

Borrowing eyed after school millage defeat

by Mark Eisenlohr

Voters in the Manistique Area School District said no-one thousand and twenty-two times no-in thoroughly defeating a request for 4.5 additional operating mills. The 4.5 mills, requested by the MHS Board of Education to maintain current program levels, was defeated by almost three to one, 1,122 no compared with 441 yes votes.

Mincoff and Stark will serve on the board for four year terms. The seats were created when Mueller and board president Harold Cockram's terms expired. Cockram decided not to seek re-election. A total of 1,572 people turned out for the election in the eight voting precincts. Business was back to normal, however, at Tuesday's night's board of education meeting. No discussion was held as to which programs would be eliminated in view of the millage defeat. The board did approve a resolution authorizing Superintendent Richar Bonifas to proceed with plans to borrow $150,000 to meet expenses when the school reopens in the fall. Depending on whether the county comes through with an anticipated $100,000 owed to the school in delinquent taxes, Bonifas said the district could probably operate until Sept. 1 before borrowing money. According to a general fund cash flow sheet distributed by Bonifas, the school is anticipating a cash flow balance of $6,605 at the end of June. Bonifas indicated that monies reserved for unemployment costs and reserve library monies will be depleted to meet that balance. In other action Tuesday night, the board of education voted: -to extend a leave of absence to Barbara Miller for one year and accepted the resignation of Curt Vandenoorn. The board also voted to send letters of appreciation to Vandenoorn and retiring bus driver John Zellar. -to approve building and site bills totalling $1,745,500. -to authorize Bonifas to quote on typewriters, fuel oil, custodial paper, garbage bags, bus tires, and light bulbs. -to approve the renovation of the old gym, located in the current administrative building, in order to accommodate storage and work areas for maintenance purposes. -to extend letters of appreciation to outgoing board members Cockram and Mueller. -to move to committee a bus bid of $27,095 by Specter Motors for recommendation.

Big Bay voters say no, yes and finally no

The "no" voters were a little upset. The "yes" voters were temporarily a little happier. Both may still be wondering what happened in Monday's school election at Big Bay de Noc that eventually rejected a millage request.

Unofficial results reported Monday night in Big Bay's attempt for a 5.4 operational millage increase showed that the request had been defeated by a margin of 63 votes.

However, following a board of canvassers meeting Tuesday, the request was held to be a success, with the millage passing by 29 votes, 401 to 372.

The conflict caused some anxious moments Tuesday and Wednesday as voters waited for the official report.

The board of canvassers reconvened at 1 p.m. on Wednesday for a recount of votes tallied in the Garden precinct. According to Mike Alberts, Delta County Clerk, the mix-up was believed to have originated there.

"Election officials apparently transposed the "no" votes into the "yes" column and the "yes" votes into the "no" column," explained Alberts.

City unravels '77 HUD budget

The Manistique City Council plans to begin a new housing rehabilitation program on July 1, pending budget approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"We'll have at least $38,000 for housing rehabilitation," City Manager Robert Risik told the council at its regular meeting Monday night. "It may be more. The final figure won't be determined until the audit is complete, which will be within the month."

Risik left for Detroit Wednesday morning to meet with HUD officials to get their approval of a housing program and an amended $246,155.21 community development budget for 1977-78. The council approved the tentative budget Monday night, which followed another set of meetings by Risik with HUD officials in Detroit last week.

Risik told the Tribune the two days of meetings this week should "close the book" on the city's problems with the federal funding agency.

"If they accept this budget, our slate will be clean," Risik told the council.

The amended budget, reached in the earlier HUD meetings, adds $85,000 that the city was allotted for the program but did not spend in 1975.

It also subtracts $64,844.79 that city officials are admitting was spent on activities ineligible under the 1975 program. These included the purchase of three trucks, sewer system maintenance, and water and sewer line construction.

Besides that amount, another $76,749.33 from 1975 is being contested because of a lack of written documentation. Risik said it will be difficult to document more than one quarter of that amount, because verbal orders were used to expend the money. Rush Cattell was city manager during the 1975 grant program.

The second reduction would cut the overall budget by about $52,000, all from contingencies and housing rehabilitation. Other budget items are public works and west side park, $119,000; and administration, $12,000.

According to Risik, the approximate $38,000 left for housing rehabilitation would be used to start a new low interest loan program based on need. Applicants would have to make 80 percent of the mean family income in the city. Involving about 50 residences cityside, the money would be loaned directly from the city to the resident. Local contractors would do the work.

Risik told the Tribune that part-time assistant is contemplated to handle program paperwork. The city manager has been in charge of the HUD program for the city since Charles Youngblood resigned earlier this year.

In other business Monday, the council: -directed Risik to send a letter to the DNR Waterways Commission to inform it the council intends to hold the per foot boat mooring charge at the city marina at $3.50, and rescinded a 50-cent boat launch fee enacted in May. Risik said the DNR favored charges more than twice the adopted rate.

-heard Risik issue a warning that continued vandalism to restroom fixtures at the marina or other city facilities could result in the closing of the restrooms to the public. "We cannot afford to continually replace these things," he said.

-postponed action of the sale of the triangular block across from the post office until a second real estate appraisal can be made.

-authorized the city manager to meet with architects and advertise for bids on a $60,000 community center to be completely financed with HUD funds. Original plans set the cost at $80,000, but the building may be smaller, Risik indicated.

-accepted separate bids for the sale of two DFW tandem trucks, $1,500 from Charles Lander and $1,000 from George Merrill. No bids were received on a sander-spreader truck.

-appointed Risik maintenance superintendent for the state trunkline highway in the city.

-heard a complaint from George Frankovich, 103 New Elm St., charging that a neighbor was violating the city blight ordinance and the city was taking no action. City Attorney Mike Brooks told Frankovich that the matter had been turned over to County Sanitarian Mack McDonald two weeks ago. "If I find there's a violation of the blight ordinance, your neighbor will be prosecuted," Brooks said.

F. Lee Bailey to appear in arson trial

Noted trial lawyer F. Lee Bailey will appear in Schoolcraft County Circuit Court to defend a Newberry man who has been charged with several counts of arson.

A motion for appearance has been filed by local attorney Gifford Smith on behalf of Bailey for the July 11 trial of Robert J. Somers, Jr. of Newberry.

Smith has received a letter of authorization indicating that Bailey will appear for the defense.

Somers is charged with three counts of arson and one count of conspiracy to commit arson in connection with a series of fires in Newberry last year.

Smith defended Somers in an earlier trial which resulted in a hung jury. A change of venue was granted to hear the trial in Schoolcraft County.

The charges stem from fires that occurred May and June, 1976 and burned three houses belonging to Clifford Erickson, formerly of Newberry.

Federal funds sought by Somers for low income housing project in Newberry reportedly were delayed because of the three vacant houses.

Removal of those houses had been requested by the Farmers Home Administration, coordinators of the project, before grant approval would be given.

According to Luce County officials, condemnation proceedings to clear away the building had begun but had not been completed at the time of the fire.

Walter Blakely and David Caswell, both of Newberry have been named in the conspiracy charge. Somers allegedly hired Blakely and Caswell to set the fires.

Blakely and Caswell both are named in separate charges of conspiracy to commit arson. Neither Blakely nor Caswell have come to trial yet.

Garden pests multiply in dry spring weather

Schoolcraft County may be in for an escalation of irksome insects this summer, possibly due to the dry, hot weather the area received this spring.

Armyworms have been reported marching towards Schoolcraft County in ever-growing numbers, MSU County Extension Agent El Hepker reported.

"We're finding now that the armyworms are doing about 95 per cent of the destruction," says Hepker, referring to the numerous calls he receives each day from farmers who report crop damage.

Some caterpillars, leaf hoppers, grasshoppers, and cutworms have also been reported over the past few weeks. However it's the armyworm that has taken the lead.

They haven't been seen widespread in this area yet, but some farmers are reporting sightings.

Ray Lemp of Cooks was the first to report scattered armyworms in his oatfield.

"We've seen a couple," Lemp says, "they'll probably pick up with the hot weather. When they get in the plants then I will spray."

Armyworms are a nightfeeder and usually cannot be seen during the day as they burrow down under the ground.

"When they get bad enough you'll see them in the daytime," says Lemp.

The armyworm can be of different colors and is usually from 1/4 inch to 1/4 inches long and about half the diameter of a pencil. They have sport stripes down their sides and backs from the head to the tail. The stripes are usually light in color.

"I just can't believe the insects in the county this year," laments Hepker. "I have phone calls coming in all day, sometimes three or four an hour."

Tent caterpillars have also been reported in the Blaney park area.

The two species of tent caterpillar, the eastern and the forest, attack the leaves of a tree.

"The eastern tent caterpillar will defoliate trees," says Hepker, "but they don't do near the damage that the forest caterpillar does. The forest caterpillar will defoliate a whole forest."

The eastern tent caterpillar can be distinguished by its furry body with yellow stripes on both sides. It's not quite as productive as its counterpart and tends to localize on fruit trees, birch and some maples.

The forest tent caterpillar is similar to its cousin but with "footprints" down the middle of the back.

So far no serious outbreaks of tent caterpillars have been reported in this area, although Hepker mentioned that areas to the east and west of Schoolcraft County are receiving numerous complaints about the insects.

"Two years ago we had armyworms," says Hepker. "Now we're getting everything including variegated cutworms. The cutworms attack potato fields and are difficult to remove once they've localized."

"I think that the insects come in cycles. The warm spring definitely played a part in them coming out faster this year," said Hepker of the early problems in dealing with the insects.

So far the armyworms have been reported in onions, strawberries, cabbage, oats and corn fields. It's not just the farmer that has the problems, either.

"Gardeners stop me on the streets and ask me how the bugs are doing," laughs Hepker. But it's no laughing matter, as Ron Clark of Gould City can tell you.

He is in an area that is reporting heavy damage by the armyworms. Over 25 acres of his corn crop was wiped out by a combination of armyworms and cutworms.

"We're definitely going to have to replant," says Clark. "They took out 25 acres of corn."

Clark has several fields that comprise about 110 acres of crop. "We can't figure out why they're so bad in one field and not the other," he says. Part of the problem in ridding the beasts from the fields, says Clark, is that the field hardest hit is young and hasn't sported much foliage yet. In order for sprays to be effective, foliage is necessary.

"The spray sticks to the foliage and the armyworms eat the foliage," says Clark, "but now they're just eating the plant."

"They're definitely earlier this year because of the dry weather. We may get another season in July if we don't get these taken care of."

According to Clark, his fields have about 17 armyworms per square foot.

"Normally when you have an armyworm infestation they take over," Clark stated. "In any other year 10 percent is about normal. This year we're way over that."

Clark is using Sevin, a commercial insecticide, on his plants in an attempt to rid himself of the menace.

"We're going out at night to spray them on contact," Clark says. "We may have to spray again. If we can control these we have now, the second cycle won't be so bad."

Clark isn't sure why they seem to be so abundant this year, but he thinks the spring may have had something to do with it.

CUTWORMS have been invading area corn fields recently. The cutworm eats the young shoot just below the ground level, severing the plant in half. County Extension Director El Hepker also reported various other insects in the area including the armyworm. The pesky bugs seem to be in greater numbers this year. (Tribune photo)

She hunts for herbs to treat any illness

by Mark Eisenbach

Garden—A summer day dawns in the rolling foothills...lacy mist shimmers above a lake of polished silver...dew glistens with new light on thick meadow grass, plants and bushes.

On a given day, Mrs. Adelle Thill, Garden resident, could be out, just then, looking for natural healing herbs to supply her medicine chest.

Mrs. Thill is a firm believer of nature's healing powers, and for the past 40 years she has been collecting such things as golden thread, wormwood and a host of berries.

The idea of using herbs in healing is not a new one. Prehistoric man is said to have used herbs in healing. The idea has continued down through the ages. The first known use of herbs dates back more than 3,000 years.

While Mrs. Thill takes conventional medicine when needed—like last year when she suffered a stroke—she puts great emphasis on the medicinal powers of plants.

"There's lots of things I don't know, just what's been handed down through the families," says the 71-year-old Garden native. "There's a lot of good things if we just knew about them."

Mrs. Thill probably won't admit it, but she does know a lot when it comes to naturopathy, the practice of using herbs to cure illness.

She'll collect golden thread for use in numbing sore mouths. She'll mix wormwood with vinegar and water to use as a decompressant for sprained ankles. She'll collect elderberries, juniper berries and corn silk to create a kidney remedy.

"You can soak onion in vinegar and apply it to corns and callouses," Mrs. Thill says, adding that it is a "sure-fire" remedy. "But be careful, it may blister the skin if left on too long," she admonishes.

But, herbal medicine goes beyond taking care of sore mouths, sprained ankles, and a callous or two.

While still in high school, one of her sons was to have his kidney removed. When still in the hospital, Mrs. Thill asked him if he wanted to come home for a few days.

During that time she gave him a mixture of elderberries, juniper berries and corn silk.

"It was an old Indian remedy that was in the family for years," says the spry Mrs. Thill, "but it worked. When we took him back to the doctors for a check-up they couldn't find any trace of kidney disorder."

Her son still has his kidney today.

For common diarrhea, Mrs. Thill will put white flour in a cloth and boil it. After cooling it down, she'll remove the cloth and break off a little of the chalky white substance that remains.

"You take one teaspoon and swallow it with water," she instructs.

"They're simple home remedies that have either been passed down or older ladies have told me about them," she says. "And I also look things up and try it."

"I haven't found one (home remedy) that hasn't worked," she laughs.

Most people have probably used some type of home remedy medicine sometime in their life, like taking honey and hot lemonade when coming down with a cold.

In addition to using natural healing medicines, Mrs. Thill does what she can to prevent illness.

"I try to eat a balanced diet," says Mrs. Thill. "I've always been pretty healthy."

Mrs. Thill cites ferns and dandelion leaves as being good greens to go with the table setting. "They're good for a wilted salad," she claims.

Do her remedies work for everyone?

"Well, the family believes me and different neighbors come to me and ask if I have something to help them out with an ailment," she modestly admits.

"If we only knew all the good remedies we walk amongst," she says.

'Mining in the Upper Peninsula: tribute to perseverance

Ed. Note: Since March 1972, the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation has been involved in reprinting books and publishing manuscripts about the Upper Peninsula. Below is another in a series of reviews describing the volumes, all of which are available for borrowing at member libraries including the Maitistique School and Public Library.

"Mining in the Upper Peninsula"

The veins of valuable ore in the Upper Peninsula were unpredictably crooked; and only a few of the men who sought, found and mined the ore were straight and true to their task.

The tales of their pioneer efforts, as reprinted from the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Collections in the Mid-Peninsula Library Federation's "Mining in the Upper Peninsula" are a constant tribute to perseverance, and a continual warning about mineral speculation.

But the warnings come as a surprise from these men, who first slogged through the cedar swamps, winter snows and rugged rock slopes of the central and western mining districts of the U.P., who disregarded similar warnings in their own youth.

When state geologist Douglass Houghton's reports of copper-bearing conglomerates came to the Michigan legislature in 1831 and 1834, word of the potential fortune underground reached the eastern speculators and the rush began.

The final official count shows the millage defeated, by 44 to 28.

"It's got to be a classic if I ever saw one," commented Big Bay de Noc School Superintendent Terry Brooks.

School officials had asked for the millage for "strictly operational" purposes. Voter turnout at the election was described as "heavy."

Unofficial results for the board election has shown incumbent Carl VanRemortel with 461 votes and Jon Haindl with 446 votes, elected to the board of education. Incumbent Lavina Bennetts did not seek re-election. Defeated were Linda Parkinson with 190 and Tom Klaus with 190.

The board race was not affected by the mix-up in the millage proposal but results were still unofficial Wednesday.

A breakdown of the different precincts and how they voted show:

Nabawa—Yes, 104; No, 85; Van Remortel, 129; Haindl, 117; Parkinson, 62; Klaus, 42; Cooks—Yes, 74; No, 63; VanRemortel, 87; Haindl, 123; Parkinson, 38; Klaus, 29; Parkbanks—Yes, 53; No, 78; VanRemortel, 108; Haindl, 64; Parkinson, 21; Klaus, 14.

Garden—Yes, 136; No, 100; VanRemortel, 137; Haindl, 142; Parkinson, 80; Klaus, 104.

appreciated. This year handmade book-marks will also be available at the sale. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vaughnan of Garden Ave. were visited over the Memorial Day weekend by their daughter and her husband, Joan and Marvin Pouquette of Milwaukee. Tuesday the Vaughnans and Pouquettes went to Marquette for the day.

The Father's Day Social held June 12 at Divine Infant of Prague Catholic Church of Gulliver was a pleasant success. An after church service breakfast was served by the Ladies Altar Society Circle. One added highlight of the event was the Altar Banner made by Kathy Goudreau, the fourteen year old daughter of James and Verna Goudreau. The hand sketched banner depicting Charlie Brown, Snoopy, and Woodstock read, "Happiness is having a father like you!" This was particularly enjoyed by the youngsters of the Parish.

Couple wed on May 28

Jacqueline Anna Schwamb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ris of Detroit and Danny Ray Lausten, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Way of Cooks were married at the Manistique City Hall on May 28, at 2:30 p.m. in a ceremony performed by Mayor Frank Hewitt.

The bride wore a white gown and carried carnations sprigged with baby's breath. A reception was held with lilacs and wild flowers arrangement used as centerpieces. Many donated their time and gourmet specialties to make the evening a success.

The couple plans to take their honeymoon at a later date and will reside on Indian Lake in Manistique.

The groom is employed by the Soo Line Railroad. Guests attended the ceremony from lower Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois.

What's Cooking: It's 'ground beef' or 'hamburger'

by Carl Olson
Michigan Department of Agriculture

When it comes to hamburgers, I sometimes get tired of the same old grind. I don't mean the way the butcher chops it up. I mean the way it's cooked and served.

If you had yourself in the same boat, why not really surprise the family with your next batch of hamburgers?

Mix 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, a pinch of pepper, two tablespoons of grated onion, two tablespoons of chili sauce and 1 1/2 teaspoons of Worcestershire sauce into 1 1/2 pounds of ground beef. Shape into 12 patties a little thinner than usual. Cut six slices of good Michigan cheddar cheese into circles to fit on each patty. On the cheese place either a tablespoon of finely chopped green pepper or fresh Michigan mushrooms. Cover this with another patty of ground beef and pinch the edges to seal.

Grill these five to six minutes per side, or to desired doneness, and serve on a toasted hamburger bun with the usual condiments. It's great.

Incidentally, if you're a wise shopper, you'll know the difference between "hamburger" and "ground beef." If the package says "hamburger," under Michigan Department of Agriculture administered laws it must be at least 70 percent lean beef with no more than 30 percent fat. If the package says "ground beef," the ratio is 80 to 20.

No other names mean anything under the laws. If the grocer says it's ground chuck or ground round, it must still be labeled hamburger or ground beef and comply with the 70-30 or 80-20 percentages.

Knowing the fat content differences can sometimes influence your buying and save money in the family food budget. The big thing is being aware as you get "out of the old grind."

20 to participate in YCC Camp

The eight week, non-residential YCC Camp will start on June 20 and continue through August 12 this year. During this time enrollees will be given the opportunity to participate in a coordinated work and environmental learning program in line with the objectives of the Nation-wide YCC Program.

conservation work on public lands; (2) to provide gainful employment to 15 to 18 year old youth; and (3) to develop an understanding and appreciation of the Nation's natural environment and heritage. conservation work on public lands; (2) to provide gainful employment to 15 to 18 year old youth; and (3) to develop an understanding and appreciation of the Nation's natural environment and heritage.

The 10 young men and 10 young women who will participate in the 1977 program at Seney Refuge are from the local area and will commute to work each day. They include two youths from McMillan, six from Newberry, four from Gulliver, one from Germfask, two from Manistique and five from Grand Marais, representing high schools at Newberry, Manistique and Grand Marais.

Mrs. Pauline Miller is 'Teacher of the Month'

Mrs. Pauline Miller, second grade teacher at Hiawatha School, has been chosen as "Teacher of the Month" for June by Citizens Helping Advance Needs Good for Education (CHANGE).

Change has this to say about Mrs. Miller:

As you enter Mrs. Miller's classroom, you are greeted by an array of color-a cheerful bulletin board with a poem welcoming spring, innovative charts showing each child progress in various areas, and an original calendar which is used to check the weather each day, the phases of the moon, and to reinforce the sequence of numbers and dates.

It seems like an interesting place to spend a day, or a year perhaps.

"Such has been the case of hundreds of children who have had the good fortune of having Mrs. Miller as their teacher at some point over a span of years of teaching.

"This is her ninth year at Hiawatha. Previous years were spent at Fairview, Cooks, and Thompson schools.

"This is also her last year of teaching. Mrs. Miller has opted to take an early retirement to spend more time with her family and to do some of the things she hasn't found the time to do.

"In school, Mrs. Miller tries to interest the students in all things around them. She nurtures this awareness by relating the things they learn to their own lives.

"Although she regards lack of discipline as the biggest problem in the schools, she combats this by 'keeping the children plenty busy. That way they don't have much time for mischief!'"

"The things I enjoy teaching most are the basics like reading, writing and arithmetic," says Mrs. Miller.

"A child needing special help is sure to get it, as Mrs. Miller arrives with the first bus and doesn't leave until well after the children do.

"I never finish," she says, "and usually I watch TV with a stack of papers on my lap. The problem is that I get interested in a paper and have to ask my husband what happened on TV."

"Asked about her philosophy, she replied, "I try to give as much praise as possible. And I'm always happy to see the children's parents. You can do much more to help the children when their parents are interested."

Mrs. Miller told CHANGE that she will miss the kids most in her retirement. CHANGE believes there's no question that she, too, will be missed."

"Teacher of the Month" selections for the 1976-77 school year have been concluded, according to CHANGE member Ginger Stark. CHANGE welcomes suggestions for the future. Please contact Doug Germann or write CHANGE, Box 286, Manistique.

Consumer Comment

by Linda Joy
Michigan Consumers Council

While the Federal Trade Commission has established a special task force to police advertising for siding, insulation and other energy-saving improvements, the Consumers Council urges consumers to use common sense when dealing with home improvement and repair companies.

With a little healthy skepticism, consumers can often spot unscrupulous repairpersons by a number of common sales pitches. Some typical sales ploys to watch out for include:

—The left-over material story. A repairperson offers to repair a roof or porch for an unbelievably low price with some left-over materials from another job.

Legitimate contractors rarely order so much that they have enough material to do another job.

—The factory representative story. A door-to-door salesperson offers substantial savings on materials direct from the factory.

Reputable home improvement companies with the exception perhaps of summer painters, usually sell their goods through stores, not by door-to-door salespeople wandering through neighborhoods.

—The model home story. A home improvement company offers to pave a driveway for one-third of the regular price to demonstrate its work to the community. Most reliable repair companies don't solicit business door-to-door; their reputations are already established.

—The roof is falling in' story. A repairperson comes to the door saying the roof is caving in and needs repairs. Or an "inspector" examines the furnace and says it will blow up tomorrow if it isn't fixed.

These scare tactics are now illegal under the Consumer Protection Act. If consumers believe a repairperson is using scare tactics to make a sale, contact the local prosecutor or the attorney general's office.

Consumer should also be wary of out-of-state license plates which may indicate fly-by-night operators who will skip town as soon as they get the money without doing the job.

When shopping for a home repair company, consumers should always ask for references. A company should be able to give at least two or three names of satisfied customers. If consumers are still unsure about a contractor's reputation, contact a local consumer agency, the attorney general's office or the Grand Rapids or Detroit Better Business Bureaus against the company. It may also be a good idea to check with building supply companies and the home improvement loan manager of a local bank.

Before signing a contract, consumers should get at least three other bids. Insist on a written bid which includes a description of the work to be done, the total price of the product or service and the kind and quality of the materials to be used. A bid, rather than an estimate, will provide a firm figure of what the job will cost. Beware of companies which ask for a large down payment; 10 or 15 percent should be enough for most jobs.

Of course, consumers should understand all provisions of the contract before signing it. In general, a good contract should:

Garden pests on the rise

"Warm spring with no moisture and you're bound to get a problem with armyworms. Moisture is their biggest enemy, really," Clark said.

"Armyworms weren't a problem last year," Hepker said, "so a lot of people were unprepared for the problem this year."

"Locally, each farmer can take care of the armyworms at this stage," says Clark. "If it happens if we don't have a county wide spraying program and they get a foothold."

Hepker warns gardeners and farmers alike to keep watch on their fields and gardens.

"Keeping track of your garden is the only advice I can offer," says the extension director. "They may not be there today but they would be there tomorrow."

Father's wish results in publication of 'Lumberjack'

A father's wish almost 12 years ago will result in the publication this summer of an insider's historical account of lumbering days in the Manistique area.

William S. Crowe's "Lumberjack" is being printed this month by the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune, fulfilling the author's request to his daughter shortly before he died in October, 1965.

"On his 90th birthday he went to the hospital, and he looked terrible," Mrs. Helen Crowe McGlothlin said. That was on Sept. 23, 1965.

From his hospital bed, he made a request.

"He looked at me and said, 'you'll get my book published, won't you?'" Mrs. McGlothlin recalled. "And I said, 'well, yes."

She knew the difficulty her father had in securing financing to publish a 118-page manuscript of which 75 copies were made in 1952.

"He got lots of letters asking for more copies," she explained. And he wanted a revised, better edition. He just never quite finished it."

Mrs. McGlothlin, who lives at 700 Arbutus Ave., said her father's book stemmed from a series of articles he wrote for area papers over a long period of time.

The articles dealing with lumbering and life in the Manistique area during the late 19th and early 20th centuries drew from Crowe's years as a bookkeeper and eventually vice president of the Chicago Lumbering Company, based in Manistique.

Crowe wrote as only a company insider could about the business side of the White Pine lumbering era, spiced with his recollections of Manistique's colorful kerse days.

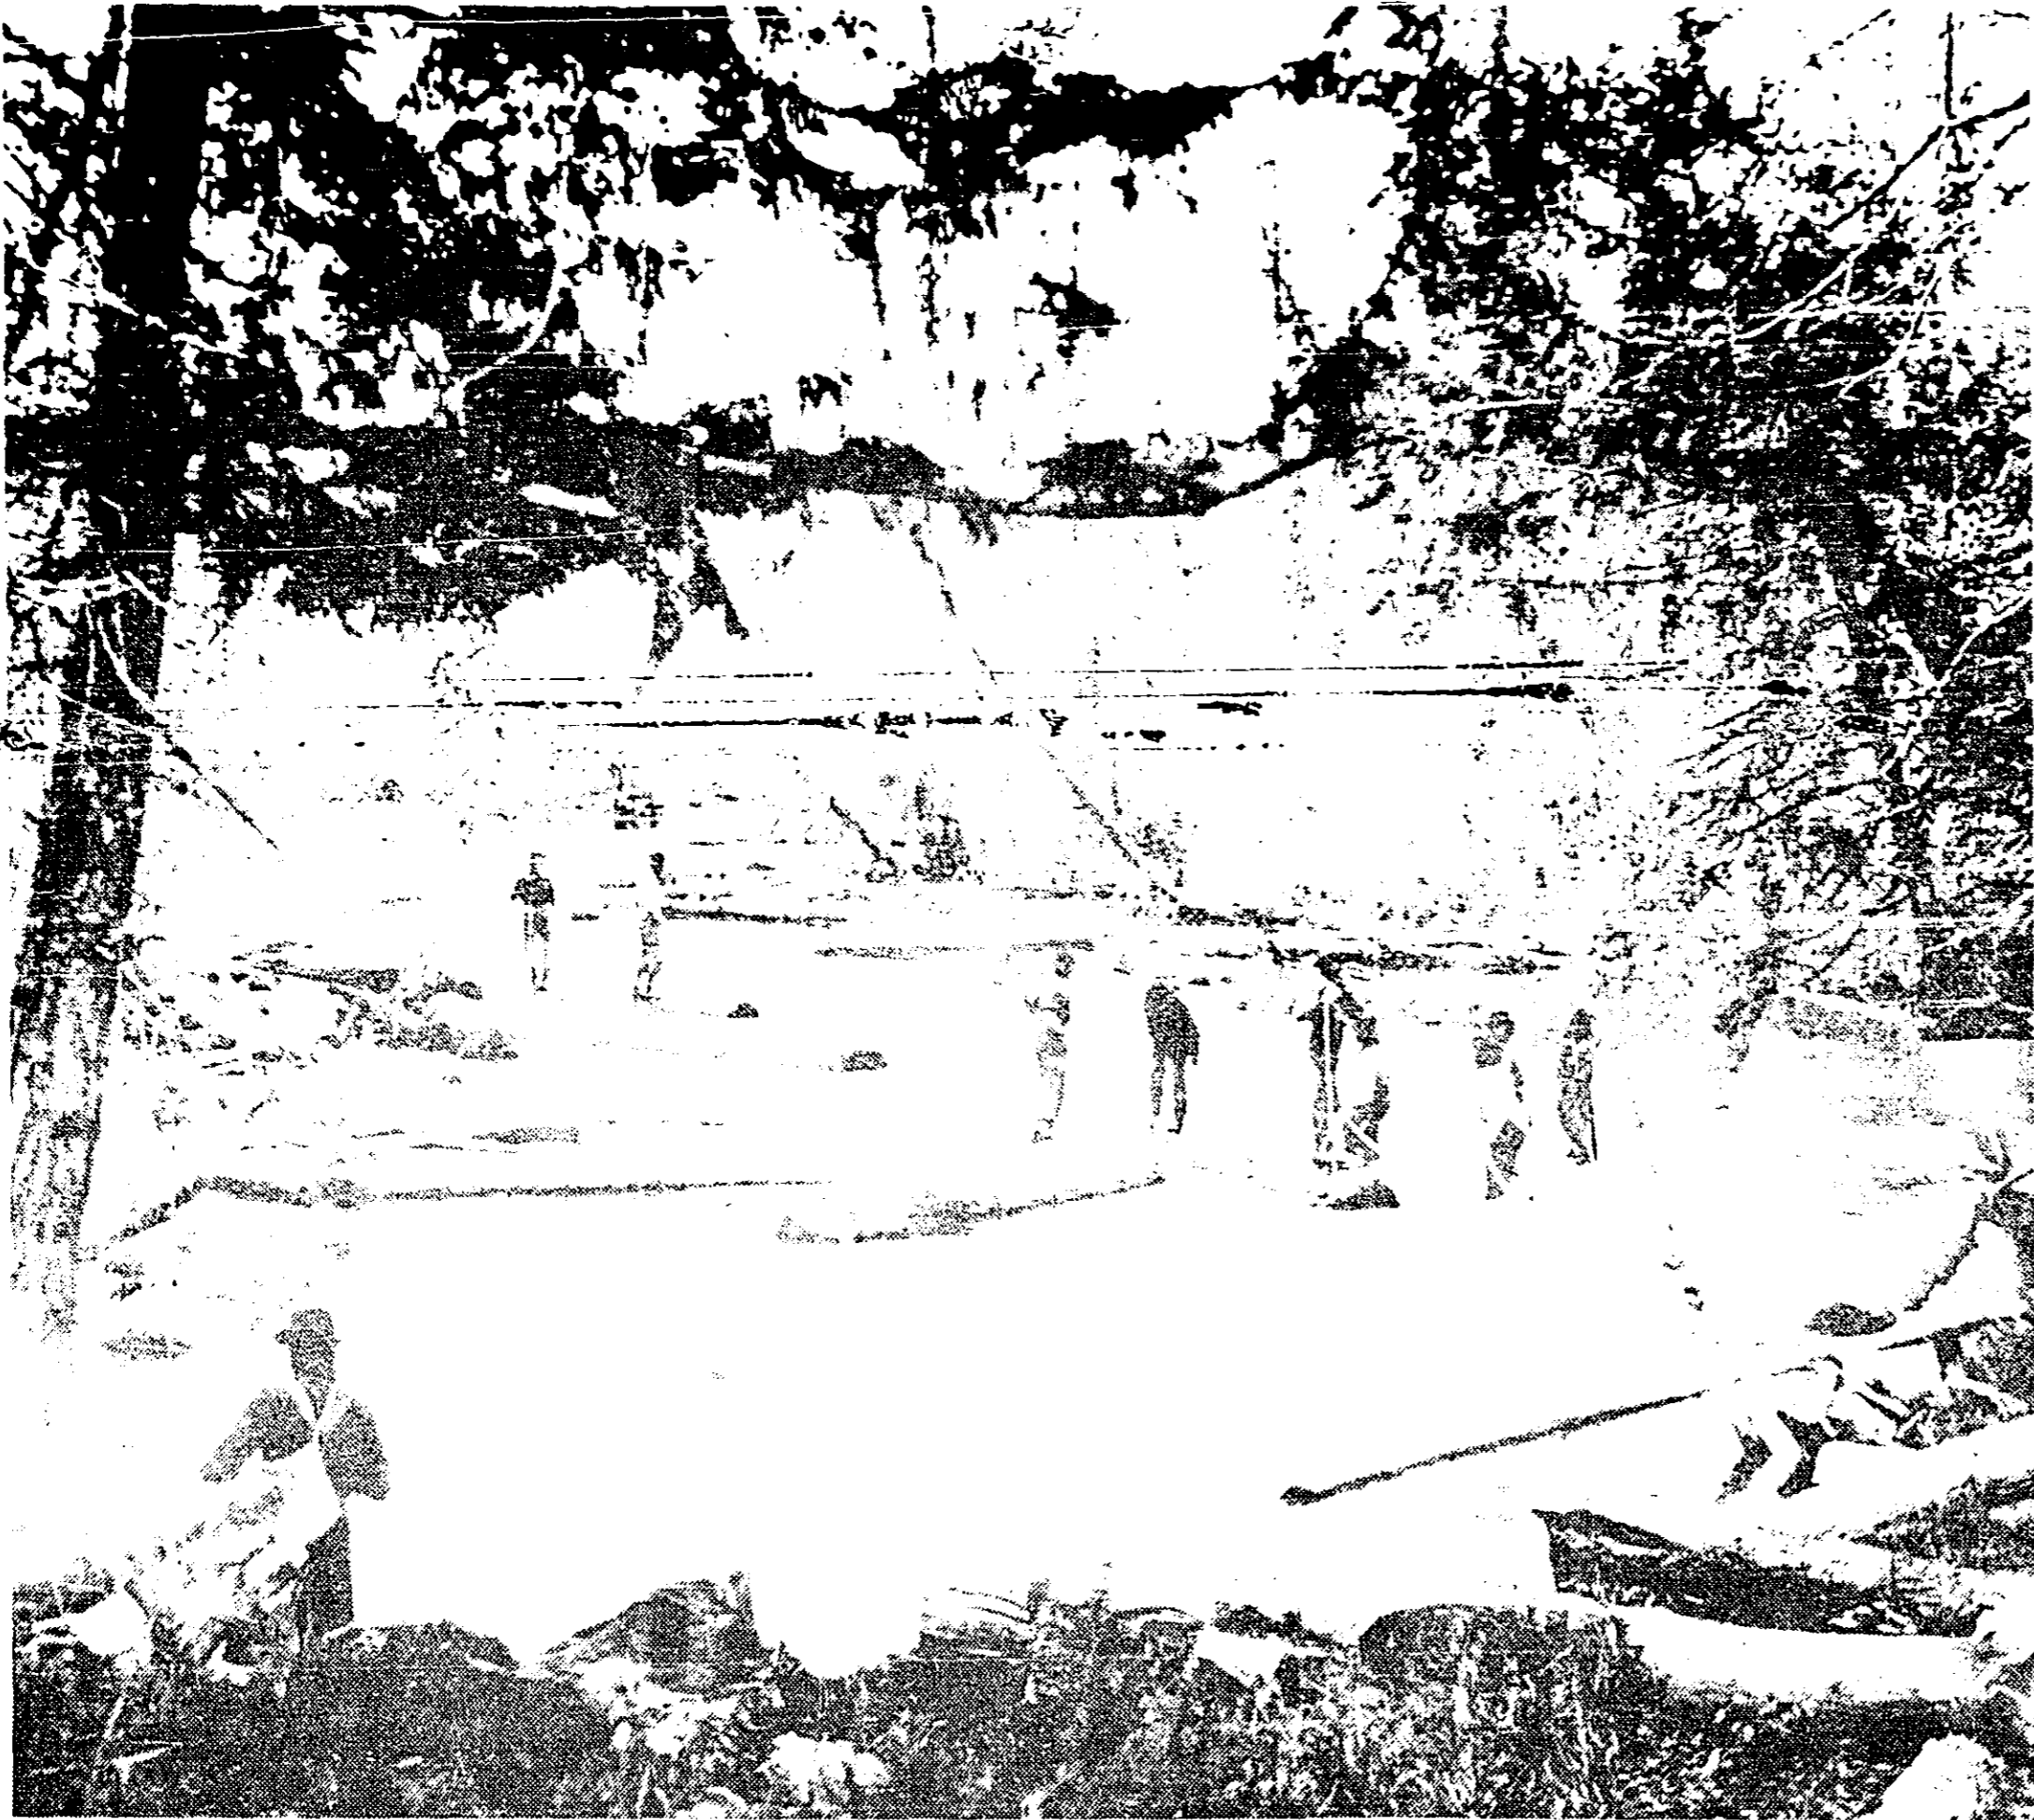

Copies of the manuscript, including 18 photos, were distributed in 1952. "I even typed some of it myself," Mrs. McGlothlin said.

The author continued to collect old photos until his death and many will be included in the new edition.

Edited by Ted Bays, instructor at Bay de Noc Community College, "Lumberjack" will feature a total of 38 illustrations, plus a detailed glossary of lumbering terms.

Advance orders to reserve a copy of the book, priced at $4.95, may be placed at the Pioneer-Tribune, 212 Walnut St. Those who wish to have the book mailed should include $1 more for postage and handling. An order blank appears in an advertisement on page 5A.

Mrs. McGlothlin said she especially wants to give a copy to Bill Grace, a nurse who took care of her father in the hospital. He now lives in lower Michigan.

From all walks of life, Town Meeting needs 'em

Laborers, homemakers, retirees, students and businessmen are invited to attend Manistique Town Meeting from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Manistique High School.

The day-long meeting is open to any interested resident of the Manistique area, from high school student to senior citizen. Workshop leaders will guide participants in concentrating on local, social, political and economic problems.

Persons who are not able to attend the full day are welcome to come for half the day, either morning or afternoon, according to Phil Ovi, vice president of the State Savings Bank and chairman of the steering committee.

State Representative Charles Varnum (R-Manistique) is planning to attend the meeting. Norma Johnson will serve as master of ceremonies for the day. Babysitting services will be offered free of charge at the school.

The workshop sessions will focus on identifying community problems and finding specific solutions. Participants will also create a new community symbol and song. At the close of the day, workshop groups will gather to present the work of the day. Coffee and rolls will be available around 9 a.m., with lunch scheduled for noon at the cafeteria. The Senior Citizens Swingers will perform at the cafeteria during the noon hour.

Cost to each participant is $1 for registration, plus a donation for lunch. Advance registration may be made with Gene Nagel, 606 Range St., Manistique

Lumberjack

Inside An Era In The Manistique, Mich. Region

By William S. Crowe

William S. Crowe, who worked for the Chicago Lumbering Company in Manistique during the peak of the White Pine lumbering era, wrote a detailed history of those colorful days in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Twenty-five years after the original manuscript was completed, the Manistique Pioneer-Tribune is publishing an attractive full edition illustrated with 37 photographs that will be on sale this summer. A limited number of copies will be printed, however. To avoid disappointment, place an advance order to reserve your copy by using the coupon below.

Silence counts (unfortunately)

Richard Nixon was right about one thing. The "silent majority" in this country can wield significant influence. Simply by doing nothing, the vast numbers of "common people" who live in communities throughout the land may affect the way things are run in their local areas as well as at the national level.

majority can have an impact. Some have questioned the way the meeting day being organized, and the method to be employed in determining the most significant issues facing the community. It is a fairly simple program designed to reach some conclusions.

Survey shows need for town meeting

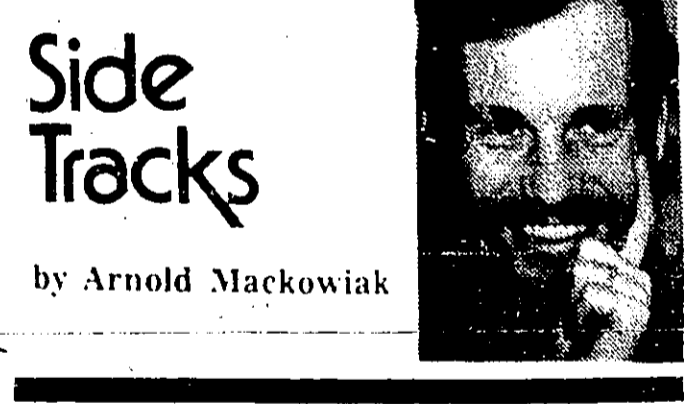

The Michigan Public Opinion Survey released recently by Michigan State University's Extension Service should be of interest to those planning to attend this weekend's town hall meeting in Manistique.

Properly fogging nasty matters

Believe what you will about the British style of nonchalance, but it comes in handy in times of stress. A 19th century party of bark canoes transporting the Anglican bishop of Quebec through the Great Lakes in 1836, observed some of the traditional aplomb.

City's pension plan asks faithful workers to lose credit

To the Editor: This letter is not intended as a protest but merely to state the unheard of policy used in setting up a pension plan; namely the one now in force by the City of Manistique.

plans but may I ask in all fairness where there is justice in asking faithful workers no matter what their profession to throw away years of service? As of now, a total of (approximately) eight long standing former public employees receive a combined (approximately) $500 in pension payments checks which will average a bit over $55 per employee per month.

past five years, jump still higher? Meyer allows that the "twin imperatives" will inevitably lead to higher energy prices. Meyer's suggestion to exploit "the potential for finding new reserves as we explore in geologically prospective new areas—primarily in Alaska and offshore on the outer continental shelf" undoubtedly would expand the profits of Exxon and other oil companies.

Hiawatha dump

To the Editor: A while back I wrote a letter to the editor about a dump that was starting to materialize in Hiawatha Township. This dump is in back of my property. Needless to say, the value of my land is going down.

As a former country editor, I've often asked what is the biggest difference between writing for a small weekly newspaper and writing for a huge daily, such as the Free Press. The answer is freeloading.

On my desk right now is an invitation from the Ford Motor Co. Ford wants to fly me to Napa, Calif., for three days so I can become acquainted with Ford's new small car, the Fiesta. On a return card, I am asked to designate what I would like to do my first two days in Napa.

First United Methodist Church completes Pony Express 'run'

The "route riders" and "trail bosses" of the First United Methodist Church have successfully completed their Pony Express "run" and the church's stewardship program campaign has gone over the top.

The Rev. Michael L. Peterlin, pastor, said members estimated their giving to the church during the coming year would surpass the campaign goal.

"We trusted our members to act responsibly, and they did," he said. "In these times of uncertainty, our members showed they have a great deal of faith and willingness to share what they have."

He said the Pony Express theme for the stewardship campaign sparked enthusiasms among members and resulted in the congregation working together for a common purpose. "We all had a lot of fun—children and adults," he said.

Rev. Peterlin said he was especially pleased that the Pony Express campaign involved the young people of the church. School age children received Pony Express coloring books and balloons and miniature saddlebags, similar to the largest bags used by their parents in the campaign. Each youngster was encouraged to fill in an "estimate of giving" card, just as their parents did.

"This has helped our young people start thinking about giving to their church and hopefully they will form a habit of Christian stewardship which may continue through their lives," he commented.

Rev. Peterlin and Mrs. Gene Hastings, general manager of the campaign, praised the many route riders and trail bosses and station agents who saw that the Pony Express saddlebags carrying the "church mail" were relayed from family to family. "Everybody worked together," Mrs. Hastings said. "It was the same kind of teamwork the original Pony Express riders displayed."

Strawberry picking time is here

Strawberries are here and the crop is beautiful. I hope you have had some fresh strawberry pie or homemade strawberry shortcake

If you can't find strawberries in the stores with full red color and a bright luster. The berries should have firm flesh, and the cap stem still attached. The berries should be dry and clean. Usually, the medium to small strawberries have better eating qualities than large ones.

In most containers, you will find some berries which are decayed and have defects. Look over the berries as soon as you get them home from the store.

Do not wash the berries until you are ready to use them. Then, wash with cap stem attached. Put water in a container, add berries and move the berries around in water. Lift the berries out of water into colander to drain. By lifting the berries out of water, the sand and dirt stay on bottom. Then removed cap stem and proceed to use them in pie, shortcake, jam, or fruit sala.

Have you thought about the nutritional value of strawberries? A cup of strawberries contain more Vitamin C than an orange. Half as many calories as a cup of grapefruit, but 5 times as much Vitamin A. They are good for people on reducing diet if you don't add sugar.

Strawberries can be canned, but they have a tendency to fade and loose flavor. So most people freeze them.
It is recommended you add some sugar (3/4 cup per quart of berries) to the berries when freezing because it preserves the flavor and color.

Happy strawberry eating and don't be surprised when your child asks for strawberry shortcake or strawberries and ice cream for breakfast. They can easily be substituted for orange juice.

RHUBARB-STRAWBERRY JAM
with liquid pectin

1 cup cooked red-stalked rhubarb (takes about 1 pound rhubarb and 1/4 cup water)
1/2 bottle liquid pectin
2 1/2 cups crushed strawberries (takes about 1 1/2 quart boxes of strawberries)
6 1/2 cups sugar

TO PREPARE FRUIT: Wash Rhubarb and slice thin or chop; do not peel. Add the water, cover, and simmer until rhubarb is tender (about 1 minute).

TO MAKE JAM: Measure prepared rhubarb and strawberries into a kettle. Add the sugar and stir well. Place on high heat and, stirring constantly, bring quickly to a full boil with bubbles over the entire surface. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat, add the pectin, and alternately skim and stir the jam for 5 minutes. Ladle into hot containers and seal immediately.

Makes about 9 six-ounce glasses.

MILK IS NUMBER 1
"The dairy cow's a beast of charm. She lifts the mortgage from the farm!" Miserable poetry, but words of truth, especially in a state like Michigan where milk represents the largest single source of farm income.

June is celebrated as dairy month in Michigan as well it should be, for in 1974—the latest year for which final figures are available—milk supplied over $376 million dollars of Michigan's total cash receipts for farming.

Less than half of the milk produced in Michigan goes to packaging plants to be processed for sale as fluid milk. The remainder goes into manufactured dairy products such as cheese, nonfat dried milk, ice cream and yogurt.

Manufactured dairy foods are among the most popular and flavorful of all the supermarket offerings, and they're winners in the nutrition sweepstakes as well because most of them concentrate the goodness of the milk from which they're made.

One pound of hard cheese, for example, uses about 10 pounds of milk while a gallon of ice cream requires 4.6 pounds of milk, and a pound of nonfat dry milk solids cannot be made from less than 11 pounds of skim milk. It takes one gallon or 8.25 pounds of milk to make one pound (one pint) of cottage cheese.
