The Three-day Labor Day weekend will mean a loss of one day's production for the Sept. 8 issue of the Pioneer-Tribune.
The newspaper office on 212 Walnut St. will be closed and employees will share in celebrating Labor Day.
In order to avoid a last-minute rush on Tuesday, readers and advertisers are asked to have ads ready by Friday, Sept. 2. The help will be appreciated.

Along the Sidelines

By Dave Rood

Snipe hunt scares souls

Breathes there a man with soul so dead who, at one time or another in his life, has not participated in a snipe hunt? We were reminded of this fun and foolishness the other day out at the Indian Lake villa when Fat Freddie from the Cop Shop, a summer neighbor, reported taking two youthful visitors on a snipe hunt the previous night.

It evidently was a most successful hunt, caring the bejabbers out of the two lads and reducing Fat Freddie to tears of laughter as he described it.
To those of you unenlightened who may not be sure of exactly what is involved here, a snipe hunt is a nocturnal expedition, usually into the deep, dark woods, wherein naive and unsuspecting souls are convinced that snipe can be captured by those who are brave enough and quick enough to master the art.

Usually, the aspiring hunter is given a paper bag and stationed in a remote spot by himself, with instructions to slip the paper bag over the head of the fleeing snipe that will be flushed out by the more experienced members of the expedition.
It is also part of the custom to fill their heads full of stories about wild bear, lost hunters, midnight snakes and vampires, so that by the time they are left alone at their outpost, in pitch black darkness, they are as nervous as an unwilling groom. Imagination is the most important ingredient in any successful snipe hunt.

The Heir to the Rood Millions recently recalled his first snipe hunt, up at Camp Red Buck, the former Boy Scout encampment off Federal Forest Highway 13, back in the days when he was an impressionable youth.

Even the most cynical participants became victims of their imaginations during the hunt, he recalls, and soon the night was filled with sounds of eager young snipe hunters floundering about in the woods, shouting "I saw one," or "He went that way!" or "Look at the size of that one!"
Enthusiasm, just like imagination, can be contagious.

There is also the recollection of similar mass hypnosis around the campfire, when the youngsters are informed that they are about to be initiated into the mysteries of an ancient Indian rite and that to gain True Knowledge they must slowly repeat the mystic chant, "Owah Tagoo Siam." Only when the true meaning of this venerable phrase dawned upon them would they be considered as warriors of the circle of fire.

Naturally enough they sat in solemn conclave, repeating the chant over and over and over, and it would take quite awhile for the realization to dawn that what they were pronouncing, in loud and solemn tones, was in reality, "Oh what a goose I am."

But back to the snipe hunt.
Fat Freddie evidently has a diabolical streak in him, for he carried the hunt through to the next day.

The two lads were standing at their posts in the darkness along the dirt road not far from the lake when Fred took a good-sized stone and heaved it into the underbrush nearby.

"Bear!" he shouted, and the two young hunters went by him in a blur, streaking for the safety of the cabins and abandoning their paper bags.

With the advent of dawn the scene of the crime had to be re-visited, and sure enough, there in the dirt of the road and on the bags was the print of what Fat Freddie contended was a mammoth bear. Perhaps a more impartial observer would have remarked that the bear print in question looked suspiciously like Fat Freddie's hand, but he called upon the Sideliner to offer expert testimony to the contrary, and who can resist a temptation such as that?

"That's bear, sure enough," said the Sideliner, who was described to the lads as a resident expert veteran woodsman who lives up here all the time.

"Probably a mother and her cub," he went on, embroidering still more upon the truth. "Lucky you got out when you did. I recall now that the dog started barking last night about that time. Must have smelled them."

"Well, they were convinced, but once you've started it's tough to stop.
Thought for a minute there it might have been Old Brutus. He was a mean one, he was, but we haven't seen him now for two years or so."

As Fat Freddie said later, just wait until those boys get back to Palatine, Ill. and tell about all this. Their friends won't believe them.

Ha. Just bring their friends along next time and we'll take them all on a snipe hunt. Who knows? Old Brutus might just put in a personal appearance.

THE 1977 MISS SCHOOLCRAFT COUNTY, Polly Jackson, during competition held at the Ramada Inn on Friday, Aug. 26. Polly was chosen by the judges to represent the county for the ensuing year. First runner-up in the contest was Theresa White, with second runner-up going to Debbie Peterson.

'Lumberjack' delay

The unexpected hospitalization of two key employees at the Boehm Bindery in Milwaukee has delayed shipment of Lumberjack by one week.
Lumberjack, the memoirs of the logging era in Schoolcraft County by the late William Crowe, was to have been delivered to the Pioneer-Tribune late last week. Distribution of the long awaited book was to have begun early this week.

The delay at the bindery will delay distribution until after the Labor Day weekend.

According to the manager of the Boehm Bindery, the book will be shipped no later than Thursday (today) and is expected to reach Manistique by Tuesday of next week. Distribution of Lumberjack will begin as soon as the book arrives, however, persons who have placed advanced orders should wait until after the publication of the September 8 edition of the Pioneer-Tribune next Wednesday before contacting the office.

Ground breaking held for new fair building

Three days after the closing of the first fair in 44 years, county fair officials were involved in a groundbreaking ceremony as they strived to fulfill a contract which required construction on the new county fair building to begin by Sept. 1.
Dan Pitcher, fair coordinator, told the Pioneer-Tribune Tuesday that they had just received word that the State Department of Agriculture, fair division, had approved a grant for constructing the building.

The groundbreaking ceremony had been held off until word was received from the fair division, Pitcher said.

The ceremony took place at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday (yesterday) at Central field, just south east of the site where the 1977 fair was held.

In tents rented from an Ann Arbor tent company, some 1,000 exhibits and concessions went on display this year.

Fair officials became worried about the outcome of the fair, however, as rains came Friday night, revealing several leaks in the tents.

After hastily moving exhibits to first the central portion of the tent and finally, to the Manistique Youth center, the fair workers were able to prevent damage to many exhibits.

A large crowd turned out Saturday evening to see the coronation of the 1977 Miss Schoolcraft County Queen, Polly Jackson. Polly was chosen Friday night during the contest at the Ramada Inn. Judges were Ernest Tweddle, Susan (Bunny) Olson, Joyce Lesica, Phyllis Hepker, and Ron Johnson.

1976 Queen, Rose Ann Reid, performed the traditional passing of the crown ceremonies.

A few complaints came in Saturday, said Pitcher, because a portion of central field located near the tents had to be closed off to parking because of mud conditions.

"With the building we'll be in one location. Here, there was a huge mud area between tents. It wasn't the ideal layout," commented Pitcher.

Construction of that one location building, is expected to begin within a few weeks, now that groundbreaking is done.

According to Pitcher, two people will be hired to work during the winter months on many pre-made parts that the building will require. In spring, an additional six persons will be added.

"We'll get done well ahead of next year's fair," Pitcher said. The fair is tentatively being scheduled for one week before the state fair.

"This will make it a natural progression for entrants," said Pitcher. They can enter their stuff in our fair and the next week take it over the state fair. This way it's only one week of this kind of thing."

A lot was learned from this year's fair, according to Pitcher. Including what type of response the people would have to a fair.

"What this year's fair did was pretty much show what we were up against and how much involvement there is," said Pitcher, who added that each township in the county was represented by exhibits.

It's a good county. People want to see it bigger next year," said Pitcher, of the fair.

If exhibits were in good demand—and they were with 450 persons showing some 1,000 exhibits—the commercial displays were lacking.

We had all the tents filled on paper. But Friday and Saturday no one showed up," Pitcher said. He added that because of that, the fair association actually rented one more tent than needed.

Next year, a process where the fair charges a fee for commercial exhibits and then refunds that money when they set up their display, is being considered.

About 100 exhibit items are left, said Pitcher. Persons wishing to retain their items can pick them up at the county extension office in the courthouse.

Premiums will be mailed out to individual winners, also, as soon as matching money is made available to officials by the state. It is expected that the money should become available this week.

WMPCO schedules work

Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company employees will be working on lines east of Manistique today (Thursday) and officials say that power will be shut off to some 570 customers for about three hours this afternoon.

Wally Godlewski of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power Company, indicated Tuesday, that the outage was originally scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 31, but was moved to the Sept. 1 date due to weather-predictions calling for rain.

The power will be out from 1 to 4 p.m. today (Thursday) as employees cut the lines to relocate a power pole.

According to Godlewski, the current pole is located on private property across from the county airport and will be moved to the road-right-of-way, approximately 16 feet.

Godlewski said that customers located between the Valley Motel east to, and including Gulliver residents will be affected. Customers on the River Road will also have their power temporarily interrupted.

The work is a major relocation project, said Godlewski, however, he added, that the new pole was installed on Tuesday, so workmen will only cut the lines and re-splice them to hang on the new pole.

Monster machine?

IT'S A MONSTER, but it's going to do a good job of cleaning up city streets. City crews were working with a new $21,000 street sweeper, recently purchased from Bark River Equipment, last Wednesday.

The crews were out with the new machine last Friday. Mike Faketty, city DPW supervisor, said that the machine will be on the streets eight hours a day "until the snow flies." The city streets have not been swept all summer.

Was it long or short vacation?

Was it a short or a long summer? Depends on who you ask.

For instance, parents might say that it's been a long summer, even with a reprieve from busy children coming up next week.

However, youngsters faced with school opening on Sept. 6, might find it has been a short summer.

Still, the long and short of it is that it's that time again. Finely polished floors will soon be scuffed, silent classrooms and bells will be ringing and teachers and students will once again be sizing each other up.

The school system, incidentally, is still in the midst of negotiations.

Right now we have a mediation tentavily scheduled for Sept. 14," Superintendent Richard Bonifas indicated Tuesday. He added that main differences between the two factions seem to be economics and fringes.

Bonifas indicated that bus runs, in general will follow their same schedule as last year. Parents are urged to check a news letter sent by the administration, for any modifications, the superintendent said.

Jr. and Sr. High students are urged to pick up their schedules on Thursday (today) Sept. 1 and Friday, Sept. 2 between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. He added, however, that high school students who have incurred fines must pay their fine before a schedule is issued.

New students, seventh grade and ninth grade students, will have to pay a $3 book fee.

To help prepare teachers, a series of special meetings has been set up.

An in-service meeting for Title 1 aids will be held Friday, Sept. 2 at 1:30 p.m. in the community room of the high school.

Elementary principals met with the superintendent at 9 a.m. in the administration building Thursday (today), also.

New teachers also met at 1 p.m., with the superintendent.

All building principals will be in their respective schools on Friday, Sept. 2, Bonifas said.

Parents who have questions or possible adjustments in transportation and schedules may contact them at their respective schools.

Hot lunch programs will also begin with the first day of classes, Tuesday, Sept. 6.

New rates are in effect and parents who may have difficulty paying the full price for their children's meals may pick up an application for reduced price or free meals at the high school office or at the elementary schools on the first day of school.

Funds to provide these services are received from the State and Federal governments.

Expensive key

OFFICIAL NOTIFICATIONS of a $90,000 grant from the State of Michigan came in the mail this week and on that notification, the City of Manistique officially turned over the building to the Senior Citizens Center. Eileen Males, director, hands City Mayor Frank Hewitt, left, a one dollar bill as he in turn passes on the key to the building. Others on hand to witness the ceremonies were, left to right, City Manager Robert Risik, member Al Dean, Thor Regue, Vice-president; Denton Nelson, president; and Inez Dean, secretary treasurer of the Manistique Senior Citizen Center, a non-profit organization. Unable to attend was Minola Desautel, past vice-president, a post she held for ten years.

GenTel will hold public meeting

General Telephone will hold a public open house at their local telephone switching office located at 116 South Maple St. in Manistique for Manistique-Gulliver and Cooks-Garden exchange customers, according to Lois Reagan, the company's Northern Division Manager.

The Manistique office will be open to the public on Thursday, September 15 from 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Tours of the office, displays of various new and old telephones, types of telephone and every one of our customers in order to get to know them better."

Elk's fined

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has fined the Benevolent Protective Order of Elk's, Lodge 632, of Manistique with $100 for having gambling devices on the premises.

The charges were made on February 11 after a representative of the commission discovered the one-arm bandit on the premises.

The machine was to be presented as an award and was reported in non-working condition.

In addition, the commission charged the club with the same offense on February 18, one week later. A $100 fine on that charge was waived by the commission.

What's Going On

Firsts are a special part of the local news. The Tribune is proud to report another first - a traveling family reunion.

The Gorge Frankovich family reunion began on Aug. 19 at the home of Mrs. James Kodak, Hoffman's Estate, Ill. proceeded to the home of Mrs. Gene Repp in Hanover Park, Ill. and concluded on Aug. 21 at the home of Leonard J. Cournaya in Hanover Park. Cournaya is the grandson of George Frankovich.

Among the fifty-one family members attending the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. Gunar Heilstein and son, Joe of Saudi Arabia; Mrs. Marvin Gray and sons, Frank and Tom of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franko and sons, Robert, Joe and Dan of Summersville, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cournaya and Roxanne and Paul of Merrill, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Cournaya, Cudahy, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cournaya of Merrill, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. James Kodak and David and Susan of Hoffman Estate; Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Franko and Mike, Martin and Michele of Lansing; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evanoff and Karol, Kaye and Karla of Ontonagon; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Repp and Ellen, Gene, Russie and Terri of Hanover Park; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Cournaya and Josh of Hanover Park; Mr. and Mrs. James Young of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hack of Waket, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ewen and Keith of Streamwood and Mr. and Mrs. George Frankovich of Manistique. Only one son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. George Frankovich of Gladstone were unable to attend.

The true ecumenical spirit was demonstrated by Jack and Lois Phillips in the celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. Approximately one hundred and fifty friends and relatives were present to help them celebrate by gathering for an 8 a.m. Eucharistic Celebration at St. Francis de Sales Church on Tuesday, Aug. 23.

Celebrants of the Mass were Father Norbert Freiberger, R.T. Rev. Msgr. F.M. Scheringer and Father Frank Lenz, with Rev. Michael Peterlin serving as lector. Offertory gifts were presented by the Phillips' children Jon Paul, Janine and Jeffrey; and altar servers were Jamie Phillips and Doug Mickelson.

Mrs. J.P. Phillips and Mrs. Don Tyrrell took charge of the altar banners and the guest book; and Bill Vogl was present to snap candid pictures during the festivities. Francis DeCelle, J.P. and Jeffrey Phillips served as ushers and Judy Osterhout provided organ accompaniment for the service.

Following the Mass celebration, the Women's Society of the First United Methodist Church served breakfast at the church hall to one hundred and twenty persons. Mrs. Eugene Johnson led in the meal prayer sung by the group, with Miss Osterhout at the piano.

Besides many friends from Manistique, others who joined the Phillips on this happy occasion came from Garden, Escanaba, Menominee, Marquette, Gulliver, Germfask, Newberry, St. Ignace, Northport, Detroit and Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were united in marriage at St. Francis de Sales Church by Msgr. Scheringer on August 23, 1952. They are the parents of four children: Jon Paul; Mrs. Don (Janine) Tyrrell; Jeffrey, a 1977 M.H.S. graduate and Jamie, a sixth grade student at St. Francis school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Monroe of Miami are the proud parents of a son, Ryan James born on Aug. 24. Their first child weighed 10 lbs. 10 oz. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Monroe, former Manistique residents. Great-grandmother is Mrs. William Sheahan.

Rotary International guest Maria Gonzalez was the guest of honor at a going away party given by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Jones. Guests included all of her host families. Tuesday, Maria left for New York from where she will fly to her home in Madrid. She hopes to arrive in time for her sister's Saturday wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Thompson recently returned from a trip downstate to attend Carol's 10th year high school class reunion. Daughter Jennifer just returned from an enjoyable three weeks with her grandparents in Ann Arbor.

Another travelling young person was Elizabeth Senger who spent a week at Eight Point Lake with her adopted grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curran and her cousin Julie Trebilcock. The Currans spent the weekend on Indian Lake with the Sengers.

From the mountains to the desert to the ocean the Wilbur LaBar family enjoyed a marvelous family vacation. With daughter Bonnie working in Green Bay and Steve entering Ferris, Betty and Wilbur felt that this might be the last opportunity for the entire family to vacation together so they packed up their camper and headed west. The travelled through South Dakota, Yellowstone National Park, the Tetons, along the west coast and returned through the southwest. Camping in the various National Parks was especially enjoyable as was visiting with various friends and relatives along the route.

Vacationing at Old Deerfield and visit-

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tisch, Sr. of Muskegon Heights and their four sons and their families; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tisch, Jr. of Romeo, Mr. and Mrs. David Tisch of Muskegon, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Tisch of Plainwell and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tisch of Glenview, Ill. Grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schmidt and daughter of Birmingham and Amy Frederick of Muskegon also joined them. The job will consist of flow metering within various mains throughout the City and may result in your water service being temporarily shut off, slight water discoloration, and lower pressure. These conditions are all part of the test and should not last more than one hour in any particular instance. The tests are being conducted between 10:00 p.m. and 6: a.m. in order to allow for a minimum of inconvenience. The local radio station will announce the locations of any proposed work scheduled for that day. Thank you for your cooperation.

MRS. RAY RICE of Gulliver brought these photographs to me this past week. The photo on the right is her husband Ray's father and mother, William and DeEtta Rice. The picture was taken on August 25, 1898. On the left is her husband's great-grandfather and grandmother, George and Elvira Rice. It is not known when this photo was taken.

Both photos were taken in Manistique. The one on the left, by the Howard New Gallery photo studio; the one on the right, by Lockwood studios. I'd never heard of either businesses being mentioned before, and neither had Mrs. Rice. I'm reprinting both photos in the hopes that somebody may recognize the names of the history and be able to enlighten us on their history. Incidentally, the great-grandparents left a legacy that include: great grandsons and granddaughters Leon, Bob and Bill Rice; Irene Smith; Lena Mae Gilroy; DeEtta Smith; Elvira Seabright; Herm Schurner; and Ray Rice.

We can't say thank you personally to all of you for donating to the flea market and bake sale because in the last week over several hundred persons brought in articles and so many brought in baked goods the day of the sale that weren't recorded: but if you helped in anyway it was appreciated.

Because of your support we raised $1,113.00. And for one day that was great and we Thank You!!!

We're glad we are going to get our center because in the near future our population is really going to have a large percentage of Older Americans. Quote - "Life Expectancy Shoots Up".

A girl born in the U.S. this year can expect to live to the age of 61 and a boy to 72, thanks to a reduction in the number of heart attacks in America, the Census Bureau reported Monday.

The figures represent a startling life expectancy increase of four years for girls and three years for boys over similar predictions made for children born just 20 months ago.

"They also predict an increase in the number of old people that could have a major impact on America's social and economic institutions.

"Using the new life expectancy figures, the Census Bureau assumes that the nation's population will be growing older on a wide scale in the 21st century.

"The median age of the population has increased from 27.9 in 1970 to 29 in 1976, the figures show. The report projects that by the turn of the century, the median age will range from 32.5 to 37.3. Half the people in the country are older than the median age, and half are younger.

"Barring a major catastrophe, a nation of older citizens could lead to a population peak at 253 million in 2020, the bureau said.

"The report said the over-65 population will grow from an estimated 22.9 million in 1976, which was 11 percent of the population, to 31.8 million in the year 2000, about 12 percent of the population.

"However, a major jump in the number of senior citizens is predicted in 2030 when the combination of declining mortality and the continued aging of the post-World War II baby boom generation will swell the elderly population to 55 million. That means that anywhere from 14 to 22 percent of Americans would be over 65.

"Social scientists say that as a result of this growing proportion of elderly persons, the country will have to consider changes in its pension, medical care and educational systems, as well as make decisions that will affect the quality of life the elderly will enjoy.

"The bureau gave credit for the latest life expectancy increase to a marked drop in heart failures among adults over 35 during the years 1973-75.

Carol Shelly, Helen Mathews, Mildred Mattson, and two donors who wish to remain anonymous.

Mrs. Albertine Swayer brought in numerous crocheted items for our Thrift Store with proceeds going to the center. Merle Archey donated coffee for the center's use.

A memorial was received by the center in the name of Edward Gregoras by Ray and Argela Linderoth.

If we have inadvertently forgotten someone, please remind us of your donation.

All these acts of kindness are so deeply appreciated. May God bless you for your concern and support.

Public hearing

The Michigan Public Service Commission has scheduled a public hearing on an application of Alger to increase its rates by $65,933 and to revise the base of its fuel cost adjustment clause.

The hearing will begin on Monday, September 12, 1977, at 1:30 p.m. in the offices of the Commission, 6545 Mercantile Way, Lansing.

The utility, located in Gladstone, supplies electric power at retail to some 6,000 customers in rural portions of Alger, Delta, Marquette, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties in the Upper Peninsula. Its last general rate increase went into effect February 25, 1975.

Wait your turn for a barrel bath

Mrs. Hazel Schultz called me last week about the picture of the baseball team we ran. It seems that I spelled a couple of the names wrong and they should have read: Ray Graves (instead of Grays) Fred Lundberg (Lumberg) and A.J. Smith (H.A. Smith).

Mrs. Schultz said the EA sewn on the uniforms stood for Ekstrom's All Star's who represented the Hiawatha Mill, owned by Mr. Carl Ekstrom.

Mrs. Schultz's mother Mrs. John D. Byers, hand sewed all the uniforms, and knitted the stockings which Mrs. Schultz says she remembers, "because I had to do her work. That was quite a project."

"I was 11 years old then and I used to sit every Sunday and watch them play. They were a good team too," Mrs. Schultz recalled.

Mrs. Schultz also remembered the name of one more person: Anton Olson, father of Lars Olson of Manistique, was located in the top row, at the far left.

A friend up in the Seney area occasionally brings down pieces of information for my consideration. This past week he brought two articles that are well worth the space they will take.

Only one can be repeated, however, and so I pass this along. It was written by Margaret Stillmak, as a special to the Milwaukee Journal.

"Until it's brought to our attention, we really don't wonder about the quality or worry about the quantity of the water we use so freely.

"Long before the current problem of water pollution and-or shortage appeared, people did worry - at least about the quantity - by their only source of supply was a pump and four or five rain barrels.

"In the country, every well equipped home had rain barrels at the corners of the house to catch a supply of soft rain water. The water was a treasure that was hoarded and used very carefully so that it would last until the next rainfall.

"Water from the first few minutes of a rainstorm was allowed to run off, to wash the roof and gutters clean. Only then was someone sent out to lift the heavy wooden lids, to allow the barrel to fill right to the top.

"There were always a couple of boxes of Old Settler in the house. It was just what its name implied. A handful of the white powder was sprinkled into every barrel and it caused all the gravel particles to

"Joy always reigned in the household when the barrels were full. How much easier it made much of the work!

"Wash day was not exactly a breeze in those days. With a cake of strong homemade soap shaved into the washing machine, that wonderful soft water made short work of a huge stack of laundry. Of course, we used our solar clothes drier - clotheslines, clothespins and the sun.

"After the laundry was done, the water was not wasted by just throwing it out. It was used to broom scrub the wide back porch floor - which, when it dried, gleamed like dull silver. (At that time we didn't see it as beautiful. Today people search for just that kind of weathered lumber to panel a room in a modern home. That floor was worth a fortune!)

"The broad black and chrome trimmed cooking range also got a chrome in the big reservoir at one end. Warm, soft water anytime of the day! Heaven help the one who dipped the last pan out and didn't replace it!!

"Absolutely nothing comes in a bottle today that can match the soft, silky texture of a rainwater shampoo. Even the scalp was given a tingy treat.

"Dishwashing was accompanied by a lot less grumbling when soft water was used. In the summer, the used dishwater was carried out in a pail and sloshed over certain plants that bugs found attractive. It was the pesticide of the day.

"If you were a teenage girl and the proud owner of a pair of real rayon stockings, you wouldn't dream of putting them in hard water. At the end of a school day they reassembled a pair of onion sacks -with the onions still in them. Nothing but rainwater made them soft enough to pull out the lumps.

"But it was when the canvas bathtub was set up that a girl would feel like a movie queen. Scented soap and soft, sun-dried towels...but alas, it never lasted more than 10 minutes, there was always a noisy line of others waiting their turn to bathe.

"When the water in the barrel fell below the halfway mark, it had to be rationed. (When would it rain again?) The barrel water could be mixed with pump water, but it was not quite the same.

"To allow the barrel to become completely dry would ruin it. The staves would shrink, and a sudden shower would just drain out. And that would be a waste of such a precious commodity. To avoid this, a bucket of pump water was poured in to keep the barrel damp.

"When the water was gone and a dry spell came, we girls got the "rain barrel blues." We went from barrel to barrel, peering beneath the lids, hoping to find just enough for a shampoo - or at least a "rinse" - before resorting to pump water.

"I really don't have to think hard how soft water feels. There are times when the rain is coming down, that I gather some plastic pails and catch as much as I want. Then I pour it through thin cotton cloth - and am grateful for it.

"Maybe it is a little polluted (isn't everything?), but I'd much rather have it from up there. At least I know what is in it, but from below, well, your guess is as good as mine."

It hurts to type some words

Must one 'earn one's salt?'

Remember the old saying one must "earn one's salt?" Put another way it means that a person has an obligation when physically able to earn his own way in life.

An editorial written by Joe Busik, president of the Building Stone Institute, in that organization's monthly newsletter was passed on to Wesley H. Maurer, Sr., publisher of The Republican News and St. Ignace Enterprise, by Busik and he in turn used material from that editorial in the August 4 edition of his "Views and Reviews" column in the St. Ignace paper. We feel that the points expressed are very well taken and thus pass excerpts from the same on to you to ponder on.

"It appears that the majority of Americans have somehow gotten away from this attitude (one must earn one's salt). More seem to be following the principle of seeing how little they can do and get by. Or...see if they can be totally at leisure (non-productive) and still draw a check....

"The bureaucracy, federal, state and city have not helped. They have been providing encouragement over the years, that tended to favor those who did not work...Healthy, able bodied, competent people who could have been producers have been idlers with the help of the bureaucracy...It should start early in life with the youngster who does household chores, the local newspaper delivery boy, the teenager who works after school in the super market or the youngster who has his own lawn mowing business....We are talking about basic principles which we as individuals, and collectively as a nation, are going to have to return.

"The government has passed so many laws and so many taxes (it takes a specialist just to read, much less understand them) that we have taken away the incentive from the person trying to work in the free enterprise system. Instead of taking up the exciting challenges...our young people have been encouraged to take the easy way and think more about the benefits, overtime, retirement packages and not take up the challenge of an idea and follow it through to success....

"Some time ago I had the occasion to have lunch with Dr. George Gallop of Gallop poll fame. In a general discussion I raised the questions as to just "what could be done about this problem in our nation." Dr. Gallop's answer was simple the need to "get back to basics."

"It won't be easy. The bureaucratic army has a vested interest in continuing and expanding 'give away' programs. We have to fight to get back our right of opportunity.

"I ask you to think about it."

Sitting on a stump during the deer season

With fall in the air, many of the hearts and minds of area residents are turning to that annual rite...deer hunting.

Well, I've never been a deer hunter and don't at this point in my life intend to take the sport. I have, however, become a convert to the life around deer camp. In the seven years since moving to the U.P., deer camp has become an enjoyable part of my November and a time that I look forward to with the same anticipation as the serious hunters.

As my experience in and around camps during the deer hunting season has increased I have found that there are more and more hunters" like myself. We've never bought a license or shot a gun and don't intend to. But we do enjoy getting out in the woods and particularly like the spirit that comes with hunting camps.

Now there's a newly formed organization out of Appleton, Wis. that is soliciting memberships that will give professional status to some of us non-hunters.

The STUMP SITTERS Whitetail deer study group is now inviting deer hunters who hunt with bow, gun or camera to join the study group. Deer hunters from all over the Nation will have the opportunity to share their ideas and experiences through monthly data reports and a specialized magazine.

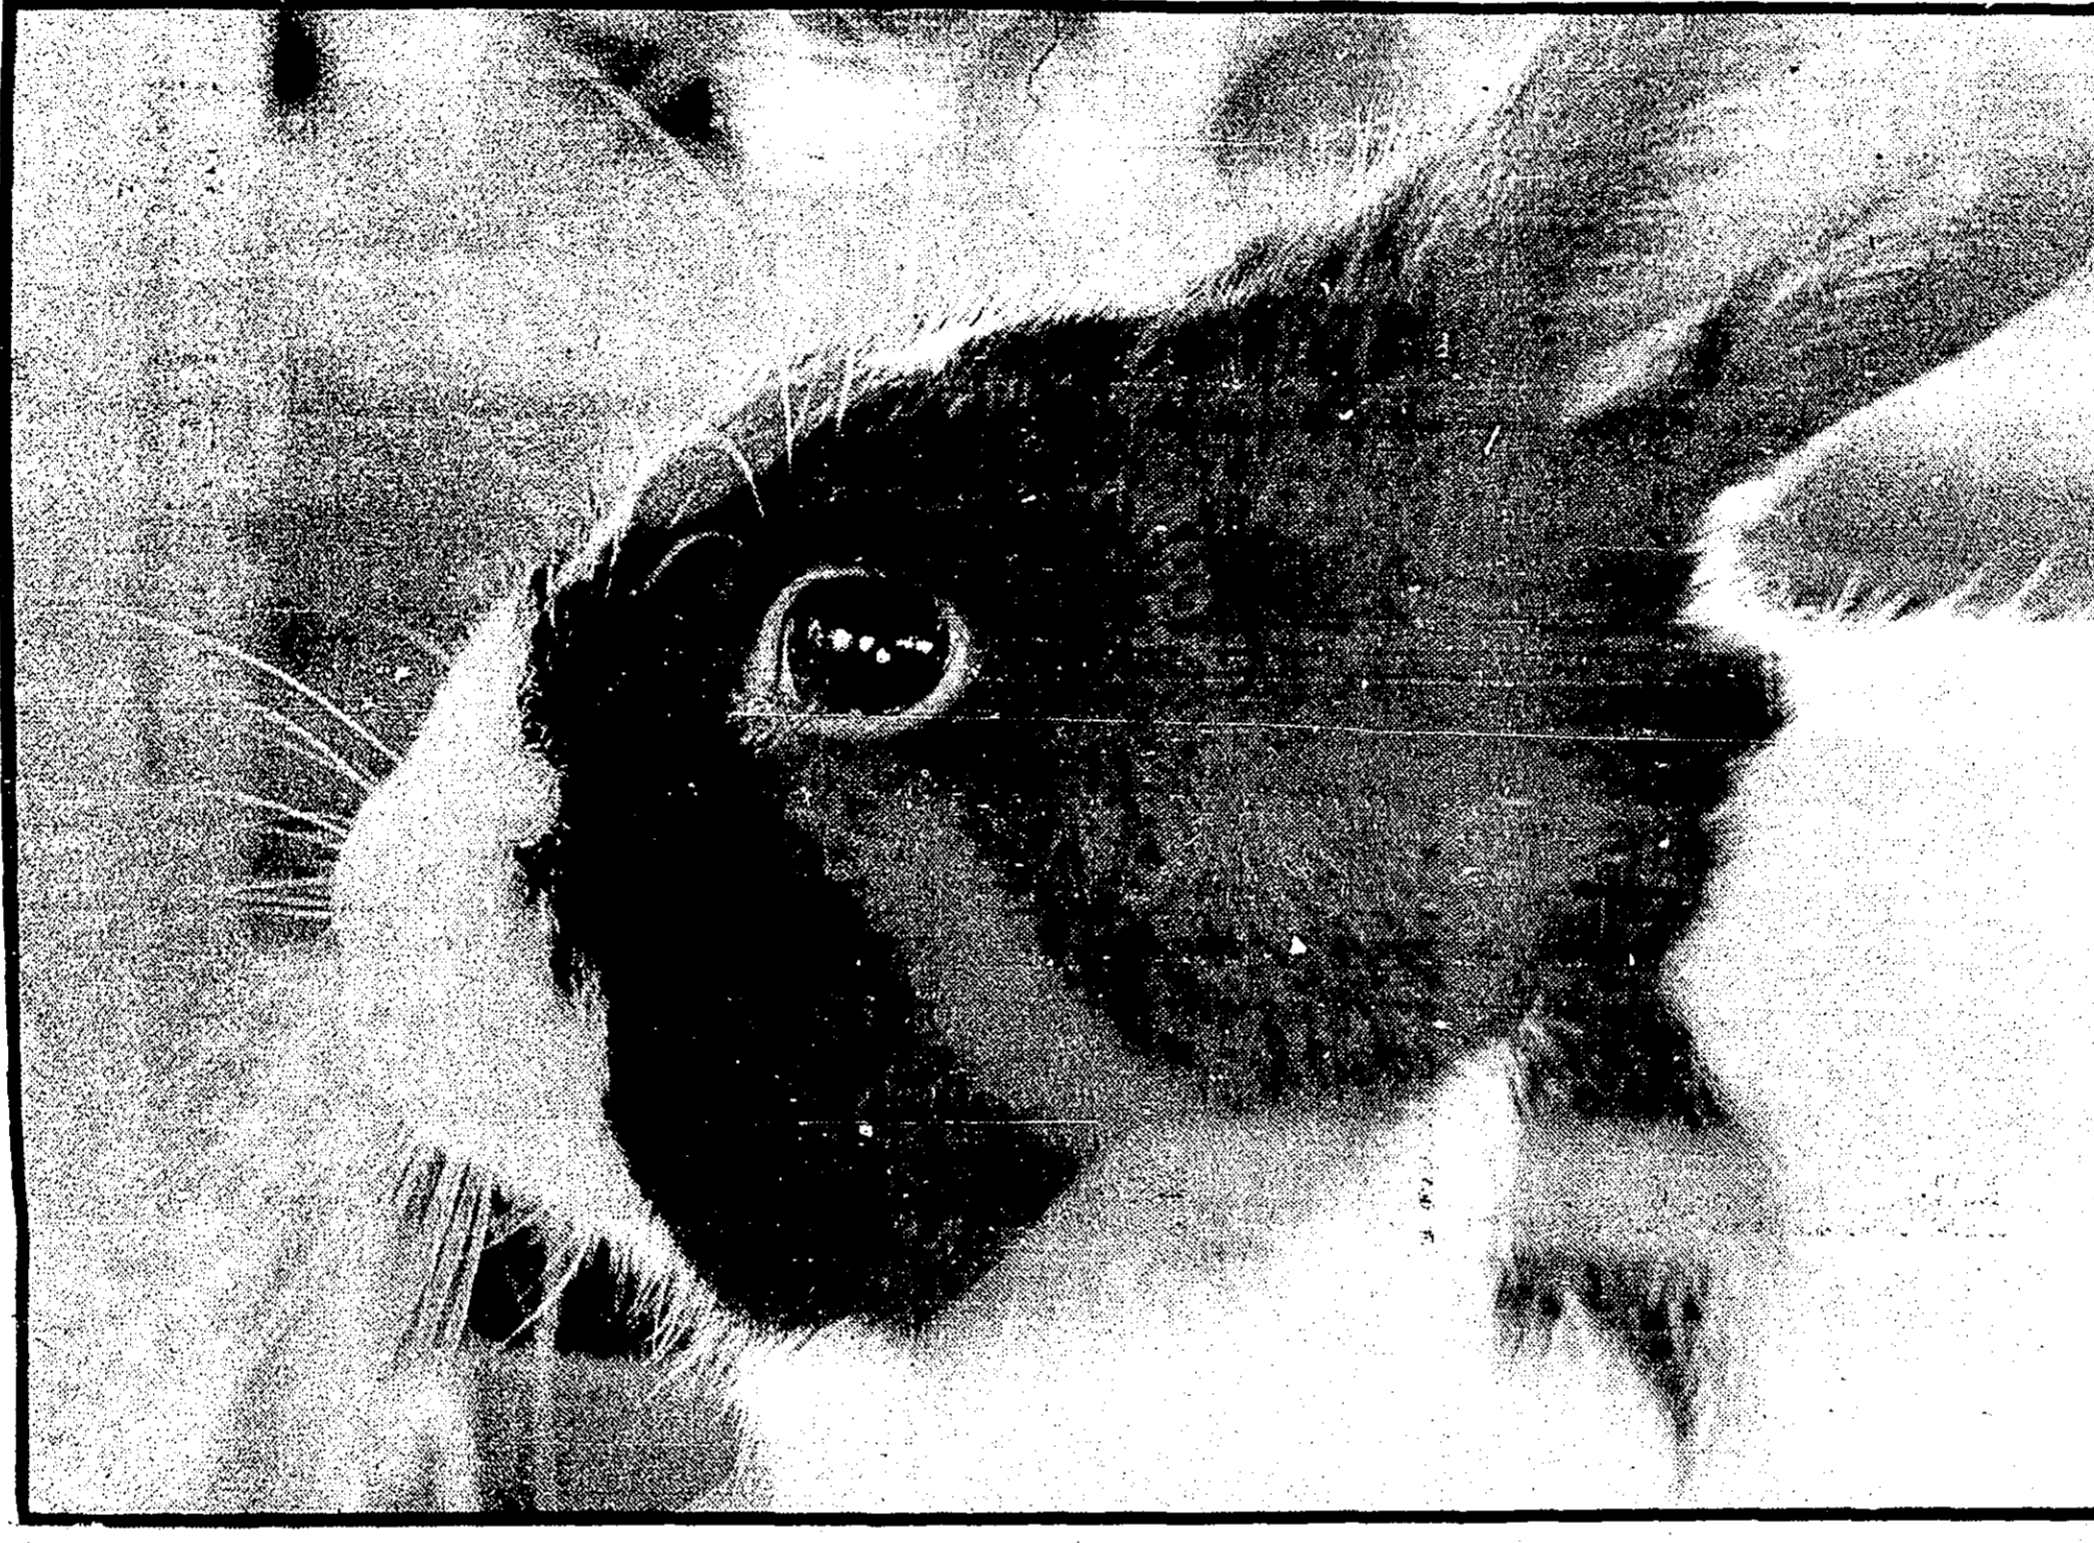

The study group is designed to be a tool to add more quality to deer hunting. In depth subjects about deer and deer hunting, that is normally not covered in regular hunting reading material will be subject matter.

The STUMP SITTERS have been involved in whitetail ethology (that's a fancy word for study) for the past 10 years. They average about 1,000 hours a year in woods study with whitetail deer.

When studies were completed they began to write articles about their findings. Hunters couldn't believe some of the results which destroyed many of the old handed down myths and tales which misguided many hunters for years. You may have read about the STUMP SITTERS in Outdoor Life, Wisconsin Sportsman and Wisconsin Hunting and Fishing News.

If you hurry and get enrolled as a STUMP SITTER member before the November whitetail season you'll be able to justify those two weeks away at camp with the "boys." There isn't a wife or girlfriend around who could turn down a request for two weeks at camp from a registered whitetail ethologist.

Hopping fair?

THE SCHOOLCRAFT COUNTY Fair, the first in 44 years, was a "hopping" place this weekend. If current plans go as scheduled, the booths and exhibits will

"multiply" in numbers. Fair officials worked under adverse conditions in presenting this year's fair, and we believe they did an excellent job. Next year's fair will be in the new fair building, now that the grant needed to begin construction has been approved.

The man in the middle . . .

The man in the middle is a policeman. He's in the middle of controversy between local government and citizens on how the law should be enforced, between parents and children on matters of behavior, between judges and attorneys on the limits of his power and the validity of his procedures.

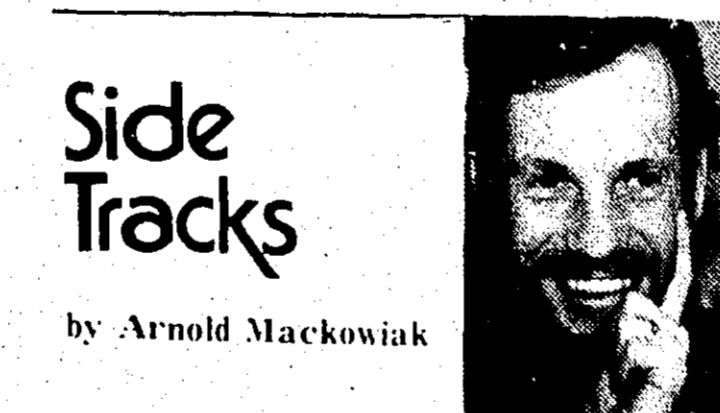

Especially vulnerable to criticism is the smalltown cop.

He's the guy who arrests your neighbor's kid for speeding, stops you for running a stop sign, chases down your golfing buddy on a drunk and disorderly charge.

And it's all the tougher to accept his objectivity because once in a while you have coffee with the guy and trade a few jokes.

To compound matters, community leaders aren't always a great deal of help when it comes to setting up definite guidelines for enforcement of the law.

Some believe that a small-town policeman should be a diplomat, handling sensitive situations with a smile and a little cozing. By this view, citations should be a last resort, especially when it comes to apprehending tourists passing through town. Bad public relations.

On the other side of the spectrum, some individuals think a town experiencing problems with juvenile and young adult violators needs a fire-breathing Kojak to enforce the letter of the law. Besides, the citations bring in a little extra revenue to the city. Both views have validity. And both views are flawed, because the central issue is the law and how the individual—not merely the policeman—perceives it.

If there can be a basic agreement on what the law means, enforcement is simply a procedural matter. If a city council decides a local ordinance is unworkable, or unthinkable, it should remove it. Then, with basic agreement on the good sense of a body of law, the council's main task is to see that manpower is adequate to enforce it.

And once it is enforced, there should be confidence in the prosecution and the defense in the judicial system that the accused is dealt with fairly.

Pretty vague ideals. But they count as least as much as the character of a policeman—be he a Cyrus Vance or a Bruce Lee.

County fair a smashing success

To the Editor:

The Schoolcraft County fair is over, and a smashing success due to the diligence, perseverance, ambition and enthusiasm of people like Elvin Hepker, Daniel Pitcher, Robert and Barbara Archambeau, Patrick and Elizabeth Chartier, Paul Uerling, Christine Keener, Roger Irie, Joe, Jean and Mary Anthony, and many other dedicated people who believed in a dream and saw it fulfilled beyond their expectations.

In spite of adverse conditions, such as using tents instead of the building they had hoped to have, the rain and wind, which caused tremendous work and effort on the part of all concerned. They slept there and worked there for days and nights.

We were there with our exhibit the two days of the fair and we are proud to have been a part of this, first fair in 44 years". We will be back next year with more individual exhibits, and a bigger and better club exhibit.

Out sincere thanks to all who made this fair possible, and for letting us be a part of it. If you did not participate or attend you missed a very worthwhile endeavor to bring something nice to our community.

If It Fitz

by Jim Fitzgerald

For two reasons, it hurts me to type the following words: There is a big hole in the roof of the house at 1020 Pine Grove Ave., Port Huron, Mich.

The first reason it hurts is that there are 5 letter i's and 2 .s (commas) in that sentence. In the touch system, the middle finger of the right hand is used to type i's and .s. A large piece of flesh has been accidentally cut off the tip of the middle finger of my right hand.

There is blood on my i and . keys, and there are tears in my eyes, but I keep typing because this my job and I will not back away from it, no matter how severe the pain.

Well, I have made one concession to the agony. The righthand middle finger is also used for k key. In fact, the k key is home base for that finger, and a particularly hard, downward push is required to operate it. It hurts more to type k's than i's and .s. So I am avoiding K's whenever feasible.

Originally, today's column was going to be about the Cu Clux Klan. But that would be too bloody. So I am substituting the hole in the roof at 1020 Pine Grove Ave.

But first, you probably wonder how I cut my finger. It was my wife's fault. Pat left me waiting in the car while she dashed into the A&P to get a quart of milk. Because she was purchasing less than 9 items, she could use the express check-out line, which meant she wouldn't be gone more than half a day. At our A&P, if you want to buy more than 8 items, you first should get a leave of absence from your job.

I figured I would pass the time by reading the newspaper. I reached into Pat's beach bag to get my eyeglasses. You remember that beach bag. I goes everywhere, and carries everything. My wife never leaves anything home, for fear of mildew, and I never carry anything in my pockets because they are lined with oilcloth and I must keep them available for smuggling slosh into the dry pavilion at Meadow Brook.

It is not easy to find what you want in the beach bag. While rummaging for the eyeglasses, I felt a sharp pain, and drew back a maimed finger.

"You must have found my razor," Pat said after I explained why I was sitting in my Oldsmobile full of blood. "I like to keep it handy for shaving my legs."

The dear woman must be afraid of 10 a.m. shadow.

So that's how I cut my finger. Now you are wondering what is the second reason it hurt me to type those words in the opening paragraph. The second hurt is a pang, rather than a pain. I feel it in my heart, which is more useful than the middle finger, unless you are angry with some guy, in which case it is more appropriate to give him the finger and keep your heart.

For most of the first 18 years of my life, I lived at 1020 Pine Grove Ave., in Port Huron. I loved that house, and never would have left it if it hadn't been for Hitler. When I returned from overseas, I discovered my parents had moved, swishing a leafy tree branch behind them to erase their footprints.

Anyway, the other evening I returned to Port Huron to take Mother and Aunt Madeline out to dinner. (Since I got my BankAmericard, Mother is no longer sorry that I ultimately found her new home.) On the way to the restaurant, we drove by 1020 Pine Grove Ave.

As is my custom, I braked the car into a genefunction. That's when I saw the huge hole in the roof. It looked like the type of hole firemen always chop into roofs, even when the fire is in the basement.

There wasn't time to stop and investigate, but now here I am, back in Detroit, hurting for my old home. Was it gutted by fire? Most important, was the maid's room damaged?

That's where I slept. It was not as sexy as it sounds. Before the Depression, my family could afford a maid. She was laid off in 1934 and hasn't been called back yet. But her bedroom was called the maid's room forever after, even after I slept in it for 10 years.

It was Mother's way of keeping a tenuous hold on a grander past. If it were always the maid's room, there was always the hope the maid might return. Mother wouldn't have to wash windows anymore, and I could sleep on a cot in the basement.

Whatever, I loved that little room, and the pang will not subside. Someone in Port Huron had better reassure me about what happened at 1020 Pine Grove Ave.

As for my maimed finger, it is now a mess. The key is bloodiest. I have paid for my ego in capital letters.

First Bear Is Live-Trapped In Casino Area

For the first time in Michigan a black bear was live-trapped, subdued with ether, then tagged, marked and released.

The animal, a 115-pound yearling, was captured on the conservation department's Casinowildlife experiment station near here.

The trap was fashioned from a section of steel road culvert. Two pounds of ether were injected after the trap was made airtight. When subdued, the animal's ear was tagged and two claws were snipped, so its movements and habits can be traced by tracks.

Department personnel say never before in Michigan has a bear been tagged and released for study purposes.

BUILD BEFORE YOU FLY

We know an airline pilot who used to make model planes. Yes, and we know a doctor who was "first aid man" in his scout troop. And we know an engineer who used to build the best bridges ever built with damp sand at the seashore.

There isn't any important role in life that doesn't have to be rehearsed before the curtain goes up!

Now in every field there are men and women whose Christian character is admired, respected and relied upon by all who know them. You can be sure they didn't suddenly wake up one morning with that kind of personal "nobility." Where then did it come from? How did they acquire it?

Through experience — just as the engineer, the doctor and the pilot acquired their "feeling" for the vocation they would one day pursue!

The church at the corner can't manufacture noble Christian souls. But it can go a long way toward developing in you and me — and in our youngsters — a sense of the potential with which God has endowed us.
