Community hears requirements for 125-bed veteran's facility

Gerald Bax, commandant of the Veterans Facility of Grand Rapids, Tuesday gave Manistique a chance to put in its bid for a new U.P. veteran's facility.

October 20, 1977

The Grand Rapids facility is actually an outgrowth of the Old Soldiers' Homes which were common after the Civil War. It is a nursing care facility with over 500 beds to take care of ill and chronically ill veterans and their families.

Bax said he was reasonably sure the Michigan legislature was going to allocate funds for an Upper Peninsula veterans' facility.

"If you (Manistique) want to be considered for it -- put in your order," he said. The legislature wants to have a recommendation on this before the year is out." Bax addressed a gathering of 14 members from the Mansitique community. Present were Ed Way, chairperson of the hospital committee and a county commissioner; Earl LeBrasseur, member of the hospital committee and a county commissioner; A.J. Cayia, president of Inland Lime and Stone Company and president of Schoolcraft County Building Authority; Dennis Boyd, administrator of the Schoolcraft County Medical Care Facility; Doug Kraatz, director of the county Dept. of Social Services: James Gardner, administrator of Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital; Fred Hahne, former president of First National Bank at Manistique and a ley, secretary of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce: Clyde Strasler president of State Savings Bank of Manistique; James McDonough, community schools director; William Putvin, local druggist, Bishop Noa nursing home board of directors; William E. Cowman, county treasurer and veterans' representative and Fred Lesica, county clerk and register of deeds.

Bax said the committee of persons chosen to handle bids of UP cities vying for the facility would be in Manistique the first week of November.

Deer hunt prospects 'good' this fall

LANSING-Prospects for deer-hunting archers look excellent this year and firearm deer hunters also can expect a good season. David A. Arnold, Department of Natural Resources' wildlife specialist, says there are slightly over one million deer in the state right now, with 25 percent of the animals located in the Upper Peninsula.

"It should be a fine year for deer hunting in Michigan," he says. "In the Upper Peninsula, the south central area has the heaviest deer population. In the Lower Peninsula most deer will be found in a diagonal band stretching from Lake and Newaygo counties northeast to Oscoda and Alpena counties."

"We had a record number of hunters last year, 131,000," Arnold says.

Archery deer season opened Oct. 1 and will continue through Nov. 14. At that time it ends, temporarily, for the start of firearm deer season, Nov. 15 through 30. The archery deer season then resumes statewide Dec. 1. It end in the Upper Peninsula Dec. 15, but continues in the rest of the state through Dec. 31. Arnold also reminds muzzleloaders that their statewide season this year stretches from Dec. 2 through Dec. 11. These sportsmen must use refle or shotgun, .44 caliber or larger, round ball and black Women have recently come into their own in American politics. Some women have been active in politics for a number of years to make it possible for others to become accepted.

One politically active woman who has been named to Who's Who in American Politics seventh edition to be published in November is Arlene M. Bush, daughter of Mrs. R.D. Curley of 537 Oak St.

She has also been recommended for membership in the International Platform Association, a professional association of all persons interested or engaged in the lelciure, concert, T.V., radio, newspaper and entertainment fields. The organization was founded by Daniel Webster.

Mrs. Bush will be further honored by having her name inscribed on a memorial plaque that will be displayed in Gettysburg, Pa.

A 1947 graduate of Manistique High School, she served as delegate from the 8th Congressional District at the 31st Republican National Convention in Kansas City, Mo last summer. She has been active in Republican politics for the past 25 years serving at county district and state levels in many capacities. She is currently the Vice Chairman of the 8th Congressional Republican Committee.

Mrs. Bush is a Real Estate Broker in Bay City, is married to Charles Bush and the mother of four children.

Donald F. Switzenberg who was in other such hideouts, coming out only to charge of the DNR's Cusino Wildlife feed Experiment Station at Shingleton in the Upper Peninsula for 11 years, says snakes are getting ready to hibernate.

"Last year we had a cold fall. If the fall weather is warm this year, you'll see more snakes," he says.

That's because the snakes want to enjoy the warm fall sunshine before going underground for the winter, according to Switzenbuerg. Summer weather is usually too hot for the snakes is be out and visible. but a warm fall day is just right.

"The active season of snakes in Michigan is extremely short." he points out 'Michigan snakes come out of hibernation in late April or early May, and gather around their winter denning grounds in late September or early October. At such times, snakes may be seen in unbelievable numbers.

Seventeen species and subspecies of snakes are found in Michigan. Some of these, such as the garter and water snakes, are extremely common in many parts of the state. Others are so rare or secretive that they are seldom seen by most people.

"All but one of Michigan's snakes are harmless," Switzenberg points out. "The only poisonous species, the Massasauga rattlesnake, is confined to the Lower Peninsula, but has been known to range as far north as Bois Blanc Island, near the Mackinac Bridge.

Although belonging to a group of snakes that is as deadly as any in the world, the Massasauga is not considered highly dangerous to man.

"Snakes occupy a variety of habitats in Michigan as elsewhere," he says. "The water snakes are distinctive in frequenting

Gardens may erode, too

Dwight Quisenberry, agronomist with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Lansing, suggests that Michigan farmers remember the erosion problems that occur each year on fall plowed land before they fall plow again.

Quisenberry says that leaving this year's crop residue on the surface of the land over winter is a better way to overcome soil structure problems, improve moisture absorption, and slow wind ercsion. Fall plowing needlessly exposes the soil to water erosion and the rough surface created to slow wind erosion is temporary at best, he added. Phil Dakin, county soil conservationist, says that this not only applies to large tracts of farmland but also garden areas. Some wind and water erosion can occur in home garden areas which are tilled in the fall and all residues are cleared from the

Aerial, ground balance bumps Westwood 34-6

Offense, meet the defense. Defense, this is the offense.

The two got re-introduced on the Manistique Emerald varsity football team Friday night. And the Emeralds punched Westword 34-6 in their last away game of 1977.

Not only that, the Emeralds produced a balanced passing and running game that had the Patriots reeling 28-0 at halftime and 34-0 going into the fourth quarter. Coach Dan Skatzka said mixing up offensive plays between passing and running was a big factor in the victory, Manistique's fifth this season and third in the Mid-Peninsula Conference against two "I think big catches by Pistulka and Levin early in the game really helped out, coo," the coach said. "And the defense did an outstanding job." The win assured the Emeralds of their first winning gird season a the past few vears, and a chance to win more than five games for the first time in this decade: We were flat earlier in the week," Skatzka said. 'But they were fired up by Friday night. They realized what they had

.o do.'' A scoring summary in the lop-sided contest follows.

First quarter--Norm Jahn completed a seven-yard touchdown pass to John Pistulka to cap a 68-yard drive. A two-point conversion run by Tony McClaren made Second quarter--In the second play of the drive, Jahn again connected with Pistulka, this time for a 69-yard touchdown play. The PAT try failed, leaving the score 14-0. Later in the period, George Danko recovered a Patriot fumble around the Westwood 45 to set up the Emeralds' third TD. The drive culminated with a four-yard run by D.J. Brady for the score. Jahn flipped the ball to Gary Kaiser for the two-pointer to climb the score to 22-0.

With 49 seconds left in the half, Pistulka grabbed an interception at the Patriot 26 and ran the ball to the 20. A 15-yard pass to Doug Bertrand moved the Emeralds closer, and with three seconds showing, Jahn hit Pistulka for a two-yard pass and the TD. The PAT attempt failed to leave the score at 28-0.

Third quarter--Late in the period, D.J. Brady exploded around right end for a 51-yard touchdown run on the third play of an Emerald drive. The conversion try failed and the score stood at 34-0.

Fourth quarter--Westwood got on the board when Bruce Watters completed a 26-yard touchdown pass to Dave Richards. The PAT try failed.

Manistique dominated the statistics, rushing for 221 yards on 40 carries to Westwood's 128 on 42. The Emeralds passed for 198 yards on 10 of 19 attempts, while the Patriots managed 54 on four of 13. Manistique was intercepted four times, Westwood, twice.

The Emeralds held an edge in first downs, 15-9; but had more yards assessed in penalties, 35-25.

Top Manistique rushers were Brady with 128 yards on 9 carries, and Bertrand with 36 on 14 tries.

Pistulka caught five passes for 125 yards and Carl Levin gathered in two for 43. Top solo tackles and assists were turned in by Kevin Beckman, 8 and 6, respectively; McClaren, 8 and 4, plus one interception; Pistulka, 7 and 4 plus one intercep-

No matter what method is being used, Thompson Creek is closed to fishing. Fishermen must stand in the lake beyond the mouth of the creek.

The most common violation reported is using a net to haul the fish out of the water. This method, plus foul hooking and snagging, are all illegal.

Two conservation officers are assigned to patrol the creek when they are available. However, they are also responsible for hunting violations and cannot be at the creek at all times, Myer said. A fine for taking fish illegally can be as

Emerald cagers lose to Ishpeming 40-33

The Manistique Emeralds lost a decision to the Ishpeming Hematites, 40-33, last Thursday at Ishpeming.

The loss piaced Manistique at 4-5 overall and 2-2 in the conference.

Coach Diane Stimac said she felt the score was not indicative of how the girls played.

"I was really pleased," she said. "The girls played super defense."

The Hematites took an early lead in the game, but the Emeralds came back to tie the score at the end of the first quarter. Emeralds guard Mary Gregurash scored a the referee. The Hematites went on to lie-making free throw.

The second quarter opened with two minutes of uneventful play. The Emeralds eventually moved ahead, however, on three consecutive field goals. A back and forth battle followed until 40 seconds were Maynard tours U.P.

Libby Maynard, vice chairperson of the Michigan Democratic Party, is touring the Upper Peninsula and will be in Schoolcraft County at noon Friday at the Fireside Inn. Central to her stay will be visits with local Democrats and talks with local news media representatives.

"The Democratic Party leadership makes every effort to keep in touch with its grass roots members," she said.

This summer, State Chairperson, Morley Winograd, spent three weeks touring the U.P. Maynard's trip will be a continuation of an effort to discover issues of concern in the various communities.

Orienteering champ

HOUGHTON--Thomas B. Johnson, a Manistique junior majoring in geology at Michigan Technological University, was a member of MTU's second place team at the Michigan Open Orienteering Championships at Sault Ste. Marie.

Johnson competed on the intermediate course and his individula time placed him second overall in his age group.

Approximately 200 runners competed in the two-day meet from as far away as New Mexico and St. Louis. The MTU group was led by Captain Forrest W. Goff, assistant professor of military science.

A round-up of the brewery's history

One last column on this brewery

Had a little extra time last week and glanced through back issues of the Tribune. The following article is meant to be the last definitive article written on the

"Sept. 10, 1909--The plant of the Manistique Brewing Co. was wiped out by fire at an early hour last Friday morning. The fire had its inception at the rear of the building next to the walls of the freezer, and was without a doubt the work of an incendiary, as traces of kerosene was seen at the rear of the building, and objects

"A hole was evidently made through the wall and a quantity of the fluid poured therein, and the flames quickly communicated with the roof.

"Mr. W.H. Hall, who resides in the vicinity of the brewery, noticed the blaze shortly after four o'clock in the morning, and spread an alarm. He went to the brewery and awakened Mr. and Mrs. Hiller who were sleeping in the building, and to Mr. Hall can be given the full credit for saving their lives.

"The upper portion of the brewery was a heavy tanks directly above their sleeping ouarters soon fell, owing to the rapid weakening of the timbers supporting

"That two persons were implicated in noticed in the sand at the rear of the building, and they led into the underbrush that covers the tract along the river. Aside from the complete destruction of the building and machinery, forty-five tons of coal, 350 bushels of malt, and 4,000 pounds fo fermentum all of which had been placed in the brewery within a day or two before the fire, were destroyed. There were 650 barrels of beer in the brewery at that time that were practically ruined.

"The building was erected some eight years ago and was not a paying proposition until the past year. Under the management of Tony Hiller, the brewing company earned the reputation of making beer equal of any on the market, and the trade it was receiving placed it on a paying basis. "Mr. Hiller says that the loss will aggregate $25,000 and as but $10,000 was carried on the building and contents the loss will be a heavy one. Owing to the fact that there was absolutely no danger from fire, Mr. Hiller was adverse to carrying much insurance, and only last spring reduced the amount carried from $12,000 to $10,000. "The fire department made the run, but owing to the fact that the fire was a mile or more from the city limits, there was some delay in starting, but while the brewery proper was doomed long before it arrived, the department saved the nearby buildings, including the ice house.

"The property is owned by Detroit parties, and at this time it is not known whether it will be rebuild. The insurance was carried in the agency of Edmund Ashford." The following week, Sept. 17, 1909, the following comment appeared in the editorial column of the paper. "The Mining Journal hints that the brewery fire in this city was the aftermath of the local option campaign. Guess again, Mr. Russell. A party is in jail and charged with having fired the building, and he as well as the man that it is claimed hired the former to do the work, have never been considered prohibitionists by the people that know them best.

A quick trip to the county courthouse revealed the final information to complete behind the Lakeside School facing east or

"George Bush of Manistique was found guilty of arson and sentenced to 6 to 8 years in the Jackson State Prison. No other accomplices were named but the inditement and testimony agree that one bottling company was behind the fire.

"It was quite a pleasant experience living in the camps in those days. The railroad went right past our cabin only a few feet from the door. When the trains went by the engineer would throw gum to us, which made us very happy. In the spring of the year we would tap the maple trees to get the sap.

Politics and the SBT

Whenever the Legislature takes up the task of correcting a tax law, it is best to be wary. It is a bit like approaching the bull in the pasture. You just den't know what it's going to do but someone may get gored.

That process is going on now. Both the Senate and House of Representatives have passed bills that come to the rescue of the small and low-profit businesses suffering from the state's controversial single business tax (SBT).

That means that the final version, if there is to be one, will be hammered out by a conference committee of members from the two legislative units.

In evaluating the varying proposals to correct inequities in the SBT, it is important to remember what the single business tax was supposed to accomplish.

The whole idea, two years ago when the lawmakers and Gov. Milliken first tackled the business tax problem, was to come up with a simpler and fairer tax.

The SBT replaced a total of eight taxes on business and was designed to simplify the tax systems, stabilize revenues, and promote jobs and econimic growth.

That is a lot to ask of any tax devised by mortals and it soon developed that the SBT wasn't all it was cracked up to be.

Small businesses, farmers, and professionals protested that their taxes had skyrocketed. One of the chief complaints was that the tax fell unfairly on small businesses with substantial payrolls. And, instead of stimulating growth, many charged it was stifling efforts of small businesses to grow.

The problem now is that the SBT has become something of a political football. Some legislators on both sides of the aisle are more interested in making political points than they are in fixing up the SBT.

The House bill provides a tax break of about $64 million on small and unprofitable companies. It also will increase taxes by about $57 million on larger, more profitable corporations, such as automakers and utility companies.

The Senate measure, authored by Sen. Patrick McCollough, D-Dearborn, also eases the tax burden on small businesses. It cuts the SBT from 3.5 per cent to 1.2 per cent; offers small firms a new tax based on gross profits, with a $25,000 exemption and imposes a 7.8 per cent tax on corporate profits.

One major problem is that it shifts more than $100 million in must know that taxes from the small businesses to medium and large businesses. Without getting into the pros and cons of where the tax burden should fall, the effort to pass a tax bill is usually a matter of distributing the pain so that the tax payer, always restive, does not revolt.

The infamous taxes imposed by King George the III on the Colonies are examples of how not to do it.

Sen. McCollough's proposal clearly outdoes the House version in Escanaba was well underway there was tax appeal to voters. But it will not sell amongst the Republicans and big businesses will surely oppose it.

The House bill, crafted by Rep. George Montgomery, D-Detroit, that someone was reading the paper. and his House Taxation Committee, is less controversial and seems to make needed corrections while preserving the original goals of the SBT.

For instance, it changes the SBT, which is based on profits, payrolls, interest and depreciation, by increasing the deduction for small and low-profit businesses $4,000 to $40,000.

It will enable a larger number of businesses to qualify for a tax break if they employ a lot of workers.

A total exemption is granted to farmers and it provides a simpler method of filing estimated tax payments.

To qualify for the small business tax break, a firm could make no more than $2 million a year in gross profits. No owner or partner could earn more than $40,000.

To make up the lost revenue, the state would tax depreciation more heavily. Instead of taxing only half the depreciation on items owned before the tax took effect, the state would tax 100 per cent of

How the final version will emerge from the Legislature is up in the air. We can only hope that it does not become a political football. If that happens an impasse is likely and small businesses needing relief won't get it.

Just fill in blanks to blast the editor

Back in the old-timey days when the Sideliner was just learning the editor business, a letter to the editor from an irate subscriber was an upsetting incident.

"How can this be?" one would muse, studying a missive that questioned the editor's intelligence and ancestry, right spang in the middle of the Golden Age of Three Oaks Journalism. Thus we were heartened, here on the threshold of another Golden Age, to get a genuine, grade A snotty letter. It came from an irate subscriber who objected to my describing the residents of lower Michigan and elsewhere as sugar beeters. He couldn't spell or write very well, but boy! was he mad!

Well, you get the idea. That's a better than average made by an irater than usual subscriber, but the poor lad seems to choke up a bit in the clutch, which is a shame and situation that can be remedied.

How not to get burned in a costly casket

Recently I quoted a reader's complaint about the state law which requires that bodies be cremated in coffins. There is no such law. You just thought there was. That's the problem, according to Esther Shapiro, director of Detroit's Consumer Affairs Department. Too many people are obeying laws that really aren't laws at all

The net result is that the buyer accepts a screwing without squealing because he thinks he has no choice, other than fine or imprisonment. And the seller says he's sorry, but the law forces him to gouge his customers, and he cries all the way to the bank where he is chairman of the board. Forget burned coffins, for a minute. Think about bathing suits. Once you buy a bathing suit and take it home, you can never return it to the store for refund or exchange, no matter what. That's the law, bodies. right? Wrong.

Esther Shapiro investigated the swimsuit "law" after a consumer bought swimming trunks which were advertised "marked down from $5." When he got home, he discovered the original price the right thing.' So most of the corpses we Angry at the deception, he took the trunks back, still in the original wrapper. The store refused to accept them. Regardless of whether the advertising was a lie, the manager said he could not allow a refund or exhange because there was a law forbidding the return of swimsuits. What law? Esther Shapiro and her staff tried to find out.

"Everyone we consulted said there was a law. No one could tell us what it was," she said. "Systematically, we checked every possible government agency. The Food and Drug Administration could not identify either a regulation or a statute. Neither could the Federal Trade Commission. State of Michigan? County of Wayne? Never heard of it. The Detroit Health Department had never seen an ordinance involving swimsuits."

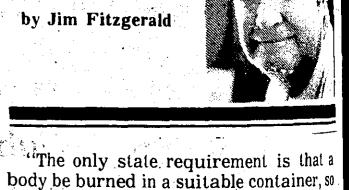

Thanks to Shapiro, the man got his money back. But thousands of swimsuit buyers will continue to get gyped, with hardly a gripe, because they think there is a law. The sales clerk said so.

And for the same reason, thousands of persons will continue to buy expensive caskets on Tuesday so they can be used for kindling wood on Wednesday. I talked with a crematory employe who used to work for a mortician. He said he'd tell me the truth if I didn't publish his the crematory workers won't have to touch the corpse," he said. "The container can be a $4,000 steel casket or a $50 wooden tray like the airlines use for shipping "The trouble is, most morticians don't tell survivors about the $50 packing cases At least, they don't mention it loud enough to be heard over the sobbing of the bereaved people who always want to 'do burn are contained in wooded or mel caskets that cost several thousand dol-

I'm sure it wouldn't be fair to insinuale that all morticians let grief-stricken survivors believe the law requires that a corpse be burned in a $3,000 coffin. I'm sure because I received a letter from Jerry Barto, who is a mortician in Grand Rapids

"The container could be a $45 cardboard case or a $3,000 copper casket. The choice is the family's," he said.

Some morticians might influence the family's choice. The metal caskets could be displayed in a velvet-lined room will organ music coming out of religious statues. But if you want to see the $45 boxes, they are downstairs, next to the garbage cans.

Incidentally- even the $50 paking crates are not cheap enough for Esther Shapiro the consumers' advocate. She pointed out that plastic bags were good enough for the corpes coming out of the Vietnam war, so why aren't they good enough for burning! I guess a question like that should be answered by the State Board of Mortuary

Science. It is the board's job to protect the public against greedy morticians. The mortuary board has seven mem bers. Six of them are morticians.

Wouldn't that burn you, in a $4,000 casket?

There ought to be a law.

Be sure to come into the center by Oct. 21 to pick up your tickets for our Halloween party to be held at the Cooks Township Hall, Friday, Oct. 28. This will be by far the best party around, believe me.

Sharon Gardner is chairman of the party and y'know Sharon - everything she does is top shelf, original, and A-1 She will be assisted by Joan Kriesch

On their agenda so far: Doors open at 5 p.m., potluck at 6 p.m., entertainment by Tom Hoholik, "The Senior Swingers," and Norma Johnson with Felicia Frog. Live music for dancing and listening enjoyment will be furnished by Ernest Derwin

There will be various booths and games such as a fish pond, cake walk, etc., etc. The Cooks Township Hall will be decorated as never before and much time and effort is going into this There will be prizes galore—a door prize.

prizes for those who wear costumes though it isn't necessary and various other prizes

Gardner will be in charge of this We need prizes such as unused cologne bath powder, knick knacks, any kind of nice goodies that can be used for the fish pond and we need cakes for our cake walk

Five-dollar gift certificates will be given for the prettiest cake and for the most if you'd like to bake a cake. Bring a dish to pass and pick up your tickets at the center at 823 Range Street before the 21st

The following are wished a happy birthday: Victor Beaudry and Mary Bosanic, Oct. 20; Cecil E. Moore, Oct. 21; LaCroix, Frances Weinert, Inez Dean, Katherine Lucille Burson, Dorothy Shipman, Edwin Johnson, Ellen Carlson and Bertha Vaughan, Oct. 25; Ruth Schmitt, Martin Hoholik, Frances Barr, Verner Ekstrom and Leonard LaFave, Oct. 26; Frances Hoar, Oct. 27.

Building fund donations came from Bill and Irene Storvik, Malcome and Elsie Nelson, Ida Goudreau, John and Viola Haindl Signe Strom, Caroline Dragos, and an anonymous donor.

A memorial was given to the center in the name of Lillian Smith, sister of Elsie according to General Telephone's Manis-Nelson, by Malcome and Elsie Nelson.

Thrift Store donatons and prizes were given by Janet Lockwood, the Gus Gustafsons, Carolyn Rose, Pearl Peterson, Mrs. Don Harrington, John Marks, Ruth Dygert and Wilmer and Lucy Zuehlsdorf. Mr. and Mrs. Don Skiles donated pumpkins and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cutler brought in some decorative gourds. They for being so kind. Here is a little Halloween story that found and I thought you would enjoy it.

"Hearts are Trumps:" It was Halloween. The bag of assorted candies was ready, and I'd been looking forward to visits from pint-sized goblins. But that morning my arthritis had flared up, and by evening I could barely move. I couldn't possible answer each knock on the door to distribute the goodies. So I decided to fasten the candy bag to the screen door and watch the parade of trick-or-treaters from my darkened living room.

The first to arrive were a ballet dancer and three little ghosts. Each picked out a sweet in turn. When the last tiny hand emerged full-fisted. I heard the ballerina scold, "You're not supposed to take more than one!" I was pleased big sister would play conscience for the little one.

Hobos, hippies, gypsies, and skeletons followed. More children showed up than I had expected. I couldn't be sure, but some Refreshments will be available and Jim "might be returning for seconds. Perhaps I had offered too much temptation.

The candy was running low, and I was about to turn off the porch light when I noticed four more visitors. I was sure they hadn't been here before. The three oldest ones reached into the bag and pulled out Hershey bars. I held my breath, hoping original decorated Halloween cake. Call us—there would be just one more left for the tiny witch. But when she pulled out her hand, all that it held was a single orange jelly bean. Already the others were calling, "C'mon, Brenda, let's go. There's no one home to give you any more.

But Brenda lingered and extra minute. Deliberately she whispered, "Thank you, Francis McNamara, Oct. 22: Frances house, I like the jelly bean." Then she was off. I got up. Words from Ephesians came to my lips: "Make melody in your heart to the Lord; Give thanks always for all things." Brenda had put a song in my heart, and had taken the arthritis pains from my knees. Unquote.

Sartorial splendor for all seasons

There isn't an outdoor person in Michigan who hasn't got a favorite item of apparel...boots, hat, shirt or a wast assortment of patches bonded together by the skeletal remains of ancient waders. One of a kind, threy are often given total credit for heavy creels, total relaxation and profound philosophy and with few exceptions, they are totally disruptable.

A nephew of mine has a canvas camouflage duck cap which, after six years of constant companionship, now conforms to his head like a wet, dirty, moldy pancake. It's the last item of apparel he takes off at night and is back in place before his feet hit the floor in the morning...and his forthcoming wedding is assured of a least one crisis.

On the other hand, my constant outdoor, four-season companion, brown jersey cap acquired in Finland six years ago, also conforms to my head like a wet, moldy pancake but it looks very nice...although no-one ever said so.

My wife has a pair of black Grandpa

Hunters are to contact DNR for second deer tag

LANSING---Deer hunter with a Michigan Sportsman's License who hope to take two deer this year under a new law are advised to contact the Department of Natural Resources for their second deer tag.

The new law authorizes the taking of two deer in a calendar year, one during the bow and arrow season and one during the firearm season.

But, since the law took immediate effect after being signed by GOVERNOR William G. Milliken on July 27, a minor problem was created because Sportsman's Licenses had already been printed-with only one validation tag for deer.

To remedy the situation, the DNR is providing tags for the second deer to all DNR field offices and conservation officers.

The following rules governing issuance of a second deer validation tag for holders of a sportsman's license will be in effect:

1) The deer tag issued with the 1977 sportsman's license may be used to validate a deer taken during either the Oct. 1 - Nov. 14 and Dec. 1 - 31 bow and arrow season or the Nov. 15 - 30 firearm season.

2) If a deer is taken during the Oct. 1-Nov. 14 portion of the bow and arrow season or the Nov. 15 - 30 firearm season, the licensee, to obtain the second deer tag for the firearm season or the subsequent portion of the Dec. 1 - 31 bow season, may:

-Bring the deer with validated tag attached, or, following disposal of the carcass, present the validated tag to a DNR district or field office, deer checking station, conservation officer or field wildlife biologist; or

--Mail the validated tag to Wildlife Division, DNR, Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909, with name and address, and, if obliterated on the tag, the sportsman's license number.

3) When a deer with validated tag attached is presented to obtain a second tag, the issuing DNR official shall indicate in ink on the reverse side of both the sportsman's license and the validated tag the date of issuance of the second tag, his name and title, plus enter the sportsman's license number on the second tag issued.

Don't throw it away!

Put it in the

Tribune classifieds

Waltonian camp slippers with attached black, holey stockings which are ageless, irreplaceable and totally necessary to peace of mind. People invariably say "they must be comfortable", which will give you an idea how bad they really look.

Lots of years ago, Joe Brand, the local game warden used to take us neighborhood kids fishing and he always wore the same dirty, smelly wool shirt...said it caught trout and repelled black flies. It also repelled Mrs. Brand and he was obliged to keep it in the garage. Even there it made itself known to Passers-by and one day Mrs. Brand washed it. They whole neighborhood turned in on Joe's reaction. It was quite positive.

There's no practical basis for this blind devotion to ancient accessories, for insulated vests outheat holy sweaters any old time. I guess, then, this must be the adult version of the old security blanket, with past performance being the most dependable criterion for future fun.

I'll tip my brown, moldy pancake to that...

What's Cooking: Buttermilk recipes

by Carl Olson

Michigan Department of Agriculture

Friends of mine suggested an interesting combination of ingredients in a recipe not long ago. It utilizes chicken and buttermilk, both of whitch are products the Michigan Department of Agriculture is proud to have as important state agricultural crops.

Taking a one-pound can of tomatoes, discard half the juice and cut the tomatoes into quarters. Add one tablespoon of flour.

Cut up a three-pound chicken, wash and dry it, then saute in a large heavy saucepan with one-third cup onions containing one tablespoon oil and a teaspoon of butter until brown.

Add the tomatoes; a pinch each of salt, white pepper and sugar; and one cup fresh Michigan buttermilk. Stir and simmer 25 to 30 minutes covered.

At this point, add one-quarter cup each of chopped chives, parsley, and snipped dill. Cook an additional 10 minutes and serve immediately.

One thing about this recipe is the aroma you get through your kitchen. Any appetite at all will be stimulated to the point that dinner can't get there soon enough. And then, when you taste the flavor imparted by the buttermilk and spices, it's almost too much to describe.

Serve it to guests and see what they say. Remember, too, buttermilk has many uses in the kitchen. It has great versatility in batters, biscuits, cakes, waffles and pancakes. One of these days, I'll give you our special recipe for Buttermilk Pancakes that are just marvelous.
