Police checking vandalism of equipment

Police agencies in Manistique are investigating two separate incidents of malicious destruction to heavy equipment over the weekend, allegedly involving labor disputes.

Manistique Public Safety officers report that metal shavings were put into the cranks of a crane and backhoe owned by James Slining of Manistique Rental. Officers said the shavings were put in on the night of June 24, while the machines were parked near the sewage plant at the end of the car ferry road.

The case is still under investigation. According to officers, while the vandal's identity is unknown, an organization is suspected to be behind the incidents.

State Police are also investigating a similar complaint of malicious destruction to machinery at the Thompson Fish Hatchery, reported on July 25.

Police report that valve grinding compound was dumped into the cranks of three machines owned by Gutherie Construction Company of Mesick.

Estimated damage was reported at $9,000.

That case also remains under investigation.

Ronald G. Ford

New loan officer at First National

Ronald G. Ford, 29, of Davison has been named Senior Loan Officer of the First National Bank at Manistique.

The appointment of Ford took effect on July 25. Previously, he was employed as a branch manager with Household Finance Corporation since 1970.

A native of Newberry, he graduated from Newberry High School in 1965. He holds an Associated Degree in Banking from Baker Junior College, Flint.

Prior to his position with HFC, Ford served in the U.S. Army, working as an auto assembler and construction lineman.

He and his wife Carol A. Case of Newberry have one daughter, Casey, age 1 1/2.

The Fords will reside at 207 Terrace Ave., Manistique.

Correction

A new dam to control the level of Manistique Lake is planned for the Manistique River and not the Fox River, as stated at the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners meeting last week. Ken Clark, a coordinator of the effort to rebuild a new dam 100 feet downstream from the present structure located in Schoolcraft County but owned by Luce County, said the new dam would be a half mile south of the confluence of the Fox and Manistique rivers. Construction is planned for this fall.

Board looks at hospital patient care

Patient care at Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital was again the topic of discussion at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees' meeting last Wednesday, July 20.

The board of trustees heard individual reports from members of the professional staff and board members, including a report from Board Chairman, Howard Hewitt.

"I visited with 34 patients," Hewitt told the board, "and out of those 34, 31 had absolutely no complaints."

Hewitt said two other complaints concerned the food and one complaint was about a nurse being late.

Hewitt said he visited the hospital patients on four different occasions, June 19, 22, 23 and 27. The three complaints were termed as minor compared with the 31 other comments.

Other board members echoed thoughts along the same line as they said they found overall quality good and that patients seemed to be pleased with the care given at the hospital.

One board member indicated that since the dismissal of the former director of nurses, Fran Holthus, a lighter, almost congenial atmosphere was prevalent in the hospital.

Cal Jenerou, trustee, said he talked with six patients and the only complaint he heard was that the food was cold.

Hospital Administrator James Gardner, backed the reports of the board members, saying that during his routine visits with hospital patients, most of them expressed satisfaction with the quality of care.

Dr. Robert Urban, chief of staff, told the board that he noticed that since the director of nurses had left, there was no longer the "talking behind the back."

"All of those things brought out at the previous meeting, I don't hear about," Dr. Urban told the board.

Hewitt urged board members to continue their periodic visits to the hospital and report all complaints to the administrator, to be corrected.

Gardner also told the board that the hospital is still actively seeking a director of nurses. He said he interviewed two persons for the job last month, but one wasn't qualified and the other showed no interest in the position.

Executive Placement of North Carolina was contacted by Gardner, who said he expects to receive some resumes shortly through that company.

In other business Wednesday night, Gardner reported that a portable life function monitor that was recently purchased is now being used. He said it is not used for hospital patients because the hospital already has monitors. The new monitor, the Life Pak Five by Physin Control, is being used at the Schoolcraft Medical Care Facility and in ambulances when patients are being transferred to other hospitals.

Money for the monitors was donated by the Manistique Lions Club, the doctors and the medical care facility.

A decline in number of patients admitted, patient days, and the average length of stay and the number of major surgeries performed over last year was also reported.

The number of out-patient visits and births were up, according to Gardner, who said that the number of minor operations performed remained the same.

SOME ASKED FOR IT. Still others didn't want it. Some even begged for it such as the youngster above. The youngsters were participating in a Pep-tot program from Lakeside school last Friday, July 22, at the Manistique Marina.

Doing what else? Having a water balloon fight. In the midst of the heat wave last week, the timing was perfect.

School board OKs seeking $420,000 loan

The Manistique Area School Board of Education Tuesday night prepared to wage a "battle against the money" as they attempted to balance a budget that has already seen several major trimmings.

During a three-hour session of the regular board meeting, new board members reviewed the proposed budget and questioned major increases in various categories.

Members of the board also passed a resolution to borrow $420,000 against state aid to keep the district operating through December of this year.

"I think it's sad we have to use taxpayers' money to pay interest on a loan and we don't even have enough money to run the programs we should have," commented Dr. Bruce Steinfeldt, board president.

Superintendent Richard Bonifas told the board that the school anticipates having approximately $18,000 in cash available August 1.

He cited projections through September, October, November and early December as calling for $420,000 of borrowed money to carry the school through at least the first quarter of the year. The money would be in addition to accounts receivable and state aid.

The board will let bids to various lending institutions for interest rates before actually borrowing the money.

Bonifas also reminded the board that resignations of four teachers have been accepted by the board including two accepted during the meeting.

Sue Kingsley, elementary teacher and Ann Hendricks, vocal music teacher, both submitted their resignations. Previously the board had accepted the resignations of Pauline Miller, elementary teacher at Hiawatha. Mrs. Marvin Frederickson had retired earlier this year. She was a commercial subjects teacher in the high school.

"The advice we got is to let them run their course," says Hepker, who said they are probably in the last stages of their cycle now.

"From what we know, they will get hit by a bacterial disease which will wipe out the majority of them," Hepker said. "At least that's what happened in New England and on South Manitou."

The winding road leading to the Magoon cottage, and several others on the shore of Smit Lake, is a typical country shady lane, complete with a "tunnel" formed by branches overhanging the road.

"Three weeks ago you could drive down this road and it would be all shade. Now look at it," laments Magoon, pointing to the sunlit gravel road. According to Magoon, defoliation of the trees forming the "tunnel" took place in two days.

Trees currently seem to be the mainstay of the saddle prominent, but there is evidence they will eat almost anything.

Mrs. William Tiglas, Smith Lake resident, said that over the past week, they have invaded her garden.

"I planted 16 tomato plants and now you can't even tell I planted one. I'm down to one head of cabbage, too," she says. "The Council delays fair site vote

Approval of a proposed site for a multi-purpose building to be erected by the Schoolcraft County Fair Association has been postponed by the Manistique City Council.

The council Monday night heard a request from Elvin Hepker, fair board member, to deed a 300 x 300 foot parcel of city land in Central Park to the fair association, but questions were raised over the uses and responsibility for the building.

Hepker told the council that the fair board had no intention of requesting extra help or money from the city for the operation of the proposed 80 by 200 foot pole building, which is being considered for use in the winter as an indoor ice rink.

But Councilmember Doug Rose opposed the location, and added that a legal description should be shown to the council before any action could be taken.

Councilmember Mary Moffat, who had moved that the land be deeded over to the county, substituted a motion calling for City Attorney Mike Brooks to prepare a legal description of the property and a proposed agreement for the disposition of the building if a county fair is not held in it.

The property is north and east of Cardinal Field. A permanent horse arena also is planned in the parcel on the north side of the building site.

Rick Larson, city recreation director, said the recreation board met that afternoon and favored deeding the land to the fair association.

A special council meeting to decide on the request was discussed for Monday night, but no firm date had been set as of press time.

In other business, the council: -tabled consideration of special assessment district for McNamara's Trailer Park, after Brooks said that the park owner had withdrawn a petition to establish a district.

-adopted lineal charges for the municipal marina, retaining a $3.50 per foot charge for this year and increasing per foot charges to $5 for 1978 and $6.50 for 1979. A letter explaining the fee schedule was approved for mailing to the Department of Natural Resources Waterways Division.

-rejected a long bid of $97,480 from Germain Construction Company to build a new community center around the present youth center in Central Park. The city has only $60,000 budgeted in Community Development Program funds for the project. City Manager Robert Risik was instructed to rebid.

-accepted a $5,500 bid from Pentometer Associates of Chicago to conduct a water system leak survey.

-tabled a request from the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners that the city remove curbing and sidewalk from Lake Street between Walnut and Main streets so that the county could complete landscaping on the east side of the courthouse.

Earl LeBrasseur, chairperson of the board's building and grounds committee, said in a letter to the council that former City Manager Rush Cattell verbally agreed to have city crews do the work. The matter was to be discussed at the special meeting.

-instructed Risik to send a letter to Hiawatha Township informing the government unit that the city's $1,600 flat rate for fire protection will stay the same, despite the township board's action to make other arrangements for protection north of the Thompson-Hiawatha townships boundary.

Risik said the main cost is for basic service, not distance.

-postponed action on an offer by the DNR to improve a river boat launch site on city land at the north end of Cedar Street as a substitute for an Indian River site at the Wyman Nursery. William Olesak, a local boater, said he had used the site for 35 years and opposed a substitute.

Olesak said the new nursery manager was concerned about thievery at the nursery when the gates are unlocked, but that there was no problem. DNR officials were to be invited to the next regular meeting.

-rescinded the appointment of Gail Mathson to the Manistique Youth Commission, conforming with a charter provision prohibiting the appointment of councilmember relatives. She is married to Councilmember Peter Mathson.

-designated Councilmember Moffat as voting delegate to the annual Michigan Municipal League Meeting in Grand Rapids Sept. 28-30.

-authorized Risik to advertise for bids to sell the Triangle Park property, stipulating a minimum bid of $20,000.

Alex Meron of 103 North Third St. objected to the proposed sale, saying the value may rise higher once a new highway is built and that the city's centennial capsule is buried on the site.

-learned that the Paul Bunyan sign near Lincoln School will be painted by the end of August using HUD money, through an agreement between Edison Sault electric Company and the Manistique Cable TV Co.

On Wednesday, July 20, the city zoning board of appeals granted a variance for construction on the fair building site.

Manistee man held on attempted rape

A 35-year-old Manistee man has been arrested by State Police and charged with three counts of felony in connection with an incident involving alleged rape last Wednesday, July 20, 15 miles north of Manistique.

Richard B. Oakley, 35, of Manistee, was arrested by State Police from the Mumsing post on M-28 shortly after the incident involving a 23-year-old woman from Oregon.

According to reports, the Oregon woman was hitchhiking several miles west of the Mackinac bridge, when Oakley picked her up. The woman was reportedly going to North Dakota to visit relatives and planned on taking U.S.-2 the entire way.

However, when Oakley reached Manistique he turned onto M-94 and proceeded to head out of town. The woman reportedly became upset and jumped out of the car when she spotted an oncoming vehicle.

When the oncoming car slowed down, Oakley took off, reports say. He was apprehended shortly after and transferred to Manistique.

Oakley has been charged with possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony, felonious assault and assault with intent to commit rape while in possession of a hand gun.

Oakley has been bound over to Circuit Court on all three counts and is lodged in Schoolcraft County Jail pending court appearance.

Sound of 'rain' could mean insect havoc

by Mark Eisenlohr

There is a new sound around the woods these days. Mixed with the silent swaying of the tree and occasional calls from high-flying birds, comes a sound similar to the sound of rain.

But, while rain usually brings life and rejuvenation to living things, this sound is deadly.

It is the sound of the saddled prominent, (Heterocampa guttivitta) a worm that defoliates trees, leaving them stripped and bare. Eventually it will kill a tree.

It's no longer isolated cases being reported. According to some residents of Smith Lake, north of Manistique, there are "billions" of them.

The deceptive raining sound comes from the excrement of the insect. As it eats the leaves, preferring hardwoods to other varieties, it excretes at almost the same rate, creating a virtual bottomless pit.

"It's a problem, it's a big problem," says Howard Magoon, who owns a cottage on the south side of Smith Lake. "They prefer beech, then birch, and maple. But it really looks like they're going after anything that is green."

Because it is a problem and because they attack with such ferocity, Schoolcraft County residents have been calling MSU extension director El Hepker, in an attempt to determine ways to control the caterpillar.

Until Wednesday morning, Hepker said, he didn't even know what it was. But entomologists at MSU forwarded information relating to the pest early Wednesday.

"From what we know of the saddled prominent, it migrated from the eastern states. Last year there was a real bad invasion on South Manitou Islands," Hepker said.

"What can you do about it, there are billions of them," Magoon says, shaking his head.

Magoon says he first noticed them about three weeks ago on trees near the lake on his property.

"I must have picked off three to four hundred of them and threw them to the fish—you can put that in your article—the fish really like them," Magoon says.

Hepker said the caterpillars have a five-year cycle. They appear in small numbers at first and increase in population towards the end of the cycle.

"The advice we got is to let them run their course," says Hepker, who said they are probably in the last stages of their cycle now.

"From what we know, they will get hit by a bacterial disease which will wipe out the majority of them," Hepker said. "At least that's what happened in New England and on South Manitou."

The winding road leading to the Magoon cottage, and several others on the shore of Smit Lake, is a typical country shady lane, complete with a "tunnel" formed by branches overhanging the road.

"Three weeks ago you could drive down this road and it would be all shade. Now look at it," laments Magoon, pointing to the sunlit gravel road. According to Magoon, defoliation of the trees forming the "tunnel" took place in two days.

Trees currently seem to be the mainstay of the saddle prominent, but there is evidence they will eat almost anything.

Mrs. William Tiglas, Smith Lake resident, said that over the past week, they have invaded her garden.

"I planted 16 tomato plants and now you can't even tell I planted one. I'm down to one head of cabbage, too," she says. "The labelled the "blue spruce worm."

"We first noticed it when they ate the needles off one of our small blue spruce trees," she says. The Gattens sprayed the trees and have thus far seen no further destruction to the pine trees.

Other areas in and around the county have been experiencing the same invasion of the saddles prominent as those residents of Smith Lake. Hepker said he has received reports from every township with the exception of Doyle and Mueller.

The area is being monitored by the Department of Natural Resources, the Federal Forest Service and Michigan State University, Hepker said.

Meanwhile, the saddled prominent continues to eat the leaves, occasionally moving down to a garden, but sticking for the most part in the forest.

There has been speculation that this may be the final year of their life cycle. If so, a disease will befall the worms sometime in middle August, and they will die. If not, then Schoolcraft County, and perhaps the rest of the Upper Peninsula will see them next year.

THE LAST in a series of chamber music concerts is scheduled for this Sunday, July 31, at the Zion Lutheran Church. Dr. Robert King, left, violinist, Mary King, pianist, and John Riley, cellist, will be the featured performers.

Final chamber concert Sunday

The third and final concert of the summer chamber music series will be presented this Sunday, July 31, at the Zion Lutheran Church, at 8 p.m.

Noted cellist, John Riley will appear in the program, featuring music for strings and piano. Several popular works from the chamber music repertoire as well as several pieces which are somewhat novel and unusual are scheduled for the evening concert, also.

The most popular piece on the program is a "Serenade" by the Hungarian composer, Dohnanyi. This work is for violin, Viola, and Cello and appears frequently on chamber music programs because of its lush, Romantic melodies, and brilliant writing for strings, which makes it a favorite with performers as well as audiences.

Riley's appearance here represents a continuation of a collaboration with the

Shunk's expands to Marquette

Carl Shunk is leaving the Manistique area to open a new store in Marquette, but the management of Shunk's Home Appliances and Furniture will stay in family hands.

Stanley Shunk, younger brother of Carl, will assume management duties of the store on east U.S. 2 when Carl and his wife Karen move by late August to establish the fourth outlet for the largest family-owned furniture store chain in the U.P.

"It's a chance to expand," Shunk said. "This has been the best year we've had in Manistique ever while the business in 1976. It's been growing."

The Shunk family opened the Manistique store in 1958, followed by a branch in Munising in 1961. The first manager at Manistique was Doug Bennett. Carl became manager in 1972.

Stanley, formerly assistant manager of Shunk's store at Sault Ste. Marie, is a graduate of Sault Ste. Marie High School. He is presently working two days a week in Manistique until the Marquette store is opened.

He and his wife Bonnie plan on residing in Manistique with their two and half year-old son, Stan.

Carl said that the Marquette branch, to be located on U.S. 41 between Negaunee and Marquette will be the largest of all four stores.

The first Shunk store was started 20 years ago in the Soo by Carl's parents, Spencer and Verna Shunk. They retired from the business two years ago and turned the company over to their sons, Spencer, Carl and Stanley and Jerry Spencer, Jerry Dusseault of Munising.

Spencer serves as president and chairman of the board of the Shunk Company, with Carl and Stanley as vice presidents and Jerry as secretary-treasurer.

The Shunk's also own a fabric store in Munising, while their fabric store next to the Manistique store has been closed.

THE EXOTIC DIEFFENBACHIA
 It is often helpful in learning how to care for a house plant to know something specific about its origin. For instance, the dieffenbachia comes from Costa Rica, a country just north of Panama that is so mountainous that it has been called "the Switzerland of America." But it was not on the precipitous mountain slopes that this dieffenbachia was discovered; rather, it was found along the shaded banks of the Rio Ysidro in the lowlands, an area of constant tropical heat and high humidity. That it should prove to be such a durable house plant was fortuitous since the coloration of its leaves spotted and blotched with creamy white zones against a dark green background, made it most desirable as an ornamental plant.

In common with other dieffenbachias, this species does best in what might be called bright shade, a location in which there is abundant light, but no direct sun. It is not surprising that it does well in the warmth of our homes; in fact, it should never be placed where temperatures drop below 65 degrees F. Do not keep the soil constantly moist, but allow it to dry moderately between thorough, deep waterings.

What's Going On

Manistique may be small but it is definitely the place to meet people who live hundreds of miles away and who one hasn't seen in years.

Lou Moir and children, Laura Lee, Steve and Marcus former Manistique residents who now live in Bloomington, Ind. walked into a local restaurant and the first people they saw were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd (Bud) Lindvall from Connecticut who stopped to visit old friends in the area. The women exchanged notes on members of the bridge club to which they both belonged when they lived here.

The Moirs earlier in the day had been guests of the Jack Orrs at an informal gathering held in their honor. They stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ebbi. The Moirs had been counseling at the Mariner's family camp held at Presbytery Point. On the return trip home they were going to stop to visit former Manistique residents Dean and Bonnie Rhoads, who now live in Traverse City.

The Lindvalls had breakfast with Don and Addie McNally before beginning their trek home.

The Gardner family renewed family ties with all branches at a dinner held at the Ramada Inn last weekend and at a gathering held later at the Bauman home.

Relatives enjoying family reminiscences were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack (Lucille Gardner) Hoholik of Plymouth, Wis.; Mrs. Joyce Tebo Cure and four children of Lamont, Ill.; Jerry Tebo and son Jerry of Lamont, Ill.; Mrs. Leo (Faye) Gardner of Manistique; Mrs. Janice Gardner Sorvey and three sons of Lamont, Ill.; Mrs. Lucille Gardner Fagan's daughter Beverly and husband Edward of Saginaw; Mrs. Mike (Doty) Fagan; Mr. and Mrs. Leo (Doris Dugas) Neiditcher of Arlington, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Neiditcher and children and grandchildren of daughter Barbara of Arlington, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Reuben (Doris Stephens) Johnson of Livonia; Mr. and Mrs. William (Merle Stephens) Bauman and sons Billy, Jon and Stephan; and Donna Bauman and children of Manistique.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olsen and children Susie, Jill, Robbie and Jeannie of Warren are enjoying a two-week U.P. vacation. They visited his sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaFord and Mrs. Audrey Herbst and his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Pete Olsen.

Paul and Chris Edwards and children Joshua and Rachel spent an enjoyable vacation with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Cooper. Carol Cooper of Marquette was also home for a few days.

Boy Scout Troop 402 has returned after a week of cooking for themselves at Camp Hiawatha.

Girl Scouts Mary Hawn, Elizabeth Senger and Debbie Patterson have just returned from camp too. They attended the peninsula-wide Girl Scout Camp held at Convent Point Bible Camp at Hagerman Lake near Iron River.

Father Crowley of Pittsburgh is a houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nelson.

Molly Sellman of Ann Arbor vacationed at the home of her great aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nelson and at the Robert Sellman home.

The David Eriksens are having a busy summer. The George Klemprirk family of Flint spent 10 days with them recently. Other guests have been Mr. and Mrs. Leif Erikson of Medina, Ill. and Mrs. Lula Erikson of Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Eriksen and sons of Columbus, Ohio and his mother Mrs. Marjorie Eriksen of Newark, Ohio are spending several sun-filled days at the Nor-Jand Cabins.

Eileen Renton and Marjorie Richards attended a Women's Club workshop in Iron Mountain on Tuesday. They learned several new projects and program ideas which they hope to share with their club in the fall.

Travelling from LaTuque Canada to visit Mrs. Ida Goudreau were Mr. and Mrs. Sylvio Pelletier and daughter. Ida is now having a good visit with her niece and her family Mr. and Mrs. James Bush and sons Shawn and Ryan of Lewiston, N.Y.

Program designed to ease burden of energy costs

Low-income Michigan senior citizens will soon be the target of a $13.26 million crisis intervention program aimed at easing the burden of last winter's energy costs.

The money is Michigan's share of $200 million recently appropriated by Congress to help low income households, particularly the elderly poor, in paying overdue utility-fuel bills. The program, to be administered by the Department of Social Services, was scheduled to start on July 15 with a mass mailing of applications to seniors.

For households headed by persons 65 years of age or older, with incomes of less than 125 percent of Community Services Administration poverty guidelines, this program authorizes a one time payment of up to $250 to cover unpaid energy-fuel bills. Annual household income cannot exceed for one person, $3,713; two persons, $4,913; three persons, $6,113; four persons, $7,313 and have experienced undue financial burden resulting from last winter's heating costs.

Any person meeting the above requirements is eligible for assistance under one, or both, of the program's phases. The program also authorizes payments of $50 to household, authorized by person's meeting the eligibility requirements, regardless of the status of their fuel accounts. An eligible person may receive assistance for unpaid energy bills and the $50 cash grant providing total payment does not exceed the $250 limit.

To participate in this program, individuals will be required to file an application form with the Department of Social Services or at the Senior Citizens Center. All applications must be returned by Aug. 15.

Any person with questions regarding application procedures or eligibility status or who failed to receive an application, should contact their local Department of Social Services, the Manistique Senior Citizens Center, 823 Range Street, Manistique; Gernfask Senior Citizens Center, Gernfask; or call, toll free (1-800-292-5930) for further information.

Senior All-Stars host sectional

The Manistique Senior League All-Stars, defending U.P. champs, host the Gaylord and Saginaw regional winners this weekend to determine a berth in the state tournament the following weekend at Grand Rapids.

Manistique disposed of Marquette 13-2 Sunday, after nearly pulling out an exciting come from behind win in the second game of the U.P. finals Saturday at Cardinal Field.

Manistique pitcher Brian Smith hurled a four-hitter in Sunday's contest, striking out 10 Marquette batters and rapping a triple and a single to aid his cause.

The all-stars scored one run in the fourth inning, exploded for nine in the sixth inning to sew up the title, and added three more insurance runs in the seventh.

Top hitters for the afternoon were Bob Danko with two doubles and Kevin Johnson with two singles.

On Saturday, Manistique won the first game as Al Scheutter limited Marquette to four hits in a 7-3 conquest. Manistique put three runs across in the first inning and added four more in the third.

In the second game of the day, Marquette led the entire way, with Kevin Johnson picking up the 11-10 loss.

Trailing 7-4 going into their last time at bat, the local all-stars crossed the plate three times and retired Marquette batters in the bottom of the seventh to send the game into extra innings.

Manistique tallied three more runs in the eighth to hold a brief 10-7 lead, as four Marquette runs in the bottom of the inning ended the contest.

This weekend, the section championship will be determined in a double elimination tournament.

In the first game at 4 p.m. Friday, the Gaylord and Saginaw regional winners will face each other. The winner will play Manistique at 6:30 p.m. Games are also set for 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, with a 2 p.m. time scheduled for a Sunday game, if needed.

All games will be played at Cardinal Field.

Brownettes lose out at Ishpeming tournament

The Manistique Brownettes, one of the top women's softball teams in Schoolcraft County, traveled to an invitational baseball tournament in Ishpeming this past weekend, capturing one game and losing two others.

In the first game of the tournament, the Brownettes defeated Hicks Chicks of Ishpeming, 12-7. Their skill did not hold out, however, as they bowed to Joseph's, Super Market, 25-20, and the Canucks of Sault Ste. Marie Ont., 16-1.

Winning pitcher in the first game was Karen Norbotten, who also headed the staff on the pitching mound for the two losing games. Donna Krusic came in on the fifth inning in the second game to relieve Norbotten, while Mary Krusic entered the pitching field during the first inning in the third and final game to relieve Norbotten.

The invitational tournament was won by Dawn's Party Store of Gwinn.

Action during the first games against Hicks' Chicks, saw top of the order, Kathy Moffat, Bev Henriksen, Joan Rubick and Mary Krusic hit four straight doubles to override two runs scored earlier by Hicks, 3-2.

Hicks' picked up a run in the third and top of the fourth saw them receive three runs to set the score at 6-3.

Diane Herro got on a base on a left fielder error in the bottom of the fourth and Norbotten, Sue Bellville, and Sis Farley all scored singles to load the bases.

Herro came home on single hit by Bellville to set the score at 6-4.

A pop fly to deep short hit by Marty Snyder drove Norbotten in to raise the score, 6-5. A single by Moffat set the score at 6-6. Rubick took a base on a fielders choice while Farley came in to score at 7-6.

A double by Henriksen ended the fourth inning of play with an 8-6 score.

Hick's picked up a run during the top of the fifth but a single by Donna Krusic, a double by Herro and a ground out to second by Norbotten drove Krusic in to raise the score once again, 9-7.

Sixth inning action saw Rubick hit a single, to get on base while Henriksen took a base on a ground to shortstop.

Police say she pulled her vehicle into the path of David A. Kovar, 24, of Engadine when she turned around to head east back into town.

Public Safety officers also charged Michael W. Carlson, 18, of Duluth, Minn. for allegedly leaving the scene of an accident and drunk and disorderly on July 27.

Carlson was attempting to park his car when he struck another parked car. According to police, Carlson left the scene of the accident, and was arrested several blocks away.

State Police arrested James R. Burns, on July 26 on a fugitive warrant from the Saginaw County Jail and Federal offenses of counterfeiting and bond jumping.

School Board... from 1A

Approved holding a special meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 1, for the purpose of completing the agenda. The board adjourned with only half of the agenda completed. Budget discussions are expected to continue at the Aug. 1 meeting.

"Service is Our Most Important Project." and this is the way our center has based its operation for quite some time. I'd like to refresh your memory to see if you need any of our services.

1. Transportation: In our handicap van equipped with a lift, we will transport any wheelchair user regardless of age throughout our county. We need one-day previous notice. The other van is for people 60 or older and they may call for a ride and receive it on a two-hour notice. Call backs are on demand. That is, if we take you to the doctor, when your appointment is over, we can pick you up within 30 minutes. Because we have public transit van the fee is 25 cents a ride (for people 60 and older) for town transportation. This is strictly by donation, if 25 cents is too much for an expense for you, you can ride free of charge.

2. Home-maker aides: We have been given two capable ladies who will clean your home (wash floors, windows, walls, vacuum) for people who are living on a meager wage and cannot do it themselves. Now, what is a meager wage? If you have a hard time living from pay day to pay day and cannot afford to hire someone, we will help you. These girls are paid a salary from the Concentrated Employment Training Act, which is funded by your tax dollar and mine, so please feel free to use this service. If you are healthy, strong and well-off, this program should not be for you. There is no charge for this service.

3. Lawn mowing and yard work: We have two people to help you in this task. We do ask for a donation if you have to use our lawn mower and gas, because we have to pay for the gas and lawn-mowers that we bought on our own money.

4. Blood pressure clinic and in-home health calls: Our nurse, Bertha Davis, will go into your home for minor nursing, care, and she also holds blood pressure clinics at six different sites throughout the county. We ask for a small donation, if possible, to take care of the equipment we have to purchase.

5. Information, referral and counseling: If you need advice or information, come in and we'll refer you to the proper agency that may help you and set up your appointment, if you wish. Mrs. Males will see if she can help you in problems that you are encountering.

6. Homestead tax exemption: We have a trained tax clerk, Ruth Miller, on our staff who will fill out these forms for anyone 60 and older. Call for an appointment at 341-2021.

7. Health screening program: In conjunction with the Menominee-Delta-Schoolcraft Community Action Agency, health screening is done at our center for anyone 55 and older. When this service is scheduled there are news releases.

8. Educational program and speakers: In conjunction with the Manistique Area Community Schools, interesting educational classes are held from October - May at the center. This year an especially interesting two-day program on Wills and Trusts was sponsored by U.P.C.A.P. and Northern Michigan University for the older person of this area. The next class on Wills and Trusts will be held on Sept. 14. Anyone 60 and older may call the center for reservations.

9. Telephone Re-Assurance Program: We will telephone you during the week to check on your well-being.

10. We offer Laundry Facilities: Due to a large number of elderly living in homes that do not have hot water and proper plumbing, a heavy duty washer and dryer have been installed at the center for you. If you are ill or disabled, we will pick up your laundry and bring it back clean and folded.

11. Medical Care Facility outings: Starting spring until fall, on Tuesdays, we take patients on a two-hour trip and they really have fun. A stop is made at an ice cream stand and the rider is always treated. They have a sing-a-long on our van and this the highlight of their week.

Because our older folks are in a nursing home, they are not forgotten. Volunteer visitors and the center's help also do friendly visitations.

1. Adult sitting: We will adult sit for the family of invalids 60 and older one afternoon a week so they can get away from the home.

13. Visitation program: A center's staff member makes regular home and hospital visitations to shut-ins. Our band and chorus entertains at nursing homes, bring lots of smiles and good cheer.

14. Minor home repairs and painting: We have a man employed on the Green Thumb Program who will paint and putty windows and do minor painting and minor repair work (on first floor). This is done free of charge but you have to furnish materials.

15. Recreational programs: A wide variety of activities are held at or sponsored by the center, Monday through Friday and are listed on our activity column.

16. Newsletter: We have a very professional eight page monthly newsletter, published by the Pioneer-Tribune, which features stories of interest for the elderly, has our activity calendar and many other good items. Subscription is $2 a year and will be sent to anyone on request.

17. Travel and Tour: We feature one-day trips plus longer tours by bus through Delta Travel and Tour.

18. A Senior Citizens Thrift Store is operated at 218 Oak St., Manistique, and is run by senior volunteers. An especially fine selection of good used clothing is featured at very reasonable prices; also hand-made quilts, afghans, knit wear and items too numerous to mention. Crafts of the older person is sold on consignment with 90 percent going to the person and 10 percent to the store.

19. Shopping assistance: Anyone who cannot do their own shopping a center's aide will do it for you.

The Manistique Senior Citizens Center is located at 823 Range Street and is opened from 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. The transportation telephone number is 341-2021 and the director's telephone number is 341-5923.

Memorials were given to the Manistique Senior Citizens Center in the name of Todd Bender by Francis and Arlene Boamer, Bill and Roberta Swanson, Mary and Wilbur Chartier, Design Mark, Inc., Bill and Neta Wright, Ada Livermore, Rose Graves and Freda and Ernest Smith.

A memorial was given to the center in the name of Henry DeSautel by his grandsons, Brian and Kevin Rogers of Neenah, Wis.

Building fund donations came from Jim and Lorna Mitchell, Lial and Lillian Lake and Chet and Grace Rivers.

Viola Richmire gave a donation for the Band and Chorus picnic.

Thrift Store donations came from Mary Londe, Elsie McEwan, Lillian Demas, Dolores Hokenson, Gertrude Frelanz, Mr. and Mrs. C. Henderson of Rosemont, Illinois, Gladys Heinz and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lambert and Tom and Erma McManus.

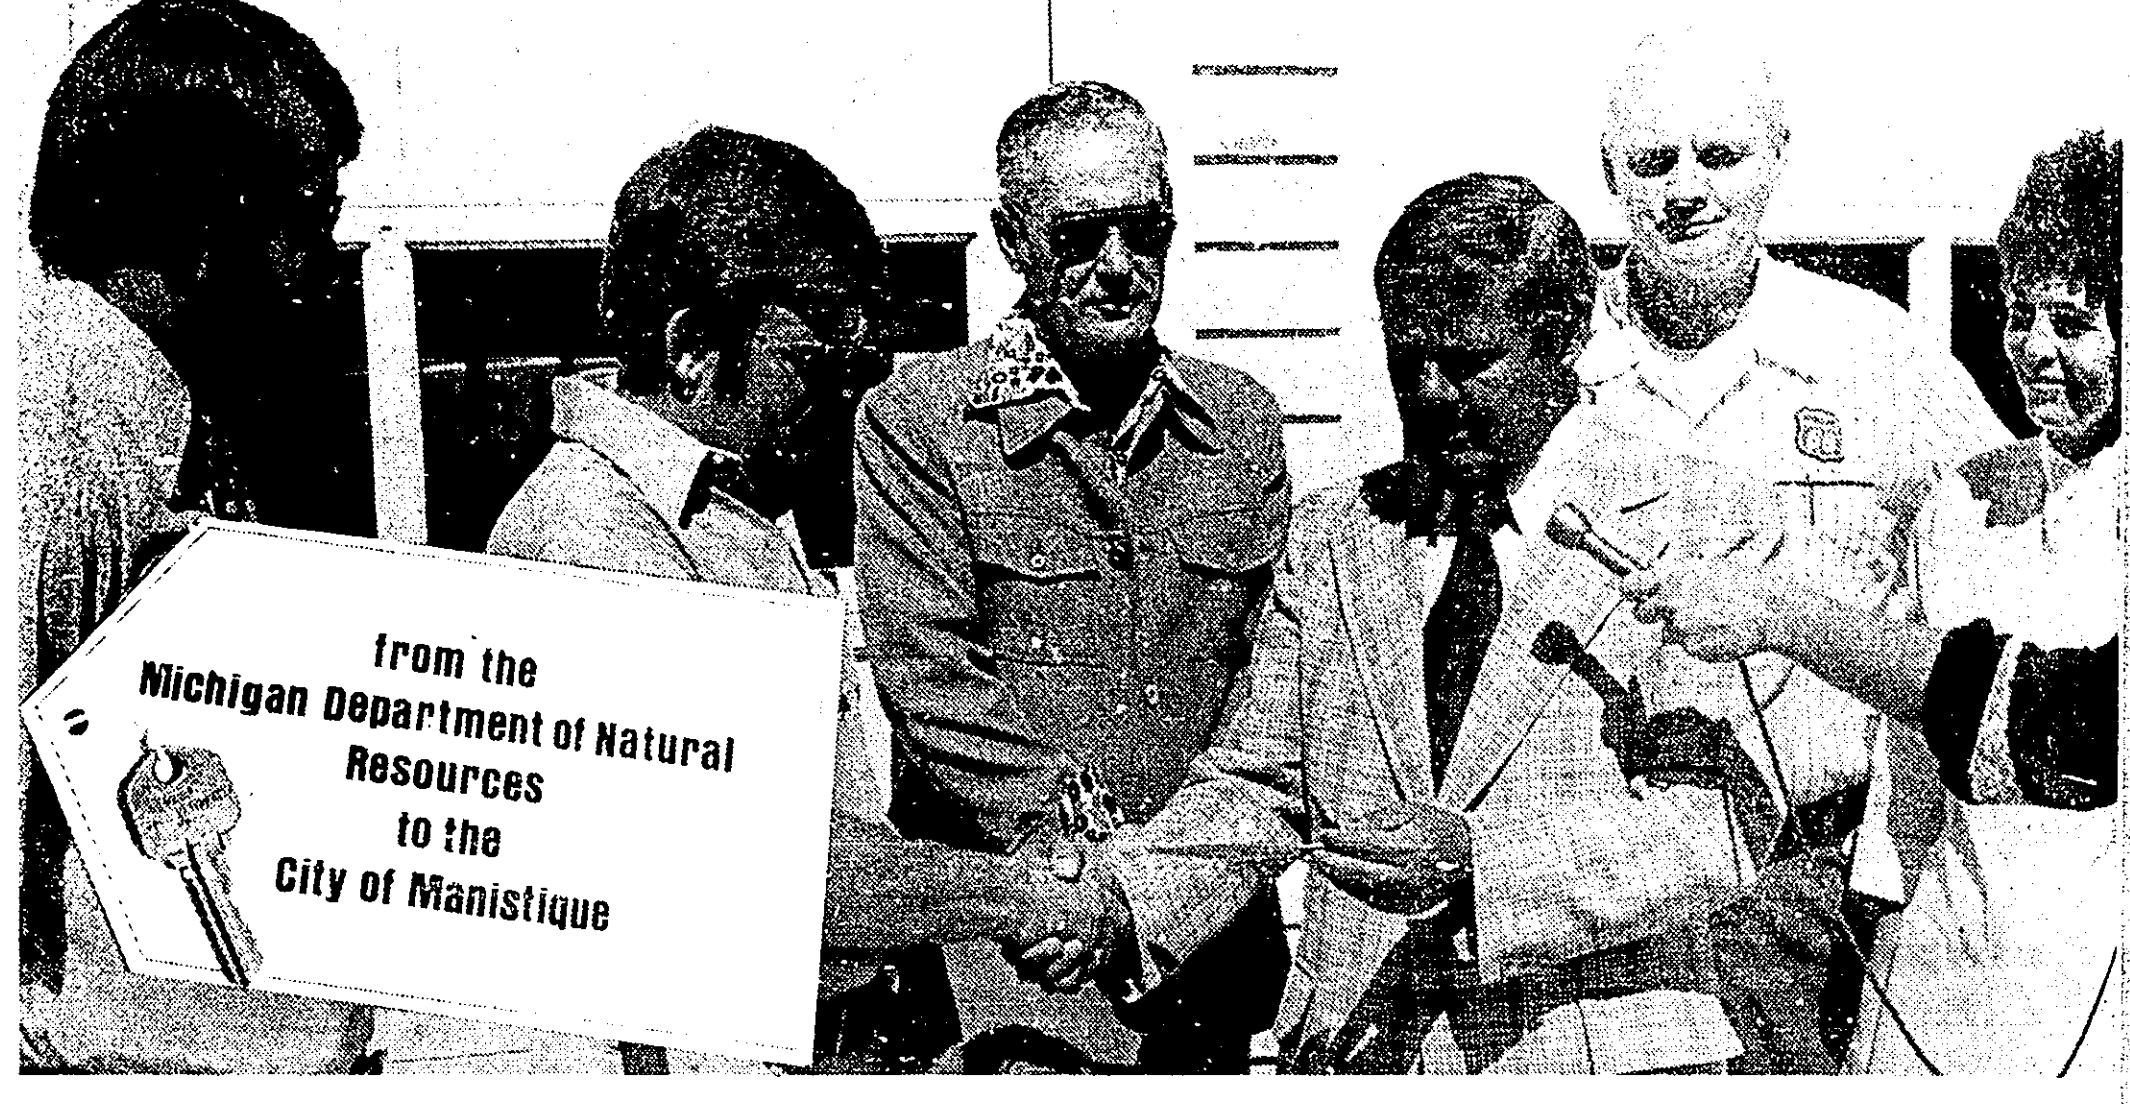

Baked goods were brought in by Viola Richmire, Alice Neville, Miryle Quick and Gladys Heinz.

Dolphine Rogers made the darlings; baby bonnets and sets for our thrift store with proceeds going to the center.

All these many acts of kindness are so deeply appreciated. If we have inadvertently forgot someone, please remind us of your special donation.

Coming events: This Friday, Community Action Agency Senior Citizens picnic at Pioneer Trailer Park; Aug. 12, Senior Citizens Convention in Munising; and Aug. 19, Senior Citizens Fair Day, Escanaba. Bertha Davis is representing our county in the Senior Citizens Queen Contest and band and chorus will compete in the afternoon talent contest.

Manistique: Go ahead, tell them

Manistique residents could have told them that....

The National Park Service is conducting a survey of over 300 historic industrial and engineering sites in the Upper Peninsula this summer.

"This is an unusually rich area in historic sites," says Charles Hyde. "The Upper Peninsula hasn't experienced such rapid growth as many other areas, and many excellent examples of early industrial development are still intact here."

Manistique residents could have told them that....

The Upper Peninsula project is part of a nationwide survey program conducted by the Historical American Engineering Record of the National Park Service. A similar survey of the lower peninsula was conducted by Hyde last year.

The National Park Service is on its way to committing a horrendous mistake, however. There's more history than what can be found in industrial sites.

Granted, industrial sites provided a foundation for much of the activity and migration to the Upper Peninsula. But, it was the people who created, or endured, the most interesting history.

Manistique residents could tell them that....

It had been since Dec. 2, 1976 when the first installment of Memoirs rolled off the presses.

Once wrote that Carl Sandburg said the past is a bucket of ashes.

Well, if the past has burned, then Schoolcraft County residents have sifted through the remains and kept the memories. Since that first column came out, discussions (I prefer to call the column a "discussion" of past events) have taken place on a variety of subjects.

They range from the Ossawinamakee Hotel; mail runner Indian Elik; the days of silent movies; terrible winters and nice days; cheap dinners; former residents, now well-remembered by friends who recount amusing incidents; who owned the first automobile in Schoolcraft County, (an ongoing debate, I believe); Indian Town; the "Rawleigh Man"; and multitude of odds and ends concerning the lighter side of yesterday.

Memoirs

But, if it's industry the National Park Service wants, Manistique could still tell them a few things.

In a booklet printed in 1930 entitled "Manistique and its Industries", some 21 histories are given of an equal amount of institutions.

Ranging from the Manistique Pulp and Paper Company to the Edwin Bell Company, the booklet provides a brief history of each industry located in Manistique at the time.

Focus of the National Parks survey is on both active as well as non-operating industries and both functioning and abandoned engineering structures, such as bridges, water towers, etc., according to Hyde.

Again, Manistique could tell them a few things with one of the most unique water towers and a one-of-a-kind siphon bridge located right here. Two amazing facts of engineering, I'd say.

By mid-September, Hyde expects to have all U.P. counties surveyed. So far, he has registered and photographed sites in Luce, Chippewa, Mackinac, Delta, Menominee, Dickinson and Iron Counties.

A record of each site is being made, including a brief description, history and location, four photographs, and a location map.

The site information and photographs will be compiled into a book, to be published early in 1978, Hyde said. Copies will be made available to U.P. libraries, historical societies, colleges and universities, county road commissions, city engineers and planning agencies.

Hyde is being assisted in his survey by Stephen Shephard, and NMU graduate student, and Glenn Grossman, a Northern graduate who is doing advanced studies at Michigan State University.

Original Big Springs raft

RAFTING DOWN the Indian River: No, not really. It's the first raft installed at Big Spring to give visitors a better view of the bubbling cauldron. Pictured on the raft are newlyweds Erik and Lula Eriksen. They were touring the Big Springs while on their honeymoon. Mrs. Eriksen brought the picture into the Pioneer-Tribune this week.

The Eriksens have been coming to the area since 1925 for vacations each summer. Mr. Eriksen has a list of well known relatives currently living here. Harry Eriksen, brother of Erik, was once mayor of Manistique. Incidentally, the picture was taken in 1920.

Beginning admissions cycle for 1978 med class

The Upper Peninsula Medical Education Program (UPMEP), a four-year primary care medical education program leading to an M.D. degree from Michigan State University, is beginning its admissions cycle preparatory to admitting students for its fall 1978 entering class.

"The program is seeking candidates for consideration who have an interest in primary care medicine and who have some ties to the Upper Peninsula," said Bert Shitten, Ph.D., chairman of Michigan State University's Upper Peninsula Medical Education Program Admissions Committee.

Pre-med students who are completing the State of Michigan requirements for medical school and who have taken the Medical College Admissions Test (MCAT), or who intend to take in on Oct. 2, are encouraged to apply to the UPMEP. Deadline for the MCAT registration is Sept. 1, 1977.

Admission to the program is made by applying to Michigan State University through the American Medical College Application Service (AMCAS).

Students who are interested in applying should contact Sandy Ralph, Secretary for Admissions, UPMEP, 540 West Kaye Avenue, Marquette, Michigan 49855, for applications for the Medical College Admissions Test and the American Medical College Application Service. For additional program information, contact Paul T. Werner, M.D., Acting Director, UPMEP, Bay de Noc Family Health Center, Escanaba, Mich. 49829.

Off a water quality 'black' list

Manistique has been deleted from a list of water quality problem areas on the Great Lakes.

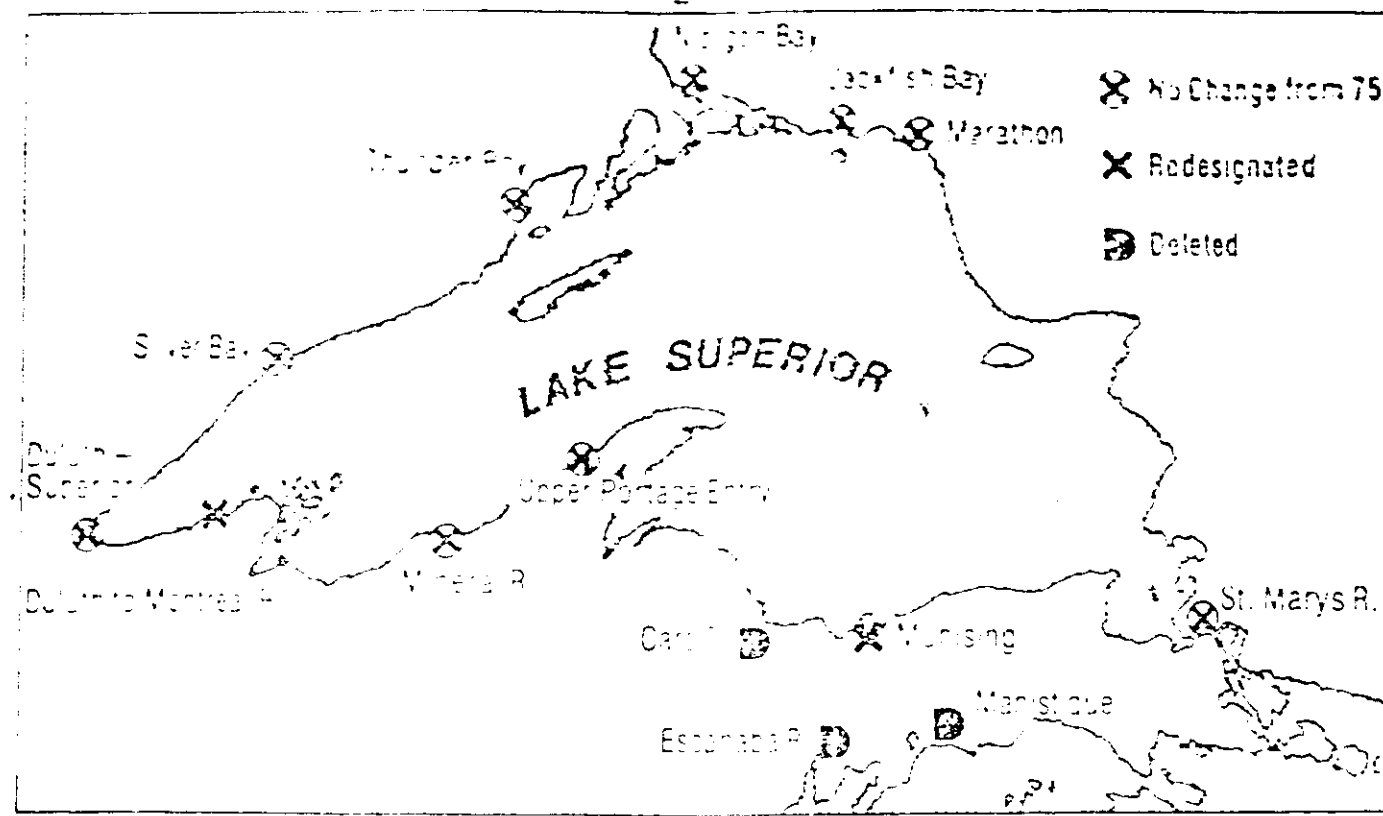

That news suggests a good future for the Manistique River and the lakeshore. New secondary waste water treatment plants for the city and the Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. should significantly limit discharges into the river.

This area was deleted as a problem area in information reviewed at the International Joint Commission meeting in Windsor, Ont. on July 21. The Great Lakes Water Quality Board reported overall progress in municipal and industrial pollution abatement and phosphorus control programs.

The board listed significant discharges in the problem areas, setting in a different category discharges such as the Manistique area that are on compliance schedules and approaching conditions specified in permits or guidelines.

In other action, enforcement activities were urged against the City of Detroit because of its sewage treatment plant, Reserve Mining Company of Silver Bay, Minn. and American Can of Canada Limited of Marathon, Ont.

Other northern Great Lakes dischargers identified as having incomplete remedial programs include Abitibi Paper Company, Alpena-Thunder Bay area; Bergstrom Paper Company, Neenah, Wis.; and Scott Paper Co., Oconto Falls, Wis.

The board also stressed a need for strict control of toxic substances including chlorine, silver and Mirex, and that governments evaluate chemical hazards to human health posed by persistent substances in the Great Lakes ecosystem.

The challenges for water quality still remain. But the Manistique area can take heart in the fact that it is part of a progress story in pollution control.

Let's return to the dime phone call

Dealing with the phone company has always been something of a challenge. Regardless of whether it is General Telephone or a member company of the Bell System, it is usually a hassle to deal with the bureaucracy they have created.

Since the phone company has a monopoly in the area they are supposed to serve it can be a challenge to try and get the service to which you are entitled.

I thought that I had had most every experience possible with the phone company until last month.

General Telephone, however, provided me with a new experience and unwittingly the fodder for this column.

General Tel has the franchise for Schoolcraft County and for years has had a business office in Manistique. If you had a billing question, a need for a change of service or a repair problem you called the local telephone number and hopefully the problem was taken care of.

Sometime within the past year, in an economy move, General Tel closed the Manistique business office and all calls for service go now on a WATS line to the company's Alpena office. Service men are still dispatched from Manistique, but the office has been moved to Alpena.

About a month ago, I was in my office in Manistique and wanted to place a call to my office in Gladstone—normally a rather routine procedure. Everytime I dialed the number, however, the call would not go through and I received a busy signal before I had finished dialing. Frustrating, to say the least.

I assumed it was something wrong with our phones so went next door to place the call. The same thing happened. I called a couple of other businesses in town and found that they were having similar problems.

The obvious next step was to call the phone company and report the problem. That's when I found out that General Tel no longer had a local office number. And, when you dialed their WATS line number the call would not go through since the long distance equipment in the Manistique office was out of order. A great little catch 22...the long distance equipment wasn't working and you had to call a long distance number to alert the phone company to the problem.

Some high priced genius must have come up with that system. He is probably a part of the same engineering team that designed General Tel's pay phones. You know the ones. The great little phones where you don't deposit your money until after the party you're calling answers.

It was hard enough when phone calls were a dime. But now that the cost has risen to 20 cents have you tried to get two dimes or a dime and two nickles into the slot before the party on the other end hangs up in frustration that no one was on the other end of the call?

Knowing full well that you can't change the Phone Company, I do wish General Tel would either return us to the old inefficient days of a local office and a dime call or else move into the twentieth century with some equipment that would work some reliability.

IT TOOK A GROUP from more than 300 miles away to do it, but a 10-mile stretch of the Indian River and about five miles of road near Steuben in Inwood Township looks better this week. Fifteen members of Boy Scout Troop 647 from Olivet last week cleared branches and logs from the river to ease canoeist passage, and picked up enough cans and glass to fill a green box on M-94. Led by Ralph Woodbury and Jim Harris, assistant scoutmasters, the scouts camped at Cookson Lake. Harris attested to the thoroughness of the clean-up. "They found some Pepsi cans that haven't been made in 30 years," he said.

Toward collarless labor force

The mental image of the Michigan worker is a guy with rolled up work shirt sleeves and maybe a hard hat. Invariably, he's making a car, or products that go into one.

But the truth actually suggests a person in a polyester shirt sipping coffee behind a desk.

There are cold statistics from the Michigan Employment Security Commission to bear this out. And they're important to young people to consider in choosing a career, or to others thinking about a switch.

White collar workers comprise approximately 46 percent of all jobs in Michigan. The biggest increase in demand will be for medical professionals and technicians. Business and governmental expansion will contribute to the employment growth, according to the MESC.

Blue collar workers, ranging from

by Arnold Mackowiak

highly skilled to non-skilled, account for 39 percent of all jobs in Michigan. More mechanization is expected to slow the growth of jobs in this category. Service workers comprise the final group. They're janitors, cooks, waiters, practical nurses, police and firemen. With business expansion and increased leisure time, service employment should see job growth.

The immediate future calls for 105,000 new job openings per year for white collar workers; 44,200 openings for blue collar; and 33,300 openings for service workers.

White collar work tends to require some college education, blue collar and service category seeks high school diplomas and some special training.

Perhaps the trends suggest a societal goal to expand the "masses" into the middle class, thereby reducing the potential for revolution. Still, there are many well-educated people who have chosen to take up the plow and run a simple farm, or find a timeless craft that will sustain their existence.

And a more encouraging factor in a healthy working society would be the ability of more people to discover satisfaction in a pursuit free from any ominous vision of work.

It's still possible to lose our collars.

Thanks for book sale

To the Editor:

Dear Schoolcraft County, Another "thank you" letter to the editor is not what I would choose as my first choice of properly thanking all the people who helped to make yet another successful Hospital Auxiliary Book Sale (a dozen red roses to everyone would truly do the trick), but the newspaper is still the best means of reaching the large number of Schoolcraft County residents and vacationers, so here goes...

Sincere thanks to the many hard-working Auxiliary members who so kindly set-aside some of their valuable time to collect, sort, price, and sell over 2,000 books. Eleana Cristensen deserves special mention for all her extra hours of involvement and personal concern.

Special thanks to our truly public minded news media, who so thoroughly service Schoolcraft County - The Advisor, Manistique Pioneer-Tribune, WTIQ, WKZY, and WLUC-TV.

Super appreciation goes to the Ford Garage and their friendly staff. They made our book sale home comfortable and our customers welcome. The Manistique Lumber & Coal and St. Francis de Sales Church graciously loaned up boards and bricks for the shelving and tables for display - thanks muchly.

And, may God bless you, the community, for supporting this annual project. You added $432.00 to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Auxiliary fund to help our neighbors when in need!

Feedback: drinking

Last week's question on the fair board's decision to locate its multi-purpose building in Central Park drew only one response, agreeing with the site selection.

This week's question: Should the legal drinking age be raised to 21? Call the Tribune at 341-5200 before next Tuesday noon and ask for the news department.

'52 appreciation

To the Editor:

We, of the Class of 1952, wish to publicly thank you for publishing the reunion pictures. It is great to be able to have these events recorded photographically and with identification in the newspaper.

We also wish to thank WTIQ Radio for the many days of music from each year that we were in school and the Ramada Inn for helping us with our planning and for our wonderful accommodations and dinner. All these things helped make our reunion a great success.

Rejecting the pleasure of a greased pig hunt

When a pig is greased and chased by people, how does the pig feel about it?

That's an interesting question. It was asked by Animal Welfare Educators (AWE), a Michigan organization which wouldn't step on an ant if there were another way to cross the street.

There is something called "The Great Fair" at the Pontiac Silver dome this week. Fair advertising promises a "greased pig chase."

"Can we be assured this activity with a live pig will not torment, excite, terrify, harass, annoy or cause undue stress to the animal designated for such a diversion?" The AWE asked in a letter sent to Chatham Supermarkets which is advertising the fair and selling tickets to it.

The AWE also asked if "this type of live tissue use does not violate the existing Michigan statutes applicable to cruelty to animals" and "does Chatham really believe employing a dumb animal in this manner falls into the realm of entertainment?"

Chatham's answering letter said it is not responsible for the fair's content, and the AWE questions should be answered by the fair's promoter, Gabriel Glantz of Detroit.

Chatham did raise an interesting question: "We are concerned about the feelings in all living things but we feel unqualified in this case to make a judgement any more than we would be qualified to judge whether a plant feels pain when it is snipped, harvested and eaten, as many people believe."

Promoter Glantz had a similar reaction. In a letter to Chatham, he said he could not respond to the AWE questions because "we have no way of determining whether a pig chase will torment, excite, terrify, harass, annoy or cause undue stress to the animal."

However, Glantz did offer what he called a "sort of a kibitz answer." He said the AWE questions "would be better directed to Swift, Armour and other packing houses which slay pigs and render their carcasses for human consumption."

Thus Glantz and Chatham, questioned about chasing pigs, gave the type of answer most often heard when the question concerns killing deer.

Every time I ask a hunter if he thinks it hurts a deer to get a bullet or an arrow in the gut, the hunter asks me if I eat hamburgers. Or, if the hunter is more worldly, he might ask me if I like turnips.

I am sure I could shoot my dinner if I were hungry enough and McDonald's were closed. I couldn't shoot it simply for the

by Jim Fitzgerald

adventure of seeing it bleed in a sylvan setting. I wouldn't pick a turnip just to hear its roots snap.

But that's me. I'm a jerk and every time I write a column like this I receive plenty of mail telling me how dumb I am to reject the pleasures of the hunt. I am told it is a man's nature to prey upon dumb animals otherwise there would be no way for game wardens to earn a living. And if I don't have a man's nature, I probably wear lace underwear.

All of which does not answer the question which Glantz and Chatham couldn't answer: Does it bother a pig to be greased and chased?

Many humans beings have been hit by bullets or arrows and lived to tell about it. What they tell is that it hurts something fierce. I know a man who accidentally stepped in a bear trap, and he says he hopes he never does that again. His friends call him Stumpy.

There bloody experiences, as reported by people, are what influence me to stay home during hunting season. Admittedly, I have never had a conversation with a wounded duck. But I figure if getting shot hurts a person, it probably has a similar effect upon an animal. And I couldn't get any fun or sport out of hurting any living thing.

However, I am not similarly informed about greased pig chases.

I can't talk pig language, and I have never known a person who has been greased and chased and tackled and manhandled by people. I cannot answer the AWE questions anymore than Glantz can.

But I have a suggestion. Glantz could be stripped and greased and chased through crowded Chatham supermarket. The first customer to catch him and hold him for three minutes would get free groceries for a year.

If Glantz says the chase didn't cause him any undue stress, then the AWE can fairly certain it doesn't bother a pig either.

True or False

Could this be your picture? Are you putting on a false face when you get up each morning? Are you pretending that you live surrounded by big, bright balloons? Or, on the other hand, that things are down, down, down? Or, that you were just born unlucky, and at this late date there isn't much you can do about it?

Most of us would have to admit that there is more than a little of the clown in the image we present to others—whether on the high side or the low side. More's the pity. Because we would come across a lot better if we could just be ourselves.

There is a place where you can be yourself, where you can find yourself! No questions asked! The Church. Won't you try it?

A good investment: farm safety July 25-31

"Safety is a good investment." That's the theme of National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31. Not enough of our producers, however, consider safety's return equal in importance to cash flow, production practices, tax and estate planning, but it is.

"In today's agriculture, every effort on the farm has to pay off to remain solvent. Of course, safety can help save lives and prevent a lot of sad accidents, suffering and disruption of life. And it can also help keep people on the job - full time, unimpaired."

Insurance pays you when you have an accident. Safety pays when you do not. It can keep insurance costs down. For instance, Michigan has about 5,000 disabling farm work accidents annually. Any reduction in the accident rate would be reflected in the 5 to 8 percent of the total labor costs that go into workman's compensation.

CPT. REBECCA Weinert takes the blood pressure of a patient at the 207th Combat Support Hospital during annual training with the Michigan Army National Guard. CPT. Weinert, of Manistique, is one of 6,000 National Guardsmen and women training at Camp Grayling.

Wife sworn into Guard by husband

CAMP GRAYLING—Weinert, Manistique, was sworn into the Michigan Army National Guard Saturday July 9. Things like that happen every day. But it is not every day that an officer can be sworn into a military organization by her husband. And that is exactly what happened Saturday July 9, when CPT. Jack Weinert issued the oath of office here.

The couple is sharing their first summer camp together as members of the Michigan Army National Guard, although they are not in the same unit. Mrs. Weinert recently returned from 18 months of active duty with the regular Army, where she served as a Community Health Nurse at Ft. Campbell Ky. She was discharged July 6.

While at Camp Grayling, she is assigned to the 207th Combat Support Hospital during the two week annual training period. Her husband is with the 107th Engineers. Following summer camp, she will be permanently assigned to the 107th Engineer Battalion at Ispeming, where she will serve as a consultant to the medical section.

County Extension

Managing for safety can keep the cash flowing into more land, better equipment or even a nice vacation rather than to pay off medical or legal bills.

A safe farmstead is also more attractive to competent labor. It is less likely to be brought to the attention of state safety inspectors and less likely to be wiped out by a heavy damage suit brought on by an injured worker or visitor. And if facilities and equipment are properly maintained for maximum safety, workers will perform most productively, efficiently and economically.

Last year about 1,900 farm personnel were killed, and 30,000 disabling injuries were caused by farm work accidents.

These accidents, injuries and deaths cost almost $3 billion annually. The cost in terms of human suffering, grief and hardship cannot be calculated.

Good safety planning and practice, could prevent much of this loss—safety is a good farm investment.

Improved technology, training and education have cut down on deaths from farm accidents; but the greatest impact can be attained by the farm employer or manager.

As part of National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, make a check of your own farm operations:

—Assign work according to ability.
—Show a positive attitude toward safety practices.

—Follow up on safety rule violations.
—Do not permit small children on farm machinery or near large animals, and keep agricultural chemicals locked up. Keep older children away from these potential hazards too, until they have been adequately instructed and trained to handle them properly.

—Never let children or anyone else "hitch a ride" on farm machinery. Use "Operator Only" decals available through the County Extension office.

—Have a physical checkup. Investing in good health helps keep your mind on the job so you can work safely.

—Have a machinery checkup too. Don't wait for a breakdown or accident. Do an out-of-season overhaul for fewer dismounts and shutdowns and fewer mishaps. Keep SMV signs, tractor platforms, handholds and steps clear and slip resistant. (Use abrasive strips where necessary.)

—Provide employees with PPE (personal protection equipment) such as hardhats, respirators, goggles, noise protectors and safety shoes.

—Accidents can drain you and your family of your resources and reserves. Look around the farm and see how you can make a better investment for safety. If you need help, contact the extension office for guidelines.

Outdoor camp at Indian Lake features weaving

The recent 4-H Outdoor Camp held at the West Shore Campground at Indian Lake State Park was a big success.

The past Wednesday through Saturday, over 70 4-H campers, counselors, and staff enjoyed canoe and swimming instructions, Indian bead, macrame, match stick crosses, African weaving, Godeyses, sand casting, innovative recreational events and tours of the "Big Springs" and the Indian Lake State Park Museum and nature trail.

Campers at each individual camp site prepared their own meals and slept in tents and sleeping bags. The weather was in our favor with only one evening of rain which helped to drop the scorching temperature from the 90's back into the 80's.

This was the first time a cooperative effort has been made between Alger, Luce and Schoolcraft counties for the purpose of holding a 4-H Outdoor Camp.

4-H campers from Schoolcraft County were Eddie Under, Terry Desjardin, Mark Knoph, Doug Orr, April Klaus, Michelle Morrow, Lisa Burns, Mark Annelin, John Annelin, John Middaugh, Tonya Keener, Lisa Segerstrom, Ben Carley, Mike and Robine Herro.

call for inspection, the Building Inspector should be at the construction site for an inspection.

Commissioners Lindsley Frenette and Kenneth O. Mortensen reported on the U. P. Association of Commissioners meeting held at Vulcan on June 16th and 17th, 1977. They reported that a total of 23 resolutions to be passed on to the State Meeting were discussed and voted on. Manistique Area Schools: $100,000.00
Big Bay de Noc Area Schools: 15,000.00
City of Manistique: 9,700.00

TOTAL 124,700.00
Motion carried by unanimous Aye Vote of members present.

Moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by Daniel N. Klarich, to accept the oral and written financial report of the County Treasurer. Motion carried by unanimous Aye Vote of members present.

Other matters discussed were the possibility of building a two car garage between the Courthouse and County Jail Buildings. No action taken.
A discussion on the forms and denominations of the notes to be used in the borrowing of $150,000.00 on the anticipated delinquent tax revolving fund was held, with the Prosecuting Attorney directed to prepare same to be submitted to the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission for approval; so that preliminary steps can be completed to borrow said money if the need arises.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioners has considered communications from the Department of the Attorney General concerning the acceptance of our application for the issuance of delinquent notes; It is Hereby RESOLVED that the title of the notes may be changed from "Delinquent revolving fund notes" to "General Obligation Tax Notes".

It is Further RESOLVED that the notes shall contain the following language:

Notwithstanding any other provision of the resolution or other resolutions adopted heretofore, the County hereby covenants with the purchaser (within the meaning of the Proposed Regulations prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on May 3, 1973, as revised on December 3, 1975) of the General Obligation Tax Notes, Series 1977, that the County will make no use of the proceeds of the notes which, if such use had been reasonable expected on the date of issue of the notes, would have caused the notes to be "arbitrage bonds", as defined in Section 103(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, and all rules and regulations thereto.

The County further covenants that it will not permit at any time any of the proceeds of the General Obligation Tax Notes, Series 1977, or any other funds of the County to be used directly or indirectly in a manner which would result in the exclusion of any said notes from the treatment afforded by Section 103 (a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended.

And It is Finally RESOLVED, that the following language shall be contained in the official notes of sale hereto:

The County has been informed that a private ruling request by another issuer is pending with the United States Department of Treasury, which request relates to questions or arbitrage on a prospective issue of General Obligation Tax Notes.

In the resolution authorizing the issuance of the Notes, the County of Schoolcraft has covenanted with the purchaser, of the Notes not to make any use of the proceeds of the Notes which, "if such use has been reasonably expected on the date of issue of the notes" would have caused the Notes to violate the arbitrage provisions of and regulations under the U.S. Internal Revenue Code and the County has further covenanted that "it will not permit at any time any of the proceeds of the Notes to be used directly or indirectly in a manner" which would result in the interest on the Notes becoming subject to federal income taxes.

The purchaser's attorney must be able to assure that the pendency of the aforementioned ruling request will have no effect upon its opinion as to the exemption of the interest on the Notes from federal income taxes so long as the county complies with its covenants referred to above and uses the funds as contemplated in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the Notes.

The Chairman asked the Building and Grounds Committee to meet with LeBrasseur, and District No. 4 Chippewa Indian representatives and try to work out some proposal, said proposal to require full Board approval.

It was moved by Commissioner, Kenneth O. Mortensen, supported by Commissioner Edward Way that Green Thumb personnel, as well as any CETA, or College Summer Program employees of the A.S.H.U. be authorized to submit travel vouchers for payment, said payments to be charged 50 percent to County of Schoolcraft, and other 50 percent to A.S.H.U. Motion carried by unanimous Aye vote of members present.

It was moved by Earl LeBrasseur, supported by Kenneth O. Mortensen, that the starting for Schoolcraft County Board of Commissioner meetings during July and August be at 7:30 P.M. E.D.S.T. Motion carried by unanimous Aye Vote of Members present.

Chairman read various grant applications and acted in accordance with A-95 Comments and Review Act, voting favorably on all projects as submitted.

Moved by Lindsley Frenette, supported by Earl LeBrasseur, to pay the National Association of Counties 1977 dues in the amount of $200.00. Motion carried by unanimous Aye Vote of members present.

The Chairman read a letter from Larry LaFave, Circuit Court Probation Officer, asking for different quarters for his department, as there is no air conditioning or any windows in the present quarters and working conditions are unbearable. This matter referred to Chairman of Building and Grounds Committee.

Commissioner Edward Way conveyed a request from the County Zoning Board for permission to hold two (2) meetings per month during the period in which the County Zoning Ordinance is being studied and revised. Commissioner Way was advised that it would be agreeable to hold two meetings per month until such work is completed; that the present budget may have sufficient funds to cover the added expense of the additional meetings, if not, that when the fund is depleted that a request for a supplemental appropriation would be considered and acted upon.

A letter from Denny's Insurance Agency proposing an increase in liability coverage for the Courthouse, Hospital and Medical Care Facility was read and referred to the Building and Grounds Committee for recommendation.

It was moved by Kenneth O. Mortensen, supported by Earl LeBrasseur, that the meeting adjourn at 10:00 o'clock P.M., E.D.S.T.

A maple-birch?

A MAPLE-BIRCH? It's not an everyday natural phenomenon. Two resorters at Old Deerfield on Gulliver Lake recently noticed a maple tree along the shore that has a white birch bough. Bill Wegener, resort owner, inspects the Believe It or Not candidate. (Tribune photo)

Joining loon's laughter

Our pair of loons are back on the lake this summer, filling their usual important niche in our camp scheme. Their ridiculous overhead laughter as they head out to the big lake for a day's fishing is most punctual alarm clock and their wailful cries come sundown are solace to ears which once reveled in the howl of a timber wolf.

At first, I wondered how two such diverse sounds could emerge from the same bird but many years of acquaintance has cleared things up somewhat. The long, mournful cry...which sounds like the joint efforts of a lost locomotive and a city boy wading in Lake Superior...undoubtedly is related to his effort to walk on land. With his rear-mounted legs and buxom breast, he moved about with all the agility of an over-siliconed bubble dancer on sprained ankles and it's no wonder he moans.

It's also no wonder he spends virtually all of his time in the water for it's here he really excels. And it's here where he probably developed that mocking laughter, while challenging brash canoeists who think they can outguess his swimming maneuvers. He has an aggravating habit of looking one way when he dives, reversing his flight plan under water and emerging 200 feet away and 165 degrees off the bow. Such completion makes proud canoeists weep...and loons laugh.

Year ago, while padding on Lake Superior, we encountered a loon hooked by the seat of his britches on a set hook from which he had undoubtedly been stealing the bait and in the clear water, we had a good opportunity to view his spectacular underwater capabilities. We also had a good opportunity to test his strength and it was only with great effort that we hauled him in hand over hand to remove the hook.

Once released, he showed his gratitude by laughing at us...and laughter being infectious, we joined him.

Wyman Nursery ships 2 million seedlings

Richard Johnson, superintendent at the Wyman Forest Nursery at Manistique indicated recently that a total of 2,649,700 seedlings were shipped out during the 1977 spring season. Included in the seedling shipments were 16,500 white pine, 723,000 jack pine, 1,377,200 red pine, 467,000 white spruce and 66,000 scotch pine. The bulk of the shipments went to state forests in the upper and northern lower peninsulas for reforestation programs, but 561,000 were sold to commercial buyers and 300,000 jack pine seedlings were used for downstate kirtland warbler plantings. Johnson indicated that nursery seedlings are available to commercial buyers for reforestation purposes only at 1977 cost of $25 per thousand for jack pine, spruce and red pine, and $30 per thousand for red pine. Although the majority of the seedlings are shipped out in the spring, they are also available to commercial buyers in the fall, according to Johnson.

Things to see and do in Hiawathaland

Submerged half an hour, revived

People who have drowned in cold water may not necessarily be dead, even if they have been submerged for half an hour.

This is the conclusion reached in a study by Dr. Martin J. Nemiroff, a University of Michigan specialist in lung disease and diving medicine. In a presentation to the American Lung Association convention, Dr. Nemiroff reported that he has documented intact survival of nine persons who were submerged in cold water from 4 to 38 minutes.

Dr. Nemiroff based his conclusions on 50 near-drowning incidents in Michigan waters that he investigated over a three-year span with the cooperation of the Michigan Sea Grant Program.

The 13 study cases that he selected were considered to be true "cold water drownings"—those in water below 70 degrees Fahrenheit. Of the 13 near-drownings, nine were successfully resuscitated without brain damage or ill effect; two died of lung infections contracted in the water; and two suffered brain damage. All had gone beyond the traditional four-minute oxygen deprivation limit, after which, it was previously believed, irreversible brain damage occurred.

One survivor, a physician, who "drowned" in a lake near Ann Arbor, was resuscitated in a hospital after 15 minutes of submersion. He had no mental impairment and has since resumed his practice. The saving factor, according to Dr.

Nemiroff, was the activation, after the face was submerged, of a little known automatic response in mammals called the "mammalian diving reflex," as well as the coldness of the water.

First identified in the teeth of whales, seals and porpoises, this reflex allows these sea-going mammals to exist and function under water without breathing for up to 30 minutes. This reflex reduces the blood supply to the skin, muscles and internal organs, thereby reserving the remaining oxygen for the brain.

The cold temperature of the water also reduces the oxygen demand of the tissues, which helps to lengthen the survival time. Although man quickly becomes unconscious following involuntary submersion, the reflex functions in cold water allow the heart to maintain a feeble but constant supply of blood to the brain, extending possible survival in very cold water perhaps up to one hour.

Duration of the time under water, the temperature of the water, age of the victim, the response is more pronounced in children and the prompt resuscitation efforts are the key elements to intact survival. The protective effect of the diving reflex is lost as soon as the victim is removed from the water, so resuscitation must start immediately at the water's edge.

Dr. Nemiroff observed that one fatality out of the 13 in the Michigan study was submerged only for four minutes, but his resuscitation was delayed until the victim reached the hospital—a crucial period of 10 to 15 minutes. The factor of youth was also evident since nine of the survivors in the Michigan study were below 30 years of age.

Another similar study of drownings and near-drownings in Florida waters, over 70 degrees Fahrenheit, showed that above this temperature, four minutes of submersion appears to be the cutoff point for brain damage and/or survival.

This finding has important legal and moral implications for physicians and emergency medical technicians. In the past, many drowning victims who were declared dead, could have actually had some potential for life.

Dr. Nemiroff's advice to rescue workers is: First, don't give up, even if the victim looks dead. He may be blue, not breathing, with no detectable pulse or heartbeat and with fixed and dilated pupils.

Start resuscitation immediately, external heart massage and ventilation with as near 100 percent oxygen as you have available. Warm the body gradually from the inside by raising the temperature of the oxygen to 110 degrees with a nebulizer. Maintain CPR at least until the body temperature reaches normal. Do follow your own judgement.

Be certain the patient is dead before you give up.
