, March 28th, 1977, and he invited the two Schoolcraft County members of the Board to be in attendance at this time.

Mr. White then explained the operation of the program, citing the costs, the revenues received and expended, and the various problems encountered. He estimated that it cost the joint venture approximately $5000.00 over income to have the three (3) Alger County townships participating in the plan, this the result of heavy waste loads, and mileage required to travel with the truck. Other problems cited was the lack of high cost of snow removal, non-cooperation by the using public, high cost of maintenance of equipment, and fuel costs.

It was moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by William Tennyson, that the appointments to the Schoolcraft County D.P.W. Board, be postponed until the next meeting of this Board, which is to be held on April 12th, 1977. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

It was moved by William Tennyson, supported by Lindsley Frenette, that Cathy Graham Route No. 1, Manistique Township, be appointed as the fifth member of the Schoolcraft County Zoning Appeal Board, whose term will expire on December 31st, 1978. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

It was moved by William Tennyson, supported by Earl LeBrasseur, that Edward Way be appointed Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners' representative to the Schoolcraft County Zoning Board, as an ex-official member. Motion carried by 6 to 0 Aye vote with Commissioner Edward Way abstaining.

It was moved by William Tennyson, supported by Daniel Klarich, that Kenneth O. Mortensen be designated Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners' representative to the OEDP Board, replacing Ernest S. Hoholik, whose term expired and Ernest S. Hoholik, being designated the alternate. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

It was moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by William Tennyson, that the terms of the Schoolcraft County Zoning Board be as follows:
 Gene Kee - 1 year term, term ending: December 31, 1977.
 Peter Derber - 2 year term, term ending: December 31, 1978.

The matter of per diem for members of the Schoolcraft County Zoning Board and for members of the Schoolcraft County Zoning Appeal Board was referred to the Finance Committee for review, study and recommendation in time for action at the April 12th, 1977 meeting.

The matter of possibility of charging a fee for a Zoning Board Appeals, with a refund of fee if the appeal is won by petitioner, be studied and recommendations to be made to the Board at its April 12th, 1977 meeting.

It was moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by William Tennyson, that the following resolution be adopted. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

Memoirs

By Mark Eisenlohr

First white child born

The Fred Cota family was there. So were the John Whalens and Lewis Remo families. And, of course, the Henry Brassels were there.

The date—Oct. 15, 1866.

The place—A simple home somewhere on Water Street (probably at the corner of the new Gorsche block). The house is two years old and was erected by the Chicago Lumber Company with lumber shipped from Chicago. It is occupied by Henry Brassel, a blacksmith for the Chicago Lumber Company.

The event—Brassel's wife was about to give birth. It would be their first child. It would also be the first white child born in Manistique.

History does not record whether Mrs. Brassel experienced any trouble in delivering her first child in that house on Water Street.

However, it does tell us that Chief Semo Ossawinamakee was on hand during the birth and that he "officiated" at the time.

The four families living in Manistique at the time—the Cota's, Whalens', Remo's and Brassel's—more than likely celebrated the birth and health of both the mother and child.

It is doubtful, though, that they realized the event would go down as an epoch in the history of Manistique.

The date—winter in the year 1904.

The house in which Elizabeth Brassel, now married to Charles Wurster and the mother of her own daughter, was born in still stands and is occupied by Lewis Knowles.

The shingles, which have been on the roof for the past 39 years, are still in a good state of preservation, according to an article that appeared in the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune in 1904.

Mrs. Wurster, the first white child born in Manistique, recalled here childhood for the Tribune.

"Water Street was the only street in town and all the territory now occupied with business blocks along Cedar and Oak streets was a marsh, and ducks, deer, and other game were frequently killed in that section. A trail led through the woods to Indian Lake but there were no roads anywhere.

"She was a pupil in the first school ever held in town," Miss Ramsey was the teacher in the room over the kitchen in the company's boarding house which was utilized for school purposes. Later the residence, now occupied by the Cariboules, was used for school purposes and the first real school house was later built near the present site of the company's store.

Among her teachers were Miss Caldwell, Mrs. John Mutart, Mrs. Dell Fuller, E.C. Brown, Elmer Orr, Mrs. E.D. Carr, W.H. Simmons, and Mrs. Glendinning.

"Missionaries of the Catholic and other religious denominations visited the city at rare intervals, and the dining room of the boarding house was the only room large enough for public gathering. She remembers the enjoyable Christmas festivities held there.

There were no graduations in society as now—all were joined in a common level and all participated in the social functions—such as dances and parties.

"It does not hardly seem possible that the swampy wilderness containing a single street and a half dozen houses should have been transformed in the Manistique of today during the lifetime of a lady born thirty-eight years ago."

The date—January 5, 1905.

Several months after the article appeared in the Tribune, Mrs. Elizabeth Wurster passed away. She had been ill for a short period of time. She left her husband, Charles, and one daughter (her only child), Leona, nine years old.

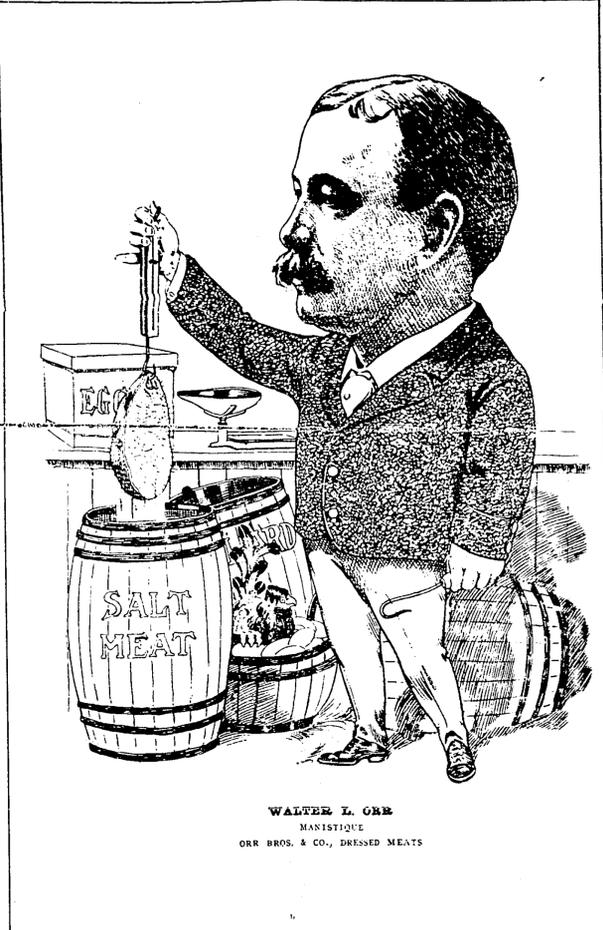

The Tribune printed this at the time: "She possessed a cheerful, frank and open-hearted disposition and did not have an enemy. It was always a pleasure to meet her, and her smiles and cherry words were an inspiration to all with whom she came in contact. She will be sorely missed by her friends and the community in which she has been a factor for so many years."

The funeral was held at the Presbyterian Church with Rev. Albert Torbert officiating.

Pallbearers were selected from school-mates of years ago, according to the Tribune, which listed Charles R. Orr, Carl Gunnarson, Magnus Klagstad, Jackson and Charles Witters and Joseph Heeman as serving winners in escorting the first white child born in Manistique to her final resting place.

In the course of events following the funeral, the daughter of Mrs. Wurster eventually married Floyd Orr and resided in Manistique until moving to California a few months ago.

In talking with Alex Meron, member of Schoolcraft County Historical Society there is more, much more, behind the story of the first women born in Manistique.

In the next couple of weeks I will be doing some more research on the history and story of this epoch in Manistique's history and will reprint, what information I find.

WHERE PEOPLE ARE ALWAYS IMPORTANT

Good buddies, CBers are kinda illiterate

A couple of different things, but not very...

I've kinda got a CB radio in my new car. My wife thought it might kinda be a lifesaver in case of freeway emergencies.

If you wonder what I mean by "kinda", you don't have a CB in your car. That's jus' kinda the way CB people talk. They are kinda illiterate.

When an experienced CB broadcaster announces he is going to take his wife to a movie, he does it kinda like this:

"Breaker-breaker, good buddies. This is Crawdad Diddy in the green machine kinda looking for the Lonesome Kid. If you get your ears on, kinda get a copy on this. I'm kinda gonna take my old lady to the picture show in that Farmington town which is kinda over my shoulder. Do you kinda get a copy on this?"

After two weeks of listening, I've decided most CBers are kinda convinced they must talk like idiot hillbillies or their radios won't work.

Also there must be a mountain law against using CBs to talk about anything more important than last night's pizza. Mercy sakes, why is that?

Another thing about my new car is it doesn't do any good to stomp all over it. The headlights still won't dim.

How embarrassing, and endangering. There I was, speeding through the night, unable to dim my lights. I kept groping with my left foot. Dimmer buttons are always on the floor near your left foot. But I couldn't feel a thing.

"If you knew how to talk hillbilly, you could use your CB to ask for help," my wife said. "I kinda think this is an emergency."

"I would rather stop at a bar," I said. Fortunately, we were near the Curtana Inn north of Port Huron. That's where Bob Gibbs plays super smart piano. But he's as super dumb as I am when it comes to dimming the lights on a 1977 Oldsmobile Delta. Several other Curtana occupants were equally helpful, including the owner of a 1976 Delta. Everyone swore the dimmer button had to be on the floorboard.

I intensified the search for the Olds floor, using my fingers instead of my toes. This required that the butt end of my body stick out of the car door, taking up an extra space in the bar parking lot. Nobody ran over me, but one pedestrian nudged me gently with his shoe and asked if I wanted him to phone the Salvation Army.

I would have read my Owner's Manual except I had left it home next to my reading lamp so I wouldn't forget to read it. For some of us, life is never easy.

The dimmer mystery might never have

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

been solved if the Gibbs band had played "Spanish Eyes." This song required the talents of the tambourine player who usually doesn't perform more than once or twice a night. He hadn't been present when the news of the missing dimmer was first announced. I think he visits a nearby gypsy camp between requests for tambourine numbers, and is summoned to the bandstand by remote-control castanets which click in his pocket when Gibbs presses the Spanish pedal on his console.

Anyway, the tambourine player knew where my dimmer is hidden. It is part of the turn signal on the steering wheel. To dim the lights, the driver pulls the signal stick toward him. To resume the brights, pull the stick again.

This sounds simple, unless for 35 years you have been dimming your lights with your foot, and you never moved your turn signal in any direction except up and down.

Driving home that night, I startled several oncoming motorists by signaling I was going to make a left turn while going 60 mph, and there was no crossroad to accommodate my turn. I quickly corrected this fearful impression by signaling a right turn, while at the same time stomping my left foot and screaming hysterically.

I am now, waiting for an Oldsmobile spokesman to explain why it was necessary to move the dimmer control onto the turn signal. I expect to hear from an engineer who majored in tambourine at GM Tech.

A reader suggested I should chastise Gerald Ford for skiing in Colorado and golfing in Palm Springs instead of returning to his home state to give some of that recreational publicity to the area that made his glory possible.

Right. Certainly Ford should get off the pro golf circuit before there is a tragic accident. I'm afraid those TV announcers who keep kissing Ford's putter will turn to sugar before our very eyes.

New hope for water quality

A brighter future appears to be in store for the water quality of the Manistique River.

Last year, the river was identified as one only five water quality problem areas on Lake Michigan, according to the Great Lakes Water Quality Board.

But with the ground-breaking last Friday of a $2.74 million secondary wastewater treatment plant by the city of Manistique and the announcement that Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. plans to begin operating a similar facility by July 1 to treat the plant's discharges points towards erasing the river's name from the "black list."

By the fall of the 1979, when the city's sewage system upgrading is completed, the mill and the city will be dumping a very small percentage of solid waste material and residue into the river and Lake Michigan. Both the waterway and the Great Lake should be dramatically cleaner than they now are in the Manistique area.

It is remarkable to note that only 20 years ago, the city had no waste treatment plant and was dumping raw sewage into Lake Michigan.

With the completion of the primary treatment plant in 1959, about one-third of the solids were being removed from waste water before the effluent was discharged into the river. But some raw sewage still has been reaching the lake through the city's combined sewer-storm sewer system. Leaks from the present sewer system carry waste into the storm sewer drainage, which ends up in the river. As well, water, sand and sticks from the storm sewer makes their way into the sewage plant, interfering with machinery and pressuring its capacity.

That situation should be largely corrected with the scheduled separation of the two sewer system along major roadways in the city, and major televised inspection and repair of existing sewer lines.

City officials estimate that only about one percent of the solid wastes that enter the new secondary treatment plant will pour into the river. A corresponding figure for the paper mill's effluent rate is from three to four percent. Prior to 1972, the mill did not have even its primary treatment plant, which is designed to eliminate 90 percent of the plant's residue.

The upshot of these water quality projects could mean more to the area than the obvious aesthetic appeal of cleaner water. It could mean, moreover, that the city has a key facility attractive to businesses and some industries that just need an excuse to move here or get started in the Upper Peninsula--where a promise of clean air and clean water can be fulfilled.

And that promise can fulfill more than a stack of Environmental Protection Agency regulations. It can signal economic and employment stability and growth as well.

THE PRECARIOUS walking bridge across the Indian River by the new city water filtration plant is badly in need of repair. City Council was told Monday night that the city may be liable for injuries to anyone using the structure, built for construction worker purposes, though warnings are posted. With the alternatives being to either repair or removed the bridge, a popular spot for local fishermen, we would urge the city to make repairs at a reasonable cost. (Tribune photo)

Water tip: take shower with a friend

First it was rain...almost two solid weeks of it.

Then last week, our short spring came to an abrupt end as Mother Nature shocked the Upper Midwest with a return to winter. By the time things cleared late Tuesday afternoon, we were digging out from eight inches of snow and the thermometer was headed for the low twenties.

Although many people have been moaning and groaning about the weather and its wetness there has been one tremendous benefit from all of the moisture. The drought conditions that plagued us all last summer and fall have been broken. The water table is on the rise and wells are beginning to fill.

While more rain is needed and will be needed in the coming months there are areas of the country that have not been as fortunate as we.

California is still in the grip of one of the worst periods of drought in that state's history. Living on one of the greatest bodies of fresh water in the world, we tend to take water for granted. There always seems to be enough and with the exception of the past few months most of our wells have never gone dry. Such is not the case in California.

In order to cope with the severe shortage of water in the state, many communities have resorted to water rationing. San Francisco is encouraging tourists to take shorter showers to save water.

Other water saving tips have been assembled for northern Californians whose life styles have changed after water rationing during the droughts' second year.

The tips, of course, could apply to any areas where the shortage of water is a problem.

Take a shower with a friend and a rug, then both of you can wring out the rug over your flower beds, is but one of the timely tips offered. Other tips range from banning out of town visitors to scraping condensation off a cocktail glass onto house plants.

Many of the tips will save water, some won't matter much, others will have little to do with water. They just make mundane lives more interesting.

Other water saving tips include:

Swallow your aspirin dry. Chill your glasses, liquor and mixes ahead of time and use no ice. Your drinks may not taste as clean and crisp, but after the second or third you won't notice.

Use only one tub of water to bathe all your kids, washing the cleanest kid first. Fill your waterbed with cheap beer or wine.

Brush your teeth in the cold water while you're waiting for it to get hot for shaving. The next time you are making a soup from a dry soup mix, try it without water.

That was just a few of the 95 water tips offered. Many of them sound as if they were put together by Johnny Carson's writers, and yet many of them make good sense.

So if a friend asks you to take a shower with a rug don't be too alarmed...just figure that it's all in the interest of conserving water.

Some awe-inspiring comparisons

A first-time father stood in awe in the delivery room of Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital and watched his seconds-old daughter take her first breaths.

What a great time, he thought, to compare the crafts of man with those of God. Man is not without his ingenuity, to be sure. But the energy of his constructive skills so often is directed in frivolous or self-destructive ways.

Just look at God's handiwork as expressed in a newborn child, and compare it with the fruit of man's skills:

A baby has an intricate nervous system; man has the interstate highway system.

God may put dimples in a baby's cheeks; man puts ruffles in potato chips.

Blood courses and recycles through a baby's veins; gas and oil fuel man's vehicles, much winding up in the atmosphere.

Side Tracks

by Arnold Mackowiak

A baby has a brain that seems to make no errors; man has massive computer systems capable of monstrous errors.

God gave a child vocal chords to cry its simple messages; man gave us bureaucracies, which cries implementation and recommendation of consequent coordinating policies.

A baby has two eyes that let in light, color and form; man has produced one big orb that spews out "The Gong Show."

A baby has a nose; man has smokestacks.

There may be some encouragement in the fact that every man was once a baby. Try to imagine people you meet or work with as infants, and the elements of innocence may show through.

No man-made thing is as complex as a human being. Yet human is easier to understand than say, ITT, or chocolate-flavored milk.

Perhaps the greatest protection God has provided for the newborn girl in the delivery room is a more complete lack of understanding of man's world. In time, her questions will prove more enlightening than our answers.

Behind costs of vo-education

Q - I was at the VICA (Vocational and Industrial Clubs of America) competition recently and noticed all of the equipment that has been furnished to the various departments. Is all this necessary? I mean, isn't it enough that we are over-taxed already without buying all these "luxury" items?

Ivan Ryan, deputy superintendent for vocational education in the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate District, answers the question of high vocational education costs:

"Providing quality vocational education programs to students to increase the probability of students attaining saleable skills needed by business and industry is the major goal of Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District's vocational services. The attainment of skill objectives is supported by both state and federal through legislation and financial support.

"Guidelines for attainment of program standards of quality have been provided by Vocational-Technical Education Services - Student-space ratio by vocational program are necessary, minimal equipment for instructional purposes are required and development of skill levels needed for successful placement must be provided.

Pioneer-Tribune Q & A

"Realizing that new vocational facilities and equipment costs are prohibitive for most school districts, federal funds have been provided for 'approvable facilities and necessary equipment. For the facilities in Manistique Area Public School designated as vocational, Manistique Area Public Schools was reimbursed 80 percent of the cost.

"In addition, equipment for five of the eight vocational programs was purchased by Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District as a part of the area vocational program for 11th and 12th grade students. All eight vocational programs were reimbursed 50 percent of the cost for equipment and for five of the eight programs, an additional 30 percent reimbursement was received from Upper Great Lakes Regional Council.

"One rationale for the support for vocational education is that the business and industrial community needs skilled workers. The significance of the above can only be fully appreciated when one considers the current high level of unemployment while jobs requiring skills go unfilled. At the same time, as a society, we endorse supporting, with public funds, higher education even though depending on the field of study, unemployment in area of preparation of college graduates ranges up to 50 percent.

"Yes, the cost of vocational education and equipment is higher than general education, but not as high as higher education. The fact that probability of employment after completion is higher for vocational education graduates is an item we all need to consider.

"These comments, unfortunately create a further division between the identified facets of education. Rather than a division, all education should relate to life and a career and the education of the individual should not cease at the completion of any program. It should be a lifetime activity, but some of us believe that all persons should have the opportunity to learn a skill so that employment is possible and the income earned affords them the opportunity to become involved in other activities including further education."

If you have a question about education in the Manistique Area Schools, drop a line or call the Pioneer-Tribune. We'll pass on the question to school officials.

REDISCOVER THE COLEUS. In Asian and African tropics where frost is unknown, there live about 150 species of coleuses, most of them with plain green leaves unlike the brightly colored ones familiar to flower lovers. Not only do most coleuses have ordinary green leaves, several have edible roots that taste something like potatoes. The coleus is a species native to Sri Lanka, the island that used to be called Ceylon. Other brightly colored types came originally from Java. In recent years plant breeders have taken special interest in coleuses because they are so satisfactory for the home gardener. From the wild species they have developed strains with foliage that is fascinating in shape as well as coloration. Gone is the awkwardness of old-time coleuses with their stiff, upright stems; in their place are graceful types with pendant stems and dense exotic foliage that make them ideal for hanging containers. The Big Story. This busy reporter is hammering out an important news story. Perhaps he is reporting a bank robbery... or the threat of war... or a major disaster, like an earthquake or a famine. The reporter is working against time. He has to get this story in the next edition, and he has to have the facts. Good reporting is an essential element of our democratic craft. Reporter and the rest of the newspaper staff must all blend into a dedicated, hard-working team. They must be an alert band of men and women on the job around the clock - ready at a moment's notice. Most newspaper stories come to a conclusion. They soon lose their "news" value, and become history. But one of the greatest stories of all time is God's great gift to man - the story of a promise of life after death. Through the life of Jesus Christ, through the Holy Scriptures and through the Church, we can hear this story forever, knowing that the greatest story ever told is NEWS today. Things to see and do in Hiawathaland

A bad reputation

One of those folksy Upper Peninsula sayings by author unknown, states there's "nothing wrong with old sucker... he's jost got bum reputation and funny kind mouth."

Actually, in the memory department, I've got a darn good reputation, having saved many an early expedition to favorite creeks from total fishlessness. Lined up under an old bridge or submerged log, suckers could usually be teased into attacking a wad of gum or piece of baloney wrapped around a hook or on finicky days, lassoed with a haywire noose on a stiff spring. We don't do this any more.

It's usually the first hefty fish kids try on a trout stream and up until the time the smart holes into view, things can be pretty tense. We once tied a balloon to a sucker's tail and released him upstream from the hole where old man Nettell fished from his battered wicker chair, and jumbo, busted a gut over his sloping efforts to retrieve it.

Rainbow and sucker runs overlap somewhat and because they both sip salmon eggs rather gently, frequent confusion on the other end of the line provides extra thrills, however brief. Invariably, the sucker thus caught is vocally maligned and cast aside...and that's a mistake.

During the spring, his flesh is firm and sweet and can be prepared in many ways...smoked, pickled or boiled in preparation for a thick chowder. Fish balls a la Marko are unbeatable. To each pound of boned, ground sucker, mix in 1/2 cup of flour, 2 to 4 eggs, onion, garlic, parsley, celery leaves, a teaspoon of Accent, salt and pepper. Roll the moist goop into soft, two-ounce balls, pan fry or drop into deep fat and keep score.

Sure, suckers have mean bones, and an unglamorous reputation, but they don't have all the additives which make trout and salmon from certain waters questionable fare on a regular basis and even a zilch fisherman can catch them with ease.

But you can't deny he's got "funny kind mouth..."

MAKING 'REPARES...

My friend Pekka, who has that delightful Finnish habit of dropping unnecessary letters or syllables from his conversations, once related a hunting episode to me in which this big doe tried to sneak behind his deer stand...but I made repares and when Mr. buck came along, I was repared for him.

A classic among outdoorsmen who were not prepared involved a 160-mile smelting trip to the Escanaba River, back in the days before smelt had worked into Lake Superior. My fishing partner Charlie fashioned his net from an old rake handle, a gutless tennis racket and an onion sack, tentatively assembled with haywire and twine. It worked great during the dry run but once on location, the strong current disintegrated it midway through the first dip and the next morning's hangover was launched.

Moral: There's no substitute for the real thing and hasty innovations create headaches. For example:

- Sinkers fashioned from bent pennies, small rocks, tin foil or nails...
- Bait boxes made from sandwich wrappers, handkerchiefs or pockets...
- Waders patched with band-aids, spruce gum or double wads of spearmint...
- Tent ropes woven from spare jeans...
- Oar locks made of rope...
- Mosquito dope made from equal parts of river mud and profanity...
- Matches fabricated from dry sticks and faded instructions from Ernest Thompson Seton...
- A compass consisting of poor recall and pine moss...
- ...And a spare car key fashioned from a big rock.

How quickly a summer outing can dissolve into a useless frock, simply because of bum planning and preparation. April is the month to patch those waders, rewind that tip guide and count your sinkers...it's the time to "make repares..."

Feed program started for several pairs of Bald Eagles

During this past winter, personnel from the Hiawatha National Forest have undertaken a program to feed several pairs of Bald Eagles which nest on the forest each spring.

The feeding program has been undertaken in an attempt to keep the last several pairs of productive eagles nesting on the forest.

During the last 15 or so years the population of eagles on the forest has collapsed from about 30 nesting pairs to two pairs.

The decline has been attributed to pesticides and toxic chemicals. Buildups of these chemicals in the bodies of the adults prevent successful nesting by causing infertile eggs, or eggs so fragile the birds crush them when they incubate, or the concentrations kill the embryo.

The chemicals are ingested with food. The eagles most likely pick up their load of chemicals in contaminated food from the Great Lakes and river systems further south, forest officials say.

By keeping the eagles from moving south in the winter, it may be possible to reduce the amount of contaminated food eaten. This will result in a reduction of concentration in the body, and hopefully mean successful nesting, they added.

Since eagles move south in winter when food becomes scarce, it is possible to encourage them to stay near their nesting territory throughout the year by feeding uncontaminated food to them in the winter.

Ornithologists in Sweden have been successful in reestablishing nesting of the white-headed Sea Eagle throughout its former range in Sweden by artificially feeding uncontaminated food.

Dead fish from hatcheries and car killed deer are the foods being offered eagles by Hiawatha National Forest personnel. One or two deer per month and whatever fish is available are placed at designated feeding sites. Raven and coyotes also enjoy the bounty, but their presence is an asset since it attracts eagles to the food sites.

The forest service has received assistance from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Michigan State Police in obtaining car killed deer and dead fish.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources reminds sportsmen that the new Recreational Trespass Act requires written permission from landowners to hunt, fish or operate any off-the-road vehicle on farmlands and connected farm wood lots or any other private lands that are fenced, enclosed, or clearly posted against entry. Only fishermen who walk the banks of a public stream to avoid natural or artificial hazards and obstructions are not required to have written permission. To help landowners control the use of their land, the DNR has developed a "pass", shown above, which is available in limited quantities from the Law Enforcement Division, Box 30026, Lansing, MI 48909.

Permit required for dip net fishing

Fishermen contemplating use of dip nets this spring in nontrout streams and other streams designated by the Director of Natural Resources to take suckers, smelt, carp and other rough fish are reminded that a new law passed by the Legislature in latter March requires a permit issued by the local conservation officer.

Also required is identification of the dip net equipment and removal by June 10th unless maintained with permission of the landowner.

The dip net fishing season in the lower peninsula is April 1 - May 31 and the month of May in the Upper Peninsula.

Sides or walls, may not exceed 9 feet square, and are lowered and raised vertically using a boom. Dip nets should not be confused with hand nets which are a mesh bag of webbing or wire attached to a handle.

Additional detail regarding dip net and waters in which they may be used are available from your conservation officer and permits are available from DNR District headquarters in Baraga, Crystal Falls, Newberry and Escanaba.

ORV law requires safety training

Michigan's off road vehicle (ORV) law requires safety training for young operators as well as registration and regulation of the vehicle.

ORVs are defined to include motor-driven off road recreation vehicles capable of cross country travel on or over natural terrain without benefit of road or trail.

This definition includes, but is not limited to, mini bikes, motor-cycles, four wheel drives and other related wheeled, tracked and air cushioned vehicles. Exempted, are registered snowmobiles, farm, construction and logging equipment when used in farming, construction and logging. Military and emergency vehicles are also exempted.

Students over 12 but less than 16 years of age are required to possess an ORV safety certificate while operating an ORV unless they are on land owned by a parent or guardian or are under the direct supervision of an adult. It is hoped that the incidence of environmental damage, nuisance operation and accidents can be reduced through training and education.

Currently, sessions are being held to train instructors so that student training classes can get underway in late April or early May. Plans are for at least one ORV student class to be held in each county in the Upper Peninsula. Information concerning these classes will be made available as the programs are set up.

Interior of Manistique's J.C. Penney Store

GENE NAGEL, MANAGER of the J.C. Penney Store in Manistique, goes through some papers in preparation for the chain's 75th anniversary sale Thursday (today). The local store is also celebrating its own 53rd anniversary. (Tribune photo)

It's Penney's 75th year, local store's 53rd

James Cash Penney stores all over the United States will be celebrating today 75 years of service and growth to consumers since the first store opened in a small town in Wyoming on April 14, 1902.

It wasn't long after that first store opened before the popular J.C. Penney company opened a store in Manistique, 22 years later on August 14.

Operating in the same location for the past 53 years, the local J.C. Penney, currently managed by Gene Nagel, will observe both their own 53rd anniversary and that of the company's.

The Manistique store was the 564th to become part of the national chain and its establishment was part of a period of rapid expansion for the Penney's chain. Hundreds of new stores were opened during that period in the 1920's.

Michigan had 23 J.C. Penney stores when the Manistique store opened.

The J.C. Penney company is the world's largest retailer of clothing with more than 2,000 stores in the U.S. Puerto Rico and Europe, reporting more than $8.3 billion in sales last year.

One of the reasons J.C. Penney Stores and the local J.C. Penney store, have been able to grow so well is the individual service offered to customers, Gene Nagel, manager of the Penney store in Manistique, said.

Nagel became the manager of the store in 1973 replacing W.H. Griffith who had become manager in 1969. Other managers included Ernest H. Eckland, who managed the store from 1931 until his retirement in 1958, H.J. Ran from 1958 to 1965, and D.L. Moir from 1965 to 1969.

Penney: giant of retailing

James Cash Penney, founder of the 2,000-unit department store chain and champion of the Golden Rule, was credited with numerous contributions to American retailing.

High among these contributions to retailing was one of the first profit sharing programs. He insisted that his people share in the business as partners, as owners with him. His employees were all associates—a term that is still part of the Penney way of life today.

James Penney was his own travelling quality control lab. In his early days in the New York market, he used his hotel room to personally test every item or garment he was considering for resale.

The JCPenney merchandise testing center and quality control programs are among the best in retailing. These two departments comprise the Quality Assurance division. The entire division include more than 150 associates.

Even though Mr. Penney had withdrawn from active management in 1917, he served the Company as a member of the Board of Directors and a good will ambassador for the rest of his life.

One of Mr. Penney's ambitions in later life was to live to be 100. Although he was in good health, he suffered a fall in his home in January and he died on Feb. 12, 1971 at the age of 95.

75 years ago this week James Cash Penney opened his first store in Kemmerer, Wyoming.

Today everything has changed except what's important.

On April 14, 1902, James Cash Penney unlocked the door of his new store and started the business. He was 27. He'd been in dry goods since he was nineteen.

"I went to work in Hale's store (J.M. Hale & Brother, Hamilton, Missouri) at the age of nineteen. The sum of $2.27 a month was certainly modest pay. But I felt strangely contented."

Penney had to leave Hale's store and Hamilton because of his health. A doctor sent him off to Colorado (which must have been good advice; he lived to be 95).

He got a job in Longmont, near Denver, with a retail chain of several stores.

The firm sent him to work

Portrait of Mr. Penney against Kemmerer store.

in their Evanston, Wyoming store, then gave him a shot at his own store, in Kemmerer. Opening day was April 14, 1902. At dawn.

The first day's sales amounted to $466.59. By the end of the first year, the store had done $29,000 worth of business. By 1907, Mr. Penney had saved enough to buy out his partners and the company took off. In 1913, 36 Golden Rule Stores were incorporated as the Fashion. From an early Penney newspaper advertisement and from a current ad.

J.C. Penney Company.

In 1924 the company acquired its 500th store, J.M. Hale & Brother in Hamilton, Missouri. Remember? In 1941, the company opened store number 1600.

In 1971, James Cash Penney died. The only ambition he had that he didn't achieve was to live to be a hundred. He only missed by 5 years. The company he founded is 75 years old this week.

Generally we look ahead and focus on the changes in the Penney Company. There've been plenty of them. But on a birthday—and a 75th birthday to boot—it seems appropriate to talk about the things that never change, because they're grounded in the basic needs and wants and expectations of human beings.

There are things you expect from your Penney store that haven't changed at all—like getting good value for your money, like being treated as the welcome guest you are, like getting complete satisfaction if ever anything goes wrong.

All these things are as important to us and to you on April 14, 1977 as they were to James Cash Penney and his customers on that famous day of April 14, 1902.

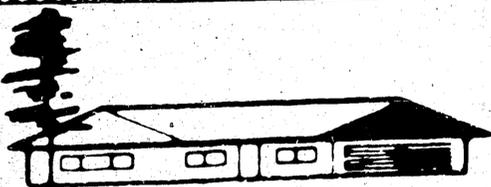

Thank you for reading all these words. We probably won't write another ad like this till April, 2002. Watch for it.

THE PENNEY IDEA

- Adopted 1913
- 1 To serve the public, as nearly as we can, to its complete satisfaction.
- 2 To expect for the service we render a fair remuneration and not all the profit the traffic will bear.
- 3 To do all in our power to pack the customer's dollar full of value, quality and satisfaction.
- 4 To continue to train ourselves and our associates so that the service we give will be more and more intelligently performed.
- 5 To improve constantly the human factor in our business.
- 6 To reward men and women in our organization through participation in what the business produces.
- 7 To test our every policy, method and act in this wise: "Does it square with what is right and just?"

In the year 1913 the Penney partners approved this code of principles to guide them. "The Penney Idea" became, and is today, a moral as well as business basis for decision-making.

JCPenney. Everything has changed except what's important.
