New-born baby is evacuated

A 12-hour old baby was flown by helicopter from the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital to Marquette after the infant developed breathing problems Saturday, May 14.

Wayne Michael Ryerse, Jr. infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ryerse, 139 North Second Street, was flown to the Marquette General Hospital and placed in the intensive care unit after the infant child developed a mild respiratory distress syndrome, doctors say.

Infant Wayne was born to the Ryerses at 5:16 a.m. Saturday, May 14. He weighed 5lb. 10 ounces.

A helicopter from the Kincheloe Air Force Base near Saull Ste. Marie transported the baby at about 5 p.m. Saturday.

The mother of the child was reported "feeling better" this week.

Mrs. Wayne Ryerse, told the Pioneer-Tribune Wednesday that doctors from Marquette have called her and reported that their son is improving. He will be brought back to Schoolcraft Memorial in a few days, she said.

Helicopters have been used previously to transport patients between hospitals, hospital administrator said, although this may be the first time that the patient has been this young.

Car gets dunked

State Police report that a car owned by Michael Hermes of Garden was accidentally driven into the Garden Bay on Tuesday, May 17.

According to police, Mrs. Michael Hermes had stepped at the Rosemary Garvin residence in Garden and parked her car in the driveway leaving the motor running. Police say that two youngsters playing nearby then got into the car, accidentally putting the car into gear.

According to police, the car moved approximately 150 feet across the lawn and into the Garden Bay. A diver was necessary to recover the car.

Both youths jumped from the moving car before it hit the water. No injuries were reported.

Henrichsen finalist

Radio Station, WTIO news director Beverly Henrichsen has been selected as a finalist in the Detroit Press Club Foundation's 12th annual state-wide awards competition.

Henrichsen was chosen for distinguished reporting of an event under an immediate deadline for her reporting of the Seney National Wildlife Refuge fire.

Twelve awards, worth $3,300, will be presented by the foundation.

Twenty-one finalists were picked from a field of over 200 entrants. Henrichsen is the only reporter from the Upper Peninsula to be nominated to the finalist post.

Others in the radio reporting competition include newsmen from Detroit, Ann Arbor and Flint radio stations.

Council adopts 20-mill budget

In a special council meeting Monday afternoon, the Manistique City Council voted to adopt a recommended budget by City Manager Robert Risik that will reflect no increase in millage levies over last year.

The new budget shows a balanced general fund of $925,750 and a balanced water and sewer fund of $403,985, for a combined budget of $1,329,735 for the fiscal year 1977-78.

The budget came under fire by one councilmember and a citizen in the audience over the transfer of $54 thousand to the water and sewer fund from general fund monies.

Councilmember Doug Rose told the council that he believed water and sewer funds should be supported primarily through revenues generated from water and sewer bills, placing the expenses on the user of the services.

Rose had earlier prepared a revised budget which he said was "more accurate estimations on our revenues and removing what I would term as 'slop' in our expenditures."

Under Rose's budget, combined general and water and sewer funds would balance out at $885,230. It would also have decreased the millage levy by 3.25 mills. Currently, the city operates at 20 mill, the maximum levy allowed under the city charter.

However, Mayor Frank Hewitt, in a prepared statement to the council, said, "I would like to agree with Doug Rose that a reduction in millage is desirable but I, as a councilman that will be sitting on this board next year, cannot ask for a millage cut now and turn around in less than a year and ask for an increase.

"The city needs are very great at this time in both the DPW areas and in the areas of water supply and sewage disposal," Hewitt said.

To generate additional monies, Rose had proposed an increase in water and sewer bills, which would not increase the water rate of the minimum user, but would increase the sewer rates by $2.40 per month.

In presenting his budget to the council last week, Rose said, "As a councilman I feel it is my responsibility to oversee, and disagree if necessary, recommendations made to this board, and therefore stand by the taxpayer in an effort to lower the millage."

"Rose's proposal is to increase the water rates now in order to reduce the millage," Hewitt said. "If this is done it would, in all likelihood, mean two increases in perhaps a 12-month period.

"Our rates are high now, but with two increases, they will be beyond concept," Hewitt told the board.

City officials are anticipating a $500,000 local expenditure for a sewer-storm sewer separation project in the fall, which will require a sewer bill hike.

Sue Cole, a resident of West Lake Shore Drive, told the council that she supported Rose and the idea of requiring the user to pay for services.

"Our taxes are so much higher. I could save $600 a year if the city limits were moved," Cole said. "For years West Lake Shore residents have paid higher taxes without receiving any of the services."

West Lake Shore residents are not connected to water or sewer services.

Acting on a motion by Mayor Hewitt, the council voted to accept the recommended budget prepared by the city manager. Councilmen Rose cast the only dissenting vote.

Rose told the Pioneer-Tribune on Tuesday that he was disappointed no councilmember had contacted him to discuss his budget proposals during the week before the special meeting.

He re-emphasized that a 103.7 per cent increase in the city's levy, from $196,520 in 1973-74 to a proposed $400,485 in 1977-78, because of rising assessments, should have left room for millage reduction.

A key element to Rose's plan to reduce millage was to refrain from transferring $54,500 to the water-sewer fund.

City Manager Risik said that the transfer was in accord with the city's 1975 loan agreement with the Farmers Home Administration, in which the FHA directed the city to certify that the city DPW would continue to maintain the sewer and water system out of the DPW budget, and not the sewer and water fund.

According to Risik, because this had not been done over the past two years, the sewer and water fund is short of money.

In other action, Monday, the council voted to leave $6 thousand in the Army Trust Fund.

The money represents what is left of an $18 thousand excess after building the armory. Earlier, the council had proposed transferring this money to the general fund.

WORLD WAR I monument lay in two pieces Thursday after it toppled off its base as it was being moved by a fork lift tractor. (Photo by F. Clish)

Oops! But it can be fixed

It won't be here for Memorial Day Services, but the World War I Memorial that was broken last week can be repaired.

According to George Danko, bi-centennial commander of the VFW post here.

The monument has been transported to the Peninsula Granite and Stone Co. of Iron Mountain, where officials say it is repairable and will be refurbished.

But, a backlog of pending business will keep the company from working on the memorial until at least June 1.

The memorial was broken last Thursday after it fell off a fork-lift moving it to its final resting place at the All Vets Memorial site at the county courthouse.

Danko said a rut in the lawn, possibly caused by a cement truck that had poured the foundation for the memorial earlier in the week, caused the fork-lift to bounce knocking the memorial off the forks.

The memorial reportedly was no more than a foot off the ground when it fell.

In 1955 the memorial was struck by a semi-truck, moving it two inches on its base at the former Elk and River Street site.

Danko theorized that a hairline crack could have developed at that time.

The monument was transported Saturday, May 14, to Iron Mountain via a flatbed truck loaned by Jim Miller of Manistique Saw and Planing Mill, Inc.

Memorial Day services at the All Vets Memorial site will be held as scheduled, according to Danko.

The Spanish-American War Memorial on Maple Street will be moved to the courthouse site later this week, Danko indicated.

County backs building fees

The Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners Tuesday night turned down a building code advisory committee's recommended elimination of all building code fees.

Commissioner Edward Way, chairman of building permit fee committee, composed mostly of local contractors, made the motion to terminate the fees as requested by the committee.

"I think it's a little bit premature to eliminate the fees when the supervisors haven't made their decision on whether they're going to administer their own building code," Board Chairman Ernest Hoholik said. The township supervisors are scheduled to meet on Monday, May 23.

Commissioner Earl LeBrasseur said that receiving four or five complaints on 250 fees paid last year, by Building Code Administrator Ed Daunt's count, didn't justify eliminating them. LeBrasseur said he had checked with a few other counties, and all supported paying for permits on a user's fee basis.

Committee members proposed covering the cost of code enforcement by taxpayers at large, and having townships instead of the county administer the code.

In a 5-2 roll call vote, Commissioners LeBrasseur, Hoholik, Way, William Tennyson and Ken Mortensen cast negative ballots; Daniel Klarich and Lindsley Frenette voted yes.

In other business, the county board: --forwarded to the airport committee an offer by Marv Curran to sell 4.9 acres of land in the pines area bordering the county airport on the west, for $15,000, to work out an option to buy and financing. Commissioner Frenette said the land, currently used as a picnic area, could be reserved for recreation purposes. --accepted a high bid of $263.51 from William Doyle for a search and rescue building at the airport. Eleanor Schurmer submitted a bid of $150. --reappointed Richard Rodgers and Clyde Strasser to three-year term on the county building authority.

No plus no still equals no

To smoke or not to smoke is a tough personal decision. It's even tougher when you have to decide the issue for others.

The Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners was further impressed with the difficulty Tuesday night, after hearing a lengthy request from health department administrators to permit smoking, drinking coffee and eating by department employees and their clients in their courthouse offices.

The board banned such practices in the new courthouse last fall, but following the advice of the state Department of Social Services, exempted county DSS employees because the department's lease on courthouse space did not specify the prohibitions.

Commissioner William Tennyson moved that the health department's request be denied, but only he and Ernest Hoholik and Ken Mortensen voted for denial. Earl LeBrasseur, Lindsley Frenette, Edward Way and Daniel Klarich were against denial.

However, LeBrasseur's motion to approved the request also failed, 4-3. LeBrasseur, Way and Klarich were in favor, while Tennyson, Frenette, Mortensen and Hoholik cast negative votes.

"The request wasn't denied, but the approval was denied," Hoholik recapitulated. "Does that make sense?"

After further discussion, LeBrasseur said the debate should be dropped and the department told the request had been denied.

County Clerk Fred Lesica Tuesday mailed a letter to the health department administrators, informing them of the denial.

Tax gain for school, townships proposed

After more than 90 minutes of discussion, Schoolcraft County government gave up two-tenths of a mill to schools and townships in a preliminary county tax allocation decision Monday night.

William Cowman, county treasurer and a member of the allocation board, moved that the 15-mill unvoted property tax levy be allocated as follows: 6.0 for the county, 7.6 for the schools, 0.1 for the intermediate school district, and 1.3 for the townships.

That represented a decrease from the county's 6.2 share last year, one-tenth of a mill increase for the schools and the townships. Last year, the schools received 7.5 and the townships, 1.2.

Voting in favor of the preliminary allocation were Wells Bowers, Cowman, William Tennyson, Mary Moffat, Richard Rodgers and Walter McClintock. Billie Doyle and William Mueller voted no.

The increase to the schools will bring about $6,500 more to local school districts, but Mueller and Doyle had opposed the small increase in favor of a larger allocation.

Representatives of Manistique Area Schools had requested as much as five-tenths of a mill.

Margaret Waters, member of the board of education, charged that the county was using allocated monies to pay off construction bonds on the new courthouse, but Rodgers; allocation board chairman, said federal revenue sharing was intended for that purpose.

Waters said that the school district needed more local millage to produce more state aid, as higher assessments were not helping the district as they have been aiding local units of government. Since people are reluctant to vote in more millage, she continued, the school board's only other choice is to cut educational programs.

She said the county should levy millage without a vote, as it is empowered to do, in order to pay off courthouse bonds, and release more millage to the schools.

But County Clerk Fred Lesica countered, "It's not going to be any more acceptable to the public than voting for millage." He said levying for bond payments would be "shoving it down the public's throat."

"Why don't we go after the Bursley Bill," said Ernest Hoholik, county board chairman. "It's a shame that we have to pick at one another for one-half a mill or one mill or whatever."

Hoholik agreed to urge state governmental organizations to oppose the Bursley plan, which rewards districts with higher local millage with more state aid.

Bowers pitched for township millage. "Some consideration should be given to the townships," he said, "because they have done a wonderful job of raising assessments, in face of pressure from the State Tax Commission."

But only Mueller Township, which requested 1.0, was allocated as much millage as it had asked for.

Other township allocations, followed by their requested levy in parentheses: Doyle, 1.3 (1.85); Germfask, 1.3 (5.96); Hiawatha, 1.3 (1.8); Inwood, 2.0 (3.71); Seney, .88 (1.0); Thompson, 1.3 (1.5); and Manistique 1.3 (1.85).

Final allocation is set for May 26 at the courthouse.

Thompson fire out

Federal and state firefighters spent much of the day Wednesday, in a clean-up operation after a fire that burned some 65 acres near Thompson Plains, about six miles west of Manistique.

Wally Crane, forester with the U.S. Forest Service, said the fire was started by a carelessly thrown match. A citation has been issued to the offender, he said.

Crane said the fire began about 4 p.m. Tuesday and was under control by 8 p.m. However firefighters remained at the scene Wednesday to extinguish the fire completely. Some 35 firefighters were on call at the fire Tuesday.

The 65-acre figure is a revised figure from an earlier report of some 90 acres that was first thought burned.

Joe Anthony and Dan Funderburg, Department of Natural Resources fire officials, said that most of the burned areas was covered with grass and brush. Anthony added that a small stand of Jack Pine also was burned.

Discount clothing store opens in city

A new occupant has moved into the former state liquor store quarters to offer yet another reason for Manistique residents to "shop at home."

Terry's Clothing, located at the corner of Walnut and Cedar Streets, officially opened its door this past week. The store offers national brand clothing at discount prices.

Terry Patterson, manager of the new store, puts it another way.

"It's a nationally known catalog overstock clothing outlet," the Manistique High School graduate says.

Patterson is quick to emphasize that the clothing offered through the store is "quality clothing, not seconds."

Terry's Clothing currently has in stock a full line of women's clothing. Patterson indicated that they would be stocking men's clothing shortly. Sizes will range from infant to adult.

Prices range from $3.75 for women's tops to $6 for pant suits.

Patterson operates the store in partnership with his parents, who previously owned a small furniture store in Hart, Mich., located in the Western lower peninsula. Patterson buys his clothes from a firm in Grand Rapids. All of it is overstock clothing.

"We don't have too much choice on what we get," says Patterson. "Some of it may even be out of season."

Patterson indicated, though, that prices could be kept low, benefiting the consumer.

"What prices do they sell for? Well, they are all less than national costs," Patterson said.

Patterson is not sure if the store will hold a Grand Opening Sale. "It's hard to offer a sale when you have already low prices," Patterson explained.

While prices may not be an obstacle, Patterson says he does have problems with the location.

"A lot of people still think that this is the liquor store. Once we get the word around, though, that should change," the proprietor said.

Terry's Clothing is currently open Tuesday through Saturday from 9:15 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Fridays until 9 p.m. The store is closed on Sunday and Monday.

by Mrs. Eleanor LaButte 644-2522

The Kates Bay Home Ec. Club met on Thursday, May 12 at the Lois Beaudre home. Plans were made to sew the quilt the club is making at the First National Bank Branch in Garden on May 18, at 10 a.m.

A rummage sale was held and lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held on June 16, in the evening at the Mandy Farley home.

Ten women from the Garden and Fayette area attended a 1981 seminar held in Kalamazoo, "Winning Women for Christ." It was held on the Campus of Western Michigan University, with meetings being held in the James Miller Auditorium. Speaker for the seminar was Edith Schaeffer from L'adri, Switzerland. Ten women stayed in university dormitories.

Those attending the meeting from here were Grace Stern, Lindr Harm, Chris Watchorn, Jackie Zerhen, Joyce Glenn, Fern Groner, Diane Fox and Linda Parkinson. Three thousand women from all over the United States attended the seminar.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gauthier and children Janice and Paul of Ada visited for the weekend at his parents, home, Mr. Charles Gauthier in Garden and with his mother, Viola Gauthier, who is a patient in the Schoolcraft Medical Care Facility in Manistique.

Mrs. John B. Boudreau of Adrian was a weekend visitor at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred LaVallee and Mr. and Mrs. James Dotsch in Garden.

Garden Historical Society members and guests were given a tour May 15, through the Fayette State Park buildings by Park Manager Bill Manning and his wife Judy.

There were many interesting articles seen of past years with revealing stories told by members, who at one time had seen them in their original places and had heard of them being used.

One interesting feature was the hot and cold running water system used in the hotel in Fayette. Water was piped into the hotel through pipes after being heated at one of the blast furnaces of the kilns, quite a convenience at the time. The group thoroughly enjoyed their tour and the polluck picnic afterwards, which was followed by a brief business meeting.

The next meeting of the society will be held on June 21 at 8 p.m. in the First National Bank Building Branch in Garden.

Manistique Music Boosters Club planning awards banquet

The Manistique Music Boosters Club announced plans for the annual music awards banquet to be held on Friday, May 27 at 6 p.m. in the cafeteria at the high school. Senior high parents are asked to bring a main dish and a dessert to the polluck dinner. Junior high parents should bring rolls and a main dish. Band and chorus awards and scholarships will be presented at the dinner.

The Booster Club decided to donate funds to pay for spats for the band and robes for the chorus. Anyone who has spats which they would be willing to donate should call Dan White.

In Memoriam

In Memory of Rosella Wilker one year ago May 23.

Do not ask me if I miss her
For there's such a vacant place
Off' I think of her footsteps
Or I see her smiling face
For she left me broken hearted
Friends may think the wound is healed
But they so little know the sorrow
That is in my heart concealed.

Sadly missed by sister

Coastal zoning meeting set

Everyone who owns property with water frontage on the Great Lakes and its bay should be aware of the Coastal Zone Management public meetings in the U.P., the Upper Peninsula Federation of Land Owners announces.

"Do not count on your property rights protecting you," the association warns in its current newsletter. "There are no guarantees, as one CZM advisory committee recently voted that they do not have to honor your property rights. They will consider them in the evaluation of each case."

"The U.P. Federation of Landowners is following the program closely, but individual landowners must protect their rights since the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency recognizes (the state's) authority shall include power...to acquire...interest in lands, waters and other property, through condemnation or other means necessary, to achieve conformance..."

The next public coastal zoning meeting is set at 7 p.m. May 31 at the North Room of the Holiday Inn in Marquette.

The sinking of the Sultana

The following letter was received last week:

"Gentlemen,
While I am not a native or resident of Manistique, my wife, Lucile Owen, was a native so I have had many pleasant memories of Manistique.

In recent months, there have been many interesting stories about events in Manistique and elsewhere in earlier days in the Tribune.

The Sinking Of The Sultana

"Your editor mentions that there has been very little recorded of the event. He is so right. His mention of the Sultana is the first I have seen in at least 70 years. I am a native of Hillsdale County, descendent of two first settlers in two townships—Moscow and Adams.

"I know in that period there were at least 25-30 veterans of the Civil War in that area: John Blackmore of North Adams and H. Aldrich of Aldrich (just four corners).

"Both of these men, I believe, claimed that they were survivors of the Sultana.

"The boat, which carried many union soldiers home after the war, exploded and its cause was highly controversial. There were only a few survivors and these two men were of high repute so I never questioned their stories.

Manistique to St. Ignace By Foot in One Day

"I am inclined to believe this story. In the early 1920's my wife and I were spending our vacations at the home of her parents, Arthur H. and Anna Owen, on Pearl Street in Manistique. This home was about three or four houses east of Ed Ek Dahl's.

"Frequently, I walked much in that area. One day I met an old man who frequently visited his daughter, or granddaughter who lived east of the Owen house. "The old gentleman, I believe he was at least 80 years, told me that he carried the mail from Manistique to St. Ignace on foot and made the trip in one day.

"He followed the lake shore generally. I never knew his name. He may have visited the Makels, who lived in that area, or a new neighbor.

"They says that old soldiers never die, just fade away. Perhaps old veterans stories never fade; they just get more interesting.

"I believe I see Mrs. Makel's name in your paper so she must still live in Manistique.

The ship which turned over in the harbor.

"In the 1920's, I made a trip to Manistique by way of Frankfort. I took the night car ferry to Manistique. It was a delightful trip. Too bad the ferries have been abandoned.

"I like to be out on the deck to watch the waves as the ferry goes by. I had had no supper. I saw someone approach me. It was the cook. He apparently thought I was lonely so he offered me a cup of coffee and something to go with it.

"I am sure he was lonely and wanted someone with whom he could talk. He took me to the dining room for the crew. Well, his idea of something to eat with the coffee was a large plate with about five large slices of beef, a large plate of bread, a plate of cookies, about six doughnuts, a cake and a few other things.

"Then he asked me if I had ever heard of the boat which turned over in the Manistique Harbor. I said yes, my wife lived in Manistique at the time. Then he told me a long story about the boat or ship.

"He said it was voodooed. The Manistique turn-over was not its only bad luck.

"He said that he had worked on it and that on a terrible February night, the ship left Frankfort in a terrible storm; it was out perhaps nearly halfway to Manistique when the cars came loose. As you know, the only thing that can be done is to get the loose cars overboard. This was done after much time and trouble.

"The captain then decided to turn back to Frankfort. No one expected to ever see land or home again.

"Then suddenly the ship grounded. It was a great relief but no one knew where the ship had grounded. When daylight broke through the clouds and the storm, the ship was grounded exactly against the breakwater in Frankfort. That captain had brought the ship back to the pier, perhaps 60 or 80 miles of dead reckoning, no help from the stars. An outstanding piece of ability.

"It was an interesting trip. Also a good meal and the cook would make no charge. All I could do was tip him.

"Manistique has changed but I have always enjoyed it, although most of our old friends have passed. A few left that I can think of: Max Osterhout, a World War I comrade and bestman at our wedding; Dorothy Shipman; Mrs. Helen Olsen; Louise Thompson; her husband Tommy; and Jack Quick, etc.

"Also, Mrs. Fyvie was a musical friend of my wife's. I trust I have not worn you out, but I still hope to enjoy many more of your memoirs."

Signed, Leland J. Kerman.

"P.S. If you want to know where North Adams and Moscow are located ask your representative, Charles Varnum, who is from Jonesville. My great grandfather is buried down the road at Moscow Plains Church yard. Also, my grandfather's brother owned the Jonesville Hotel back in the 1800's. Another brother founded the first Methodist Church in Marquette about 1850. I have several original letters from Marquette, back when it was called Carp River.

Stewart to appear on lottery show

Paul A. Stewart, 50, of Gulliver, has a chance to become the biggest Upper Peninsula winner yet in the Michigan Lottery's "Michigan" when he joins six other contestants shooting for a top prize of $100,000 this evening, May 19.

Stewart, who owns and operates the Village Market in Gulliver, will earn at least $5,000 just for making the trip to Detroit to appear on the lottery's weekly television show. If he wins the big prize, he can return the following week for another shot at the top prize.

He is the third U.P. resident to appear on the show. Sharon Pekarek of Kincheloe Air Force Base earned $4,500 on the show last Oct. 28 (the minimum prize has since been increased) and the Carolina Tire Club from Ishpeming took home $8,000 on March 24.

Another six U.P. residents have earned $2,000 each for matching both winning "Michigan" numbers, but they didn't advance to the television runoff.

Schoolcraft County's biggest lottery winner to date has been Robert Burkman, who earned $50,000 in a weekly drawing back in May of 1974.

Plea entered on income tax charges

MARQUETTE—Carley L. Williams, 45, of Germfask was arraigned in U.S. District Court a Northern Division of the West District of Michigan, Marquette on three counts of willfully attempting to avoid his income taxes for the years of 1972, 1973, and 1974. Williams waived indictment. Information was filed with the court.

Williams, who owns a trucking business, appeared before Judge Noel Fox and pleaded not guilty to the charges. Judge Fox placed Williams on a $2,000 recognizance bond.

Another IRS official said that Williams allegedly filed a 1972 Federal Income Tax Return reporting taxable income of $14,850 when in fact his taxable income was $17,141.08. The source said he filed a 1973 Federal Income Tax Return, reporting taxable income of $6,494 when in fact he earned $23,730.09. A 1974 return claimed $9,185 when in fact he earned $27,425.95 according to the charges.

If convicted of charges Williams could be sentenced to five years imprisonment, fined $10,000 or both on each of these charges.

Proposals for court system

Once again the Chief Justice of Michigan's Supreme Court, Thomas G. Kavanagh, has given the Legislature and all of Michigan a report on the state of its courts.

As always, Kavanagh has presented a candid look at the court system's failings and offered suggestions on making some improvements.

Inevitably, the focus fell on the Wayne County courts where some of the major operational problems exist. In a way, this emphasis is unfortunate, because the Wayne County difficulties cast long shadows over our other courts, distorting their records.

The worse example of civil-case backlog problems is in the Wayne County Circuit Court, where it now takes an average of 40 months from the time a civil case is filed until a decision is reached. As of last Jan. 1, there were 47,369 cases pending in Wayne County Circuit Court, and 10,000 of them were already two years old.

Kavanagh reported on the recommendation of a special study committee of judges, headed by Judge Thomas Foley, that has proposed creation of a system of magistrates to hear routine matters.

The magistrates would be used to relieve judges from the handling of routine domestic relations matters and other unopposed court business.

This is similar to the system used in the federal courts for several years. In it, judges handle all major legal issues and proceedings that could result in final disposition of a case.

Although the focus was on the Wayne County problems, this is a proposal that could be used to benefit other courts throughout the state. Certainly it would be a better solution than continually adding additional judges and building additions to courthouses.

Kavanagh offered another thought that we would like to endorse.

He told the lawmakers that they are passing too many laws with too little thought on their impact on the courts.

He suggested that new laws contain what he termed a "judicial impact statement" analyzing how many trials might result from approval of the legislation.

Another proposal offered by Kavanagh is controversial. He would reduce the impact of politics on the judicial system by having judges of the Supreme and the Appeals Courts appointed rather than elected.

Eliminating the people's voice in the choice of judges is sure to run into opposition.

One reason he gave for it makes sense. He pointed out that as things are now, the Supreme Court winds up with the final decision on reapportionment of the Legislature every 10 years.

This is an intensely political decision, one that cost Kavanagh the support of the Democratic party in the last election because he chose an independent course.

He urged the lawmakers to do whatever is necessary to draw the boundaries of legislative districts, pointing out that the job is not constitutionally a responsibility of judges.

He also asked the Legislature to place a constitutional amendment on the 1978 ballot to provide the appointment of judges. As he put it, this would not necessarily improve the quality of judges but it should improve their work because it would get them out of running for elections, something that disrupts court business.

Certainly the Chief Justice's proposals deserve serious study by the lawmakers. In particular, the proposal for a system of magistrates is an idea that can benefit Circuit courts throughout the state.

In defense of wild flowers

Over the past few months, we have had a number of persons urge us to write something about wild flowers and the need to protect them. It seems that it is hard for many people to imagine that wild flowers do need protection. Particularly at this time of year our woods are covered with such a variety and abundance of wild flowers that it doesn't seem possible that they might be in some danger.

I've always appreciated wild flowers, but never knew too much about them. They are just one of the many signs of Spring that you tend to take for granted.

Well, on further investigation at the urging of some of our good readers, I find that wild flowers should not be taken for granted.

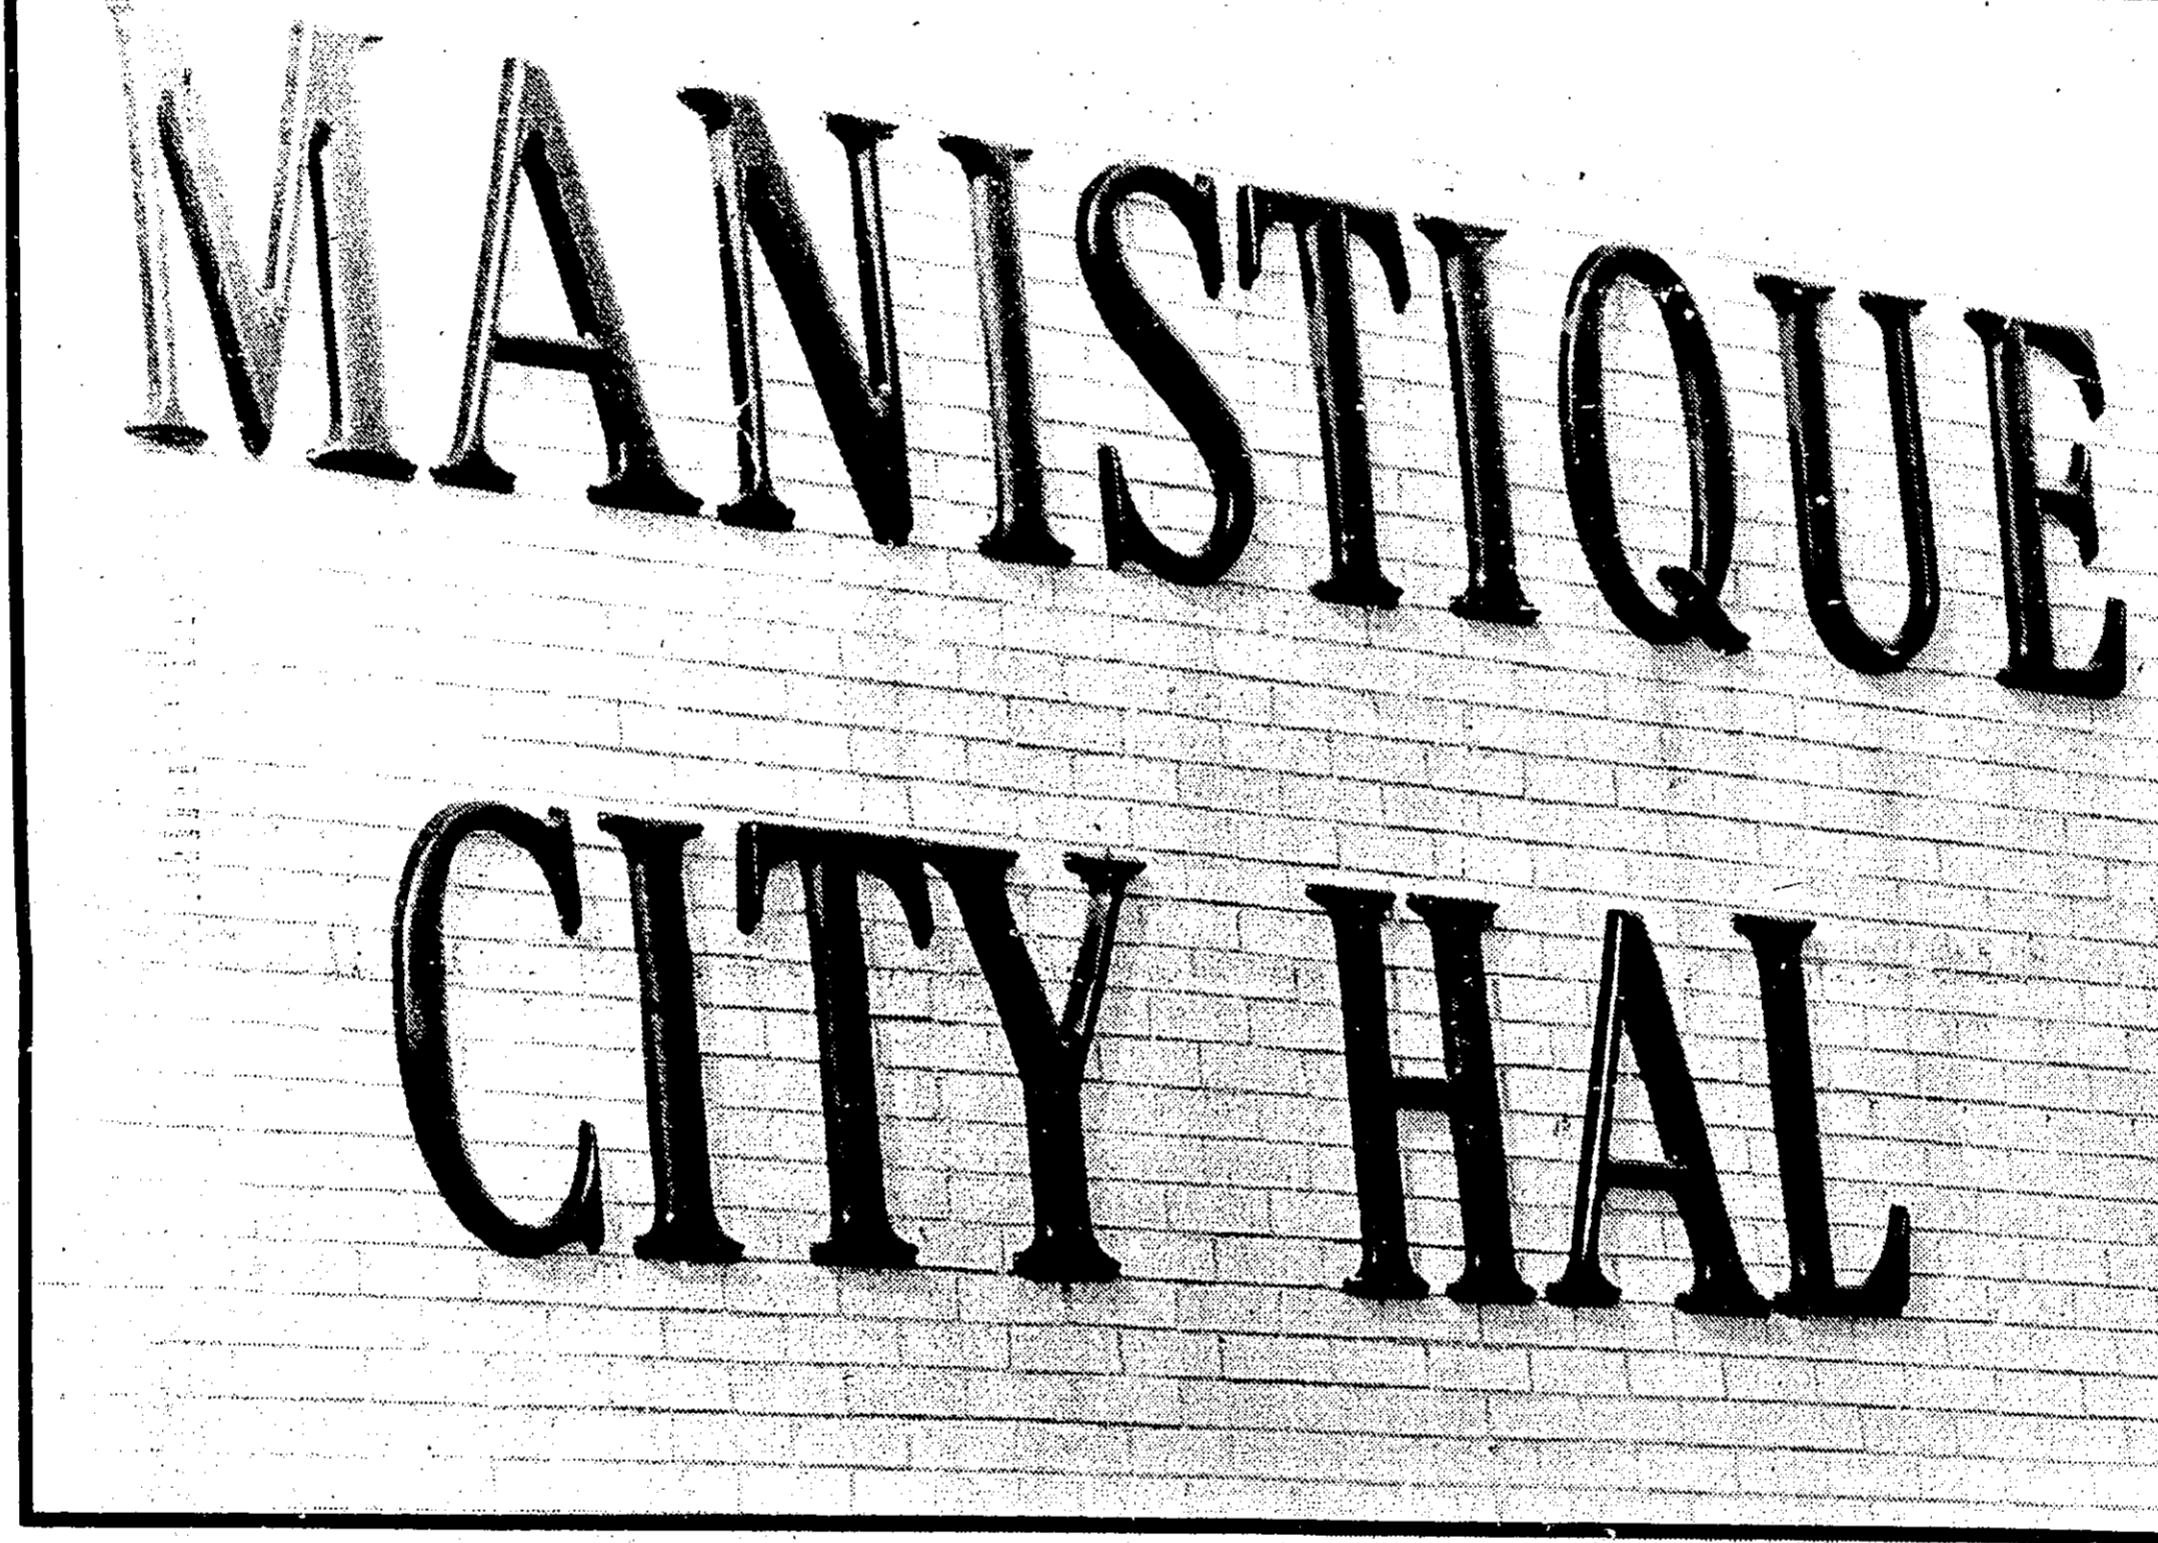

Although some of our protected species of plants are still plentiful in areas that are remote from human habitation and relatively inaccessible, others have become scarce, especially in the southern half of the state. Fortunately, we live in a remote area, but in order to preserve what we have, many of the wild flowers around us are protected and are not to be picked or disturbed.

Further increase in their abundance can only be achieved by preservation of favorable habitat and strict law observance. However, laws must have public support to be effective, and we print this in hopes that people who read it will tell their neighbors and make them more aware of Michigan's protected wild flowers.

Among the wild flowers of Michigan that are protected are the American Lotus, Flowering Dogwood, Large Flowered White Trillium, Trailing Arbutus, Birdfoot Violet and Pipsissewa (commonly called ground pines), Michigan Holly, the Fringed and Closed Gentian and Climbing Bittersweet.

In Michigan, the Orchid family is also protected. There are about 50 species of orchids and lady's slippers growing in the state. Lady's slippers and other orchids should never be picked because few of their species germinate and the plants do not mature and blossom until they are 6 to 12 years old.

The next time you're in the woods, look, but don't pick any of these wild flowers. Leave them so that others, including generations yet to be born, can enjoy them also.

"CITY HAL" might be a good nickname for a dedicated city servant, but it's not the name of Manistique municipal headquarters. City officials this week were searching for a missing letter that had either fallen off or was stolen from the sign on the south side of the building. (Tribune photo)

Hospital customers support quality health care

To the Editor: We're not employed by the hospital and should probably have no voice in its operation. We have used it once in the short time we've been here and will probably use it again in the future, though. As customers we feel justified in speaking out concerning the quality of service provided by the nurses and we feel that quality will be basically determined by the people in charge of that operation. The nurses that attended our son were all efficient and were capable of providing the services required, although once he was through the emergency room portion, the rest of his stay was rather routine. We were favorably impressed with the two nurses in the emergency room.

We received CPR training a few weeks ago from Mrs. Fran Holthus and after 20 years of receiving CPR training, that is the very first time I've had someone take the time to explain exactly what you were attempting to achieve during CPR. I've had the same training from doctors but they were not as thorough as Mrs. Holthus.

We've heard some grumbling about the director of nursing in the past but until we read the Pioneer-Tribune on Thursday we didn't know Mrs. Holthus was the director.

We are not capable of running the hospital, but as customers we have hopes the administrator is acting with justice and not running the hospital on emotions.

From meeting Mrs. Holthus only during the CPR training, we feel that she is a very organized and thorough person, and she demanded the same professionalism from us novices that she displayed. If this is what she's guilty of at the hospital, hooray for her.

All the nurses at the hospital selected that career on their own. If their problem is becoming familiar with all areas of nursing as Ginger Stark says in her letter, maybe they should reevaluate their careers and move into something else if they find that they are no longer capable or interested in nursing. While attempting to attain specialization, or mediocrity for themselves, they should not attempt to bring someone else down to their standard. If they feel they are capable and interested in nursing, they should be individually striving to replace her. They just have to be better than Mrs. Holthus as a nurse and capable of handling a great responsibility.

The nurses we've had the opportunity to observe were efficient, capable, and dedicated. A lot of this comes from within oneself but we feel a greater portion comes from the more proficient nurses that are allowed to establish the accepted standards. Mrs. Holthus appears to have established very high standards and as a customer, we love it. If the nurses' problem is only a personality conflict, it seems they should be capable of tolerating Mrs. Holthus while taking advantage of all her nursing knowledge and good traits. She was not hired as a social director.

It's against the law in Manistique...

Just in case spring was giving you funny ideas, there are some unlawful activities in the City of Manistique that you might want to be aware of.

They may not be obvious regulations, but the same, they are ordinances that are still on the city books, mostly carrying a fine or imprisonment penalty.

For instance, it's unlawful to make a dog, pursue or hunt or attempt to take a black, grey fox or red squirrels in the city.

Nor is anyone allowed to hitch any animal to any tree, plant or shrub within the limits of any public streets or highways.

You're also not allowed to plant any deciduous or ornamental tree along the streets, other than American or English Elms, Norway Maple, Silver Maple, Hard Maple, Red or Scarlet Maple, American White Ash, American Linden, Weirs Cut Leaf Maple and Oak.

Side Tracks by Arnold Mackowiak

you're not allowed to attach a rope to any tree or branch in the public streets.

A 1929 ordinance prohibits the operation of any instrument that could cause interference with radio reception. (Are CB's excluded?)

Relevant or unnecessary, here are some more city laws to be observed and heeded: -The City of Manistique shall be held in no way responsible for the manner in which a body is emblazoned nor for its identity at time of burial. (Section 9, cemetery rules)

-The firing of any type of firearm (except at ceremonies) or hunting in the cemetery is forbidden. No dogs shall be allowed in the cemetery whether or not accompanied by their owner. (Section 2, conduct in cemetery)

-No person riding a bicycle may follow fire trucks or other fire equipment going to or from a fire, and every bicycle shall be equipped with a suitable horn or bell.

-It shall be unlawful for any minor or other person to use any sling-shot or air-gun, or to use any toy pistol discharging a blank cartridge, within the city limits.

-It shall be unlawful for any minor or adult person to swim or bathe in any of the lakes or streams within the City of Manistique without such person shall wear a suitable bathing suit to prevent the exposure of the person of any such swimmer or bather.

The water isn't warm enough for swimming, anyway.

If It Fitz by Jim Fitzgerald

And the patient seem to think the receptionist is to blame. They think she does! know how to schedule. Don't kid yourself. She fills out that book exactly as the doctor wants her to. I would like to see the patients yelling at the doctor instead of the receptionist. Since this particular doctor was an orthopedic specialist, those poor people with fractures and casts were captive patients.

I joked that if you don't like such treatment, stay sick. Or, if you're really angry, die. No joke.

This macabre story came from a Lansing reader. She wasn't surprised when the woman sitting next to her went to sleep. They had been in the waiting room for several hours. But when the woman's name was called, she never stirred. Ever again.

The hears came to the doctor's side door. They didn't have to carry her out through the doctor's pharmacy.

Which leads us to another pain caused by the healing profession. More and more doctors are practicing together in "clinics" which look more like Rexall drug stores.

When the doctor gives you a prescription, you do not have to get it filled at the drugstore in his lobby. It is perfectly legal for you to run past the pharmacist who stands between you and the only door. Or you can sneak out a back window.

But the doctors have installed these drugstores and eyeglass shops for the convenience of their patients. Onestop shopping. Who can resist it?

Sure, the doctors usually have stock in the corporations which own their lobby shops. The more prescriptions they write, the more money they make. You might think this sounds like a conflict of interest. Shame on you.

No doctor would ever prescribe unneeded pills simply so he could send his daughter to a better university. If you know Dr. Welby, you know such an accusation is outrageous.

But it is something to think about while waiting to see the doctor, isn't it?

10 years ago Oriented Theme for Senior Prom

More than 100 couples are expected to attend the annual Junior Senior Prom Saturday night at Manistique High School. "Oriental Paradise" is the theme of the dance, and coolie hats, paper lanterns, ming trees, glass chimes and paper fans will be part of the decorations and favors.

Volunteer workers at the new Senior Citizen's Drop in Center last Friday included the Chicago recording group. The Society aided three volunteers from Gulliver in cleaning up around the old Putnam House, getting it ready for its opening later this month.

Those helping were Jack Hettel, Ed Lancour, Ian Twoney, Fred Ortiz, Bob Leach, the society members, all of Gulliver.

Manistique Lions Club members returned triumphant from the weekend U.P. Lions convention in Hancock, where Adam Heinz, former local club president and longtime Lions club member, was elected as Upper Peninsula District Governor.

Heinz of 316 Lake St., a timberman, narrowly missed being elected to the post at last year's convention.

Attending were Past President Russell Paquette, President-Elect E.D. Branzan Secretary Robert Hawn, E.E. Cookson and Heinz.

Name Honor Students

Three honor students have been named to head the class of 1962 during graduation ceremonies in June at Manistique High School.

Named as Valedictorian was Maurita Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mauritz Peterson of Gulliver.

A close race for second honors resulted in the naming of Co-Salutatorians M. Vonciel LeDuc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. LeDuc, of Indian Lake, and John Davidson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Davidson.

Faith Assembly a 'star' for national missions

Faith Assembly of God's congregation Sunday will become national "stars" of a sort when services are photographed at the Manistique Church for the denomination's national home missions program.

"They are using our church because it is a successful rural situation," said Rev. Ralph Simmons, pastor of the church, which was started in the building of the old Paul Bunyan Cook Camp on highway US-2 west in October, 1974. "They're going to be using another one of a successful city situation. That will be in New Orleans."

Rev. Simmons said that the completed 15-16 minute filmstrip, with cassette recorder sound accompaniment, will be presented to the bi-annual national General Council of the Assemblies of God this August in Oklahoma City.

"The basic purpose is to spotlight new church evangelism," the pastor said. Town scenes also will be included in the photography, he added.

In connection with the filmstrip, two Assemblies of God officials will speak at Sunday morning services.

Rev. John V. Ohlin, new church evangelism coordinator for the denomination's division of home missions, will speak at the 9:30 adult Sunday school. Rev. Theodore E. Gannon, national director of the division, will be guest speaker at the 10:45 worship service. Both ministers are from Springfield, Mo.

An important area of development under Mr. Ohlin's direction is the promotion of funding from which grants may be provided to the various Assemblies of God districts for establishing new churches. Mr. Ohlin also works with the development of new church financing.

Rev. Gannon began preaching as an evangelist around his home town of Trenton, at the age of 12. He has served pastorates in Louisville, Lexington, and other Kentucky cities, and in North Kansas City, Mo.

He held various administrative positions in the Appalachian, Kentucky, and Iowa Districts before moving to Springfield in 1966 to serve at the Assemblies of God headquarters as an official of the denomination.

At Manistique, Faith Assembly's first service more than two and a half years ago drew 27 persons. Today, Sunday school and morning services attendance each average more than 100. There are now 27 adult members, with a constituency of about 125, Rev. Simmons said.

The church was dedicated in October 1975, and became financially self-sufficient in October, 1976. It had been completely funded by the Assemblies' district office in Waupaca, Wis. at its inception.

Students may qualify for benefits

Full-time students age 18 and over can get Social Security student benefits until they are age 22, if a parent who has worked long enough in Social Security covered employment is receiving Social Security disability or retirement benefits or is deceased.

According to Pete Ross, social security field representative out of Escanaba, to qualify for these payments as dependents the students must be unmarried and must also meet the Social Security Administration Retirement Test under which a beneficiary can work and still receive his or her full Social Security benefits.

In 1977, a student can earn as much as $3,000 without having his or her benefits reduced. Social Security benefits will be reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $3,000. But no matter how much a student earns for the year, he or she can receive a full social security benefit for any month in which he or she neither earns over $250 per month nor performs substantial work in his or her own business.

Many students age 18 and over are receiving Social Security payments. Most of them attend college but there are some who still go to high school or who attend technical or vocational schools. These students may receive their payments in their own names.

For more information about Social Security Benefits for students age 18 to 22, area residents may call the Social Security District office in Escanaba using this toll free number: 1-800-562-4820. Local dialing is 786-2632.

TO FACE THE WORLD

They are now pushed out of the nest. Meantime, these baby birds are still looking to their mother, chirping for their food. She'll get it for them. But when the time comes to let them go, she will know it instinctively.

Human mothers are not always so wise. It is hard to see your children go out to face the world on their own. Sometimes your instinct is to keep them in the nest.

You have to let your children go. But will they go with a firm sense of values, level hearts and heads, knowledge of the meaning of faith?

Where to find all this? Try your church!

Flying still fun for 'Suds' Southard

by Arnold Mackowick

Theron "Suds" Southard of Indian Lake used to fly for a living.

Today, retired and 63 years old, he's still flying. Only now it's just for fun. And his idea of fun is carving the sky with loops and series of eights in an aerobatics plane.

"It really isn't a thrill," the ex-pilot for Inland Steel said. "It's just something I enjoy."

Soon, Southard will have a new vehicle for his aerial pastime. An aerobatics plane whose design and construction he had a hand in.

He got the idea to build his own aerobatics plane in 1974, after flying for Inland for 18 years.

"I couldn't see spending $35,000 for one," he said, sitting in his home overlooking Indian Lake. "And that's what one would run—$32 to $35,000."

So he talked to a member of the Experimental Aircraft Association, who referred him to Art Brodhead in Miami. Brodhead was looking for a two-seat stunt plane designed like the famed one-seat Pitts.

"After getting three-quarters of the plans I ordered materials," Southard said. Yards and yards of chrome tubing and metal sheets and files and hack saws transformed his basement into an aircraft work shop. His first major task was to cut and file 166 steel fittings by hand.

"I worked up quite a few callouses doing that," he smiled. He wore out files at the rate of one a day.

After cutting the tubing for the fuselage, he went to work on 40 ribs for the wings, and then the tail section. Charlie Rusiecki of Manistique Tool & Manufacturing Co. helped in this early stage of construction.

"Then I learned our designer, Art Brodhead, had passed away before we completed the plane," Southard said. "And that put me in kind of a bind."

With no one else to help see the job through, Southard and his wife Helen went to the Experimental Aircraft Association show at Oshkosh, Wis. in 1975. There he made connections to meet Bill Ghan, a professor at the Mansfield School, an aircraft engineering school in Missouri.

Ghan and his class would complete the plane, named the Albee, as a special project, it was agreed. "So Helen and I hauled everything down to Mansfield and dumped it on Bill Ghan's Lab in December of 1975," Southard recalled.

"Since that time they built jigs and fixtures, welded the fuselage, installed landing gear, and installed the tail section, wings and controls," he added.

The class did a good enough job to win top prize for design and workmanship at the Missouri Industrial Arts Association Exhibition last month.

Currently, the class is covering the plane's skeleton with a one-sixteenth inch mahogany veneer that will be covered with Dacron and then hand-rubbed. Southard will have about $7,000 invested in materials by the time the plane is completed—a fraction of its value.

Southard hopes to test-fly the plane, the third one of its type this fall. He plans to station it at the Schoolcraft County Airport.

An article on the plane, which sports a Lycoming 180 horse-power aerobatics engine, is scheduled to appear in a forthcoming issue of Sport Aviation magazine.

Southard first got interested in aerobatics while watching Ellsworth "Mag" Ranguette of Nahmia do some stunts back in the mid-1930's.

"Mag was the first one I ever saw turn an airplane upside down," Southard said, and he was impressed. "I think Mag Ranguette was one of the best pilots I've ever met. After riding with him I decided, 'that's for me.'"

But a few years passed before "Suds" got his first chance to fly aerobatics.

"It's just fun," Southard explained. "Some people get their kicks out of racing cars or waterskiing—well, I kind of like them all."

While working at Willow Run for three years during World War II, he got acquainted with Charles Lindbergh, who served as an advisor for the testing of B-24 bombers being built there.

"I knew Lindbergh fairly well," Southard said. "He was just a terrific guy, very down to earth. He was never too busy to talk to you if he could."

The 50th anniversary of Lindbergh's landing in Paris after his epic solo flight across the Atlantic is Saturday, May 21.

After the war, Southard flew experimental aircraft for Bendix Corp. and General Motors executives for nine years. During that period his celebrity passengers included Jimmy Stewart and Jack Dempsey, and he flew Arthur Godfrey on a deer hunting trip to North Manitou Island in 1953.

On Jan. 1, 1955, Southard became Inland Steel's first pilot, and he stayed with the firm until his retirement in August, 1973, residing mostly in Iron Mountain and Marquette.

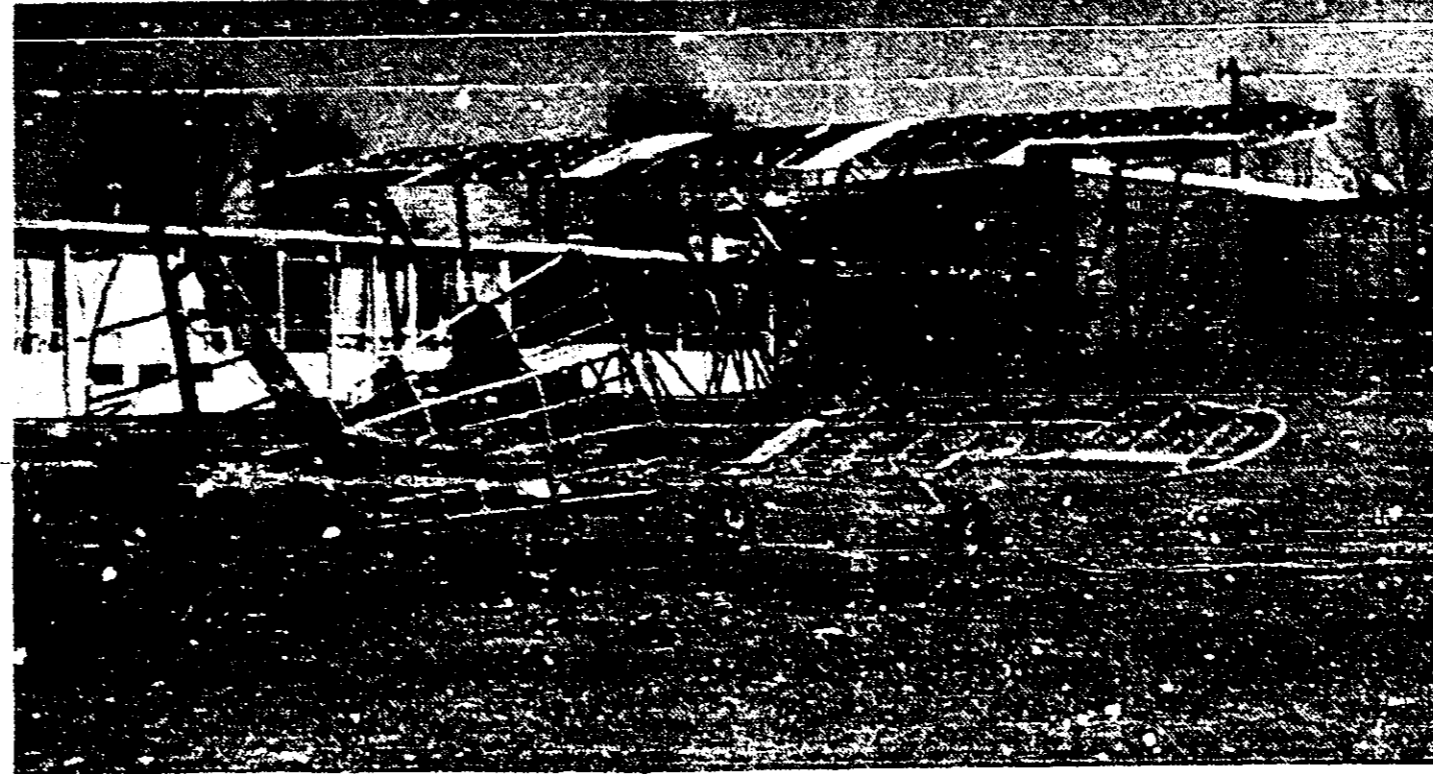

"There's only two things to flying," Southard cautioned. "You either do it right or do it wrong. One thing to always remember—you just can't exceed your limitations."

He indicated safety has been a byword throughout his accident-free career, and that an aerobatics pilot needs to be even more safety conscious than a conventional pilot.

Southard, who showed a sampling of his aerobatics capability in a Citabria owned by Joe Jenerou, Marquette steelworker, can do more than 20 aerial maneuvers, including series of eights, chandeliers, loops, snap rolls and slow rolls.

He said that his new Albee will be used mainly for local sport. But it also will culminate a long-time dream for a retired pilot who still has 20-20 vision.

"I'll play with it until I get tired of it," he said. "It's just something I've always wanted to do."

Framework of the Albee, shown here in Missouri, is being covered in anticipation of a test flight by Theron Southard sometime in the fall.

Indian sovereignty issue could affect U.P.

"The whites were talking war and the Indians were talking peace," is what one Associated Press writer wrote on the American Indian Policy Review Commission's tentative final report advocating federal action to guarantee near-total sovereignty for Indian nations.

The report was reviewed recently in Montana by the National Association of Counties (NACO) Indian Affairs Task Force. Attending the meeting were county officials from throughout the nation, as well as representatives of private, state and federal agencies and organizations.

Earl LeBrasseur of Manistique attended the meetings, representing the state of Michigan during the four-day session of the task force.

According to LeBrasseur, NACO was asked by the Federal government to review the final report of the American Indian Policy Review Commission.

While controversy over whether Indian nations have sovereignty or not centers mainly in the western states, its implications would affect local Indian reservations.

LeBrasseur noted that in 1975 the Supreme Court held that the authority of tribal courts could extend over non-Indians for transactions with Indians taking place within a reservation.

"This says that Indian tribes are sovereign governments possessing the same attributes of any government," LeBrasseur said. "Throughout the treaty-making period, repeated assurances were given guaranteeing the right of self-government to various Indian tribes."

Problems in the western states stem from non-Indians purchasing land on reservations many years ago. LeBrasseur says, "the big question (is): are these people to be governed by the Indian nations because they live on the reservation?"

The Bureau of Indian Affairs has adopted a policy recognizing the Indians' near sovereignty to govern themselves and those who live on the reservation.

This has drawn critics from various groups including NACO, who say they want a definition of control that the sovereign Indian nations possess over the non-Indian on the reservation.

Some of the questions being asked by NACO include:

How would the tribal government constitutionally represent all of the citizens within its boundaries?

How would the extent of tribal jurisdiction be determined where no federally recognized reservation boundaries now exist?

How would all categories of taxes be imposed fairly and equitably upon all citizens?

Would non-tribal members be taxed who are now exempt from state and local taxation?

According to LeBrasseur, these questions stand on the crux of whether Indian nations will retain their sovereignty.

Controversy in the upper peninsula seems minimal because for the most part, LeBrasseur says, only tribal members reside on area reservations.

"Indian reservations in the upper peninsula are now considered sovereign, with their own schools and their own police force," LeBrasseur says.

"The reservations would be abolished if the sovereignty were taken away."

"In essence, what's happening out west is a test case. It's putting sovereignty to the test, which would affect us here," says LeBrasseur.

Mary Ellen Debelak 'teacher of the month'

"When she talks about 'her' children, her eyes shine and she can't keep from smiling."

That's how Citizens Helping Advance Needs Good for Education (CHANGE) described Mary Ellen Debelak, kindergarten teacher at Lincoln School.

Change, a parent group concerned about school education, honors one teacher a month whom they feel is doing more than required in education.

Change had this to say about Miss Debelak:

"Her students seem happy to go to her class. One youngster we know of, came home singing songs most evenings, and wanted to know if he had to stay home just because he was sick."

"Change believes this is how children should view school, and so has named Miss Debelak Teacher of the Month." "It's obvious that Miss Debelak enjoys her work."

"The kids are warm and give you this big hug," she says. In turn she tries to create a happy atmosphere in the room, giving the kids a chance to express themselves in their own ways, while getting them used to the structure of a classroom and a class day.

"She tries" "all them with qualities of self-discipline, attentiveness with each other, self-confidence and a certain amount of competitiveness."

"In the second semester, she puts the children on an alphabet and numbers readiness program, too."

"Miss Debelak does special projects for the kids in the evenings and comes in early on most mornings. She tries to send something home with kids each evening, because it helps get parents interested."

"Miss Debelak believes that parents are important to their youngsters' education. She advises that parents give their kids attention and be interested in what the child is doing in school. "Look at the papers they bring home. Encourage, but don't push them—they still need time to be children," Miss Debelak says. "in general, parents should try to give them a good attitude about school."

"Change agrees. "Miss Debelak is a native of Skandia, and this is her first teaching position."

Change congratulates her on an excellent job."

If you have suggestions for "Teacher of the Month," let a Change member know, or write CHANGE, P.O. Box 286, Manistique.

Inmates should serve minimum sentence: poll

LANSING—A questionnaire sent out by Representative Charles H. Varnum (R-Manistique) revealed that a majority (77 per cent) of the constituents of the 107th House District are in favor of repealing the ban of the death penalty for murder in Michigan.

About 800 people responded to Representative Varnum's questionnaire. The questionnaire also revealed that——A majority (96 per cent) feel that prisoners should be required to serve the minimum sentence imposed by the trial judge before they are eligible for parole.

—A majority (79 per cent) favor using adult detention facilities instead of youth homes for some juvenile offenders, provided that the juveniles are separated from adult offenders.

—A majority (74 per cent) are in favor of reducing the property tax and increasing the personal income tax to finance local schools.

—A majority (91 per cent) feel that individuals who voluntarily quit their jobs should not be entitled to unemployment payments.

—A majority (80 per cent) favor a system of co-payments requiring Medicaid patients to pay a small fee when they go to the doctor, as a means of controlling over use of the Medicaid program.

—A slight majority (56 per cent) do not favor the establishment of a single transportation trust fund to finance all forms of transportation in the state instead of only highway construction.

County, city gas tax shares rise

State tax revenues are still climbing, according to a State Highway Commission report, which translates into more dollars to area units of government.

Collections on sales of gasoline, diesel fuel, and liquid petroleum gas in the January to March period rose near 5.8 per cent over the same period last year.

Net proceeds totaling $184,156,610, up by 5.9 per cent, leave $61,950,561 for the Department of State Highways and Transportation as its 44.5 per cent share $65,744,623 for the 83 county road commissions as their 35.7 per cent share and $36,463,404 to the 531 incorporated cities and villages as their 19.8 per cent share.

Schoolcraft County is scheduled to receive $193,890 as its piece of the pie while the city of Manistique is scheduled to receive $27,135.

The county's share reflects a $13,000 increase over the same period last year, while the city's share increased by a little less than $2,000.

The finest completed home you will find in this area

You've seen the advertising for Hearthsides Homes. They say they are the only COMPLETED homes on the market. They're right!

But you're skeptical. You're saying "Just how complete are they?"

Well, they're not quite so complete that all you bring is your family, but with a little spring cleaning, your own appliances and furniture; and something for dinner, you can move right in.

Now you may say, "if they are so complete they must scrimp on the building to offer a home for that price."

NO! To answer your questions, let's take a tour of the Hearthsides factory in Ithaca, Michigan (that's right, Hearthsides Homes are built right here in Michigan) and see just how they do build their homes.

Floor joists are laid out 16" O.C. Then a double floor is overlaid, glued and nailed.

(Most homes offer single floor 3/4 inch flooring. Not Hearthsides. They use double flooring and give you 1 1/2 inches of flooring.)

In a Hearthsides Home, all floors are covered with your choice of over 40 different colors in either carpeting or no wax vinyl floor covering.

Carpeting comes standard in your living room and hallway when you order a Hearthsides Home.

2 x 4 wall framing is put up next. Each stud is spaced 16 inches O.C. Full, thick fiberglass insulation is standard on all sidewalls.

Special roof trusses in the Hearthsides Home protect your overhead. These too are spaced 16 inches on center with 6 1/2 inches of fiberglass insulation between the joists to help keep your heating costs to a minimum. You can see for yourself that Hearthsides Homes are well insulated, energy saving homes.

Pre-finished decorator ceilings are installed throughout the house to give you that attractive, finished look about your Hearthsides Home.

To keep your home dry, three-in-one self-sealing roof shingles are overlaid on felt paper and insulated aluminum siding on the exterior walls serve to complete your home. Almost.

COLORFUL INTERIORS of Hearthsides Homes allow for imaginative color selections of your individual choice.

You also get your choice of colors for roofing and siding as well as having pre-finished eaves and gutters installed.

Back inside the house your plumbing, heating and electrical systems are complete and installed for your convenience—right down to the sink in the bathroom and the overhead light in the dining room.

Then, it's your choice again of either 8 styles of prefinished wood paneling or over 100 different colors in easy to care for vinyl wall covering.

Interior molding and doors are already finished when you move into your Hearthsides Home. Even the doors on the closets (six in the average three bedroom home) are finished.

The Hearthsides Home owner also has the choice of 4 colors in bathroom fixtures and four different styles of kitchen cabinets.

Smoke alarms are also a standard feature in your new Hearthsides Home.

I think you can see for yourself that Hearthsides Homes are fully complete and built for durability - they are low maintenance homes.

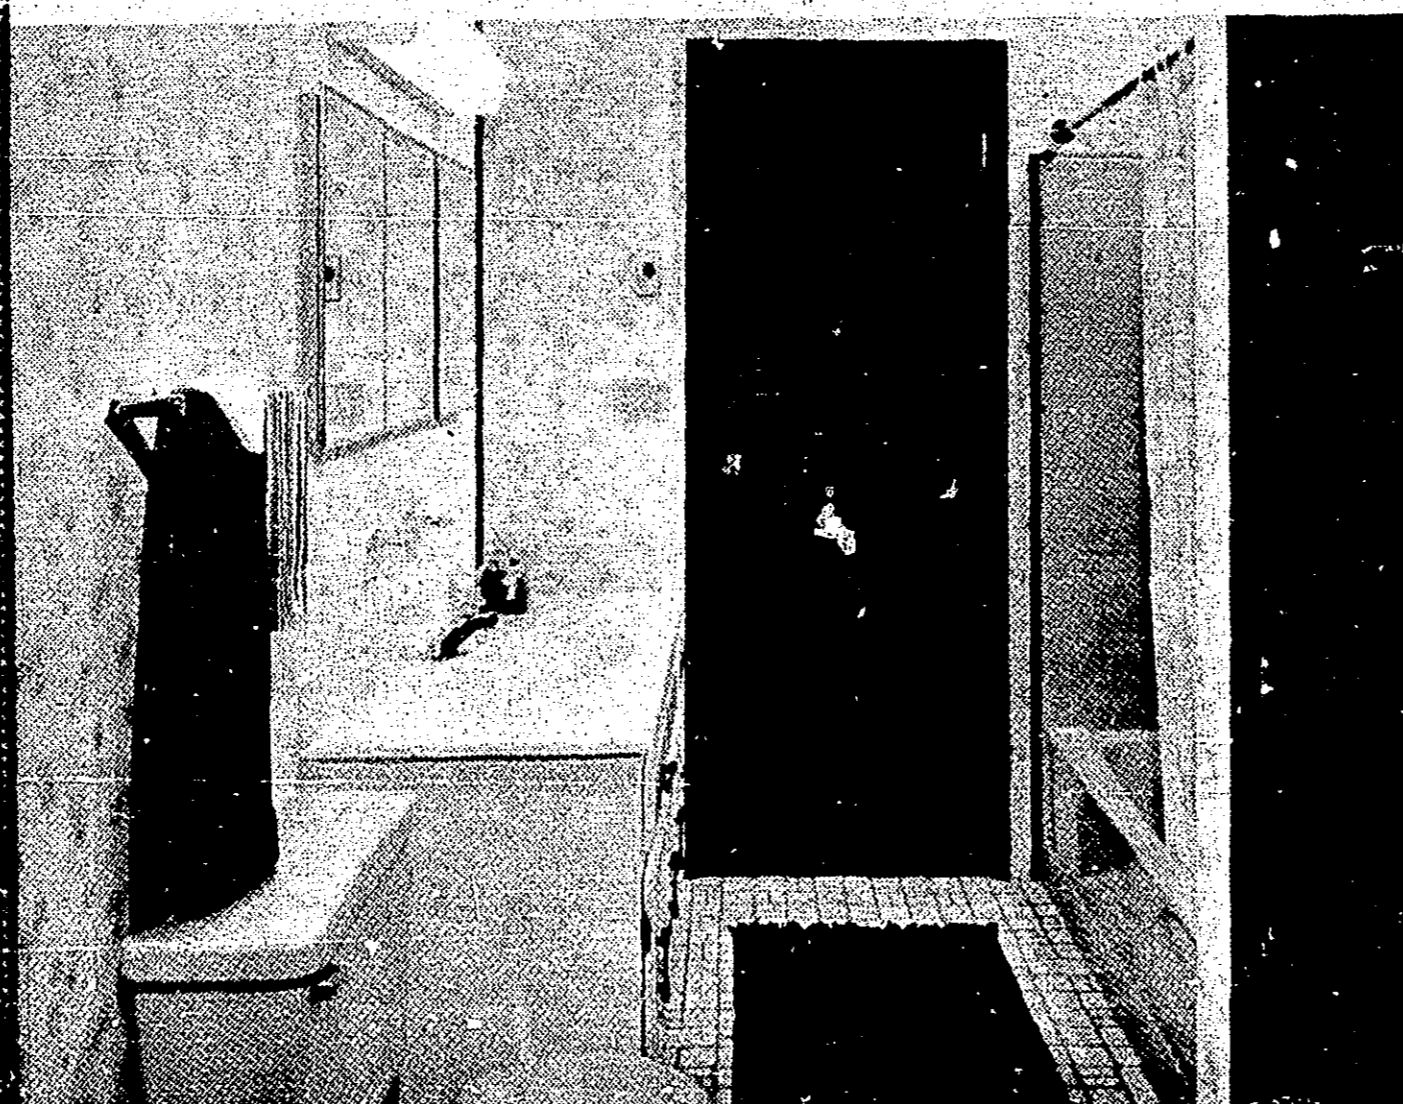

Hearthsides Homes also offer a wide variety of floor plans to choose from. Or, if you feel you need special attention given to your floor plans, a representative of Hearthsides Homes will be glad to sit down with you and draw up floor plans that will fit your needs.

In other words, you get a custom built home at a fraction of the cost.

Oh, yes, your Hearthsides Homes dealer in Manistique is Wayne Richards. See him this week at Hancock Lumber, for the finest completed home in this area.

SEVERAL STYLES of kitchen cabinets are available, to give you that finished look.
