Along the Sidelines

By Dave Rood

Reporting for eye and ear

What's the difference between newspapers and radio?

That's been a frequent question in recent weeks, and even at this point there is uncertainty as to how to respond. The Sideline's broadcast experience is limited to the past three weeks or so, which scarcely constitutes a base for comparison with 27 years of newspapers, but there are some obvious and immediate differences that are apparent to even the most obtuse underhand.

There is a little basic difference in the gathering of news. Making the rounds to gather the police and fire reports, the district and circuit court happenings, the meetings of the various councils and commissions—this is basic and routine and the techniques are essentially the same if you're there on behalf of the Weekly bugle or for CBS News.

On a personal basis, the biggest difference thus far has been the necessity to arise at 5 a.m. each day in order to be at work by 6 a.m. on the air by 7. This is only one hour earlier than formerly, but it is evidently the hour at which you are sleeping the soundest and getting the most rest, for by noon there is the discovery that one is all lathered out and ready for rest and recuperation.

(Of course if one had the good sense to go to bed at a correspondingly early hour the problem would not be so acute. One learns as one lives.)

There is a difference in the writing techniques. Some people seem to survive in print without use of the simple declarative sentence, but in radio it is imperative. Long, complex and convoluted sentence structure can tangle the most agile tongue, and the poor broadcaster caught in such a web soon finds himself pausing for breath right in the middle of a maze of verbs, adjectives and adverbs without ever having found the subject or predicate.

In writing for newspapers there is the opportunity for greater detail. The reporter can provide more background for the reader, sometimes comparisons, some times related events or historical precedents.

With radio...or TV...there is the need to go right to the heart of the matter; to cull out the extraneous and to sum up, in a few, short sentences, the essence of what transpired.

Even before we transferred from the printed to the spoken word, there was the conviction that they supplemented each other, rather than competed. Each has its own unique advantage, its own strengths and its own weaknesses. It's not a question of one being better than the other, it's a case of each being different.

With broadcast, speed is the advantage. You can gather and write your story and have it on the air in minutes.

Deadlines have been a fact of our life for the past 27 years. Every newspaper, weekly or daily, has certain deadlines that must be met if the paper is to be delivered on time.

Even so, there was surprise at the split-second, recurring deadlines that are so much a part of radio. In broadcast we have discovered that as soon as one deadline is met there is another coming up. The 7 o'clock, and what was news the first time around may be supplemented entirely an hour later by a story of more immediacy or greater importance.

Seated in the control room, we discovered that they'll send a dial-tone type signal exactly 60 seconds before the national and international news begins, and that there is a real knack in timing your introduction so that right after you say "It's 9 o'clock and here's the news" you can turn up another dial and some dude will, by golly, start talking right at the moment presenting the news of the world at that hour.

If you hurry your introduction, you have to sit and wait for him to come on; if you start too late then he starts talking before you're done. This can be very embarrassing.

We are also learning the hazards of sleepers...these terrible moments when your tongue gets tangled in your eye teeth and you can't see what you are saying.

When you announce, for instance, that the Red Cross Broodmobile is due in town, how do you recover? Or tell the listeners, with the greatest sincerity, that the barometer is following, not falling?

You plew ahead, that's what you do, vewing to take the marbles out of your mouth at the first opportunity, pledging to always engage the brain before putting the mouth in motion.

Writers have erasers on their pencils, but announcers simply pray for forgiveness and hope that their listeners have a short memory.

Free Fair to open at 1 p.m. Saturday

Activity will abound at Central Park this weekend with the opening of the Schoolcraft County Fair, the first in 44 years.

Youngsters, adults and 4-H members will be entering their exhibits with hopes of collecting a top prize in their respective categories. In addition, a Schoolcraft County Queen will be chosen and a modeling show will be held Saturday evening.

"Everything is pretty well finalized," says Dan Pitcher, fair coordinator. "We have a pretty good scope on what's going on."

And there's a whole list of things going on beginning on Friday from 3 to 8 p.m. with registration of all exhibits. Booth space also will be assigned at this time for non-animal exhibits. Registration will take place at the specially marked "exhibition tent" at the fair grounds.

At 5 p.m. Friday, the Queen's contest gets underway at the Ramada Inn. The public is invited. Persons may either enjoy a meal during the activity or just sit and watch the show.

Eleven contestants are entered in this year's contest. They include: Polly Jackson, Leta Burkholder, Lecia Prieskorn, Laurie Prieskorn, Kris Reque, Debbie Peterson, Sally Turan, Gretchen Johnson, Theresa White, Judy Burns and Julie Felon. The last such contest was held in 1976 during Fourth of July activities.

On Saturday, all non-animal exhibits will be judged from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Meanwhile, animal exhibits will be registered from 9 a.m. to noon. Judging of those exhibits is also scheduled to get underway at that time.

At 1 p.m. the fair officially opens to the public. Rented tents will be in place and all exhibits will be on display.

Local Knights of Columbus members will sponsor Bingo during the day and on Sunday afternoon. At press time, the VFW Post was working on securing a license for a beer tent for the two days. No word had been received from the state as of Tuesday, on whether that license would be issued.

From 3 to 7 p.m. the 4-H Club will be sponsoring a chicken barbecue. Proceeds from the barbecue will go to help defray the costs of the fair.

Also starting at 3 p.m., a modeling dress review will be held featuring handmade items entered at the fair by local persons.

Starting at 4 p.m., an entourage of local talent will be on stage at the Central Park bandshell to entertain fair visitors. Talent acts who want to enter the who may still call the extension office at 341-5050.

At 7 p.m., the chosen Queen will be officially crowned at the bandshell.

At 8:30 p.m. the fair will officially close for the day.

Then comes the second big day of activities.

From 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Sunday, an open horse show will be held at the Horse arena at Central Field.

The fair will re-open its doors at 10 a.m. with the second day of the chicken barbecue scheduled to run from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Bingo will also be run during the afternoon.

At 5:30 p.m. the fair will close and officially conclude its first season as the Schoolcraft County Free Fair.

A complete list of exhibits that any Schoolcraft County adult, youth, or 4-H member is eligible to enter is included on page 5A together with a complete list of activities.

Detailed information concerning the exhibits also can be found in the Schoolcraft County Fair Book available at local merchants, including the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune office at 212 Walnut St. or at the extension office, County Clerk's office, or any Manistique bank.

Senior citizens center to receive $90,000 grant

A larger building for the Manistique Senior Citizens Center moved closer to reality Friday with the announcement that the local center will receive a $90,000 grant for the renovation of a former DNR office and garage on Main Street.

According to Eileen Males, director of the center, the grant will be made through the Michigan Commission on Aging from federal Title V funds under the Older Americans Act.

Mrs. Males said she learned in a phone conversation with state officials Friday that the commission on aging approved awarding the grant on Aug. 19.

The $90,000 grant is to be matched with $30,000 raised locally for the project, she added. The center plans to obtain the building from the City of Manistique, which acquired it from the DNR in July.

Much work needs to be done on the building, Mrs. Males said, before the center can move from its present location in the former Coast Guard building on Range Street. A new front will be added and the office area will be lowered to create one level for the multi-purpose facility. Extensive heating and plumbing improvements also will be needed, she said.

Completed, the building will provide from 3,500 to 4,000 square feet of space for a conference room, pool and poker room, large meeting room and thrift store. The present center has 900 square feet of space.

Mrs. Males said that an architect must be hired before bids can go out and construction can begin. The Office of Service to the Aging will then pay bills incurred under the project.

The center also receive two more marks of recognition at the U.P. State Fair last week, with the senior citizens band and chorus, the "Swingers," taking first place in a talent contest. They won $100 and a trophy. And Bertha Davis, participant at the center, won $50 and prizes for being selected runner-up in the queen's contest.

Citizens offer suggestions on academic reductions

Manistique Area School Board members spent yet another evening deliberating over the financial situation of the school during Tuesday's gathering of the regular meeting of the board.

The board had help, however, as more than 100 people attended the meeting, offering suggestions, criticisms, opinions and help in the form of volunteer services.

Some progress was made in the balancing of the unbalanced budget, with the board approving a raise in hot lunch prices to meet a deficit in that area.

This and other cost-saving steps have reduced the current budget deficit from the $79,000 of a week ago to approximately $62,800.

Members of the Manistique Athletic Booster Club came forward and again volunteered their services to help run home sports contests in an effort to retain boys and girls basketball, boys football, and girls volleyball.

Administration officials and the Booster Club were to get together this week and work out program, the board decided.

However, science teacher Earl Williamson offered another point of view.

"Do we have an academic Booster Club? We have a sports booster club and I applaud the people for it," Williamson said. "We have a band booster club and I applaud those people. But we've been screwing around for umpteen years and keep cutting the budget," said Williamson. His comments were met with applause from the audience.

Later in the meeting, Williamson suggested that the board resign their positions, thus placing the school in state receivership. The state would then come in said Williamson, and levy the amount of millage needed to operate the school.

"Theoretically, that's interesting to think about," said Board President Bruce Steinfeldt. "But we have to get down to responsibility. We can't ask the people of the town to accept their responsibility if we abdicate ours."

Denton Nelson indicated that while such a maneuver is possible it wouldn't really work, saying, "I don't think if all of us resign that would do it. The mechanics of the thing is such that the intermediate school board would just appoint a new school board."

Board members again stated that they are not in favor of more cuts and would prefer not to reduce the budget any further.

Superintendent Richard Bonifas told the audience that the current deficit is smaller than the $340,000 deficit the board faced earlier in the year. Some $280,000 has already been trimmed from the budget.

"We've not only trimmed it down to the skeleton but we've amputated from there," Dr. Steinfeldt added.

Representatives of Schneider, Larche, Haapala and Company, certified public accountants, the schools auditors were on hand for the meeting telling the board that current bookkeeping practices are up to par and quite accurate.

However, the accountants told the board that the current fund equity has been declining and "you can expect your fund balance to be completely wiped out."

Fund balance was described by the accountant as follows: "If you were going out of business and you liquidate all your assets and paid all your bills, what you have left would be your fund balance."

The question of another millage election was brought up from the floor and presented to the board, but met with little response.

"We got clobbered worse in the last election than ever before," Nelson said. "I'll vote against a millage election. This is a mandate from the people. Until enough people petition this board I'm not in favor of another millage election," said Nelson, echoing the thoughts of several board members.

Margaret Waters suggested that persons interested in petitioning the school board could obtain petitions from Margaret Cain, administrative assistant, at the Central Office. However, she asked, "who would come forward?"

Jim Troyer, new guidance counselor at the high school, suggested that the board sue the state of Michigan for failing to provide a basic education.

Under Troyer's idea, since state aid is based on 25 mills—a state accepted level for a basic education program—the board should sue the state for not making up the difference between the 20.7 operational mills the school currently operates under, and the state suggested 25 mills to provide basic education.

"But we don't even have money in our budget to start suing anybody," exclaimed Nelson.

The board reiterated its stand on not cutting any more programs. Bonifas also injected, "You could close the Doyle School, eliminate athletics and remove the hot lunch. You could do all three and still not eliminate the deficit."

Nelson also expressed concern about the absence of boardmember's Billie Doyle and John Mincoff.

"This is a very serious matter. I'm not in favor of discussing budget unless we have a full board. They should all have input. They'll just come back and say I never had any input," he said.

After further discussion, the board decided to table budget matters until a special session of the board set at 8 p.m. Wednesday, August 31. Bids will also be accepted from lending institutions for interest on a loan to operate the school during the remainder of 1977.

In other action Tuesday night, the board:

—approved the hiring of Margaret Holland as special education teacher on the secondary level.

—approved the transfer of Jim Troyer, sixth grade teacher at Fairview, to guidance counselor.

—approved the hiring of Kathleen Neimi as elementary teacher.

—accepted the annual audit as presented by Schneider, Larche, Haapala and Company.

—tabled a matter concerning whose signatures should appear on school issued checks until Treasurer John Mincoff attended the meeting.

—accepted bids of 10 cents for pint of white milk and 10.7 cents per pint of chocolate milk from Cloverland Creamery; and hamburger buns at 38 cents a dozen, and hot dog buns at 38 cents a dozen from Dick Bros. Bakeries; and 33.5 cents per one and one-half pound loaf of bread from Our Own Bakery.

—approved a raise in hot lunch prices to 50 cents for children 12 and under and 80 cents for adults. Milk prices were also raised from 5 cents to six cents.

—approved building and site bills totaling $1,112.72.

—approved removing the position of elementary music teacher and providing for an elementary academic teacher.

Compatibility?

Paul and Janet Heinz of 537 Park Ave. really believe in marital compatibility.

On Wednesday of last week at 10 p.m. Janet had her appendix removed and this Tuesday at 10 a.m. her husband was rushed into surgery for—you guessed it—an appendectomy.

Both are doing fine and Dr. Duane Waters is reportedly considering submitting the story to his favorite medical journal.

St. Francis registration

St. Francis de Sales Elementary School will begin its school year on Sept. 6 with Orientation Day for students and their parents.

Anytime between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. children accompanied by their parents may come to meet their teacher, see their room and make a tuition payment.

Classes will begin with a half-day session on Sept. 7. Students should report to school at 8:45 a.m. and will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m.

Hot lunch begins on Sept. 8, the first full day of school.

If the bus schedule remains about the same as in the past, the St. Francis de Sales School day will start at 8:45 a.m. and dismiss at 2:45 p.m.

Work begins on center

Excavating work began Tuesday on a planned Manistique Community Center, which will include renovation and expansion of the present youth center building.

Ground work is being done by Olsen and Olsen of Manistique, contractor for the $67,670 project to be completed in 180 days.

At its regular meeting Monday night, the Manistique City Council heard objections from Councilmember Mary Moffat, who said the money would be better spent on sewer and water lines.

"It's ridiculous to spend money for an inadequacy," Mrs. Moffat said. She explained that the planned building would be too small to house some events, many of which can be handled at the central school facility and other buildings.

However, a motion by Mrs. Moffat not to start work on the community center died for the lack of a second.

Plans call for a 36 by 36 foot meeting room to be added to the present youth center.

In other business at the brief meeting, the council instructed City Manager Robert Risik to obtain bids for the construction of water transmission lines from Intake Park Road to Clark Street, and use HUD funds to finance the project.

Risik announced that Pentometer Associates of Chicago would be conducting its water system leak survey in the city beginning this week.

The council also allocated $24,861 in federal antirecession funds for continued maintenance, service and snow removal by the public works department.

The council placed on the agenda for its next meeting discussion of zoning recommendations for an area bounded by Park Avenue on the north, US-2 on the south and east, and Steuben Street on the west.

The City Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended that the entire area be rezoned commercial B-3. Presently, the northern section is zone R-1, while property abutting the highway is zoned tourist service and multiple family.

A request for a variance from Elias Brothers Restaurants has been received for a parcel between Auto Body and Steuben Street on the highway, presently zoned for multiple family dwellings.

Holmes petitions against crime

Frustrated by Legislative inaction, State Representative Kirby Holmes (R-Utica) came to Manistique this past week in his 27-foot motor home as part of a statewide "Crusade against Crime" campaign.

Holmes along with his family is traveling throughout the state to drum up support for petition drives to place several anti-crime measures on the Michigan ballot next year.

Holmes claims that through public opinion polls conducted for the House Judiciary committee, crime is the most important issue at the local level.

"Really, we wouldn't have to be doing any of this if the legislature would simply take some action. The bills are there, ready to be voted on. But the committee chairmen just won't bring them up before the Legislative branches.

"What we're trying to tell those guys is look, either you let the legislature vote on these proposals or we'll vote them into law without you," explained Holmes.

The measure Holmes and his family are pushing for include: reinstatement of the death penalty, tightening parole requirements, a $400 million bond issue to build new prisons, anti-obscenity and anti-shoplifting bills, mandatory minimum sentences for some crimes, denial of bail for certain persons, limited wiretapping authority for law enforcement agencies, increased penalties for substance abuse and crimes against senior citizens and more money for fighting crime at the local level.

"The time has come for tough, firm action against crime and criminals in Michigan," he said. My kids think so too. That's why we're devoting our summer to taking this message to the people of Michigan. Come fall, we'll be back home to continue the crusade until something gets done."

The Holmes, Kirby, his wife, Mary; and his four children, Chip, 18, Kerry, 15, Charlie, 9, and Tracy, 8, have been stopping in towns with newspapers around the Upper Peninsula.

They were expected to finish their U.P. trip Wednesday of this week and were headed for the Petoskey-Charlevoix area.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Sauro of Sault Ste. Marie. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaFord of Manistique.

Water Survey to be conducted

The City of Manistique will be conducting a water line study on a city wide basis for approximately the next 3 to 4 weeks. The job will consist of flow metering within various mains throughout the City and may result in your water service being temporarily shut off, slight water discoloration, and lower pressure. These conditions are all part of the test and should not last more than one hour in any particular instance. The tests are being conducted between 10:00 p.m. and 6: a.m. in order to allow for a minimum of inconvenience. The local radio station will announce the locations of any proposed work scheduled for that day. Thank you for your cooperation.

What's Going On

To many women, being the mother of the bride is something that they anticipate will be very challenging.

Phyllis Burge has discovered that more challenging than that is having four of your five children in the same wedding party. Tom Jr. and Jim were acolytes for the wedding of Phyllis' brother Michael Niemi to Susan Jokela in Houghton. Lisa was the ring bearer (women's lib) and Nancy was the flower girl. Phyllis and Tom were definitely among the proud parents at the wedding.

Tom and Sue Bennett and Jodi have just returned from downstate. They visited both grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Babinchak in Allen Park and Mrs. Marge Bennett in Yale. Before heading home they relaxed at Cedar Point.

A grandparent vacation was enjoyed by Mark and Shelly Hoholik, children of Julie and Tom Hoholik. They spent two and a half weeks in Port Edwards, Wis. with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Zurluh and in Wisconsin Rapids with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Flugar. Julie and Tom and the other children picked them up and stopped at the fair on the way home.

Turning thirty doesn't have to be traumatic and to convince his wife Judy of that, Mike Brooks gave a party for her thirtieth on Sunday. Friends and their children celebrated with a steak and corn roast. Judy Nagel baked the cake for the memorable occasion.

Janet Sheahan has returned to Florida after visiting her mother Mrs. William Sheahan.

Returning to Chicago after a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nelson was their son Joe.

The 55th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith was celebrated at the First United Methodist Church on Sunday. The congregation presented Mrs. Smith with a corsage.

"Happy Birthday, grandpa" should have been the first words spoken by Timmy Lee Sholander who was born on the birthday of his grandfather Vernon Edwards. His proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Olive Sholander of Fond du Lac, Wis. He has a brother Scott who is two.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards joined paternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Gregurash in a trip to Fond du lac to visit Timmy.

Mrs. Henry Duquette spent a happy weekend with five of her sons at home. Returning sons were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Duquette of Holland, Mrs. and Mrs. John Duquette and son of Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Don Duquette of Ann Arbor, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Duquette of Great Falls Mont. Others at the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Duquette of Escanaba, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lasich and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Gregurash and family, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Pawley, and Major and Mrs. Harold Pawley of KI Sawyer Air Base.

Senior Citizens

by Eileen Males

As you will see from the headlines in this issue of the Pioneer-Tribune we got the good news from the Michigan Commission on Aging that we are getting $90,000 towards remodeling a new multi-purpose Senior Citizens Center. We have to match this with $30,000 cash. We thought we could use the building as match but the guidelines have been changed.

For those who are unfamiliar with federal grants the procedure in building is quite complex. First of all I have to send a letter to various architects and see if they are interested in drawing up plans and ask what their fee will be.

After plans are drawn and they are what we want, then we have to solicit bids from contractors.

So I suppose it will be close to spring before we can get going but the building has to be built within a year after the grant has been awarded.

Mr. Williams of the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging told me if I can live through a year following HEW guidelines I could live through anything. But our prayers have been answered and away we go.

As I have been telling you all these years, dream your dreams, seek and ask and be persistent and it will pay off. Tomorrow is our flea market day. Please attend and support it.

Our thanks go out to the following for their generous giving toward our building fund: Agner and Waneeta Dehlin, Vera Seidell, Frances Berandt, Leo and Minnie Sikarski, Gus Hahne, Clyde Lambert, Edna Boehm, Peg Henriksen and Steve LaFond.

A memorial was given to the Center in the name of Sig. W. Anderson by Mrs. Helen Anderson.

Donations towards our flea market sale which will be held this Friday came from: Carl and Blanche Lyntis, Anna Sjogren, Lillian DeMars and Inez Dear, Bob McEwan, Mrs. Arthur Gray, Marguerite Tennyson, Dora Cournaya, Julia Tilton, Mary and Oscar Blomquist, Vern Anderson, Beda Hough, Judy Rogers, Lois MacGregor, Edna Swanson, Elmer and Irene Jestila, Ian and Carla McKilligan, Frank LaMaire, Earl and Mable Hariman, Clara and George Lakosky, Mrs. Bill Lipford, Mildred Mattison, Dorothy Wieland, Cliff and Celestine Christiansen, Frank and Rose Provo, Dr. and Nancy Brown, Bill and Edith Washburn, Edna Wacker, Neil and Louisa Rasmussen, Beatrice Burley, Freda Smith, Mrs. Drels, Nancy Sherman, Mabelle El, Eleanor Peterson, and Mrs. Albert Swanson.

All these acts of kindness are so deeply appreciated. We really appreciate your concern.

Birthday greetings go out to: Ada Kelly, Myrtle Quick, Clarence Knowles and Julius Palmer, Aug. 25; Rose Graves, Ethel Nelson and Irene Youmans, Aug. 26; Thora Haindl, Herbert Olsen, Aug. 27; Hazel Bolitho, Elmer Jestila, George Stevenson, Jim Lambert and Elvin Toennissen, Aug. 28; Paul Hatfield, Velva Vanderville, Mary Blomquist, Lenore Fink and Shirley Graff, Aug. 29; Lillian McNamara, Cecile Taylor, Mary Rozich, Ruth Kerridge and Gordon Denny, Aug. 30; Rachel Adams, Maude Robertson and Howard Hanson, Aug. 31; Loretta Jayne, Fronia McKenzie, Helen Seymour and Maude Hasmussen, Sept. 1.

Thursday to, supposedly play a round of golf. But, alas, after the smoke had cleared away, it was doubtful as to what had been accomplished. There were scraps all over the course, 114 to be exact, so apparently the Indian whopped the Frenchman.

Stan Arnold proved that he couldn't be shaken, as he played the best round of the year to help his drivers win the league championship. Other members of the Drivers are: Dave and Norm Jahn, Jess Gutierrez, Glen Bates, Archie Carpenter, and Jim Sangraw, Jr. The Tigers finished second, while the Gas House Gang just nipped the Whiffers by a half point.

"Suds" Southard won two points en route to winning the Bruce McKilligan most valuable player award. Archie Carpenter finished a half point back.

Milt Larsen and Bud Malloy, both, for the first time this year parred the course with 36's. Other medalists for the day were: Bill Hackney, Don Carlson, Wayne Patz, and Fred Lesica with 40's. Scoring 41's were Jim Sangraw, Jr. Addie Boyd, Jr., and Butch Deloria (his best of the year). Finishing out the top scoring with 42 were Glen Bates, Bill Graff, and Roy Archey.

Turning in birdies for the day were: Bill Hackney, Don Carlson, Roy Archey, Phil Ehn, Bud Malloy, Everett Wood, Butch Deloria and Milt Larsen (with two).

Miles Behrend, now that the season has ended, finally found out what he was doing wrong, turned in a score of six under, and lowered his handicap by two strokes. Miles warns his opponents... "Watch out for next year" See you then...

By Mark Eisenlohr

When river was called Monistique

Several weeks ago, Esther Soderbeck brought in a booklet entitled "A souvenir of Manistique."

No, it's not the centennial book. Actually, I'm not sure when it was published as there is no publishing date listed anywhere in the book. However, it was published by the Manistique Harold and cost 50 cents.

On the first page of this book, the traditional sketchy history is listed, filled with many of the facts that are well known: such as a population of 5,000; the name Manistique being derived from the river flowing through the town. The river was named by the Indians and in the Chippewa tongue it means "river with the big bay."

However, later in the reading, a brief rundown of industry at the time is given. That proved kind of interesting and I thought I'd pass it along.

It was also interesting to note that the Manistique River, was then called the Monistique. I've never heard when the name changed over, or at least I don't remember having heard, but I assume it was after the early 1920's, the latest date that I find in the book.

The book states: "The Manistique river affords fine water power for manufacturing, which is improved at this point and owned Chicago Lumbering Company of Michigan and Weston Lumber, Co., which concerns have very large holdings of property in Schoolcraft county, and take the lead in the manufacture of lumber."

"The combined capital of these companies is $1,300,000. They now operate two mills, both within the city limits, the output of lumber being from 60 to 80 million feet per year, principally white pine."

"The output is shipped entirely by water and mostly in their own boats, their fleet of vessels, the Tonawanda Barge Line, plying continually between this port and Tonawanda, N.Y."

"The Manistique Iron Company, capitalized at $300,000 and capable of producing one hundred tons of pig iron per day, gives steady employment the year around to about 100 men."

"The Burrell Chemical Company, capitalized at $500,000, operates continuously

THE YEAR WAS 1910. Old Casey was going out to the ballpark. Did he win? I don't know and neither does Cliff Smith who brought this picture in for publication. It's a Manistique team and some of the players were identifiable. Second from right, in back row: Ed McCormick. Front in manufacturing wood alcohol and acetate of lime, and employs a large force of men at its works and in its camps.

"The White Marble Lime Company is another of Manistique's prosperous institutions. It operates lime kilns both in this city and at Marblehead, also a large and modernly equipped shingle mill plant, and is an extensive dealer in all kinds of forest products here and along the Soo Line. Many buyers of cedar ties, telegraph and telephone poles, posts, ship knees, pulp wood, tan bark, and jobbers in all sorts of forest products, make their headquarters here, running out along the various lines in prosecuting their business."

"Manistique is also an important fishing point, the principal operators being Capt. John Coffey, and A. Booth Packing Co."

"Other corporations here are the Federal Leather Company, Manistique Telephone Company, the Manistique Electric Light Company, Manistique Bank, First National Bank, Thompson Lumber, Co. Ltd., Hiawatha Lumber Co., Ltd., Willebrand-Manistique Brewing Company, Manistique Opera House Co. and Manistique Realty Co."

"Manistique has modern stores and offices that would be a credit to any modern city. The following good hotels cater to the wants of the strangers within our gates: Ossawinimakee, Hiawatha, Hotel Barnes, Tretcher Hotel, Keystone and St. James. Three weekly papers furnish the public with news: The Manistique Harold, Pioneer-Tribune, and Courier."

From here the book goes on to describe the population of the county and its population densities. (About 1/2 of population resides in Manistique). It also cites good agricultural land that could be developed and "support a large population in that way...it offers a sure and rich return to the tiller of the soil."

The writer also states that the "energies of its people have been expended in its lumber camps and mills, upon its native crop of pine, hemlock, cedar, birch and maple trees."

"Time will change this," the writer continues, "and is not far distant when Manistique will be surrounded (sic) by, and have tributary to it a sturdy, self-reliant and progressive population of farmers with their comfortable houses and barns, fields of grain, orchards and meadows, flocks and herds, and along with these will be the groups of children, the country churches and school houses."

"Favored as to situation, with excellent religious and educational facilities, healthy business conditions, an industrious, thrifty and intelligent population, Manistique has taken its place at the very front of the growing cities of the Upper Peninsula. Its natural resources, and the push and energy of its businessmen insure its continued prosperity, and offer to a largely increased population opportunities for permanent employment, the acquisition of comfortable homes, and the enjoyment of prosperity and wealth."

I haven't yet decided whether the prediction of the writer concerning the agricultural prosperity has come true or not, but Manistique certainly is at the head of growing communities in the Upper Peninsula.

At any rate, I'd like to thank Mrs. Soderbeck for bringing the book to our attention. It certainly offered a new perspective to our community.

Insurance companies remind Fitz of banks

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

At our home, my wife pays the bills. I have instructed her never to tell me how much I am paying for automobile insurance. Such information only makes me scream and pound my head against my teenage son, to no avail.

It is the lack of avail that frustrates. If it avails me nothing to gripe about the cost of car insurance, why bother? It is better for my digestion if I pay the premium by proxy, never knowing for sure how much I am being gouged, only suspecting.

My point is that I am a coward. I would rather bleed in the dark than turn on the lights and see the wound I can't heal. I am making this point to furnish contrast, so you will understand why Ralph Schumaker is my newest hero. Schumaker did not whimper and run for shelter when the cost of his car insurance was doubled. He sent a barrage of fierce letters to the Auto Club, the state insurance commissioner and the state Department of Commerce.

And in Bloomfield Hills District Court, Schumaker filed a lawsuit against the Automobile Club of Michigan Insurance Group. In his class action suit, he charges that:

"After over 20 years of continuous yearly automobile insurance with the Detroit Automobile Inter-Insurance Exchange, the Auto Club arbitrarily refused to renew plaintiff's auto insurance -- without negotiation, mediation or adequate notice."

Schumaker further charges that the Auto Club switched his insurance to a higher-priced member of its group, the Motor Land Insurance Co., "at a rate increased of almost 200 percent in a highly selective process based on myths, notions, perceptions and beliefs. This is insurance blackmail."

The court will hear his claim Aug. 1. Perhaps Schumaker will triumph where I have so cravenly despaired. I am rooting for him, but I am doubtful.

The Auto Club says it bases its rates on facts, not myths. And it is a fact that Schumaker's car has been in two accidents in the past four years and that he has been ticketed for speeding twice.

It doesn't matter that the two accidents were minor fender-benders and not Schumaker's fault. It doesn't matter that almost everyone on the freeway breaks the 55 m.p.h. law and that the disconcertingly spotty enforcement of this law makes a mockery of justice.

Schumaker, a Bloomfield Hills resident, is president of the Michigan Appraisal Club. His job has put him on the highways for many thousands of miles in the past 22 years. But it doesn't matter that his overall record for all these miles makes him eligible for motoring sainthood.

The Auto Club has declared Schumaker a high risk, and he must pay 200 percent more for his insurance. If he doesn't like it, he can...

Switch to another insurance company? It is to laugh. Schumaker's insurance broker is Louis Hyde of Gorman & Thomas in St. Clair Shores. Hyde told Schumaker that the companies Hyde represents will not consider Schumaker for insurance because of his dispute with the Auto Club.

Schumaker took his gripe to Thomas Jones, Michigan's insurance commissioner. Unfortunately, Jones has to gum his food.

"I am sorry that I am unable to assist you in your particular situation," the commissioner wrote to Schumaker. "Your case is one of many where an individual has been placed in a high-risk company of who has had their insurance canceled or non-renewed. I do not intend to let this situation continue and shall do everything in my power to obtain and effectively use the authority necessary to correct this unjust situation."

Do not hold your breath -- or drive with no insurance -- until Jones obtains enough authority to bite instead of gum.

It was marvelous when Michigan's no-fault law stopped lawyers from grabbing one out of every three dollars spent on car insurance. But the premiums have continued to soar. If you never leave the curb, maybe you are paying only 30 percent more than a few years ago. If you have a teenage son and a scraped bumper, you are probably paying 150 percent more.

Insurance companies remind me of banks. A bank will lend you money if you don't need it, and an insurance company will sell you insurance if you never use it. "Compulsory auto insurance without uniform state standards and arbitrary mediation of rating disputes is immoral and illegal," Schumaker says.

Go get'em, Ralph. My wife is right behind you, and I am right behind her.

A new fair tradition

The Schoolcraft County Fair Association says in its fair booklet that the 1977 fair will be a "revitalization of a one-time tradition that many residents may remember. Yet to others this will be the first Schoolcraft County Fair."

The fair, to be held Aug. 27-28 in Central Park, is the first in 44 years. Still, this year's fair may not be all that older generations remember of bygone local fairs, nor all that youngsters could hope for.

But it's an important first step in starting a new tradition that can grow year by year.

Part of the reason for optimism about the fair's potential is a resurgence of agriculture in the county. In the past several years, more and more people in the area are turning the earth for profit, both on full-time and part-time bases. They are coming to grips with soil conditions and climate in the middle section of the Upper Peninsula.

That growth, aided by improved agriculture techniques, will provide a stimulus for county fairs in the years to come.

Fair officials are hoping, too, that this first fair will stimulate the creativity of local residents. The wide range of crafts, food and animal displays may encourage more residents to bring in their own wares in future fairs.

Other opportunities may exist to combine some existing annual events, such as carnivals and special shows, with the "core" fair of exhibits and booths to round out the activities and produce a greater draw for residents and tourists. Bicycle races and children's games could further enliven the event.

Of course, future development of the fair will take planning. And a permanent building, which should be a reality by the 1978 fair, will do much to help establish the fair as a permanent fixture of summer activities in Schoolcraft County.

Whatever problems may arise in expanding the fair, the fair association deserves congratulations for launching a revival of the Schoolcraft County Fair, the first free fair locally. We wish it success through more community involvement.

How 'John' became a privy term

One of the most commonly used slang terms is in reference to the toilet or bathroom. "The John" has become an accepted part of the English language and from casual observance seems to cut across class lines.

Well, if you've ever wondered about the origin of the term "John," wonder no longer. The answer is close at hand.

Charles McCabe, writing in the San Francisco Chronicle, clears up the mystery surrounding the term and we pass along his comments for the benefit of our readers.

It is generally acknowledged that Sir John Harrington invented the flush toilet. He described his invention in a wonderful book called "A New Discourse on a State Subject, Called the Metamorphosis of Ajax."

The title was typical of Sir John's waggery. Ajax is a play on the word jakes, which was Elizabethan slang for the primitive facilities existing before Harrington changed things.

In his Plumbing classic, Harrington offered a myth to explain how a privy came to be called a jakes or jakes. According to this eminently unreliable witness, the hyacinth plant sprang into being from the life's blood of the Greek warrior Ajax.

Centuries later the son of the giant Gargantua took a huge dose of a laxative. He then used as toilet tissue the foliage from an acre of hyacinths. As a result, he suffered for a year with a furious irritation.

Gargantua, to appease the spirit of Ajax, built a huge temple in the form of a privy. A statue of Ajax was placed over the door to the privy. The name of Ajax was soon corrupted by worshippers at the shrine, and his privy temple became known as a Jakes."

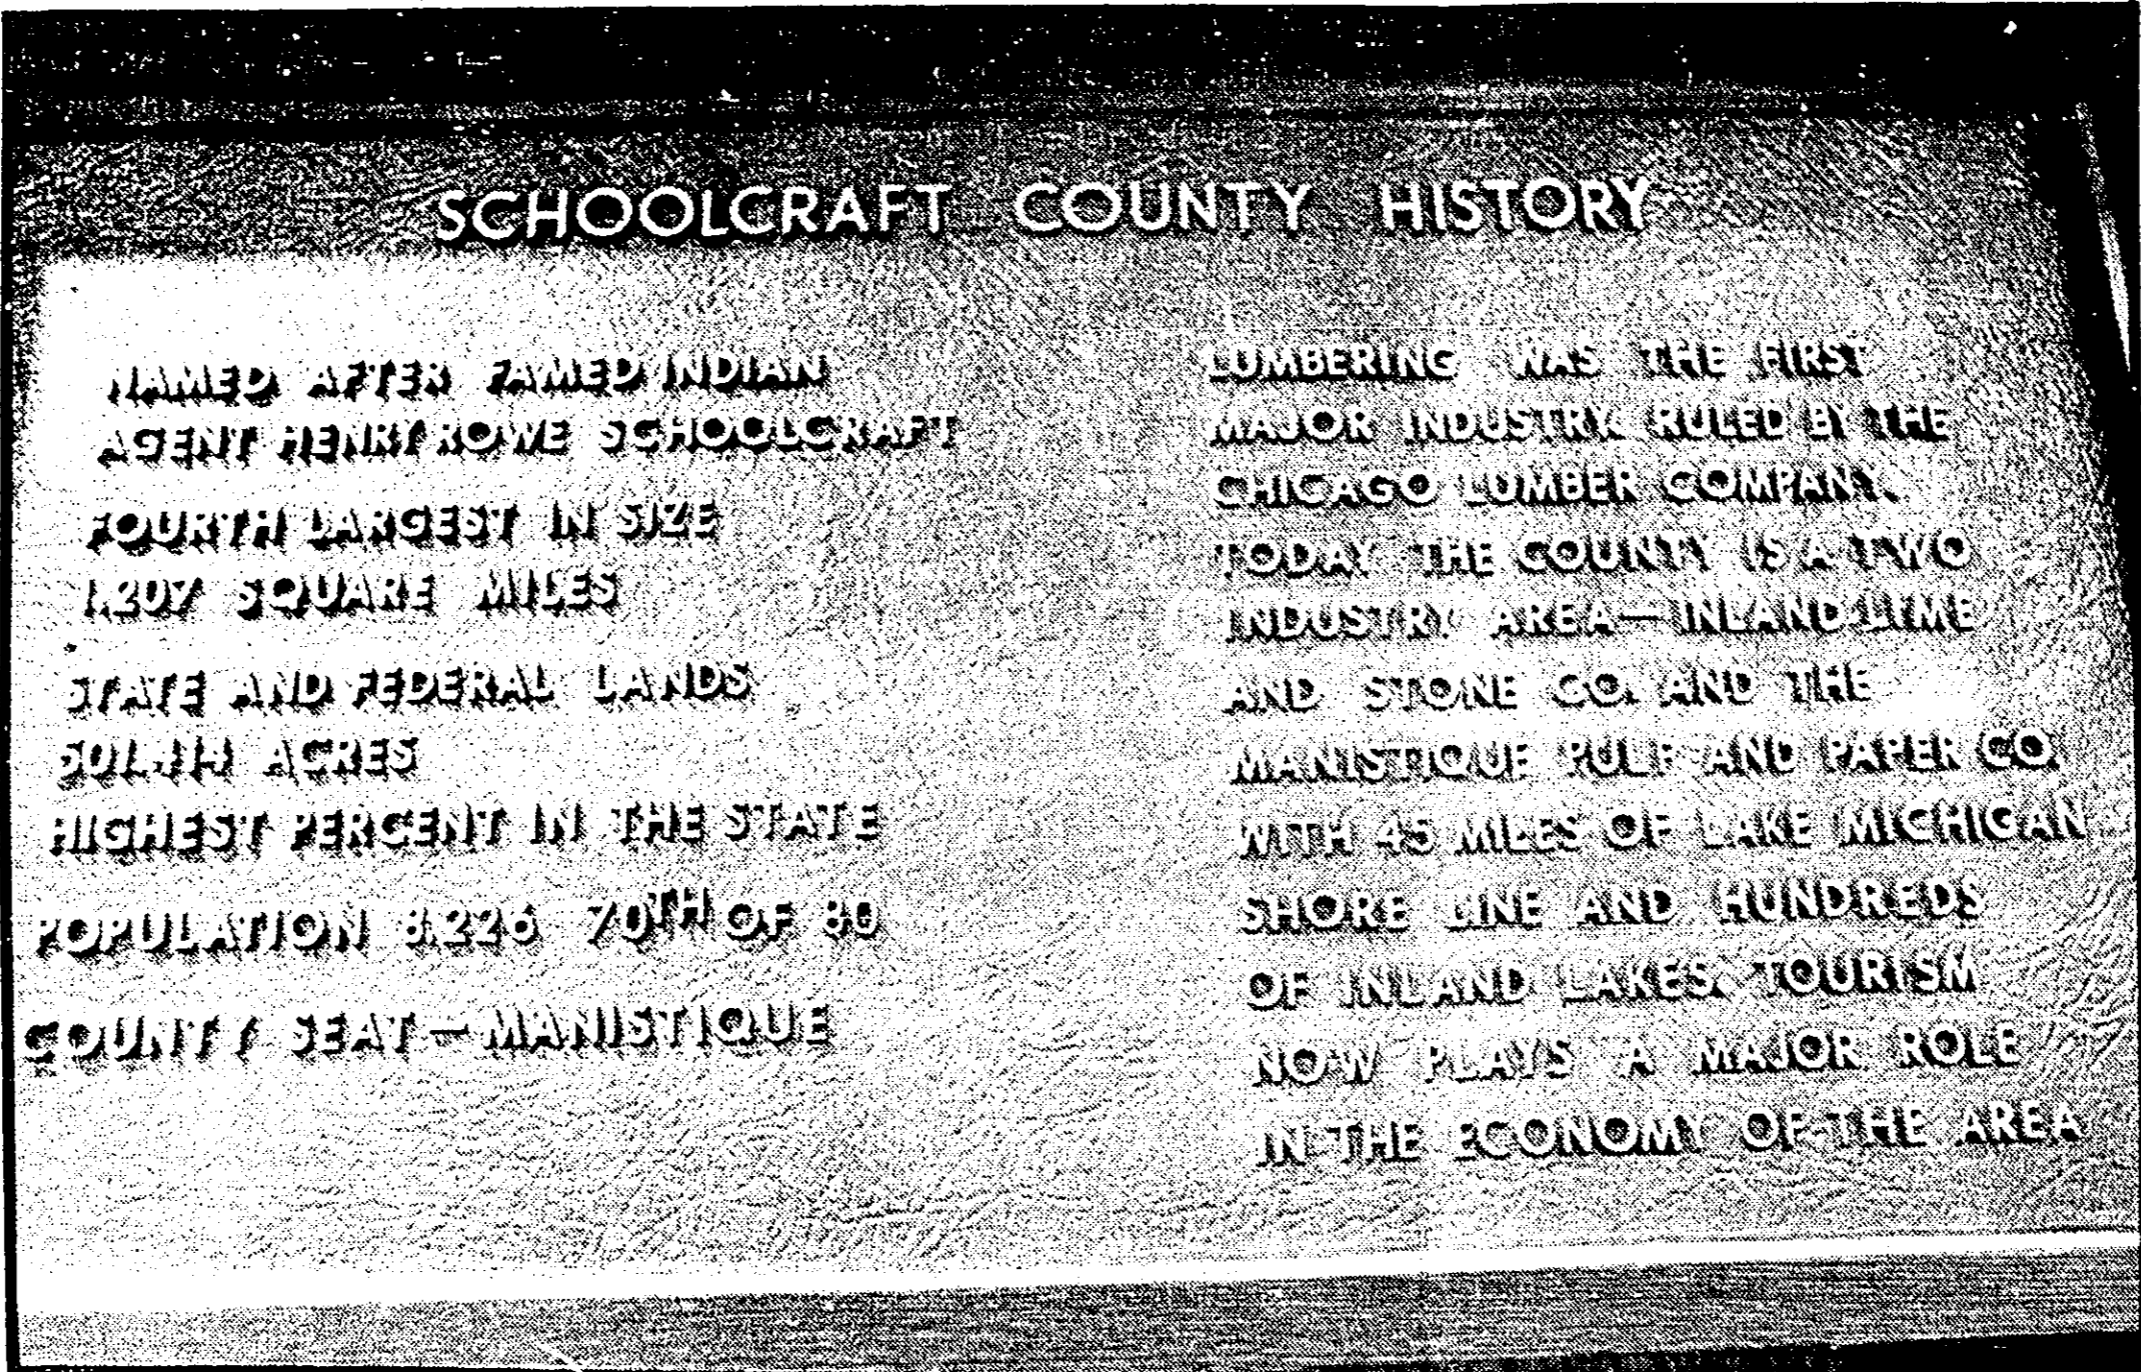

As to his famous invention itself, Sir John was something of an amateur plumber. He built on his estate at Kelston, near Bath, a swimming pool and an elaborate fountain.

Once he had the plans worked out in his head, he had one water closet built for Kelston and another for the Royal Palace at Richmond. The queen declined to use it. Often, however, she would slush it for the entertainment of visitors, with appropriate regal observations.

A little known bit of information from the pages of history. While we may not know the origin of the term "John," by whatever names it has gone by, the invention of indoor plumbing facilities has made us deeply indebted to Sir John Harrington.

"Pst! Our customer's an M.D. . . . Who'd ever think a doctor would be asking ME how to stop smokin'!"

WHAT'S WRONG with this picture? Schoolcraft County officials found out after a $15,000 sculpture composition of historical scenes was installed in the lobby of the courthouse last week. This plaque, part of the display, announces Schoolcraft County as 70th in population of 80 counties in the state. Actually, there are 83 counties in Michigan. The piece was sent off to a foundry in Chassell to correct the mistake at no additional charge to the county. The rest of the metalwork, sculpted by Jack Anderson, remains on display.

As the Great Lakes recede. . .

Is the sky falling or is the earth rising? Actually, neither is the case.

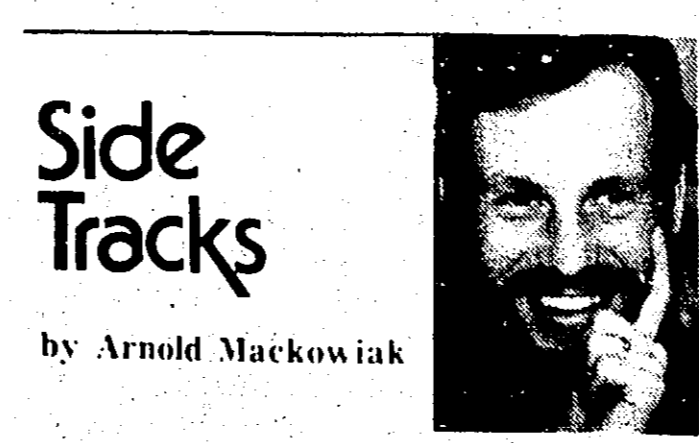

If scientists are to be believed, the earth is sinking and the Great Lakes are shrinking.

That's a conclusion from separate studies aired in the national news this week.

The Great Lakes in the next 20 years are expected to have lower water levels as a result of warmer temperatures in the earth's climate. According to a Michigan scientist quoted in the Detroit Free Press, huge beaches and formerly submerged junk will emerge as water declines.

At the same time, and at a much slower rate, the Michigan basin is sinking into the ground. The basin covers all the Lower Peninsula and the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula. Presumably Manistique, too.

However, based on what geologists are quoted as saying in an Associated Press story, there's little hope that the lifeguard tower will catch up with the shoreline. The scientists estimate a drop of only one meter in 10,000 years in the Saginaw area.

There doesn't appear to be a whole lot that Michigan residents can do about the predicament of receding water. We've already noted lower levels in Lake Michigan in the Manistique area, but the prospect of more exposed sand and limestone may require some adjustments.

Planners of a four-lane divided highway version of US-2 may be frustrated in their attempts to construct a scenic shoreline route. Water may become so distant as to appear as a mirage. Exposing the sandier areas could make them vulnerable to the roar of trail bikes and dune buggies.

On the other hand, a severe water drop could be a boon to real estate, as lake frontage virtually doubles along the big lakes.

And with the climate change, warmer weather will be experienced in the U.P. and the land will be opened to more agricultural development. The botanist and atmospheric physicist quoted in the Free Press visualizes the corn belt moving north and Great Lakes become a wheat-growing area. And that presents more potential.

However, for lovers of the U.P.'s mild summers, a projected warmer climate may call up hope that Hudson Bay would become part of the U.S. so we could all find a comfortable place to live.

If you'd like to delve into the problems of the Great Lakes' future, you might be interested in attending a public meeting on a proposed Great Lakes Coastal Program. It will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Peninsula Room of the Ramada Inn in Marquette.

If everyone was honest. . .

Are present welfare rules fair? ADC pay tight-lips mothers

Wouldn't it be nice if everyone were honest? If they were most of our programs to aid people in real need would be functioning smoothly and accomplishing their true objectives. Abuses and misuse of funds plus bad rules in aid program after aid program continue to be brought to light but getting these abuses and bad rules corrected seems to be a real problem that never totally gets corrected. Dishonest people continue to reap benefits they don't rightfully deserve.

The following is a report of a welfare case that actually occurred in Lapeer County and was documented in the Lapeer County Press not too long ago. We pass along the facts as they reported them and ask you to be the judge as to whether you feel the rules are fair or not. The account goes as follows:

A woman married in 1963. There was a divorce after her husband learned she was pregnant at the time of the marriage. He was liable for the support of the child and since that time has paid $7.50 per week support.

The woman has since had four more children. During the 14 years since the divorce she has worked a total of six months. She has been supported by the ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) program. The amount of the support is based upon the number of children.

She gets $525 cash from ADC each month. She also gets food stamps. She is buying a house and ADC makes the house payments as well as paying the taxes and insurance. It all adds up to something over $700 a month.

This would not have become public knowledge but for the fact that the law requires ADC to make an effort to see that fathers support their children. So ADC brought the ex-husband into court in a successful effort to raise his support payments from $7.50 to $10.

At the court hearing, the welfare official was asked what had been done to get money from the fathers of the other four children. He said the mother had been sent to the prosecutor; as the regulations require.

The mother went to the prosecutor, but she refused to sign a complaint. The law doesn't require her to sign, only to report. But without a formal complaint, the prosecutor couldn't act.

In refusing to sign, the mother showed common sense. If the fathers were required to pay, it would only reduce the amount that ADC paid.

The government would gain but she wouldn't. And why replace regular government checks with uncertain contributions from fathers?

This ends the story, unless there are more children, in which case ADC payments will be increased. If she marries, she won't lose the ADC checks because the new husband won't be responsible for children born before their marriage.

Is this an abuse of a program that was designed to help those who really need help? Are the present rules fair? You be the judge.

Starving artists planning show and sale for Sept. 3

The first Fall Starving Artists Show & Sale is being planned for Saturday, Sept. 3 at Old Deerfield Resort on Gulliver Lake. The outdoor event is open to the public and free of admission charge. The show will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Schoolcraft County Artistic, a non-profit organization promoting U.P. talent, is opening exhibitor space to the general public.

"This show will be a great opportunity for local artists and craftsmen to retail products at a 'clearance price' to make room at home," said Carol Stoll, a show coordinator from Manistique.

All items at the show and sale must be priced at $20 or less. Area gift shops and suppliers are welcome to set up displays.

The show and sale is being patterned after an annual show in Miamisburg, Ohio, which has grown from 25 exhibitors the first year to 355 in 1976.

Exhibitors for clubs, churches and special groups are being coordinated by Elizabeth Cook of Indian Lake.

Inquiries may be made by writing Starving Artists, Route 1, Box 1 Gulliver, Mich. 49840 or by calling 283-2535.

"You can have her, I don't want her, she's too fat for me."

Polka enthusiasts might recognize the words to the famous polka, "She's Too Fat For Me," but would they expect to hear it in a Catholic Church?

Probably not. But, if you attend the planned polka mass sponsored by the St. John's and St. Peter the Fisherman Churches in Garden and Fayette this weekend, you might just get the chance.

Father James Pepin, pastor of the two churches, originated the idea for this locality after attending several such masses in Wisconsin. It's a form of celebration new to members of his parish with residents from around the upper peninsula expected to attend the unique event.

There won't be any dancing in the streets and the words are changed to reflect the spirit of the occasion, but it's still honest-to-goodness polka music. In addition, hymns will be sung to waltzes and to schottches, a slower cousin to the fast reeling polka.

"Naturally there were a few eyebrows raised," said Father Pepin, describing the parish reaction to the idea of a polka mass.

"Our parish at Garden and Fayette is an older parish," explained Father Pepin, "So, I thought it would be difficult to hold such a mass."

"But I asked them, 'Have you ever heard one?' They said no. 'Have you ever seen one?' they said no again, so I said don't knock it. I asked them to give me a chance to present it," Father Pepin said.

And members of the parish have. And with that chance, Father Pepin has scheduled the first local polka mass to be held Aug. 28, at 11 p.m. in the parking lot of the St. John's Church in Garden.

Renowned Polka Band leader, Jerry Voelker and his Jolly Gents and St. Norbert's Choir will be providing the music and lead for the mass.

Immediately following the mass, the churches will be serving hot brats with sauerkraut and sloppy joes at the parish hall until 5 p.m.

From 1 p.m. until 5 p.m., Voelker and his band will be providing music for a street dance.

As far as Father Pepin knows, this will be the first polka mass in the Upper Peninsula featuring an outside band. He cited polka masses in other areas, mostly in the Copper Country, but all were local bands and open just to the parish.

"I want all the people to join us," said Father Pepin, extending an invitation to the general public. He also expects many people from all parts of the U.P. to be in attendance.

While polka masses are first known to the Catholic Church—the first known such Mass was held in Minnesota in 1975—Father Pepin believes it brings with it a lighter, more enjoyable music.

Father Pepin attended his first polka mass in 1975 when he took a group of Escanaba Senior Citizens to the International Polka Festival in Milwaukee and was asked as concelebrant with Father Walter Szczypula, Chaplain of the International Polka Association.

The next year, he was celebrant of the first polka mass held at the Majestic Ballroom in Cottage Grove, Minn.

"Such a wonderful spirit developed between the young and old that I said, 'Gee, I've got to have one here in Garden,'" Father Pepin said.

"It was joyful, but yet at the same time it had great reverence. It had to be done this way or older members of the church wouldn't have accepted it," Father Pepin explained.

Father Pepin is optimistic about the polka mass. "My feeling is that there will be far more people than expected," he said "And more people will ask for it again. It could become an annual event."

If it doesn't become well received, and people don't ask for it again, then Father Pepin says he'll concede that a polka mass is not right for this area.

"I'll be the first to admit if it's a failure but I have no doubt that it won't be a failure. It's done so beautifully. When they see it and hear it, they won't believe it," Father Pepin says.

Can an accordion, the main musical instrument in a polka band, replace the traditional organ in a Catholic service?

"I believe that many people in the Catholic church have been raised to picture the church with an organ. But very few of the people, not having a choice to look at them, know that there were many other instruments before the organ."

"I wonder if the Lord really cares if you use an accordion or an organ," he mused. "You can give worship that's just as reverent as the organ or an accordion, but no, I don't think it will ever replace the organ."

Misty View

When you look through the window on a rainy day everything beyond the pane seems blurred in wavy vision. Even the familiar objects, like the sidewalk and the mailbox seem distorted. Sometimes the same thing can happen with another kind of view — when we look at ourselves, trying to find meaning and perspective in our own lives. For there are moments when we are at odds with the world and the ones we love, when we don't know where to turn next.

Well — how about turning to the Church? Just go to church, even if you haven't gone for a long time, even if you've never gone, for that matter. Sit back and relax, and let yourself and your problems swing back into focus, there within God's House.

Funny thing about it . . . it works.

Petition seeks help on Indian River dams

Members of the Indian Lake Property Owners Association are circulating a petition that will in effect, force the Schoicraft Board of Commissioners to take action in replacing the Indian River Heights dam.

According to the association, the dam is near collapse and can no longer adequately control the level of Indian Lake and Indian River.

Elmer Garvin, secretary of the association, told some 60 property owners gathered at the annual meeting of the Association last Thursday at the Sportsman Club on the Indian River, that the county commissioners could go ahead on repairs or replacement but, have so far chosen not to.

A petition with signatures of two-thirds of the property owners would require, by law, that the commissioners take steps towards alleviating the dam problems.

"There is no alternative for this group," Garvin told the property owners. "The board of commissioners is forcing us to do this. It's a tremendous job (gathering signatures) but we're going ahead with it. Those buzzards (commissioners) aren't doing anything."

In a meeting in June, Leon Cook, chief of the water management division of the Department of Natural Resources, told the association board of directors that the dam would not last indefinitely.

He said that the petition would force the county board of commissioners to establish a special assessment district if required and to take such necessary action to alleviate the deteriorating condition of the dam.

"The thing I'm concerned about," Garvin said, "is if the heights dam goes, it's doubtful that the Intake Park dam will hold."

The Intake Park dam is located a few miles downstream from the heights dam near the site of the new water treatment plant. There is an eight foot drop in water level from just above the heights dam to just below the intake park dam.

Association members are expressing concern that should the dams go, Indian Lake and the Indian River would become a swamp, devaluing property adjoining the water.

"If we don't get off our rear and get the wheels rolling it won't do any good to put your property up for sale because nobody will buy it," Garvin warned the group.

Merwin White, association director, added: "It's not just going to create a dry river bed. If this thing goes there may be an eight foot wall of water go down through there all the way to the flume and anybody who is not high enough will get swamped." The petition says, in part:

Hospital plans to collect on 90-day overdue accounts

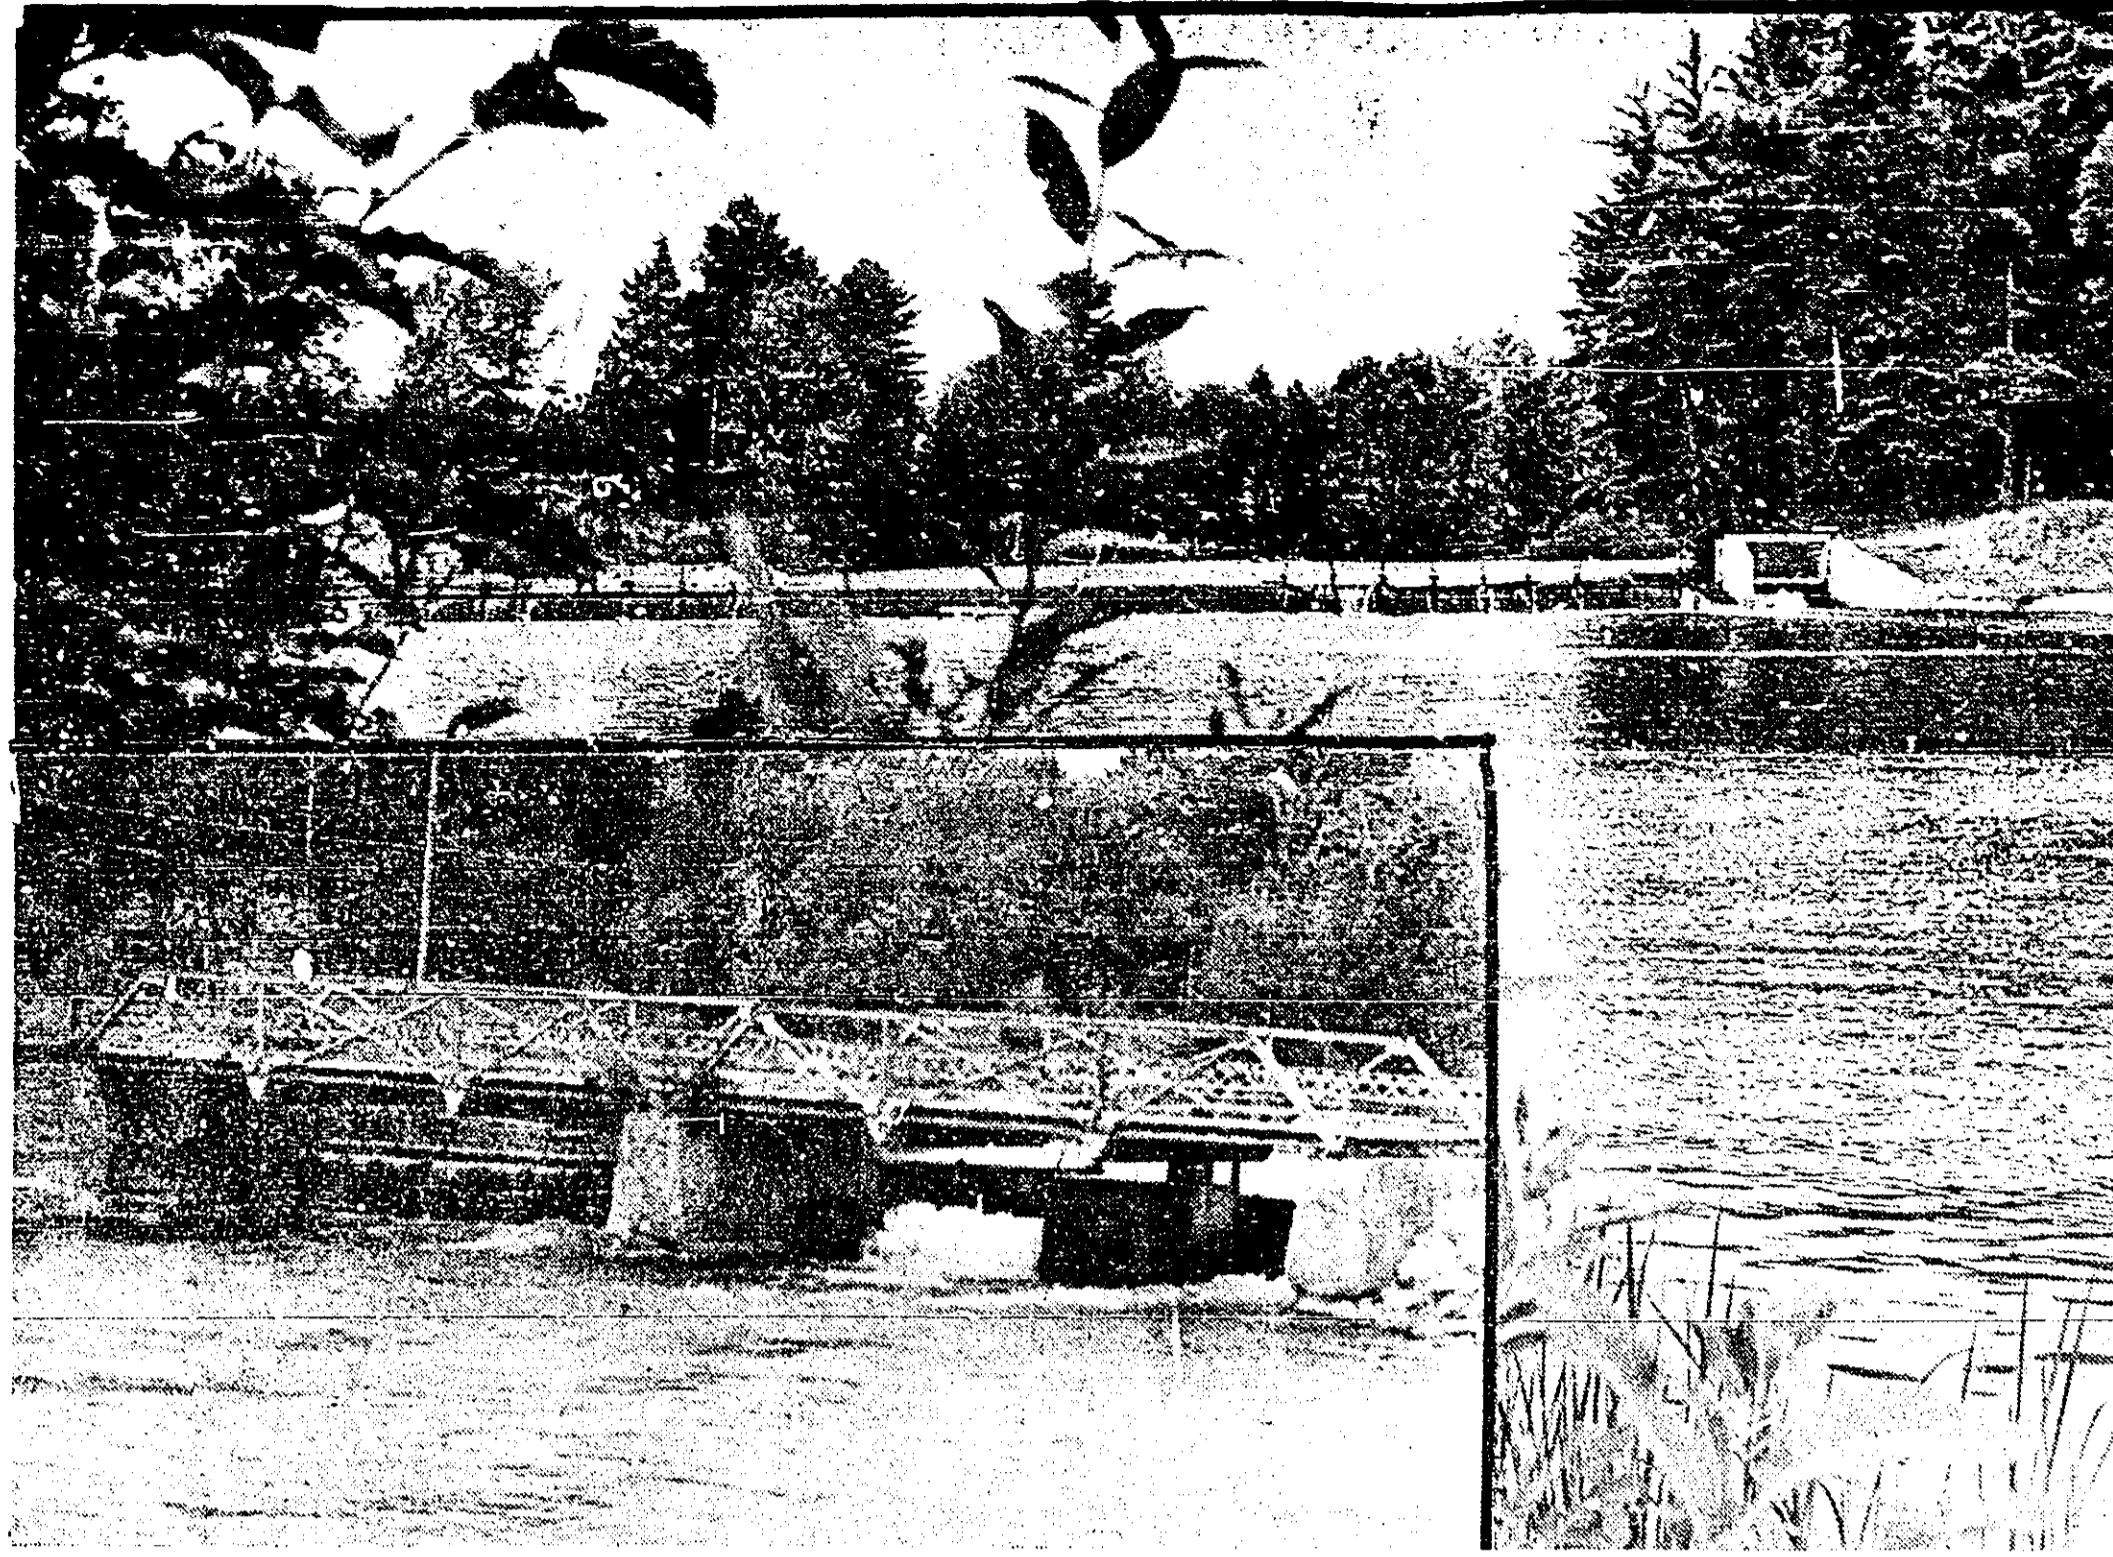

Persons with 90-day overdue accounts with Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital will be notified that they face action from either a collection agency or small claims court if the bills are not paid.

The new procedure in collecting delinquent accounts is part of a new hospital policy being implemented this week.

The new policy was outlined by Hospital Administrator Jim Gardner to hospital trustees on Wednesday night of last week.

At that time, it was noted that the hospital could collect 100 percent of the back bills with a favorable judgement in small claims court while only 50 percent could be collected through a collection agency.

A report from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals should be in to hospital officials within three to four

WILL THE DAMS hold? That's the question on many property owners mind who own land adjoining Indian Lake and Indian River. According to officials of the property owners association, should the Heights dam (inset) go then chances the Intake Park Dam would hold are slim.

"The reasonable variations of inflow...combined with lack of a suitable dam to adequately control outflow causes the water level of Indian Lake to vary...which is harmful to our interests. "That the maintenance of a stable normal water level...is necessary...to protect the public health, welfare and safety...and to protect the value of properties developed around the lake.

"We hereby petition...to construct, operate, and maintain a dam sufficient to maintain the normal water level and a winter drawdown level...and to establish a special assessment district of benefited property owners and political subdivisions...to finance the cost of the construction, operation and maintenance of a suitable dam."

"The DNR says its (the dam's) responsibility is with the board of commissioners but they won't do anything," explained

Garvin. "Until 1969 they could get away with this sloughing off, but now a petition binds them," he added, referring to a public act which requires board action of any petition containing over two-thirds signatures from the petitioning unit.

Garvin added that the dam could go anytime and that currently a "piping" action is taking place. Piping is the occurrence if water flows underneath the structure.

"It is one a stone foundation but in time that water will wear away the structure," said Garvin.

The association has dumped masonry material at the dam to try and plug the leaks, but, said Garvin, "that is strictly a temporary measure."

The dam currently is owned by the association. It was deeded over to the organization by the Escanaba Paper Company in 1954.

Some 12 inlets fed the lake with water, including Big Springs. Twenty-three percent of the land abutting the lake is owned by the state.

The lake level is currently set at 613.27 feet above sea level, according to a circuit court order. The new petition would seek a higher level of 613.3 and a winter drawdown of 612.8.

Garvin said the winter drawdown is necessary to prevent flooding in the springtime in low ground level areas.

According to Garvin, federal grants, plus state money could be used by the county in constructing the new dam, eliminating the necessity for a special assessment to finance the project.

"It's not what it's going to cost us in property devaluation but what I've got to shell out to maintain property value," explained Garvin, adding that the tourist trade would suffer drastically should a low lake level make it unusable.

Indian Lake is about 20 feet deep in its deepest spot.

Until the signatures are obtained, and commission action is taken, many property owners are holding their breaths with hopes that the dam will hold, according to Garvin. If it doesn't, Indian Lake could become a quagmire.

Thompson

By Charlene Turek 341-6188

The Thompson Civic Club will sponsor a Homecoming picnic at the Thompson Township Hall on Sunday, Sept. 4 beginning at 1 p.m.

There will be entertainment by the Senior Citizens Swingers and a showing of movies of the early days of Thompson. Please bring a dish to pass and your own table service. Donations will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. Everyone is invited for a good old-fashioned get together and an afternoon of good fellowship.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Passino and sons Paul, Eric, Matthew and Marc of Novi have been vacationing at Indian Lake and visiting their aunt Mrs. Hazel Devine of Thompson.

Dolly and Andy Faketty of Muskegon have been vacationing at their cabin on the Little Harbor road. They are visiting Dolly's sister Millie Herro and family Kitibel Winandy, Eris Webb and many other relatives and friends. Peter Hoholik is spending a two-week vacation with his brother Donny in Smokey, Calif.

David Favereau and friend Eric Horneby of Frankfort spent the weekend with Pete and Gert Hoholik. David is the son of Doris Favereau, Gert's sister. Don will enter Highland college this fall in Las Vega, N.M. He has done well in sports while in high school and will play baseball in college.

Amy Turek celebrated her eighth birthday with a party. Those attending were Janie and Julie Curran, Tayna Herro, Tammy Nedeau, Diane Ruth, Lorie and Mike Cousineau, Jody Gossett and Donna Jasmin.

Visiting at our house recently were Vernon and June Bottesi and family of Warren also David and Sharon Johnson and son Brian of Davisburg.
