GenTel reports 'good year' in 1976

General Telephone had "a good year" in 1976, according to Claude Munsell, president of the company, in his letter to shareholders issued with the utility's annual report this week.

Net income for the company was reported at $17.8 million, an increase of $4,772,000 or 36.6 per cent over 1975.

In commenting on the report and the increase in net income, Munsell attributed the successful year to: a significant increase in long distance revenues; continued emphasis on reducing maintenance expenses; consolidation of records keeping facilities in the field; and a full year's impact of the rate increase approved in late 1975.

Walleye population bolstered

THE SUN FAIRLY DANCES on the waters of Steuben Lake as Hugh Brady, Department of Natural Resources employee, prepares to plant 125,000 walleye in Steuben Lake. The fingerling walleye were transported to the site in the bag being held by Brady. Because the fish are unable to survive extreme differences in water temperatures, Brady warmed the 66-degree water temperature in the bag to that of the 77-degree water temperature in the lake. Steuben was stocked with walleye last year, with reports of those fish reaching eight inch length. Last year was the first time since 1940 that the fish has been stocked in that lake.

Code is challenged

Supervisors ponder building permit administration

by Mark Eisenlohr

Township supervisors and members of the Schoolcraft County Township Association met Monday night to unfold yet another chapter in the saga of the building code and its enforcement.

The code has come under fire recently, because of allegedly high building permit fees and inadequate service by the building code administrator.

Louis Lauzon, president of the newly-formed township association, told the dozen people gathered at the Hiawatha Township Hall that lack of action on the building code and its problems by the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners may lie behind the majority of the problems.

"The county didn't help us by tabling the matter (at the last board meeting)," said Lauzon. "If they had just taken some action it would have really helped us."

A building code committee, made up of commissioners and various contractors from the area, had met earlier and recommended to the commissioners that the building permit fee be abolished. The commissioners denied the request, and awaited action by the townships.

But Lauzon said that is not what the townships really want.

"If you offer a service to people, such as the building code inspections, you have to charge for it," he said. "The problem is, we're not getting what we pay for."

Lauzon also told representatives of the county commissioners at the meeting, that if the county didn't want the enforcement of the building code, "then fine, tell us."

In an apparent attempt to explore the possibility of townships enforcing the building code, the association listened to central Upper Peninsula Planning and Development (CUPPAD) staff attorney Jeffrey Mitchell on procedures for setting up enforcement organizations.

Mitchell told the group that they could not write their own building code but could accept responsibility for enforcing the existing one.

Under the act, establishing the building code a unit of government could write its own building code, subject to state approval, but first must exempt itself from the state building code within six months of the effective date.

"If you are going to enforce the code on your own then you must do three things," Mitchell said. "You must create an enforcing agent, set up a board of appeals and be able to handle the necessary paperwork."

At least one representative of the association board felt that the townships could not afford to enforce the code.

"If the county is losing money on the building code enforcement, how can the townships afford it?"

"If the county is losing money on the building code enforcement, how can the townships afford it?" questioned Irene Pierce, association treasurer.

Mitchell told the group that under the act, fees are to be set by each enforcing unit to cover the actual costs of administration.

"But, I don't think it applies up here because of the smaller population area," added Lauzon.

Lauzon added that while enforcement may be lax, it's the positive aspects of the building code that should be emphasized.

"When I build a house—and I'm no contractor—I want help in building it right," said Lauzon. "I want to know if I'm making a mistake. That's what the building inspector is there for, but he's not inspecting the dwellings."

At least one area contractor was in sharp disagreement with Lauzon, Robert Knoph, building contractor, feels that a building code isn't needed.

"Tell me one good thing that the building code does," challenged Knoph. "I can't find anybody that can tell me one good thing."

Knoph cited older homes that were built before building codes were established that are still standing. Knoph also feels that administration of the current code is inadequate.

"When I start building a house, I send the owners down to get the permits. I want them to see the stupidity of the whole thing," Knoph said following the meeting.

Before adjournment, township association members decided to meet Wednesday, June 1, to listen to Lynn Johnson, director of planning with the Marquette County Planning Commission and David Cocking, building code administrator from Breitung-Township in Dickenson County.

Police on vandals' trail

Manistique Public Safety officers continue to investigate a series of malicious destruction to local stores early Tuesday in which plate glass windows were shattered and glass doors broken.

Officers report that the windows and doors were damaged sometime during the early morning hours, Tuesday, May 24.

In addition to the store front damage, reports of damage to parked automobiles in two car lots near the downtown area were reported to police.

As yet, police say they have no suspects in the incident, but are working on several leads.

Preliminary estimates of damage may be as high as $1,000, according to a survey taken by the Pioneer-Tribune of businesses vandalized.

Manistique Merchants have offered a $200 reward for the arrest and conviction of person or persons responsible for the incident.

The rash of destruction runs similar to that of a several weeks ago when over $200 damage was reported. Most of that was in broken windows.

Police officers say that footprints taken in the latest incident are similar to those taken during the April 20 incident.

According to police, an Earth Shoe footprint was taken in front of one of the stores Tuesday. Police declined to say whether they were the same footprints, just that they were similar.

Police reports of the April 20 destruction also indicate that at least one of those footprints had been matched up with a footprint taken when Manistique High School sustained damage last December.

At least one footprint, found in the sand in front of the Surplus Store on River Street, was matched to one of three footprints taken at the school, the report shows.

Stores damaged Tuesday morning included Manistique Lumber and Coal, 112 E. Elk St.; Cloverland Creamery, 144 River St.; Maytag and Furnitur, Cedar St.; Alex Creighton, 244 S. Cedar St. (damage to 1977 pick-up); Manistique Automotive, 191, River St. Savings Agency, 234 S. Cedar St.; King Koin Laundrette, 228 S. Cedar St.; O Malt Shop, S. Cedar St. and the Kiddie Shop, 232 S. Cedar St.

All the businesses were in line from River Street to the southern part of Cedar Street. Police reports indicate that all but one of the windows were broken in recessed areas that are hard to see due to shadows.

Police also received a call from a resident of 327 S. Maple Street that two children were beating on cars in the Curran Chevrolet car lot. According to the report, the witness was unable to give a detailed description but did say they appeared to be drunk.

According to the report, the witness watched the two for a period of time, then called the police. The two left prior to police arrival at the scene.

School board asks early taxes

In a move to help the school district meet financial obligations for the summer, the Manistique Area School Board of Education has voted to ask the county for its share of the delinquent taxes, normally due in December.

The action came at the regular board meeting, Tuesday night, May 24.

Superintendent Richard Bonifas told the board that the district will be holding some invoices during the later part of May and June until the district is sure it can meet its obligations.

Bonifas indicated that the only revenue currently outstanding is a $100,000 delinquent tax check from the county. That money is usually paid to the district in equal installments in August and December.

However, the board of education approved a motion requesting that the county turn over the funds in June.

Under a general fund cash flow print-out given to board members, Bonifas indicated that by the end of June, the school district will have a balance of $19,613.

He said that this is not enough to meet anticipated expenditures over the summer.

Bonifas also told the board members that he anticipates requesting the board's permission to initiate action to borrow at the June 14 meeting.

The borrowing will be projected for opening school expenditures in the fall, Bonifas said.

The school will be allowed to borrow up to 50 per cent of the tax levy. But, under the limits of the Municipal Finance Commission, the district can not borrow against the tax levy when it is obvious that the district would not be able to pay back that amount of money borrowed.

The board was also informed of the school closing schedule, with the last day of school set for June 10.

Under the schedule, graduation will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, June 9. Class night has been set for Wednesday, June 8.

Elementary schools will be having their school picnics June 9, with the exception of Fairview, which will hold it on June 8.

High School students will also be let out of school on June 9 during an in-service day for the staff. Discipline, attendance, and curriculum planning for next year will be discussed.

In other board action: the board approved building and site bills of $7,133.

Set the school opening date in the fall for Sept. 7, with an in-service day for teachers set for Sept. 6.

In last week's Pioneer-Tribune story on the city budget for 1977-78, it was reported that Councilmember Doug Rose's alternative budget proposed at $2.40 million per month hike in the sewer-water bills. Rose said that the additional fee actually would be only that much more per quarter for minimum users.

In the council's adopted budget, on additional fees are immediately foreseen. On Monday, Rose also commented on a request to help finance the Manistique school and Public Library by saying that the county also should be responsible for the library's operation. The council took no action on the request.

Final allocation

Final allocation of 15 mills among the schools, county and townships is scheduled for 7 o'clock tonight at the Schoolcraft County Courthouse.

The County tax allocation board will consider its preliminary allocation set on May 16 and hear remarks from the public.

Pool closing June 9

The Manistique Area School pool will close for the summer after June 9, according to Community School Director Jim McDonough. Except for special summer programs, the pool will not be open for open swimming after that date, he said.

Save $2.00 on two great paints!

Here's the scrubbable one. The All Weather Paint. ESSER PAINT. ESSER NU-CLING HOUSEPAINT. When paint people talk about "the scrubability factor", they are talking about a paint's ability to bear up under repeated washings on walls and ceilings.

Summer, winter, spring, fall. Each season brings its own kind of weather, with its own kind of "punch". Yet your home has to stand up to all of them!

Esser Poly-Lux interior latex flat paint is not just washable-it's scrubbable. Because it's formulated with better quality latex.

That's an important point to bear in mind next time you decorate, because with Esser Poly-Lux the next time should last for a longer time.

Save $2.00 through Memorial day at Couture's paint & paper. What ever the painting job, Esser has the right paint.

6 Emeralds at U.P. meet

Coach John LaPointe will be taking six qualifying Emeralds to the Class A-B U.P. Track Meet at Marquette Saturday for his last meet at the helm of the Manistique boys' team.

Coach LaPointe said he will be resigning his track post effective after the meet. "I think we had a real successful season," LaPointe said. "We would have won the regional in Class C, where our team was in first place now."

He said that his charges performed as well or better than they did all year at the A-B regional meet Saturday at Escanaba. "But the competition was a lot tougher," he said.

Earning a trip to Marquette were John Pistulka, who claimed second in the high jump with a 6'1" leap. Tim Chandanais qualified in three events: the 100-yard dash, 10.65 seconds for fourth place; the discus, 134'9"; for second place and a new school record; and the 40-yard relay.

Others on the 440 squad which placed third with a time of 16.7 seconds are D.J. Brady, Carl Levin and Ben Culey.

Don Videtich also qualified for all U.P. competition with a 2:02 clocking in the 880-yard run.

Not qualifying for the Marquette meet but turning in what Coach LaPointe called a great effort for a freshman was Paul Culey, who ran the high hurdles in 17.6. "Escanaba won the boys' meet, amassing 68 points.

On Saturday, the Class A-B meet will begin at 2 p.m. at the Marquette High School track. No preliminaries are scheduled.

In Memoriams

In memory of my dear Mother Viola McCarmey, who died at home 4 years ago May 27. She was a mother like no other. Yes, and let her know that you love her. Her life's evening tinge her brow with sun-set glow. Don't withhold your approbation. Till the Parson make oration. And she lies with snowy lillies o'er her brow. For then no matter how you shout it. She won't really care about it. She won't know how many teardrops you have shed. Since you know much praise is due her. Now's the time to slip it to her.

For she cannot read her tombstone when she's dead. More than fame and more than money. Is the comment kind and sunny; And the hearty, warm, approval of a child. For 'twill give her life a savor. And will make her stronger, braver; And will give her heart and spirit all the while. Since she earns your praise, bestow it. You know you love her, let her know it. Let the words of true encouragement be said: Do not wait till life is over. And she's underneath the clover; For she cannot read her tombstone when when she's dead.

APPROVED BY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS: April 27, 1977

It was moved by William Tennyson, supported by Kenneth O. Mortensen, that the cost of materials required in re-setting the Veteran's Memorial at the Courthouse site be paid from the County Building Construction Fund. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote.

Commissioner Frenette reported on the meeting of the Board members with the Schoolcraft County Road Commission. Matters discussed were: financing, anti-recession monies, and Schoolcraft County Road Commission's part in the County DPW project, principally with the Waste disposal (Green Box Project). Frenette stated that he thought it might be necessary to supplement the Green Box project with some anti-recession money this first year of operation, with the ultimate goal of making the project self-sufficient.

A discussion on the utilization of manpower into some county work, by employees to be hired under "CETA", was held. Nothing definite was decided as the funding for the "CETA" jobs has not been approved by Congress or the President as of this date; leaving the amount of money and number of jobs to be available to Schoolcraft County indefinite.

Manistique Township Supervisor, Louis Lauzon, appeared before the Board and announced that a complete organization of Township officers has been made, that said organization is ready and willing to meet with the County Board of Commissioners or any Government body, to help and cooperate in any project, or problem that may arise, in which the Townships are concerned. He asked that before the Board takes any action that will affect the Townships that they be contacted and their response received. The Chairman congratulated the Township officers on their organization, and said that he will be willing and ready to work with them on any problem or question that may arise.

The Chairman asked that Mr. Lauzon furnished the Clerk with the names of the officers of the Township Officer's Association so that they may be put into the County's 1977 Directory to be published shortly.

Thereupon, it was moved by William Tennyson, supported by Edward Way, that the meeting adjourn. Motion carried.

Memorial services: what they used to be

When Sebastian Weber contacted me about the picture reprinted here, he mentioned that Memorial Day services are not quite what they used to be.

This past week, I became interested in several articles that I ran across in old issues of the Tribune and decided to relate the events of one Memorial Day in 1919.

While the great war is fresh in the minds of the American People and the roster of the dead still lacerates the hearts of the bereaved relatives and friends, a nation wide impulse is in motion to make the coming Memorial Day one of the greatest in the annals of the nation."

Those watching the parade that year saw veterans of three wars—the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and World War I—represented in the procession.

"Contrary to the impression of many people, Schoolcraft County and city of Manistique are well represented in societies and organizations dating back to the period of the Civil War."

Parade Marshall for the day was Captain Charles Adkins, with Julius Drevdahl and George Dupont as aides. With time growing nearer to the big event, the following lead appeared in the paper:

"Barring rain or accident, the Decoration Day parade and exercises to be held in this city tomorrow afternoon will eclipse anything of the kind in recent years.

Today is SBA drought aid deadline

DETROIT—Raymond L. Harshman, Michigan District Director for the State of Michigan, announced that May 26 is the closing date for SBA's acceptance of Drought Disaster Loan Applications for Schoolcraft and 11 other U.P. counties.

Under the Disaster Program the SBA is authorized to make direct loans to homeowners and business concerns to repair or replace damaged wells resulting

"The Manistique Memorial Association has made very effort to insure a successful program and the various military and fraternal organizations as well as the citizens at large have shown every disposition to help."

Memorial Day came the day after the paper was read, with hundreds of citizens participating in the parade in honor of all those who gave their lives in their country.

The following week, this description appeared:

"It is doubtful that a more successful Memorial Day Celebration was ever witnessed in the city of Manistique than the one held last Friday.

"In front line were the World War I veterans while the National Guards formed in the rear. A detail of returned soldiers placed the wreath at the foot of the monument and V.I. Hixon spoke briefly of the sacrifices."

"The exercises as the monument were concluded by the firing of three volleys and the sounding of 'Taps' by the bugler.

"With Captain Adkins as marshal, the parade, headed by W.O.W. Band then proceeded over the line of march. The place of honor immediately behind the band was held as usual by the Civil War veterans.

"They were followed immediately by the Women's Relief Corps and the daughters of the veterans.

"Miss Ruth Ward, the Red Cross nurse who returned home some time ago from service at the French front followed the returned soldiers in a decorated auto driven by James Miller. Miss Ward was in uniform and lent a touch of realism to the whole scene.

"Then came the Catholic Benevolent Association numbering about forty...the local troops under command of Lt. Leonard followed...the school children were out in force...and teacher maintained an excellent formation...the parochial schools turned out for the parade...the last unit was the Garden Club, with about 200 members, which during the past two years has been steadily growing in prominence and popularity."

As the sharp clap of the boots and the John Phillip Sousa march faded in the distance, plans were being made for the big homecoming parade held the next week to honor their returning soldiers.

"Judge Fead spoke nearly an hour and was followed by Mayor Benjamin Gero, who gave official welcome to the soldiers in the name of the city and county and also made the presentation of pins, one of which was presented to each soldier as a memento of the occasion. At the close of years of age or older. Included are 867,000 World War I veterans, with an average age of 81; and 675 Spanish-American War veterans, with an average age of 91.

the Mayor's remarks, the honor roll was called.

"Post Commander A.S. Gill called the names of those who had died in the service, and in each case a comrade answered: 'Died in the field of Honor, sir.' There were 20 names called and at the end of 'Taps' a momentary hush fell upon the assembly."

According to the articles, the entire town then turned out for ceremonies held at the school auditorium, "and everything was not as serious as some would believe."

"The presence of the company mascot, while not advertised, was nevertheless one of the most amusing features."

"Private Dan Norman, aged about four years, clad in the uniform of a lieutenant fell into line with the soldiers and executed many of the most difficult maneuvers. He was finally lost in the high grass near the center field and was next discovered panhandling on Cedar Street."

It was estimated that some 4,000 people turned out at the fair grounds for the homecoming celebration.

"It is probably the greatest number ever assembled at one time in the history of the county," the paper was quoted as saying.

Almost as an afterthought, the editor included a final paragraph:

"It is noticed with sorrow and regret during recent years that the number of Civil War Veterans are growing fewer and fewer. Age, with its honors and memories, is stealing upon those gallant defenders of the Union and the spectacle of serried ranks of blue, so familiar, to this generation, will soon become a memory, but to the last man, these heroes hold fast to the martial spirit that made the nation's pride for two generations."

Memorial Day for the living

Memorial Day is traditionally a time when America remembers its servicemen who died in times of war and conflict.

But the day belongs more to the living than to the dead. Its significance is determined more by assessing our responsibility to our country today, than by measuring the soldierly deeds of the past.

For scores of Schoolcraft County servicemen who made the ultimate sacrifice in various wars and military action in this century, the day unquestionably recalls the role they played in perserving our form of democracy.

Unfortunately, though, this nation's military involvement in Vietnam undermined the confidence of many citizens in our national leadership. The nature of the "non-war" in a remote land weighed heavily on the conscience of many who were selected for the military in the days of the draft in the 1960's.

It posed a difficult decision of whether to serve; and if a negative decision meant abandoning friends for personal convictions or selfish motives. And the rift between those who fled to Canada and many veterans endures to this day.

Still, the eventual outcome of the political and social question will in no way tarnish the memories of lives that were given in the Southeast Asian conflict. They will be respected.

In this peacetime period of reconciliation, Memorial Day should go beyond old arguments. It should concentrate on new common national and international interests. It should require the energy of each citizen to determine his set of values for his neighbors and fellow citizens.

America has drawn strength from its diversity. From that measure of mutual respect its inhabitants can develop for each other's views. As we recall the commitments of our friends and relatives in preceding years, let's examine our own, too.

Biggest weekend

It's supposed to be the biggest Memorial Day weekend ever, the Department of State Highway and Transportation reports.

A total of 714 million vehicle miles will be driven over the Friday through Monday period, traffic technicians say. The swarm of cars and campers on the roads will demand an extra bit of caution.

All highway construction will be suspended between 3 p.m. Friday, May 27, and normal starting hours on Tuesday, May 31. Only emergency or authorized work will be permitted on state highways and freeways over the weekend.

To play it safe, allow plenty of extra daylight time to travel to and from any destination. It could help make this holiday a safe-and happy-memory.

A couple of different things you shouldn't take too seriously, unless you want to...

...When I first met my friend Sherman, 25 years ago, he couldn't buy a beer without getting a loan. Today he is a bust.

Jim Sherman owns a newspaper empire based in Oakland County. The last time I looked, he owned publications in Clarkston, Davison, Oxford and Lake Orion. He lives in a colonial palace in Oxford where he recently installed a swimming pool so he won't have to walk 50 yards to his private lake.

Has Sherman's success gone to his head? It is hard to tell by looking because he had a flat head even when he was poor. So I decided to interview him. Sherman agreed to meet me in Detroit if I would get him tickets to "Chorus Line" and buy his dinner.

"Are you still the same humble fellow you were before you became an enormously wealthy newspaper baron?" I asked him.

"Derek Wernher is doing my bust," he answered. It was answer enough. If you are sufficiently cultured, you have heard of Derek Wernher. He is a sculptor who lives in Metamora and exhibits nationwide.

"Derek Wernher is of the Rodin school (Rodin was a famous French sculptor, dummy) and Derek is the finest sculptor in bronze in this school in the nation," said Mark Hoffman, who runs the famous Maxwell Gallery in San Francisco. OK? Wernher does big things. I mean big? You may have seen his "Earth Maze" in Troy. The new Northfield Hilton is hidden behind it.

Wernher's maze weighs two tons. He created it in his Metamora barn and it was hauled to Troy in a huge truck with "Extra Wide Load" printed on the back.

Now Wernher is doing Jim Sherman's head. I don't think I have to say anything else.

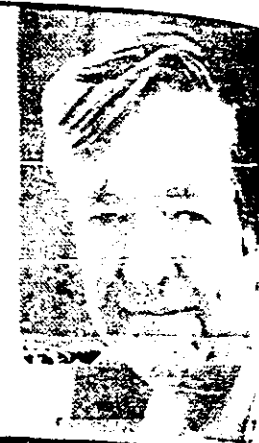

I didn't ask Sherman where his bronze head will be exhibited. Probably in the Pontiac Silverdome so he can make the pigeons buy tickets to deposit on it.

Daughter Ferd answered when the phone rang at 7:30 p.m. last Saturday. "It's for you, Dad. It's Newsweek magazine calling from Washington," she said.

There was grudging respect in her voice. Many children have difficulty realizing their father's importance. They can't see beyond the khaki pants I wear around the house to think in, even though the pants are three sizes too big and fall below my plastic chair which I get up out of my bed with two bed pillows ever since the springs fell out five years ago.

But here was a national newsmagazine seeking my opinion on a subject so important it couldn't wait until I was back in my office on Monday. Ferd didn't even giggle when I tripped over my pants running to the phone.

The Newsweek woman in Washington asked me to renew by subscription. Newsweek is a hard loser. I let my subscription run out two months ago, despite an incredible barrage of renewal notices which began arriving in the mail many weeks before the expiration date and continued long beyond. I never felt more needed.

Now I was getting phone calls from the nation's capital. The woman was persuasive. She said Newsweek trusted me and would begin sending me magazines immediately, no cash or signature required, if only I would say "yes."

I said no. It isn't that I don't like Newsweek. I like it better than Time. I learn many important things just by talking regularly to Newsweek's best Michigan reporter in the Anchor Bar.

But some weeks I just don't have time for Newsweek. When I had a subscription, the magazines piled up, unread but paid for, and they intimidated me. They made me feel guilty for skipping them in favor of watching TV or shooting pool.

So now, when I have reading time, I buy a Newsweek at the drugstore. I realize this costs me more annually, but the added expense is worth the freedom of oppression. Besides, this way I can thumb through before buying, to make sure I won't be paying for news I've already heard at the Anchor.

All of which I explained to Ferd when she asked why Newsweek had phoned me from Washington.

"For gosh sakes, Dad," she said, "pull up your pants."

The pursuit of worms

This is the season of the year that my son, John Peter, looks forward to with great anticipation. Fishing season is the biggest joy in his young life. While he's only seven, he waits for the ice to go out and opening day to roll around with the dedication of a veteran fisherman who has seen 40 opening days.

If patience is the hallmark of a true fisherman, then John Peter will have to rank with some of the all time greats. He can sit hour after hour dangling a worm in the water trying to coax a shy perch into taking his bait. At the end of a day of fishing, he's always reluctant to reel in and give up because the hope that a "really big one" is just about to strike is always present in his mind.

Patience and perseverance, however, can be possessed by many a good fisherman. What sets John Peter apart from the rest is his relentless pursuit of that mainstay of fishing bait, the earthworm. Never have I run into anyone who can corral more worms on a moment's notice than John Peter.

He knows the worm's habitat better than most people know their own homes. I talked with him after one recent Spring rain when he walked down to the office after school. His pocket was bulging with 50 or 60 worms that were headed for his bait box at home.

Although John Peter has only one thing in mind, fishing, when he collects worms, there are others that are taking a look at the worm for other uses. According to an article in the Christian Science Monitor, these lowly, slimy, wriggly creatures are quietly taking on new roles and may someday even be used for food.

Ronald E. Gaddie Sr., president of the North American Bait Farms, Inc., in California, thinks "highly" of these worms. The worm industry is both profitable and fast-growing. Sales of Mr. Gaddie's company last year totaled $700,000, and he expects the figures to double in 1977. Also, markets are developing for earthworms to be used in:

Supplementing the world's protein supply.

Converting trash into fertilizer.

Improving gardening and farm soil.

Since 70 per cent of a worm's dried weight is protein, Mr. Gaddie believes worms offer a source of food that should not be overlooked.

The idea of eating worms, however, may sound unappetizing to most people. Even Mr. Gaddie admits with a large grin that it requires "something of an acquired taste." His company, therefore, is holding annual cooking contests to stimulate public interest and, he hopes, to change the image of the worms from "distasteful" to "delicious."

The company already has collected more than 1,000 worm recipes. Last year's top prize recipe was Applesauce Surprise Cake. Other prize-winning recipes include Earthworm Patties Suffred and Ver de Terre (earthworm) Stuffed Peppers.

It is hard to conceive that anyone would relish a dish of Earthworm Egg Foo-yung for dinner, but if the world ever has a need for more protein, Mr. Gaddie thinks "the worms might just get a turn!"

Another use of worms is waste disposal - a process Mr. Gaddie calls "annelidic consumption."

Red hybrid earthworms are especially suited for this process because they can stand heat. Their northern cousins, night crawlers, for instance, have to be kept in a temperature of about 40 degrees F., whereas red hybrids are happiest when it is around 70 degrees.

With the exception of rubber, glass, and metal, these earthworms will consume just about anything that is biodegradable in garbage and trash cans.

Nation pauses

A VETERAN'S marker graces a grave at Lakeview Cemetery. On Monday, citizens in Schoolcraft County and the nation will pause to remember those who died in service to their country.

Television dial turn-offs

The television set is in the back room now. It's been there ever since the sound and picture blew several months ago.

And that's probably where it will stay - for a while, anyway.

When that tubulose gadget is missing, a quick look at the TV program listings is enough to keep the repairman lonely. It just won't get sent in.

For instance: 8 p.m., Ch. 4 - "The Big Heist." David Froth interviews a once-familiar TV personality, who returns to the screen in his highest-paid role since he was chief executive of a once-gullible nation in the Western Hemisphere. Tonight Froth philosophically asks the subject whether crime pays. Filmed at the personality's palatial estate in California.

10 p.m., Ch. 2-Sports Special. the

by Arnold Mackowiak

heavyweight champ of the world leads his Latin American challenger in a dance marathon that tests each competitor's ability to rumba, and samba and give each other credit for the grueling event. From Hackensack, N.J.

10 p.m., Ch. 10 - "Scarsky and Blotch." After seasons of successful leaps from automobiles and bare-knuckled fisticuffs, detective Dave Sole meets his match when a juke box loaded with songs he recorded falls on his foot as he is making his selection. The urge to kick himself subsides in "The Case of the Fallen Arch." 7:30 p.m., Ch. 7 - "Three's A Crowd." Maggie Young and Eric Quill star in this modern comedy about a rooster who shares a suburban henhouse with two female fowls. Henpecked from both sides, he finds a job doing undercover work for the L.A. Police Dept.

9 p.m., Ch. 5 - "Movie of the Week: Turn about." Two young TV executives risk the wrath of sponsors by replacing all violent shows on their ragtag juggling network with documentary gardening and wildlife. Heroic... John Wayne and Woody Allen star.

Tax petition gets response

To the Editor:

To quote a former politician, we want to make it perfectly clear. This is a thank you from, not just the coordinator of a United Involved Citizens of Upper Michigan, but from the some 280 signers of the petition which very strongly opposes the Michigan State Board of Education's proposition that a law be enacted that would allow all local school boards to levy a 2 per cent income tax WITHOUT A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE, if two millage elections fail.

A lawyer friend in Wisconsin is researching it now and (beforehand) believes it is also unconstitutional for such a taxing law. We will let you know what his final research develops.

Attached is a recent letter dated May 17, 1977, from Senator Bob Davis, your Senator, in Lansing. He has discovered that the State School Board plans to introduce this ridiculous proposal to the Legislature in a couple of weeks. And Senator Davis says, and we quote "I can assure that I would strongly oppose legislation that would allow school boards to levy an income tax without a vote of the people".

Also attached is another recent letter from Representative Charles H. Varnum, dated May 11, 1977, in which he states his stand in this senseless proposal. Representative Varnum states, and we quote: "I support your views (United Involved Citizens of Upper Michigan) of opposing this proposition in this important matter and I thank you for informing me of the feelings of the people of our district."

Again, thank you Manistigue Pioneer-Tribune and its editor for letting us up to now, 280 of us express ourselves under the great freedom of the press.

She strived for better health care

To the Editor:

This is not in defense of Fran Holthus, because I have no idea what went on in the Board Room, but what I observed of her in my work as an L.P.N. in nursing.

Mrs. Holthus worked in every capacity - from passing trays to taking charge of the floor when necessary. She helped rewrite policies and procedures, and instituted new methods, which if not feasible, as quickly phased them out. She started in-service programs, a necessity in modern nursing, and was willing to answer any questions.

Above all, she made me think, and strive to give better patient care. I shall miss her.

Another May legacy; how much water?

May flowers aren't the only legacy of April showers—the bugs are with us, too. Entomologists at Michigan State University provide a thumbnail sketch of the insect pests homeowners are most likely to encounter this month.

Canker Worms and Loopers:

These inchworm-type larvae are likely to be found feeding on elm, apple, beech, hickory, basswood, birch, ash and cherry. In large numbers, they can defoliate entire trees.

You can recognize these pests by their looping motion. They have three pairs of true legs on the front end and several pairs of fleshy prolegs on the rear. The legless middle section arches as the insect walks.

The larvae pupate underground, emerging in April and May as adults. The wingless females crawl up the trunks of trees to lay their eggs in masses on small twigs. The eggs look like tiny tuna cans laid in rows like the cells in a beehive.

If you had a problem with these pests

County Extension

by Elvin Hepker

last year, you can try to intercept the females by treating the tree trunks with bird tanglefoot. Spray the sticky material all around the trunk about three feet off the ground. On small trees, check for egg masses and snip out the twigs to which they're attached. Holes in the tops of the eggs indicate the larvae have already hatched. Treat the feeding caterpillars with Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial disease that affects only the worms.

Do not treat loopers and canker worms after mid-June. By that time, they are finished feeding and the damage is done.

Cutworms:

Subterranean cutworms can do a lot of damage in the garden. They rest in the soil and under litter and garden debris during the day and come out at night to feed on young, tender plants. It is not uncommon to lose whole rows of corn seedlings and other crops to cutworms.

The green fruitworm, a climbing cutworm, feeds on developing apples. It rests in the soil at the base of the tree during the day and climbs up at night to feed. Good sanitation is important in controlling these pests. Keeping the area around the base of the tree clear of leaves and other litter eliminates some of their hiding places.

For chemical control of these fat, hairless caterpillars in the garden spray Sevin directly on the vegetables. To control cutworms on apple trees, spray the tree trunk, the area around the base of the tree and the foliage with malathion. Do not use Sevin on the branches of apple trees early in the season; it will cause the young fruit to drop.

Two kinds of tent caterpillars begin to appear in late May. The eastern tent caterpillar has a dark, hairy body with a blue to white stripe down the middle of its back. Large colonies construct tents in the crotches of trees. They are primarily a pest of cherry, though they will also feed on maple, birch and ash. This is the tent caterpillar most likely to infest urban areas.

The forest tent caterpillar is dark brown to black with a row of keyholes or V-shaped, orange-yellow spots down the middle of its back. Though they sometimes construct webs on tree trunks, they tend to be solitary feeders and do not form the large, colonial webs that are the eastern tent caterpillar's habit. The forest tent caterpillar is a serious defoliator of aspen. It is often a pest in the Upper Peninsula.

To control either tent caterpillar, spray the tents, tree trunks and foliage with Bacillus thuringiensis.

How much water is "Enough"? Beginning gardeners are often frustrated by instructions to give their garden "enough" water. Just how much is "enough"?

During dry periods between rains, you should water your garden once a week so that the soil is thoroughly moistened to a depth of about six inches.

One thorough soaking is better than several light sprinklings. Light watering encourages plants to form undesirably shallow root systems.

Sprinkler or soaker hoses overhead and trickle irrigation are common ways to water home gardens. A more involved method is trickle irrigation, which is carried out through a set of plastic pipes that carry water along the ground to your plants.

Too much water can cause as much harm to garden plants as too little water. Watering too often or locating your garden in a poorly drained area can lead to wilting, yellowing of plant foliage, reduces vigor and death.

Plants that are always wet are also more prone to disease.

Trooper Michael A. Neiger of Marquette, has completed the State Police Recruit Training program and is assigned to the Manistique post, State Police officials announced recently.

Neiger was one of 64 recruit candidates sworn into office on May 18. He is also the recipient of a Recruit Class Award for scholarship.

He began his duties on Monday, May 23.

Great Lakes beckon persistent rock hound

Veteran agate men go ape this time of year, for winter storms have totally rearranged the venerable Lake Superior beaches. It's a great urgency to get in on the best of the pickin before bugs and tourists move into contention.

I'll buy that bug concern because there's nothing more inviting to a horse fly or stable fly than a tight pair of pants pointing at the sky. But tourists in general shouldn't be a concern, for most of them wouldn't know an agate unless it was inscribed with an "A" and the vast majority of them don't give a darn.

Who's to say which is prettier, an agate or a piece of banded chert? A greenstone or a stone with bars of epidote and various shades of wave-polished jasper are limited only by the amount of space in the trunk. They're pretty rocks, that's all...and unless there's need for a real bragging stone, they satisfy 95 per cent of the beachcombers from down under.

Polished, sun-tinted pieces of glass should not be ignored either and bleached crayfish claws have just as much right to the home aquarium as all those pretty rocks. Tiny scraps of bleached driftwood are for the creative person and imaginative eye can select matching wings, heads and bodies from the vast selection on hand and agile fingers can assemble them into unique birds for less talented people to ogle.

Yup, beachcombers come in all sizes, shapes, and interests but their common bond comes from the sound of the waves and gulls, the smell of the water and wind... and come sundown, who can say which one has had the best time?

Senior citizens have a ball on their own 'day'

Age is a matter of the heart. And 357 senior citizens and guests discovered that the older generation can have the most fun at a special Senior Citizens Party at Manistique High School on Wednesday night, May 18.

The program brought together talent and culinary skills from the local community, as well as theatrical input from Players de Noc of Escanaba.

Guests first enjoyed a smorgasbord of appetizers, then settled in for a program of entertainment and information about senior citizens' services—all styled in the form of an evening of television.

With Tom Hoholik serving as master of ceremonies, a "Hee Haw" show featured Edith Washburn, WTLQ radio announcer; Sharon Gardner, Maggie Benson as Minnie Pearl, and Players de Noc.

The "Evening News" was co-hosted by Mike Yeance and Rev. Henrichsen, both of WTLQ, who played Harry Reasoner and Barbara Walters. They interviewed State Rep. Charles H. Varnum (R-Manistique), Ronald Kivi, director of the State Office of Services to the Aging, and Carol Williams, Title V director for the office.

Mayor Frank Hewitt presented keys to the city of Manistique to the state officials, and Olga Bourdo and Carolyn Miller of the Manistique Junior Women's Club presented Eileen Males, director of the Manistique Senior Citizens Center, with a $500 check for the center's building fund.

Mrs. Males noted that since last week's program, a $1,000 donation has been received from the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. and $3,000 from Inland Lime and Stone for the building fund.

Howard Benson took over the microphone for the next segment of the program, the "Gong Show." Serving as judges were Robert Olsen, director of UPCAP; Jim Bruce, UPCAP human resources specialist; Williams and Kivi.

Sharon Gardner, singing "I Can't Say No," accompanied by Ginger Stark, won top prize. Other participants: Paula Aldrich, singing "Edelweiss"; Jonathon Mead in a clarinet solo; belly dancing by Debra Gray; juggling by Jeff Larche; Hawaiian dancing by Tillie Tennant; and Ed O'Leary singing "A little Bit of Heaven."

Special help for the night's activities came from Kay Atherton, Thora Atwater, Barb Mickelson, Norma Johnson, Ron Patrick, Neil Johnson, John Greene, and senior class girls who helped serve dinner.

MAGGIE BENSON was convincing as Minnie Pearl in the "Hee Haw" segment of the program.

TOM HOHOLIK entertains the auditorium audience with a folk song.

TILLIE TENNANT sparkles as pianist for the Senior Citizens Swingers.

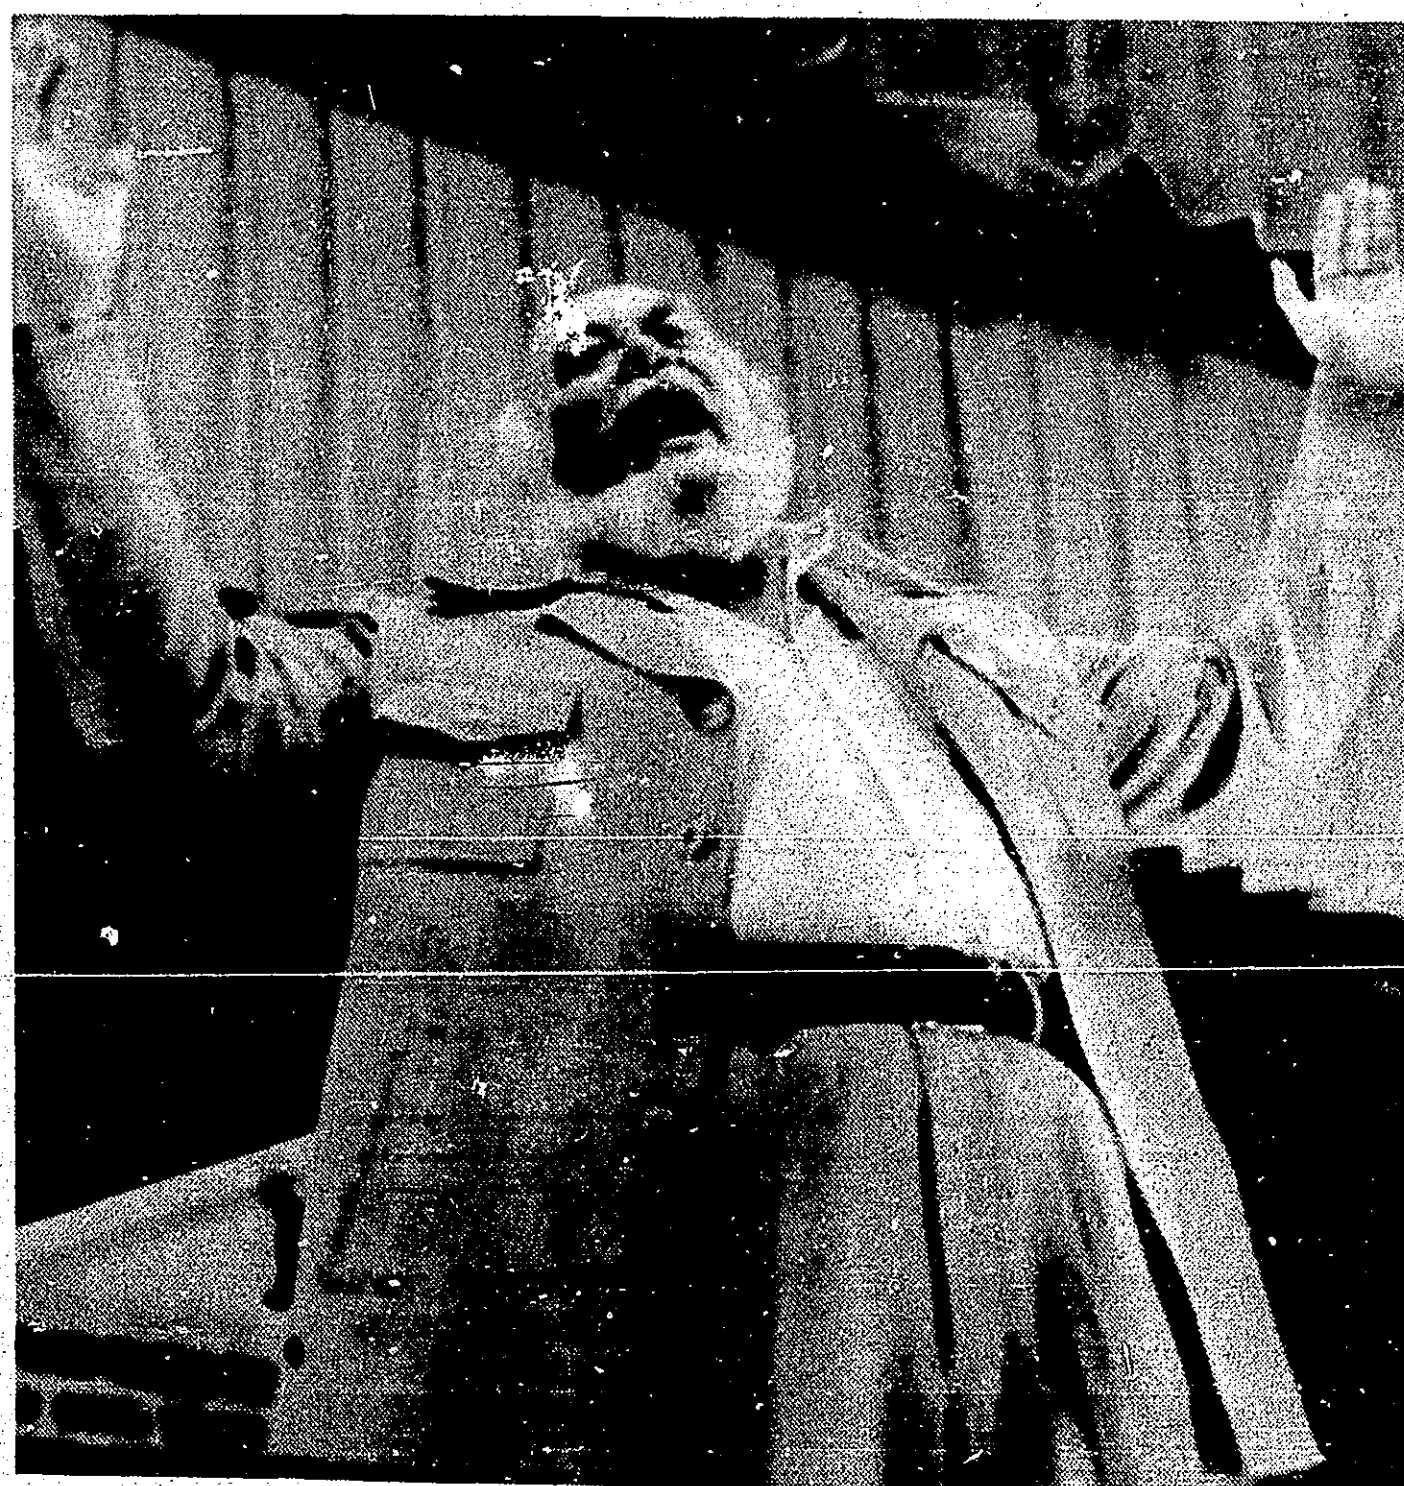

BOB McHUGH played Henry and Ed O'Leary played Junior Sample in "Hee Haw." Both are from Players de Noc.

IRISH CROONER Ed O'Leary of Players de Noc won acclaim in the "Gong Show."

A PLAYFUL Tillie Tennant was reluctant to leave the stage after being "gonged," but a firm master of ceremonies. Howard Benson, stood his ground. Tillie hula'd off.

Health screening set for June 6-8

June 6, 7, and 8 are health screening days under the auspices of Menominee-Delta-Schoolcraft Community Action Agency.

Anyone 55 years and older is eligible and it must have been over a year since you were health screened by this team of nurses. Persons taking part will be screened for blood pressure, vision, vital capacity, hearing, electro-cardiogram, urine testing for albumin, acetone and blood. Blood testing will be done for hemoglobin, uric acid, creatinine, cholesterol and glucose. These and various other tests will be done. Call 341-2021 for an appointment immediately.

We served 378 people at our senior citizens party that was held May 18. This couldn't have been possible without the help of Kay Atherton, Thora Atwater, Barb Mickelson, the girls of the high school senior party and the center's staff. We had a good party and we had enough food left over, which we froze. During the summer we'll have a party for all those who helped in various ways so we can show your help and food was most appreciated.

Our program was enjoyable and we are most appreciative of the Manistique Area Schools for the use of the beautiful facilities at our new high school. Dick Bonifas and Jim McDonough were very willing to help us in every way possible. Linda Walters, our center's driver, is very sick in the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital. Please send her a card and wish her well.

Birthday greetings go out to: Arthur Curran, Vivian Hahne, Grace Abell, Elin Hill, May 26; Lillian Beaudoin, Beda Hough, May 27; Mary Chadana, Sally Brunet, Olive Davis, Ollie Schultheiss, May 28; Clarence Priniski, Elizabeth (Betty) James Boonstra, Donald McKenzie, May 29; Bern Bohnstra, Raymond Males, Helen Lancour, May 31; Virginia Willour, Ann Burnis, Charles Blanchard, Leone Gimse, Ernest Robin-son, Willie Brauer, June 1; Richard Steffens, June 2.

Loretta and Charles Priniski and Oscar Jasmin volunteered their help and painted at our Thrift Store on Monday. We need more volunteers and if you want to help the center, we would be so grateful.

We would like to thank the following for monetary donations for our building fund: Cornelia Arrowood, Lillian and Ellsworth Curran, Mary Rozich, Lydia and William Weinert, Freda and Ernest Smith, Lillian and Ed Gregoras, Thelma and Robert Hewitt and an anonymous donor. The Manistique Pulp and Paper Company sent us a check for $1,000 toward our building fund and the Junior Women's Club gave us a check for $500. Ralph J. Merwin of Atlanta, GA, sent us a generous memorial in the name of his parents, Ralph H. Merwin and Helen D. Merwin.

A memorial was given to the center in the name of Max and Olga Larson and Abba Lundin by Elsie Creighton. All of the generous support is so gratefully appreciated and we thank you.

Thrift Store donations came from: Bette and Don Schulze, Irene Youmans, Elsie Schweiker, Mrs. Harry Swartstrom, Thelma and Bob Hewitt, Adelaide Schulte, Edith Tufnell, Isabell Thill and Inge Males. Baked goods were brought in by Ethel Howland, Emma Tufnell, and Irene Youmans. Thank you for giving.

There will be no oil painting, quilting, Bible Study or Thursday cribbage after May 31 until next September.

Flower pots, hanger made

Already we are nearing the end of the month of May and a lovely month it has won't be long now until school will be closing for summer vacation and I think that probably by the end of this week, the leaves on the trees will be fully opened.

It seems good to look out the window and see green again—now if we can just be blessed with a little rain it will stay green for a while. May I should take my vacation now—we always manage to get rain on those days.

Last week I attended the Senior Citizens' Hee Haw and Gong Show at the high school and for those of you who were not able to go or see it on T.V. I'll tell you I think it was great. To see our senior citizens perform with such enthusiasm made me feel good. Most of them have more zip than a lot of our younger people and they certainly put a lot of time and energy into their fund-raising drives.

We have been very busy in diversional therapy and have been making some very pretty flower pots. The flower pots are a very popular item this year what with all the macrame hangers being made these days. I think the macrame hangers are the greatest thing ever and it sure beats flower pots on the window sill of the window you want to open. Thanks to Lauerman's Department Store we will have some of our projects on display this summer. We hope to have our display there by June 1.

Last Tuesday we had our monthly birthday party sponsored by the V.F.W. Auxiliary and the usual lovely cakes were served with coffee. Tillie Tennant played the piano for a sing-a-long. Honored guests with birthdays this month are Edith Olson, William Watts and Mary Jo LeMire.

Birthday greetings for the first two weeks of June go to Marie Harrison on June 11 and Edna Rasky on June 14.

Have a safe and happy holiday weekend.

Legion Auxiliary memorial service

The American Legion Auxiliary No. 83 held a business meeting on Friday, May 13 at the home of Mrs. Wallace Peck at 7 p.m.

A memorial service was held in respect to Mrs. Clara Whitman, Mrs. Gladys Mercier and Mrs. Bertha Johnson, members who had died during the past year.

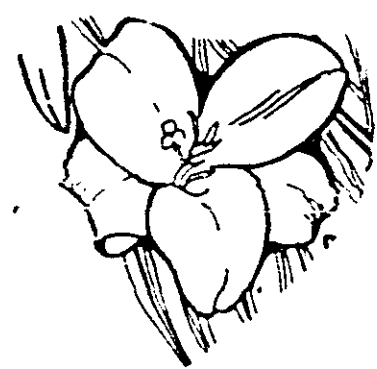

Mrs. Fred Hahne, veterans rehabilitation chairman, reported that hankies had been sent to the VA Hospital at Iron Mountain for handkerchief gifts to mothers of the veterans there for Mother's Day.

Plans were also made to hold a rummage sale on June 23, 24 and 25. Anyone desiring to donate clothes, jewelry, dishes, etc., may call Mrs. Wallace Peck at 341-2561 for pick up or leave at 220 S. Maple.

A White Elephant Sale was held after the meeting followed by a potluck lunch.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Marguerite Smith and Mrs. Vivian Hahne.

HERE'S HOW 13¢ CAN SAVE 2% OF YOUR INCOME... AND HELP STOP A STUPID PROPOSAL FROM BECOMING A LAW

United involved citizens of Upper Michigan ask that you send a 13 cent stamp for a petition sheet and obtain only 20 signatures of concerned citizens who strongly oppose a proposition of the Michigan State Board of Education that they are "introducing in a couple of weeks to the legislature in Lansing." This quotation is from Senator Bob Davis' letter to us dated—1977".

The proposal wants enactment of a law that would allow all local school boards to levy a 2 per cent income tax on everyone... WITHOUT A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE if two millage elections fail. Senator Davis' letter also states he is strongly opposed to it. Rep. Varnum is also opposed. Originals of both letters are on file with us. Copies are on file with the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune and Escanaba Press and The Advisor. Won't you help us, and also show your Representative and Senator that you 2. With them in opposing this stupid, assinine proposal. Rush your letter and 13 cent stamp to: Coordinator, United Involved Citizens of Upper Michigan, Box 207, Manistique Mich. 49854 (P.P.A.)
